All this is perfectly true. Still it is high time even at this late hour to ask ourselves the question: "Do we believe in the parliamentary action?" Words alone cannot stand for an answer to this question. Neither is the declaration in our program sufficient. Words and declarations alone do not mean anything when we speak about the Communist movement. Nor is over "participation" in the presidential or congressional elections in the past a proof that the above question is ridiculous. On the contrary, this "participation" proves, if it proves anything else, that we must once more take this question up very seriously or we shall make ourselves ridiculous in the eyes of the masses with our parliamentary action, even tho our program is quite clear on it.

I want to deal here with this question very briefly from actual experience and leave the question to be answered by the comrades themselves whether we really believe in the parliamentary action. But before you do listen to this account, understand this: I am speaking about the revolutionary parliamentarism, i. e., participation in election campaigns for the purpose of educating and organizing masses for the struggle of the overthrow of the bourgeoisie rule, and not for the purpose of reforming it and prolonging its existence.

THE district executive committee of District No. 11 decided to have a real election campaign in New York City. The Interborough and the Cloakmakers made very favorable conditions for the success of the campaign.

A full-paid comrade was put in as the manager of the campaign; another full-paid comrade was given the job of collecting funds for the campaign. The work was started with the collection of signatures in order that the Workers (Communist) Party could appear on the official ballot when the citizens of New York cast their votes. This was the first serious test of our "belief" in the parliamentary action. Only a very few comrades participated in collecting signatures and the necessary amount of signatures was secured only with the utmost exertion on the part of the district committee. As far as the members of the party are concerned, we failed miserably in this first test.

BUT there was still a chance of strengthening our belief in the parliamentary action for the real campaign was still at the head, still coming. Now we began to talk about the campaign—and act, of course. Our campaign manager made a list of our speakers. It happened that the crop of speakers was very good, therefore he listed not less than about 60. What a crowd! We will be able to hold tens of open air meetings every night during the campaign. Everything is set. Now let us move forward. Open air meetings—nice evenings, nature is with us. But no speakers. Complaints come into headquarters from every part of the city thick and fast. Instead of sixty, four or five speakers would appear. Those who do appear on the corner cannot find the comrades with the stand; they are not there. If the stand is there and the speakers are there, nobody is around to distribute literature. Our comrades are carrying on the campaign at their homes; some of them in their beds. Oh! there is no sign; nobody can tell who is holding these meetings. Some may take us for the salvation army. No good. Run and call the campaign manager if the signs are ready. "Stuyvesant 3100, can I talk to Workers Party? Yes, what do you want? We have no sign. It's terrible. Do you have one in the office? No, the signs are not ready. Hell!" A comrade takes a piece of paper, provided he is lucky enough to get a clean piece on the street corner, and writes: "Workers (Communist) Party. Vote for Ben Gitlow, candidate for governor of New York!" Fine! The speaker is on the platform. The crowd is gathering around the stand. "Who the hell is this?" somebody asks in the crowd a few steps away from the platform. "Oh, I guess it's the salvation army; I can't read the sign." The crowd roars with laughter. Another evening. The same old story. From about sixty speakers only four or five showed up. Where there is a stand there are no speakers. Where there are speakers there is no committee with the platform. If both are there there are no comrades to distribute literature. Again the sign is not ready. Only three or four weeks are left and the campaign will be over!

WE must do something. Oh, there is a bright idea! This time our campaign manager is speaking, very loudly, all can hear him, provided they listen. . . We shall have "red nights" for Harlem on Saturday, next Friday in Brownsville and next Saturday in Williamsburgh. This is something entirely new! No objections will do. These "red nights" must be held. On Friday no open air meetings will be held in any part of the city, except in Bronx. All the sixty speakers will come at the specified hours on time, without fail, please. . . Friday, "red night." We are to have at least fifteen meetings. Poor Bronx will be swamped with meetings. . . Eight o'clock. Only one speaker showed up . . Let us wait. Fifteen minutes elapsed, another speaker came. Nine o'clock . . . five speakers. That's all. Where are the rest? The devil know! Hell with them! Let us have the "red night," a real one, for ourselves. Two hours held. That's enough. The red night is gone. . . Saturday the same thing. Next Friday and next Saturday the same old story. . .

A complaint is made. . . Now the district executive committee steps in. A motion is passed that every comrade who is able to speak must speak at least twice every week and on Saturday evening every one must take part in this campaign. . . no excuse will be accepted. This is something big! Now we shall have a real campaign. . . Saturday, "red night" in Williamsburgh. All comrades are notified to come to the section headquarters to help. The section organizer waits. Eight o'clock, three speakers showed up. Five comrades from about three hundred came to assist with the stands and with the distribution of literature. One meeting started. Nine o'clock. . . three more speakers showed up. That is all. Two more meetings started. Again no signs. Again the district is called. The short old answer: "Signs are not ready. Help yourselves." A comrade again writes down on a piece of paper: "The Workers (Communist) Party, Vote for Gitlow." The "red night" is over . . . a failure, of course.

THE campaign is coming to an end. It is a joke. Can we do anything to improve it? Very little. I report to the section executive committee about the situation and make a motion that we shall arrange another "red night" in Williamsburg on Saturday before the election. Every comrade votes enthusiastically for the motion. Very good. . . a subcommittee of five is elected to make preparations. I went to the district and asked the campaign manager to give us a few speakers. He promised to do so. Some of the speakers I met personally and asked them to come to our "red night." They also promised. I have fifteen speakers who told me that they will come by all means. The signs are still not ready. . .

Wednesday. A meeting of the subcommittee. Only two members showed up. Two comrades cannot do very much. Let us wait for Saturday. . .

Tonight (Wednesday) I have to speak in Brownsville, corner Pitkin and Stone Aves. I must rush there. Alright, I am there, on the corner. No platform. I have to wait. . . It is almost nine o'clock. . . not a single comrade appears. I run to the subsection headquarters. . . The International Branch is having its meeting. "Don't you know that tonight there is supposed to be an open air meeting?" I ask them. "Yes," they explain, "Yesterday we had a sub-section membership meeting and elected fifteen comrades to take charge of the open air meetings in Brownsville." "But where are they?" "We do not know."

Do you believe it—not a single comrade of these fifteen showed up that night either at the sub-section headquarters nor on the street corner. Well, we dispensed with the international branch meeting, took the stand and had an open air meeting, well attended.

Now let us move again to Williamsburgh. It's Saturday. Pouring! We shall have at least ten good demonstrations. But again the same old story. Only four speakers showed up. From about 300 members of the section only five came to help with the platforms and distribution of literature. Once more we ourselves have to make signs on a scrap of paper in pencil! Another failure. Another disappointment!

WHAT about the members of the section executive committee who were so enthusiastically in favor of the "red night"? With the exception of the section organizer, all of them were present—somewhere, but not at the "red night." Not one of them showed up! That is all.

Do you still think that my question "do we believe in the parliamentary action" is a foolish one?

Then, after the campaign was over and the votes for our party were counted, one of our leading comrades came to me and asked this question: "Don't you think that we would have gained a hundred times more if we had expended all the money and energy on the trade union work instead of on the election campaign?"

This completes the picture: we failed because we did not work, and then this failure destroyed even the little belief that our comrades had in the revolutionary parliamentary action.

I say that this is a very serious problem before our party. Many comrades in their hearts do not believe in the parliamentary action, they do not understand its value for the revolutionary propaganda and agitation. Maybe I am mistaken on this question. I wish I am. Still I cannot see any other reason for such indifference, such apathy on the part of our election campaigns on the part of our membership. We must remedy this situation, or at least try to. An educational campaign must be started throughout the party on the subject of the revolutionary parliamentary action.

By N. Yekovsky.

This little booklet is intended as a manual for American workers containing in the form of adopted laws all of the demands that they themselves must fight for in the United States. But it also shows what can be done in the way of protection of labor in a country where a child labor law cannot be declared unconstitutional because it interferes with profits. In Russia child labor is judged not from its effects on profits but on the health of the children.

What the January "Current History" Has to Say About—

ELEMENTS OF POLITICAL EDUCATION, Vol. 1, by A. Bercbitchev and F. Svatilev, under the editorship of N. I. Bucherin.

"The book opens with the arbitrary (?) Marxian definition of political economy as 'that science which investigates and explains the laws of economic life of capitalist society and its peculiarities in contradistinction to other societies,' and continues, in the same vein, to discuss and define fundamental concepts of political economy, the labor theory of value, capitalism, finance capital and imperialism, the war and the fate of capitalism, development of economic forms, Communist society and the transitional system, and finally the State. The method used is that of question and answer: for instance: 'What is Capital?' 'What are Wages?' and so forth, with answers in detailed form . . . . the need for a simple, condensed and accurate statement of the Communist interpretation of economic development is a real one for both its upholders and opponents."

Keep Hands Off China, Former Great U. S. Athlete, Now Mission Teacher, Tells His Friends Here; Writes of Labor's Struggle

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Harry Kingman, former American university athlete and for the past six years teacher in a mission college in Tientsin, has written a letter to American friends, interpreting the awakening of China during the past two years. He seeks for the reason why, after nearly a century of exploitation by the foreign powers, the Chinese have now aroused themselves and are displaying a nationalistic fervor and an organizing capacity that terrifies as well as astonishes the foreigner in China. He finds the answer in the Chinese laborer.

Kingman says the union of seamen organized at Canton in 1921 was the first start of this labor movement. Late in 1926 the mill workers in Shanghai began to be restive. A few of the wiser foreign business men urged a more humane labor policy. They were ignored. Early in 1925 a strike was called in Japanese jutzilla mills in Shanghai. The strikers induced an English lawyer to intercede for them with the owners. Peace was patched up, but the owners ignored its terms and discharged all workers who had been active in the strike organization, in this contempt for their own pledges they had the silent support of the Chinese, British and other mill owners.

Court's Part Told.

The Shanghai mixed court gave quick punishment to strikers who injured property of the mills, but ignored the killing of a striker by a mill foreman. Students who protested the court's indifference were jailed. Their friends who paraded in further protest were shot down in the famous massacre of May 30, which led to strikes and anti-foreign demonstrations throughout the whole country.

Suppression Fails.

Because the strikes were based on cruel mistreatment of the Chinese workers—the kicking and beating of both adults and children at work by the foremen, being proved to be a common occurrence—all attempts by northern militarist governors to suppress the labor unions since the massacre have been futile. The labor movement has had a flourishing growth, but it has developed a spirit in China that sweeps on to greater and greater development of power by the people. Foreigners no longer sneer at the lazy and slow-going Chinese. They "wildly clutch at every twig and stone as they feel themselves being rushed pellmell along by a Chinese movement. . . Without underestimating the darkness of the picture I believe that this is the most hopeful day that China has ever seen."

Urges U. S. Keep Out.

Kingman urges that the United States and the other powers keep hands off while China's nationalist movement sniffles the country, rids it of the militarists, and establishes the new order in which the unequal treaties and the domination of China by foreigners will be unknown. The Cantonese leader, Chiang Kai-shek, he says, favors the Christian missionaries. Christian Chinese were among the first to take up the nationalist cause. They do not absorb the international element in their Christianity, but they appreciate its teaching of humanity. Their revolution is made against exploitation, in which the foreign mill owner has come to be a symbol of their suffering.

Big Lenin Memorial Meeting Planned by Detroit Communists

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 5.—Workers of Detroit will have an opportunity to attend the most interesting and the most impressive Lenin memorial meeting ever held in this city on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 23.

The Detroit Armory with a seating capacity of 3,000 has been secured for the meeting. Wm. Z. Foster, Rebecca Grecht and Walter M. Trumbull will be the speakers. The meeting will open with the unveiling of a huge portrait of Lenin by the Young Pioneers. First class musical program is being arranged.

Early reports on ticket sales indicate a tremendous success.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Young Workers (Communist) League.

RAILROADS SUED FOR BIG SUM FOR EJECTING NEGRO WOMAN FROM PULLMAN

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 5. — The Pullman company and the Atlantic Coast Line railway have been made defendants in a suit for $100,000 following the ejection of a Negro woman from a sleeping car in Florida. The railroad companies claim the ejection was made in compliance with the "Jim Crow" laws of Florida, which deny Negroes the use of sleeping cars used by whites. Arthur Garfield Hays and Clarence Darrow have been retained by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to handle the case.

The woman is Mrs. Blanche S. Brooking of New York. She rode from New York to Florida in a Pullman car, but when the train reached Florida she was ordered out. On refusing she was ejected forcibly and arrested by Florida officials. She was forced to pay a fine of $500.

It is pointed out that the ejection was illegal, as Mrs. Brookins was a passenger in interstate commerce, and as such could not come under the Florida state law.

Banks Try to Explain Refusal to Make Loans on Bonus Certificates

WASHINGTON.—Government officials and bankers are co-operating in an effort to untangle the snarl that resulted when thousands of war veterans "crashed" the banks Monday and Tuesday to obtain loans on their adjusted compensation certificates.

The banks generally declined to make the loans, except for regular customers.

Russian Literature at New York Forum

Moissaye J. Olgin will lecture at the Workers' School Forum, 105 East 14th St., New York, Sunday night, Jan. 9, at 8 p. m. on "The Living Revolution." This lecture deals with the reflection of the Russian revolution in Russian literature of the revolutionary period and thus gives a living picture of how people felt, thought and acted during the great days when Workers' Russia was in the making.

On the following Sunday night, William W. Weinstone will speak on "Debs and Lenin."

THE NEED FOR LABOR SPORTS

By VAINO WIITALA.

MAN by nature could not exist long without some kind of physical activity. The atmosphere of continuously confined nerveing life, would also destroy his mental powers."

A general survey of man's physical activities previous to the present era of civilization shows that he was an active creature. In the remote past, members of both the upper and lower classes of society were forced into all-around physical development; the very type of civilization demanded an active life spent in widely varied ways of securing a livelihood.

Chained to Machines.

Today the worker's active life has disappeared. The workingman is forced into wage slavery and thereby chained to the machines of big industries in which the work has become highly specialized with almost a total disregard for bodily abilities. The very devices that are termed labor-saving must be recognized at the same time as body-weakening causes. Whereas, the past conditions afforded an all-around physical exercise; this age of intense specialization has robbed them of this benefit.

Effort of Specialized Labor.

The development of piece-work in the capitalist system forces specialized labor upon the individual who must thus work rapidly in order to exist. For instance, a man operating a punch press shapes one particular type of metal according to one particular die; and he may do this same thing thousands of times during a single day's work and repeat it over and over again with endless monotony for months and years. Moreover, his machinery is noisy, conversation of any length is not tolerated, and the result is that the man is isolated. He becomes in effect, a machine with a single operation to perform. Monotony descends upon him, and with it the relaxation offered by change and variety of interest disappears. The man is almost placed in the same position as the prisoner in solitary confinement who has only thirty-six square feet on which to walk and nothing but bare walls to consider in attempting to offset the monotony. Brain enters in and the tension causes the workingman, after a certain time, to become nervously exhausted, with the work becoming more and more a drudgery. The consequence is—a physically wrecked, mentally undeveloped working class.

Labor Sports is Remedy.

To counteract the effects of specialized work of the present social order, the workers should seek wholesome recreation in labor sports, athletics and gymnastics, for play has always been essential to the human family. The object of labor sports is to place physical exercise on a scientific basis from the standpoint of health.

At the present time the main agencies for promoting sports and athletics are the bourgeois athletic clubs and organizations. Their principal aim, besides creating individual "stars" has been to direct sports towards certain desired ends. Most often this has been nitra-patriotism, militarism, advertisement of some institutions and worse yet—to detract the young workers from their class interests.

Aims.

The aims of the labor sports movement should be: To unite all workers' gymnastic, sport and athletic clubs; to secure state and local legislation for the establishment of public playgrounds, gymnasiums, baths and fields for labor sports in the U. S. A.; by athletic activity stimulate the youth of the working class mentally and morally, also, to unite the youth and urge it to participate in the labor unions, parties and clubs that are promoting the welfare of the workers, to support the international labor sports movement.

Help us work towards the realization of these aims.

Y. W. L. Section Four Gives Dance Saturday

For a good time, a wonderful time, workers are urged to forget everything else and come to the dance of the Young Workers League Section 4, on Saturday night, 8 o'clock, Jan. 8, at 3209 W. Roosevelt Road.

Everyone who is young in spirit, altho they may be 60 years old, say the Young Workers, should attend this affair.

Soviet Ban on Charleston.

MOSCOW. — The Soviet supreme council for physical education has put its ban on the American fox trot, shimmy, and Charleston, as unfit for Soviet Russia's proletarian youth.

The commissioner of health, Dr. Semashke, brands these dances as "indecent products of the fat American bourgeoisie."

GANGSTERS HIRED BY SIGMAN BEAT GARMENT WORKERS TO FORCE THEM TO 'REGISTER'; USE DUPE TACTICS

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Attempts being made by the Sigman right wing machine in the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union to force "registration" with the International by the use of physical force and intimidation are becoming frequent. Bowery gangsters are being used by the Sigman clique in its efforts. The sentiment of the workers is greatly aroused at the tactics. A gang of sluggers hired by the right wing visited the offices of the Joint Board intending to use physical force on the members there, but were repulsed.

They are also visiting the workers in the shops, beating the progressive members and threatening them if they do not "register." This week a group went to the shop of the Monroe Dress company, 322 Seventh avenue and without saying a word, approached an Italian presser and began beating him. When asked what the trouble was by an onlooker, one of the gangsters explained: "It is dne him. We heerd he prevented the workers from registering with the International." The presser was severely injured and was taken to e hospital. Police were prevailed upon to arrest the attackers.

Make Promises to Bosses.

All kinds of threats are being used to impress on the dress jobbers and manufacturers the advantages of concluding an agreement with the Sigman gang. They assure the bosses of a "good" agreement in case they get their support; to make an impression on them they advertise in the Jewish Daily Forward the "success" of their registration. They scream of long waiting lines, etc. In reality, there are no lines at all, as in fact, the registration places are closed most of the time and only occasionally, then by intimidation, do they succeed in bringing over e worker to their offices.

An example of how the right wing leadership attempts to dupe the workers, selling them out to the bosses while prating of "union victories" is shown by the "increase" claimed to have been gotten for Cutters' Local No. 10.

A few days before the elections in the cutters' local, Dubinsky declared in his speech that he got for the members e weekly raise of $3. The Forward made the most of that incident.

But left wingers stated at the time that no bosses give raises for the fun of them and that there was surely a "supplementary" agreement satisfactory to the bosses. Here follows a letter sent by the board of governors of the industrial council to its members:

"The board of governors, thru e sub-committee, has conducted negotiations with a committee of the Cutters' Union for some time, and an agreement has been reached that beginning with Monday, Jan. 3, 1927, all cutters, at present receiving less than $60 e week shall be given e $3 increase. This arrangement in the opinion of the board of governors will serve the best interests of the members.

"You are requested to inform this office of any instance of underproduction, of soldiering on the job by the cutters, as our arrangements call for an immediate joint investigation and adjustment of your complaint."

Lynch Florida Negro Arrested for Liquor

WALDO, Fla., Jan. 5.—George Buddington, Negro, was taken from the county jail here by a mob of white persons and shot to death. Buddington had been arrested charged with being drunk and attempting to secure money from a white woman. No action has been taken against members of the mob.

BECKERMAN SUSPENDS CHAIRMAN FOR HIS OPPOSITION POLICIES

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Abraham Beckerman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union has again demonstrated his colors when he "impeached" a shop chairman of one of the biggest shops in New York in his fight on the left wing. The chairman who was suspended merely because of his close connections with the workers is A. Goldstein. He was considered the best shop chairman in the city.

His removal is seen as characteristic of Beckerman's tactics. Beckerman is reported to have declared at a recent meeting, in discussing a similar case, "I am the boss—I can elect myself."

Will Demand Increase for Machinists in U. S. Navy Yard; to See Cal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—President Alifas of District 44, International Association of Machinists, representing navy yard mechanics, announces that he will appeal to the president and to congress the refusal of the navy department to grant e wage increase to any but a handful of the civilian employes for the coming year.

The unions asked $1 an hour. They now heve e wage rate of 84 to 91 cents en hour for mechinists.

Widows of Disaster Victims Bring Suit

NEW YORK— Suits for $100,000 damages are to be instituted by two widows of longshoremen lost on the launch Linseed King in Hudson River Dec. 29. Spencer, Kellogz & Sons, Inc., owners of the boat, are defendents.

The suits bring out that federal legislation is still pending which would autometically compensate these widows. The American Association for Labor Legislation finds the house and senate bills disagreeing in technicalities which may disrupt the present effort of labor to secure federal compensation for longshore workers denied state aid by a supreme court decision.

Every Worker should read The American Worker Carrespondent.

CHAIN TOBACCO STORES FORM GREAT MERGER TO FIGHT CIGARETTE MAKERS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK.—A big merger of chain stores in the tobacco field will be brought about by the union of the old rival concerns, the United Cigar Stores company and the Schulte Retail Stores corporation. The combined assets will be $120,000,000. The merger will be known es the Union and United Tobacco corporation. It is understood that the department of justice has been carefully sounded and has offered no objection to the plan.

From latest reports available, the United now controls 1,200 stores and more than 1,800 agencies, while the Schulte interests control about 300.

The new organization plans to enter the manufacturing field, forcibly to fight the cigarette manufacturers, whose monopoly of that business is a thorn in the flesh of the chain stores handling the product.

WELL! WE CAN'T SQUEEZE OUT MUCH SYMPATHY ON BEHALF OF THIS RASCAL

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SAN FRANCISCO.—John H. Vell, one of the professional anti-I. W. W. witnesses used in criminal syndicalism trials in California, is now on trial for his own life in the federal court in San Francisco. He is accused of the murder of James S. White, deputy sheriff and game warden, whom he shot while leading an unauthorized liquor raid in Eastside, Shasta Co., in 1923.

Vell was then a federal prohibition agent, but was on leave of absence at the time. The evidence so far given shows that he shot White because the latter tried to protect the proprietor of the hotel involved from Vell's illegal raid and acknowledged violence.

SHERWOOD EDDY ON RUSSIA

We reprint herewith part of a report made by Sherwood Eddy, official of the Y. M. C. A., on his return from a recent visit to Soviet Russia. Mr. Eddy was severely attacked by some capitalist papers because he told the truth as he saw it of conditions in the Soviet Union. Owing to lack of space we are unable to publish the report in full, but the most important part of it is given.

Russia, the Land of Contradictions.
By SHERWOOD EDDY.

DURING August I made my fourth visit to Russia with a party of 24 American business men, editors, educators and social workers. After nine years under the present government, while our country has been flooded by propaganda both red and white, it seemed that the time has come for an unofficial group to make an objective, impartial, fact-finding study of actual conditions in Russia and to share their impressions with their friends in America. We were particularly on our guard lest we should be a "personally conducted" delegation shown only the most favorable things by government interpreters. Our party included four persons who spoke Russian, and we employed twelve other interpreters, the majority of whom belonged to the old order rather than the new. We were granted entire freedom in Russia, we went where we wished, chose the institutions we wished to inspect, and freely interviewed both friends and foes of the present government.

SOME of us flew from Berlin to Moscow in a day, in e never-to-be-forgotten flight in a storm. During a total of two weeks in Moscow we interviewed some thirty of their principal leaders, including Stalin, who, more than any other, has succeeded to Lenin's influence and power; Tchicherin, minister of foreign affairs; Lunacharsky, minister of education, and many heads of departments of the state and the church, members of the old czarist regime, foreign diplomats, business men and newspaper correspondents, as well as workers and peasants. We visited, of course, all places of importance, such as the historic Kremlin, the seat of the present government, as it has been the fortress and home of the rulers of church and state for eight centuries. We saw the palaces and crown jewels of the czars, also factories, schools, prisons, museums, galleries, and the remarkable institutions of social education and service for workers and peasants, of which Russia is so proud.

THE significance of the present experiment in Russia can hardly be exaggerated either in its possibilities for good or for evil. Here is the largest country in the world, with one area of twice the continent of Europe, twice that of the United States, or one-sixth of the habitable land surface of the earth, with vast undeveloped resources. Here is the largest white population in the world, with 140,000,000, e truly great people whose human resources far outweigh their material possessions. Siberia alone, almost e continent in itself, rich and fertile, if populated with the density of Belgium, would accommodate almost twice the earth's present population.

INDUSTRY and agriculture are steadily recovering. After having fallen to 14 per cent of their pre-war production in industry, this year they have recovered almost 90 per cent of their former maximum production, both in industry and agriculture, and will probably equal it next year. Despite all obstacles, their budget has been balanced, their currency stabilized and most of their available land, although nominally owned by the state, has been divided up and has come into the permanent possession of the peasants.

THE condition of nine-tenths of the great masses in industry and agriculture is on the whole slightly better economically and immeasurably better in the releasing of the human spirit for self-realization and self-expression than it was under the blindly repressive czarist regime. This is true not only among the communal city workers, but particularly among the hardy individualistic and independent peasants now awakened by the World War, the new education and growing self-government. The 8,700,000 members of trade unions have more influence in the democratic shering of control in industry and in government than in any other country.

THE co-operative movement is one of the strongest in the world, with 11,000,000 in the Consumers' Co-operatives and 7,650,000 in the producers' and farmers' organizations, with some duplicate members. These are not only an economic but a vast educational and social force, making for the recovery of the nation.

THE present Soviet government has come to stay. It seems to ha on the whole much better than the former hideous czarist regime. Altho its downfall has been eagerly predicted for the last nine years, it was never so strong as it is today. Whatever its fenits, there is no other party or government in sight that could govern the Russian people and maintain order. The people want to go back to the slevery of the czars or the nerveless rule of Kerensky. We found no gevernment in Europe more free, more and strongly entrenched. No other bas made so many changes and adaptations, none has been more willing to confess its many mistakes and learn from them. Its army has been reduced to one-tenth its size of six years ago, from 5,300,000 in 1920 to some 550,000 today, heing less in size and expenditure, in proportion to population, than those of the surrounding nations.

THE government elms to end the domination of capitalism, to make war impossible, wipe out state boundaries, transform the whole world into a co-operative commonwealth, and bring about real human brotherhood and freedom. Of all their ideals none is more remerkeble than the ideal leaders of the largest united republic in the world shemld endeavor to rise above personal profit and sordid private gain to the standard of unselfish social service for the common good. No' member of the Communist Party is permitted to receive an income of more than $112.50 a month, or $3.75 a day, or less than the wage of many day laborers in America. The man who goes in for profiteering for himself is scorned as a moral leper as in no other country in the world, and if he le e member of the Communist Party, after a fair trial, he is expelled or expelled. They appeal to the heroic and the sacrificial. All but two of Lenin's cabinet had shered with him nearly twenty years in exile, poverty or imprisonment. Many of these ideals in their ideals are closely akin to the christian virtues.

Speaker Talks of God Before Atheist Group; 'Near Riot' Is Result

By L. P. RINDAL.
(Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5.—The subject at the Music Art hall Open Forum Dec. 26 was: "A New God for America," by John Jacob Lowman, editorial writer for several Los Angelee newspapers. As the hall was packed with atheists, the lecture was religious enough to cause a "near riot"—to use a common newspaper phrase. A lot of people left the place in protest as soon as the speaker started his godly speech. The picture of the new god of the American capitalist class did not look any better to the audience of damned souls then the old one, namely, the "In God We Trust" dollar mark.

During the question period the radicals made e complete fool out of this tool of the labor-baiting press. The speaker, not knowing much about the history of religion in the first place, was not able to answer anything.

Worker Checks Up on the Soviet Lies to Date, as Told by Chicago Tribune

By DAVID POLLIN.
(Worker Correspondent)

Editor, DAILY WORKER: Many times we read the self-contradictory stories of the capitalist press and especially the Tribune, in regard to the progress Russia is making in becoming independent, in spite of the refusal of finance capital the world over to extend credits to the Soviets, as would be desired by the Workers' Republic.

As an example of these false tales, on Dec. 19, the Tribune said thet the Russian crop last year was far below the expectations of the Soviet government. On Dec. 23, The Tribune contained mention in a corner of an inside page of the merrellons advances Russia is making in becoming economically independent.

The Tribune in a Corner.

The Tribnne's misfortune was that they hed to admit thet Russia has balenced her budget, without floating huge loans in America.

Again on Friday, Dec. 31, the Tribune carries an article relating to recognition of the Soviets by Washington in which the Tribune blunders. Again, saying that Russia's conditions are on the downgrade. The chief motiva of the Tribune's policy in manufacturing these wild and contradictory tales in regard to Russia's economic stability is to crystallize in the mind of its readers a wave of opposition against the class conscious workers, who demend recognition of the Workers' Republic and against the so-called liberals and insurgents, who for business and other reesons ask the present edministration to recognize the Soviets.

As "The Nation" Sees It.

The Dec. 29 issue of the Nation, a weekly magazine, contains en article by their foreign correspondent, stating that the pre-war levels in Soviet industry and agriculture have been reached; some regions have surpassed pre-wer levels especially in the Ukraine.

The workers' buying power has been increasing steedily end now their purchasing power reached and in some instances surpassed pre-war levels. While in the western European countries and in all countries where capitalism reigns, the workers' conditions have gone down and their purchasing power has been greatly diminished since 1913.

This report was not written by a Communist, nor e friend of the Communists, but an impartial correspondent who reported precisely what he saw, while in Russia.

Trade Unions Aid Soviet to Join in Building Work

LOS ANGELES.—At the call of the Society for Technical Aid to Soviet Russia, a group has been organized in Los Angeles, the aim of which is to send an organized construction cooperative to build houses in cities of Soviet Russia.

The housing problem is one of the most vital effecting the people in Russia. Hence the call to workers, by virtue of our skill in American building industry, are splendidly equipped to render thie aid to the Soviet Union.

We, therefore call upon everyone whose sympathies are with Soviet Russia to lend us e helping hand. We appeal to those who are equipped to join the group to get in touch with us at once.

For any information relative to this group, communicate with Secretary A. Kozmanian, 2636½ Brooklyn Ave., Los Angeles, Cal.

License Trans-Ocean Telephone.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5. — Secretary of Commerce Hoover today granted a license to the American Telegraph & Telephone Co., to permit the operation of a radio-telephone service between the United States and England. This is the first license of the kind ever issued. The service will be opened to the public during this month.

CENTRAL AMERICA 'GOOD WILL' TOUR PLANNED BY ILLINOIS BUSINESS MEN

Members of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce are planning e "good will" tour of Central American countries to drum up business in those countries for Illinois manufacturers and agricultural products' brokers.

Seventy-eight members of the organization will make the tour in e specially chartered ship. The group will leave Chicago Feb. 1.

"The idea behind this cruise is business," announced Secretary Harvey T. Hill. "We are going to investigate potential markets for Illinois manufacturers and Illinois agricultural products."

The chamber believes that the opening of the lakes-to-the-gulf waterway will make Illinois a great exporting state, as it believes goods should be shipped down the Mississippi and thru the port of New Orleans.

Wages and Prosperity

It is a beneficient circle in which the "ample wage" moves when increased productivity makes possible an increased consumption, but which must fall to a lower level if production does not grow commensurately and may not rise to higher circles if production does not increase in still higher ratio . . . .

. . . . it is coming to be realized more and more clearly that both the man who employs and the man who devotes his skill to another for hire are partners in a joint enterprise.

Thus the New York Times comments editorially on the pollyanaism dispensed by Vice-President Woll of the American Federation of Labor and Secretary of Labor Davis relative to the "prosperity and contentment" of the American working class.

The average weekly earnings of workers in New York state factories were $28.33 for 1925.

The average weekly earnings in all industries in the state of Illinois were $29.41.

The average wage rate per hour for laborers in iron and steel industries for 1924 (no substantial increases have been granted since that time) was in the various departments 42 cents, 40 cents, 44 cents, 43½ cents, 35 cents, 50 cents and 39 cents.

The average monthly earnings of farm hands in 1925—without room and board—were $18.55.

The above wage scales are for men. Wages of women are on the average a LITTLE OVER ONE-HALF those of men.

The above examples are typical—they include two great industrial states—New York and Illinois. They include such groups as the laborers in iron and steel who are the great majority of the workers employed in this industry. Farm laborers alone make up a group of over 4,000,000 workers.

The "increased productivity" has been established, but the "ample wage"—the subject of so much impassioned writing in the capitalist and official labor press—has not been established.

It is a siren song sung by reactionary labor officials, capitalist party jobholders and the capitalist press.

It has as its purpose deception of the working masses. It is hoped that they will be induced to accept a general estimate of prosperity in place of wages.

One of the most important tasks of the workers' press is to expose the gigantic hoax which is being built up around the central slogan of "high wages and increased productivity."

It would be well for the American workers to study the history of British and German imperialism. These too were once high wage countries and the labor agents of their respective imperialisms built up the same theories and concocted the same conspiracies against the working class that we see in America today.

The Pot Calls the Kettle Black in Washington

The state department, under the pressure of congressional and press criticism, has changed its policy in the Nicaraguan situation. The change is interesting as showing the futility of the solemn farce that is being played in Washington which can be entitled, "Criticizing the Coolidge Administration," or "The Pot Calling the Kettle Black."

The change in policy consists in abandoning the tactic of denial that an arbitrary use of military force has been authorized in Nicaragua to a tactic of asserting that what has been done was absolutely all right and had to be done.

A Washington dispatch, dated Jan. 4, says:

Stiffening of the American policy in Nicaragua was foreshadowed today by admission on the part of President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg that the protection of the proposed canal route thru Nicaragua was one of the important factors prompting continued American intervention in that country. . . .

The president also pointed out that THE SAME TREATY WHICH GAVE THE UNITED STATES A CANAL ROUTE GIVES THIS COUNTRY A 99-YEAR RENEWABLE LEASE FOR A NAVAL BASE on the Gulf of Fonseca, one of the finest harbors in Central American waters.

The treaty which ratified the purchase of a canal route (for $3,000,000) and the lease of a harbor, WAS MADE BY THE WILSON ADMINISTRATION.

The democrat opposition is now placed in the position of repudiating its revered deceased leader, whose shade is still one of its biggest assets, or of tempering its criticism of the Coolidge administration.

Now is the time, when the hypocrisy of the opposition and the undisguised arrogance of the administration party is manifest, for the labor movement to put sharply before the whole world, by demanding the immediate withdrawal of gunboats and marines from Nicaragua, and branding both democrat and republican parties as instruments of Wall Street, its unalterable opposition to the whole imperialist policy.

Publishers Anxious to Get in on Profit by Advertising Space

"America will never again witness business depression because of a shortage of anything," said Col. Robert R. McCormick, addressing the Tribune's convention of its advertising department at the Drake Hotel.

The colonel was not, however, referring to the probable absence of any want among the workers, but was expressing the hope that capitalist newspapers would get their share of profits thru expenditures for advertising.

The gala days of the advertising fraternity were back when the government was levying an excess profit tax of 25 per cent. Then the solicitor for an advertising agency could call on a client and prove to him mathematically that he could buy advertising for 75 cents on the dollar, since the dollar he spent would reduce net profit just so much, when otherwise 25 cents of the dollar would go to the government. It was considered in perfectly good form, patriotically speaking, thus to gip the government out of its two bits.

With revision of the tax schedule, advertising has been harder to get. It is again on a cash and carry basis. Hence the colonel's anxiety to divert a goodly share of the profits of business into the newspaper till.

New British Engine May Electrify Roads

The New Drive on Militant Trade Unionism

ARTICLE XI.

By WILLIAM F. DUNNE.

WE have seen how the socialist party bureaucracy has become part of the united front against genuine trade unionism and parrots the cry of the officiel union leadership that "trade unionism" must be preserved from the very same sections of the trade union movement which have waged all the militent and successful struggles in 1926.

It is well to inquire here as to what is meant when the accusation is made by labor leaders that their critics and opponents in the labor movement are trying to "destroy trade unionism."

DO they actually believe that the left wing and the Communist workers are trying to wipe out the trade unions and leave the working class unorganized?

Of course they do not, but the accusation is made in the above terms with the idea in mind that trade unionists and workers generally will so understand it.

They base in mind, when they make the accusation, that there is a clash of policies in the trade union movement—that a section of the organized working class, either more exploited than supporters of officialdom, more class conscious, or both, tries to guide the unions into the path of POLITICAL struggle based on their economic demands, while the more privileged group of trade union members led by the labor bureaucracy strive to keep the unions DIVORCED FROM POLITICAL ACTION and confine them to the old program of "pure and simple" trade unionism as Daniel De Leon characterized it, or still worse—make them outright efficiency organs of capitalist production. As a matter of fact there is no difference between the two except that the former takes a little longer to render the unions entirely helpless.

WILLIAM ENGLISH WALLING, the renegade socialist (he will now find plenty of his former colleagues in the same camp with the early social trend of the official trade union policy and has become the semi-official spokesman of A. F. of L. officialdom, says in his book "American Labor and American Democracy," favorably reviewed in all the official labor sheets:

The American labor movement always has been and doubtless will remain, fundamentally economic in character.

WE have seen the pronouncements of President Green of the A. F. of L. and other official spokesmen relative to the role of trade unions as production organs in close connection with management and we have likewise seen that the New York Times and other mouthpieces of capitalism adhere the same opinion.

All of these forces are united against the section of the organized workers and of the unorganized, as in Passaic, who are "disturbing" the "peaceful" development of American imperialism.

THE dogma that strikes are unnecessary and "wasteful" has been put forward and an attempt clearly is made, as in the New York needle trades, to show that workers by accepting the principle of slightly higher pay for much more work, can better their conditions substantially WITHOUT strikes.

The struggle in the labor movement now between right and left is a struggle for the right to strike. But it is something more than that—it is also a new kind of a struggle, a struggle for the abolition of trade unions as weapons of the working class which is being conducted INSIDE of the union by agents of the capitalists. The left wing workers fight to STAY in the unions and force them into real weapons of all the workers.

IT is noticeable that only where highly exploited workers exist, like in the textile industry recently, or only in militant strikes with some political consciousness, like those of the furriers and cloakmakers, does the capitalist class conduct a direct offensive and heap columns of abuse upon them in its press.

Wage demands of large and decisive groups of workers, as in the railroad industry, do not evoke the open hatred and abuse, when the capitalist class knows that they will be compromised thru the compulsory arbitration machinery, as do relatively small and unimportant strikes in less decisive industries.

UNINTERRUPTED production" is the slogan of American imperialism and it is echoed by the trade union bureaucracy. The present labor leadership, as has been stated in the introductory to these articles, has no policy beyond that of securing a small share of the enormous wealth produced for the workers by means of "cooperation" agreements providing for increases in output per worker—piece work on a wholesale scale for the working class. When the inevitable period of crisis comes, the labor leadership is helpless. Still worse, as it has done in the past, it becomes the open ally of the suppressive machinery of the capitalist government.

His fight on the movement for the formation of a labor party can be explained by no other reason than its fear that it may become an effective weapon of the masses in periods of depression.

THE official policy of the American Federation of Labor, based on the present temporary prosperity, can be shown easily to be similar to the viewpoint of the most representative spokesmen of imperialism. For instance, Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank of New York, the bank to whose service more sailboats and marines have been devoted than to any other American financial institution, in an interview devoted to prospects for 1927, said:

Increasing powers of production are the basis of prosperity. The problem of maintaining this prosperity will not be solved by indiscriminate wage increases which necessitate price increases, interfere with distribution and threaten a slow-down of industry. ONLY WHEN WAGE ADVANCES ARE ACCOMPANIED BY CORRESPONDING INCREASES IN PRODUCTION ARE THEY COMPATIBLE WITH ENDURING PROSPERITY. (Emphasis mine.)

COMPARE this statement by one of America's leading imperialists with a statement made for the same purpose (a forecast of prospects for 1927) by the head of the trade union movement:

MANY OF OUR INDUSTRIES HAVE MADE REAL PROGRESS IN DEVELOPING PRODUCTION POLICIES AND METHODS THAT SUSTAIN PROSPERITY. . . . THE WAGE INCREASES FOR THE CONDUCTORS AND TRAINMEN ON EASTERN ROADS AND THE SHOPMEN ON THE BALTIMORE AND OHIO AND THE CANADIAN NATIONAL railroad may reasonably be regarded as indicative of what is to be expected in 1927. (Emphasis mine.)

TO this statement by President Green which was given to the press we can add another statement, previously quoted, from his editorial in the December number of the Federationist:

The workers' demands UNDER COOPERATION HAVE BEEN RESTRAINED by better understanding of the facts of production. (Emphasis mine.)

It is hardly necessary to point out that there is no essential difference between these statements—one by an open and avowed imperialist, head of a bank whose depredations in Haiti, Cuba and Nicaragua are notorious, the other by the head of the American labor movement.

NOR is this an accidental coincidence. The policy of worker-employer cooperation, of a definite increase in the amount of work for an increase in wages, is the policy of both American imperialism and the trade union bureaucracy. These elements of the working class that have not been whipped or bribed into line must be crushed.

This is what the struggle in the trade unions centers around.

The union of capitalists, trade union officialdom and socialist party bureaucracy in this struggle is explained by the facts of imperialism and their effects upon the working class.

LENIN, in his "imperialism," after mentioning the enormous superprofits from foreign investments in the pre-war imperialist period (American imperialism now has $13,000,000,000 invested abroad) shows the use to which a portion of them are put:

It is easy to perceive, that from such a large additional profit (for it is received in addition to the profit which the capitalists extract from their own country) labor leaders and the upper strata of the workers' aristocracy CAN BE BRIBED. So the capitalists of the "progressive" countries bribe them by a thousand means, direct and indirect, open and secret. (Emphasis in the translation.)

Some details of the manner in which the trade union officialdom shares in the loot of American imperialism, and how their status has become that of the lower and central section of the middle class, will make clear the wide gap which separates them from the workers upon whom, in company with the bosses and the socialist bureaucracy, they are making war in the labor unions.

(To be concluded.)

The Notorious Mr. Frank L. Smith

ONE philosopher who plastered a scientific label on his meanderings proved to his own satisfaction that chance is only the subterfuge of the mentally lazy. If you throw a ball in a certain direction in exactly the same way any time the ball will hit exactly the same spot. So said the philosopher. The truth of this observation is so obvious that it would take a hardy wight to take issue with it. And yet while thinking of the strange career of Mr. Frank L. Smith, one is inclined to drop a few doubts in his vicinity to watch what happens to them.

Frank L. Smith was elected to the United States senate by as typical an aggregation of voters as could be located in America. Being inhabitants of Illinois they could not be otherwise, since Illinois is the bridge between alien New York and the great open spaces where those who could not tolerate New York moved to. Furthermore most Illinoisians are members of the methodist church, except those who live in the industrial centers. The latter are likely to be catholics. Heavily populated sections produce people who people in organizational centralization. The Illinois methodists favor the Volstead law. The catholics do not. Frank L. Smith, who was elected by the dry methodists, owes his political existence to a town made famous by the discoverer of a cure for chronic inebriation. Smith does not believe in dry laws but he inscribes the picture of a camel on his political banner. And he gets elected.

What has this man Smith done that such a punishment as election from the senate should be visited on him? Here is where chance comes in if it belongs anywhere.

Smith's campaign kitty was fed to the extent of approximately $200,000 by a few public utility barons, chief among them being Samuel Insull, as public spirited and civic-hearted a citizen as ever purchased a politician. This is not the first time that Sam did a little thing like this, but this is the first time that Sam's beneficiary was caught. As for Sam, well, his stocks go up on the market, his wife returns to the stage and the people lift the left eyebrow a little and say nothing. But poor Smith! Why, his weak chin takes on another wrinkle and his tongue develops callouses curing human hypocrisy.

Smith was caught getting supported by a wicked public utility man. But it is not the wickedness of the utility man that is cursed by the indignant minority of citizens. It is the money of the utility man that is abused. Why? Simply because the money helped Smith into the senate and the group of political gangsters that Smith is associated with have aims and objects that are not conducive to the well being of other political gangsters who are in the habit of banging some religious motion over the doors of their political hayed houses and getting away with it. Smith represents an element that lives by politics and to a certain extent, like the mythical Robin Hood, robs the rich and gives to the poor gangsters. Smith's opponents, the finance-capital world would rather have a representative who would take orders for a fixed stipend. But apparently Smith is of the adventurous type that prefers to take a chance on making an uncertain amount rather than be sure of a fixed sum.

Big business does not want Smith, not because he is a radical, but because he is a political burglar. Smith is for the capitalist system, and if Illinois big business had to choose between Smith and J. Louis Engdahl they would choose Smith. But they don't have to make such a choice just now. Chance and they hop on Smith like a bunch of angry Furies and assume defensive postures. They act as if this man Smith was like a republican turned loose in an Alabama district. Chance that the honor of Illinois is at stake to the extent of $200,000 worth of purchased ballots.

In all probability Smith will return to the senate chamber like one of "Kid" Woll's checks bouncing back from a bank. Because he was unlucky? No. The philosopher was right. There is no such thing as luck. Smith will not happen to represent the big fools who run things just now, even tho they do not always control the votes. It is much easier to purchase Washington than to entice the population of southern Illinois on to a band wagon. We have often heard it said that big business controls or dominates the republican party, but as a matter of fact finance-capital feels more at home with George Brennan in Illinois and with Al. Smith in New York than with Len Small, who robbed the state of one million dollars, or with Senator-elect Vare of Philadelphia who spent almost as much getting elected.

There is nothing left to say except that the probable rejection of Smith from the senate because he received $200,000 in election donations from Sam Insull, will be one of the choicest pieces of hypocrisy ever pulled off in this country. All congressmen and senators are serrants of the capitalists. They owe their political existence to their ability to serve the system. As long as they are not caught in some indiscretion that will not give their group enemies a chance to arouse the indignation of the bush-whacking voter, they can wear the cloak of political virtue with impunity.

We are in favor of Smith's ejection from the senate. In fact we cannot think of anybody in either house who would not serve a better purpose filling boll weevils in Texas. But we must be content with what we can get. A senator walking home in the small hours of the morning with a sort of hard-boil chip on his shoulder for the gods. Let's have more of them.

VETERAN SAYS CROOKED BASEBALL BEGAN WITH FIRST GAME IN 1876

CLEVELAND, Jan. 5.—"If Judge Landis really wants to clean up baseball, let him send for me. I'll give him the low down of how Louisville threw a batch of games in the National League, the first year the circuit was formed, 1876."

This was the information offered here today by George Strief, 70, federal court bailiff, and star of the big league baseball 50 years ago.

"Jim Devlin, pitcher, George Hall, fielder; Craber, catcher, and Nichols, third baseman, got together and threw a number of games so that Louisville lost the pennant," Strief declared.

Robert P. Brindell Is Dead

ROBERT P. BRINDELL, New York "labor leader," is dead. He leaves a fortune estimated at close to $1,000,000, a private house in New York City, a country estate at Schroon Lake, an office building, and some other real estate. Mr. Brindell amassed this fortune by selling "strike insurance," receiving as high as $32,000 at a time as a fee from building contractors.

During the Lockwood committee's investigations into the New York housing situation, scores of employers testified to paying Brindell at his St. Marks Place offices in New York City. He kept them waiting in an anteroom as it is reported, and took the payments one by one.

As head of the New York Building Trades Council he was reputed to be the highest paid labor executive in the United States.

The fact that this corrupt scoundrel was accepted by the highest circles of the labor bureaucracy is an acknowledgement of the fact that within the ranks of the American Federation of Labor, there is a definite group which thru one way or another has sold itself to the employing class. The price of this betrayal may not always be the same. It may assume various forms. In the case of Brindell it was the sum of $32,000 in cold cash or a soft political berth to various smaller favors granted in devious ways hidden from the public. But payments they remain, nevertheless, payments for services rendered, payments for "strike insurance," whether it be insurance thru the acceptance of a governor's commission, as in the Watson-Parker bill, a mediation board, or a secret agreement. Is there any wonder that Brindell moved in the most influential circles of the A. F. of L., that he hobnobbed with Woll, Lewis, McMahon and their ilk? Are they not all closely bound together by the black bonds of Brindellism?

But this orgy of corruption has suddenly been called to a halt. Its adherents have been boldly challenged. The left wing has demanded that the trade unions shall become what they were intended to be, the fighting organs of the workers. The left wing has demanded that the trade unions take up the struggle against the employers, for the demands of the workers, thus the unorganized workers be organized. The left wing, led by the Communists, has put its policy into action and has waged three successful strikes, in which marked gains have been won for the workers—the restoration of the wage cut and the right to organize in Passaic and the 40-hour week in New York. The employers are frantic, not less so than the so-called "labor leaders" who see their temporary paradise melting away and soft berths disappearing. A united front is formed, this time against the element in the union, which threatens the profits of the bosses and the security of the Brindells, the Wolls, the Lewises, the McMahons, the Sigmans and Beckermans. War is declared—to the finish.

But this black united front will not succeed. The workers are determined that Brindellism in whatever form it appears shall be wiped out of the American labor movement. They have determined that it shall indeed be a war to a finish—against corruption, against class collaboration, against the united front of the bosses and the Brindells. In the ranks of labor there is arising a united front of the rank and file for honest trade unionism in the interests of the workers. And the rank and file will keep up the fight until it secures control of the trade unions and Brindellism is safely buried alongside of its notorious representative.

A NEW NOVEL

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair.)

Bunny went home to his father. "Dad, just what was it made you get rid of Ben Skull?"

"Why, I found he'd been taking commissions from the other fellow. He'd been up to other rascalities, too."

"Just what?"

Dad laughed. "He had a scheme that was a wonder. You know, down there at Prospect Hill people were in a crazy hurry to drill; the owner of the next lot was getting his well down first, and draining all your oil away. Ben and another feller would find a bunch of lot owners just on the point of making a good lease, and Ben would have his pal give him a quit-claim deed to one of those lots. Ben would record the deed, and, of course, when the title company came to report on the property there was that cloud on the title. The owner would come hustling after Ben Skull in a panic, what the hell was this? And Ben would look shocked, and tell how he had bought the lot from some feller in good faith. Who was the feller? Well, the feller had disappeared, and nobody could find him. But there Ben had the lease tied up, and the drilling couldn't start. The lot owner would rage and swear—all the lot owners in the lease was all tied up together, and nobody could do anything with their property till that one lot had got free. To go into court and clear the title would take six months or so, and meantime the chance to leake would be gone, so the owners would have to chip in and pay Ben five thousand or so—whatever he claimed he had paid to the other man."

"I should think that trick would have been tried a lot of times," remarked Bunny, and Dad answered, it would be tried just long enough for the news to get around, and then some lot owner would attck a gun under Ben's nose, and settle it that way. What had happened in his case was that the original thing had got hold of him and fascinated him clean, and that was why he was doing spy work for the patriotic societies.

Bunny knew that his father didn't owe anything to this slippery rascal, and wouldn't mind his being exposed, provided Bunny's name was not dragged in. It would be easy to trace the matter down, by looking up Ben's real estate transactions in the county records; he would have given a quit-claim deed to the lot owners whom he had held up, and if these men were still in the neighborhood no doubt they would testify, or could be made to. Bunny saw Rachel at the university next morning and told her the story, and gave her a hundred dollar bill to cover the cost of the research. She passed it on to Joe or Ikey, end two days after Ben was confronted by half a dozen enfuriated citizens, male and female, who took a good deal to shake the jury's faith in his testimony as to secret conspiracies in the Workers Party. The jury disagreed on the count of half the women, the leading party directors; these got six years apiece, but the Menzies boys got off, and the party held a celebration, which was described in the newspapers as an orgy of red revolutionary raving.

X

Dad was not so much troubled by the news which Bunny told him, that Dan Irving was on the trail of Vernon Roscoe in the national capital. There was bound to be gossip about the big deal, and there was always "scandal" trying to make trouble, but everybody would understand it was just politics. It was the "buzz-saw gang" at Hub's lifetime, and of Verne's too, they would go ahead and drill the land and get out the oil and nothing else would matter. But the morning with a sort of hard-boil chip on his shoulder for the gods. Let's have more of them.

3 NATIONS DEFY DOLLAR DIPLOMACY

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

BRITISH fortunes in China are growing worse daily. The most recent disaster to British prestige was the surrender of English troops in the Hankow foreign concession to the Cantonese. Coincident with the admission of British weakness comes the news from London that the imperial cabinet is split over the question of breaking off relations with Russia. A section of the cabinet led by the swashbuckling Churchill attributes British imperial woes to the Orient to Soviet propaganda. Churchill would break off relations immediately with the Soviet Union. Baldwin and Chamberlain, however, are gifted with cooler brains than the overheated "hero" of Gallipoli and urge more moderation.

IT is quite likely that the Churchill element will gain the upper hand. Britain is faced with a serious crisis in her foreign affairs and in such situations aggressiveness, regardless of its merits, is liable to win. The Churchill backers are the typical fascist type in England, backed by the Morning Post and the extreme tories.

THE usual stories of outrages are being turned out by British press agents. Strange that the Chinese should want to free their own country from foreign invaders! Strange to the imperialists and particularly the British who are the most unwaveringly hypocritical of all the imperialists. It is rather well for the Chinese that the mighty power of the Soviet Union is exerted in their behalf and that the United States is too busy looting South America to join Britain in looting China.

THERE seems to be nothing much in the papers nowadays except rumors of war and wars that would be taken seriously twenty years ago but are considered inconsequential today. Our own militarists and navalists are clamoring for heavier armaments. They do not care a hang what country is likely to be the enemy. Coolidge has based his excuse for occupying the presidential chair on his ability to save money for the big taxpayers but the chemical trust and the shipbuilding trusts want more, so their agents in congress are howlings for more warships. Representative Britten of Illinois declared in thunderous tones to the house that twenty of "our" cruisers would not "even frighten natives of the Congo."

ALL signs point to a nice snappy little war within a few years. Young Americans should fatten up and be ready to serve their country. Skinny marines may look good to flappers but a bullet likes a nice, soft bed. A good fat body will comfortably harbor five dollars worth of lead without compelling the bullets to impinge on each other. Patriotism will be more precious than ever in the next war to and war.

MUSSOLINI continues to have trouble with his brigands. This champion moneshank wants to create the impression that the lawlessness, vindictance and murder that reigns in Italy is due to excessive zeal on the part of his blackshirts and to the presence of undesirable characters in the fascist party. This is not so. It has been

ROBINS DARES POLITICIANS TO PULL OUT CORKS

Fears White Mule, But Not Reds

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON—A direct challenge to any national party to "dare" to put a wet plank in its platform was thrown down today by Col. Raymond Robins, of Chicago, in an address before the annual luncheon of the citizens' committee of 1,000 for law enforcement and observance.

He asserted the Canadian government sales system is a failure, and that, having obtained it, "the so-called moderation league of Canada, has practically abandoned the cause of temperance.

Each congress elected, Robins contended, is "drier than the preceding."

STUBBORN MILL BARON PROLONGS PASSAIC STRIKE

Forstmann Clings to the 'Company Union' Straw

By CYRIL BRIGGS.
Strike Publicity Director.

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan. 6.—Seasoning his statement with the usual cant current at this season about "peace and good will" and further expressing the fervent "hope and prayer" that strife and disorders will not mar the New Year, Julius Forstmann, hard bellied, laber-hating president of the Forstmann & Huffmann company, whose workers have been striking for the past eleven months for the most elementary rights of human beings, today declined the peace bid of Meyer Burke of Garfield.

Intolerent, Preaches "Tolerance"

"Above everything we must all learn industrial tolerance," piously exclaimed the stubborn old German industrialist in his letter to Mayor Burke, rejecting the latter's request that he meet with a committee of his striking workers in an effort to bring industrial peace to the community.

Maintaining that his system, which includes the company union (or representative assembly, as he prefers to have it called), espionage and blacklisting, is as christian as any other system, Mr. Forstmann reiterates his christian determination to cram the company union down the throats of his workers.

At the same time he engages in the now familiar strategy (the strategy practiced by Botany up to the very week it capitulated to the union) of proclaiming that he now has enough workers, anyway. His letter follows:

FORSTMANN'S LETTER

Hon. W. A. Burke
Mayor of the City of Garfield
Garfield, New Jersey

Dear Mr. Mayor: — Yours of the 30th December has been carefully read by me and I join with you in wishing peace and good-will to all in Garfield and Passaic, and hope and pray that strife and disorders will not mar the New Year.

Above everything, we must learn industrial tolerance. Throout the United States we find industrial relations of various types in factories where the workers are the best paid and the most contented—some deal with unions, some with employe representation, and some thru personal

COMPROMISE IS URGED IN FARM RELIEF CAMPAIGN

New Bill Is Introduced in Both Houses

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A compromise farm relief bill was presented to congress today by Senator Curtis, of Kansas, republican leader, and Rep. Crisp (D) of Georgia.

The measure provides for a federal farm board, which could declare an emergency and organize a co-operative organization to control the surplus in the commodity.

The federal government would bear any loss sustained by such operations. No equalization fee would be levied.

The bill was put forward as a non-partisan measure, including features of the McNary-Haugen and other bills.

Debate Starts June 11.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.— Rejecting proposals for extended hearings on farm aid bills, the house agriculture committee today decided to begin consideration of the McNary-Haugen bill on Jan. 11, with the expectation of reaching a vote within a few days.

In the meantime, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine will be heard by the committee if he requests an appearance, and congressmen will be allowed to explain other pending bills.

Commercial Failures in 1926 Increase Over 1925, with Liabilities Somewhat Less

NEW YORK.—Commercial failures in the United States in 1926 were 21,773, as compared with 21,214 in 1925, an increase of two per cent. The liabilities, however, show a decline of 8 per cent, having been $400,232,278 last year, as against $443,749,873 in the previous year.

U. S. Slipping in Race of Countries for Russian Trade; Furnishes 15 Percent

View of Moscow, Russia, and, inset, Boris E. Skvirsky, director of the Russian information Bureau, Washington.

By CHARLES P. STEWART.
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to DAILY WORKER.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—America's exports to Russia have been slipping of late.

In the last year only 15 per cent of all the goods the Russians bought abroad were furnished by this country. The year before the United States furnished 20 per cent.

Indeed, the whole Russo-American annual trade turnover is on the toboggan. In 1913, the last czarist period year, it was $48,000,000. In 1925, Secretary of State Kellogg notwithstanding, it was $115,000,000. But he 1926 figures will total only 75,000,000 to $80,000,000.

Germans Sell More Than the English.

The Germans sold more to Russia in 1926 than any other people. Than the English. America was a bad third. Americans headed the list the preceding year.

What's the trouble?

Well, as Director Boris E. Skvirsky of the Russian information bureau in Washington explains, Germany is at a great and England at a considerable geographical advantage over the United States as Russian traders. It is also to their advantage that they have established diplomatic relations with the Soviet regime.

WAY PAVED TO BOUNCE SMITH FROM SENATE

Will Vote on Seating Before Giving Oath

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The path thru which Frank L. Smith, Illinois slush fund senator-designate, will be bounced out of the senate halls, if he presents his credentials, is being paved and greased. A motion passed by the senate to refer the credentials of Senator-Elect John J. Blaine of Wisconsin to the elections committee for investigation before he takes the oath establishes a precedent by which Smith will be barred from the senate. There is no question on Gov. Blaine's qualifications, the action being taken purely to establish the procedure by which Smith will be prevented from taking the oath of office until the elections committee reports.

The motion was made by Senator Reed of Missouri.

No Doubt on Non-Seating.

There is no doubt now in the minds of observers that Smith will never be seated in the U. S. senate. The elections committee will undoubtedly report that he is unqualified "morally." The vote of acceptance of this report will be overwhelmingly against Smith. It is indicated now, as only 49 votes are needed to bar the Illinoisan, and so far, out of 96 senators, less than a dozen have signified they will vote for him.

Hits Smith Plans.

It had been the Smith plan to appear in the senate, be allowed to take the oath of office, and then submit to the investigation of qualifications afterwards. Smith feels that once he is in the seat, it will be harder to throw him out. He has also planned to deliver a speech in his defense, in which he would attack President Coolidge for accepting campaign contributions from industrialists benefiting from tariff provisions, declaring Coolidge is just as "immoral" as he

Illinois Bank Cashier Commits Suicide; Run Prevented by Closing

JERSEYVILLE, Ill., Jan. 6.—Bank Examiner V. L. Sailor was in charge of the Jerseyville National Bank, as the result of the institution closing its doors yesterday following the suicide of Cashier F. D. Haller, 51. Quick closing of the bank prevented a run on the institution. No details as to the bank's condition have been revealed.

BRITISH CABINET NEARS SPLIT IN FIGHT ON RUSSIA

Churchill Leads Fight to Break Relations

LONDON, Jan. 6. — Anti-Russian members of the British cabinet who are attempting to force Great Britain to break off relations with the Soviet Union have precipitated a critical condition in the cabinet, according to reports in official circles. A split in the cabinet is declared imminent.

Churchill Leads Antis.

Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer is leading the bloc to cause a break with Russia. Another anti-Russian leader is Lord Birkenhead. Premier Baldwin and Sir Austen Chamberlain are opposed to any such action, and a deadlock on the issue has ensued, it is said.

Threatens Recognition.

Chamberlain is so firm in his stand for continuation of relations that he has declared he will resign as foreign minister before he will sign any document to break them off.

Moscow's attitude toward the Chinese revolutionists is given as the latest reason why Churchill wants severance of relations between England and the U. S. S. R. Vision of a great loss of trade to Great Britain if such an action were taken has forced Baldwin to fight Churchill's stand, it is declared.

Unemployment in France.

PARIS—Foreign workers are being urged to return to their own countries and no more foreign labor is being admitted, for fear that unemployment will develop to the point of a crisis. In Paris, 13,000 have reported themselves to the government offices as unemployed, which by no means covers the total.

U. S. Imperialism Drives Rapidly Toward War In Nicaragua, China, Mexico

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Dollar diplomacy is facing three serious foreign crises with evident determination to solve them all by cracking the whip of armed power over the heads of Nicaragua, China and Mexico. Events in those three countries in the past several days have caused the jingo spirit of the Coolidge government to bristle with drastic threats and to take steps that drop all pretense and reveal a picture of American imperialism rampant.

Tighten Grip on Nicaragua.

1. Following the flat declaration that the administration will under no circumstances remove the United States marines from Nicaragua, the arms embargo has been lifted to allow the puppet president Diaz to receive military supplies against the successful liberal forces that Admiral Latimer is attempting to bottle up by naval and troop action. On top of this, the marines have been ordered to occupy Managua, the Diaz capital, in order to protect it from the advancing rebels under Sacasa. More ships have been sent.

2. Eight American destroyers and gunboats are prepared for action in Hankow, where the British concession has been taken over by supporters of the Canton government. Five American destroyers are being sent from Manila to Shanghai, the objective of the attacking Nationalist armies defeating the northern troops in the Yangtze Valley.

Mexican Crisis Grows.

3. President Calles of Mexico has ordered legal action against foreign oil companies in Mexico which failed to comply with the constitutional requirements demanding registration of concessions by January 1 or forfeiture of property acquired prior to 1917. Secretary of State Kellogg has threatened drastic action if American property is made to submit to these laws. The first step will be withdrawal of recognition.

The Coolidge administration is the object of sharp criticism from the press of the United States and the world; a storm of protest has broken forth in the senate; the whole of Latin America is showing great indignation; the aggressive policies of the state department are being met with opposition in all quarters—but despite all this, the Coolidge-Kellogg policy continues on its way, more open, more aggressive every day, stopping at nothing and depending solely upon the armed forces at its disposal.

MORE WARSHIPS AND TROOPS ARE ORDERED SOUTH

Senate Storms Against Nicaraguan Action

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—More warships and marines were ordered rushed today to Nicaragua to reinforce the American naval forces that have occupied most of the country's principal ports and bottled up the liberal revolutionists.

At the request of the state department, orders were issued at the navy department today for the dispatch of the U. S. S. Argonne with 400 marines, and two additional cruisers, the Marblehead and the Cincinnati, for "special duty" in Nicaraguan waters.

3,000 Troops Land.

With today's reinforcements, the United States will have six cruisers, seven destroyers, a transport ship—the Argonne—and a mine sweeper—the Quail—in Nicaraguan waters, with a total fighting complement of some 3,000 men, marines and bluejackets.

This force, the state department believes, will be sufficient to prevent the Sacasa liberals from seizing Managua, the capital.

Senate Storms.

Abandonment by the state department of the last pretense of neutrality in the Nicaraguan civil war—reflected by the lifting of the embargo on arms to the hard-pressed Diaz forces, and the landing of additional American marines to frustrate the advances of the liberal revolutionists under Sacasa—aroused a veritable storm of opposition in the senate today.

Threatens Recognition.

"This is intervention," said Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee. "Under the circumstances and conditions existing in Nicaragua it is nothing else."

"An Act of War."

"It is an act of war," declared Senator Norris (R) of Nebraska, while Senator Wheeler (D) of Montana, asserted that "the mask is now off the state department's policy." Wheeler has a resolution pending demanding the immediate recall of the marines from Nicaragua.

The state department, it was learned, has given Admiral Latimer, the American commander, blanket authority to close the ports at Puerto Cabezas, Sacasa's capital, and Rio Grande bar, on the East Coast, to the storing or movement of liberal army supplies. With Minister Eden under American

Calles Opens Attack on the Oil Interests

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 6.—President Calles considers that the properties of the foreign oil companies who refused to comply with the constitutional regulations requiring registration of the lands as concessions prior to Jan. 1 have now reverted to the Mexican government. He has announced he will use his entire executive power to enforce the laws.

In spite the repeated threats of the U. S. state department that it will consider the taking over of the properties as an act calling for the breaking off of relations, Calles has instructed the ministry of labor and commerce to immediately proceed to compile a list of the offending companies.

To Go to Court.

The oil men are prepared to apply for injunctions in the courts restraining the government from actually taking over the properties and the case will probably go in due course to the Mexican supreme court. But if the foreign operators attempt to continue production while the suits are pending, they will be immediately proceeded against for indemnification by the government.

Calles has issued written instructions to the attorney general to proceed and assuring full presidential support. The attorney general is told to "take such steps against them as lie within the province of the nation," and to rigidly enforce articles 12 and 14 of the laws—the articles referring to the penalty of reversion for failure to comply.

Feeling in Mexico runs high against the invasion of Nicaragua and no secret is made of the fact that this invasion is directly concerned with the dispute with Mexico.

HANKOW STORMS AT NEW BRITISH TROOP OUTRAGE

English Forced Out of Concession

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 6.—Six American warships swing at anchor in Hankow, six more are steaming up the Yangtze to the inland port and five destroyers have been ordered to sail from Manila at once. This is the status of American naval forces following the occupation of the British concession at Hankow by a spontaneous demonstration on the part of the populace against the shooting of Chinese by British troops.

The following ultimatum has been delivered to the British consul at Hankow demanding:

1. Custody of British marines who fired on Chinese crowds.
2. Indemnities for deaths and personal injuries to Chinese.
3. Immediate cessation of all hostilities.
4. Withdrawal of British warships
5. An apology to the Chinese nationalists

CHINESE APPEAL TO I. L. D.

An appeal to the International Labor Defense to support the demands of the Chinese people fighting against the terrorism of the imperialist powers has just been received by the national office in a cable from Shanghai. Shanghai is the port towards which the opposing Chinese forces are driving for decisive issue.

The cable, sent to I. L. D. by the Chinese Aid Society, reads as follows:

THIRTY COMMUNISTS KILLED, GREAT MANY ARRESTED IN SUMATRA REVOLT

(Special to The Daily Worker)

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 6.—Thirty Communists have been killed and 267 arrested following an uprising on the west coast of Sumatra, Dutch East Indies, according to reports received here. The center of the uprising is at Sawahlounto, seat of the Dutch administrative official, in the Silosengkang district.

Communication between the government and the outside has been severed by the rebels, it is reported. Railway offices have been seized by the revolutionists and officials driven from the stations.

Wholesale arrests are being made by the government troops, who are being rushed to the district in an effort to quell the insurrection.

contact with individual employes. None of these plans is more christian than the others; some work better under certain circumstances and some work better under others. If we are open-minded and tolerant, we must recognize that any of these systems of employment relations, if properly conducted under appropriate conditions, serve well the workers and their respective communities. No one of them does justice to the worker or the public if not properly conducted. The spirit is what counts.

The outcome of the Passaic strike has left the community with one or more of each of these opposed types of industrial relations, and we hope that each is determined to do its utmost to further the best interests of all concerned.

The Forstmann and Huffmann company now employs practically all the workers it can use for the present but as opportunities offer, we will endeavor to re-employ as many of our former workers as we possibly can, without discrimination. You can rest assured that we will do this with the utmost good-will.

The Forstmann and Huffman company pledges itself to maintain as good employment conditions and as high earnings for the workers as any other woolen or worsted mill, and in return merely asks for fair play while it demonstrates the beneficial results which will flow from its endeavors. If everybody will unite with us in this peaceful spirit, then "the good of the city," which is my slogan as well as yours, will be greatly promoted.

Yours very truly,
JULIUS FORSTMANN, Pres.

Strikers Laugh at Forstmann.

At 742 Main Ave., where the strikers' union, Local 1603, United Textile Workers, has its headquarters, the Forstmann letter was greeted with unrestrained amusement. The officials of the union and the strikers about the place all seemed to get a good laugh out of the odd mixture of christian coat and unchristian denial of the rights of the workers, and the prating about tolerance from the most intolerant and stubborn of the mill bosses of Passaic and vicinity.

Dock Scores "Brazen Hypocrisy."

Gustave Dask, president of Local 1603, U. T. W. with which the Forstmann and Huffmann strikers are affiliated, denounced the Forstmann letter as a piece of brazen hypocrisy:

"Mr. Forstmann's latter in reply to Mayor Burke's bid for industrial peace is a piece of brazen hypocrisy, so stupid as to be laughable. Who can keep a straight face while Mr. Forstmann preaches tolerance and christian principles? Mr. Forstmann who for eleven months has been engaged in the "christian" endeavor of trying to starve his workers and their families into acceptance of his rotten company union. Mr. Forstmann who has never hesitated to turn loose the clubs of the subservient police upon the heads of his workers or to terrorize the workers and drive them back to the mills. Mr. Forstmann who refuses to permit his workers the right to select their own type of organization but despetically insists that they must accept type of union, the impotent company union or representative assembly, as he suphonously terms it—he selects for them. Mr. Forstmann, patron saint of the espionage system and the blacklist, as investigation after investigation has revealed him.

Strike Will Go On.

"Mr. Forstmann has offered us his company union before, and his striking workers have unanimously rejected it."

They reject it again, and are more than ever determined to continue their fight until Mr. Forstmann is forced to follow the example of the Botany Worsted, Passaic Worsted Garfield Worsted and Dundee Textile plants in recognizing the right of the workers to organize in a real union and do collective bargaining with their employers.

Strikers Endorse Leaders.

At a mass meeting of striking Forstmann & Huffmann workers at Christian hall the strike leadership was enthusiastically endorsed, the strikers voting unanimously not to go back to work until the right to organize was conceded them.

Elton Dawson, who is financial secretary of Local 1603, U. T. W., and a Forstmann & Huffmann striker, presided at the meeting. Other speakers were Thomas De Fazio and Joseph Magliacano, Italian organizers; Hungarian Organizer Eli Gordes; Strike Delegate Fetzer, and James A. Starr, vice-president of the U. T. W.

All strassed the importence of keeping up strong picket lines in order to convince Mr. Forstmann that they meant to carry on the struggle until their right to organize and do collective bargaining was recognised.

ERIE, Pa.—The plan to show the seven-real motion picture of the Passaic taxtile strike in this city on the 9th has thrown a scare into the local chamber of commerce, which, feerful that the workers here should take inspiration from the heroic struggle of the Passaic strikers for the right to organize and do collective bargaining, has brought pressure upon the local newspapers to refuse to accept advertisements for the showing. Not content with blocking publicity in the press and still feerful that word would reach the workers that the sensational strike film was to be shown here, the chamber of commerce went to the owner of the Park Opera House, where the picture was to be shown, and succeeded in intimidating the proprietor into cancelling the date.

Local labor organizations are exerting every effort to have the proprietor reconsider his action, and there is still hope that the picture will be shown here on the 9th. In the meantime the action of the chamber of commerce is being roundly denounced, and the workers are being called upon to fight this attempt of big business to block the showing of a labor film.

GARFIELD MAYOR ASKS FORSTMANN MILL TO SETTLE

Stresses Damage Done to City by Strike

Mayor Urges Settlement.

Mayor William A. Burke, of Garfield on forwarded letters to the Forstmann and Huffmann company and the New Jersey Worsted mills, making a plea for an early settlement of the strike, as it affects the city of Garfield.

Both mills are situated in Garfield and are among the five mills that have not yet settled with their striking workers, the other three being the Passaic plant of the Forstmann and Huffmann company, the Gera Worsted, in Passaic, and the United Piece Dye Works in Lodi. The continued strike in those mills affects 1,600 workers, for whom relief must be provided.

Stresses City's Danger.

In his letter, Mayor Burke stresses the immense damage sustained by the city of Garfield as a result of the big textile strike, and requests that officials of these mills consent to hold a meeting with the duly elected representatives of the striking workers. He points out the grave danger to industry of further prolonging the strike.

Everyone Affected.

"We are coming to the close of a year that has been the most trying time in the history of Garfield. Industriel disorder has been prevalent during the past eleven months. This labor trouble has left its mark on every phase of life in our community, industries, merchants, home owners; in fact, everybody has been caught in the throes of this struggle and suffered its effects," the letter said.

"In behalf of our people, I urge you to assist in bringing this labor controversy to an immediate conclusion. May I further ask if you will meet with a committee of your striking employes, or to what extent you will go to settle this long drawn out affair."

SERVANTS IN SOVIET ENJOY PRIVILEGES NOT RECEIVED ELSEWHERE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW—Russian servents, organized in the Servants' Trade Union, enjoy great privileges in the Soviets. Among these are regular hours, social insurance, one month's vacation with full pay, one day off each week, an allowance of clothing for both summer and winter, and no calls for overtime work.

If the servent is illitrate, the mistress must also allow time off to attend e workers' school, and no dismissal can be imposed except for substantiel reasons, and then the employer must maintain the servant in food and clothing for a period of one month thereafter.

naval control as a neutral zone, the entire East Coast is about bottled up so far as Nicaragua is concerned.

Bottling Process.

The bottling up process of the ports will effectually prevent Sacasa receiving any arms and ammunition from Mexican sources, it is believed, while the lifting of the embargo will give Diaz access to unlimited American supplies.

Unless Sacasa is able to break the bottle somewhere, it probably means his revolution against the American-backed Diaz will die of strangulation.

American naval forces now occupy his capital, Puerto Cabezas, and have declared it a neutral zone. They similarly occupy Managua, the Diaz capital, many marines having been landed yesterday.

Question Kellogg.

Secretary of State Kellogg appeared to be in for a rough time when he appears before the senate foreign relations committee to explain his policy. There were even intimations today that open demands for his resignation will be made.

"This last act of the secretary of state in permitting arms to be sent Diaz while forbidding their shipment to the liberals is unpardonable," declared Senator Wheeler.

Drop Mask.

"His former statements to the effect that we were not going to take sides in Nicaragua apparently were given out for the purpose of deceiving the American people, but by reason of the success of the liberals he has been forced to drop the mask.

"This is nothing more or less than intervention to save the crumbling Diaz regime. The wabbling policy of Secretary Kellogg and his attempts to deceive the public on this question have shown him to be entirely incompetent for the position he holds."

Tense Situation.

The situation at Hankow is a very tense one. The British are undoubtedly moving towards armed intervention against the fight of the Chinese people for independence and freedom from foreign exploitation. Orders have been given to send naval reenforcements from Hongkong. In addition, the first active military order issued by the British government since the world war was given today in the ordering of the destroyer flotilla at Rosyth, Scotland, to bring to full strength the complement of 1,000 ships "for possible service in the Far East."

The Weahsien massacre referred to in the echo took place a short time ago when British warships fired upon the city of Wanhsien and killed some 500 of the inhabitants without any reason.

Chinese Worry Washington.

WASHINGTON—(FP)— Astonished and worried by the onward sweep of the revolution of the Cantonese forces in alliance with Chinese labor unions, the Washington government has summoned Minister MacMurray home from Peking for consultation.

Secretary Kellogg has on his desk a new declaration of American policy in China, ready for issuance if a sudden crisis makes that action expedient. It is the reply of the Coolidge administration to the British statement, proposing to the other powers that they yield to some of the demands of the Chinese nationalists. However, Kellogg hopes to be able to hold this back until after Feb. 15, when MacMurray will arrive to explain recent developments in China.

It is rumored that the American note as drafted would admit the right of China to fix her own tariff rates and to gradually replace the foreign courts with Chinese courts.

"Cotton Atmosphere" of California Nourishing to Capitalist Stabilization

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

FARM prices must be stabilized at a point near the cost of production, is the main plank in the program of the capitalist farm relief experts.

The great masses of the crop producers are expected to throw their hats in the air and cheer at the mere mention of this suggestion. They did so, in fact, incidental to the speech of the multimillionaire, Frank O. Lowden, at the recent Chicago gathering of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The "cost of production," however, in agriculture, as well as in industry, continually fluctuates. It is something that the capitalist profit taker is everlastingly seeking to lower, while at the same time increasing the selling price, leaving a greater margin for himself. But certainly not for the farm worker any more than for the wage worker.

The evidently successful effort to promote the growing and fabricating of cotton in Southern California is an excellent example. Los Angeles, in addition to breeding movie and soul-saving millionaires, is also turning out a breed of cotton capitalists. Irrigation applied to the Imperial Valley has developed an "American Sudan." Just as cotton growing in the upper regions of the Nile under the direction of London capitalists helps dictate the policies of British imperialism in Egypt, just so the California capitalists strive for what they call "the cotton atmosphere" in this Pacific coast state.

Just as "the American Plan" is a polite name for the open shop war against organized labor, in which the city of Los Angeles is recognized as occupying a premier position; in the same manner "the cotton atmosphere" calls for a lowering of the cost of production thru a worsening of the well-nigh intolerable working conditions already imposed upon the American peasant.

"Jack" Miller, head of the California Cotton Mills of East Oakland, Cal., recently urged the cause of "the cotton atmosphere" upon these cotton capitalists, pointing out that in Alabama, for instance, a cotton mill pays no taxes for five years, and that in Massachusetts a minimum wage law is set aside for cotton textile workers. The editor of the Los Angeles Record exclaims: "This is 'cotton atmosphere!'" It is the atmosphere of capitalism.

This "atmosphere" was analyzed a little more in detail by the California Cotton Journal, the editor of which frankly urged that California substitute "common sense" for the strict enforcement of "our laws" relating to child labor.

This journal, after raising the well-known slogan of "labor shortage," deplored the fact that Mexicans are no longer coming into the state and that Negroes would saddle the commonwealth with a race problem. Then it says:

"The Journal believes there are thousands of boys and girls in California's public schools who are without the range of the child labor laws and who are not only willing, but eager, to help harvest the cotton crop. The growers, the ginners, all should seek, yes, demand, the co-operation of the schools department in this most important matter. Law is common sense. Is it common sense to ask it to save an industry from damage?"

This is an open and blatant appeal to wreck child labor standards in the state. Actual figures will show that there has been no lessening in the influx of Mexican labor that is exploited to the limit. Oriental labor has also been brought into the state, because it was believed it would be "cheap." Now the attack is made on child labor, again knocking into a cocked hat the argument that American "prosperity" seeks to lift the standard of living of workers in this country.

Californian profiteers, like all other capitalists, fight to lower the standard of living. They want their cotton to compete more successfully, which means prodneing greater profits in competition with the cotton from other states. Thus children must be robbed of their playtime and every possible advantage taken of alien peoples coming to these shores in the hope of bettering their conditions.

California is developing as a cotton state. Figures for 1925, the latest available, show that it surpassed such states as Virginia, Florida, Arizona and New Mexico in the total number of bales produced. The total value was $13,560,000. Cotton is referred to as California's new "$20,000,000 industry." The value of the California cotton crop is nearly as great as that of Missouri.

Thus while the states of "the solid south," with 25,000,000 bales of American cotton in the world market, are calling for a curtailment of cotton production, the cotton industry out in California is demanding more cotton produced by child labor which means cheaper cotton, marketed at a lower cost of production.

This is characteristic of the California that has the worst state anti-syndicalistic law in the nation upon its statute books, under which workers have been sent to prison by the scores.

It is the state of the imprisonment of Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings, of the poisoned Ford and Suhr as champions of bop field workers. It is the state of "the American plan" and "the cotton atmosphere." It is the state of Los Angeles where the profiteers desire to stabilize prices for the products of the fields, at the point where the slave whip of the days of close just stops short of stinging the American peasant into open rebellion.

The Los Angeles Record says:

"If this is what 'the cotton atmosphere' means, we want none of it. If, for a $20,000,000 industry, we must use the labor of children—bent little backs, premature age and stunted minds—let the industry go hang. The price is far too great."

But the Record does not dictate the policies of the capitalist fruit takers. Capitalism does that. And capitalist stabilization means increased production at decreased costs. Thus the task is laid on the backs of the 9,000,000 farm workers, tenant farmers and mortgaged farmers of these United States.

New Excuse for Nicaragua Grab

By LAURENCE TODD.
(Federated Press).

WASHINGTON—(FP)—Following the cabinet meeting of Jan. 6, ominous signs of determination of the Coolidge administration to maintain military occupation of Nicaragua regardless of the protest of the whole Latin American world and the opinion of Europe were given at the White House and state department.

President Coolidge thru his mythical agent declared to the press that the United States has its own governmental interests to protect in Nicaragua, in the shape of its purchased right to build a canal across the country, and its right to establish a naval base on Fonseca Bay. This was the first time that a military pretext for the seizure of the Nicaraguan coast held by the Constitutionalist (liberal) forces had been even hinted at.

"Interests" Endangered.

Secretary Kellogg, when asked whether the activities of the United States to build a canal in Nicaragua was now considered to be threatened by the rise of any political faction to power in that country, replied that the interests of the American government there are endangered "by any revolution or anarchy."

Questioned further, as to whether this canal right is held to justify the occupation of ports distant from the proposed route of the canal, he declined to answer.

Significence is seen in his making public the name of the Bragman's Bluff Lumber Co. as one of the firms in Nicaragua that asked for military protection in the Constitutionalist area. Hitherto the department has refused to divulge names of firms that asked for armed intervention, since it feared they might suffer after the marines were withdrewn. The change in policy seems to point to a cabinet decision to maintain forces in Nicaragua for a long period, regardless of the hostility of the great majority of the Nicaraguan nation.

Foreign observers in Washington stated, after these new steps in aggression in Nicaragua had been outlined, that only the presidential ambition of Coolidge for 1928 stands between the United States and a war against Central America and Mexico. These observers hold that the adventure in Nicaragua, patterned after the conquest of Haiti, is only a skirmish on the way to coercion of Mexico in behalf of the oil men.

SHOP CHAIRMEN OF N. Y. UNION ENDORSE HYMAN

Cloakmakers Vote for Joint Board

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Demanding the rescinding of Sigman's expulsion orders and a referendum to the workers to decide the issues in the dispute in the garment industry, over 900 shop chairmen from the cloak shops met in Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East Fourth street, Monday evening. They were called together by an impartial committee of 50 chairmen to hear both sides present their case, but Morris Sigman, president of the international, failed to appear and refused to come even when waited upon by a committee sent from the meeting.

Demand Retraction.

The resolutions, drafted by the executive committee of 50, were discussed from the floor by various shop chairmen, and were unanimously adopted. They called upon Sigman to rescind his expulsion order, and to allow the regular elections to the joint board to be held, since they are now overdue. In case Sigman should not comply with this demand, the shop chairmen voted to place elections in charge of the executive committee of 50 and a similar committee of 25 shop chairmen from the dressmakers. These two committees, elected at mass meetings of shop chairmen, were instructed to invite the American Civil Liberties Union or some other impartial body to supervise the elections.

All Members.

The executive committee in charge of the meeting allowed only shop chairmen on the floor of the hall, each man showing his card at the door. Officers of locals and other members were seated in the balcony, and several hundred cloakmakers who could not be admitted for lack of room had to be turned away by the police.

The meeting was opened by Isadore Brauner, as chairman of the executive committee, and a temporary chairmen elected, Sam Bizoff, who presided. Louis Hymen and Joseph Rouchowitz and other leaders on the issues urged a referendum to the workers as the only means of settling the dispute.

New Agreement.

A letter to the Association of Dress Manufacturers, Inc., was sent on Monday by the joint board of cloak and dressmakers, asking for a statement by noon Wednesday, Jan. 5, as to whether or not the manufacturers intend to renew their agreement with the union.

The agreement which expired Jan. 1 was to have been renewed, according to decisions, with minor adjustments. These decisions were made by the executive committee upon recommendation of Chas. Zimorman, manager of the dress division, and ratified by the membership. The employers agreed some weeks ago to meet representatives of the joint board in conference on the new agreement. Then came the expulsion of dress local 22 by Morris Sigman on the false charges that a strike of the dressmakers had been planned and the conference was not held.

GERMAN CONTROL THREATENS LOSS OF MANY GAINS

Dressmakers of N. Y. Fear for Future

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The possibility of losing important rights now secured to the dressmakers if a new agreement with the employers is negotiated by the international instead of by the proper authorities, the New York Joint Board, has arisen in the dress industry.

Since Morris Sigman seized "control" of the Joint Board end of Local 22 on the excuse that he wished to "avert a disastrous strike" the employers have become emboldened to demand the rescinding of several hard-won gains; anch as the abolishment of the guaranteed minimum wage scale secured in the last agreement, the increase of the trial period from one week to two weeks, and reorganization.

Would be Bad Slow.

The loss of the guaranteed minimum wage scale would be a serious blow to the dressmakers, who fought long to place this responsibility upon the employers. The announcement of Sigman, intimating that the dressmakers could not go on strike whatever the agreement, has allowed the employers to feel that encroachments on the workers' rights would not be fought. In their replies to the request of the Joint Board for conference on renewing the agreement several weeks ago, they did not dare suggest such changes.

Support Joint Board.

At a membership meeting of Local 22 held in Webster Hall with an overflowing meeting in Manhattan Lyceum on Tuesday evening, the dressmakers authorized the Joint Board to take any necessary steps to protect the rights of the workers to secure an agreement. The possibility of a "secondary understanding", by which Sigman would ask for renewal of the old agreement with the understanding with the employers that the disputed clauses would not be enforced, was discussed by leaders. The Joint Board was given authority by the members to deal with such a situation.

Ask Sigman Resign.

Resolutions passed in both halls called for general elections, for the "union-splitter" Sigman's resignation as president of the I. L. G. W. U., for an immediate referendum on proportional representation to conventions, and protested the action of Sigman in expelling Joint Board and local officials.

In desperate attempts to gain the support of the workers, Sigman has resorted to strong-arm and frame up methods. Such general condemnation was excited by the brutal attack from gangsters upon Joseph DiMola, shop chairman of the Monroe Dress Shop, last week, that a frame-up designed to make it appear that the Joint Board is sending gangsters to the shops, was attempted on Tuesday.

Frame-Up.

Isidore Moskowitz, organizer, for the Joint Board, was arrested and held on $1000 bail on charges of assault after a fake "committee" of twenty-five strong-arm men had gone to the Sperber & Kreitman Dress shop at 104 W. 39 St. and demanded that the workers attend a "Joint Board meeting".

The committee is not known to the Joint Board and was not sent out by it. The shop is known as sympathetic to the International, and the intention evidently was to raise a cry in the press that the Joint Board was sending gangsters to terrorise workers into attending its meetings. According to workers in the shop, the committee created a disturbance, and when police asked who had sent them, answered "Moskowitz". Accordingly, Moskowitz was arrested later in the day on charges of having led the committee to the shop. Moskowitz will bring witnesses to prove that he was eating breakfast in a restaurant at the time of the disturbance, and had nothing to do with the actions of the "committee".

Try to Shift Guilt.

"This frame-up is intended to create the impression that the Joint Board is using force and strong arm methods to win the support of the workers," declared Louis Hyman, manager of the Joint Board. The international hopes to cover up its own gangsterism and terrorism thru such a frame-up. The Joint Board has never used force against the workers and never will, and even at the time it demanded only a referendum to the workers to decided the issues. The International, on the other hand, not only refuses to submit the issues to an election but resorts to gangsterism."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—With party lines smashed and republican leaders at odds with President Coolidge, the house today prepared to stage the last act of its present melodramatic scenes over demands for a bigger American navy.

An appropriation for preliminary work on three battle cruisers, a $7,000,000 boost in the air corps allowance and $400,000 to start construction of a giant dirigible comprised the program of the "big navy" forces.

The air service squabble was scheduled to begin immediately after the house convened this afternoon, with the cruiser fight postponed until the last item in the $314,000,000 naval supply bill is reached.

Report Favorably On $10,000,000 Bill for Eradicating Corn Pest

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—For the purpose of combatting the menace of the European corn-borer to the corn-growing regions of Iowa and Illinois, the house agricultural committee has reported favorably the Purnell corn-borer eradication bill, which provides $10,000,000 to be used to exterminate the pest.

It was testified at the committee hearing that the borer is now destroying corn in a dozen states, and is spreading at the rate of 150 miles per season.

States will be required to pass regulatory and co-operative laws before they can benefit from the proposed appropriation.

SENATORS STAGE FILIBUSTER ON MATERNITY BILL

Sacrilege to Help Mothers, Says Reed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A well-organized filibuster was held as a climb over the Sheppard-Towsend maternity bill as its opponents sought to secure its enactment by the senate.

Led by Senator James A. Reed, democrat, of Missouri, foes of the bill organized into a bloc for the purpose of bringing the senate's legislative machine to a standstill until the measure is shelved. A similar filibuster blocked the bill's enactment five years ago. Reed was aided in plotting the filibuster by Phipps of Colorado and Bingham of Connecticut, republicans.

Would Create Welfare Bureau.

The measure would create a children's welfare bureau "for the protection of maternity and infancy." It has received the endorsement of numerous women's organizations.

Gurley Flynn Talks in Minneapolis and St. Paul Next Week

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 6.—All the friends and admirers of Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, national chairman of the International Labor Defense in the Twin Cities, look forward with pleasure to hearing her lecture in Minneapolis at the Unitarian Church, 4 St. and LaSalle Ave., Tuesday, Jan. 11, at 7:30 p. m. and in St. Paul at the Labor Temple, 416 North Franklin St., Thursday, Jan. 13.

Since girlhood, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn has devoted her time and energy to the labor movement and her work is an inspiration to every working man and woman.

Flynn has the reputation of being the most brilliant woman orator on the american labor platform and we expect a large attendence of women at her meetings. She will undoubtedly devote a good part of her lecture to the need, the aims and the work of the International Labor Defense.

Every one is welcome and is urged to attend. The admission charge is reasonable, tickets selling in advance at 30c and at the door at 25c. The local organizations of the International Labor Defense are arranging Flynn's meetings.

Senate Probe of Press Influence Lays Basis for Ousting Kellogg

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—A sweeping investigation of charges that the senate department influenced the Associated Press to carry an inspired story regarding alleged "Bolshevist activities" in Mexico was demanded on the floor of the senate this afternoon by Senator Wheeler, democrat, of Montana.

Wheeler urged that the senate foreign relations committee conduct the inquiry and summon Secretary of State Kellogg, along with officials of the Associated Press, International News Service and United Press to learn the truth of the charges.

Kellogg Faces Ouster.

If the charges are proved over Kellogg's recent denial, made in response to a house resolution of inquiry, Wheeler declared, the secretary of state should be dismissed.

Wheeler first read a story published by Paul Y. Anderson, a Washington correspondent for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, charging the state department with having inspired the Associated Press story on "Mexican Bolshevism." The story set forth that representatives of the three leading press services were called to the state department by Assistant Secretary an article based on Olds' statement of importance."

Olds then told the newspaper men that the department desired publicity on the alleged action of Mexico in "spreading a stream of Bolshevism thru Central America," the story continued. Two of the press associations declined to carry the story without the state department assuming official responsibility, Anderson added, but subsequently the Associated Press did carry an article based on Olds' statements.

Wheeler Hits State Department.

"If this is correct," said Wheeler, "it is needless to say it is reprehensible on the part of the state department to give out a story which it refuses to sign its name to. It is reprehensible to ask any newspaper to circulate false propaganda or propaganda against any country with which we are on friendly terms."

Wheeler then read Kellogg's single sentence denial of the charges as contained in a message to the house.

Wheeler then read Anderson's reply to Kellogg's denial. The senator referred to Anderson as a "newspaper man well known to senators, who believe in his integrity."

Questions Kellogg's Veracity.

In his reply Anderson said: "Every correspondent knew this story was inspired and I sought to learn who had inspired it." His information, Anderson said, was received "from a gentleman whose word I would accept any time as against that of Secretary Kellogg," and showed the Associated Press story had been inspired by the state department.

Wheeler then read a series of editorials from newspapers, attacking the state department and demanding Kellogg's resignation.

"I hope the foreign relations committee," said Wheeler, in conclusion, "will take notice of these charges made by the leading newspapers of the country. It ought to call Secretary Kellogg before it, along with representatives of the Associated Press, International News Service and United Press and get their versions of this story. If it is true that the secretary of state is giving out loose propaganda and loose statements and circulating them to the length and breadth of the country to stir up the people to the point where they will break off friendly relations with a neighboring country, Mr. Kellogg ought not to remain as secretary of state."

Directly after the war Germen and English industries were so completely flattened out and their finances in such a state of disorganization that a tremendous volume of Russian trade went to America by default.

Recovering Trade They Lost.

Now the Germans and English are getting back into the running. The Germans, who had a monopoly on 50 per cent of the Russian trade in prewar days, are rapidly recovering their former preeminence.

In the recent selection of George Piatakov as Russian commercial representative in New York and of Peter A. Smith, to occupy a similar post in behalf of American trade interests in Moscow, Director Skvirsky's information bureau here sees two big moves.

Piatakov has been one of the most successful business administrators under the Soviet government. He will be wholly without diplomatic standing in the United States but is expected to assume direction of all Russian enterprises of a commercial character on this side of the Atlantic. His passport is said to have been approved and it is understood he will sail from Europe late in January.

Old Trade Organization Rehabilitated.

Smith already is on his way to assume charge of a trade information bureau at the Soviet capital in behalf of the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce, a pre-war organization which, demolished by the world conflict and the czarist overthrow, now is being rehabilitated. He has had wide experience in Russia and speaks the language fluently.

The Russian demand for cotton is cited by Director Skvirsky's Washington bureau in illustration of one of the opportunities which the Russian market offers for an important American product. As compared with present purchases of about 250,000 bales annually, Soviet spinners, it is stated, would gladly take 1,000,000 bales, if the necessary long time credits could be arranged, a difficult matter, however, until diplomatic exchanges between Washington and Moscow are established.

Despite the present handicap, it is pointed out that last year's Russian sales by Ford factories exceeded the purchases of all other foreign markets.

Certain U. S. Products Lead All Competitors.

Mention is made of radio supplies, typewriters, sewing machines and certain classes of farm machinery as American manufacturers with which no European industry can compete successfully in the Soviet republic, regardless of geography and the war-spread between the old world and the new one.

Russia, too, is getting back on a basis where it has money to spend. Its production has exceeded its pre-war volume since last autumn. In the last twelvemonth its industrial gain has amounted to 40 per cent over the previous year.

Merging of Pension Funds of All City Employes Is Opposed

Chicago public school teachers and house of correction guards have registered protest with the city's pension commission against meeting their pension funds with those of other groups of city employes. Such merging has been advocated.

The Chicago Federation of Labor has also filed protest against the plan with the commission.

More Bank Failures in 1926 Than in 1925

NEW YORK—Bank failures, both in the number and in the amount of liabilities, show a sharp increase for 1926 over 1925. The number of failures of banks in 1926 was 606, as compared with 446 in the year prior, an increase of 30 per cent. The total liabilities were $212,074,999 as against $166,698,510 for 1925, a rise of 29 per cent.

Head of Parole Board Would Send Boy Back to Prison; Judge Raises Objection

Hinton G. Clabaugh, head of the state parole board, was termed a "gullibility seeker" today by Judge Philip L. Sullivan of the criminal court in sending back for reassignment to another judge the case of Hyman Bernstein, Joliet convict, against whom old charges were reinstated on demand of Clabaugh.

Bernstein, paroled after 84 months of a 72 months' sentance, was sent back to serve out the balance of his term when picked up on new burglary charges, which were nolle pressed.

"The boy gave me his word of honor that he would not fail if given another chance to support his aging, blind mother," said Judge Sullivan. "I believe I acted at that time wisely and mercifully."

'THRILL' KILLER DENIES ATTACK ON TAXI DRIVER

New Leopold-Loeb Trial Nears End

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 6.—Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., serving a life sentence for slaying Bobby Franks, denied he knew anything about the mutilation of Charles Ream, taxicab driver, on the witness stand.

The at times grim solemnity which characterised the sensational trial of Leopold and Richard Loeb for the Franks murder was absent from the civil suit thru which Ream hoped to collect $100,000 apiece from the wealthy "thrill slayers."

was in accepting contributions from Samuel Insull, while Smith was chairman of the Illinois public utilities.

Deneen to Fight.

Senator Deneen of Illinois will fight the precedent established by the strategy in referring Blain's credentials to the elections committee, he announced. Deneen contends that the reason Blaine was not given the oath first, is because he was absent from the senate, and for that reason his credentials referred. He says that had Blaine been in the senate hall, the oath would have been administered.

Has "Doubtful Honor."

Smith will be the first person in the country to be barred from the senate, after being elected, because he is "morally unqualified," the expected verdict. Others have been barred on specific charges, such as bribery and polygamy, but none for moral character.

The opposition will attempt to fight the exclusion on the grounds of state rights and will cite debates of the framers of the constitution to support their stand.

Halts State Resolution.

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 6.—Plans to present a resolution to the Illinois state legislature to memorialize congress to accept Frank L. Smith's credentials as senator were stopped at the instance of Smith. Republicans were preparing to introduce such a resolution when a Smith lieutenant called a halt, declaring the senator elect did not wish it.

Such a resolution would endanger his chances to be seated, it is explained, as it would be certain to provoke "embarrassing" debate.

BOX MAKERS ARE STRONG, ENTERING FOURTEENTH WEEK

Bosses Plead With Them to Come Back

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The beginning of the fourteenth week of their strike saw the paper box workers with the biggest morning picket line since the strike and with additional strikers as a result of the coming out of some of the strikebreakers. Since the slow season started the bosses, who had been making such wonderful promises to the scabs, did not hesitate to fire many.

Beg Workers to Return.

In spite of this being the time of year when there is usually no work, the employers spent the New Year week-end in sending letters and telegrams to their former employes to come back to work, and in visiting their homes in their high-powered cars pleading with them to return. But the union expected this and sent telegrams to all the workers to meet at the union headquarters early Monday morning, which they did, and went from there in mass formation to the picket line.

Busy Season Opens.

The reason the bosses are rushing to get their workers now is that they need to know whether they will have workers for the new season, since the loss of one season is all they can possibly afford.

The fight the last season was so costly, and resulted in losing all their customers to the open shops, who were supposed to be their friends. Since the failure of the runes of the employers over the week-end the union is expecting a settlement before the season starts in the middle of January.

Burke Promises Victory.

John P. Burke of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers spoke at the crowded mass meeting in the Church of All Nations. He said: "I am going to stay in the city to organize the machinery to go out and get money enough to carry the strike to victory. The bosses realize by now that you are unconquerable and that it simply means increased losses to delay signing with the union."

Get After Fake Job Agencies

DETROIT.—(FP)— The Michigan commission on labor and industry is investigating complaints that unemployed workers have been defrauded by the Acme Employment agency, the Nati. Employment agency, and the General Employment agency. Two other agencies have been forced out of business by the commission. A recommendation that the licenses of other questionable or fraudulent agencies be revoked will be made at the commission's next meeting. Workers coming to Detroit for jobs should be careful about paying fees in advance.

Labor's Radio Must Not Be Used by Labor's Enemies

By ARNE SWABECK.

HOW condemnation of the aims of organized labor emanating from the "sacred" pulpit found their way over WCFL was related in the last Chicago Federation of Labor meeting. Many delegates voiced their opposition to such practice. It immediately became the concern of all, even those not blessed with the fortune of owning a receiving set.

While during the discussion catholic and protestant, believers in their respective faith, hurried to the defense of the church, others began to perceive the danger of peddling church propaganda over the labor radio.

DELEGATE Lichtenstein from Painters Local 275 started this discussion by making certain veiled insinuations about the radical elements of his local having attempted to recall the local assessment for the labor radio. This report sounded rather strange since it is a well-known fact that progressive workers and radical workers fully appreciate the importance of labor radio, and progressive workers who understand the conflict between labor and capital also fully support the building up of the labor radio, that they also want to guard against the labor radio being misused for capitalist propaganda is but natural.

THIS was precisely the case subsequently brought out by Delegate Arnold from the same local. He reported that the local membership had objected to having church services broadcasted and more so, to the fact that a reverend, clad in the holy robe, had delivered his message opposing the forty-hour working week. This will easily be recognized as a justifiable objection and precisely the thing that labor must guard against.

ED NOCKELS admitted that this was true, that such messages had been delivered. He also endeavored to assure the delegates that it would be investigated and such statements guarded against. Other delegates, who usually display their conservative outlook, seemed to think this was perfectly in accord with the rules of free speech. This, of course, is nonsense.

The WCFL has been erected as a labor radio for the expressed purpose of bringing labor's message to the workers and not to peddle capitalist propaganda. Free speech can not be interpreted to mean to turn the facilities of labor over to its enemies. Propaganda against labor can be heard every day over the dozen or so broadcasting stations owned by the capitalist class. The labor radio should be used primarily to combat the propaganda of labor's enemies.

This little experience, however, brings home an additional lesson and precisely the one often emphasized by the elements Delegate Lichtenstein complained about. Namely, that the present day society is a class society in which there is a class struggle. All the forces not part of labor, including the church, are being utilized by the capitalist class against labor. The pulpit has become one of the effective instruments of propaganda against labor and to give it use of WCFL broadcasting station means to take a chance of negating the real purpose of this station.

While all organized labor should support labor's broadcasting station, it is also their duty to prevent its being used for capitalist propaganda.

Free speech over the WCFL can only mean free speech for labor which is now kept from having its voice heard over any of the other existing broadcasting stations.

Porters' Union in Case Against Bosses

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Reamption of the railroad mediation board's hearings of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters' case comes in mid-January, Edwin P. Morrow of the mediation board and his assistant board representatives of the Porters' Union in Chicago in December. A thousand affidavits were presented by the union to show the coercion and intimidation practiced on the portors and maids to compel them to vote for the Pullman company union plan.

Claims of the Pullman Co. to tha rail board that 85% of its workers voted for the employe representation plan were disputed by the Porters' Union. The brotherhood contended that the new rail legislation provides for recognition of self-organizations of workers, not company unions. The union answered the company statement that its employe plan had made agreements for five to six years by saying that that action did not prove its legality or the validity of the agreements.

Demands of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters besides that for recognition are for a higher minimum wage scale than the present $75 to $90 a month, shorter hours, pay for preparatory time, etc.

Another Union Takes the Air on the Radio

READING, Pa., Jan. 6. — (FP) — Something new in trade union tactics is being tried by the American Federation of Full-Fashioned Hosiery Workers to "sell" itself to the public, the union announces. A series of radio broadcast programs is to be given from Station WRAW, Reading, Pa., which can operate on a length of 238 meters. Choice musical solections will be presented with short speeches on modern trade unionism.

James H. Maher, president Pennsylvania federation of labor, and William Smith, secretary-treas. Hosiery Workers' Federation, are featured on the first program, Jan. 6 between six and seven thirty in the evening. Six successive Thrusdays of January and February will find the union broadcasting at the same hour. The union is making this its feature publicity event in connection with the organization campaign under way in the Reading district. The broadcast station radius of over 100 miles includes what is range New York, Philadelphia, tha Wilkes-Barre and Scranton anthracite region, Washington, D. C. and Baltimore.

The union believes that the entertainment value of the program will attract attention of many hundreds of people who have never before heard an adequate presentation of the case or labor organizations.

POLICE ADD TO HARDSHIPS OF TAXI DRIVERS

Parking Rules Resented by Cabmen

By SYLVAN A. POLLACK.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—With the introduction of new traffic laws on January 1 the hardships that the 47,000 taxi drivers in this city have to contend with have become more difficult.

According to the new regulations of the police department, parking is prohibited on Fifth avenue below 59th street from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m. During the recent Interborough Rapid Transit company strike emergency regulations prohibited parking from 4 p. m. to 7 p. m. But due to objections by the Fifth Avenue Association, which is composed of the merchants on that thoroughare, who complained that it interfered with their business, the change was made, resulting in the "no parking" rule beginning one hour later every day.

Will Not Relieve Congestion.

The new regulations will not relieve the traffic congestion, as the heavy traffic starts about 2 p. m. Pierce-Arrows, Packards, Roll-Royces and other expensive cars are parked along Fifth avenue, while their owners are shopping or at their clubs, making the task of the taxi drivers one which is a strain on their nervous system.

Another difficulty that they must face is the Fifth avenue busses. According to regulations, not more than two are supposed to be on a block at the same time. Yet as many as 10 or 12 are often to be seen on one street.

Always Wrong.

Whenever a difficulty arises the taxi drivers are wrong, all attempts being meda to satisfy the Merchants' Association and the Fifth Avenue Bus company at the expense of the taxi drivers.

The above numerated regulations are carried over as part of the policy of former Police Commisioner Richard E. Enright, who served under former Mayor John F. Hylan.

When the present mayor, James J. Walker, was a candidate, he carried on an extensive campaign among the taxi drivers, promising them "justice" if he was elected. He went as far as to publish a special newspaper for distribution among them, called, "The Square Deal."

Worse Than "Red Mike."

"As bad as Red Mike was (referring to Hylan), our Jimmie is worse," stated one taxi driver to The DAILY WORKER.

"That's what we get for voting for our Jimmie," said another disillusioned worker.

FRESNO, Cal.—(FP)— The strike of carpenters on the Fresno schools, caused by the employment of 2 nonunion men, has been called off after a week, the men returning with a full union crew. This was Fresno's first labor trouble for many years.

DENVER—(FP)—The 5-day week goes in effect for union painters Feb. 1 through negotiation by Local 79 with the employers. The hourly rate of $1.25 remains unchanged.

PSYCHOLOGY OF SMALL TOWN IS BEHIND VERDICT

Melrose Park Enjoys Roman Holiday

The second session of the coroner's inquest at Melrose Park into the deaths of Policeman Lyman J. Stahl and Jose Sanchez, a Mexican, was a travesty on justice.

So far as the evidence submitted was concerned, the jury might as well have returned a verdict of mutual suicide. While everyone agrees that Stahl probably shot Sanchez, there was no eye witnesses and no evidence was produced to support such a verdict. Nor evidence as to who shot Stahl.

But the jury found, first, that Sanchez came to his death by a bullet wound at the hands of Stahl, and that it was "justifiable homicide." That was added by way of gratuity.

Then it found that Stahl came to his death by a bullet wound at the hands of Agustin Morales, the young Mexican who was arrested at Oak Park soon after the shooting. Morales was then bound over to the grand jury and is back in Cook County jail.

Morales Testifies.

Morales himself took the stand. He is a husky, broad-shouldered, young workingman, dressed with more than usual neatness and in working clothes of the best quality. He has a swarthy, honest face, and a very gentle manner.

The Mexican vice-consaul, Amador, acted as Morales' interpreter, and Mary Belle Spencer was his attorney. He told a simple, straight-forward story, with no hesitation in answering every question.

He came home, where he lived with the Sanchez boys, tired from work, on the evening of Dec. 6th and went to bed. Jose Sanchez came home very drunk, at about 10:30 Sanchez insisted on going out to the string of box cars. Morales could not dissuade him from the purpose, and went with him to protect him, fearing that in his drunken condition he would fall down and freeze, as the night was cold.

Arriving at the railroad yard, Morales knocked on the door of a car, where Jose's godfathar lived, hoping to wake the occupants and have them take Sanchez in and care for him. While so engaged, 70 feet away from Sanchez, he heard shots. Going back, he found Jese and another whem he did not identify in the dark, both lying dead. Only Sanchez lay a gun.

Now Morales testified that he himself carried no gun, that he did not know that Jose did, that he had never seen a gun around the Sanchez home. On the way to the yards, he had taken off Sanchez two pints of moonshine, to prevent his further drinking. He had not picked up the gun lying beside the bodies.

Then he went home and reported Jose's death to the elder brother. Getting their frightened way at the possibility of being implicated, he took a street car for Chicago, and was asleep in the car when he was arrested at Oak Park.

A Gun Mixture.

Then came an astonishing bit of evidence. Chief of Police Pein took the stand and testified that the gun they had found on Morales had been identified by its number as having belonged to Officer Stahl. That of course corroborated Morales' story that Sanchez had the gun up. And this was the only gun exhibited when the inquest first convened on Dec. 8th.

In order not to face the indicrous assumption that Morales shot Stahl with Stahl's own gun, the chief put in evidence at the adjourned inquest a second gun, which he now claims police picked up at the scene of the shooting and which he has been unable to trace to its ownership. The theory is suggested that after the shooting, Morales traded guns, leaving his own behind as incriminating evidence and taking his victim's gun with him to clinch the evidence against himself—a very careless performance for any criminal.

After failing to produce Officer Kolwitz, who was wounded at the time and who claimed to be able to identify Morales, on the ground that Kolwitz had had a chill on the day before, the hearing ended with no evidence to show who killed either man, but the jury had no trouble in satisfying the mob psychology that is ruling Melrose Park just now.

But the reasonable assumption, in view of the new evidence, is that neither of the two Mexicans was armed, that, shooting in the dark, Stahl wounded Kolwitz and that Kolwitz killed his fellow-officer, Stahl.

The Climax.

As soon as the inquest was ended, the young widow of Officer Stahl made a furious rush at Mrs. Spencer, Morales' attorney, screaming and shrieking. She was grabbed by friends and went into hysterics. At the same time, a big brute of a man brushed by a representative of The DAILY WORKER and attempted to kick Morales. He was seized and quieted. As Mrs. Spencer left the building, a man shouted at her: "Don't you ever dare to come into this town again."

The inquest ended in a disgraceful exhibition of small town mob psychology.

New York Labor to Welcome the Daily Worker at Lenin Memorial

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK — Extensive preparations are being made to welcome the DAILY WORKER to New York at the Lenin Memorial Meeting, which will be held this year at Madisen Square Garden, 50th Street and 8th Aveaue, on Saturday evening, January 22nd, at 8 p. m.

The progressive workers of this city expect to make this meating a tremendous demonstration in support of the only English labor daily in the United States. The recent labor struggles in New York has convinced them that New York must have its own working class nawspaper, to carry on the fight for militant struggle against the employers, against injunctions etc. Especially at this time, when the enemies of the working class are concentrating their forces in an attack against all progressivism in the labor movement, the workers of New York must have their own daily organ to answer the vicious attacks of the capitalist press and expose its anti-labor character.

It is especially fitting that the Lenin Memorial Meeting, when the death of the great leader of the working class is commemorated, should also be made an occasion to greet the coming of The DAILY WORKER to New York. Nicolai Lenin, more than any other working class leader, understood the importance of working class newspapers. He called them "collective agitators, collective propagandists, and collective organizers," and considered the establishment of daily organs as the first task of revolutionists.

An excellent musical program has been arranged for the meeting. Artists of wide renown will perform, including Nicolai Mishkoff, concert master of the New York Symphony; Ivan Velikanoff, chief tenor of the Moscow Art Theater Musical Studio, remembered in New York for his splendid performance as "Jose" in the Studio's production of "Carmenclta and the Soldier"; the Russian master singers, vocal quartet; the Freiheit Gesangs Ferein, a chorus of 300 voices.

Tickets are 50c., 75c., and $1.00. They may be obtained in advance at the office of the Freiheit, 30 Union Square, Workers Party Headquarters 108 East 14th Street, Jimmie Higgins Book Shop, 137 University Place, and at all party papers.

We will send sample copies of The DAILY WORKER to your friends—

Weinstone Lectures on History of Party and the International

NEW YORK—Two short courses of special importance to members of the Workers Party are being offered by the Workers' School, with William W. Weinstone as the instructer. One of them deals with the history of the Workers (Communist) Party and the other with the Third (Communist) International. These courses run for six sessions only and are therefore half of the length of the usual Workers' School courses. They will run on Wednesday nights, one at 8 and one at 9:15, as that both can be taken together.

The course in party history begins with a study of the development of the left wing in the socialist party and covers the split in the socialist party, the foundation of the various Communist parties, the Workers' Party, and the various issues taken up in the inner fights of the Communist movement which have led to the present stage of political unity on the program of the Workers Party.

This course is of great importance to those who wish to take an active part in the party work but are not fully conversant with its history.

The course in the development of the Communist International is a new supplement for the party history course and provides a study not only of the history of the international, but of the concrete application of each of its important decisions and experiences to the problems of the American party.

Registration is open for a period of two weeks, after which no more applicants will be admitted. The fee for these courses is $1.50 each, with a combination rate of $2.50 for the two classes. Registration any afternoon or evening at the headquarters of the Workers' School, 108 E. 14th St., Room 35.

Youth Drive to Start With Gala Affair

Section No. 4 of the Young Workers League is going to officially open its drive for new members by the holding of a huge entertainment and dance on Saturday, Jan. 8th, at the Freiheit Hall, 3209 W. Roosevelt Rd., music starting at 8:00 p. m. sharp.

WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT

THE CHALLENGE OF YOUTH

Upton Sinclair:

"Interesting. . . it is full of facts young workers ought to know."

Freeman Hopwood, Secretary, American Association for Advancement of Atheism.

"The Challenge of Youth is a gem. It is one of the best things for propaganda that I have ever seen. I handed it to a Catholic youth and he finished it during the afternoon at work. Another took it with him to the six-day bicycle race and read it all there. The simple style is effective. I hope it is sold by the thousands."

John Kasper, Prize Winning Communist Literature Agent.

"I want to congratulate Comrade Darcy for putting out a real pamphlet, The Challenge of Youth. It is a book that a League member could go out and sell with pride. This book is real, the best book the League ever put out. That is the way to write afor the young worker. Keep it up."

By JOE PLOTKIN,
(Worker Correspondent)

GARY, Ind., Jan. 6.—First, the Gary bankers gave the local police department a Christmas present of a $10,000 automobile, bullet-proof, and containing tear bombs and riot guns.

A few days later the police force was increased by 17 new officers. Now the news comes that the Lake county sheriff has purchased 24 large, and very powerful riot guns.

Wonder Why?

What is the reason for all this preparation? The Gary workers are wondering. At the time that all these preparations are being taken care of more and more workers are being laid off of their jobs at the United States Steel Co. and subsidiaries. More workers are lining up at the employment offices every morning, but none are getting jobs.

In all probability the authorities of "law and order," are getting ready for industrial outbreaks, which are bound to come if present conditions continue.

GARY RESTAURANT LABOR CONDUCTS UNION CAMPAIGN

Organization of Eating Houses Progresses

By a Worker Correspondent.

GARY, Ind., Jan. 6.—Organization of restaurant workers is progressing here.

The following places have signed the union agreement and are therefore declared fair to organized labor by Local No. 341 of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes' International Alliance and Bartenders' International League of America:

Boston Restaurant, 812 Broadway; Maison Chop House, 26 Eighth avenue; Ryan's Restaurant, 706 Washington street; Marchants' Restaurant, 17 West Seventh avenue; Gerlitz's Restaurant, 542 Washington street; Dunphy's Restaurant, 562 Washington street; Boulevard Restaurant, 135 West Sixth avenue; Union Lunch, Labor Temple; Baltimore Lunch, Baltimore Hotel.

The campaign is on for the unionization of other restaurants. The only demands of the union at present are: (1) Recognition of the union; (2) that each member of the union, Local No. 341, shall receive one day of rest in seven at the same weekly wages now being paid.

Conditions Appalling.

The conditions of work in some of the places are appalling. The worst example is perhaps the case of a girl in Solomon's Restaurant. The girl is working seven days a week, split watch, for the sum of $6.25 a week.

Such conditions must not be permitted to exist. They are caused by lack of organization among the workers.

THE PRIZES FOR NEXT WEEK

Two books dealing with Lenin, whose memory will be honored by all workers soon, will be given next week as prizes for the best contributions from worker correspondents. And another prize book, that deals with economic conditions in Russia, which is also especially fitting at this time, will be given.

The prizes are:

FIRST—"Industrial Revival of Soviet Russia," by A. A. Heller.

SECOND—"Imperialism—Final Stage of Capitalism," by Lenin.

THIRD—"Lenin—His Life and Work," by Yaroslavsky.

More worker correspondents are wantad, workers! Join the ranks of the American worker correspondents this week by sending in a story today on conditions and incidents affecting the workar se you see them in your community or trade.

WORKERS AT PUGET SOUND SHIP YARD FORCED TO PRETEND THEY WORK; U. S. MAINTAINS PLANT BUT DOES NOTHING

By JOHN CROCKER.
(Worker Correspondent)

BREMERTON, Wash., Jan. 4.—One of the best places in the country to work is for our own "Uncle Shylock," in the Puget Sound navy yard, at Bremerton, Washington.

The difficult part of the thing is to get a job there, for there is seldom anf work to keep the man busy, and a man has to fill out a questionnaire, take a physical examination and go thru a line of red tape that would tax the dasterity of a Philadelphia lawyer, but once a fellow does get a job there, and he works up to the top, he has something better than an old-age pension, for there hasn't been a good day's work done in the place for the last 40 years.

Pretend Work.

Once a fellow gets a job there the only thing he has to do is to keep on the lookout for the "Gold Stripes," and make a noise like he is doing something when one of them comes around. Even if you aren't producing anything, you are supposed to be doing thrunch the motions which would make the passerby think that you were working.

Hard Work!

One man worked three years, digging a ditch which was 20 feet long, three feet deep, and two feet wide. Another instance of creative work, manshly occurred when it took two men three weeks to put a three-quarter inch brace screw into a piece of hard wood.

Keep Away from Boss.

The first thing a worker learns in the place is to keep as far from the boss as ha can. One day an Irishman got a job in the place. The boss ordared him to move a pile of brick about 20 feet, from one pile over to another. The Irishman finished the job just before noon, looked up the boss, and told him that the job was finished. The boss ordered him to move the bricks back again to the original pile.

Cranes for Children's Work.

Large cranes, mounted on cars, are moved several hundred yards, and put in operation to pick up things that a child could carry in one hand.

The Officers Live High.

The officers, with their social aspirations, live in large, white, spacious houses atop a hill, overlooking a golf course, and whose elevation in the material realm of nature, no doubt, provides them with a high-brow altitude in the social, moral, and mental, as well.

Get Repair Work Sometimes.

The monotony of the thing is broken at times by the salvo from an incoming battleship, that comes in for repairs, and provides something for the workers to tinker around on.

Much Money Appropriated.

The money to carry on this work is appropriated annually by the government, and the press, pulpit, bankers, business men of the town, and other parasites, in their spare moments, are provided entertainment by harangueing directed at their local political representatives at the capital for more and larger appropriations.

This round of ape-like goings-on is taking place every year, with no appreciative change, making parasites and schemers out of workers, and dupes and cheats out of government functionaries, grafters out of business men.

Denver, Colo., Cigar Makers' Strike Now in Its 16th Week

By a Worker Correspondent.

DENVER, Colo.—On Sept 11, hundred and fifty cigarmakers employed at the Cubon Cigar company, makers of M. & O. and Dry Climate brand cigars, struck for higher wages. The reason for asking for an increase was that the cigarmakers' wages were so low that it became impossible for men to live on the amount earned. The increase asked was less than a third of a cent on a cigar.

The men pointed out in their demands that the two mentioned brands of cigars have been popularized to a great extent by the union people of Denver, making the sales so great and profits accruing to the company accordingly, that the company could well afford to pay the increase demanded, but the owners are so arrogant and flushed with the newly acquired riches wrung out of their exploited workers that they would not listen to the demands of the workers and have moved their factory to Webb City, Missouri, where they employ non-union workers and where they have the cigars machine-made.

The cigarmakers have been suffering from the 14-weeks' strike but are holding out good and have resorted to tactics which look like a final victory for them.

The union has been able to have retail stores quit handling the brands made by the above named company and by urging a boycott on the cigars they have cut the sales down considerably. Most of the smaller union shops have increased their business as a result of agitation for union-made cigars. One union company has arranged to employ quite a number of the strikers.

The strikers held a benefit dance some time ago which netted the strike fund several hundred dollars.

For the past three years the cigarmakers have had to contend with the La Paz Cigar company, which has been running as a non-union shop, but by persistent boycotting of the products of this firm they have forced this firm to change their minds and way of doing business. The union has entered into a contract with this company and after the first of January the La Paz cigars will be made under union conditions. Quite a number of the strikers will find employment in this shop.

While the international union is paying strike benefits, yet the union is receiving many donations from various parts of the country thru appeals they have made for help.

Many of the strikers have been fairly conservative while they enjoyed steady work, but since the strike has taken place a lot of them have been awakened to the fact that they are being exploited under capitalism so that they only receive an existence wage, while their employers live in luxury from the wealth created by their wage slaves.

The strikers are even reading radical literature, many copies of The DAILY WORKER having been sold around strike headquarters.

Harvard Law Teacher Shows Congress Has Power to Demand Testifying in Inquiries; Supreme Court Delays Daugherty Decision

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—(FP)—Supreme court justices have a habit of drawing from leading law colleges the private secretaries who aid them in the study of difficult cases. Because the salary of a secretary for this research job is small, they generally stay only a year or two. Then, with the experience and prestige of having worked with a justice of the highest court, these young lawyers move on to the practice of their profession or to teaching in colleges of law.

No Decision on Daugherty.

Justice Brandeis' secretary of last year was James M. Landis, now an instructor in Harvard law school. During last year the federal supreme court tried in vain to reach a decision on the Mal Daugharty case—the refusal of Harry Daugharty's brother to deliver to the Brookhart-Wheeler investigating committee of the senate his bank records which would show what deposits were made to tempts made by the executive power, since the beginning of the American government, to limit the power of congress to make investigations affecting federal officials and federal administration. From 1818 to 1926, the senate made 56 important investigations in this field. Hundreds of secondary inquiries were undertaken. With only one exception, legal tests of the power of congress have upheld its authority.

Delay Two Years.

Yet the court has for more than two years—since the decision end appeal of District Judge Cochran at Cincinnati on May 31, 1924—failed to render a decision on the right of the senate committee to compel Mal Daugherty, banker, to show the books which record the wealth gained when in public office by Harry Daugherty. Judge Cochran held that the senate had no such right. His decision, since the Supreme Court has let it stand for this unprecedented length of time, has been made the basis of refusals by coal dealers in the District of Columbia to show their books to a senate investigating committee. It is the excuse for Harry Sinclair's immunity against punishment for contempt of the senate when he refused to answer questions concerning his Teapot Dome oil lease. It was Sam Insull's pretext for refusing to answer questions of the Reed committee as to his political expenditures.

Landis says the long line of precedents shows that congress has always realized the importance of inquiry "are necessary in order to make government effectively responsible to the people." Whether his statement reflects the views of his former chief will only be disclosed when the members of the court finally vote to report their opinions, majority and minority. The decision in the lower court in the case, as Landis points out, "elevates executive power beyond the reach of responsibility."

BOSSES PRATE OF SAFETY, BUT TALK IS ALL THEY DO

Workers Are Not Fooled By Smooth Phrases

By a Worker Correspondent.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Jan. 6.—The December issue of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Bulletin, a monthly publication aiming to expatiate the community of interest of masters and slaves, carries an article on safety by J. A. Campbell, president.

Mr. Campbell's article is, in part, as follows: "And it is a fact that nearly all accidents might be avoided. Statistics show that 90 per cent of all those occurring in our works are due to what is known as the personal equation—another name for carelessness and thoughtlessness on the part of workmen. We strive in every way possible to make work in our mills safe."

Grind Out Statistics.

Statistics, like steel, are turned out according to the law of supply and demand. They are made to suit the buyer and are sold to the highest bidder. So let us not be surprised at Mr. Campbell's discovery.

If the Sheet and Tube officials are striving for safety it is for the safety of themselves, their large salaries and their fat dividends. It certainly is not for the safety of the workers, their limbs or even their lives.

Conceals Truth.

Campbell's article all the way thru is a concerted effort to conceal the truth. Safety in mills where the most ruthless exploitation is practiced, is and can be nothing more than an empty phrase and a futile expression. Anyone who ever worked in a steel mill knows that more than 90 per cent of the accidents are caused by the speed-up system exclusively.

Production, Not Safety.

Production, not safety, is what counts in a steel mill, and it is woe be unto him who lets his mind get away from the production for he is quickly receives a passport to the time office and finds himself outside the gate before the whistle blows.

The issue of the Sheet and Tube Bulletin adopts cheers and the suggestion prizes awarded. A prize of $10 is given to a Mr. Fisher for his suggestion of a wearing plate for bolt shears, to eliminate numerous repairs. This helps the company to reduce the number of repair men and at the same time increases the amount of production. He could well afford to throw a crumb to Fisher.

To put the crowning touch on their 19 pates of trash, the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company wishes all a "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year." But just how we can be merry and happy while receiving almost empty envelopes is something they left to ourselves to figure out.

Gary Tries One-Man Car System at Risk of Passengers' Lives

GARY, Ind.—New cars, operated by one man, have made their appearance on the Hammond-Gary line. The Gary Street Railway Co. is compelling one men to do the work of two, for a few additional cents a day.

The one-man car system is causing much dissatisfaction not only among the carmen but among the passengers. The system is the cause of delays in transportation. The company does not care, for the patrons are mostly workers and are not to be seriously considered. Not only is much time lost to the passengers, but the lives of people are endangered in riding on these cars. There is a great increase in the possibility of accidents while taking on and letting off passengers and at the numerous and dangerous grade railroad crossings.

There is a strong feeling here that the street railway company must not be allowed to continue on the one-man plan of operation and thereby endanger the lives of its patrons.

Radical Lawyer Loses Fight.

GARY, Ind.—(FP)—Primarily because he defended workers in the steel strike of 1919 and the railroad shop strike of 1922, Atty. Paul Glaser of Gary again failed in an attempt to have his American citizenship restored. His naturalization papers were cancelled during the red hysteria after his successful defense of strikers in the courts. The loss of citizenship makes it impossible for him to practice law and the banks are driving him to financial ruin by refusing to renew mortgages on real estate, though the security is more than ample.

DEAN MATHEWS WOULD JUNK WARLIKE HYMNS AND BAN COLOR LINES

Dean Shailer Mathews, divinity school of the University of Chicago, is opposed to warlike hymns, he told a recent meeting of Chicago preachers. He said they fostered "a bloodthirsty feeling."

He pleaded also for the obliteration of color lines. "Forget the pigments of the skin," he advised, "and work together without discussing our race problems."

Second Semester of Worker Correspondence Class Opens this Friday Night, 6:30 O'Clock

The Chicago class in worker correspondence will open the second semester this Friday night, Jan. 7, at 6:30 o'clock in the editorial offices of The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd. All present members and new students who desire to study labor journalism should attend this session.

The purpose of the class is to help develop worker-writers who can effectively help the workers' struggles by "writing as he fights."

Work this semester will consist of a review of what was taken up during the sessions already held and an extension of the work.

Students are requested to be on time for the class—6:30 o'clock.

The Manager's Corner

Three Ideas

Dr. Harold de Wolf Fuller is the latest knight errant to enter upon a bold expedition in the field of journalism. He proclaims that he is about to publish a weekly, which will attempt "the ambitious task of lodging three of our illuminating ideas in the reader's mind each week." Think of it THREE ideas, and ILLUMINATING ideas to the bargain. Dr. Fuller is a professor of journalism in the New York University. We can think of none but a professor in a capitalist university, who would have the temerity to assume the role of Don Quixote in such a foray against the windmills of the capitalist press of the present day.

We have small hope for your expedition, professor, we who have so long wandered thru pound upon pound of capitalist newspapers in the vain search for at least one spark of stimulating thought. We look for no brighter illumination from your weekly than we do from the other sections of the plute press. On the contrary, we expect the same black clouds of capitalist propaganda, which emanate from the flickering torch of capitalist culture thru the organs which have preceded your own.

But, professor, you have aroused our curiosity on one point. We crave enlightenment. You mention "OUR illuminating ideas." We venture to ask, "Whose illumination ideas?" Will they be the ideas of the workers? Or will they be the ideas of the owning class, the ideas of those who control the thought of the nation, thru the subsidized press, as well as thru the subsidized university?

Perhaps we might venture to advise the brave and adventurous professor. Why beguile us with the promise of THREE IDEAS? Why not tell us truly that your weekly will plug upon one idea, and one idea only, that of submission to the present order of society, to the degradation and misery of the capitalist system?

We have been disillusioned too often, professor. We have learned to have no faith in the promises of enlightenment and ideas, when they come from the capitalist press, or from intellectuals professors, in capitalist universities. We have learned that cruel and bitter experience, that true enlightenment and real ideas can only come from a paper, supported by the workers and devoted to their interests.

Real United Front at Cleveland to Protest Laws Aimed at Foreign-Born

CLEVELAND, Jan. 6. — A united front of Polish Catholics, Jews, Protestants and local labor speakers will protest the Aswell and other bills discriminating against foreign born workers here on Jan. 7. The meeting will be under the auspices of the American-Polish Chamber of Industry and the Alliance of Poles in America.

Besides nationally known Polish-American leaders, Councilman Peter Witt, President Harry McLaughlin of the Cleveland Federation of Labor, and Jeanette Pearl, Ohio organizer of the National Council for the Protection of Foreign Born Workers, will address the meeting. It is said to be the first occasion upon which a Polish Catholic Monsignor, a Jewish Rabbi and a Protestant minister have been found willing to speak from the same platform in Cleveland.

Since the formation of a local council for the protection of foreign born workers, with the full endorsement of local labor, the protest movement against discriminatory legislation has been growing in volume.

The Hungarian colony has already held protest meetings, and nearly all other foreign-born groups are preparing for similar action. The editors of Cleveland's many foreign language papers have met and accepted their support. A general mass meeting is planned for Jan 26 which will be addressed by labor and other local leaders.

Why don't you write it up? It may be interesting to other workers.

Birthday Issue Out Next Week!

On January 13, 1927, there will be a Special Birthday Number of The DAILY WORKER in honor of our Third Birthday. The issue will be devoted to special articles, pictures, stories and a full account of the Sacco-Vanzetti case. We can think of no better service to which to put our Special Birthday Issue than to the cause of Sacco and Vanzetti. We can think of no better way of celebrating our birthday than by making a strong plea for their freedom. We are asking that our readers place their names on the Honor Roll in this special issue to indicate their support of Sacco and Vanzetti as well as their support of the only daily paper which is waging a real fight for their freedom. ## Where Are Labor's Spokesmen in the Nicaraguan Situation?

The struggle now going on in Washington between the democrat party spokesmen and the Coolidge administration over the invasion of Nicaragua and the arbitrary refusal of Secretary of State Kellogg to furnish information as to the activities of the state and war departments is to be welcomed as evidence that American imperialism is assailed by inner contradictions, but it would be a grave mistake for workers to conclude that the democrat party is anti-imperialist.

The truth is that most of the interference in the internal affairs of Nicaragua was authorized by Woodrow Wilson, the great apostle of democracy, and the Harding and Coolidge administration is simply carrying out a policy which is neither republican or democrat but bi-partisan in character—the policy of Wall Street.

Woodrow Wilson in turn was continuing a policy which under Taft had already made Nicaragua a colony.

Professors Herman C. James and Percy A. Martin of the University of Texas and Stanford University, respectively, in their book, "The Republics of Latin America," have this to say of Nicaragua:

The principal source of income is the customs duties, which have been administered for the most part SINCE 1912 BY AGENTS OF THE NORTH AMERICAN BANKS which loaned money to the government, BOUGHT A CONTROLLING INTEREST IN THE STOCK OF THE NATIONAL RAILWAY and TOOK OVER THE THE MANAGEMENT OF THE NATIONAL BANK.' (Emphasis ours.)

The greater portion of the customs duties is used to pay the principal and interest on the national debt. The American banking interests simply collect the customs duties and pay themselves without the Nicaraguans having anything to say about it.

In 1912 American marines were stationed in Managua, the capital, as a "permanent legation guard." As the two authorities quoted say succinctly:

> . . . . . revolutionary disturbances were quelled, but at the expense of depriving the people of Nicaragua of the right to manage, or mismanage, their own political affairs. The elections held since that time HAVE BEEN CONDUCTED UNDER THE CONTROL OF THE UNITEDSTATES and both President Emiliano Chamorro (1917-1920) and his nephew, President Diego Chamorro (1920-1923) have had the deciding support of the United States, ALTHO THEIR PARTY AND THEIR POLICY ARE OPPOSED BY THE GREAT MAJORITY OF THE NICARAGUAN PEOPLE. (Emphasis mine.)

It is undoubtedly fortunate for the Nicaraguans and the whole movement against American imperialism that the present crisis arises at a time when both capitalist parties are jockeying for position in the 1928 election race and the democrat opposition is indulging in unusually frank speaking.

It was under the Wilson administration that the deal for a new canal route was made with the Nicaraguan president elected by United States marines. Quoting again:

> Under the treaty of 1916 with the United States, the latter country was to pay Nicaragua the sum of $3,000,000 in return for the grant of a right of way for an inter-oceanic canal AND A NAVAL BASE ON THE GULF OF FONSECA, the money to be used for the service of the national debt and other public purposes IN A MANNER TO BE DETERMINED BY THE TWO CONTRACTING PARTIES.

This proceeding deserves the name of a "Yankee bargain" if anything ever did. Consider the situation. An American military force in the Nicaraguan capital, a Wall Street puppet in the presidential chair, American gunboats hovering off the coast, the customs duties in the hands of a Wall Street bank.

One of "the two contracting parties" had been slugged, bound and gagged. So the canal route with its inevitable naval base was "purchased." The money remained in the coffers of the American bankers.

The righteous indignation of democrat senators and congressmen is admirable and comes in very handy, but why was not some of it displayed in 1916, when they could have exercised far more influence upon a democrat president who was campaigning with the slogan of "he kept us out of war"?

These are questions which are answered when we consider the main line of American foreign policy since 1918 when, with the defeat of Spain, the United States assumed control of Latin America, a control not seriously challenged by any European power.

Since the world war gave American imperialism a dominant world position, American aggression in Latin America has been more pronounced. Both the democrat and republican parties have carried out this policy—one at times more aggressively than the other, but the main line has been the same.

Roosevelt grabbed the Panama Canal zone, Taft sent marines into Nicaragua, Wilson invaded Mexico and conquered Haiti.

It is in such situations as this that the lack of labor spokesmen in Washington is clearly apparent. No democrat or republican representatives will dare make a real exposure of American imperialism. They are part of its machinery.

The trade union leadership is silent.

The organization of a labor party based on the trade unions, sending its representatives to Washington with a definite mandate to speak for the American workers and farmers will mark the beginning of a genuine protest of a sham struggle in Washington against American aggression against the Latin-American people.

Coolidge and the Cruisers

By Bert Miller

ALTHO Coolidge has capitulated to the "big navy men" by indicating his approval of the bill introduced by Representative Butler authorizing the building of ten additional light cruisers, he is opposed at this time to making appropriations for their construction. Apparently there is a sharp contingency row between the president and the "big navy" men. The background of the controversy furnishes food for interesting speculation.

The Chicago Tribune is one of the papers which has assumed the leadership of the "big navy" faction against Coolidge. Its editorial page has adopted a new slogan which clearly indicates the character of the paper and of the forces behind the "big navy" group. "Our country" in her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong.—Stephen Decatur." The Tribune has vigorously upheld American armed intervention in Nicaragua. It has openly advocated a similar attitude toward Mexico. It has branded Frank as a brutal opponent to Philippine independence. The Chicago Tribune is a representative of that group of American capitalists which is interested chiefly in building up American industry and in the exploitation of the American colonies and semi-colonies, the Philippines, Mexico, Nicaragua and the rest of Latin-America. This group confines its activity to what might be termed the American Empire—aggressively so. Oil, rubber, minerals and other raw materials are its chief objects. The New York Herald Tribune, the New York American, the Troy Record, the Minneapolis Journal, Manchester Union, and the Kansas City Star are among the adherents of the "big navy" policy. There is good reason to believe that the immediate cause of the "big navy" movement is the fear of the growing discontent against American imperialism in the Latin-American countries and in the Philippines, which discontent is a threat against American control of these sources of raw material. Says the Tribune ironically: "We can continue to pay British taxes by buying British rubber for our tires, and eventually British gasoline." There you have it.

Coolidge on the other hand has been able to place himself in a position enviable as the noble idealist and the advocate of "benevolence, kindness, charitableness, and good will." His recent speech at Trenton is replete with that sickening hypocrisy and cant which is so characteristic of the language of American diplomacy. In reply, however, the Chicago Tribune hurries to remind us that "There was much in Mr. Coolidge's speech to remind the readers of it of President Wilson in 1914 and until November, 1916, and of Mr. Bryan before the shadow of war hurried him out of the department of state. There was a great deal to recall utterances which were abruptly stopped by the roll of drums."

And for once the Tribune speaks truly. Coolidge's peace proclivities do not have to go far for a test. Armed intervention in Nicaragua, American gunboats in China, provocative notes to Mexico, and the outrageous treaty which Panama was forced to sign, our whole attitude toward the Latin-American countries gives the lie complete to these pacific protestations. "He kept us out of war" they said of Wilson in 1916, and in 1917 our boys were sent to the trenches. "We want peace" says Coolidge in 1926. And the war clouds gather in 1927.

Coolidge's sanctimonious twaddle about peace is of course considered by his political advisers, as good bait for the unwary voter. It is calculated to enhance Coolidge's chances for the republican presidential nomination. Again the Tribune is delightfully frank. His American president on some public occasions is expected to explain the idealistic purposes of America. The American people like to believe that these purposes exist."

The same sinister motives are behind the platitudes of Coolidge. Coolidge represents those forces in American capitalism, which are not primarily interested in the extension of the American empire and the intensification of the exploitation of its colonies, but which are interested rather in utilizing our financial domination over Europe for their own profit. He represents the international bankers, who have stepped far beyond the boundaries of the American flag and American nationalism. These gentlemen are seeking to secure a stranglehold on the economic life of Europe, by virtue of their control over its finances. They seek to insure the safety of the billions of American dollars invested in the industries of Europe. For this reason they are interested in the reduction of foreign armaments, altho Coolidge assures us that he is for an "adequate army and navy". Huge foreign armaments play havoc with national budgets. The instability of the budget in turn shakes up the stability of the national currency and the general stability of the nation's economic life. Huge foreign armaments also carry with them the danger of war. The safety of the American dollar demands the "peaceful" submission of the nations of Europe and the enslavement of the European proletariat to the dominance of American capital. That is why Coolidge is for disarmament—for the other fellow.

The opportunism, which is so characteristic of capitalist politicians, is clearly shown in the armchair performances of Coolidge. Coolidge declares against large naval construction on one day and the next he indorses a bill providing for the construction of ten cruisers and on the following day he again opposes any appropriation for the cruisers. On one day he calls for "support of the president" and the next day he calls upon the nations to "trust each other." This is capitalist statesmanship at its crassest, hypocrisy and lack of any interest in the masses in its most open form.

"NEW YORK EXCHANGE"

Night clubs are the basis of many of the season's new plays.

"New York Exchange," by Peter Glenny, playing at the Klaw Theater, is a worthy addition to the list, a fit companion of "Broadway," the reigning sensation on the street it is named after.

It is a story of "male prostitutes," (to borrow a phrase from the play) and rich old society women, who with their money make dashing, young men carry out their sexual desires. How the ambition to be of importance, to wear good clothes, have money, his own car, etc., results in Ernest, the central character of the play giving up his manhood to satisfy the sex lust of a Mrs. Ella May Morton.

The cast consists of sixty people, all well fitted for their parts. Special mention must be made of Donn Cook as Ernest; Sydney Shields as Sally Parks, the girl he abandons and Allson Skipworth as Mrs. Morton. One could go on almost endlessly making mention of these who gave superb performances.

If you want to have a glimpse of contemporary New York life, seeing and hearing in a realistic fashion things which are only hinted at in the metropolitan press, you will enjoy this play. No attempt is made for effect, sex degenerates and proverts lounge lizards and the rest of the tribe of our civilization who are left people who are part of the play.

While some folks might call it vulgar and "dirt," yet it is a true portrayal of a section of New York life which is not the figment of an imagination but an episode of life which can be seen on Broadway seven times within a week.—Sylvan A. Pollack.

Final Weeks of the Grand Opera Season

The rapidly waning grand opera season in Chicago is rising to a glorious climax as it enters its final weeks. The tenth week of civic opera at the Chicago Auditorium will bring repetitions of the favorite operas from the earlier weeks of the season, with several notable substitutions in casts to lend added charm and effort opera lovers the advantage of variety of personnel in the same roles. The week will also bring the first of three Wednesday matinees at popular prices, ranging from $1 to $4, established responsive to popular request, affording further hearings of three favorite operas, which would be impossible in the crowded schedule except thru adding these matinee performances. Subscription seats may be bought for all three Wednesday matinees, entitling the holders to the same locations for each.

An interesting repertoire also characterizes the last few days of the ninth week.

Saturday matinee (Jan. 8) "Samson and Delilah" will be repeated.

Saturday evening "Elisir d'Amore" (The Elixir of Love) will be repeated at popular prices.

Sunday afternoon (Jan. 9) at 2 o'clock "La Boheme" will constitute the suburban special matinee.

Monday evening (Jan. 10) "The Jewels of the Madonna" will be repeated with the same popular cast.

Tuesday evening will bring the season's last performance of Wagner's romantic "Tristan and Isolde."

Wednesday, the first of the three mid-week matinees, will be sung at popular prices. The season's last performance of "La Traviata" will be given. Wednesday evening "Carmen" will be repeated.

Thursday evening "Don Giovanni," which scored such a tremendous success at the gala New Year's Eve performance, will be repeated.

IT looks like a bad new year for baseball. It is a long cry until next summer and in all probability the worst of the sting of the recent baseball scandal exposures will have by that time ceased to irritate baseball fans. But time cannot entirely erase the impression of crookedness in America's most popular sport created by the confessions of prominent players. Commercialized baseball like commercialized prize-fighting may be as pure as it ever was. But that is not saying much for it.

ONE of the best jokes of the year is William Randolph Hearst's effort to put himself in line for the next Nobel Peace prize. Nothing less will be seeking a combination between "the two great English-speaking peoples" to preserve peace is William's aim. Of course no serious person will take Hearst's peace aims seriously but he may get a few more nuts to subscribe to his papers and the "peace" publicity secured will enable him to carry on his jingo propaganda for more war planes and more battleships in the interests of world peace.

The "Academic Freedom" and Darwin

THE American Association of University Professors has expressed alarm over the spread of anti-evolution legislation in the United States. At the recent convention of the association the professors passed a resolution to start a campaign to curb this menace to what the university professors call "academic freedom." Prof. Woodbridge Riley of Vassar is the authority for the statement that anti-evolution bills would be presented in seventeen states his year, adding to the already large number of "biblical" states. Thus bubbitry of Dayton, Tennessee, is beginning to enshroud the rest of the enlightened republic.

The resolution passed by the association declares "that this association take the initiative in bringing about a more effective co-operation between all groups or organizations interested in opposing legislative restriction on freedom of teaching in state-supported schools and in defending the principle of the separation of the church and state in educational matters."

Raising the slogan of "freedom of teaching," the professors are now girding their intellectual armor to defend the fanatical enemies of Darwin who have dared to command the American university professors what they should teach and what they should not teach. "Academic freedom," a phrase that the professors utter with much pride, is being attacked openly and boldly, and the professors have set out to annihilate the attackers.

The question arises, just how much "academic freedom" is there in the American universities and what kind of "freedom" is it? Certainly only a college professor could be so deluded as to think that there is any academic freedom in the American college system. It does not take a long and deep study of American colleges to reveal how great an illusion is the idea that freedom of thought and teaching prevails.

Any semi-intelligent sophomore at college can see the affect of the muzzling attempts of the William Jennings Bryan tribe of Dayton, Tennessean, is insignificant when compared to the control exerted by the big muzzlers of the universities—the corporations, the bankers, the railroads, etc. The difference between the two is, perhaps, that the capitalists don't make as much noise about their muzzling as the anti-evolution tate do. Their work is done behind the closed doors of college presidents' offices and boards of trustee meetings.

The same professors who are so enraged over the antics of the Tennessee christians are apparently ignorant of the greater muzzling.

A NEW NOVEL! Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair)

A telegram come from Verne; the leases had been signed. Bunny arranged to get a week off from his studies—such favors could be had by a grave old senior, especially when there was hope that his father might endow a chair of research in petroleum chemistry. They took the long drive to Sunnyside, a remote part of the state, grazing country with very few settlers, and poor roads. They stayed in a crude country hotel, and inspected the new field, riding horseback part of the time. Dad's geologists were there, and the engineers and surveyors; they decided upon the drilling sites and the roads, and the pipe-lines and the tank farm—yes, even a town, and how the rents were to run, and where the moving picture theaters and the general store were to be! The necessary wires had been pulled, and the county was to start work on a paved road next week. It was all hunky-dory!

Bunny ought to have been interested in all this; he ought to have been proud of the "drilling," like any loyal son. Instead of that, here he was, as usual, "smelling round the out house," to use the ex-mule driver's crude phrase. The false which filled that Bunny should be always on the wrong side of his father's work followed him here to this country lad, and brought him into contact with an old rancherman, a feeble-faced, pathetic old fellow with skin turned to leather by sixty years of baking heat and winds. Anxious watery blue eyes he had, and a big case of papers under his arm, which he wouldn't leave in his room for fear they would be stolen. He wanted Dad to consider a lease, and of course Dad had no time to fool with little leases, and told him so, and that settled it. But the old man found out somehow that Bunny lacked the customary hard shell of the big oil-crabs, and succeeded in luring the young man to his room and showing his documents. It was a certified file from the department of the interior, all lined up with impressive red seals and blue ribbons —but all the same it was incomplete, the old man declared; somebody had stolen the essential documents from the government files, which showed how "Mid-Continent Pete" had done him out of his homestead. "It's a feller named Vernon Roscoe, one of the big crooks in this game."

The old man, Carberry, had set out to homestead a claim to some land nearby, and oil had been discovered, and Mid-Continent Pete came in and showed him out, payine him not a cent for his twenty-two hundred dollars of improvements. They could do this—the old man had a copy of the law to show how it read, excluding "mineral lands" from homestead rights; there were thousands in this part of the state who had been caught in the trap. But Carberry had actually got a patent on his land, and so had a valid claim; but somebody had managed to doctor the government records, and now for several years he had been struggling for redress. With pathetic trustfulness he had written to his congressman, to get a lawyer in Washington to represent him, and the congressman had recommended a lawyer, and Carberry had sent him money several times with no result—and then, going to Washington, had discovered that the alleged lawyer was simply a clerk in the congressman's office, plundering land claimants and presumably dividing the graft with his employer!

A pitiful, pitiful story—and the worst part of it was you could see it wasn't a single case, but a system. One could see by which the rich and powerful were plundering the poor and weak! Carberry had with him a government document he had managed to get in Washington, the report of a congressional investigation of California land cases. Bunny spent an evening glancing through its two thousand pages of wholesale fraud and stealing in close print! For example, the seizure of oil rights by the railroads! The government land grants had turned over to the railroads every other section of land along their right of way, but had specifically exempted all "miner lands." Wherever minerals might be discovered, the roads were bound to surrender these sections and take other sections. Under the law, the word "minerals" included petroleum; but wars the railroads paying any attention to that law? The Southern Pacific alone had California lands to a value of more than a billion dollars; but every effort to recover these properties for the state had been blocked by cunning lawyers and purchased politicians and judges. As they drove home, Bunny tried to tell his father about this; but what could Dad do? What could he do about old Carberry, who had been robbed of his home by "Mid-Canira Pete?" You could be sure that Dad wasn't going "smelling round Verne's out-house."

THE government of the United States has invaded Nicaragua; it is hurrying more warships to Chinese and Carribean waters and constantly threatening Mexico.

These actions of the government, which are leading toward a new imperialist war, are being taken in the interest of safeguarding the investments of the Wall Street bankers.

This development of the "Dollar Diplomacy" of the government threatens that the American workers will be called upon to sacrifice their lives in order to protect Wall Street's investments and profits in Nicaragua, Mexico and China.

This is a situation which calls for united action immediately by the workers and the farmers, to prevent the government from leading this country into a new war in support of the imperialist adventures of Wall Street, with its consequent sacrifice and suffering for the masses of the workers.

Labor in the United States must unite with the peoples of Nicaragua, Mexico and China to fight against the exploitation of the Wall Street banks which are robbing the workers of this country of billions of dollars annually and investing these billions in foreign countries in order to exploit the workers of these countries.

THE ATTACK AGAINST NICARAGUA.

The sending of American warships to the waters of Nicaragua and the landing of American marines in that country is a most brazen example of the use of the naval and military forces of this country to help maintain the exploitation of foreign countries by the Wall Street Interests.

The government of this country has overthrown governments elected by the people of Haiti and Santo Domingo and set up in these countries puppet governments which carry out the will of the American bankers. The Diaz government of Nicaragua, which Coolidge and Kellogg are aiding against the Liberal government supported by the people of Nicaragua, is the tool of the American bankers who want to keep their control of the banks, railroads and other resources of Nicaragua which they are exploiting for their profit. The Diaz government has no popular support.

Coolidge and Kellogg express indignation and threaten Mexico because it is charged that the Mexican government is aiding the people of Nicaragua to establish a government which they can support, and then use the iron fist of the government of this country to set up a Wall Street puppet government in that country.

The American warships are in Nicaraguan waters and American marines on Nicaraguan soil for one purpose only—to establish the rule of American imperialism—the Wall Street bankers—in that country. The fight of the people of Nicaragua against this Wall Street intervention is the fight of the American labor.

THE THREATS AGAINS MEXICO.

At the same time that the American government ruthlessly uses its naval forces to invade Nicaragua in support of Wall Street it is continually threatening Mexico, because the government of that country has dared to limit the exploitation carried on by American oil companies, American mining companies, and American land companies, controlled by the great Wall Street banks.

Mexico is threatened with the fate of Nicaragua because its government has adopted a constitution which declares that the resources of that country belong to the Mexican people.

Coolidge is prepared to use the American naval and military forces in the interest of the American imperialism in Mexico, as he is using them in Nicaragua. He is ready to push this country into a war against the Mexican people in order to help the American capitalists continue to make enormous profits through the exploitation of Mexico.

INTERVENTION IN CHINA.

The people of China have suffered from the unchecked exploitation of capitalist imperialism for many decades. The American, British, Japanese, French and other national groups of capitalists have seized its natural resources, its ports, its railroads and established its concessions and spheres of influence in order to make the Chinese people produce profits for the foreign capitalists. The governments of China have been made and remade to suit the interests of these contending groups of capitalists.

The people's national revolutionary movement in China, under the leadership of the Kuomintang, is fighting against this imperialist exploitation. From Canton it has swept over China, freeing the Chinese workers and people from the grip of the imperialist robbers and Chinese war lords who support them. Helped by the sympathy and support of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, it is winning the fight of the Chinese for the right to control their own country and direct its affairs.

Alarmed by the victories of the Cantonese government and fearful that the profits of the Wall Street capitalists from exploitation of China will be endangered, the Coolidge government is hurrying its warships to the scene of the struggle in preparation for intervention against the people's national revolutionary movement.

LABOR MUST STOP THE WALL STREET WAR.

All of these situations show the great danger before labor in this country of a new war growing out of the unlimited imperialist exploitation of other countries which the American capitalists are carrying on from Wall Street, with the support and co-operation of the government.

The American capitalists are making greater profits than ever before out of the labor of the American workers and then using these profits for investment in and exploitation of the people of other countries.

It is out of exactly such a development in Europe, with the resulting rivalries between the great capitalist powers, that the World War was precipitated, with its sacrifice of millions of lives and billions of wealth and untold suffering of labor in all the countries involved.

The only force which can check this development is the power of labor. The whole labor movement of this country must unite to call a halt on these imperialist adventures of Wall Street.

BUILD A UNITED FRONT OF LABOR AGAINST AMERICAN IMPERIALISM

The Workers (Communist) Party proposes that all labor unite to fight against this development of Wall Street imperialism supported by the American government with its threat of a new great war and untold suffering and sacrifice for labor.

It calls upon all labor and farmer organizations to join in calling such a united front conference, in every city, and eventually on a national scale, to fight against American imperialism and against the sacrifice of American lives, and wealth created by the workers, for Wall Street investments.

It calls upon the American Federation of Labor, the Socialist Party, the Industrial Workers of the World, and all other labor and farmer organizations to join with it in calling such united front conferences.

It calls upon the workers and farmers everywhere to join in the demand for the formation of such a united front of labor.

The fight against the Wall Street policies of the government must be made now by fighting against the intervention in Nicaragua, the threats against Mexico, the sending of American naval forces to Chinese waters.

Stop War on Mexico! Impeach Coolidge and Fire Kellogg!

UNLESS the American masssss force the Wall Street-Coolidge government to reverse its present policy America soon will be at war with Mexico.

The naval mobilization now going on, which has already resulted in concentrating in the Caribbean the largest American fleet ever assembled there, is directed against Mexico.

The Nicaraguan situation has been used as a cloak to cover the preparations for war on the neighboring republic and its people. The war on Nicaragua has been made without the advice or consent of congress.

It is known to every informed press correspondent in Washington that this is the case, altho the stats department speaks still of the "protection of American Intersts" in Nicaragua.

The correspondent of the Chicago Tribune says:

In many quarters there was a disposition tonight to regard the naval concentration in Central American waters as A DEMONSTRATION AGAINST MEXICO. While Secretary of State Kellogg refused to discuss this angle, high authorities ADMITTED THAT THE UNITED STATES HAS COME TO A SHOWDOWN WITH MEXICO on the question of which is to be the friend of Nicaragua and WHICH GOVERNMENT IS TO HAVE THE WIDEST SPHERE OF INFLUENCE IN CENTRAL AMERICA. (Emphasis ours.)

George R. Holmes, Washington correspondent of the International News Service, begins his story, which we publish in another column, with the following:

The relations between the United States and Mexico are in a more critical stage than at any time since General John J. Pershing led his famous punitive expedition across the international boundary ten years ago.

The Wall Street government goss ahead swiftly with its plan for bloody aggression in spite of the resistance in congress and the senate.

The state department has recognized and the war department has aided and protected a Nicaraguan dictator whom Senator Borah says is being kept in power by "sheer force of foreign arms." These foreign arms are those of Wall Street government.

This government is preparing to make war on Mexico because Mexico has recognized and aided the regularly elected government of Nicaragua. Not only has the Sacasa government been regularly elected but it has repeatedly beaten on the field of battle the Diaz forces only to have Diaz rescued by American marines and gunboats.

Mexico has a right to aid the popular revolution in Nicaragua, a right which Wall Street exercises in the case of its puppet Diaz but which it refuses to Mexico.

Speaking of authoritative opinion in Washington, Holmes says:

Most International authorities here concede that in such a situation, Mexico would have international law clearly on her side. They say Mexico is as much a sovereign power as is the United States and as such is entitled to sell and deliver arms to whomsoever she pleases.

But international law is the law of battleships and military forces and it is with a full understanding of this fact that a mass movement against Wall Street's war plans and warlike actions must be organized.

War by imperialist powers on small nations is not prefaced by a declaration of war in these days.

War is made first and a declaration of war may or may not follow. The facts are that war is being made on Nicaragua by the United States and against Mexico prepared.

Wall Street's government gives no heed to criticism. It is playing for big stakes—the complete control of a vast continent.

Thousands of lives, Latin-American and American lives, hang in the balance.

Are Coolidge and Kellogg, these two Wall Street marionettes, to be allowed to gamble with the lives of the American masses and plot slaughter of Mexicans and Nicaraguans, without being called to account?

Let us raise the demand for the impeachment of these two Wall Street tools and see if we have here, as Wall Street has in Nicaragua, a dictatorship which is beyond the reach of the American masses.

If there is one senator or congressman who has the courage to make this demand from the forum of the house or senate he will be assured of the support of millions of American workers, farmers and honest liberals who want a stop put to the brutal aggression against weaker peoples at the behest of the same pirate crew which robs the American masses.

CURRENT EVENTS

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

THE blasting of a few near-liberals in the United States congress does not seem to affect the policy of the state department. LaGuardia of New York, Borah of Idaho and Wheeler of Montana are picking at Kellogg over his Latin-American policy, but American warships are rushing south and it is quite openly stated that the Coolidge policy is to support the reactionary Diaz of Nicaragua at all costs. Wall Street is not going to stand any nonsense from the enemies of American imperialism! Only action of the American workers in conjunction with the resistance of the people of South America can halt Wall Street.

THE impression was recently created that there was a difference of opinion between Kellogg and Coolidge over the Nicaraguan question. This was not so. Both are acting for the dominant American capitalist groups that have interests in Latin America. So United States warships are sent to Central America to protect the Nicaraguans from themselves! Verily, indeed, dumb Kellogg is learning the arts of diplomacy. But this is old stuff. Even acthal Britain can no

Real Purpose of Navy Movements Disclosed

The following release to The DAILY WORKER by George R. Holmes, International News Service staff correspondent, we republish in full because it is a complete disclosure of the real purpose behind the present invasion of Central America. Holmes' story is in singular contrast to the jingo statements made by William Randolph Hearst who controls the news service for which the former writes.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The relations between the United States and Mexico are in a more critical state than at any time since Gen. John J. Pershing led his famous punitive expedition across the international boundary ten years ago.

This was generally recognized in Washington today as the largest show of naval strength ever assembled in Caribbean waters proceeded to a station off Nicaraguan ports.

Real Reason.

The ostensible purpose of this concentration is to quell the revolution in Nicaragua and maintain Adolfo Diaz in the presidential palace, but the real reason for this show of strength is understood to be to impress upon the Mexican government that it had better keep "hands off" in Central America, and tread lightly in the application of its new land and petroleum laws to American holdings.

Ordinarily, a couple of American gunboats and a handful of marines are sufficient to control any Central American revolution and afford the necessary protection to American legations and property in the Caribbean. It is work with which the navy is en-

MANAGUA, Jan. 7.—Despite the protest of foreign coffee interests who fear for the harvesting of their present crops, the Diaz government has undertaken to conscript all available male workers for military service against the liberal forces under Sacasa, whose military successes against the present puppet government have been prevented from complete victory only by the interference of the United States.

Workers are rounded up in theaters and on the streets and forced into the army with Springfield rifles now being secured from the United States due to the lifting of the arms embargo by Secretary of State Kellogg.

WALL STREET HAS WELL TRAINED SERVANT IN ADMIRAL LATIMER, U. S. DICTATOR IN NICARAGUA

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Rear Admiral Julian H. Latimer, who has been given dictatorial sway over Nicaragua by carte blanche from the state department in the handling of affairs there at the head of a large fleet and 5,000 troops, is well trained in the ways of imperialism.

Entering the Annapolis naval academy in 1886, Latimer saw service as commander of the Winslow in the Pacific fleet during the Spanish-American War. During the invasion of China during the Boxer uprising, Latimer was on the job in Chinese waters.

By the time of the world war Latimer had become a full captain and was in command of the battleship Rhode Island, which convoyed troops to France in 1917-18.

From 1921 to 1925 he served in Washington as the Judge Advocate General of the navy.

LATIMER LOCKED AFTER THE LEGAL END OF THE NEGOTIATIONS AND TRANSFER OF THE TEAPOT DOME AND ELK HILLS NAVAL OIL RESERVES AND THE CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATION WHICH FOLLOWED.

Evidently for his share in giving away millions of dollars worth of oil, Latimer was promptly raised to the dignity of a rear admiral. He was later assigned to the navy's special service squadron, the sole business of which is to deal with Latin America.

This record of the admiral now carrying out the policy of the "Big Stick" in Caribbean waters shows that he is specially fitted for the dollar diplomatic tasks that have been put upon him.

SMITH STEALS N.Y. LABOR'S STATE PROGRAM

Appropriates Many Harmless Measures

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 7. —(FP)— Much of the legislative program laid out by the New York State Federation of Labor was embodied in the message of Governor Alfred Smith to the incoming legislature. Outstanding in the re-elected governor's address was his emphasis on state development and control of water power, which is endorsed by organized labor.

Smith proposes again the establishment of a state power authority, similar to the New York port authority, to finance by bond issues and manage as representative of the state the development and distribution of power from Niagara Falls, the Niagara and St. Lawrence rivers. The governor suggested that "with intelligent state planning, and proper distribution of hydro-electric energy" some of the population which drifted to cities from rural districts would "return to less densely populated communities and benefit the agriculturist by providing markets closer at hand and making trans-portation less expensive and hazardous."

Lip Service to 48 Hours.

Passage of the 48-hour law for women workers is advocated by governor Smith once more. This demand of unionists and women's organizations (barring the Woman's Party) has been verbally approved by both major political parties but has not yet been legislated to supplant the fifteen year old 54-hour week law now standing.

Establishment of a minimum wage board to fix living wage standards for women and child workers is another labor measure sponsored by the governor.

Other items of labor's legislative program that Smith mentioned to the legislature were: a statute declaring labor not a commodity; hearings with both sides represented before even temporary injunctions are issued in labor disputes; clarification of the prevailing-rate-of-wages law for public employes to remove doubts of its constitutionality; more funds for the state labor department to carry on more adequate compensation service. Smith renewed the recommendation for amending the workmen's compensation law to prevent employers appealing to courts from awards and thus jeopardizing the whole law as now practiced.

No White House Bid.

No definite bid for presidential nomination is evident in Smith's message, though New York democrats consider him the best bet for the race. The only reference to matters beyond state control contained in his message was in his suggestion that the legislature pass appropriate "resolutions conveying in a formal manner the result" of the state referendum on modification of the federal prohibition act. These resolutions should go to congress with a memorial asking in behalf of the state that the federal body "enact at the earliest possible moment a sane, sensible, reasonable definition of what constitutes an intoxicant under the Eighteenth Amendment."

Canton Government Says "Panic" Baseless

the American concession to take pro visions for three days and board a British steamer waiting to take them on.

No Cause for Alarm.

Chen said there was no cause for the nervous tension displayed by the nationalist and foreign residents of the city and inferred that it was artificially stimulated by the consuls themselves to make known that the nationalist government was in complete control of the situation and that the population, intimidated by the shooting of Chinese by British troops, had complete faith in the government.

Began With Shooting.

The panic of the foreign residents was begun by the killing and wounding of a number of Chinese by British troops in the British concession which was followed by a mass demonstration of the population against the British outrage. The nationalist troops were forced to occupy the British concession and the occupation was not contested by the British, who were glad of the protection it afforded. The anti-British excitement is running high, but the nationalist government has the situation well in hand.

TWO playboys sport themselves in the columns of the Hearst press on Friday. One is Arthur Brisbane, reckoned to be the most highly paid editorial hack in the world. The other is his boss, William Randolph Hearst. The latter has been conducting a crusade for peace by forming a union between the "Anglo-Saxon peoples." Peace! Where? Evidently not in Latin America. In one of those spread-eagle effusions for which he is famous, Hearst congratulates Coolidge on his "firm stand." We want peace, of course, but we are not to proud to fight, and such nauseating bokum.

ON the same page Brisbane holds forth on the Nicaraguan question. Brisbane tries to prove that the reason for the unpopularity of the United States is this country's incredible desire to shower favors on other peoples. Did not we go three thousand miles across the ocean to help Europe? asks "Mushbrain." And what did we get out of it? Nothing but abuse. That a reading public is in such a low state of mental development as to believe this twaddle proves what a comparatively easy matter it is for the ruling class to inoculate them with the germ of war madness whenever occasion calls for such medicine.

SOMETIMES it is not so pleasant to be rich and of high station. The prince of Wales is getting abused for going on a public spree in London and acting as a bartender. The main objection from the aggrieved ones was that Eddie's debauch impaired monarchial prestige. The prince probably feels that he has only one life to give and is willing to give that as quickly as he can for the empire. Here in America a scion of a packing-house family got renowns in a sentimental way while under the influence of champagne. But he was not able to get to the altar, because his mother had him arrested and bailed out almost immediately. It was worth a few thousand dollars to preserve the family dignity. A worker could elope with half a dozen beautiful actresses without the slightest inconvenience!

THOSE of you who are inclined to be impressed by appearances may be interested in the case of the Commonwealth Reserve Corporation, a million dollar corporation that was caught with a bank balance of only $100. The officials of this organization sold bonds and got themselves large salaries until something slipped and the law stepped in. Getting rich quick is quite a gambling proposition unless you are in on the ground floor.

ITALY and France have buried the hatchet, according to the British ambasador at Paris. Germany and France have also composed the trifling differences over the sentence imposed on a few Germans by a French military court for daring to get into a scrap with a member of the French army of occupation. England is interested in maintaining peace in Europe because she has her hands full in China and is by no means insensible to the troubles of the United States in Nicaragua. When those brigands get to composing their differences honest peoples should take down their trusty rifles.

MARTIAL ARRAY IN CARIBBEAN IS FOR MEXICO

Real Purpose of Navy Movements Disclosed

tirely familiar and thru long practice very efficient.

Largest Naval Show.

Yet for this Nicaraguan revolution, in which the combatants on both sides number scarcely more than 5,000, the American government has concentrated in Nicaraguan waters, and adjacent to Mexico, a total of fifteen first class fighting ships and nearly 5,000 bluejackets and marines, all under control of an admiral who has been given carte blanche in their disposition. It compares the largest naval show the American government has ever staged in Caribbean waters.

That a very serious situation may result is universally recognized in Washington.

The American state department put Diaz in the presidential palace and plans to keep him there. The state department has accorded him official recognition, and the American navy has bottled up the Sacasa revolutionists who were fast gaining the upper hand over him.

Mexico Recognizes Sacasa.

The Mexican government considers that Juan Sacasa is the constitutional president of Nicaragua. It accorded Sacasa official recognition, and conveniently has looked the other way while his forces obtained arms and ammunition from Mexican sources.

If Mexico now chooses to stand swiftly on her prerogatives as a sovereign nation and chooses to supply arms to this Sacasa government which she officially recognizes, an open clash with the United States may be one of the first results, for Admiral Latimer has instructions to stop Mexican gun running.

Mexico Legally Right.

Most international authorities here concede that in such a situation, Mexico would have international standing on her side. They say Mexico is as much a sovereign power as is the United States, and as such is entitled to sell and deliver arms to whomsoever she pleases.

The state department, however, takes the position that in this instance American rights to the projected Nicaraguan canal and the naval base concession at Fonseca Bay are of more importance than technicalities over international law. Hence the fifteen warships and the 5,000 men to put a stop to the revolution and the gun-running.

Only a Spark Needed.

Thus the situation stood today, with only a spark perhaps needed to cause a general conflagration in the Caribbean.

Meanwhile the senate revolt against the administration's policy gathered force, but marked time, pending the appearance of Secretary of State Kellogg before the foreign relations committee to "explain" his Nicaraguan and Mexican policies.

Bully Democrats.

Unable to gain the support of Senator Borah, chairman of the committee, President Coolidge temporarily checkmated democratic criticism of the administration policy by summoning Senators Robinson of Arkansas and Swanson of Virginia, the democratic leaders, to the White House and after acquainting them with the situation pledged them to secrecy.

Secretary Kellogg is exhibiting no desire to hurry his appearance before the committee. Invited to appear on Wednesday, Kellogg pleaded prior engagements which would delay his appearance until next Wednesday—a fact which caused considerable muttering today among the opponents of the administration's policy.

Need Gets Sarcastic.

"Mr. Kellogg must have some very important engagements," said Senator Reed, democrat of Missouri, sarcastically. "In the meantime, the complications may grow and the situation down there become really serious. It is truly remarkable that he can't find time to come up here and talk about this situation."

Other senators were even more outspoken.

"The American government," said Senator McKellar, democrat of Tennessee, "is big enough to apply the golden rule in its relations with other governments, and it should apply it more particularly to the nations south of us than anywhere else."

Cabinet Meets Again.

"I am absolutely opposed to the United States interfering in the internal affairs of any friendly country. If it is true that this government is selling arms to one faction in Nicaragua and at the same time using its warships to prevent the other faction's getting them, it is an indefensible policy. I am absolutely opposed to making war on any defenseless people."

The cabinet met this morning to further discuss the delicate situation.

Europe Has Wary Eye.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The American policy in Nicaragua arouses distrust in Europe, if one may judge from the newspaper comment.

The Times declares that "There need be longer be any concealment of the fact that the United States has forcibly intervened in Nicaragua in order to maintain its chosen man in power." This newspaper predicts that the results will be general distrust of the United States in South America and Central America and predicts that chances of the United States settling the Tacna-Arica dispute are now dubious.

Germany Cynical.

Berlin dispatches indicate that German newspapers are extremely critical of the American policy.

Herr Stresemann's Tageliche Rundschau says that the phrase "America for the Americans" must now be revised to "America for the North Americans."

The newspaper Vorwaerts says that "The United States is employing coercion more openly than ever against Latin America and has been reduced to the lamest excuses for its action."

A. P. NEWS FROM CHINA COLORED AT COPY DESKS

Associated Press Is at It Again

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—When a Chinese nationalist mob had been reported in press dispatches from Hankow to have broken into the British concession, and Cantonese troops were sent in to restore order, the state department had no news of this occurrence from Consul General Lockhart in Hankow.

"Jazzed News"

Nevertheless, the Associated Press, in pursuit of its "jazzing-up" policy as to news affecting anti-imperialist movements in China and Latin America, pretended to have official information.

After quoting British reports of the incident, its Washington bureau said: "British marines, who held off a coolie invasion Monday without bloodshed, were withdrawn from the British colony yesterday, leaving the concession in charge of Cantonese troops, but official dispatches indicate the angry natives are out of control."

Blur Chinese.

Casual readers would assume that official dispatches to the state department were referred to in that sentence. The "natives" touch also gives the impression to the average reader that the Chinese are a low type of savage, to be quelled by any civilized gunboat that may be brought within range.

WORKERS (COMMUNIST) PARTY GREETS KUOMINTANG CONVENTION; PLEDGES SUPPORT IN FIGHT FOR LIBERATION

A telegraph message of greetings from the central committee of the Workers (Communist) Party of America was sent to the Kuomintang convention being held at Los Angeles, California. The Kuomintang is the people's party of national liberation in China.

The message follows:

"Central Committee Workers (Communist) Party extends its greetings and best wishes for success of your work. The struggle which the Kuomintang is carrying on against the imperialist exploitation of China by the capitalist nations is an inspiration to the workers of these imperialist capitalist countries who are fighting for their emancipation from the exploitation of these capitalists at home and has their loyal support.

"We pledge our support in the fight against imperialist intervention in China by the United States.

"Hail to the people's national revolution in China led by the Kuomintang.

"C. E. RUTHENBERG, General Secretary."

Hearst Is Getting Busy As Obedient Drumboy of Wall Street Imperialism

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

WHEN the war drums begin to beat the Hearst press is always up in the lead with its energetic fing-waving. Hearst is now getting busy as the obedient drumboy of Wall Street imperialism.

It has been so since Hearstism in American journalism and Wall Street imperialism first shook hands as blood brothers with the breaking of the Spanish-American war at the close of the last century.

All during the world war the Hearst press, no matter in what city it appeared, occupied a considerable portion of its first pages with long processions of the "stars and stripes." The march is on again.

By actual count, 126 U. S. flags constitute the hysteric jingo border ornamenting William Randolph Hearst's statement of editorial policy on the Nicaraguan situation, that appears on page one today of the Chicago Herald-Examiner and is no doubt duplicated in every Hearst paper thruout the land. Hearst proclaims, "At Last a Real American Policy at Washington!"

The Hearst statement is merely typical of the rapid change that is now taking place thruout the columns of the whole capitalist press, no doubt partly as a result of President Coolidge's lecture to newspaper correspondents in Washington, demanding that their reports reflect the "facts" (which is a bit of course) that the country is united in support of the government's imperialist policies. When the slaughter heralding tom toms begin their monotonous beat, beat, then the subsidized press lines up and adds its pay-triotic note to the murder symphony. It is no different now.

Arthur Brisbane, the Hearst editor, has been poking fun at the Coolidge-Kellogg-Mellon diplomacy in Central America. But that is the function of an editorial buffoon. Even today he gives this gem:

"Uncle Sam is enjoying busy, almost warlike days. By special request his soldiers in Nicaragua are protecting citizens of other nations presumably in danger.

"In China the thing is more serious. The natives hate strangers as cats hate dogs. They are tired of watching foreigners spend money, having concessions, the luxury of their own and are glad when the time comes to murder a few. The murdering seems to be close at hand.

"Uncle Sam has some of his ships there and unpleasant news may be expected."

Thus Brisbane prepares the millions who read his column daily for the active launching of the new "Hate the Americans, The "Hate the Huns" of 1917 gives way to "Hate the Nicaraguan!" or "Hate the Mexican!" or "Hate the Chinese!" At the same time the American invader's face is lifted out in a cloak of pristine purity.

The Hearst statement, that puts an "O. K." on Wall Street's ambitions in any part of the world, is therefore so interesting that it is reproduced in full as follows:

"President Coolidge has determined to maintain a firm American policy in regard to Nicaragua. He is to be congratulated, and the people of the United States are also to be congratulated.

"We have been weak and vacillating too long in the foreign policy of our government. We have been following the feeble policies of Wilson rather than the inspiring policies of Cleveland and Roosevelt.

"This country desires to maintain peace, but it also desires to maintain the dignity and prestige of the nation and the rights and the interests of its people. It is too big a country to play the bully, but it is also too big to play the coward.

"A firm American policy will receive the support of all the virile people here in the republic, and the spotlight statement who raise their voices against it will soon find that they are out of touch with the sentiment and the spirit of the American people."

No more repulsive mob appeal has ever been put into fewer words. Hearst was not satisfied that Wilson only sent "Black Jack" Pershing and his intervention army into Mexico to protect Hearst's million acre estate. Hearst likes Cleveland, the democrat, whose administration annexed the Hawaiian Islands, or Roosevelt, who partially slaked his thirst for blood by helping to bring Cuba and Porto Rico under the sway of the Wall Street empire. The "dignity and prestige" of dollar diplomacy, the oppressor of the peoples of Latin-America must be maintained, says the chameleon Hearst, who has a different color for every section of the country when it comes to local conditions, but nationally and internationally is an inveterate jingo, snarling like a rabies infected mongrel at what he calls "spotlight statesmen," those members of congress who are still talking against "the war." It will be remembered that Abraham Lincoln opposed the Mexican war waged in his day and his memory in history has not suffered as a result.

Hearst, as well as the Coolidge-Kellogg-Mellon administration in Washington, will learn that it will not be easy to line the American nation into war against Nicaragua, Mexico and China, as it was to plunge this nation into the European slaughter pit in 1917.

Hearst is looking thru the wrong end of the telescope if he thinks the United States is in a position to play the bully, either in Latin-America or in the Orient. China leads the peoples of the Far East in successfully against world imperialism that even the British have been forced to adopt a retreat and cautioned other capitalist nations to do likewise. The attack on Nicaragua is an attack on Mexico, Central America and South America, with resentment against Wall Street rule flaring all the way from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn. Thus the Wall Street bully has a big job on his hands.

Labor in this country, city and land is also more conscious today than ever of its struggle against the imperialist power under which it also suffers. Large masses will respond to the appeal of the Pan-American Federation of Labor, even tho the imperialist-minded clique that dominates the leadership of the American Federation of Labor is silent.

Hearst urges world peace at the muzzle of a gun held by the imperialists of the English-speaking nations. That is only an imposed truce. Labor must urge the peace that comes thru the abolition of the capitalism that spawns wars. Thus Communists rally all who toil for the class war to end all wars.

NORTH DAKOTA NONPARTISANS LOSE CONTROL

Opening of Legislature Shows I. V. A. Power

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BISMARCK, N. D., Jan. 7. — The North Dakota legislature has opened its sessions here with the old-time inaugural ceremonies and the show of state troops, something which has not been seen here since 1916.

The "Independent Voters' Association", the so-called opposition in North Dakota, runs the show at the state house. They have a majority of one in the senate and eight in the house. Governor Sorlie, non-partisan leaguer, preached "harmony" and "co-operation" so long that the league farmers have now lost control of everything.

Carr Elected Speaker.

J. W. Carr, Jamestown, was elected speaker over J. H. Burkhart, Barthold, non-partisan candidate. Walter Maddock, lieutenant-governor, a non-partisan leaguer, is the president of the senate. Many are after jobs during the 60-day session. The house committee has 200 applicants for 25 jobs and the senate has about 100 for 25 jobs.

A Bankers' Governor.

Governor Sorlie is still continuing to fool the farmers here with his plea for harmony and co-operation. At a non-partisan league banquet he called for a united front of all factions in the state, that all work "in harmony" for the good of the state. Even old-time leaguers are somewhat skeptical about just where this kind of harmony is going to lead them to.

Session "Safe and Sane".

This will be a safe and sane session. The message of Governor Sorlie devoted more attention to private banking than to agriculture. On agriculture Sorlie stated the greatest need was for proper marketing of farm commodities. He let it be known that it was very necessary for North Dakota to advertise properly its "superior products" as a step in the solution of the farm problem.

This session will be interesting to watch in that not all the farmers here may be willing to go the full length with Sorlie on his "harmony" program.

'FRISCO ITALIANS RESENT PROPAGANDA OF GENERAL NOBILE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7. — The Italian fraction of the Workers (Communist) Party has distributed circulars exposing General Umberto Nobile, who is to lecture here as an agent of the fascisti, spreading propaganda under the veil of scientific lectures. The circulars are headed: "It Shall Not Take Place," and say that "we will not allow propaganda under the veil of science to take place."

Every place Nobile has gone in this country he has been met and conducted about by fascist "guards of honor." The police have announced they are taking extra precautions to protect the Italian general.

PUBLIC OPINION VOICES VIEWS ON POISONED LIQUOR

Makers of Wood Alcohol Fear Loss

WASHINGTON.—Public opinion is divided on the question of poisoning liquor.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon disclosed today that telegrams are pouring into the treasury from all parts of the country, some protesting against the poisoning of liquor, others advocating a continuation of the present policy, and still others demanding that alcohol denaturants be made even more deadly.

Treasury officials said that most of the big consumers of industrial alcohol are unanimous in advocating its use as a denaturant. They pointed out to Mellon that the use of wood alcohol has continued for twenty years or more, that a big industry has been built up on that basis and that to change the policy now would prove uneconomical.

Cleveland Federation Backs Passaic Workers Still Out on Strike

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 7. — The Cleveland Federation of Labor passed a resolution congratulating the Passaic textile strikers on their recent victories over four of the nine struck mills, pledging full support in the fight against the five mills that are still holding out against the textile union.

The resolution called upon all A. F. of L. unions to [illegible] city to support the new drive for Passaic strike relief, pointing out that of the 6,000 strikers affected by the settlements in botany and three other mills, only a small proportion had been taken back so far and that there were also over 6,000 strikers whose employers have not yet settled.

It was decided to stage a Passaic Relief Ball on January 29, in the Moose Hall.

German Government Backs Purchase of Newspapers, Charge

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Charges that the German government backed the purchase of the Journal of Commerce, Commercial Bulletin, and the New York Commercial, three Wall Street [illegible] have been made against Bernard H. Ridder, Victor F. and Joseph E. Ridder, the purchasers. The charges, made by the Volkszeitung, were denied by Bernard Ridder.

The three papers have been consolidated in the purchase and will now appear as one paper under the name of the Journal of Commerce and Commercial.

WRITE AS YOU FIGHT!

"WE WILL HOLD OUT!" DECLARE PAPER STRIKERS

Box Workers Won't Give Up Without Victory

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—"We shall hold out as long as the strikers in Passaic have been holding out, if necessary, and until the strike is won," was the unanimous answer of the 1,500 paper box strikers assembled at a huge mass meeting at the Church of All Nations. The answer of these marvelous strikers on the fourteenth week of the strike expresses the real spirit of the unionists who have been defying all brutalities inflicted upon them by the long and hard strike.

Picket Lines Strong.

Also, the picket lines this week were more energetic and cheerful, while the bosses were completely discouraged. They were certain that on the after-holiday week they would be able to run their shops with scabs, but they had built their hopes on shifting sands. The strikers are laughing at the suggestions of their bosses to return to work without a union. Nor are they afraid of the underworld agents and guerillas who are so generously paid by the employers to beat up strikers and to break their ranks.

All Must Aid.

But the answer the workers had given at the mass meeting, "that they were ready to hold out," must be backed up by the entire labor movement. The strikers depend and faithfully rely upon organized labor. Support must be coming forth. The strikers are fighting their battle for the recognition of their union. They must not be hungry while on the picket line. The arrested strikers must be bailed and their children must get bread every day.

Congress Will Prove Disfranchisement of Negro Voter in South

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Investigations into the sale of patronage in the south and the alleged disfranchisement of Negroes have been ordered by the senate judiciary sub-committee.

The committee disagreed upon whether to conduct the investigations [illegible] together. This question, it was indicated, will be left for the full committee to decide.

Disabled Veterans Complain of Trouble About Compensations

Disabled veterans of the World War are having trouble with the government in the matter of their compensation. They complain that letters written by them receive no attention. Compensation in some cases has been cut from $50 to $10 a month.

Many whose condition does not require hospital care do need to report to hospitals for treatment, sometimes as many as three or four times a week. They cannot afford the loss of time that this requires and instead must employ and pay their own family physician.

Good Time Promised at Y. W. L. Dance, Jan. 8

HURRICANE, COLD AND SNOW BRING DEATH IN SOVIET

Great Loss of Property and Life

MOSCOW, Jan. 7.—The death toll in the storms which have swept Russia during the past two days has now reached 200.

The storms, which have been of hurricane force, have done great damage through the Caucasus and along the Black Sea.

Five vessels swept out into the Black Sea with their crews are believed to have been sunk with a loss of fifty lives. The sailing vessel Centrosoyus has been definitely reported lost with a crew of eleven and two steamers are reported sunk off Kutaisk. One ship with a crew of six sank at the entrance of the Baku harbor.

In the Baku oil fields more than 300 derricks have been blown down, four workmen killed, and several millions of dollars of damage done.

Thousands of Armenians, who were left homeless by the earthquakes in the vicinity of Leninekan, are reported to be suffering great privation and many have frozen to death, according to reports received here.

In Tiflis the snow has reached an unprecedented depth of six feet, causing great suffering and damages to fruit orchards which have been destroyed.

Batum has suffered the coldest weather it has known for fifty years and the fruit orchards there have also been blasted.

Twenty-two miners were killed at Novcalbiak when an avalanche of snow swept down the mountain side and buried their barracks.

Legislature Waits to Know Who Is Mayor

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The state legislature is preparing to mark time until it knows the results of the mayority race in Chicago on April 5, the it may be able to make a guess on the subject after the primary of Feb. 22.

The legislature has adjourned and shut up shop for two weeks, in spite of the efforts of the leaders to cut the recess to a week.

The members are anxious to know who will, as mayor, preside over the affairs of half of the population of the state before it commits itself to very much important legislation.

Bread Trust Paternalism.

NEW YORK.—Group insurance for more than 10,000 employes of the Continental Baking Corp., a unit in the Ward Baking combination popularly called the "bread trust," has been announced by George C. Barber, chairman board of directors. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. carries the policies, which amount to about ten million dollars life and nearly as much accident insurance. The first premium is being paid in full by the company. From then on, the company and insured workers will share the cost of this paternalistic measure. The firm is in the group of open shop baking concerns under fire of the Intl. Bakery & Confectionery Workers' Union nationally and the Amalgamated Food Workers' Union in addition to international locals in New York.

The Lenin Memorial Meetings— An Efficiency Test.

The coming Lenin Memorial Meetings will be a fine test of the efficiency of our literature and propaganda machinery. No meeting can be said to be fully successful unless there has been a good sale of literature, appropriate to the type of meeting. With the memorial to Lenin, we will have the best opportunity of the year for this purpose.

The plans for the Lenin Memorial Meetings this year should make ample provisions for an energetic and efficient literature committee—including girls, plenty of them, the prettier the better, and young pioneers, live ones, only. It might be possible to arrange an attractive costume for the literature committee to wear, one appropriate for the occasion.

The literature should be displayed at the meetings with an eye to salesmanship, using pictures of Lenin, the Lenin Calendar, books, red and black colorings so as to make an artistic and attractive arrangement. The books on sale should be bound with the red and white paper band, which we have printed, to make each book a real souvenir of the memorable day. Literature should be advertised liberally, through posters, in the program, and through announcements from the platform. Above all, the literature offered should not be a hash of everything under the sun. It should consist of matter pertaining to Lenin and the subject of the meeting.

Those who sell the literature should be carefully trained beforehand so that they know how to sell each book or item, what slogans to use, how to recommend the books, etc. It would be a good thing for each comrade to read the book, before trying to sell it. I would attack the audience with the literature in waves, like infantry. The first wave might go out with "Lenin, His Life and Work" by Yaroslovsky, primed with arguments, and covering everyone in the audience with this valuable work. If everyone in the audience does not buy a copy of this new pamphlet, then the meeting has been partially a failure. The next wave would attack with the Lenin Calendar. Each succeeding wave would launch the attack with another of Lenin's works, or a book about Lenin. Needless to say that the Special Memorial Issue of THE DAILY WORKER will receive due attention.

Get the score of efficiency of your meeting on the basis of the number who attended, the enthusiasm of the crowd, the amount of money that was made, and THE AMOUNT OF LITERATURE SOLD.

BERT MILLER.

ASKS ACTION OF MINER OFFICERS IN IOWA COUNTY

Time Is Now to Show Worth, Says Member

William Marshall, union coal miner of Mystic, Iowa, writes the following in regard to union conditions in subdistrict No. 1, District 13:

"The drive is on in this sub-district No. 1 of the United Mine Workers of America for the 1917 scale. Some of the miners are working and we don't know what scale they are getting.

"Now, this county has been a good, loyal union county. But there is an end to endurance. Now is the time for the district officers to show what they are good for. Because of the drive made by the railroads, who are dictating the price of steam coal, the miners have been living in a semi-starvation way for four years.

"If the United Mine Workers of America could put some money in this district for union work it would help some. The railroads think this county is a weak spot in the union, but if we get financial aid we can win."

Jewish Workers Give Concert.

The Northside Jewish Workers' Educational Club will hold a concert on Saturday evening, January 8, at the Workers' Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch St.

The program will consist of numbers by the well-known mandolin orchestra, violin and piano solos and several dance numbers.

The affair is being run for the benefit of the club and a very fine program has been arranged.

A Correction.

A. Mietla, of Kenosha, Wis., asks The DAILY WORKER to publish a correction of an item which some papers carried to the effect that his son was injured on a train between Kenosha and Chicago. The son was not on the train. Mrs. Mietla was, but she escaped injury. We are glad to inform Mr. Mietla's friends of this good news.

Russian Council to Meet.

All Russian organizations are urged to send delegates to this meeting and become acquainted with the work which it intends to do.

Calexico Gets Heavier Shock.

CALEXICO, Cal., Jan. 7.—A violent earthquake rocked Calexico and Mexicali at 8:44 a. m. today, tumbling down hundreds of walls already weakened by other shocks since New Year's Day.

The shock appeared to be of greater intensity than any of its more than a hundred predecessors.

No fatalities or injuries have been reported.

Birthday Issue Out Next Week!

On January 13, 1927, there will be a Special Birthday Number of The DAILY WORKER in honor of our Third Birthday. The issue will be devoted to special articles, pictures, stories and a full account of the Sacco-Vanzetti case. We can think of no better service to which to put our Special Birthday Issue than to the cause of Sacco and Vanzetti. We can think of no better way of celebrating our birthday than by making a strong plea for their freedom. We are asking that our readers place their names on the Honor Roll in this special issue to indicate their support of Sacco and Vanzetti as well as their support of the only daily paper which is waging a real fight for their freedom. Send in your dollar for your greeting NOW!

Pin your dollar to the blank below and mail it to The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill., before January 10, 1927.

HERE'S MY DOLLAR, COMRADES,

Hands Off China! Withdraw the 52 Gunboats in Chinese Waters!

The United States had 52 warships of various kinds in Chinese waters, according to a report made on October 10 last.

There is little likelihood that this number has been decreased since that time, so the news that a concentration of American naval forces is taking place in the Yangtze river between Hankow and Shanghai and that an American fleet is in the East China sea off Shanghai has especial significance.

Great Britain has withdrawn from Hankow and the peoples armies are advancing on Shanghai. Their commander-in-chief, Chang Kai-shek, has announced that Shanghai will be taken by the Peoples Armies about Feb. 1.

As usual, it is announced that American naval forces are simply protecting American lives and property but the peaceful manner in which the Chinese workers of Hankow took over the British concession, with the memory fresh in their minds of their 3,000 fellow-workers massacred recently at Wahsien by British gunfire, shows that the Peoples government is not fighting against individual foreigners.

There has been no single incident in all the fighting of the last five months where Americans or Englishmen have been injured or even attacked by the National forces. The statements, to the contrary are part of the monstrous fakery which always accompanies imperialist campaigns—both in victory and defeat, as is the case in China today.

With 52 gunboats in Chinese waters American imperialism appears, next to Japan, as the most formidable armed force in the Far East.

If the United States intends to pursue a policy of friendliness and commercial relationship with the victorious Peoples government, why has it been building up this enormous war-fleet in the Chinese waters?

This is a question of immediate and fundamental importance for the American masses. The conflicts between the imperialist powers in the Far East are so intense, the stakes so big and the situation created by the onward march of the Peoples Armies which will culminate in the fall of Shanghai, the largest port in China and the third largest in the world, so acute, that war may be precipitated between sunset and dawn.

The demand of "Hands Off China" and the immediate withdrawal of all naval and military forces must not be allowed to die down. It must continue to be made in the most emphatic manner until the Peoples government of China is established so firmly that the combined strength of world imperialism cannot prevail against it.

A Sample of Capitalist Cant

The mayor of the city of Garfield, New Jersey, wrote a letter to the head of the Forstmann-Huffmann textile firm suggesting that in the interest of "peace and good will" the firm should come to terms with its employes who have been striking for the right to organize for eleven months.

In the typically canting manner of the bourgeois slave-driver, Julius Forstmann replied, saying that he was in hearty accord with the desire for industrial peace expressed by the mayor and then went on to show he was practicing what he preached.

This was by way of the company union route. The industrial baron would do as he pleased with his slaves or he would know the reason why. His employes can have peace any time they want it—by surrendering to Forstmann. This is the language of the autocrat who has not yet been sufficiently impressed with the power of organized labor, directed by militant leadership.

Forstmann demands the right to exploit his employes to the limit of his ability and their capacity. He does not want to have any union around. He prefers to deal individually with his help or thru a "union" officered by company officials.

Judging by the temper of the textile strikers Forstmann will be obliged to change his tune. Mill owners, just as hard-boiled as he is, have given way under the impact of the collective clenched fist of the textile workers. The employes of the Forstmann-Huffmann company have voted not to return to work until their union is recognized. By the time Forstmann is thru groping around for a "christian" way out of the difficulty he may have reached the conclusion that that kind of "christianity" does not always pay.

China Keeps Going; So Do the British

The Cantonese revolutionary armies are continuing to consolidate their positions and giving the bunt's rush to whatever British soldiers they find knocking around where they should not be. It looks now as if the British would not have to shoulder the "white man's burden" in China much longer.

The British blame their unpopularity in China on the Russians, as Secretary of State Kellogg blames American imperialism's difficulties in Nicaragua on Moscow via Mexico. Those boys are never hard up for excuses as long as Moscow exists. And that looks like a permanent excuse for them. The socialists could solve this problem by having Moscow jump into the lake. Then the capitalists would not have so many good excuses, but perhaps they would not have so much trouble either.

The invincibility of the imperialist powers has been given a black eye by the Chinese. It must be a sight for the gods to see a group of Chinese workers tossing British marines into the river while dignified British officials play angrily with their monocles. Imperialism, not merely the British brand, is finding the sledding a little hard. It will be harder before it melts into historical oblivion.

The New Drive on Militant Trade Unionism

Article XII (Conclusion).
By WILLIAM F. DUNNE.

IF we listen to the typical American labor leader we discover that he harps long and loud upon the services to the movement. Rarely, if ever, does he mention the matter of reward. As a matter of fact, it is considered bad taste in official labor circles to speak of salaries and expense accounts except in those moments of confidence when, liberally supplied with pre-war liquor, American labor leaders gather around the poker table and "kid" one another about the uncomplaining manner in which the rank and file foots their bills.

SALARIES in the American trade union movement run from $5,000 per year up. The "up" is twice the salary of a congressman, senator or cabinet officer. Warren Stone, late head of the locomotive engineers, held the record with $25,000 per year.

Even small fry in the labor movement get salaries which a small business man envies.

Fitzpatrick and Nockels, chairman and secretary respectively of the Chicago Federation of Labor, get $5,200 per year.

Walker and Olander, holding similar positions in the Illinois State Federation of Labor, get $6,500 a year.

Petrillo, head of the musicians' union in Chicago, gets $13,000 per year.

Jewell, head of the railway department of the A. F. of L., gets $7,500

Daniel Tobin, president of the teamsters' union, one of the lowest paid group of workers in the country, gets $15,000 per year.

Mahon, head of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes' Union, gets $14,000 per year.

President Green of the A. F. of L. gets $12,000.

THESE salaries in most instances are accompanied by expense accounts ranging from $10 per day to $25 and labor leaders without a continual expense account are as scarce as Indian rajahs without harems.

When Farrington was president of District 12 (Illinois) United Mine Workers of America, he had his home in Indianapolis and had a perpetual expense account because he had to be in Springfield. John L. Lewis lives in Springfield and charges a continual expense account because he has to be in Indianapolis, the headquarters of the union. The two cities are a few hours apart.

A witty coal miner once suggested that Farrington and Lewis exchange wives and save the union about $10,000 per year.

THE needle trades unions are not a stingy with their officials—especially those with some intellectual attainments. J. B. Salutsky (Hardman), on the staff of Advance, official organ of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, was drawing $110 per week a few years ago, and probably gets around $125 per week now. Charles Erwin, socialist and former editor of the Call, gets less than Salutsky, but about twice the wages of the average member of the A. C. W. A. Book cuts and shoots be written on the methods by which labor officials add to their incomes, but their salaries and expense accounts alone place them a long way above the needle workers whom they "assist."

THE needle trades unions, beginning as unions of sweated workers, have rapidly developed an aristocracy which differs little, except in social-democratic cleverness, from the typical A. F. of L. bureaucracy.

There has also developed in other unions of Jewish workers an stratum which shares its plunder in some small degree at least with the socialist party leadership.

With their economic status far superior to that of the masses of workers, the elements listed above, with the aid of the bosses and the government, make war upon the section of the membership which insists that union officials should beleng to the working class.

IT must not be thought that these elements do not have some mass support. They do. It consists of workers who, for one reason or another, enjoy better wages and working conditions than the majority of the working class, who are more backward politically for historical reasons than the rest of the union membership.

SAID Lenin:

> This upper strata of workers or "semi-bourgeoisie" is entirely or wholly petty bourgeois with regard to their manner of living and the size of their earnings, as well as in regard to their entire world viewpoint, constitutes one of the main props of the Second International, and at present the main social prop of the BOURGEOISIE. Far the truest AGENTS OF THE BOURGEOISIE IN THE LABOR MOVEMENT are the labor lieutenants of the capitalist class, who are the truest apostles of reformism and chauvinism. (Emphasis in translation.)

WE have here the explanation for the united front of social bureaucracy and trade union officialdom. They live the same way, they are joint participants in the distribution of the enormous surplus which American imperialism accumulates from all quarters of the globe, and their task is to crush out all tendencies towards militant struggle for economic demands and development of mass political consciousness as workers and trade unionists.

FROM our survey of the forces organized against the left wing, their public statements, the statements of the capitalist press in support of the right wing, the twin-like character of the capitalist program for the unions and the program of the fakeldom-worker-employer co-operatism, the joint demand of labor officialdom and capitalist spokesmen for definite increases in production in return for slight wage increases, the assertions of both trade union officialdom and socialist party leaders that the unions are and must remain only economic organizations, from the fact that the attack on the left wing centers now in unions which have fought and won strikes after rejecting the worker-employer co-operation policy, from the extension of the fight into all broad mass movements of a militant working class character, we can say that the premises laid down in the introduction to these articles have been proven. They have been proven by the statements of labor officialdom, capitalist apologists, socialist party leaders and government officials.

THE HARDEST the offensive of the united front of reaction the Communist and left wing workers represent the interests and fight for the right to strike, the right to free expression of political opinions in the unions, the right of the rank and file to make decisions without intimidation from gangsters in the pay of the official machine.

It is not for "the preservation of the trade unions" that officialdom is contending, but for trade unionism in name only—a lifeless, impotent organization managed in the interests of the bosses and resembling trade unionism only in that it supports an officialdom which talks of trade unionism—with its tongue in its fat jowl.

THE left wing is fighting to make the unions instruments and weapons of the whole working class.

This fight it will win by raising those issues which are of the most immediate importance to the masses, concentrating all efforts on winning these elementary struggles, exposing the true role of the present labor leadership, organizing, teaching, fighting the battles of the workers, extending the struggle to the whole labor movement and spreading it by determination and activity to the ranks of the unorganized, drawing into the struggle a very available force against the agents of capitalism in the labor movement.

AS the gap between the masses of exploited workers and officialdom widens by reason of the open reaction of the latter, the left wing, still small and weak in numbers but mighty with potential power, will tend more and more to become THE labor movement.

The millions of workers in America who toil long hours for low wages and to whom labor officialdom pays no attention except to sabotage their struggles, are a guarantee that the left program will become the program of the American masses.

(The End.)

RUTHENBERG TO GIVE SECOND OF LECTURE SERIES

Speaks Again Next Sunday Here

On Sunday, Jan. 2, the lectures given by the Chicago Workers' School commenced with C. E. Ruthenberg giving the first of a series of three lectures on the "History of the Communist Movement in the United States."

Early History.

Comrade Ruthenberg's first lecture took in the conditions of the early development of the Communist Party, the lightning and rapid growth of the socialist party as a result of its stand against war expressed in the St. Louis resolution, its membership growing to about 125,000. The failure to carry out this resolution, however, coupled with the failure to support the Russian revolution and the general reformist attitude becoming more pronounced within the socialist party causing the development of a left wing.

"Red Raids."

How the left wing originally consisting some 65,000 supporters at its earliest stage of independent existence developed in different directions and into separate divisions, was brought out in the course of the lecture. The persecution of the Palmer "red raids," however, sifting the weaker elements and the various processes of the at that time existing Communist Party into its final unification into the Workers (Communist) Party, formed the conclusion of this first part of the series.

It is not the purpose here to give a complete description of the lecture. That can only be gained by attending the meetings. Altho the first lecture is over, there are still two more of the same series of three to be given, after which follows a series of three lectures by Wm. Z. Foster on "Problems of the American Labor Movement," and three lectures by James P. Cannon and others.

Northwest Hall.

The Chicago workers are invited to attend these lectures. The next will be given Sunday, January 9, 1927, at the Northwest Hall, corner North and Western avenues at 8 p. m. Admission is twenty-five cents. There will be no collection.

Negro Editor Will Speak.

Irving Dunnee, editor of the Negro Champion, will speak on "The Negro and American Labor" at a meeting of the open forum of the Young Workers League, Section 4, Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, at 1239 South Sangamen Avenue.

Detroit to Hear About Mytha.

DETROIT.—Prof. O. O. Morris will speak on "the Origin of Myths" before the Detroit Labor Forum, Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the auditorium of the Cass Technical High School.

Cantonese Victory in China Inevitable, Says Chinese Editor Here; Shanghai Will Be Captured Soon by Southern Government

Recent developments in China point to an inevitable victory of the Canton revolutionary government over the north Chinese warlords and ultimate control of all China by the southern forces, in the opinion of L. P. Eder, editor of the Chicago Chinese daily newspaper, Kung Shang Yat Po, who keeps in close touch with the great struggle taking place in his native land.

The anti-Canton government of Peking is losing strength rapidly, being repudiated by virtually all of the people in north China, who are overwhelmingly sympathetic with the revolutionary government, and the hold that the foreign powers had is so precarious now that they have little control, Jin declared.

The reception accorded Great Britain's recent memorandum on Chinese policy by the other powers reveals how the powers are no longer united, but are fighting among themselves, he pointed out.

Control Half China.

Control of more than half of the territory of China and of a great deal more than half of the people of China is in the hands of the Canton government, he said. The bulk of China's population is in the southern provinces, which Canton controls.

To Take Shanghai.

Cantonese troops will be in the city of Shanghai in not less than two months, Jin predicted, basing his statements on information he gets from China. The southerners are already within 100 miles of the city. Shanghai is the most important city of China, being the main port. Capture of Shanghai will give the Cantonese control of the entire Yangtze river basin. Shanghai will probably be reached thru Hangchow, capital of Chekiang province, Jin said. An important railroad line connects the two cities. Chekiang province was recently with the Peking government, but withdrew last week and is now a part of the revolutionary territory.

Workers in Lead.

The workers are also taking the lead in support of the revolution and are unyielding, Jin said. A "boycott" has been declared by the workers against foreigners and very little work is being done for them, Jin said. the Chinese workers declaring they will work only for their own people.

A cable received by Jin this week told of 10,000 workers taking charge of the British concession district at Hankow, when they took possession of the custom houses. Little resistance was met, the cable said, and order was maintained.

British Makes Approach.

That the strength of the Canton government is appreciated by the foreign powers is apparent, Jin said. Several weeks ago the new British ambassador called on the Canton foreign minister, Chen, he said, and offered the Canton government British "support" and financial assistance.

Chen refused this unconditionally, declaring against forming any sort of alliance with Great Britain, he reported.

Americans Aid.

Chinese in America are demonstrating their solidarity with their brothers in the revolution, Jin said. Much financial assistance is being given the Canton government by the Chinese in America. More then a half million dollars has already been sent, he said. Chicago Canton sympathizers have sent $25,000.

Aid to Class-War Prisoners Planned at Big N. Y. Bazaar

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The annual bazaar of the New York sections of the International Labor Defense will be held for March 10-13, inclusive. The defense organization hopes to raise $10,000 for aid to labor prisoners. The first conference of the basic committee invites representatives from unions and sympathetic labor organizations.

Boston Workers to Protest Against White Terror and Fascism in Lithuania.

BOSTON.—Workers of Boston and vicinity will record their protest at the rule of fascist terrorism in Lithuania at a mass meeting arranged by the Lithuanian branch of the International Labor Defense at Lithuanian hall, corner E and Silver streets, South Boston, Mass., Sunday, Jan. 9, at 7 p. m. There will be a number of well-known speakers, among them Baron Pensaita of New York and Robert Zeis, district organizer of the I. L. D.

Cannon Is Speaker at Boston Lenin Memorial Meeting on January 20

BOSTON, Mass., January 7. — This year the Lenin Memorial meeting will be held here Thursday, Jan. 20, at Ford hall, at 8 o'clock.

The principal speaker will be James P. Cannon of Chicago, nationally known labor leader and orator and prominent in the organization of the miners and member of the central executive committee of the Workers (Communist) Party.

There will also be a very interesting musical program. The committee expects a record crowd.

Painters and Electric Workers Confer.

WASHINGTON—(FP)—Executives of the Brotherhood of Painters meet those of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers in conference on jurisdiction over painting of their poles, cable boxes and other electrical carrying equipment at American Federation of Labor headquarters on Jan. 2. The conference was urged by the Detroit convention of the A. F. of L. after consideration of the dispute.

FEDERAL MAIL EMPLOYES ASK NEW STATUTES

Railway Postal Men Support 3 Bills

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Three bills whose enactment is sought by the Railway Mail Association, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, are ready for favorable report from committee in the house.

The first is the Kelly bill requiring that all mail cars be of steel construction. This would end the use of wooden cars where only 30-foot compartments are leased for carrying mail. Deaths in wooden cars are far more likely than in steel cars when wrecks occur.

Hour Demands.

Second is the hours of service bill, establishing a maximum average of six and a quarter hours per day, 360 days a year, for railway mail clerks. Since they must often work 12 to 18 hours on a continuous run, the need for long periods of rest in order to restore their strength is insisted upon.

Third is the night differential bill. The clerks demand, and all postoffice employes' unions ask, that 45 or 50 minutes of work at night count for the sema as 60 minutes' work in the daytime. Postmaster General New recommended a differential in pay, instead, last year. But when the white house opposed this increase in pay he withdrew. This year he repeats his recommendation, and the unions do not credit him with good faith.

Labor "Friend" Fights.

Filibustering against the time differential bill in committee is Representative Sproul of Illinois, who was elected with the endorsement of organized labor. He is now spokesman ler New in the contest.

Melrose Park Mexicans Were Not Only Beaten and Fined, But Robbed As Well

The outrageous treatment given about 37 Mexicans at Melrose Park, following the shooting affair in that suburb in the early morning hours of Dec. 7, grows as new evidence comes to light.

It now appears that some of the 36 who were driven from their box car homes and taken to jail were robbed by the police of some of their property. The police of Melrose Park, Oak Park, and Chicago had the Mexicans in charge, and some of them are accused by their victims of theft.

J. Trinidad Garcia has submitted to the Mexican consulate a list of the effects which he and four or five other Mexicans lost at the time. The list includes four watches with a total value of $200; money to the amount of $133; an overcoat valued at $65; a watch chain worth $12.50; and two silk shirts which had cost $16.

The Mexican consulate has placed the matter in the hands of its attorney, Mary Belle Spencer, with the request that she see what can be done in the matter.

This property loss is in addition to the fines of $50 each and costs which the judge of the peace of Melrose Park slapped on them, and quite apart from the beating up which some of them received at the hands of the assembled officers of several suburbs and Chicago.

Do we need the Council for the Protection of the Foreign Born?

Steals to Feed Family.

PORTLAND, Oregon — Because his wife and two babies were hungry and he stole money from Salvation Army Christmas boxes with which to feed them, J. T. Mariatt, 27, is in jail here. The amount he took from the boxes was $3.

CHAPTER XVII.
The Exposure.

I.

All that fall and winter the trouble had been calling from the hills of Paradise unheeded. Bunny didn't want to go there. But now it chanced that Dad had some matters to see to, and his chauffeur had got sent to jail for turning bootlegger in his off hours. Dad was having spells of bad health, when he did not feel equal to driving; and this being a Friday, his son offered to take him.

The Rose Junior tract had nothing left of Bunny but the name. There was a strange woman who housekeeper in the ranch house, and the Rascum cabin had been moved, and the bougainvillea vine replaced by a derrick. Every one of the fellows who had met with Paul was gone, and there were no more intellectual discussions. Parties was now a place where men worked hard at getting out oil, and kept their mouths closed. There were hundreds of men Bunny had never seen before, and these had brought a new atmosphere. They patronized the bootleggers and the poolrooms, and places for secret gambling and drinking. "Orange-pickers" was the contemptuous name the real oil workers applied to this new element, and their lack of familiarity with their jobs was a cause of endless trouble; they would slip from greasy derricks, or get crushed by the heavy pipe, and the company had had to build an addition to the hospital. But of course that was cheaper than paying union wages to skilled men!

A deplorable thing happened to Bunny, his reading of a book was interrupted by a visit from the wife of Jick Duggan, one of the men in the county jail. The woman insisted on seeing him, and then insisted on weeping all over the place, and telling him harrowing tales about her husband and the other fellows. She managed him to go and see for himself, and he was weak enough to yield—you can see how imprudent it was, on the part of a young oil prince who was trying to grow his hard shell, as that he could be a help to his old father, and enjoy life with a darling of the world. Bunny knew that he was doing wrong, and showed his guilt by not telling his father where he was going that rainy Saturday afternoon.

They let him into the jail without objection; the men who kept the place being used to it, and unable to foresee the impression it would make upon a young idealist. The ancient dungeon had been contrived by an architect with a special genius for driving his fellow beings mad. There were "cages," with iron ing doors with keys, like other jail cells, were designed as revolving turrets, and whenever you wanted to put a new prisoner in, you took one out, you revolved the turret until an opening in one set of bars corresponded with an opening in another set. This revolving was done by means of a hand-wheel, and it involved a frightful grinding and shrieking of rusty iron. There were three such tanks, one on top of the other, and the revolving of any one inflicted the uproar on everybody. In the course of the jail's forty years of history, scores of men had gone mad from having to listen to these sounds at all hours of the day and night.

Have you ever had the experience of meeting some person you know and love shut behind bars like a wild beast? It was something that hit Bunny in the pit of his stomach, and made him weak and faint. Here were seven fellows, all but two of them young as himself, crowding together like so many friendly and affectionate deer, nuzzling thru the bars and expecting lumps of sugar or bits of bread. Their pitiful clamor of welcome, the grateful light on their faces—just for a visit, a few minutes of a rich young man's time!

Poetry and Revolutiom

By V. F. Calverton

Revolutionary poetry may be the result either of deep protest or discontent, or of a radical change in society. There was revolutionary poetry in Russia before the late Revolution of the Bolsheviki, and there was revolutionary poetry, too, in Germany in the eighteen-twenties, long before the proletariat was organized into either party or union. It is clear that certain dissections and definitions are imperative. In the first place, revolutionary poetry, it is obvious, is the result of an exciting and agitating social urge. It could scarcely arise from placid society. It discloses the existence of social struggle and conflict. The artist is often unaware of the entire implications and extensions of his revolt. Of course, there are artists who are consciously revolutionary in their social attitude as well as their esthetic. The latter, however, are fewer in number, than the former. The reaction of the artist is part of the behavior of social forces. The extensity and intensity of his revolt is dependent upon his chemistry of character as well as his degree of social vision. Social vision alone does not give genius to the artist's touch, but it is the necessary background for great social art, the production of moving social beauty.

Poems of protest are abundant; poems of revolt are few. A poem such as Francis Adams'

To the Christians.

—Take, then, your paltry Christ,
Your goodman God,
We want the carpenter's son,
With his saw and hod.

We want the man who loved
The poor and the oppressed,
Who hated the rich man and king
And the scribe and the priest

We want the Galilean
Who knew cross and rod,
It's your "good taste" that prefers
'A bastard "God!"

is certainly denunciatory of the bourgeoisie, but not Christian sentimentalism, is assuredly not a poem of revolutionary vision. Margaret Widdemer's Factories is a poem of social appeal:

I have shut my little sister from life and light
For years, for a ribbon, for a wreath across my hair;
I have made her restless feet still until the night,
Robbed from sweets of summer and from wild spring air;

I who ranged the meadow lands, free from sun to sun,
Free to sing and pull the buds and watch the far wings fly,
I have bound my sister till her playing-time is done
And my little sister, was it I?—was it I?

I have robbed my sister of her day of maidenhood
For a robe, for a feather, for a trinket's restless spark),
And from Love till dusk shall fall, how shall she know good,
How shall she pass scathless through the sinlit dark?
I who could be innocent, I who could be gay,
I who could have love and mirth before the light went by,
I have put my sister in her mating-time away—
And, my young sister,—was it I?—was it I?

I have robbed my sister of the lips against her breast
For a coin, for the weaving of my children's lace and linen),
And her face beside the loom, hands that cannot rest,
Dear, until she know motherhood, whose strength is gone?
I who took no heed of her, starved and labor-worn,

I against whose placid heart my sleepy gold heads lie
Round my path they cry to me, little souls unborn,
God of Life—Creator! It was I! it was I! and yet, I too, is not a revolutionary effort.

Even such a spirited and rhythmic poem as Masefield's Consecration:

Not of the princes and pleadres with periwigged charioteers
Riding triumphantly laurelled to lap the fat of the years,
Rather the scorned—the rejected—the men hemmed in with the spears;

The men of the tattered battalion which fights till it dies,
Dazed with the dust of the battle, the din and the cries,
The men with the broken heads and the blood running into their eyes.

Not the be-medaled commander, beloved of the throne,
Riding cock-horse to parade when the bugles are blown,
But the lads who carried the koppie and cannot be known.

Not the ruler for me, but the ranker, the tramp of the road,
The slave with the sack on his shoulders priced on with the good,
The man with too weighty a burden, too weary a load.

The sailor, the stoker of steamers, the man with the clout,
The chantyman bent at the halliards putting a tune to the shout,
The drowsy man at the wheel and the tired lookout.

Others may sing of the wine and the wealth and the mirth,
The portly presence of potentates godly in girth;—
Mine be the dirt and the dross, the dust and scum of the earth!

Theirs be the music, the color, the glory, the gold;
Mine be a handful of ashes, a mouthful of mould,
Of the melmed, of the halt and the blind in the rain and the cold—

Of these shall my songs be fashioned, my tale be told.
It is not a revolutionary production.

All of these poems express sympathy for the proletariat, all are in protest against a society that breeds poverty, hunger, and pain, yet none possesses revolutionary insight or philosophy. They are all part of that movement that marked the rise of new forms and the slow decay of old ideals in the latter part of the eighteenth century. They are in revolt against things aristocratic. They despise, too, the acquisite Ideal. The lower classes have captured their sympathy. At one time it was Rousseau, at another Paine, who believed in the future of democracy. For Paine, as for Mary Wollstonecraft and the Utilitarians who grew into a school of philosophic and economic significance, private property was a virtue instead of a vice. Yet despite their philosophic defense of private property these thinkers were part of the democratic movement we have described. They had a sympathy for the commoner. It was not a class-conscious sympathy, to be sure, but a sympathy that was significant in contrast to the contempt with which the older aristocracy had regarded the toiler. Out of the excitement sprang the exclamatory enthusiasm of William Blake, the English poet, who, donning a red cap, declared himself a lib-ry-boy—the shape of my head makes me so"—and who later was arrested for crying "Damn the king and you too!" when he tried to eject an officious soldier from his garden. Burns, too; and the early Wadsworth, and Cowper, the young Southey and Coleridge, were expressive of the same reaction. The poet was moved often to an exciting if not ecstatic and revolutionary madness. Cowper, with all his pious skepticism, was thrilled by the Revolution, and called it a "wonderful period in the history of mankind." Burns was beautifully dynamic in his enthusiasm. It was he who sent guns from a captured smuggling vessel to the Convention in Paris, and who enraged a military officer by stating that England, in her war with France, should meet with the failure she deserved. Burns' poem, A Man's a Man for a' That, was written at this time, most likely in 1795, although it was not published until 1796. Wordsworth was gay in his early rebelliousness. To be alive was good, but to be alive was very heaven such was the sentiment of the early Wordsworth who caressed love in those days with the careless ness of a young Lothario. As late as 1794 he wrote to his friend Mathews:

"I am of that odious class of men called democrats and of that class I shall forever continue."

In another place he wrote, with equal fervor:

"Hereditary distinctions and privileged orders of every specie, I think, must necessarily counteract the progress of human improvement, hence it follows that I am not amongst the admirers of the British Constitution."

In the actual words of their poetry, these men stood with the suppressed classes. That their stand was sentimental is not to be argued. It was a sentimentality, however, that was persuasive and, at the time, influential. Burns' poem, A Man's a Man for a' That, was expressive of an attitude that was not to be found in the aristocratic and bourgeois literature that had preceded Goldsmith's lines:

"Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates, and men decay;
Princes and lords may flourish, or may fade;
A breath can make them, as a breath has made;
But a bold peasantry, their country's pride,
When once destroyed, can never be supplied,"

while not revolutionary in either form or substance, did chalk the growth of this sentiment of sympathy for the dispossessed which had not been known in literature, except by way of vain posture of effusion, since the days of Jeremiah.

Our poetry, today, then, is chiefly poetry of protest instead of poetry of revolution. As poetry of protest is is even adulterated with sugar phrase and lachrymose attachment. Dronke's lines:

"And for your blood of God demand Grim penalty," or those of Heine:
"A curse to the king, a curse to his coffin,

A PEEK EACH WEEK AT MOTION PICTURES

Made Director of Photoplays

Dorothy Arzner.)

The only woman to be made a director of motion pictures in the last ten years is Miss Dorothy Arzner, who cut and edited "The Covered Wagon" and "Old Ironsides." She is the only woman ever to be made a director in the Paramount organization and has been given a long term contract.

"THE GORILLA HUNT."

You will find in "The Gorilla Hunt" some of the qualities that made "Grass" and "Moana of the South Seas" the wonderful pictures they were. Recording the progress of a hunt for the gorilla there are interwoven flashes of the life of the African Negro. Animal life and the primitive human life are blended in this photographic record of an African expedition. It is a quiet record, occasionally beautiful and at moments thrilling. It is always interesting.

Ben Burbridge, on expedition for the Belgian government and the Smithson an Institute for the gorilla, now fast becoming extinct, takes the picture. The majestic Congo, with its jungled shores interspersed with occasional villages, begins the movie record of this African trip. The Safari, human freight transport of hundreds of natives, is a pretty sight of beautifully muscled bodies.

In the progress of the expedition to the distant mountainous regions beyond even where Stanley and Livingston made exploration history we are given the life as it is found. The country fairly teems with animal life. Deer, python, crocodiles, hippopotami, elephants, lizards and lions come under the lens to interweave thru the film.

Most interesting is human life. Customs of cannibals and pigmies are caught, and these primitive peoples brought before our eyes. There is some remarkable native dancing that will please our blark bottom enthusiasts. They will find no trouble in recognizing various steps and contortions.

Then comes the actual gorilla hunt. Small animals are caught alive. The shooting of a monster of some 450 pounds, maddened, beating his breast in rage, is done at a range of only thirty feet and splendidly photographed to give you all the thrill of this risky business.

The variety of interest thruout the film makes it extremely worth while. Add to this the fact that there is no patriotic goo splattered over it; no eternal triangles; no chest-heaving drama; no preferable blondes; no gush and mother stuff—and you can easily see here is something on which it is worth spending your hard-earned four-bits. You'll find it at the Castle in Chicago.

BARDELYS THE MAGNIFICENT

Not Bardelys but the producers are magnificent. And how!

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer no doubt paid Rafael Sabitini plenty for the story. John Gilbert was secured to do the director. Added to this the producers spent more money on the production as a whole than did the king of France whom Bardelys served and kept so well entertained.

The story concerns a wager made by our Bardelys to win the heart of a fair (and how pure!) damsel. The adventures he goes thru until she is finally and snuggly in his embrace include duels, horseback riding, swimming a river, climbing a wall (to fair damsel's bedroom) and gymnastics aplenty that heretofore had been the sole movie property of only Douglas Fairbanks.

The comparison is very striking. All the handsome swagger, romantic physical-culture fandangles and—yes, brother—even the neatly crimmed brother—(without which, says a Spanish proverb, a man is like an egg without salt!)—all, all the old familiar traces are here. But there is also another comparison to be made. The love making of our hero has been intensified many degrees Farenheit. The death of Valentino made room for another great lover and both director and producers, anxious for the popularity from which all golden blessings flow, make a bid in this picture to place John Gilbert first in the hearts of his country-women. In this incidentally they have done a good job. The love making is artistic, hot stuff and puts John Gilbert one step ahead of his rival hot-poppa, John Barrymore.

Eleanor Boardman is the much sought maiden and to her credit goes a job well done. Roy D'Arcy sneers and sniffs and shows his teeth in well established, old style villainy. He could have sneered less without spoiling the picture.

If you are in the mood for a picture of the times when men were gentlemen, and women wore seven petticoats—you will find Bardleys the Magnificent at the Chicago Theater.

The costumes are gorgeous. The settings are splendid. The photography is first-rate. Gilbert is handsome. The story moves fast. Oh, what a wad of money Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer must have spent!

Bet Over Horse Brought First Movies

Origin of what are believed to be the first motion pictures in America have become known. Senator Leland Stanford of California thought that a horse in running, at some stage of the cycle, had all four feet lifted from the ground. He bet $25,000 on it. Instantaneous photography was suggested by a French professor. The senator had 12 cameras placed ft inches apart in a building adjacent to the race track. Each camera had a double shutter worked by a magnetic circuit released, each in turn, by pins turning on a music box cylinder, forming a contact. The proved unsound. The senator therefore had strings stretched across the track, the horses breaking the strings and snapping the cameras That was in 1877—49 years ago. The senator won his bet.

Top view shows the experimental track, with strings being stretched across it. Bottom view is an athlete doing a back somersault in what is described as the first motion picture of a human being.

The Negro in the Movies.

A decided change is taking place in the presentation of the Negro in motion pictures. No longer is he being restricted to ridicule and the slightly better presentations of the slap-stick of Snub Pollard, Harold Lloyd, Our Gang comedies and Fox pictures.

In addition to pictures acted and produced by Negroes entirely, many now pictures by leading producers are including best Negro talent, in more serious and honest portrayal. Negro actors are sow working, among others, in the new productions of Cecil DeMille's King of Kings, Porgy and Uncle Tom's Cabin; the Fox picture, The Wedding Ring and The River, produced by First National. Charles Gilpin, star of O'Neill's Emperor Jones, is now being shown in New York in the moving picture production of Ten Nights in a Barroom.

THE TINY WORKER

A Weekly. Editor, Bunny Palatnick, Roxbury, Mass.
Johnny Red, Assistant Editor.

Vol. 1. Saturday, January 8, 1927 No. 32

OH, LOOK, WHO'S HERE!

Our little Tiny Worker, H. Cohen, from St. Paul sends us this clever little song that he says he made up in the time it takes Ain No More."

He is 5 years old and his first name begins with H. I wonder if it stands for Harry—or something else. I hope he writes in to tell us. Here's the song:

Oh the old bee makes the honey comb
The young bee makes the honey
The workers make the cotton and the corn
And the Capitalists get the money.

Hey—H. Cohen—when you write to tell us if the H. means Harry or Huckelberry, why not send another poem. Gee, this is good!

HEY—DO YOU KNOW?

I wonder what's become of those clever Grand Rapids Pioneers. Remember the good stuff they sent? I hope they start the new year right — and write!

Danny Palatnick's History Pioneers, up the town only about the bank. Shall it be nice to die and become an angel—so our artist drew a picture about it. But that isn't Danny Shevitt. Bunny is smaller. He's a Tiny Worker. He writes:

This is my second contribution and I expect to keep on contributing. I am leaving the title to you."

Alright, Bunny. Here's the title on your poem:

HOW DO THEY GET THAT WAY?

One, two, three, four, five, six, seven,
All rich people go to heaven.
Where do the poor old workers go?

They tell us in school that when we die,
We're made into angels but that's a lie;
They tell us in church it's a slim person with wings,
But those I see to heaven are big fat things.

That I would like to know.
Is how they reduce them so.
When a fat lib. Morgan goes up there as fat
How do they make him as thin as that?

Isn't Bunny the wise little rabbit? That makes him editor of this issue.

HEY, WHAT'S THIS?

Charmion Oliver of San Francisco sends us this one:

What's the difference between a postage stamp and a bachelor?

Answer: One can be licked.

But Charmion isn't satisfied with that, so she sends us a joke too. Laugh this off:

Frank (eating in a restaurant): Say, Bill, what do you know about them Russian Soviets?

Bill: Not much—never ate any.

Ho-ho—not bad, Charmion, now you stop making us laugh. We're serious. They Rule.

HOW ABOUT LOS ANGELES?

What's happened to our clever Tiny Red Pioneers of Los Angeles? Hope they haven't got lost somewhere between Xmas and New Years!

The Wings of Illusion

By Alex Jackinson

HIS red face hloway with drink struggled to break thru e two-days' growth of beard, which covered the lower part of his face in an unclean stubble. His cheeks protruding beyond the reach of hair, had the outward appearance of an unpealed carrot. Hatless was he; with the fringe of hair around his bald spot wildly dishevsled. Thus he staggered into an Albany police station, panting like a tired staillon after a long journey. The visitor paused before entering, seeming a bit uncertain of his mission. His eyes almost bulged out of their sockets which were deeply set and nestled under a pair of bushy eyebrows. Suddenly he seemed to recall the purpose of his visit and made a feeble effort to straighten up, as his fingers circled around the door knob. Pushing open the door, he waddled in uncertain steps over to the desk sergeant.

The subexpected arrival was attired in a pair of saggy trousers and a blue flannel shirt, unbuttoned at the neck; a jacket unevenly folded, rested over his left arm; from e pocket of which hung the end of a colored necktie. After wiping with the cuff of his shirt sleeve a flow of saltva dripping from his half-open mouth, he began speaking, addressing himself to a burly figure seated behind the large desk.

"There's a man goin' to the chair tonight for a killin' he ain't done. I know he ain't cause I pulled the "job" myself—fistiest I did, and I wanna come clean to you cause I just seen the Almighty. Yes, it was Jesus Christ—got me—Christ I tell youse," he bellowed his voice, rising in increasing crescendo.

His lips began to twitch nervously as he saw a smile sliding over the sergeant's flushed face.

"Laugh, damn you, but it's the Gawds honest truth—may the devil take me if I be lyin' to you." To emphasize conviction to his words, the visitor spat angrily on the floor and shaking his clenched fist, continued.

"I was in Mike's saloon gettin' a drink, you know "One-eye" Mike's place over on the west side, dontcha? Well, I puts a half a dollar on the bar and order gin—it was nyo I had before, when suddonly I hears voices behind me sayin' 'it's him'—'it's him.' Save as a b——— I got, and I turns around quickly like I was gonna take a smack at 'im, when I sees it's the same guy I croaked up in Utica, only he was dressed in white this time, and next to him stood Christ. I knew it was Christ cause I seen him before. The ghost pointed his finger at me and says to him—Father, that's the man that shot me. I fell to my knees—scared stiff I was, but He disappeared. All He said was, "confess son, confess."

A policeman walked over to the desk sergeant and whispered in his ear.

"I know this bird, Dan. It's Pete Malone, a boose drinkin' bum and reformo fanatic. The boys call him 'Saint Peter' around the loop; they say he was a minister once, hut I guess that's talk, anyhow. I pulled him in for a hold-up last year. You'd better call a watchman on post, cause he's drunk now and peculiar thing is, when he's drunk, he tells the truth."

The "Saint" fumbled around his pockets, finally terminating his quest by extracting a half smoked cigerette, which he placed between two rows of tobacco teeth, and began stroking a match with his thumb nail in an attempt to light it, almost losing his balance from the effort. This completed, he further unbuttoned his shirt and untied a dirty package wrapped carefully around his bosom, which he handed to the sergeant, crying nervously:

"Here's part of the money I aint spent yet, you'll find the rest of it home."

The officer reached for the extended package, which to his surprise contained crumpled greenbacks in large denominations.

"Look this bird up until we investigate this case," he commanded, pointing to Malone, who sank to his knees moaning: "Oh, my Lord Jesus, help me—help me."

"Meanwhile, I'll better phone the district attorney and have him stay his execution." "Christ," he ejaculated, looking at a clock on the wall, "it's almost time now."

The murder to which Saint Peter Malone confessed to was the killing of a cashier employed by a Utica stone quarry, several months ago, a deed for which e young Italian labor organizer was railroaded to prison and sentenced to be executed this night.

HIS was christened Durante Gabriel Scento by a zealous god-father in Sicily, and twenty-three years later was known to the Italians of Utica as Dante. That's what his friends called him, just Dante. They knew him for a pleasant, well-mannered youth —a poet, singing the songs of earest, and liked him for it.

Dante was tall and slim of dark extraction. Sucked into the economic maelstrom at an early age, he emerged at twenty-three, a hardened crusader in the ranks of labor. His comrades looked up to him as their leader. He worked as e sions cutter, one of several hundred men employed by the Wilton Stone Works. The hours of toil were tediously long, and to alleviate the great suppression that surged in his blood, his lips would hum revolutionary songs as he pounded at his chisel, carving out the inscriptions we read upon the tombstones of the dead.

After work, the laborers, mostly Italians would meet in the woods to discuss plans for e coming strike. They were all underpaid, dissatisfied and for most part emaciated looking human beings, splitting continually the consuming dirs dust of the stones they were forced to inhale. He addressed them one memorable evening in the tongue they understood and the following week, a strike was declared. For six weeks the strike, punctuated by frequent clashes between police and the strikers dragged on uneventfully, until one morning a cyclone, great hlsrd in with the dawn of a cool October morning, which was later destined to echo in every corner of the globe.

Extra! Extra! Big Murder! cashier for the Wilton Company shot from behind by a masked bandit who escaped with the payroll, by running thru the woods. Detectives, working on case, arrest momentarily expected. Gossip—and wagging tongues soon had all of Utica seething with excitement.

The following morning, Dante Scento was taken from his home by two deputy sheriffs and held without bail as the killer. Circumstantial evidence convicted him of murder in the first degree. He was heard to say the day previous that unless he could raise some money the strike was doomed. That counted heavily against him in the hurried trial. Besides, he was seen in the woods at the time of the murder. Also, a button, supposed to have been missing from his coat was found in the office. A girl, an eyewitness, swore that his was the coat the bandit wore, the she only had a glimpse of him.

It was in the unforgettable wave of reaction that swept thru this country in the Palmer red-baiting period, that Scento was cast into jail. The same tempestuous winds that blew down the unprotected barriers of "justice" and swept in its wake, such unfortunates as Sacco, Vanzetti, Mooney and others.

The local newspapers made capital of the affair. "Labor agitator murders cashier to get money for strike. Rad conspiracy seen in killing of cashier," read some of the headlines. It was whispered about at the trial that the indicted was a Communist and an alien; therefore an undesirable citizen—a destroyer of American ideals, a free lover; no doubt—a breaker of homes, a social leper—deport him—hang him, rang the cry—only separate him from the decorous children of the National Security League. The prosecuting attorney laid stress on that point and the jury, twelve efficient, one hundred per cent American worshippers of the great god Dividends, brought in a fast verdict of guilty.

IT was now 11:30 and at midnight he was to walk to his death. He sat quietly on e hard pallet lying over an iron cot in "Murderer's Row," as the "death house" is commonly called, listening nonchalantly to the priest chaplain preparing his soul for the Creator. His eyes seemed wan and restless and his cheeks, hollow from the long confinement, were coated with the inevitable prison pallor. His face, shorn of its placid calm, was buried in the palms of his hands, and his thoughts lost in an overwhelming emptiness that animated his features. A half smoked cigarette was dangling between his dry lips. He wasn't thinking. He had already reached that stage where a man ceases to think. Mere phantoms of conceptions that once were ideas darted slowly thru his head. Beside him lay an Italian translation of Dostoyevsky's "Crime and Punishment," into which he would peep occasionally and turn dejectedly away.

He was now waiting for the prison keepers to pass along and draw the heavy green curtains over the cells; in an attempt to cover the fatal procession from the view of other prisoners. What a humanitarian thought! What an idea of hiding the death march from curious eyes. Worthy to be an offspring of William Jennings Bryan's noble cause.

Grey clad guards, their faces lined with indifference would then enter his cell and lead him thru a little green door into the bleak execution chamber. A silver haired priest, with head bowed, will walk slowly behind him. His thin hands clasped together and his mumbling lips will offer a litany to his invisiable Gods. While in the anteroom, his friends, comrades, in the movement for a better world will weep for him. They were there now, a whole delegation of workers come to bid him good bye. How they loved him. Labor thruout the world rallied to his support. He had read of protest meetings held in his behalf. Funds were raised for a defense appeal and resolutions passed by workers condemning the decision. No effort was spared to save him. His friends pounded heavily against the steel wall of justice only to find their knuckles bruised and bleeding from the effort. He spared them the pain of seeing him now; a death soon to ride out of this world e corpse, on the wings of illusion.

In the vault-like death room, the guards will stand idly by as others, paid valets to the pet upholster of law and order will strap him to that high wooden chair. What an interesting procedure? Worthy of our philosophers' attention. Funny how they slit the lower part of your trousers with a pair of blunt edged scissors and then leather straps go winding around your chest, legs and wrists, as if they'd think you'd run. Before his eyes will be blindfolded by a black cloth, an official witness, as sensitive as a Mussolini hangmen, will step over and ask him whether he has anything to say. Yes, he would have, something to say. He'd tell them that the blood of innocent men add fuel to the fires of unrest; that he was ready to die for his cause. Then the priest will step over and place a ivory crucifix to his lips, so that he may kiss the effigy of Christ and die contented. Finally a coper-lined death cap will be fitted over his head. That capt. God, how men feared to wear it! After that he'd know—yes, he'd know no more, and in such manner do men return to dust, to ashes to oblivion.

A sudden dimming of the electric lights in the other cells will act as a silent signal to the inmates whose turn to walk thru the little green door had not yet come, that the death voltage was on. A few seconds later, a second and then a third and final dimming will inform the occupants that another cell is waiting to be filled.

An uncanny silence will then overwhelm over the unfriendly stone walls. Since he was confined to the death house, he had seen many unfortunates die before in this very manner. Now the calendar marked him next to go. Next, next. There was always a next.

The death house chambers, where those marked for execution waited for the "call," was smaller and darker than the prison cell. In one of the grey walls was a small window, heavily covered with iron bars, thru which a faint glimmering of light entered. An iron cot and a small table holding a bouquet of flowers, some books and pamphlets, were its only furnishings.

The doomed one lifted his head, his eyes fell upon a food laden tray lying on an opening in the iron door. It consisted of pork chops, fried potatoes, a thin vegetable soup and rice pudding. A cigar wrapped in silver foil was enclosed in the bountiful offering. It was his meal which had remained uneaten where it was placed.

It was now 11:45. Only fifteen more minutes to wait. He heard footsteps marching in the hallway. An agnish chill ran down his spine, not from fear but from the gruesome monotony of waiting. His legs began to quiver silently inside their black trousers. "They're coming to take me," he soliloquized in Italian. His lips, pregnant with unspoken words, moved like those of a child learning to talk. He listened. The footsteps passed—they were not for him. He again buried his freshly shaven head in his hands and continued waiting. Waiting to hear the rumbling of a heavy key turning in the door lock. That would signal the end—oh, the end, will it never come? The tense agony of waiting—waiting—always waiting. First it was for an appeal, then for a reprieve that never came, and now for the end; that was sure to come. He arose to the stone floor and looked at a clock hanging on a nearby wall. Only ten more minutes, but those minutes—like so many never ending nightmares. Christ, how he wished it was all over, soon now—very soon it will be. He wondered vaguely. Would he blink his eyes, lose his nerve and vomit with fright as others before him had done, or would he die stoicly, determined as he planned. Would he? He wondered. The maddening yells of the man who died the day previous rang anew in his ears. It was a young physician who murdered his shrew of a mother-in-law by purposely applying an overdose of ether as she lay on the operating table. He was to operate upon her for appendicitis. The doctor had grown violent in his cell waiting as he was now waiting. He slashed his wrists with an improvised knife he made from a piece of steel which he picked up in the yard, and dashed his head madly against the walls. He was finally overpowered, and carried bodily awey, bleeding and raving like a frightened maniac to "that chair."

THE governor, seated comfortably in his study, had just been awakened from his sleep by a phone call from the district attorney. He was attired in a silk bathrobe under which protruded a pair of pajamas. He reclined leisurely in his chair and grasping a telephone, lifted the receiver and called "Ossining 102."

"Hello, hello, Sing Sing. Connect me with Warden Lawis, please. Hello, warden, Governor Grey speaking. Stay the execution of that Italian radical, Dante Scento. He may be innocent, there is a confession from what seems to be the actual murderer. Yes. What—Good God, governor, you don't say," came the staccato reply over the wire. "Oh, my, he was just led into the execution room. Wait, wait, hold the wire a minute. I'll see if I can stop them yet."

The governor pressed the receiver to his ears and listened. He kept puffing nonchalantly at his cigar, allowing a smile to spread over his immobile lips.

Hmm, funny how fate shuffles her cards. Fate, yes that was it, why surely he mused. What a schlerings this thing called fate is a giant hedge always ready for every misdeed to hind behind.

Some minutes later the receivor began to buzz in his ear. The governor leaned forward. "Hello, governor, Lewis speaking. You called just a few seconds too late.

"Yeah, they just turned the juice on—too had, too bad. They tell me the wop died game, too."

END.

A WEEK IN CARTOONS

By M. P. Bales

In the Wake of the News

By T. J. O'Flaherty

THE United States government is busy trying to bring the light of American democracy to the benighted people of Nicaragua, and England is disgracefully retreating out of Chinese towns where the bayonets of British soldiers once held sway. Secretary of State Kellogg has not even a plausible excuse for interfering in Nicaragua, for a few years ago his charge that Mexico was spreading Communism thruout South America might have fallen on fertile soil. Today Kellogg's silhi is given the mercy touch and even strong supporters of the capitalist system cannot refrain from insinuating that outside of the bone in Kellogg's cranium there is very little left.

• • • •

THE outstanding events of the week are: The continued progress of the revolutionary movement in China and the storm of protest that has been raised in South America against the brazen interference of our imperialists in the affairs of the republic of Nicaragua. There is little left of China for the foreign imperialists except Manchuria, since Shanghai promises to fall shortly to the Cantonese. The Chinese masses seem to be in a fair way to get rid of the foreign parasites that have bled them for generations. This will be only a step in the task of building up of a Workers' and Peasants' Republic. Speed the day.

ACCORDING to the latest reports, grain collections in the Soviet Union surpassed previous collections by a substantial amount. This is good news, not only for the Russian workers but for the workers in all countries. Soviet Russia is the main bulwark of the labor movement and the fact that the reactionary trade union officials are against the Soviet government only confirms the opinion that what is good for Russia is good for the workers in general. The reactionary labor leaders are part and parcel of the capitalist machine.

• • • •

DO we get news in the capitalist press or merely propaganda? Mostly the latter. Yet we must admit that the capitalist's papers do the trick cleverly. The job is to make the propaganda look like news. This is an art. Any experienced newspaper man can tell for what political or industrial group any capitalist newspaper is coloring the news. But the average reader will not be able to discern this fact. As far as we are concerned we, like the others, are also engaged in the business of delivering selected news. And the more we develop the ability to coin popular, homely phrases and get away from the language of the cannery the better we will be able to reach the masses.

SERMONIZING may be the best kind of mental fodder for a bill-hilly whose face is scarred with the lines of moral purpose and who hates the ravening office equally with the opponent of the Volstead law, but the worker who lives in thickly populated sections and necessarily rubs shoulders with other human beings develops a healthy skepticism and a tendency to estimate the quantity of sound in everything that is uttered by those who essay the task of saving him from economic or spiritual perdition. It would be extremely fortunate if all those we try to reach by our propaganda dropped their skepticism in our case and only were it when a capitalist politician here in sight. But this is a Utopian view, therefore we must cultivate a more efficient propaganda technique and consider the minds of those we are trying to reach rather than proving that we remember page so and so of that we are in hearty accord with comrade so and so.

THERE are more people exited over the baseball scandals than over the great out of a war with Mexico. It cannot be as if every big game for the last three decades was fixed. What means that games were given away for the sake of the betting. The notorious labor-baiter, Judge Landis, who draws $50,000 a year from baseball magnates in return for throwing a cloak of respectability around the business, is now "investigating" baseball. As usual, a few players are presented to the public as scapegoats and after the storm has blown over the magnates will be given a clean bill of health. Here is something the writer cannot get excited over but he hopes that Landis will get to the end there is available. Anyhow, what can be more merchilized baseball be but more? What can be more commercialized under capitalism? It does not mean to imply that the men who Chase the ball and swing the club are more immoral than the average person. Nothing of the sort. A person can not wade thru a sewer and come thru clean. A person cannot swallow in the social mire of capitalism and escape without a disagreeable residuum of travels.

MUSSOLINI has started the New Year right by issuing an edict against merriment. The citizens of the Italian boot...ocide must devote all their time to producing wealth for the rulers of Italy. Once happy and smiling land of Italy is now like a graveyard fit only for buzzards and undertakers. If it were necessary to enforce strict discipline for a period in the interests of the masses no right minded person would object, but Mussolini's fascism is for the benefit of the capitalists who alone enjoy life as usual. The workers only will be compelled to wear the long faces.

Stop This Wall Street War!

Washington dispatches for Jan. 8 say:

President Coolidge will not be swayed in his policy of firmness toward Latin America by the opposition in congress . . . . Senators charged that the president is deliberately leading this country into war with Mexico. . . . . .

Secretary of State Kellogg held a long conference today with President Coolidge. Later it was emphasized that AMERICAN POLICIES WILL NOT BE CHANGED DESPITE CONGRESSIONAL ATTACKS. (Emphasis ours.)

One week ago we stated that the invasion of Nicaragua was a step to war on Mexico and called for a united front of workers and farmers to resist all efforts to plunge this nation into a bloody struggle which could result only in a war of major proportions.

From the inception of the Wall Street-Coolidge policy of continual and increasing pressure on Mexico in behalf of oil, mineral and money kings, we have stated that American imperialist government would not hesitate to make war on Mexico to gain its ends.

Very belatedly, many of the "people's spokesmen" in Washington have realized that just as war on Nicaragua followed the investments of American capitalists so will war be waged on Mexico if Coolidge and Kellogg are allowed to carry on.

At a time like this, those who remain silent cast a vote for war and against the masses of workers and farmers in the United States, Mexico and all Latin America.

Those who remain silent now are supporting Wall Street's plans for feasting the vultures, already hovering over the plains and mountains to the south, on the bodies of American and Latin-American workers and farmers.

Let no one be deceived by the contemptuous tone in which the Wall Street press speaks of Mexico and Mexicans, of Latin America and Latin Americans. The 120,000,000 inhabitants of the republics to the south will resist imperialist invasion to the death and will exact a bloody toll of all who are deceived or driven into following the flag of Wall Street southward with arms in their hands.

Those who remain silent now are casting their vote for mass murder in the interest of those who rule and rob the working class and the farmers of both the South and South American continents.

Mass murder to swell the fabulous fortunes of frozen-faced, big-paunched and soft-handed millionaires and billionaires and their pampered wives and offspring is the first point on the order of business of the Wall Street-Coolidge government.

The first point on the order of business of the workers and farmers is to WRECK THESE WAR PLANS.

Let the workers and farmers of the United States say to Coolidge and Kellogg and thru them to their Wall Street masters:

We are against you and your war.

We will not fight your war, but we will fight you.

We stand shoulder to shoulder with the workers and farmers of Latin America against your Wall Street imperialism and we tell you again that WE WILL NOT FIGHT FOR YOUR LOANS, YOUR MINES, YOUR OIL WELLS, OR FOR YOU!

Send the above message to every congressman and senator and to President Coolidge himself.

Demand the withdrawal of every warship, soldier and marine from Mexican waters and from Nicaragua.

Organize anti-imperialist war meetings. Introduce anti-war resolutions in your unions, fraternal societies and co-operative organizations. Insist that officials of these organizations voice your protests.

STOP THIS WALL STREET WAR!

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

IT now looks like war between the United States and Mexico, or rather war on Mexico by the United States. It is ludicrous to hear the Washington administration say to Mexico: "Please do not try to strangle me." And it is not strange to see William Randolph Hearst, the infamous, former Anglophobe now turn Anglophile and boost for a union of America and England against the whole world. Those things do not happen by accident. The secret caucuses of the dominant capitalist factions ditty their Masonic orders and Knights of Columbus hatch the plots over their cocktails and what the masses see or hear is only what the puppets of the plotters put on the air.

THE American worker who believes that his government is obedient to the popular will is a hundred per cent sap. Before the Kaiser of Germany hurled his forces into Belgium he had to go thru some legal hocus pocus, but Calvin Coolidge invaded Nicaragua without even letting his secretary know of it. Of course, the Nicaraguan invasion was directed against Mexico for two reasons, as well as against the people of Nicaragua. First, the American oil and land interests in Mexico served notice on Coolidge that he must protect them in their looting, else they will throw him into the meanest political sewer. Second, Mexico developed a policy of taking the lead in South America against American imperialism. This could not be tolerated in Wall Street.

THE Workers Party, whose organ The DAILY WORKER is, has thru manifestoes, news articles and editorials, pointed out the probable outcome of America's imperialist expansion in South America to the American workers. Our voice has been like one crying in the desert, so far. Only

INDUSTRIALISTS BACKING FASCIST REGIME IN ITALY

Mussolini Splitting Nation, Says Deputy

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(FP)—Italy's big industrialists are paying for the expensive upkeep of dictator Benito Mussolini's fascist militia, Professor Gaetano Salvemini, exiled former deputy, told reporters upon his arrival in New York. The historian had his property, mostly publication rights for his books, confiscated by Mussolini and had to flee in fear of a fascist attack on his life.

The fascist party is not the Italian nation, says Salvemini, "but only an unscrupulous armed minority."

Italy Not "Saved."

Mussolini and the fascisti have not saved Italy from Bolshevism nor achieved a great recon "uction, Salvemini states. "In the Asmic field they have profited by conditions beyond their control, and they have light-heartedly squandered the fruits of these favorable conditions. In the political and moral field they have destroyed all faith in justice, all respect for right, all mutual tolerance.

Nation Being Destroyed.

"They are destroying the Italian nation by splitting it up into a minority of masters to whom everything, even assassinations, is permitted, and a majority of slaves, deprived of all right and protected by no moral law." The workers of Italy fall into the latter group, with their right to organize unions stolen by force.

Sack 3 Bandits.

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 9. — Police were searching for three bandits who lined up 35 men during a reported gambling game a block from the station, securing $5,500.

MINE WORKERS, NON-UNION, OUT ON WAGE STRIKE

Pennsylvania Diggers Fight 1917 Scale

By GEORGE PAPCUN.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

CRESSON, Pa., Jan. 9.—Non-union miners of five coal companies in District Two have gone out on strike. Approximately 800 miners laid down their tools when operators out their wages to the 1917 scale. Coal companies affected are: Jackson, Big Ben, Hughes, Commercial and Stanwix. It is predicted that the United Mine Workers Union will shut down the mines in Sasvardale, Portage, and Ben's Creek by Monday night.

Mine workers in the five mines were notified that when they return to work Monday the 1917 scale would be in effect. Coal and iron police are making daily visits to miners and their families urging them to return to work.

Strikers Organize.

The striking miners were immediately organized by T. Welsh, board member of the United Mine Workers, who is located at Nanty-glo. Welsh has declared that the miners at the Portage and Ben's Creek coal company properties may be expected to strike at any time. Miners at Beaverdale and Hastings, properties owned by similar interests, are reported preparing to lay down their tools and quit.

Hughes Co. Threatens.

The Hughes Coal company representatives promised to restore the Jacksonville wage agreement, but will not recognize the miners' union. The Hughes propin are said to have threatened to "nail the drift shut" if the men do not return to work immediately, but the miners, under the leadership of Welsh, are determined to win this struggle.

Police Patrol District.

The Union coal and iron police, who have been doing extra duty in this territory for two years, are engaged in gundrag the few scabs that are left.

Rumors have it that union officials and the mine operators are now negotiating to reach an agreement.

FALL MAY RUN FOR SENATE IS POLITICAL RUMOR; REED SAYS HE WON'T BE SEATED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—If Albert B. Fall, twice indicted in connection with the oil scandals, should ever be re-elected to the senate, he will never be seated.

This was the consensus of opinion today among republican and democrats leaders, following reports that Fall plans to run for re-election to the senate on the republican ticket in New Mexico next year.

While most senators laughed at the report, Senator Walsh (D) of Montana, the Teapot Dome "prosecutor" whose inquiry resulted in Fall's indictments, predicted his expulsion if elected.

"We'll have another case in the class of Vare, Smith and Gould. If Fall should be elected," said Walsh.

Mexican Troops in Fight with Rebels

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 9.—A twelve hour battle between federal troops and rebels in Guanajuato was reported to the minister of war.

The rebels were put to rout with heavy losses and one priest was killed and, another fatally wounded during the fighting.

The battle occurred when federal troops attacked rebels who were responsible for the recent attacks on the town of San Francisco Del Rincon.

DURHAM MINERS PROTEST HOURS LEAVE NO TIME FOR STUDY IN EVENING

LONDON.—An example of the unbearable terms which the British miners were forced to accept because of their betrayal by the trade union officialdom is seen in the case of the Durham miners whose hours are so outrageous that they are prevented from attending evening classes as has been their custom for a long time. Councillor T. Renfold declares that "the hours were such as to make it impossible for at least two-thirds of the men and boys to attend evening classes." He declared further that in this respect the hours were far worse than the ten-hour shifts that existed when he was a boy because then the majority of the shifts ended at 4 p. m. while now men and boys are returning to the pit bank much later.

N. Y. DRESS UNION FOR AGREEMENT WITH ITS BOARD

Workers Reject Morris Sigman's Meddling

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. — The firm decision of the dressmakers to have nothing to do with any agreement made with the employers by Morris Sigman and other officers of the International was ratitarated today by Charles S. Zimmarman, manager of the dress division of the joint board.

Pointing out that since no reply had been made by the employers' association to the demand of the joint board for a statement as to its intentions in making a new agreement, he declared that "the joint board, authorized by the membership, is free to take action."

"According to the vote at the shop chairmen's meeting last week and at the two membership meetings on Tuesday, the dressmakers will only recognize an agreement made in the regular way with the officers of the regularly elected joint board."

Consider New Agreement.

The question of a new agreement in the dress industry has been fully considered by both shop chairmen in their crowded meeting last week, and at the membership meeting of Local 22 on Tuesday evening, at which the attendance was so large that it was necessary to take another hall. By unanimous vote all three meetings authorized the joint board to take any necessary steps for the protection of the workers in the new agreement, and the shop chairmen pledged themselves to inform their employers that an agreement made with the International would not be recognized by the workers.

At a meeting of the Italian workers from Locals 48 and 89 held in Webster Hall, more than 1500 workers protested the brutal assault upon the Italian worker, Joseph Di Mola, who was attacked by gangsters of the International last Friday in the Monroe Dress Shop, a few hours after he had refused to attend a meeting arranged by the International. Loud boos greeted the announcement that his assailants, B. Riese and Louis Blumenfeld, who are receiving legal defense from the International, had jumped their bail of $10,000 each and could not be found for their arraignment.

Louis Hyman, manager of the joint board, who received an ovation when he entered the hall and as he rose to speak, declared "These murderous gangsters will yet be found and brought to justice. We will not permit to go unchallenged such an attack upon this innocent man, who now lies dying in Bellevue Hospital, the victim of the gangsterism and terrorism of the International that attempts by such

FURUSETH DEMANDS U. S. LABOR PROTEST NICARAGUAN INVASION, WAR THREAT AGAINST MEXICO

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—(FP)—Andrew Furuseth, president of the International Seamen's Union of America and a veteran delegate in conventions of the American Federation of Labor, took up with President Green on Jan. 6 the question of making a vigorous protest to the White House, in the name of organized labor, against the Nicaraguan occupation and the threats of war against Mexico.

Military staff officers have estimated that conquest of Mexico would take from 1,000,000 to 3,000,000 men, and would require a campaign from 3 months to 5 years, owing to the difficulties of subduing the natives of a semi-arid and mountainous country.

NOTE.—This is the first report from Washington indicating that pressure is being brought to bear upon the officialdom of the American Federation of Labor to take a stand against the threatening war developments. The A. F. of L. executive council meets this week at St. Petersburg, Florida.

Congress in Protest as Coolidge-Kellogg Policy Hastens War on Mexico

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Developments of the last several days in Washington and the scene of the war-like naval operations in the Caribbean, point unmistakeably to the fact, forecast by The DAILY WORKER a week ago, that U. S. imperialism is driving towards war with Mexico.

1. The unprecedented naval array in the Caribbean (larger than that used to capture Vera Cruz in 1914) ostensibly to protect the Diaz puppet government in Nicaragua, leaves no doubt that it is intended for use against Mexico. Fifteen first class ships of war are not required to subdue a little country like Nicaragua and there are more blue-jackets and marines on board than the combined number of troops in the belligerent armies in Nicaragua.

COOLIDGE AND KELLOGG DRIVE TOWARD WAR.

2. Despite vigorous condemnation of their policy in the press, in congress, and especially thruout Latin America, Coolidge and Kellogg continue relentlessly on the imperialist path staked out in the threats made several months ago by the state department that it would take drastic steps against Mexico if the oil and land laws were put into effect.

3. Calles and his government continue to maintain the sovereign rights of Mexico and follow out the constitutional mandate to preserve the oil and mineral resources of Mexico for that country despite the protested leaseholds of American millionaires who are crying for intervention by the United States.

OPPOSITION FINDS VOICE IN CONGRESS.

4. Opposition to the administration policy has flared forth in the senate and the lower house in speeches by congressmen and senators that leave no doubt that Coolidge and Kellogg have a strong opposition in the legislative branch that, however, is being counterbalanced by the mobilization of the jingo forces under William Randolph Hearst and Secretary of War Dwight Davis.

WARSHIPS RUSH TO SHANGHAI AS CANTONESE NEAR

Believe Powers Seek to Aid War Lords

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 9—Interference with the Nationalist occupation of Shanghai in their successful drive down the Yangtze against the northern troops was seen in the gathering of ships of war by various foreign powers for the ostensible purpose of protecting their nationals here.

Five United States destroyers have arrived from Manila; more U. S. boats are due from the Mediterranean; several flotillas of English ships are on the way to reinforce the already large naval contingent in the Yangtze; and the Japanese are reported mobilizing a large naval force at Nagasaki.

Panicky Talea.

Arrival here of some 300 panic stricken British, mostly women from Hankow and Kiukang has added to the needless uneasiness of the foreign population. The "refugees" arrived here on British destroyers with terrible tales of "mobs" attacking the British concession in Hankow. It is minor that none of the harrowing tales related one instance of death or injury to the foreigns. The occupation of the British concession in Hankow by the nationalists was prompted by the shooting of Chinese by British marines.

Hankow is Quiet.

Recent reports from Hankow, however, state that the Nationalists have again turned over the concession to the British and have assured protection to the area. This was done after the British consul had given the nationalist foreign minister, Eugene Chan, assurance that the British troops would not molest Chinese.

Anti-British sentiment in China is growing apace and much agitation has been carried on. Nationalists, however, are assuring foreigners nationals that they need have no fear for personal safety and that the agitation is directed against British imperialism and the unequal treaties imposed by the foreign powers.

GOVERNMENT RAN BOOTLEG PLANT TO "TRAP" BOOZE SEEKERS, MELLON ADMITS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Secretary of Treasury Mellon told the house judiciary committee that federal prohibition officers had maintained a "speak easy" in New York to entrap law violators and defended the "undercover" work of A. Bruce Bielaski, formerly head of the department of justice's bureau of investigation.

The Mellon reply was made in answer to a resolution of Representative La Guardia, republican of New York. The judiciary committee reported against further consideration of the subject.

Calles Sums Up the Fight in Word 'Oil'

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9. — "It can be summed up in one word," said President Calles to a group of American investigators when asked to explain the controversy between his country and the United States—"oil. There is no controversy between the people of Mexico and the United States. All the difficulties are between the people of Mexico and a small group of American capitalists in the United States who have besought the state department to back them up with force."

Will Start Revolt.

"The withdrawal of recognition," Calles said, "will comfort those groups of the government's enemies the clericals, the political discontents and the reactionaries. There will, of course, be disturbances. But my government will fully be able to control the situation."

This latter statement refers to outbreaks on the part of the catholic which have already been taking place and the activities of General de la Huerta in the United States looking towards the fomenting of a reactionary rebellion against the Calles government.

Ask for Free Speech Meeting at Purdue to Answer Sayre Attacks

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—A free speech meeting on the campus of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., has been asked by the American Civil Liberties Union in a letter from Forrest Bailey, a director, to Edward Johnson, secretary of the university Y. M. C. A. in the interest of "sportsmanship" and "fair play," Bailey asked Johnson to give the Rev. John Nevin Sayre of New York City a chance to answer attacks made against him and the Civil Liberties Union in the November 16 issue of the Purdue Exponent, student publication.

URGES COOLIDGE AND KELLOGG AS BULLET TARGETS

Huddleston Nominates Them for Front Line

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — "If there is war with Mexico, I nominate Calvin Coolidge as right guard and Frank Kellogg as closer of the files in the front ranks of the army," Congressman Huddleston declared as spectacular opposition to the Coolidge-Kellogg policy of intervention in Nicaragua flared forth to both houses of congress.

While Rep. Huddleston (D) of Alabama, was charging in the house that the administration "is conspiring and deliberately driving us toward a war with Mexico," Senator Wheeler (D) of Montana, and Heflin (D) of Alabama, were denouncing in the senate the despatch of troops and warships into Southern waters.

"Won't Fight Dirty Wars"

Heflin declared he would "go along to fight any dirty wars engendered in foreign," and Wheeler declared that administration was "going into" Nicaragua and Mexico.

"Fitting Money."

"It is [illegible] the United States that [illegible] Nicaragua [illegible] the money [illegible] Mexico [illegible] Wheeler [illegible] now [illegible] Mexico [illegible] Wheeler [illegible] Mexico [illegible] Wheeler [illegible] Mexico [illegible] Wheeler

TAKE DOWN 'BIG STICK' FOR USE AGAINST MEXICO

Forces in the Caribbean Aimed at Calles

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — The traditional American "big stick" has been taken from its shelf and polished up for use anywhere below the Rio Grande, Mexico included.

This view was universal accepted in Washington today in the wake of developments of the past 48 hours, which have included the concentration of fifteen warships and 5,000 men in Caribbean waters, and the positive announcement from the White House that the administration is prepared "to protect American interests wherever threatened."

Aimed at Mexico.

Inasmuch as President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg consider that nowhere are American interests so threatened as in Mexico, The White House announcement was regarded on every hand as a thinly veiled warning to the Calles government. It was directed at Nicaragua, but aimed at Mexico.

Further evidence that the administration's present vicerous policy in quelling the Nicaraguan revolution is in reality a demonstration of American power to impress Mexico City was furnished by an analysis of the fighting strength which has been concentrated in Nicaraguan waters—within easy striking distance of the East Coast of Mexico, where most of the American oil fields and large interests are located.

15 Ships of War.

There are six light, fast cruisers, seven destroyers, a submarine tender and a mine sweeper now adjacent to Mexican waters, carrying a fighting complement of 5,000 marines and bluejackets.

The process is to be, according to information here, for Admiral J. L. Latimer to extend the "neutral zones" as rapidly as possible. American troops take possession of these zones, disarm both the government force under Diaz and the revolutionists under Sacasa. Eventually this process will succeed in disarming all of the combatants, and leave control of the country in the hands of Diaz, which is just where the state department wants it. Diaz was elected to the presidency by the state department.

Mexico Has Right.

The greatest possibility of "trouble" is admitted to be in the efforts of Mexican gun-runners to get arms to the Sacasa forces. Sacasa is recognized as the constitutional president of Nicaragua by the Calles government of Mexico.

If American naval forces intercept a Mexican vessel carrying arms to Sacasa an open clash may result that will have far-reaching effects. Mexico, if she chooses, can stand stiffly on her prerogatives as a sovereign nation and insist on being permitted, under international law, to sell arms wherever she pleases. The belief prevails here, however, that the Calles government will proceed cautiously to avoid open hostilities.

Borah Opposes.

Meanwhile, the senate revolt against the administration's "big stick" policy showed no signs of abating today.

Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, has broken absolutely with the administration. And he is supported by the republican insurgents, and by a considerable number of the democrats.

A Few Boats Only Needed.

If Nicaragua constituted the sole concern of the administration, it was pointed out, a mere fraction of this imposing force would be sufficient to take care of any contingencies, for there are but little more than 2,000 combatants on both sides of the Nicaraguan revolution.

A couple of gunboats and a company of marines have handled many Central American revolutions in the past, it was pointed out today. Yet for this particular, which is considered no more serious than a dozen of its predecessors, the American government has concentrated a force not incomparable to that which "took" Vera Cruz in 1914.

Schoenfeld Returns.

Arthur Schoenfeld, counsellor of the American embassy in Mexico City, has been summoned to Washington. He is due to arrive here by Jan. 21, the date on which under Mexico's new land and petroleum laws, all foreigners who have not complied with the laws are due to relinquish control of their properties.

Join the war against the imperialist war.

Communist Appeal to Fight the New War Danger Is Broadcasted to All Workers' and Farmers' Organizations

In an appeal to the American Federation of Labor, to the Socialist Party, to the industrial Workers of the World, and to all other labor and to all farmers' organizations in this country, the central committee of the Workers (Communist) Party calls upon these organizations to unite to fight the developments of American imperialism in Nicaragua, in Mexico and in China that threaten the American workers and farmers with another war in which they will have to go out and fight Wall Street's battles.

The Situation in Nicaragua.

The situation in Nicaragua, the open letter points out, is a most flagrant example of "dollar diplomacy." American warships and marines are sent to a country to help maintain a reactionary puppet government against a rising tide of popular revolt just because that government guarantees the rights of Wall Street to exploit the country.

The concentration of forces against Nicaragua is also a demonstration against Mexico, the statement continues. "Mexico is threatened with the fate of Nicaragua because its government has adopted a constitution which declares that the resources of that country belong to the Mexican people."

The third field of the robber activities of American imperialism supported by the American government is China where warships are being hurried to forestall the final victory of the people's movement for freedom from imperialist exploitation.

Wall Street Forces Mobilized.

Everywhere the American government is mobilizing its armed forces to fight Wall Street's battles and to suppress any movements of revolt against its exploitation. A situation like this is a direct menace to the American workers and farmers, and demands the united action of the workers' and farmers' organizations to fight it. Those who are exploiting the peoples of Nicaragua, Mexico and China and who are also swinging the United States government into action because the continuation of their exploitation is threatened are the very same elements who are robbing the workers and farmers of America of billions every year. If a war now breaks out it will be the American workers and farmers who will be sent out to fight Wall Street's battles and to protect Wall Street's investments.

The American workers and farmers' organizations must act immediately, the call concludes. "The Workers Communist Party. . . calls upon all labor and farmers' organizations to join in calling a united front conference in every city, and eventually on a national scale, to fight against American imperialism and against the sacrifice of American lives and wealth created by workers for Wall Street investments. It calls upon the American Federation of Labor, the Socialist Party, the Industrial Workers of the World, and all other labor and farmers' organizations to join in with it calling such united front conferences. It calls upon the workers and farmers everywhere to join in the demand for the formation of such a united front of labor."

Copies of this appeal have been sent to the executive council of the A. F. of L., to the national executive committee of the Socialist Party, to the general executive board of the A. F. of L., and to the leading committees of other labor and farmers' organizations.

"More Dangerous Than Imperialism of the Kaiser," Says L'Humanite

"The American imperialism of 1927 is more dangerous than Germany's was in 1914" says the Paris Communist organ L'Humanite in commenting on the present invasion of Central America by the United States, a sentiment echoed thruout Europe by the Communist press and more or less mildly stated by the socialist and even the conservative journals in the capitals of the continent and in England.

The New Statesman (London) remarks that "it will not do to imagine that the southword thrust beyond the frontier can be arrested." While the conservati e German press is commenting innocously on the invasion, the Communists, papers there are protesting vigorously against the "militant and armed extension of the interests of oil magnates and financiers at the expense of the Latin American people."

The press of Latin America was never more outspoken against United States imperialism. All papers from Mexico to Argentine are castigating the Kellogg policies and declaring that a United Spanish America is necessary to stave off the unbridled advances of the American expansionists.

Popular Outburst in Panama Raps Shackle Treaty with United States

PANAMA, Jan. 9.—Popular sentiment against the Panama-U. S. treaty signing away all rights of the former nation in war and most of them in peace, is growing thruout the republic. One of the leaders of the movement against the treaty, Dr. Harmodio Arias, Panaman delegate to the league of nations, said in a speech in Panama City:

"It is quite evident that in all sections of the country every man, woman and child feels that an injustice will be committed against Panama in the event of its (the treaty's) approval.

"Instead of ramedying the hardships of Panama, brought by the treaty of 1903 and by its too stringent interpretation by the United States government, the new treaty establishes additional and even more serious burdens on Panama which will impede or at least seriously hamper her progress and prosperity without materially benefiting the United States."

Baltimore Sun Demands Kellogg Resign

BALTIMORE. — Denouncing Secretary Kellogg as "a discredited foreign minister," the Baltimore Evening Sun demands that he resign.

"In his dealings with the Latin-American republics," it says editorially "his diplomacy has proceeded regularly from disaster to disaster. He was put to ignominious flight by President Calles. He has fumbled the Tacna-Arica affair so wonderfully that no one knows whether Peru, Chile, or Bolivia is most resentful against this country. His diplomacy has alarmed and irritated every nation in South America.

"He intervened in Nicaragua apparently to put Diaz in power, and now apparently has abandoned Diaz to his fate. [This was written before Kellogg authorized Admiral Latimer to seize the Constitutionalist supplies and to allow shipments of arms to Diaz only).

"His department was caught trying to put into circulation reports that Vasco is strong in Sonora, and thereby drawing upon himself a wrathful castigation from Mexico, the stinging contemptuous sarcasm of the Soviets and the scorn of honest Americans.

"Whipped by the diplomats of every banana republic, publicly ridiculed by the bolshevists, denounced by would-be men among his own countrymen, he now runs to earth and hides in sullen silence behind a door closed to representatives of the press. He will no longer give to the people direct information about what he is doing in their name.

"In any other great nation a foreign minister so consistently beaten at every turn, so humiliatingly exposed in trickery, so obviously vacillating incompetent and dishonorable, would immediately tender his resignation or it would be demanded of him.

"Why should the American people be worse served in the foreign affairs than any other people? Our foreign affairs now involve half the national debt, incalculable private investments abroad, and the economic and political systems of every nation in the world. Their importance makes it imperative that the man at the head of the state department be a big man, a strong man, a wise man and an honorable man.

"Therefore, Mr. Kellogg should resign."

Newark Building Trades Will "Test" Five-Day Week Plan

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(FP)—Three months try-out in summer of the five-day work week is the plan of the Newark Building Trades Council. Members of the business agents' board are unanimously agreed and the council delegates endorse the program and are taking details to their respective locals.

Unification of holiday celebration and pay provisions among Newark Building Trades Unions has been provided by the council. The nine holidays chosen on which no work it to be done, unless for double pay, will be proposed to the New Jersey state building trades convention for general acceptance.

MOVE TO KEEP VARE OUT OF SENATE BEGINS

Wilson Challenges His Election in Pa.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—William B. Wilson, former secretary of labor, has filed a formal contest challenging the election of William S. Vare, republican, as a senator from Pennsylvania.

The Wilson petition paved the way not only for a battle to bar Vare from the senate, but laid the basis for a fight to seat a democratic senator from the republican stronghold of Pennsylvania.

Announcement of the filing of the contest was made on the floor of the senate by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic floor leader.

Charge Illegal Election.

The petition charged Vare was "not legally elected" in the November election and declared Wilson was chosen "by a majority of the votes legally cast." It alleged that gross fraud and corruption had been responsible for the majority accorded Vare in election returns from the keystone state.

Wilson Claims Office.

Robinson declared that "Wilson claims in his contest that a thoro investigation of the election will show that he was chosen as United States senator by the qualified voters of Pennsylvania and specifically reserves the right to amend his petition to cross additional facts, an investigation now being in process."

Hit Expenditures.

The petition charged Vare had admitted spending $71,000 "of his personal funds to obtain his nomination and that "this constitutes a violation of the corrupt practices act of 1925, which limits expenditures of a candidate for senator in every case not to exceed $25,000."

Would Impound Ballots.

Robinson introduced a resolution calling for the impounding of the ballots cast in the Pennsylvania election and declared the ballots would have to be saved by the government or in two state senatorial districts they will be destroyed shortly because of special elections. He charged specifically that Vare's election was due to the manipulations of the corrupt political machines in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

Cites Frauds.

"In addition," said Robinson, "it is charged that widespread registration frauds were perpetrated in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other cities; that the registration lists were padded with the names of dead men and women; that the names of voters sick and in hospitals, with the names of minors and former residents, were voted."

He also referred to the "zero districts" in Philadelphia where Wilson received not a single vote.

LEAGUE REFUSES U. S. CONDITIONS ON WORLD COURT

GENEVA, Jan. 9.—Thirty-six members of the league of nations have notified the secretariat of their approval of the league's joint reply to the United States' "reservations" on adhering to the world court. The league's reply was that it could not agree to two of the five conditions. Approval of the document by the league members means that the United States will not be accepted into the court on its own terms.

Matter to Be Dropped.

President Coolidge has declared that the United States will not consider modification of its present stand, and with the league members backing, they refused to accept the Washington conditions, the whole matter will be dropped, it is said.

No new attempts to urge the U. S. to affiliate will be made, it is predicted, unless the Washington government demonstrates responsiveness.

Object to Two Conditions.

The two reservations refused by the league are: that the United States insist on the privilege to withdraw at any time, and that the statutes of the court cannot be amended without approval of the United States; that American demands regarding publicity on advisory opinions be satisfied. The first is objected to on the grounds that other signatory nations would be denied equality, and the second because the reservation is vague and needs specific interpretation.

Admit No Legal Relations.

Reservations accepted were: that the United States by joining the court is not involved in any legal relation with the league or the Versailles treaty; that U. S. representatives have equal power with representatives of league nations, and that the amount of money to be paid by the U. S for court maintenance be determined by the U. S. congress.

Capitalist Press Fails in An Effort to Spatter Mud on Leonid Krassin

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

AMERICAN workers and farmers cannot help but instinctively resent the malicious lies being circulated about Leonid Krassin, the Soviet ambassador who died recently in London. The propaganda is so palpably false that it refutes itself.

The most popular story, from the capitalist viewpoint, that was spread over the world by the kept news agencies and given big space in the subsidized press, declared that Krassin left an estate of from two to three million pounds sterling, which would total from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 in American money.

Soviet officials at London met this malicious propaganda by showing that when Krassin died his total assets amounted to five one pound sterling bank notes, or about $25. That sets forth the difference between the truth and the lie.

No effort was made anywhere by the Bolshevik-baiting press to show what Krassin, the Communist, would have done with the wealth he was alleged to possess.

The reactionary Los Angeles, Cal., Times, that suddenly becomes conservative also in figures, states that Krassin accumulated a "private fortune of more than $1,000,000." The Times declares:

"The things he (Krassin) condemned publicly he practiced privately. He helped to drive the capitalists from Russia and became himself a capitalist, one of the millionaires he so vehemently denounced.

"He helped plunder his own people and enriched himself by the plunder."

The Los Angeles Times, so close to the mimic world of Hollywood, knows that capitalism, like "drinking in private," is something that can be confined to a back room. It charges that Krassin "accumulated a private fortune" during seven years in the service of the Soviet government, and invested it in foreign securities. It evidently thinks that this is a plausible story.

In order to accumulate "a private fortune" one must possess the means of exploitation. Since private property has been abolished in the Soviet Union, Krassin could not come into possession of profit-producing resources. All the great natural resources, the means of communication, the financial system, foreign trade are under the control of the Soviet government, owned by the workers and peasants of the Soviet Union.

Possessing more than the usual sagacity of a capitalist editor, the Times' writer declares that the millions imputed to constitute the estate of Krassin were "taken from the banks that were looted and from private individuals, who were murdered that they might not complain."

The writer, of course, conveniently forgets that the Kerensky and other makeshift capitalist governments were in power from the time of the czar's overthrow in March, 1917, until the Bolshevik triumph eight months later on Nov. 7, 1917. If there was any looting done, it was accomplished during those months by the Russian capitalist friends of the Times. Boris Bakhmeteff, the Kerensky representative at Washington, with the full of the United States government, openly maintained at great expense an "embassy" in this country years after the Kerensky government was swept into the discard. He squandered funds that belonged to the workers' and peasants' government. Every effort of Soviet rule to recover these funds met with determined resistance at Washington.

Thus the United States government loves the grafters of its own class: in fact, teaches the profit children it spawns how to graft. It was the United States government, in the days of President Woodrow Wilson, that planned a loan to the Kerensky government "to continue the war." But the Bolshevik came into power and took Russia out of the war. Bakhmeteff arrived in Washington in the meantime, and he was allowed to draw on this loan, which he did to the tune of several millions of dollars, using it in riotous living and anti-Soviet propaganda. Now the United States government is trying to collect this money as a debt owing to it by the Soviet government. But the Los Angeles Times has no space to give publicity to these damaging facts against its own class government in Washington.

This Times' editor fails to state, however, how Krassin could have gotten millions in gold bullion successfully out of the country, and how he could have invested it in "foreign securities" without the fact becoming known. These reported riches in "Soviet gold" escaped the eagle eyes of the sleepless capitalists for the sole reason that they never existed.

When mirrors first came into existence the excited possessors of these contraptions of the devil failed to recognize themselves in the reflection. Believing they were looking at someone else, perhaps a foe, they would tell the truth about what the glass revealed.

That it is with the mirror that the First Workers' Republic holds up before the capitalists of the world. Capitalism beholds its own ugly visage, but cries out that it is "Bolshevism!" because it hates the rising power of the workers and peasants.

It is not Krassin who accumulated a private fortune, but the "Ohio gang," with its Harding, Daugherty et al, that pillaged the government treasury; Fall, Doheny and Sinclair, who robbed the nation of its resources; Morgan, Rockefeller, Ford, Gory, Schwab and the rest, who garner great wealth thru the exploitation of the many, because private property is held to be sacred, while human rights are spat upon.

Great throngs of workers, in the shadow of the walls of the Kremlin, in Moscow, paid their last tribute to the memory of "The untiring revolutionary fighter, Krassin." They honored the Krassin who had helped to destroy the social system—capitalism—that alone makes it possible for the few to accumulate great wealth thru the agony of the many.

That social change will in time win the many in the United States to its standards, in spite of the lies of the Los Angeles Times and the capitalist class that it serves.

Capitalism has made a dismal failure of its effort to spatter mud on the memory of Leonid Krassin.

CONSIDER CHINESE ACTION.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—With more than 40 delegates from important cities of the United States and Canada in attendance, the Chinese nationalist party (Kuomintang) began the first of a three-day session at the Los Angeles headquarters, 424 North Los Angeles Street.

The party, known as the Kuomintang, is convening to consider what action it will take in the revolutionary crisis in China.

BORAH HITS AT LOWDEN'S REACH FOR NOMINATION

Digs Up Mud of 1920 G. O. P. Convention

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — "There was a deliberate and well organized attempt to buy the nomination for the presidency in 1920 and those who were in that convention will never efface from their memories its sordid and covetous atmosphere. We are still dealing with matters hatched at that convention."

Slaps Lowden.

This was part of a speech made in Washington by Senator Borah, republican of Idaho, that is taken to be a direct slap at Frank O. Lowden's aspirations for the presidential nomination in 1928. In this speech Borah, in effect, declares his intention of raking up the mud that attaches to Lowden's name as the result of the manner in which that politician and General Leonard Wood attempted to buy the republican nomination in Chicago in 1920.

Borah's words are a direct reference to that scandal that became so odious that the republican bosses were forced to pick a "dark horse," Harding, in an attempt to live it down. Another interesting side to the case is that Borah has himself an ambition to win the next nomination and is trying to eliminate Lowden as a contender.

Longworth Pleased.

The partisans of congressman Nicholas Longworth who are looming him for the next convention are highly pleased with Borah's speeches against Lowden in the belief that Lowden is a strong contender. In connection with Borah's participation in Illinois politics it is recalled that he came to Chicago to campaign for Frank L. Smith in the primaries when the latter gentleman's campaign coffers were being swelled by utility magnates' can-for which he is now being barried from the senate.

New Madison Square Garden Will Witness Big Lenin Memorial

NEW YORK.—The announcement that the Lenin memorial meeting this year will be held at the New Madison Square Garden, the largest hall in the United States, with a seating capacity of 20,000, has aroused wide interest and enthusiasm among progressive workers of New York.

Already demands for tickets are beginning to pour in. It is expected that this will be the biggest demonstration for Leninism yet held in America.

An imposing array of speakers will address the meeting, including A. J. Muste, William Z. Foster, Moissaye Olgin, J. Louis Engdahl, and others.

Huge Attendance Seen for Lenin Memorial Meeting in Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—The district executive committee of the Young Workers (Communist) Party is arranging for a gigantic Lenin memorial meeting this year in Boston, on Thursday, Jan. 20 at Ford Hall, 15 Ashburton Pl. A large number of circulars and posters in all languages are being widely distributed and it is expected that the hall, with the capacity of over 1,000 people will be taxed to the full capacity.

The principal speaker this year will be James P. Cannon, a well known and able speaker. A very interesting program will be provided by the various young units and workers' organizations. All friends and members are invited to come promptly on time.

Breaker Boy Ground to Death on Job.

WILKESBARRE, Pa.—A nineteen-year-old breaker boy, Michael Mikita, was ground to death in the machinery of the Loomis breaker of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co. when he was caught in the scraper line and carried some distance before his fellow workers noticed and had the machinery stopped. Six younger brothers and sisters and a widowed mother are left without support.

Loss From Spontaneous Combustion.

STERLING, Ill., Jan. 9.—Spontaneous combustion in shredded fodder caused the fire which destroyed a large barn on the John Ferris farm two miles south of Rock Falls, authorities said today.

Thirty head cattle, three horses, car, machinery and a large amount of hay and grain were burned with a loss of $10,000.

To Fight Corn Borer.

Pittsburgh Can Men get Raise

PITTSBURGH. — Pittsburgh railways is paying motormen and conductors a cent and a half an hour more for 1927 than for 1926, it is announced. The rates to 61½ cents minimum and 68 cents maximum. The agreement runs to May 1, 1928, beginning Jan. 1, 1927.

MEXICAN EMBASSY BRANDS REVOLT RUMORS AS OIL PROPAGANDA TALES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The Mexican embassy issued a statement here this afternoon, denying reports of widespread disorders in Mexico, and attributing such reports to "propaganda" on the part of those opposed to the new land and petroleum laws.

"The situation in Mexico is perfectly normal," said the statement.

BORAH SAYS 'WE HAVE NO RIGHT IN NICARAGUA'

Thinks Sacasa Is Only President

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.— A conference today between President Coolidge and Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, failed to shake the Idahoan's opposition to intervention in Nicaragua.

"We have no business in Nicaragua," said Borah, as he left the White House.

"Backing Wrong Horse."

He further expressed the opinion that the state department is "backing the wrong horse" in the troubled little republic.

"In my opinion," continued Borah, "Dr. Sacasa is the constitutional president of the country and should have been recognized under the five-power Central American treaty."

Dr. Sacasa is recognized by Mexico, while the state department recognizes Adolfo Diaz, and has dispatched warships and marines to support his regime and to prevent Sacasa from getting arms from Mexican sources.

Made Own Treaty.

"So far as the Nicaraguan treaty is concerned, we made it with ourselves," Borah continued. "We sent marines down there in 1911. They killed 150 Nicaraguans and set up a clerk for an American corporation as president. It was with this president we negotiated the Bryan-Chamorro treaty."

Borah scouted the state department's contention that the Sacasa revolutionists are menacing American lives and property.

Got Latter.

"I have just received a letter from a business man who has been in Nicaragua for 17 years," said Borah. "He has all his interests in the very heart of the territory controlled by Sacasa. He says he has never seen or heard of any American property being seized or damaged, and no American lives have been taken in the present revolution, nor have any American lives or property been threatened by either side down there.

"We have no business in Nicaragua."

Borah declined to discuss his conference with Coolidge.

a small section of the American working class listen to us. But there are dasarts in South America also, and American soldiers drawn from the loins of the working class may be pointing their toes to the midday sun one of these days and their lips may be longing for a drink of lemon pop while their minds dwell on the question: Who the hell are we fighting for?

THE lads who fought in the world war and returned know what this is all about. I have yet to meet the returned "hero" who did not realize that he was a sucker. Yet Kellogg will get "heroes" to fight against Mexico, if war there will be. And it looks almost like a certainly. American capitalism, full of champagne and viscous needs expansion. "Oh" banks are bursting with gold. South America is their sphere of influence. There profits can be made so that the daughters of our ruling classes can marry impecunious European aristocrats and afford the luxury of half a dozen divorces a year.

WHAT right has the United States to interfere in Nicaragua? Only one. The United States has the power to interfere and get away with it. At least for the time being. That is what counts. But power is not eternal. That is, power exerted by any particular class is not everlasting. The czar of Russia once had power to send Lenin into exile. And Trotsky, Zinoviev and Stalin. But it did not last forever. Neither will the power that is now behind Coolidge's threats to South America. The people of the "backward" countries are organizing. Look at China, Syria, Egypt and the Latin American countries! The Chinese are just now in the front of the fray and leading the vanguard against imperialism. Watch China! India will then arise from the standard of revolt and then imperial Britain will bite the dust. Egypt will follow. Then the colonies of France, Holland and the United States will step into line. This "dream" may be considered a pipe dream, but the dreams of the optimist are usually more real than the skepticism of the pessimist.

IS it surprising that world capitalism should hate the Soviet Union? The law of self-preservation is reckoned to be the first law of nature and it looks that way. The capitalist system does not want to die. The capitalists and their parasites do not want to go to work. They find plenty of excuses to justify their existence. They can hire plenty of professors and writers to prove that without them the world would go to devil. And, as long as the masses can satisfy the desire for food, clothing and a place to sleep, plus other little things that are usually regarded in connection with the noble aim of perpetuating the species, they will allow the capitalists to rule the roost. But when the Bolshevik starts to play a drum snare solo on the backbone and the slave cannot afford to even think of the current Follies chorus, there will be a different tale to tell.

CAN the threat of war against Mexico be stilled? It is doubtful. The American Federation of Labor officialdom is a servant of Wall Street. Therefore it will not be possible to mobilize the full power of the American labor movement immediately against militarists. It is now possible to see how the stringed that made the catholic agenta in the American Federation of Labor hop were pulled by the vatican. William Green turned against Mexico evidently because Mexico fought the catholic church. That was not the reason. It was because Wall Street gave orders to Green that it was preparing for a break with Mexico unless the Calles government surrendered to American imperialism. Calles refused to surrender.

THIS war against Mexico and the liberal forces of Nicaragua is as shameless a piece of hullying as was ever pulled off in any section of the world. There is only one position for the American workers and farmers to take. That is a policy of unalterable opposition. Wall Street is out to conquer South America, but the hazards will have the pleasure of piching many capitalist bones during the struggles. Our bourgeoisie will be making the merry spots in London, Paris and Berlin while the sons of the working class will be exercising bullets and suffering all the other hardships that are inseparable from war.

GUN ELEVATION ON U. S. SHIPS BRINGS PROTEST

Violation of Treaty Is Charged

LONDON, Jan. 9. — The old controversy over gun alavations has been revived here by reports of an American congressional resolution to increase the elevation of guns on old United States warships.

Violates Treaty.

The admiralty apparently is unconcerned but the foreign office is prepared to protest that such a step would be a violation of the entire spirit of the Washington treaty.

One admiralty official pointed out that, from the practical viewpoint of the most modern school of gunnery experts, the limit of accuracy of big gun fire had already been reached before the Washington conference and added range would only mean a further loss of accuracy.

Diplomats Worry.

One diplomats, however, while admitting that the question has not yet assumed practical importance, insist that any alteration of the American elevation would be a distinct contravention of the Washington treaty.

dangerous places to protect the oil interests. The American people ought not to be played with in this connection. It is a shame on this government, this senate, this congress and this president."

Started by Hearst.

The administration was defended by Senator Edge (R) of New Jersey who said the present policy had protected the American lives and property. The debate came when Hearst read a statement by William Randolph Hearst praising the administration's policy.

The Coolidge administration is deliberately and consciously driving toward war with Mexico," Representative Huddleston (D) of Alabama, charged on the floor of the house today.

Not Casual.

"These quarrels with Mexico over land and oil laws are not just casual," he said. "These actions in Nicaragua are not just casual. They are only done for a purpose and that purpose is war."

Huddleston declared that business interests which seek great profits in Mexico are behind the war movement.

"They are augmented," he said, "by certain ecclesiastical forces who believe they have been abused."

Huddleston denounced "this false and contemptible statement that Mexico is a Bolshevistic nation," which was carried in some newspapers after a state department conference.

Coolidge Wants War.

"That was not accidental. It was deliberate, and it seems impossible that any official would do such a thing," he said. "There isn't doubt but that President Coolidge has yielded to the forces that want war with Mexico."

The administration of Admiral Latimer in Nicaragua was declared "outrageous" by Huddleston, and President Diaz of Nicaragua, who is being aided by the United States, is a tool of New York financial interests, he said.

Latin-America Will Fight.

"I fear that a war with Mexico will be so terrible that the sister nations of Mexico in Latin-America will feel that they cannot longer submit to a bully and an overlord in the western hemisphere," he declared.

methods to force their control upon the workers."

His Fascist Methods.

The meeting was presided over by Anthony Ramuglia, who recently suffered a similar attack. It unanimously passed a resolution protesting against the "fascist" methods of the International, and pledging those present to "refuse any financial support to the International, which would only use the workers' money for attacks like this upon the workers themselves."

Ettore Frisina, Giovanni Di Gregorio, Enea Sormenti, Francesco Coco, Charles Zimmerman, Ben Gitlow and Nino Capraro were other speakers at the meeting. It was one of the largest and most enthusiastic meeting of Italian workers held in some time.

Kalinin Speaks to the Farmers

MOSCOW—(By Mail)—At the first Jewish peasants' congress of the Soviet Union, held in November at Odessa, Comrade M. Kalinin spoke in the name of the government.

"I doubt whether in any other country there a possibility for a Jewish peasants' congress," began Comrade Kalinin. "It is characteristic for our country; the only country in the world where all nationalities and races have full possibility for development.

No Oppression Now.

"Czarism tried to assimilate the Jews by force and for that reason persected them. The Soviet state does not oppress any nationality and therefore does not care to assimilate the Jews. The Soviet state strives to liberate the working masses of all nationalities from all forms of oppression, including national oppression.

"The October revolution which brot freedom to the laboring masses at the same time it hard the main medium of the Jewish population; hit the Jewish poor living in the cities and villages by small trading.

Praises Jewish Culture.

"The Jewish population as an arraga is quite cultured, and should take its place in the upbuilding of our proletarian state."

Discussing the success of the Jewish laboring masses in agriculture, Kalinin said: "The success that we have in populating the Jews on land are microscopically small. It cannot be otherwise. The creation of a national territory with an agricultural base is a great undertaking. Agriculture does not provide immediate success. All great underakings require great efforts.

Is Next Problem.

"A great problem facas the laboring Jewish masses: to turn a majority of the Jewish population into an agricultural mass, into farmers, and thereby preserve its nationality. The government can not spend large sums for that purpose, but it is providing some money and is creating land. While selecting the land we took in consideration the habits and pecularities of the Jewish people. The land that was granted not much effort and investment. If we would grant this land to some other nationality, we should not have enough funds to make it a self-sustaining concern. While granting this land to the Jewish people we are aided somewhat by the Jewish capitalists from the bourgeois countries. There are such interesting coincidents of conflicting interests.

Why the Capitalists Aid.

"Our own Jewish capitalists we safely liquidated economically. The Jewish capitalists abrond feel somewhat guilty before the Jewish poor, which is similar to the relations felt by our former nobility to the peasants. If the Jewish capitalists believe in god, they are attempting to gain for themselves a place in heaven not far from Moses, and if they will not part with some of their money, they will be asked in the 'other world'—What did you do while the Jewish people were creating their future, creating its own national territory?' That is the reason why they are giving money.

Soviet Union Is Fatharland.

"It is impermissible for the Soviet Union that from a proletarian country the Jewish laboring masses shall go somewhere else to look for their future. (Applause). The Soviet Union should be the homeland of all the laboring masses, including the Jewish, and a greater homeland than any Palestine. (Great Applause.)

"The Jews and the Russians have a superstition that the homeland of the Jews is not Russia but Palestine. The Jewish people lived for a thousand years on the territory of Russia. The Jews, just as much as the Ukrainians and the Russians, have a right to consider the Soviet Union as their fatherland—their socialist fatherland. We are not afraid of national supremacy (oppression) because by building their own future the Jewish people are at the same time building the future of the Soviet Union. The Jewish people who are tilling the land in Crimea are not competing with anybody, but are creating new riches for the benefit of the Soviet Union.

"Agricultural labor—creative labor —will finally bring about full equality of the Jewish people in all phases of labor.

Is the Beginning.

"So far the Jews have a small fatherland, just one volost (county), but they have the territory, the beginning. (Great applause). In all phases of public life, politics, science, the Jews taka a proper place. I have no doubt that also in agriculture they will not take the last place.

"The government considers of great importance the settlement of the Jews on land, and I may say in the name of the government, that if the foreign agitations will cease (& help in this, he Soviet government will help as much as possible to settle the laboring Jewish masses on land."

Kalinin speaking at the first Jewish Peasants' Congress at Odessa.

BIG POTASH RING UNITES FRANCO-GERMAN INDUSTRY

LONDON.—A huge industrial merger of great economic and political significance is soon to be added to the already long series of combines that have arisen in Germany in the recent period of the revival of imperialism. Following the dye-stuff, the steel and other industries, most of the potash mines are now to be combined into one company.

The strength of this new combine comes from its raw material monopoly rather than from its control of patents and special processes, as is the case in the dye-stuff and steel combines.

International in Scope.

It is especially noteworthy that this potash combine does not limit itself to Germany but includes much of the French potash mines. To conclude the arrangements on this huge international cartel a series of conferences have been arranged in Paris.

This monopolist venture is being financed from London, by a city bank with large German connections. It also has the unofficial support of the German government.

It is expected that this new combine will co-operate closely with the recently formed dya combina. This is important particularly in view of the fact that the dye-stuff combine has had little control over potash.

International Workers' Unity Only Answer.

This new move of German and French capitalism has obviously great international significance. The inclusion of French and German concerns in so important an industry as potash provides one of the economic bases for the recent friendly approach between Germany and France. The development of an international cartel of such dimensions, moreover, increases many times the power of French and German capitalism in its offensive against the French and German working class and points out again in more concrete terms to the workers, not only of France and Germany but of the whole world, the burning need for International Trade Union Unity.

SAN FRANCISCO—John J. Michaelson, suave young Chicagoan, is in the city prison on charges of passing worthless checks amounting to between $5,000 and $10,000.

Michaelson was arrested after an orgy of spending in preparation for his marriage to Miss Paula Bianlo, after a whirlwind courtship. Charles Bianlo, his fiancee's brother, had arranged for a farewell dinner, following which the couple was to have gone to Reno to be married.

Bianlo was notified of Michaelson's impending arrest just before the dinner. He persuaded officers to postpone it. Michaelson was taken into custody as he sat in his car awaiting Miss Bianlo and her sister, who was to accompany them.

FATHER KNICKERBOCKER STIRS ETHER AND SAYS, "HELLO, JOHN BULL"

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The voice of the old world sounded across the Atlantic today and the voice of the new world echoed back.

At 8:44 o'clock this morning commercial radio-telegraph service was inaugurated for the first time in history between New York and London.

The telephone conversation lasted five minutes and parties at both ends heard each other distinctly, altho there was some static.

The price of the new trans-ocean telephone service is $25 a minute.

Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph company, sitting in the telephone company's office in New York, talked with Sir G. Evelyn P. Murray, secretary of the general post office of Great Britain, for two minutes.

Then Sir Evelyn Murray, in London, talked to Gifford for three minutes.

"We could hear each other clearly," said Gifford, "altho there was more static than during previous tests."

French Militarism Frees French Officer Slayer and Convicts Victims

BERLIN.—An example of such excesses of militarism as even the old kaiser's army could not match has recently come up in a case of a French officer in the army of occupation who was acquitted by a French court martial after he had shot one German citizen and wounded another. The German who was so unfortunate as to escape death as well as other Germans concerned in the case received sentences of two years' imprisonment.

The greatest indignation is expressed in the German press which seems to forget the unsavory details of German militarism, old and new. The German ambassador to Paris has also made representations on this head. Among the working class, French and German, sentiment is being aroused for the evacuation of all German territory occupied by French armies.

MOONEY PARDON REFUSAL SCORED BY FEDERATION

A telegram expressing the regret of the Chicago Federation of Labor on the action of Gov. Richardson of California in refusing to grant a pardon to Thomas J. Mooney, victim of the San Francisco bombing frame-up, has been sent to Mooney at San Quentin by John Fitzpatrick, president of the federation, and E. N. Nockels, secretary.

"In Rank injustice."

"Your friends in Chicago regret sincerely the manner in which Governor Richardson treated your petition for pardon," said the message. "Surely, no intelligent person could possibly be without definite opinion as to whether or not you have been the victim of a rank injustice. The world is convinced that you were railroaded on perjured testimony. Nineteen years penalty would have been more cheerful for you and for labor if your petition for a pardon had received the consideration we believe it merits."

Governor Sidesteps Issue.

Gov. Richardson denied Mooney's petition consideration on the pretext that, because his term of office expires in two weeks, he would not have "enough time."

Mooney is serving a life sentence, imposed when he was charged with staging the preparedness day bombing incident in San Francisco in 1916.

Claims Banks Make Loans to Veterans

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — Banks all over the country are now making loans on veterans' adjusted compensation certificates, Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans bureau, reported to president Coolidge.

Already 1,500 banks have made loans totaling nearly $1,000,000, Hines said.

SAYS MELLON IS REAL INFLUENCE BACK OF WOODS

And Back of Mellon Is Pittsburgh Coal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon was named today before the senate interstate commerce committee as the "real influence" behind the appointment of Cyrus E. Woods of Pennsylvania, to the interstate commerce committee.

Voicing strong opposition to Woods' appointment, on the grounds that he had been associated with Pennsylvania coal interests, Senator Goff (R) of West Virginia, declared that Mellon, who has an interest in the Pittsburgh Coal company, was "more responsible than any one else" for the appointment.

Opposition to his appointment grew after revelations that he holds more than $400,000 in railroad and industrial stocks and bonds.

Woods, a former American ambassador to Spain and Japan, recently acted as campaign manager for Sen. George Wharton Pepper in the $3,000,000 Pennsylvania senatorial primary.

Woods Recommends Self.

Woods said he had talked with Mellon as to his qualifications for the office. He did not discuss the lake cargo coal case, which is now pending before the commission, he said.

"I did not know the case was pending," Woods declared. He assured the committee that if his appointment were confirmed he would not participate in the lake cargo case, nor in future phases of it. "I should consider it in bad taste," he said.

Woods declared he did not seek the appointment; it "came out of a clear sky" to him when Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania asked him to take the place.

The committe inquired into Woods' activities as campaign manager for Senator George Wharton Pepper in Pennsylvania's recent $3,000,000 senatorial primary. Woods denied that he acted as "boss" of the combined campaigns of Pepper and John S. Fisher, who won the republican nomination for governor. He admitted her had acted as "moderator" between the two factions when each became suspicious of the other group, but knew nothing of the money collected or expended on behalf of either.

FURTHER DELAY OF THE A. F. OF L. AUTO CAMPAIGN

Jurisdictional Clash Prevents Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(FP)—Further months of delay of the organizing campaign promised by the American Federation of Labor for the automobile industry is the next news by the officials in direct touch with the job. This delay is based primarily on the jurisdiction issue.

More Talk.

When the Detroit convention last October called for an organization campaign it asked the international unions in the metal and wood industries to yield jurisdictional claims in this field. A conference of executives of the international unions, held in Washington in November, decided that the executive council must first make formal requests upon the executive boards of these organizations.

That step is to be discussed and probably will be taken by the executive council at its January meeting in St. Petersburg, Fla. Then the executive boards of the various unions must be given time to deal with the request.

Next April—Maybe.

Assuming that all replies are received before the A. F. of L. executive council meets again in April, the council will at that time determine whether the replies are nearly enough unanimous and are sufficiently definite in favor of a temporary industrial organization of automobile workers, to justify a serious attempt to enlist union members in Detroit and other motor factory centers.

A small organising force is being kept in Detroit by the Int'l. Ass'n. of Machinists. Its achievements have been relatively small, because it is almost impossible to unionize any one group of workers in the mass-production plants.

Free Speech Test Is Held at Passaic as Police Stop Meetings

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan. 9.—With the aid of the American Civil Liberties union, the Polish Branch of the International Labor Defense held a free speech in Ukrainian Hall, Passaic, N. J., George Collins of the Fellowship of Reconciliation represented the union. No police appeared and the heretofore forbidden meeting ended peacefully.

The free speech test followed the action of Passaic police in breaking three meetings arranged by the Labor Defense for the Rev. Mazur of Detroit. Mr. Mazur is touring the country for the Labor Defense. His lectures were barred because Polish priests in Passaic are alleged to have complained that he would "attack God and the state." His subject is "Political Prisoners in Poland."

A WEEK'S WORK IN THREE AND ONE-HALF HOURS; FINE FOR THE BOSS, BUT HELL FOR THE WORKERS

This article is re-printed from "The Harvester Worker," the shop bulletin distributed at the McCormick Works by the shop group of the Workers (Communist) Party.

It shows how the issues of the workers' life in industry can be used to aid trade union organization and build shop committees which are the preliminary steps to trade union organization.

* * * *

In the November issue of the Harvester World, an organ of the International Harvester Company, the company boasts of its newly developed speed-up and lowering of cost in the making of farm implements, such as mowers. Cyrus McCormick, Jr. states that the new plans are working smoothly. It can do some work now in 3½ hours that formerly took a week!

"Production is coming off the chain," he declares, "at a daily increasing rate. (Our emphasis.) "Mowers are mowers now in three hours and thirty minutes after the pouring of the molds in the foundry. This is spectacular speed when it is considered that formerly a week or more elapsed from foundry to warehouse."

The Harvester World points out that: "Smoothly and more surely, step by step, the plant organization is taking up new motions, new routings and new ideas of uninterrupted manufacture and translating them into new standards of production per hour or per day and new standards of quality." (Our emphasis.)

These quotations from the company organ and from the vice-president of the International Harvester Company are themselves convincing evidence and proof of what The Harvester Worker has declared all the while to be workers. Work is speeded up terrifically; profits increase enormously. But wages are lowered steadily. The workers are ground more and more into a miserable state.

"New standards of production per hour or per day" is just scientific or polite language for lower piece rate or hour wages. Another polite name for this wage-cutting and speed up up of the workers is "the development of quantity production and low-unit costs." So the speed-up system, with wage cuts and lower standards of living for the mass of workers now becomes the rule all thru the McCormicks' works—in the tractor and truck plants and in the tool or implement factories.

These improvements mean of course greater profits and dividends for the McCormick family and the few other large stockholders. But for us, the Harvester slaves, it means that the company is going to suck the last drop of blood and energy out of us. It means that soon hundreds more will be dispensed with as scrap and as unemployed workers. Or, perhaps, the company will be good to us and say, that if you will quietly and nicely accept another wage cut, we will let you work a little longer.

These improvements in production are used to make worse the conditions of life for the thousands of Harvester workers. Instead, these improvements should mean an easing up in the work, more wages and less hours. Increased and cheaper production means hundreds of thousands of dollars more profit each year for the company. Why should not the workers, who produce all, share in the increase of profits?

Organization of Workers Necessary.

But the Harvester Corporation is the blood brother to the Ford system of exploitation, to the Gary Steel Corporation, and so on. These leeches and parasites upon the mass of workers give nothing up unless the workers compel them to. The Harvester Worker has pointed out before that we workers will not nothing unless we fight for more wages, no speed-up and better conditions of work. The Company Council or so-called union is a tool of the bosses. Still, we must demand that the so-called workers' representatives shall put forward in the council the demands of the workers which we have printed in another column. This fake Council of Employers and Workers will be shown to be only a company outfit. It is necessary that the workers in all the Harvester plants and shops shall begin to voice their grievances everywhere; shall send in their stories and complaints to us that we may show what the workers are really thinking. It is time to begin considering the formation of workers' shop committees without any boss interference or connection—and to lay the ground for an organized struggle for our demands.

The speed-up system, the constant lowering of wages, the boasts of unprecedented profits by the company, these and other facts demand from us, the Harvester Workers resistance against the extreme exploitation. Let us prepare!

Paper Box Strikers in High Spirits; Union Contributions Help Relief Work

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—A concert and dance were enjoyed by the paper box strikers when Joe Mogasine with his Columbia Jazz Band played to a crowded mass membership at their meeting hall, the Church of All Nations, 9 Second avenue. The spirits of the workers are high and the gaiety was of the greatest when the cheiry were moved back and the dancing began. The strike is known to many as "the flappers' strike," and they certainly can dance.

Contributions toward the relief work of the union are coming in in increasing numbers.

The union gave a party to the children of the strikers yesterday, with the co-operation of Mrs. J. Seargent Cram, at the Peace House, Fifth avenue and 110th street. The 300 children who came with their parents were highly amused and learned something about the strike their mothers and fathers are putting up for decent working conditions in the paper box industry.

The following contributions were received and made possible the payment of relief checks to the girls, which had to be held back on Christmas, due to lack of immediate funds: International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, $50; Upholsterers' International Union, Local 76, $12; United Neckwear Cutters' Union, $50; Fur Dressers' Union local, $250; Local 2163, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, $10; Emergency Committee for Strikers' Relief (Chairm. Muste's division), $100; United Workers' Co-operative Association, $63; Branch 301, Workmen's Circle, $25; Branch 245, $11.50; Branch 146, $2; Branch 20, $10; Branch 173, $2; Loyever Progressive Society; Branch 177, Workmen's Circle, $10.50.

Nationwide Drive Goal of Union

By SYLVAN A. POLLACK.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Jan. 9. — The Photographic Workers Union of America, Local 17830, is planning a nationwide campaign for the organization of all photographic workers thruout the country. Organization of all the photographic workers in this city will be the first step in the campaign, to be followed by a broadening of the movement as time goes on. New members are being enrolled at every local meeting here.

To Organize Contracters' Shops.

At the present time an organization campaign to unionize the contracting shops is on. In these sweat-shops the workers toil at piece work, and with great difficulty average $15 to $20 a week. About eight such shops are in this city, each employing from six to twelve workers under the most unsanitary conditions.

It is also planned to tackle the amateur finishers' shops where high school boys and girls are employed at $10 a week, depriving a full grown man of a job. These youngsters take these jobs on the promise of "learning the business" but they never do, being kept at special work.

Baum Tells of Plans.

In an interview with The DAILY WORKER, Louis A. Baum, secretary of the union, went with great detail into its plans for the future.

"We intend to appear soon before the Central Trades and Labor Council and ask for their assistance in our campaign for the organization of the photographic workers," said Baum.

"We plan to have all union-made photos bear the union label and all union studios display a union sign so all can see it.

"We have hope to start shortly a nationwide campaign, and we desire the help of photographic workers in all parts of the country in this drive. They should write into care of the union office, 352 Brook Ave., New York City. In this manner we will be able to centralize organization work."

Henry Roesman is president of the union, and Harry Cohen, financial secretary.

Pan-American Labor Hits 'Nervous Nellie' Kellogg's Policies

WASHINGTON—(FP)—The Pan-American Federation of Labor believes that the secretary of state committed an error in recognizing the government of the 'directing head' of tion, Chamorro, Adolfo Diaz," says an official statement by that organization on the Nicaraguan tangle.

Santiago Iglesias, Spanish-language secretary of the P. A. F. of L., in this declaration of attitude, reviews the protest made by Samuel Gompers in 1923-24, the activities of William Jennings Bryan in 1925, and the memoranda sent to Washington by labor organizations of Central America, in support of the liberal-labor movement in Nicaragua. It declares that both Dr. Sacasa and his agent, Dr. Vace, held conferences with President Green since the Chamorro revolt, seeking aid in restoring constitutional government in their country.

Recognition of Diaz, the statement says, "has caused unnecessary illfeeling against the moral prestige of American democratic institutions, all over the world, because such recognition was useless, unjust, and inimical to the people of Nicaragua and of the United States."

It asserts the constitutional right of the Sacasa government and says the P. A. F. L. urges the United States withdraw its action and give its enforcement to the constitutional regime of Sacasa. It announces that a communication to this effect was sent some time ago to President Coolidge and to the state department. This plea was made, it says, in the interest of peace and better understanding in the western hemisphere, for the protection of the rights of all peoples, and in accordance with the sentiments of the labor movements of the American continents.

Bakery Picketa Get Stay of Sentance.

NEW YORK—(FP)—Stay of sentence was automatically granted on the appeal of Charles Solomon, International Bakery & Confectionery Workers' union counsel for the nine members of Local 87, fined a total of $750 and given sentences of 10 to 30 days. The workers were found in contempt of court under a two-year-old injunction against their picketing one-union shops and groceries.

CALIFORNIA GAG LAW TAKES TOLL OF 504 ARRESTS

Syndicalism Statute Hit by A. C. L. U.

NEW YORK.—By maladministration the criminal syndicalism law in California has often been converted into an instrument of "injustice and oppression," it is asserted by Dr. George W. Kirchwey of the New School of Social Research, formerly dean of Columbia University Law School and warden of Sing Sing prison, in a survey of workings of the law, published today by the American Civil Liberties Union.

The law itself Dr. Kirchwey describes as "a conscious suppression of war psychology." Trials in criminal syndicalism cases he attacks as "in many instances characterised by methods calculated to bring serious reproach on the administration of law in California. There are cases in which the trial judge made himself the mouthpiece of the prosecuting attorney was at his worst. Judged by its works, the syndicalism act must stand condemned."

Men Jury "Justice."

Prosecuting attorneys in syndicalism cases, according to Dr. Kirchwey, who lectured on criminology in the University of California in 1925, conducted the prosecutions with all the objectiveness and the unscrupulous regard of orderly and lawful proceure which is described by Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard as "the spectacle of press, public, and prosecutor in full cry in a man-hunt."

The survey is the first maneuver of the American Civil Liberties Union in the campaign of its California committee for the repeal of the anti-syndicalism law. Since its passage in 1919 the law has kept more political prisoners in California than in all other states put together, according to the union, and has plastered on California the reputation of being the most intolerant state in the republic. The weakness of the statute, Dr. Kirchwey asserts, is proved by the fact that reversals are secured on small the cases appealed to higher courts.

Communists and I. W. W. Hit.

The full brunt of the law was felt by the I. W. W. and the Communist Labor Party of California. It was passed, Dr. Kirchwey states, "as the result of a mass fear that had no basis in fact. We find nothing to justify the dread that engendered it. That part of the community which was responsible for the law and its enforcement took far too seriously the dramatic fancies of the labor movement in California." Dr. Kirchwey labels members of the Communist Labor Party "largely idealistic, pacific type, who were opposed to any kind of violence." Most prominent of criminal syndicalist convictions from this group was that of Charlotte Anita Whitney, Oakland civic and suffrage leader. Her appeal from a one to fourteen-year sentence for mere membership in the Communist Labor Party was argued before the United States supreme court last March and is waiting decision.

"A man may advocate burglary or robbery or murder or malicious destruction of property without fear of the law so long as he does not aim to accomplish 'a change in industrial ownership' or 'any political change,'" declares Dr. Kirchwey, attacking the loose phrasing of the statute. As a result of this looseness, he asserts, the law has been used "in a spirit of panic, as a weapon of class hatred, and as a cover for private malice and vengeance."

According to Dr. Kirchwey, 531 people in California were charged with syndicalism and 504 arrested. More than half of these, 292, were dismissed without trial. Of 264 tried 164 were convicted. Appeals were taken in 114 cases. Half of the decisions were reversed and others are still pending.

"The picture," says Dr. Kirchwey, "is one of sudden immense activity following immediately on the enactment of the law with a complete cessation of effort within the short space of five years." Dr. Kirchwey challenges the constitutionality of the law on two grounds. He charges that it violates constitutional clauses guaranteeing equality before the law since it discriminates only against advocates of industrial or political change, and that it makes mere membership in a proscribed organization a crime. He charges also that criminal syndicalism trials were unduly prolonged, that judges and juries were biased and that "irrelevant and prejudicial evidence was admitted."

WITH THE YOUNG WORKERS

CONDUCTED BY THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

YOUNG COMMUNIST LEAGUE OF GREAT BRITAIN HOLDS IMPORTANT CONGRESS

LONDON, Dec. 24 (By Mail).—A hundred and twenty delegates, coming mainly from all the most important industrial districts, attended the Fourth National Congress of the Young Communist League of Great Britain at Sheffield last week end.

In his opening address, Comrade William Rust dealt with the situation before, during and since the general strike, paying particular attention to the role played by the so-called "left wing leaders" of the movement.

Alluding to the attacks to which the league has been subjected by the Baldwin government, he declared that "imprisonment and persecution could not deter young Communists from carrying on their work unflinchingly."

Receive Greetings.

Fraternal greetings were received from the I. C. W. P. A., the Y. C. I. of Germany and Canada, the N. A. C. of the L. L. P. Guild of Youth, from Alex Gossip and the E. C. of the minority movement.

An emergency resolution, outlining the steps terms imposed on the miners, showing the impossibility of observing them, and explaining the tasks of the labor movement in regard to the young miners was carried unanimously.

Amid thunderous applause, Comrade Springhall, who has just recently been released after his second term of imprisonment, presented an emergency resolution on China.

"We must," he said, "assist our Chinese comrades to establish a free, independent and united China." The resolution was unanimously accepted.

Comrade Gallacher, who conveyed the Communist Party's greetings and report on the political situation received a tremendous ovation. He dealt with the world situation, emphasizing that "particularly important was the danger of a new imperialist war. All signs at present show that the capitalists are preparing for this and that it would be much more frightful than the last."

The report of the league executive committee showed the league's activity as: Active participation in the general strike and lockout, organization of young workers' conferences, sending the young workers' delegation to Soviet Russia, and the establishment of the "Weekly Young Worker"—its weaknesses being organisational and in education work.

The discussion on organization which followed showed the importance attached to this question.

In considering the "Capitalist Crisis and the Young Workers," the congress devoted itself to the task of overcoming the difference between the league's membership and its influence.

An interesting incident took place when a special welcome was given to seven of the delegates who had suffered terms of imprisonment, followed by a report on behalf of the young workers' delegation to Soviet Russia, given by Bob Edwards of the L. L. P. Guild of Youth.

Workers' Russia.

Conditions of labor, the educational system, the trade unions and the political prisoners in Georgia were dealt with while comrade Edward's declaration that "only by building a united front of young workers' organizations could we go forward in the struggle against capitalism," aroused the greatest enthusiasm.

A representative of the Young Communist International addressed the congress and stated that in no discussion, in the types of delegates present, in the questions discussed and in splendid fighting revolutionary spirit, the congress showed that in Great Britain we have a Young Communist League worthy of taking its place in the front ranks of the international."

On this note the congress closed.

Scott Nearing Asks a Question

SCOTT NEARING puts it neatly.

"New York bankers talk to one another through the WALL STREET JOURNAL and the JOURNAL OF COMMERCE. New York manufacturers and merchants maintain a long list of daily papers through which they propagate the idea that they want the New York masses to shsorb. The coming of The DAILY WORKER to New York gives the English speaking workers there only chance to keep in touch with the labor movement through a daily labor paper. Will the New York workers not show at least as much solidarity in the support of The DAILY WORKER as the business men show in the support of their papers?"

Congress Idles as Longshoremen Die

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 — Leonardo Dorstadina was killed when a packing case containing an automobile struck the ladder on which he stood in the hold of the Peruvian Line steamship Sprrina. The case was one of many being lowered into the hold. The worker was guiding cases downward into place when the one struck him.

Another longshoreman was badly cut on the back by the corner of the case. These workers are unprotected by any compensation law, since the supreme court held them maritime workers and the federal congress has not enacted legislation pending which would cover such cases.

NOTICE TO CHICAGO READERS

According to a new and more economical system of newsstand distribution, The DAILY WORKER will be on the stands by noon each day. Watch for it.

Pittsburgh Will See Passaic Strike Film

PITTSBURGH—This city will have an opportunity to get a close-up of the historic eleven month Passaic Textile Strike with the showing in this city on January 13 of the sensational motion picture of that stirring and dramatic struggle.

The picture will be put on at Moose Auditorium and will run continuously from 7:30 to 12 o'clock.

It is in seven reels, and of the mass drama type. In fact, it has been favorably compared with "Grass," a mass drama which scored a signal success a few years ago, its grand mass movements, stark realism and sustained continuity make the Passaic picture a mass drama of outstanding interest and dramatic appeal.

Auspices Organized Labor.

The showing is under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union and has the backing of the entire labor movement in Pittsburgh. All proceeds from the showing will be sent to the General Relief Committee of Local 1603, 743 Main Ave., Passaic, to support the strikers in their fight against the five mills which still refuse to recognize the union. Of the nine original struck mills, four have settled, including the powerful Botany mills, but five still refuse to concede their workers the right to organize and do collective bargaining.

WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT

THE CHALLENGE OF YOUTH

Upton Sinclair:

"Interesting. . . It is full of facts young workers ought to know."

Freeman Hopwood, Secretary, American Association for Advancement of Atheism.

"The Challenge of Youth is a gem. It is one of the best things for propaganda that I have ever seen. I handed it to a Catholic youth and he finished it during the afternoon at work. Another took it with him to the six-day bicycle race and read it all there. The simple style is effective. I hope it is sold by the thousands."

John Kasper, Prize Winning Communist Literature Agent.

"I want to congratulate Comrade Darcy for putting out a real pamphlet, The Challenge of Youth. It is a book that a League member could go out and sell with pride. This book is real, the best book the League ever put out. That is the way to write efor the young workers. Keep it up."

GARY RESTAURANT WORKERS MAKING GAINS FOR UNION

Outcome of Drive Rests with Workers

By a Worker Correspondent.

GARY, Ind., Jan. 9.—With a few additional restaurants signing the union agreement, the campaign to organize the restaurant workers is continued by Local 211 of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers of Gary.

Solomon's restaurant, located on 5th Ave. between Broadway and Washington, was picketed. The picketing revealed a widespread feeling of sympathy for the efforts of the union among the residents of Gary.

Teacher Pledges Aid.

A public school teacher approached the pickets and said, "I will not patronize this place any more, since the union is refused recognition. I am a school teacher and I will tell other teachers not to eat in this place, I am a member of the teachers' union myself."

Workers With Them.

Workers passing by expressed themselves briefly but strongly: "Stick to your skift, boys!" "We are with you, boys!" "That's right, step on them, fellows!" "You ought have done it long ago!"

Some of those who came out of seeb places told the pickets: "I did not notice this place is picketed. I will not eat here any more."

The boss was trying to put up a brave front coming up to the window and grinning at the pickets. But his face grew more serious as the time were on.

Service Depends on Workers.

With the sympathy of the workers and residents of Gary back of the union the success of the organization campaign rests with the restaurant workers themselves.

What we need is more getting together, more meetings of the workers; more solidarity; more of a friendly approach to those of the workers who have not yet made application to join the union.

Join!

Every worker knows where the Labor Temple is located. There is no need to wait until some one approaches you to join the union. Look for the union yourself.

Ask for Brother Parlee or Brother Fedey, the international representatives and the business representative of the union; they will advise you.

Let's go and build strong!

LAUNDRY WORKERS IN 'FRISCO WORK UNDER SLAVE-DRIVING CONDITIONS; UNION FIGHTING BOSS EXPLOITATION

By a Worker Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. — The laundries have been able to speed up the workers by playing one against the other with the hopes of steady work and by keeping them continually under the threat of being fired if they protested against the slave-driving conditions. The following is a fair example of how the workers are handled.

Get Half Overtime.

When the workers put in three hours overtime they are paid for only half of the time. If there are any protests threats are hurled against the head-worker by the superintendent. The superintendent is not satisfied with paying the workers under the union scale, but relies by all ways and means to rob the workers of what is due them.

Slave Drivers Paid Well.

In one of the laundries the headwasher gets $55 per week, not because he does more work than any other head washer, but because he is a better slave driver and causes the workers riches and toil. Knowing that the union is a strong weapon in the hands of the worker, he tries as much as possible to bring in non-union men and pays them under the scale.

Health Conditions Bad.

The washing machines and wringers are not connected to drains and the water streams all over the place. Most of the workers suffer rheumatism and all kinds of disease because of these unsanitary conditions, while the bosses pile their profits sky high.

Girls Treated No Better.

The girls in the laundries are treated no better. Manacle girls get $19.50 per week. The girls don't last long on the job because in the speed up system two manacles do the work formerly done by three. The tricks played on the girls are varied. They are hired Monday and laid off Thursday even though the week calls for a full week's employment. The most dangerous work in the laundry, get only $29.50 for sorting all kinds of diseased dirty clothes. Forty-eight hours is a week's work according to the union regulations, but these girls work often from 10 to 12 hours a day during the rush periods.

The workers in the laundries are now putting up a strong campaign against these violations of union conditions and the unsanitary conditions in the shops.

Polish Women of a Textile Town Learn How to Run a Council and Aid Strike

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Some twenty-odd women sit around a red hot stove in the corner of a dimly lighted hall. It is a meeting of the Workingwoman's Council in Wallington, New Jersey. They have more members, fifty altogether. Where are the others? Well, one has young children to mind, another a cranky husband, another is tired. It is hard for women to come out to meetings.

A God-forsaken hole, Wallington. Streets of mud, scattered frame houses, half a dozen stores, a population of Polish workers. Only once Wallington got on the map. That was when in Passaic and Garfield, those towns seething with the struggle of the textile slaves, strikers' meeting halls were closed, Wallington offered a place for mass meetings. Generally Wallington is outside of things, on the outskirts, a back-water of life and of the strike.

A Meeting in Action.

The women are jolly tonight. They are planning a Christmas ball (that is, Russian Christmas) which will be held here in the town hall, where all the workers can come. All want to talk at once. The chairman, an active young woman with bobbed hair, has been hard put to it to silence them

Hearst the War-Monger

That "circle American," William Randolph Hearst, whose activities range from the publishing of the most degraded and vicious newspapers in the world to "educating" movie actresses, has come out in support of the Wall Street Coolidge policy in Nicaragua and Mexico.

Hearst's papers have baited Mexico consistently. They supported the bombardment of Vera Cruz in 1913, the invasion of Mexico in 1916.

Back in 1898 Hearst sent Frederic Remington to Cuba to get pictures of "Spanish atrocities." Remington could find no material of this kind and cabled Hearst to this effect. It was then that Hearst sent the message now famous in newspaperdom.

"You furnish the pictures and I'll furnish the war."

Hearst is said to own one million acres of land in Mexico and for this reason it is clear that his desire for a "firm policy" towards Mexico has a purely business basis. A multi-millionaire himself, he specializes in war-mongering and appeals to the lowest jingo instincts.

Hearst's papers, with their tremendous circulation, are a menace to the American masses. Their imperialist role is obvious in the present acute situation. More slimy and unscrupulous than the other capitalist sheets, Hearst builds up a huge circulation by advocating meaningless reforms and then floods the millions of readers with the special propaganda of Wall Street.

Hearst is a cowardly and conscious plotter against the lives of the American working class and the workers and peasants of Latin America. His papers should be boycotted by the American labor movement and he himself, in line with the suggestion of Congressman Huddleston of Alabama, should be lined up with President Coolidge, Secretary of State Kellogg, Elbert H. Gary, the Rockefeller and Morgan mobs, and a few hundred of the other wealthiest parasites and made to stage their own invasion of Mexico in Nicaragua unassisted.

The sudden cooling of their patriotic fervor would send the frenzy down below zero for hundreds of miles around.

The working class press must do its level best to counteract the war madness Hearst is trying to engender. The weakness of the working class press is most apparent at a time like this when the issues of peace or war hangs in the balance. But it is in periods such as this that the working class feels most the need of a powerful and militant press and can be rallied to workers' papers which speak recklessly and clearly in exposing the monstrous conspiracy which has been organized by and for Wall Street and its government—which Hearst supports.

Greetings to the American Kuomintang

The American section of the Kuomintang Party now concluding the sessions of its annual convention in Los Angeles can be of incalculable support to the people's liberation movement in China of which it is a part. It can aid the revolutionary struggles of its mother party in two principal ways: First, by rendering material and moral aid and support by mobilizing the Chinese population in America behind the liberation movement, and second, by joining with the revolutionary workers' movement in this country in the struggle against American imperialism.

The United States has posed as the friend of China. An earnest of this friendship was given in the form of returning the Boxer indemnities to educate Chinese in this country. But the friendship that the United States has displayed towards China with one hand has been more than counterbalanced by the imperialist scheming and grabbing that the United States has been guilty of in common with the other powers who have their claws in China.

The manner in which the United States has consistently maintained an attitude of hostility towards the Kuomintang government of South China should dispel, if it exists in the minds of Chinese residents in this country, all thought of assistance or even neutrality on the part of the United States when the Canton government is finally prepared to assert its complete sovereignty in China.

In greeting the American section of the Kuomintang THE DAILY WORKER pledges to continue its work of exposing American imperialism in the Far East and upholding the movement in China which is carrying out the doctrines of the great revolutionist Sun Yat Sen, to whose memory the American Kuomintang dedicated its work in the Los Angeles convention.

Presidential Warfare

The power to declare war is vested in the congress of the United States by the constitution of the United States. But this mandate of our fathers" has been put aside so often that our well-meaning liberal friends will have another occasion to gasp with horror if Coolidge and Kellogg decide to land troops in Mexico, or any place else in Latin America to "protect" American oil and dollars.

The great "war president," Mr. Wilson, has done a great deal for dollar diplomacy not only in the matter of material aid but also in the legal matter of precedents.

If any person with the illusion that the constitution means anything asks Kellogg what right he has to send troops to Latin America and thus put the United States in a position of war without the consent of congress, he will doubtless remind the person that President Wilson took Vera Cruz in 1914 and sent General Pershing into Mexico at the head of a large body of troops in 1916. He will, if he wishes to go further back, make note of the fact that President Roosevelt took Panama on the quiet and that a two-year campaign was conducted against the Filipinos without a declaration of war. But perhaps the best precedent he can fall back on is Wilson's private war against the Soviet Republic in 1919.

It doesn't require a vote of congress to make war on Mexico if Coolidge decides to make it. And for that matter who knows that congress as it is at present constituted, won't somehow such a war?

The democrats? Well, Wilson was a democrat.

A Popular Movement Against Militarism and Imperialist War Can Be Built

By WILLIAM F. DUNNE.

WALL STREET and its government is preparing to force upon the United States a policy in Mexico and Latin-America for which it cannot get popular approval. It is a policy of waging war without a declaration of war.

Secretary of State Kellogg, caught in a dilemma and particularly slimy attempt to poison the minds of the American people by means of a lying story for which the state department itself dare not take responsibility, now takes refuge behind the phrase "not compatible with public interest" when asked to prove his statements.

This device, used by every tyrant and war-monger, is like the cloak for conspirators against the lives and liberties of the masses.

The La Guardia resolution has forced Wall Street government's somewhat more into the open but it has the weakness of all such documents, written by middle class spokesmen, which start with the premise that American government is correct in protecting American capitalist interests if they exist in colonial and semi-colonial countries.

The Coolidge administration has taken advantage of this weakness and now states boldly, and backs up its statement by a further use of armed force in Nicaragua, that it intends to maintain its position of arbiter of the destinies of the Nicaraguan people by every means necessary for its purpose.

Its excuse is the right of way for a canal purchased in 1846 for $3,600,000.

WHAT we are witnessing is the extension of the conquest of Latin-America, inaugurated in Mexico as the first step to smashing its leadership of the anti-imperialist movement in Latin-America.

There is the further reason that, having secured the Panama Canal and thus divided Latin-America into northern and southern zones, American imperialism intends now to control all approaches to the canal.

The next step will be to control the approaches to the approaches and so on until all Latin-America is a Wall Street colony.

THAT such a policy cannot be carried out in Latin-America without war, goes without saying. Just as Great Britain has warred on the Egyptian people and other nationalities in the Suez Canal zone, beginning her bloody occupation of Egypt with the bombardment of Alexandria in 1882, so does American imperialism begin a new phase of its conquest of all territory contagious to the Panama Canal zone with the forcible overthrow of the popular government in Nicaragua and the armed occupation of its capital.

All this has been done in the face of popular opposition, but an opposition which lacks coherence, and in which the organized labor movement, the most effective force in this situation, has as yet taken no important part.

The Communist Party alone has a clear program for combatting American imperialist aggression which, with its danger of war, is a joint menace to the masses of the United States and Latin-America.

STILL another danger inherent in the Latin-American policy of Wall Street is its threat to the living standards—wages and working conditions of the millions of low-paid workers engaged in the production of raw materials in the United States.

In 1926 alone there was invested in South and Central America a total of $518,031,900. Speaking of these investments Moody's Investor's Service says:

An interesting feature of Latin-American financing during 1926 is the trend of American issues toward South and Central American enterprises, ESPECIALLY TO COMPANIES ENGAGED IN THE PRODUCTION OF RAW MATERIALS. (Emphasis ours.)

Imperialism not only seeks fields for capital investment at rates higher than can be obtained at home but also sources of supply for raw materials which CAN BE OBTAINED CHEAPER THAN THEY CAN BE PRODUCED AT HOME.

FOR a small privileged section of the working class this means participation in the profits of imperialism. For the great mass of the workers it means a more bitter struggle for a decent livelihood.

The danger of war and the threat to the living standards of workers engaged in production of raw materials in Latin-America are two main reasons for the working class, in addition to their duty to their comrades in the colonial and semi-colonial regions, to demand an uncompromising struggle by its leaders against the march southward by the American ruling class and its war machinery.

WE can be sure that no other section of the population except the workers and exploited farmers will raise any real and sustained opposition to the Coolidge program. It is possible, however, to establish, on the basis of a struggle against such arrogant imperialist brutality as is shown in Nicaragua, and the war preparations against Mexico, a united front of workers, farmers, liberal intellectuals and middle class elements which feel the pressure of militarism, in opposition to the Wall Street-Coolidge program of aggression.

Such a movement can have as its slogans, "Hands off Mexico and Latin-America," "Self determination for all Latin-American peoples," "Withdraw all gunboats and military forces from Latin-America," "Nationalization of the Canal Zone," "Wall Street investors shall not risk our lives for their dollars," "No gunboats for Wall Street," "Bankers fight their own battles," "The Monroe Doctrine is a Wall Street weapon," etc.

THE open aggression against Nicaragua and the less violent but just as determined and deadly pressure on Mexico, the "gunboat treaty" forced on Panama, all show the necessity for a broad popular movement to treat and expose the secret conspiracies of the state department and organize resistance to them.

I do not believe that any great numbers of the American people can be stirred to a high pitch of patriotic fervor by the prospect of war on the Latin-American republics. But many of these imperialist adventures which can culminate only in a war of major proportions can be carried out now by the professional military forces at the disposal of the state and war departments. The feeling that there is no immediate danger on the part of great numbers of the American masses is itself one of the greatest assistance to the imperialists.

BUT the world war came as the result of a series of imperialist adventures which made it inevitable but which were tolerated by the masses because it did not affect them directly. The capitalist class learned many lessons from the world war but the masses have yet to learn this one elementary lesson, the lesson that "every act has its look," and that little wars breed big ones.

A UNITED front of all elements opposed to imperialist war will tend to dissipate the inclination to dismiss the danger to the American masses as far off in the future and its attention, not only on such events as the invasion of Nicaragua and the clubbing of Mexico but on the continuous growth of militarism in the United States and the gradual but rapid spread of the internal activities of the war department.

A popular movement against militarism and imperialism must be built.

Calles Addresses the Mexican People

The text of President Calles' message to the Mexican people on New Year's Eve, translated by The DAILY WORKER by Arturo M. Elias, consul-general of Mexico at New York City, was as follows:

FOLLOWING the practice established last year, I again take advantage of the opportunity provided by New Year's Day to send cordial greetings to the Mexican people and deliver a direct message concerning the general situation of the country as well as the work accomplished and the tendencies followed by the executive.

"The adoption of methods and systems for the development of our natural resources and the defense of our just national rights—methods and systems with which the most civilized countries of the world have successfully strived for their economic and political independence and their prosperity and full development—have aroused, because of suspicion and opposition attached to every innovation, internal and external difficulties; and the policy of strict compliance with the enforcement of the fundamental laws of the country have necessarily started the action of antagonistic forces.

Domestic Agitation Fails.

"Fortunately, the points of controversy abroad have been dealt with thru channels and by means of calm, technical discussion. The domestic agitation and opposition have not succeeded in disturbing fundamentally the public peace we are enjoying, the government being able to comply strictly with all its obligations at home and abroad without the least obstacle to the task of reconstruction that I planned since I took charge of the administration.

"Thus, in spite of numerous and complex handicaps, which are all of political or social character, the financial stability of the country has been placed upon a sounder basis during the past year by means of a strict policy of economy and administrative honesty.

"The educational program for 1926 was carried out beyond its original limits.

"All of the agricultural schools which had been planned were duly completed; irrigation projects in several zones were finished and others begun and plans for those to be constructed during the new year have been fully prepared; the selection, mobilization, outfitting and equipping of military forces have been continued and the work of reorganization for efficiency in other departments has made progress.

Goal is Economic Betterment.

"Thus we are striving, thru the united action of all, for the economic betterment of the country and the social and moral uplift of the Mexican people, which constitutes the most earnest aim of my administration.

"Unfortunately, those purposes of redemption and economic and social betterment of the great masses of people, without detriment to the just guarantees and prosperity of the wealthy classes, thru lack of understanding, or bad faith, or natural illfeeling of selfish interests, have been interpreted as expressions of a program of social disintegration.

"A ridiculous press campaign has striven to represent Mexico as the follower or supporter of exotic forms of government and a disseminator, at home and abroad, of political and social systems wholly strange to our environment, and our tendencies.

Mexico Has Its Own Problems.

"Such as I am I am the first to confess that truth shall necessarily come to light, I have continued serenely in my task without heeding the calumnies and the insults heaped upon me. I have confined myself to stating, whenever the opportunity came, that our problems, similar in their nature to those of all peoples in a state of formation, present in Mexico a phase of our present condition for the consideration of which it would be illogical to resort to the exotic measures of which we are accused, and the usefulness of which in social environments different from our own is not for me to comment.

"For I am well aware that they are not applicable to the conditions of our country, nor do they fit our political organization or the unalterable policy of my administration.

"Due to the unavoidable resistance of the antagonistic forces and interests mentioned above, a natural result has been the arousing abroad of unjustifiable mistrust and misunderstanding that up to this day no harm has been done to any material interests thru the policy adopted by this government, notwithstanding that I have repeatedly expressed my purpose not to interpret the constitutional laws of the country in any manner that would injure legitimate interest established in Mexico when those laws were enacted.

Capital Must Obey Laws.

"On the other hand, I am willing, naturally, to accept the decisions of the supreme court in cases arising from a conflict of interests, and I intend to see to it that the proper application of the laws, and I have maintained myself upon a level of perfect serenity, without allowing the course of doctrine and law followed and ordered by me to be obscured by passionate feelings, or by a spirit of retaliation or by political ill-will.

Thanks National Army.

"The co-operation of the other administrative powers and the valuable assistance of order and respect afforded by the national army have made and shall make it possible for the country to succeed in honorably solving thru a season of true hardship and trial.

"Notwithstanding the criminal machinations to alter peace and the ominous mien made to army officers to pervert the noble aims of this nation at institution, the preserver of the security and honor of the country, all of its members have continued to this day in perfect discipline within the limits established by law, and my government firmly hopes that they shall thus continue for the prestige of the army and of the republic.

"But should the interests and factions intent upon reopening a new era of internal disorders, succeed in gaining with the lavish of treason what ought to be the highest and noblest of all the institutions of the country, my government is absolutely certain that the guilty shall receive an immediate and just punishment.

"In order to attain an extensive financial and moral development of the country as well as a true collective prosperity, I asked in my message of January 1, 1926, for the earnest cooperation of every Mexican, who, forgetting ill feelings or personal ambitions, and with his feet best upon the welfare and prosperity of Mexico, would wish to be with us.

"The passionate feelings and ancient hatreds stirred in the last year by commonplace or malicious persons or by more puppets in the hands of domestic or foreign interests would perhaps now render utopic a similar general call.

Call For Co-operation.

"But having in mind above all the welfare of Mexico, it is my wish to insist on such a call that all those who are still able to emancipate themselves of malevolent influence, and those who thoroughly generously, or patriotic feeling are able to free themselves of the heavy burden of prejudices, selfish interests or hatreds, come to us and willingly accept as legitimate the aspirations of the rightful upliftment of the masses of our country, for which we have always struggled and are, ready to struggle always, being convinced that only the welfare of the great masses of Mexico can establish the basis of a definite organic peace and promote the prosperity and development of the Mexican nation."

Mexico City, Jan. 1, 1927.

Our Challenge Answered

DEAR COMRADES: This DAILY WORKER "poverty" is a terrible thing. I shudder in fear, patiently waiting how it will end. Could it be that in the land of education, intellect, etc., that one can be forgotten who so bravely spoke and is so willing to speak against all oppression and tell the working masses of their heavy positions?

No one ever did but The DAILY WORKER! It led us in splendid battle, willing to lead if we are true for its needs of life. We all know that it had no other purpose, and never will have, except to defend those who must work for a living, protect the unfortunate behind the iron bars—workers who dared to lay a sword against the meanest exploitation of toiling humanity in smelter, mines and hundreds of other dugouts. No other press has whispered a word of any successful idea for the working class but The DAILY WORKER!

All of us know by this time the conditions under which The DAILY WORKER is struggling for its own existence. Can we simply forget and say: The DAILY WORKER has made important maneuvers, taken a hand in all labor struggles, showed the way out to a better future?

Dear comrades, wherever we are, we must make it one of our first obligations, not only to wait till we are asked for a little donation for our Daily, but always be ready to give assistance because it is for us, and that is the only way we can help ourselves.

I don't want to challenge anyone nor do I want to be gotised. It is my entire conviction that without our Daily we would be forced to do things that we do not want to do, but we now have a Daily, and we should work and make it more powerful than ever.

Come along, comrades, whoever you are, we all need The DAILY WORKER.

Yours in the class struggle,
Geo. Rupert.

Lost Without It!

DEAR COMRADES: I herewith send you my renewal for one year for The DAILY WORKER. I would feel lost without The DAILY WORKER on the farm for it is just as good as a life saver for a poor farmer. I send you one dollar ($1.00) for your Third Birthday and in honor of my youngest son for he is also three years old. On the same day I will send $1.00.

There is more real news in The DAILY WORKER in one day than there is in a capitalist paper in a month.

Hoping you the greatest fighting spirit for freedom.

A Comrade,
Chas. Johnson, Ashland, Wis.

OIL!

A NEW NOVEL

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair.)

These were all ranch fellows, outdoor men, that had worked in the sun all their lives, and grown big and bronzed and sturdy; but now they were bleached white or yellow, dirty and unshaven, with sunken cheeks and hollow eyes. Jick Dugan was coughing, just as his wife had said, and there was not one healthy-looking man in the bunch. If Bunny had been able to say to himself that these men had done some vile deed, and this was their atonement, he might have justified it, even while he questioned what good it would do; but they were there because they had dared to dream of justice for their fellows, and to talk about it, in defiance of the "open shop" crowd of big business men!

Bunny had sent them some books—they were allowed to have books that didn't look radical to very ignorant jailers, and provided the books came direct from the publishers, so that they would not have to be searched too carefully for concealed objects—such as saws and dope. Now he wanted to tell him how much those books had helped, and to ask for more. And what did things know about their prospects of getting a trial? Had he seen Paul, and what did Paul think? And what about the union—was there anything left of it? They were not allowed any part of Paul's paper, so they were six or seven months behind the news of their own world.

Bunny came out into the sunshine with a fine indignation of desperation. His father was half sick—but even so, it rather must have this battle of the unions brought onto him! The last time they had discussed the matter Dad had said to wait; Vernon Rosser would "see what he could do"—but Bunny would wait no longer. Dad must compel Vernon to act, or Bunny would take up the job himself.

He drove his father back to Angel City, and learned that radicals had organized a "defense committee," and there was to be a mass meeting of protest, at which funds would be raised for the appeal case. Paul was to be the principal speaker—despite the fact that it might cause his bail privilege to be cancelled. When Bunny got that news he served an ultimatum on his father, the meeting was to take place the following week, and no less a person than Vernon Rosser in time, Bunny was going to be one of the speakers, and says his full say about the case.

Dad of course objected. But it was one of those times when his son surprised him by failing to be "soft." Bunny went, farther than ever in his desperation. "Maybe you feel that you can't make a row, because like this while I'm living off your money, and perhaps I ought to quit college and go to work for myself."

"Son, I've never said anything like that."

"No, but I'm putting you in a hole with Vernie, and it would be easier if you could say I'm not living on you."

"Say, I don't want to say any such thing. But I do think you ought to consider my position."

"I've considered everything, Dad—considered till I'm sick at heart. I just can't let my love for any one person in the world take the place of my sense of justice. We're committing a crime to keep those men in jail, and I say Vernie has got to let go his end, and if he don't, then I'm going to make it hot for him."

Vernie was on his way back from the east, and Bunny demanded that he should phone the district attorney's office; he wished, he might phone the judge, too, if he thought necessary—it wouldn't be the first time. Bunny would "square" it if he didn't do it, then Bunny's name would be announced as one of the speakers at that mass meeting." Upon Dad flashed the memory of that terrible meeting of Harry Sumner's; he saw his beloved son publicly adopting that same ferocious mob, clasping that sea of angry faces and uplifted hands and being—and being—

ORDER U. S. NAVY TO STARVE REBELS

Demand Passage of Wheeler-Huddleston Resolutions That United States Get Out of Nicaragua

SENATOR WHEELER has introduced in the senate and Representative Huddleston in the house of representatives a resolution calling upon President Coolidge to immediately withdraw the American marines from Nicaragua and the American warships from the Nicaraguan ports.

While these resolutions make the basis of the demand that the United States is violating international law thru its intervention, and not the fact that the government is playing the "dollar diplomacy" game of the Wall Street interests, the workers' and farmers' organizations thruout the whole country should immediately adopt resolutions and wire their demand to the congressmen and senators from their states, demanding the passage of the Wheeler-Huddleston resolutions.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE has sent to congress a special message endeavoring to justify his use of American warships and marines in Nicaragua on the ground of the special interests of the United States in the new canal route thru Nicaragua and because Mexico has furnished arms to the liberals supporting Sacasa. According to the president it is alright for the United States government to permit the shipment of arms to the usurper Diaz and to use American marines and warships to support him, but it is all wrong for Mexico to permit the shipment of arms to Sacasa.

Stripped of its specious arguments the president's message is an open declaration for the use of the armed forces of the government to protect the Wall Street investments in Nicaragua and wipe out any resistance to the continued exploitation of Nicaragua by these interests.

THE fact that Mexico is made the target for the attack of the president is simply propaganda to help justify the attack on that country, because of its enforcement of the Mexican constitution against the American oil and mineral interests. The president is ready to intervene in Mexico, as he has intervened in Nicaragua, to maintain the exploitation of Mexcan resources and the Mexican people, on terms satisfactory to Wall Street.

The president's determination to continue the rape of Nicaragua, coupled with the attacks on Mexico, create even a more serious threat of this country becoming involved in an imperialist war in which the lives of the American workers and farmers and the wealth they produce will be sacrificed for the super-profits from the imperialist domination of these countries by Wall Street and its government at Washington.

At the same time the rushing of American warships to China create another similar situation in the Far East in which there is the same danger—an imperialist war to fight for the investments and profits of the Wall Street bankers.

Thus there is being created a new powder-magazine which in blowing up will hurl the workers and farmers of this country not only into a war against Nicaragua and Mexico, but in which there are the potentialities that the history of 1914-1918 will be repeated with the great imperialist capitalist nations lining up for a new trial of strength as to which group of capitalists shall enjoy the juicy plums of imperialist exploitation of the undeveloped countries of the world.

THE only force which can stop the United States from sliding into war against Nicaragua, Mexico and China, with a threat of greater war developing out of these aggressions in the interest of Wall Street are the workers and farmers of this country.

Now is the time to stop this development by calling a halt on the president's Wall Street policies in Nicaragua and Mexico. An overwhelming demand by the workers' and farmers' organizations of the country for the passage of the Wheeler-Huddleston resolutions for a withdrawal from Nicaragua will make plain to President Coolidge and Wall Street, that they have forces at home to reckon with in carrying on their imperialist aggression.

Every workers' and farmers' organization should immediately demand the passage of these resolutions and wire their demand to the congressman and senators from their state.

They should unite to form conferences of workers' and farmers' delegates to carry on the struggle against the threatening war.

DEMAND THAT THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT GET OUT OF NICARAGUA!
NO INTERVENTION IN MEXICO!
HANDS OFF CHINA!
TAKE UP THE FIGHT AGAINST THE IMPERIALIST WAR WHICH IS THREATENING AND STOP IT THRU THE UNITED FORCES OF THE WORKERS AND FARMERS!

ARCH-JINGO HEARST SOUNDS DRUMS FOR NEW WALL ST. WAR

William Randolph Hearst, who following out his war-mongering policy began with the assistance his papers gave to the provoking of the Spanish-American war has these many years been crying for intervention in Mexico. In the last weeks his twenty odd papers in all sections of the country have been again raising the cry of a southern invasion with front page articles by Hearst himself leading the field for blood and thunder honors.

Congress Told of 'Big Stick' Rule In Nicaraguan War

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. — Secretary of State Kellogg declared this afternoon that Admiral Latimer had been given powers to stop food supplies, as well as ammunition, from reaching the liberals in Nicaragua. The food blockade, with its resulting starvation of children, as well as men and women, was one of the weapons used by world imperialism against the Union of Soviet Republics in an effort to crush the Bolshevik Revolution.

• • • •

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. — Emphatically restating the Roosevelt an doctrine of the "Big Stick," President Coolidge sent a lengthy message to congress today on the Nicaraguan and Mexican questions that rivals in historic significance the famous 1904 message of President Roosevelt declaring the intention of the United States to exercise an "international police power" over Latin-America.

The message in no way explains the presence in the Caribbean waters of 15 first class ships of war for service in such a small country as Nicaragua but makes it clear thru the usual veil of diplomatic verbage, that the United States considers itself the unquestioned arbiter of Latin-American destiny.

Defends Occupation.

"Deploring" the necessity for sending troops to Nicaragua, the president confirms the policy of the United States that has resulted in armed intervention (not to speak of Haiti, San Domingo, Cuba, Mexico and Nicaragua on previous occasions) and makes it doubly clear that the Nicaraguan occupation is part of the offensive now being launched against Mexico.

"The proprietary rights of the United States in the Nicaraguan canal route," says the careful message, "with the necessary implication growing out of it affecting the Panama canal, together with the obligations flowing from the investments of all classes of our citizens in Nicaragua, places us in a position of peculiar responsibility. I am sure it is not the desire of the United States to intervene in the internal affairs of Nicaragua or of any other Central American republic. Nevertheless it must be said that we have a very definite and special interest in the maintainance and order of good government in Nicaragua at the present time and that the stability, prosperity and independence of all Central American countries can never be a matter of indifference to us.

Slap at Mexico.

"The United States cannot, therefore, fail to view with deep concern any serious threat to stability and constitutional government in Nicaragua, tending toward anarchy and jeopardizing American interests, especially if such a state of affairs is contributing to or brought about by outside influences or by any foreign power."

Ignores Mexican Rights.

The president claimed he had "the most conclusive evidence that arms and ammunition have been on several occasions shipped to the revolutionists in Nicaragua . . . Boats carrying these munitions have been fitted out in Mexican ports," ignoring entirely the privilege of Mexico as a sovereign nation to ship arms anywhere it pleases under international law and also ignoring the fact that at present the United States is shipping arms to President Diaz and preventing

GREEN DODGES STAND AGAINST U. S. IMPERIALISM

Goes to Council Meeting in Florida

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and of the Pan-American Federation of Labor, has gone to St. Petersburg, Fla., without saying a word for publication concerning the Mexico-Nicaragua war which the Coolidge administration has been bringing on.

Green Remains Silent.

Andrew Furuseth of the Seamen's Union tried to get Green to make a public protest, preferably by going to the White House and telling Coolidge that the organized labor movement of this country is in complete sympathy and harmony with the labor movements of Nicaragua and that of Mexico, against whose country the American armed forces are moving. Green chose instead to wait and consult with his council.

Optimists say in this silence a possible plan of consulting in Florida with emissaries of Nicaraguan and Mexican labor, in order to get the latest possible information with which to make an appeal for peace and non-intervention.

But others pointed out that by the time the council had discussed the issue the seizure of Nicaragua would be completed, and an invading army have been provoked in Mexico that would furnish a pretext for the American fleet to seize the Tampico oil district. The oil field of Mexico, the goal toward which Coolidge and Kellogg are aiming.

Cringing to the Catholics.

The situation faced by Green in the council is not easy because certain of the members are hostile to further affiliation with American labor on account of its support of the campaign to separate church and state in Mexico. Hence Green will not take the strong stand taken by Samuel Gompers as to sympathy with Mexican national aspirations as against the imperialism of Washington and Wall Street.

Mexican labor and its government are alike charged with having helped Sacasa, the Nicaraguan liberal president. Therefore clerical influences are thrown against Sacasa. President Coolidge knows that by his campaign to establish an anti-Mexican regime in Nicaragua he is pleasing certain extreme clerical leaders in the United States. Coolidge wants to beat Al Smith in the presidential race of 1928, and he hopes by his Latin-American war to divide the catholic vote.

Auto Drive is Up.

Next in dramatic interest to the Latin American war among the subjects before the council at this January meeting is the approach to jurisdictional waters in the various international unions involved in the

Borah and Kellogg Scrap Over War Policy

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, is seen leaving a conference with Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg whose present policy of aggression against Nicaragua and Mexico Senator Borah has declared against. Borah has said that "foreign interests" alone make it possible for the puppet President Diaz to maintain himself against the liberal rebels under Dr. Sacasa whom Borah thinks ought to be recognized.

CURRENT EVENTS

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

WASHINGTON has promised cooperation with the other powers to "protect" its nationals in Shanghai. This lends color to the suspicion that England took advantage of Washington's troubles in Latin-America to exact an agreement from the United States for a more benevolent attitude against China. Scores of looting by Chinese are increasing. Anybody who knows anything about how news is made will understand that there is probably not a scintilla of truth in those reports. In the meantime, the Chinese are getting along nicely with the task of getting rid of the foreign imperialists.

ARTHUR BRISBANE is in disagreement with his boss, William Randolph Hearst over the bullying of Nicaragua and Mexico. While Hearst shrieks that Coolidge's hands must be unbound, Brisbane is busy placing a sharp tack on the presidential chair. Brisbane declares that Mexico has as good a right to support the liberal Sacasa as the United States has to support the reactionary Diaz. This disagreement is indicative of the great wave of protest that is arising thruout the country over Coolidge's brutal assault on the rights of smaller nations.

IT is rather significant that at the time those lines are written there is not a peep from the officials of the American Federation of Labor against the latest Wall Street invasion of South America. It is not so very long since President Green officiated at laying the keel of a battleship. That keel will some day be cutting southern waters on its way to collect Morgan's bills or steal new oil wells for Rockefeller. Internationally, the re-

CANTON MOVES TO TAKE OVER FOREIGN AREAS

Fall of British in Hankow First Step

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Jan. 10.—A far reaching movement by the Cantonese nationalist authorities to take over all foreign concessions thruout China was seen in London today as the interpretation to be placed on the statement of Eugene Chen, foreign minister of Canton that the British concession at Hankow has "ceased to be a piece of unredeemed China."

In this statement, cabled to London, Foreign Minister Chen explained the nationalists' attitude toward the foreign population of Hankow, following the taking over by them of administration of the British concession there.

Redeemed to China.

"The extension of nationalist control over the British concession in Hankow," Minister Chen cabled, "is in itself the most ample guarantee that the lives and property of British and other nationals in the concession shall and must be protected by my government.

"While the concession remained under purely British control it was not the duty of my government to attend to the protection of foreigners there. But now that the concession ceases to be a piece of unredeemed China, my government regards the effective protection of Englishmen and other foreigners in Hankow as a vital interest of the nationalist China."

Demand Hong Kong.

The London Daily News said the real significance of Minister Chen's message rests on the implied intention of his government to recover as soon as possible, and without waiting for laborious negotiations, control of all foreign concessions in Chinese territory.

A message from Shanghai today said the Cantonese intend to demand the return of Hong Kong, holding British subjects at Hankow as hostages until this is an accomplished fact.

MEETING HERE TONIGHT TO FIGHT LAWS AGAINST FOREIGN-BORN WORKERS

The Chicago Council for the Protection of Foreign-Born Workers will hold a conference of representatives from all trade unions and workers' organizations, tonight at Manhinists' Hall, 113 South Ashland Blvd., for the purpose of organizing the struggle locally against the danger of anti-alien legislation now pending in congress.

The conference will start at 8 o'clock. Scores of unions have already elected delegates to the conference, Max Orlowski, secretary, announces, and many others will be represented by their officials.

The conference will discuss ways and means of combatting registration and deportation bills, which may be passed by congress any day, it is declared.

The Chicago council is affiliated with the National Council for the Protection of the Foreign-Born Workers.

REED CONFUSED BY IDENTITY OF CAL'S SPOKESMAN

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Rising to a question of "personal confusion" Senator James A. Reed (D) of Missouri, this afternoon appealed to republican leaders to tell him whether President Coolidge and the White House spokesman are the same individual or whether "there is a third party" who speaks for both.

Senator Overwhelmed.

Reed said he was overwhelmed with confusion when he read the morning newspapers, telling how both President Coolidge and the "president's spokesman" had announced that the United States would use its every resource to defend American lives and property in foreign countries.

With rich sarcasm he asked the republicans to say whether "it is true that President Coolidge stands beside the president's spokesman stands behind the spokesman, or stands inside the spokesman, when the spokesman speaks."

CLOAKMAKERS TO GO AHEAD WITH VOTING

Shop Chairmen Issue Strong Manifesto

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan.10—In a manifesto issued to all dress and cloak workers, the executive committee of 50 cloak shop chairmen and 35 dress shop chairmen, asked the support of the membership in their plans for holding impartial general elections in Locals 2, 9 and 35.

At the same time requests were sent to the joint board and to the executive boards of the various locals for their approval of the plans, which will place arrangements for the elections in the hands of the committee of 85 shop chairmen, with an impartial body, such as the American Civil Liberties Union to oversee the election and insure it against fraud. The executive board of Local 2 has already approved the plans. It speaks for its membership of 10,000 operators.

The manifesto reports to the workers on the activities of the shop chairmen's committee since its election at a mass meeting of cloak shop chairmen last week told of how a meeting to which only shop chairmen were admitted was arranged and representatives of the joint board and international asked to present their point of view on the "internal war that is splitting our union."

Sigman Ignores Action.

Altho Louis Hyman and others appeared to speak for the joint board, President Morris Sigman of the international refused to attend even when requested by a committee sent from the meeting. At a later interview, Sigman told the shop chairmen that he would not permit the regular elec-

AGAIN POSTPONE PASSAIC STRIKE PRISONER TRIAL

Jersey Justice Fears Exposure of Violence

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan. 10.—The machinery of Jersey justice which last September violently went into action in support of the police efforts to break the big textile strike for the mill owners, is displaying a marked reluctance to bring to trial the eleven strikers who were arrested in the fantastic police booming plot and held in exorbitant bail—as high as $50,000 in the case of two of the prisoners.

The cases of Adolph Winnefsky, Joseph Toth and Nicholas Schilleci which were set for January 13, are again postponed, according to Alexander MacLeod, counsel for the Joint Committee for Passaic Defense. The reason given by the prosecutor was that the court interpreter was sick. Those men are three of five strike prisoners held in the Bergen county jail. No date has been set yet for the trial of the other two, Thomas Regan and Paul Kovac.

Fourth Postponement.

Judge Joseph A. Delaney, of the Passaic county court of common pleas, in Paterson, where the trial of the six men held in Passaic county jail, was scheduled to start January 10, dismissed the jury for a week, and postponed the trial until January 18. This is the fourth postponement of the case of the six textile strike prisoners in the Passaic jail. Trial was first set for October 5, and then postponed to November 15. The next dates which were set and postponed were December 13, December 20 and January 10. Tony Pochno, Joseph Belleno and Charles Current are the three men who are to be brought up first when and if the trial finally gets under way.

The five men in the Bergen county jail were arraigned in December on the indictments brought against them, but January 13 is the first date that has been set for their trial, altho they were arrested back in September. They are held on $80,000 collective bail. The six men in Passaic county jail are held on $210,000. The enormous amount of the bail has made it impossible so far to get the men released on bonds.

These eleven prisoners, together with several other strikers arrested at the time but subsequently released, were the victims of brutal police third degree methods at the time of their arrest.

Passaic Striker in Serious Condition.

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan. 10.—Paul Kovac, one of the eleven textile strike prisoners who has been held without trial for over three months, spent his New Year in a padded cell. Kovac has been suffering since September with three broken ribs given to him by the police during the third degree which followed his arrest.

Just before Christmas, Kovac's condition grew so serious he was removed to the Hackensack General Hospital. After a few days there he was taken back to jail, where, according to the sheriff, he went out of his head and had to be confined in a straight jacket and locked in a padded cell. He was kept there for several days, then returned to his cell—weak, pale and quiet but obsessed with the notion that he will never get out of jail alive.

It is feared that Kovac's health and reason will both be permanently impaired if he is not released from jail soon. The bail for which he is held is $15,000. He has a wife and three children, who are frantic at his condition.

Distribute $600 Among Prisoners' Families.

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan. 10.—More than six hundred dollars was distributed to the families of the eleven textile strike prisoners by the Joint Committee for Passaic Defense during the Christmas holidays. The General Relief Committee of the I. W. W. sent $275, the I. L. D. $275, Arthur Garfield Hayes $40, the local Ukrainian I. L. D. branch $55.

Force Involuntary Receivership on the Bauer Cab Company

The $1,500,000 Bauer Cab Co., and Bauer Taxicab Manufacturing company were thrown into involuntary receivership today in two simultaneous actions in circuit court. Chicago Title and Trust company was named receiver.

Cab drivers for the Bauer company recently went on strike.

KUOMINTANG CONVENTION ISSUES MANIFESTO TO AMERICAN PUBLIC; REAFFIRMS SUN YAT SEN PROGRAM

By PAUL C. REISS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 10.—Eighty delegates of the Kuomintang Party of North America, Chinese national revolutionary organization, representing fifty-two branches with 14,000 members, have deliberated in annual convention here for five days.

Adopt Manifesto.

The convention adopted a manifesto addressed to the people of America explaining the aims of the party. It reaffirmed Dr. Sun Yat Sen's life of labor to make the Chinese people a free people. It emphatically denies that the present movement and party is "red" as the American public has been led to believe by the press.

Spanish Meeting.

This is a special convention of the branches in America, called by order of the central committee of China for the purpose of electing officers for the coming years and means of financing the party; for making any necessary amendments; and for the purpose of discussing and formulating definite plans for strengthening of a united Chinese republic by means of education and by economic development of China.

No delegates attended from Mexico and Canada on account of immigration restrictions.

Get Greetings.

Greetings were received by the convention from the Workers (Communist) Party of America, from The DAILY WORKER, Young Aela, Chicago, and numerous other organizations.

Strong Government is Aim.

"The aim of the Kuomintang party is to establish in China in a fair way a strong central government under the democratic principle set forth by our beloved leader, Dr. Sun Yat Sen," says the manifesto.

"The unification of all the people by means of education and the economic development securing better communication and trasportation, better interstate commerce, etc. This was the aim of Dr. Sun and the Kuomintang.

Sun's Principles.

"The easiest end surest way to eradicate all foreign misconceptions in regard to the present day movement is to present Dr. Sun's 'three principles,' the manifesto says. The principles are summerised, as follows:

Nationalism.

1. Assimilation of the five peoples of China—Chinese, Mongolian, Mohammedan, Thibetan. 2. Security of equal treatment of the Chinese people from all the nations of the world.

Political Democracy.

1. Assurance of the right of the people to vote. 2. Assurance of the right of the people to the powers of initiative, referendum, and recall.

Economic Democracy.

1. Establishment of a compromise between labor and capital. 2. Attainment of economic equality thru political measures. 3. Equalization of the right of the people to own land. 4. Right of the government to own public utilities. 5. Responsibility of the government to control the means of communication, transportation, manufacturers, and the promotion of mines; improvement of conditions of the laboring classes thru legislation and education; lessening the danger of famine by the improvement of agricultural pursuits by scientific methods and fostering the idea of the conservation of food.

Quote His Last Words.

The manifesto quotes the last words of Dr. Sun, which were in part: "Forty years I have labored to make the Chinese people a free people. My work is unfinished. I leave it to those who believe in liberty, equality, and the brotherhood of man. With my forty years of experience, I finally realize that in order to accomplish this purpose we must awaken the masses of people and co-operate with all peoples who are treating as on an equal footing."

CONGRESS TOLD OF "BIG STICK" RULE IN THE WAR ON NICARAGUA

arms from going to Dr. Sacasa's forces.

The president reviewed at length the incidents that led up to the present situation since the election, in 1924 of Carlos Salozorno and Dr. Juan Sacasa as president and vice-president respectively of Nicaragua. His review might have been compared word for word with the numerous stories of recent events issued by the U. S. puppet President Diaz at the instance of the American charge d'affairs at Managua, Lawrence Dennis.

Forgets Facts.

Supporting Kellogg's contention that Diaz was chosen president in a constitutional manner, Coolidge summed up this phase of the revolution with the mere statement that the congress that selected Diaz was a constitutional gathering with full powers. In saying this he ignored three things: First that at the time of his election, Diaz was the military dictator of the country, at the head of the conservative army and that the liberals had been entirely suppressed for months in order to assure it. Second, that Admiral Julian Latimer's ships were already in Nicaragua at this time and had established the first of the "neutral zones" that have since been proven to be direct aid against the liberals. Third, in stating that Dr Sacasa was out of the country and was therefore not able to take over the presidency by reason of his succession rights as vice-president, President Coolidge ignores the well-known fact that Dr. Sacasa was forced to flee for his life.

Propis Support Liberals.

Coolidge's cock and bull story about the "legality" of the regime of Adolfo Diaz, director, by the way of an American mining company, hardly jibes with the undisputed fact that the liberals have control of most of the country and have the meager forces left to Diaz entirely bottled up in the capital, Managua, relying solely on American military assistance to remain in power. The fact that the liberals have been able to rally the population behind them to do this certainly signifies the lack of support that Diaz is receiving from the citizens of the country.

Protest Statements.

It is only with regard to the admittedly precious "American lives and tries" and enterprises in Nicaragua that the president waxes frank.

"For many years Americans have been living in Nicaragua developing its industries and carrying on business.

"The United States has occasionally been obliged to send naval forces for their proper protection. In the present crisis such forces are requested by the Nicaraguan government."

Never Got 3 Million.

He also admits that the $3,000,000 "paid" for American canal rights to Nicaragua were never received by the government but were given to bankers who held notes against the government.

"In addition to these indemnities, the government of Nicaragua, by a treaty granted in perpetuity to the United States the exclusive proprietary rights necessary and convenient for the construction, operation, and maintenance of an oceanic canal."

The consideration paid by the United States to Nicaragua was the sum of $3,000,000. At the time of the payment of this money a financial plan was drawn up between this government and the bankers and its creditors which provided for the consolidation of Nicaragua's obligations.

Doesn't Know Bankers.

Professing undue ignorance about the manner in which international finance is conducted, the president talks as if he had never heard of the banking firm of Brown Brothers & Co., or J. & W. Seligman who have floated numerous Nicaraguan loans in this country.

"The bonds held in the United States are held by the public in general circulation and, so far as the department knows, no American bankers are directly interested in the Nicaraguan indebtedness."

There is no question that if the revolution continues American investments and business interests in Nicaragua will be very seriously affected, if not destroyed. The currency, which is now at par, will be inflated. American as well as foreign bondholders will undoubtedly look to the United States for the protection of their interests."

Hits Mexico Thrust.

In conclusion, the message takes a sparring shot at Mexico, warning that country that the only nation which has a right to intervene in the affairs of Latin America, is the United States. Between the document, a veiled hostility towards Mexico drives one to the conclusion that the message is as much directed against the country south of the Rio Grande as it is an explanation of the presence of an American armada in the Caribbean of such proportions as to arouse even the most conservative elements of the nation to protest.

Makes Caraway Almost Sweet.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—President Coolidge's defense of the United States Nicaraguan policy in his special message today did not allay the criticism that has met it in congress.

Republican applause met the message in the house, but the democrats en bloc sat silent, and a few minutes later Rep. Romjue (D) of Missouri made a speech declaring "a war with Mexico may be touched off, and conditions do not justify war."

The president's senatorial critics were not silenced, either.

"I can't comment, I've quit swearing," said Senator Caraway (D) of Arkansas, another administration critic.

Prosecutor Talks Much.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Warning to the gunsters of southern Illinois was voiced today by U. S. District Attorney Walter Provine in announcing that the Shelton brothers, notorious for their warfare with the Berger faction, would go on trial here Jan. 24 for alleged participation in the robbery of the U. S. mail at Collinsville.

WRITE AS YOU FIGHT!

LABOR PARTY OPPONENT IS MADE TARGET

Johannsen Meets with Audience Barrage

Anton Johannsen, member of the executive board of the Chicago Federation of Labor, who supported the traditional A. F. of L. attitude in the West Town Forum debate on "Is an American Labor Party Desirable?" must have felt like a corrupt senator-elect undergoing a senatorial investigation when the audience at Mid-City Odd Fellows Hall auditorium finished with him Sunday evening. Johannsen debated against a labor party.

When the formal speeches were over and the audience was given the privilege of asking questions, a veritable barrage of interrogations fell upon Johannsen.

"All Politicians the Same."

Johannsen declared that a labor party was not desirable because "all politicians are the same. It doesn't make any difference what they are: republicans, democrats, socialists, Communists, or what, they are all alike."

"Workers should confine themselves to building up their organizations," he said. "Have less faith in politics, and more faith in organization."

"The workers should leave politics alone, no good comes from it," Johannsen asserted. "If you have not the police about the British Labor Party, but I haven't heard any of its achievements." He cited what he called the failure of the labor party in San Francisco and the LaFollette campaign to show that labor parties cannot succeed and that co-operation with all people who are treating as on an equal footing."

Capitalists Like Johannsen.

"Johannsen is in exactly the state of mind that John D. Rockefeller and J. P. Morgan want the labor leaders to be in," answered George R. Kirkpatrick, who spoke for the labor party. "They are perfectly delighted to hear him spread this propaganda against politics. His attitude is 'we have power—don't want politics', and then the employers make all the rules. Of course, the workers are ignorant of politics. It has been the policy of the A. F. of L. to keep them ignorant. Johannsen's philosophy is a hopeless one."

Labor must use both its arms—industrial strength and political strength, said Kirkpatrick. "The workers should do more than organize industrially, they should organize politically. To do the one without the other is using only half the power.

Will Wake Up Worker.

"A labor party will make the worker wake up and respect himself," he said. "It will make him conscious of the things that are going on. If we have a labor party, say of 5,000,000 workers, it would positively excite the working class. They would think more, they would fight more, they would go forward to victory. Politics today is so corrupt and so dominated by the capitalist class, that new parties do not get votes at all. Instead millions of workers forget about politics, and let the employers do what they wish with the government."

Cites Mexican Crisis.

Kirkpatrick mentioned the Mexican Labor Party as an example, and said, "Within ten days from now, I venture, the United States will be going to war with Mexico. What would be the effect if we had an American Labor Party now, and it issued a proclamation declaring that American workers would not fight against their brothers across the border?". There was much applause at this.

Green Dodges Stand on U. S. Imperialism

proposed attempt to organize 500,000 automobile workers.

Executives of the international unions are divided as to whether they favor a broader jurisdiction to an industrial union of workers in this industry, even for a year. The council is expected to request them to yield, in order that a beginning may be made on the organizing fight. It is seen that from three to five years will be required to make any serious headway in this job. Mass production, mass capital and mass credit now dominate the automobile field, and nothing short of mass human resistance will establish a dam of unionism against the autocratic current that flows from Ford and General Motors. Nobody on the labor side is just now confident of early success, but the older men see that unless the fight is made on the offensive the unions will soon have to wage an expensive campaign of defense in the territory they now hold.

Oil Witnesses Homesick.

Washington lobbyists fear that Harry M. Blackmer and J. E. O'Neil, Standard Oil subsidiary officials who fled to Europe during the Teapot Dome scandal inquiry, are sick of exile in Paris. They are sought by the government as witnesses to the payment of $320,000 in Liberty bonds to Albert Fall thru a dummy corporation formed for that purpose in Canada, in the forthcoming trial of Sinclair and Fall.

Let No One Be Fooled By Fake "Protect American Lives and Property!" Cry

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

"SILENT CAL" COOLIDGE at the White House, and "Nervous Nellie" Kellogg from his office as secretary of state, join in the announcement that "the government" will protect American "lives and property" in Nicaragua or Mexico with the same energy that it invoked for the same purpose in Haiti and Santo Domingo.

The American populace is supposed to cheer this thread-bare appeal for the protection of "lives and property," especially at this moment, whether it concerns Nicaragua, Mexico or China.

The specific instance of Haiti, however, indicates that the only lives in jeopardy are the lives of the natives. Thousands of Haitians were murdered outright as an incident to the American invasion of the island republic. Similarly with property. It was the property of the Haitians that was stolen by the American invaders.

Here are two paragraphs taken from Page 136, of "Dollar Diplomacy," by Scott Nearing and Joseph Freeman, showing the close and harmonious relations between the banking interests and the armed forces of their United States government in the plunder of weaker peoples. This unity of action is described as follows:

"The state department (at Washington) took advantage of a revolutionary outbreak in the north province to propose to President Zamor that he be kept in power provided he would sign a convention inuring over the customs houses to American control. The president refused to compromise the independence of Haiti and resigned. On Dec. 10, the newly chosen president was formally presented with a similar proposal by the American minister in Haiti, and again the proposal was turned down." Sne U. S. "Haiti hearings", pp. 5-6.

"One week later a contingent of United States marines landed in Port au Prince (see U. S. "Foreign Relations", 1915, p. 476) proceeded to the vaults of the National Bank of Haiti, and in broad daylight forcibly seized $500,000 and carried it aboard the gunboat Machias. The money was transported to New York and deposited in the vaults of the National City Bank. THIS MONEY WAS THE PROPERTY OF THE HAITIAN GOVERNMENT AND HAD BEEN DEPOSITED FOR THE REDEMPTION OF PAPER CURRENCY. Haiti at once protested against this violation of rights and appealed to the marines and got no answer. NONE WAS EVER GIVEN." See "Current History Magazine, v. 15, p. 946, 1922; "Haiti Hearings", p. 5, U. S. "Foreign Relations", 1915, pp. 499-500.

So there is a wealth of evidence, in full official form, to show who violates property rights. The role of bandit and common thief becomes respectable, from the capitalist viewpoint, only when it appears in the uniform of Wall Street's marines. The National City Bank of New York is a Morgan-Rockefeller institution. Thus the flag follows the financiers.

But at what cost in lives and human suffering. Not the lives of American financiers. Nor are the casualties ever very heavy among their well-trained Haitian soldiery. Facts out of the experience of Haiti are cited again. The sordid, bloody picture of the slaughter of Haitians has often been told. Major Smedley Butler gives a rather matter of fact picture as follows:

"Charges of brutality have been made against the American occupation in Haiti. Some 3,000 Cacos (Haitian patriots) have been killed by American marines, according to one observer (see Johnson, "Self-Determining Haiti", p. 12.).

The U. S. Marine Corps Report gives the number of Haitians killed as 2,250—"killed either by marines or by the person of the gendarmerie of Haiti." see U. S. Marine Corps, "Report on Haiti", p. 108.)

"The work of building a highway from Port au Prince to Cape Haitien was in charge of an officer of marines, who stands out even in that organization for his "treat 'em rough" methods. He discovered the obsolete Haitien corvee and decided to enforce it with the most modern marine efficiency. The corvee, or road law, in Haiti provided that each citizen should work a certain number of days on the public roads to keep them in condition, or pay a certain sum of money. The Occupation seized men wherever it could find them, and no able-bodied Haitian was safe from such raids, which most closely resembled the African slave raids of past centuries. And slavery it was, the temporary. By day, or by night from the bosom of their families, from their little farms or while trudging peacefully on the country roads, Haitians were seized and forcibly taken to toil for months in far sections of the country. Those who protested or resisted were beaten into submission. Those attempting to escape were shot."

This quotation is again from Johnson's "Self-Determining Haiti."

These atrocities resulted in a brief revolt led by an educated and cultured Haitian, Charlemagne Peralte, who had been forced to work in convict clothes on the streets of Cape Haitien. The revolt was crushed and Charlemagne Peralte was killed. "Not in open fight, not in an attempt at his capture," but "while standing over his camp fire, he was shot in cold blood by an American marine officer who stood concealed by the darkness, and who had reached the camp thru bribery and trickery." A protest lodged by prominent Haitians with the senate committee of inquiry into the occupation of Haiti in 1921 declares that the American occupation "is the most terrible regime of military autocracy which has ever been carried on in the name of the great American democracy.

"The Haitian people, during these past five years, have passed thru such awful tortures, destructions, humiliations and misery as has never before been known in the course of its unhappy history."

According to an American recently returning from a visit to Haiti in 1920, "if the United States should leave Haiti today, it would leave more than a thousand orphans and widows of its own making, more banditry than has existed for a century, resentment, hatred and despair in the heart of a whole people."

Conditions somewhat similar to the road law enforcement in Haiti were recently exposed by The DAILY WORKER in Peru. The story of Haiti does not stand alone. It is the story of Cuba, Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands, of all the Latin-American countries, of the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippine Islands, the Samoan (American) Islands, and of every other victim of Wall Street imperialism, in greater or lesser degree. Today it is Nicaragua, Mexico and China.

The imperialist robbers and hangmen speak as if the property and lives of the subject peoples really belonged to them. They are learning that they have no vested interests that they cannot take at the point of gun or bayonet. And the oppressed peoples are learning to fight back. Just as important, the working class in the United States, the imperialist homeland, is learning to turn its back upon the imperialist demand that labor fight its battles.

Let no one be deceived by the imperialist appeal for the "protection of lives and property."

OF CHICAGO'S POPULATION, 650,000 LIVE IN SOME 12,000 ROOMING HOUSES

The Chicago Rooming House Association is authority for the statement that there are 700,000 rooming houses in the United States, the proprietors of which cater during a year to some 30 million guests, or almost one-third of the population of the country. It is pointed out that there are some rooming houses in the country containing as many as 250 rooms, as large as a good-sized hotel. The association was organized nine years ago to protect the interests of the rooming house keepers.

In Chicago there are estimated to be 12,000 rooming houses, with an invested capital of $150,000,000 operated by 50,000 people and catering to approximately 650,000 guests. The annual outlay for maintenance, replacements, and supplies is set at $36,000,000.

The association will seek legislation, giving the proprietors more of the protection accorded inn keepers with respect to liens.

At Least One Set Too Many.

UNION CITY, N. J.—Rival offices, trying to fill the same official positions, is the situation here. It developed because a republican mayor and a democratic council insisted on appointing rival sets of officers. Most of the offices in the city hall are in a state of seige.

The only business transacted on the first day of the fight was the marriage of a middle-aged couple.

NEW QUOTAS ON IMMIGRATION TO PROVOKE BATTLE

Congress to Hit Cut on Germans, Irish

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The new immigration quotas, which will become effective July 1 this year, will provoke a new battle in congress, it appeared, because of the reductions proposed for the quota allotments from Germany, Ireland and the Scandinavian countries.

Quotas Cut.

The new quotas, which cut the total immigration for the next fiscal year to 153,541 aliens instead of the 164,667 admitted this year, will be proclaimed by President Coolidge on April 1.

If carried out, the new alignment, based on the ratio of national origins as found in the 1920 census, would make Germany the heaviest loser with a reduction from 51,227 to 23,428 and the Irish Free State, the second heaviest loser, with a reduction from 28,567 to 13,462. Other nations facing reduced quotas include Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, France, Poland, and Switzerland, beside Norway, Denmark, and Sweden.

British Gain Increase.

The greatest quota increase will go to Great Britain, including Southern Ireland, with an increase from 34,007 to 73,039. Austria, Hungary, Italy, the Netherlands and Russia also will have their quotas increased.

WHY should potential gunmen join the police force when they can pull down $15 a day using a gat for whatever purpose their employers may have in mind. A Chicago gunman draws more in straight salary for two days' work than an American soldier drew for a month's fighting in France. Besides the salary there are pickings which may boost the warrior's stipend to $25 a day. A local cab company's officials, jealous of their rights and not willing to be the helpless prey of the stockholders in high esteem are alleged to have engaged the services of fifty of those soldiers of fortune to intimidate the strike-bullden of a non-union taxicab company. The heaviest artillery won as usual. This is a tough city in a highly "civilized" country. Strange that Mexico or China does not threaten to send an expedition here to make the United States fit for association with civilized countries.

Stop This Wall Street War!

Washington dispatches for Jan. 8 say:

President Coolidge will not be swayed in his policy of firmness toward Latin America by the opposition in congress . . . . Senators charged that the president is deliberately leading this country into war with Mexico. . . . . .

Secretary of State Kellogg held a long conference today with President Coolidge. Later it was emphasized that AMERICAN POLICIES WILL NOT BE CHANGED DESPITE CONGRESSIONAL ATTACKS. (Emphasis ours.)

One week ago we stated that the invasion of Nicaragua was a step to war on Mexico and called for a united front of workers and farmers to resist all efforts to plunge this nation into a bloody struggle which could result only in a war of major proportions.

From the inception of the Wall Street-Coolidge policy of continual and increasing pressure on Mexico in behalf of oil, mineral and money kings, we have stated that American imperialist government would not hesitate to make war on Mexico to gain its ends.

Very belatedly, many of the "people's spokesmen" in Washington have realized that just as war on Nicaragua followed the investments of American capitalists so will war be waged on Mexico if Coolidge and Kellogg are allowed to carry on.

At a time like this, those who remain silent cast a vote for war and against the masses of workers and farmers in the United States, Mexico and all Latin America.

Those who remain silent now are supporting Wall Street's plans for feasting the vultures, already hovering over the plains and mountains to the south, on the bodies of American and Latin American workers and farmers.

Let no one be deceived by the contemptuous tone in which the Wall Street press speaks of Mexico and Mexicans, of Latin America and Latin Americans. The 120,000,000 inhabitants of the republics to the south will resist imperialist invasion to the death and will exact a bloody toll of all who are deceived or driven into following the flag of Wall Street southward with arms in their hands.

Those who remain silent now are casting their vote for mass murder in the interest of those who rule and gob the working class and the farmers of both the North and South American continents.

Mass murder to swell the fabulous fortunes of frozen-faced, big-paunched and soft-handed millionaires and billionaires and their pampered wives and offspring is the first point on the order of business of the Wall Street-Coolidge government.

The first point on the order of business of the workers and farmers is to WRECK THESE WAR PLANS.

Let the workers and farmers of the United States say to Coolidge and Kellogg and thru them to their Wall Street masters:

We are against you and your war.

We will not fight your war, but we will fight you.

We stand shoulder to shoulder with the workers and farmers of Latin America against your Wall Street imperialism and we tell you again that WE WILL NOT FIGHT FOR YOUR LOANS, YOUR MINES, YOUR OIL WELLS, OR FOR YOU!

Send the above message to every congressman and senator and to President Coolidge himself.

Demand the withdrawal of every warship, soldier and marine from Mexican waters and from Nicaragua.

Organize anti-imperialist war meetings. Introduce anti-war resolutions in your unions, fraternal societies and co-operative organizations. Insist that officials of these organizations voice your protests.

STOP THIS WALL STREET WAR!

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

IT now looks like war between the United States and Mexico, or rather war on Mexico by the United States. It is ludicrous to hear the Washington administration say to Mexico: "Please do not try to struggle me." And it is not strange to see William Randolph Hearst, the infamous, former Anglophobe now turn Anglophile and boost for a union of America and England against the whole world. Those things do not happen by accident. The secret oneness of the dominant capitalist factions thru their Masonic orders and Knights of Columbus hatch the plots over their cocktails and what the masses see or hear is only what the puppets of the plotters put on the air.

THE American worker who believes that his government is obedient to the popular will is a hundred per cent sap. Before the kaiser of Germany buried his forces into Belgium he had to go thru some legal hocus pocus, but Calvin Coolidge invaded Nicaragua without even letting his secretary know of it. Of course, the Nicaraguan invasion was directed against Mexico for two reasons, as well as against the people of Nicaragua. First, the American oil and land interests in Mexico served notice on Coolidge that he must protect them in their looting, else they will throw him into the discard politically power. Second, Mexico developed a policy of taking the lead in South America against American imperialism. This could not be tolerated in Wall Street.

INDUSTRIALISTS BACKING FASCIST REGIME IN ITALY

Mussolini Splitting Nation, Says Deputy

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(FP)—Italy's big Industrialists are paying for the expensive upkeep of dictator Benito Mussolini's fascist militia, Professor Gaetano Salvemini, exiled former deputy, told reporters upon his arrival in New York. The historian had his property, mostly publication rights for his books, confiscated by Mussolini and had to flee in fear of a fascist attack on his life.

The fascist party is not the Italian nation, says Salvemini, "but only an unscrupulous armed minority."

Italy Not "Saved."

Mussolini and the fascisti have not saved Italy from Bolshevism nor achieved a great reconstruction, Salvemini states. "In the economic field they have profited by conditions beyond their control, and they have light-heartedly squandered the fruits of these favorable conditions. In the political and moral field they have destroyed all faith in justice, all respect for right, all mutual tolerance.

Nation Being Destroyed.

"They are destroying the Italian nation by splitting it up into a minority of masters to whom everything, even assassinations, is permitted, and a majority of slaves, deprived of all right and protected by no moral law." The workers of Italy fall into the latter group, with their right to organize unions stolen by force.

Seek 3 Bandits.

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 8. — Police were searching for three bandits who lined up 35 men during a reported gambling game a block from the station, securing $5,500.

MINE WORKERS, NON-UNION, OUT ON WAGE STRIKE

Pennsylvania Diggers Fight 1917 Scale

By GEORGE PAPCUN.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

CRESSON, Pa., Jan. 9.—Non-union miners of five coal companies in Cloister, Two Mines, gone out on strike. Approximately 600 miners laid down their tools when operators cut their wages to the 1917 scale. Coal companies affected are: Jackson, Big Ban, Hughes, Commercial and Stanwix. It is predicted that the United Mine Workers Union will shut down the mines in Beaverdale, Portage, and Ben's Creek by Monday night.

Mine workers in the five mines were notified that when they return to work Monday the 1917 scale would be in effect. Coal and iron police are making daily visits to miners and their families urging them to return to work.

Strikers Organize.

The striking miners were immediately organized by T. Welsh, board member of the United Mine Workers who is located at Nantyglo. Welsh has declared that the miners at the Portage and Ben's Creek coal company properties may be expected to strike at any time. Miners at Beaverdale and Hastings, properties owned by similar interests, are reported preparing to lay down their tools and quit.

Hughes Co. Threatens.

The Hughes Coal company representatives promised to restore the Jacksonville wage agreement, but will not recognize the miners' union. The Hughes people are said to have threatened to "nail the drift shut" if the men do not return to work immediately, but the miners, under the leadership of Welsh, are determined to win this struggle.

Police Patrol District.

The Union coal and iron police who have been doing strike duty in this territory for two years, are engaged in guarding the few scabs that are left.

Rumors have it that union officials and the mine operators are now negotiating to reach an agreement.

FALL MAY RUN FOR SENATE IS POLITICAL RUMOR; REED SAYS HE WON'T BE SEATED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—If Albert B. Fall, twice indicted in connection with oil scandals, should ever be re-elected to the senate, he will never be seated.

This was the concensus of opinion today among republican and democrata leaders, following reports that Fall plans to run for re-election to the senate on the republican ticket in New Mexico next year.

While most senators laughed at the report, Senator Walsh (D) of Montana, the Teapot Dome "prosecutor" whose inquiry resulted in Fall's indictments, predicted his expulsion if elected.

"We'll have another case in the class of Vare, Smith and Gould, if Fall should be elected," said Walsh.

Mexican Troops in Fight with Rebels

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 9.—A twelve-hour battle between federal troops and rebels in Guanajuato was reported to the minister of war.

The rebels were put to rout with heavy losses and one priest was killed and another fatally wounded during the fighting.

The battle occurred when federal troops attacked rebels who were responsible for the recent attacks on the town of San Francisco Del Rincon.

DURHAM MINERS PROTEST HOURS LEAVE NO TIME FOR STUDY IN EVENING

LONDON—An example of the unbearable terms which the British miners were forced to accept because of their betrayal by the trade union officialdom is seen in the case of the Durham miners whose hours are so outrageous that they are prevented from attending evening classes as has been their custom for a long time. Councilor T. Ranfold declares that "the hours were such as to make it impossible for at least two-thirds of the men and boys to attend evening classes." He declared further that in this respect the hours were far worse than the ten-hour shifts that existed when he was a boy because than the majority of the shifts ended at 4 p. m. while now men and boys are returning to the pit bank much later.

N. Y. DRESS UNION FOR AGREEMENT WITH ITS BOARD

Workers Reject Morris Sigman's Meddling

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. — The firm decision of the dressmakers to have nothing to do with any agreement made with the employers by Morris Sigman and other officers of the International was reiterated today by Charles S. Zimmerman, manager of the dress division of the joint board.

Pointing out that since no reply had been made by the employers' association to the demand of the joint board for a statement as to its intentions in making a new agreement, he declared that "the joint board, authorized by the membership, is free to take action."

"According to the vote at the shop chairmen's meeting last week and at the two membership meetings on Tuesday, the dressmakers will accept no agreement made in the regular way with the officers of the regularly elected joint board."

Consider New Agreement.

The question of a new agreement in the dress industry has been fully considered by both shop chairmen in their crowded meeting last week, and at the membership meeting of June 22 on Tuesday evening, at which the attendance was so large that it was necessary to take another hall. By unanimous vote all three meetings authorized the joint board to take any necessary steps for the protection of the workers in the new agreement, and the shop chairmen pledged themselves to inform their employers that an agreement made with the International would not be recognized by the workers.

At a meeting of the Italian workers from Locals 48 and 89 held in Webster Hall, more than 1500 workers protested the brutal assault upon the Italian worker, Joseph Di Meia, who was attacked by gangsters of the International last Friday in the Monroe Dress Shop, a few hours after he had refused to attend a meeting arranged by the International. Loud boos greeted the announcement that his assailants, R. Rurse and Louis Blumeufeld, who are receiving legal defense from the International, had jumped their bail of $10,000 each and could not be found for their arraignment.

Louis Hyman, manager of the joint board, who received an ovation when he entered the hall and as he rose to speak, declared: "These murderous gangsters will yet be found and brought to justice. We will not permit to go unchallenged such an attack upon this innocent man, who now lies dying in Bellevue Hospital, the victim of the gangsterism and terrorism of the International that attempts by such

FURUSETH DEMANDS U. S. LABOR PROTEST NICARAGUAN INVASION, WAR THREAT AGAINST MEXICO

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—(FP)—Andrew Furuseth, president of the International Seamen's Union of America and a veteran delegate in conventions of the American Federation of Labor, took up with President Green on Jan. 6 the question of making a vigorous protest to the White House, in the name of organized labor, against the Nicaraguan occupation and the threats of war against Mexico.

Military staff officers have estimated that conquest of Mexico would take from 1,000,000 to 3,000,000 men, and would require a campaign from 3 months to 5 years, owing to the difficulties of subduing the natives of a semi-arid and mountainous country.

• • • •

NOTE—This is the first report from Washington indicating that pressure is being brought to bear upon the officialdom of the American Federation of Labor to take a stand against the threatening war developments. The A. F. of L. executive council meets this week at St. Petersburg, Florida.

Congress in Protest as Coolidge-Kellogg Policy Hastens War on Mexico

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Developments of the last several days in Washington and the scene of the war-like naval operations in the Caribbean, point unmistakeably to the fact, forecast by The DAILY WORKER a week ago, that U. S. imperialism is driving towards war with Mexico.

1. The unprecedented naval array in the Caribbean (larger than that used to capture Vera Cruz in 1914) ostensibly to protect the Diaz puppet government in Nicaragua, leaves no doubt that it is intended for use against Mexico. Fifteen first class ships of war are not required to subdue a little country like Nicaragua and there are more blue-jackets and marines on board than the combined number of troops in the belligerent armies in Nicaragua.

COOLIDGE AND KELLOGG DRIVE TOWARD WAR.

2. Despite vigorous condemnation of their policy in the press, in congress, and especially thruout Latin America, Coolidge and Kellogg continue relentlessly on the imperialist path staked out in the threats made several months ago by the state department that it would take drastic steps against Mexico if the oil and land laws were put into effect.

3. Calles and his government continue to maintain the sovereign rights of Mexico and follow out the constitutional mandate to preserve the oil and mineral resources of Mexico for that country despite the protested leaseholds of American millionaires who are crying for intervention by the United States.

OPPOSITION FINDS VOICE IN CONGRESS.

4. Opposition to the administration policy has flared forth in the senate and the lower house in speeches by congressmen and senators that leave no doubt that Coolidge and Kellogg have a strong opposition in the legislative branch that, however, is being counterbalanced by the mobilization of the jingo forces under William Randolph Hearst and Secretary of War Dwight Davis.

WARSHIPS RUSH TO SHANGHAI AS CANTONESE NEAR

Believe Powers Seek to Aid War Lords

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 9—Interference with the Nationalist occupation of Shanghai in their successful drive down the Yangtze against the northern troops was seen in the gathering of ships of war by various foreign powers for the ostensible purpose of protecting their nationals here.

Five United States destroyers have arrived from Manila; more U. S. boats are due from the Mediterranean; several flotillas of English ships are on the way to reinforce the already large naval contingent in the Yangtze; and the Japanese are reported mobilizing a large naval force at Nagasaki.

Panicky Tales.

Arrival here of some 200 panic stricken British, mostly women from Hankow and Kinkang has added to the needless uneasiness of the foreign population. The "refugees" arrived here on British destroyers with terrible tales of "mobs" attacking the British concession in Hankow. It is unique that none of the harrowing tales related one instance of death or injury to the foreigns. The cooperation of the British concession in Hankow by the nationalists was prompted by the shooting of Chinese by British marines.

Hankow Is Quiet.

Recent reports from Hankow, however, state that the Nationalists have again turned over the concession to the British and have assured protection to the area. This was done after the British consul had given the nationalist foreign minister, Eugene Chen, assurances that the British troops would not molest Chinese.

Anti-British sentiment in China is running high and much activation has been carried on. Nationalist leaders, however, are assuring the various nationals that they need have no fear for personal safety and that the agitation is directed against British imperialism and the unequal treaties imposed by the foreign powers.

GOVERNMENT RAN BOOTLEG PLANT TO "TRAP" BOOZE SEEKERS, MELLON ADMITS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Secretary of Treasury Mellon told the house judiciary committee that federal prohibition officers had maintained a "speak easy" in New York to entrap law violators and defended the "undercover" work of A. Bruce Bielaski, formerly head of the department of justice's bureau of investigation.

The Mellon reply was made in answer to a resolution of Representative La Guardia, republican of New York. The judiciary committee reported against further consideration of the subject.

Calles Sums Up the Fight in Word 'Oil'

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9. — "It can be summed up in one word," said President Calles to a group of American investigators when asked to explain the controversy between his country and the United States—"oil. There is no controversy between the people of Mexico and the United States. All the difficulties between the people of Mexico and a small group of American capitalists in the United States who have besought the state department to back them up with force."

Will Start Revolt.

"The withdrawal of recognition," Calles said, "will comfort three groups of the governments enemies—the clericals, the political discontents and the reactionaries. There will, of course, be disturbances. But my government will fully be able to control the situation."

This latter statement refers to outbreaks on the part of the catholics which have already been taking place and the activities of General de la Huerta in the United States looking towards the fomenting of a reactionary rebellion against the Calles government.

Ask for Free Speech Meeting at Purdue to Answer Sayre Attacks

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—A free speech meeting on the campus of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., has been urged by the American Civil Liberties union in a letter from Forrest Bailey, a director, to Edward Johnson, secretary of the university Y. M. C. A. "In the interest of "sportsmanship" and "fair play," Bailey asked Johnson to give the Rev. John Nevin Sayre of New York City a chance to answer attacks made against him and the Civil Liberties union in the November 16 issue of the Purdue Exponent, student publication.

URGES COOLIDGE AND KELLOGG AS BULLET TARGETS

Huddleston Nominates Them for Front Line

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — "If there is war with Mexico, I nominate Calvin Coolidge as right guard and Frank Kellogg as eleser of the files in the front ranks of the army," Congressman Huddleston declared as spectacular opposition to the Coolidge-Kellogg policy of intervention in Nicaragua flared forth in both houses of congress.

While Rep. Huddleston (D) of Alabama, was charging in the house that the administration is consciously and deliberately driving towards a war with Mexico, Senators Wheeler (D) of Montana, and Heflin (D) of Alabama, were denouncing in the senate the dispatch of troops and warships into southern waters.

"Won't Fight Dirty Wars."

Heflin declared he was not going to "fight any dirty wars for special interests" and Wheeler declared the administration was "invading the bully" in Nicaragua and Mexico.

"Before President Coolidge pledges us to another war some of the responsible officials ought to be used to pay the soldiers who fought in the last war," declared Heflin.

"Filthy Money."

"It is not right to insult the United States thus way. The very men who are so ready to bring about war are the men who had lobbyists in the capital to defeat the bonus and now when their gilty moves is in danger they look to the soldiers for protection.

"I for one don't intend to fight any dirty wars for the special interests I am going to be very selective careful about rushing American soldiers into

TWO SPECIAL ISSUES!

TWO Special Editions of The DAILY WORKER are in preparation.

They must be given wide circulation.

They will be issued incidental to the Third Anniversary of the starting of The DAILY WORKER, Jan. 13, 1924, and to commemorate the death of Lenin, Jan. 23, 1924.

But these special editions will do more than commemorate these events. They will be dedicated, in addition to great issues now confronting the workers of America and of the world.

THE BIRTHDAY EDITION: It will be dated Thursday, Jan. 13, and will contain special material on the Sacco-Vanzetti case that is now on appeal again in the Massachusetts state supreme court, while defense is being made for a congressional investigation of the frame up activities of the department of justice in this case. This month is due to see another crisis in this case. This special issue will help arouse workers everywhere as to its importance.

THE LENIN EDITION: This edition, dated Saturday, Jan. 15, will be dedicated to the working class struggle against imperialism. It will be an Anti-Imperialist War Edition. It will deal with the present situation in Mexico, Nicaragua and China from the Leninist viewpoint and constitute a valuable educational weapon in rousing labor for the war against war. It must receive a wide distribution.

Order bundles of both these issues. Send in the orders today at the rate of three cents per copy; $3 per 100.

TAKE DOWN 'BIG STICK' FOR USE AGAINST MEXICO

Forces in the Caribbean Aimed at Calles

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — The traditional American "big stick" has been taken from its shelf and polished up for use anywhere below the Rio Grande, Mexico included.

This view was universal accepted in Washington today in the wake of developments of the past 48 hours, which have included the concentration of fifteen warships and 5,000 men in Caribbean waters, and the positive announcement from the White House that the administration is prepared "to protect American interests wherever threatened."

Aimed at Mexico.

Inasmuch as President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg consider that nowhere are American interests so threatened as in Mexico, The White House announcement was regarded on every hand as a thinly veiled warning to the Calles government. It was directed at Nicaragua, but aimed at Mexico.

Further evidence that the administration's present vigorous policy in quelling the Nicaraguan revolution is in reality a demonstration of American power to impress Mexico City was furnished by an analysis of the fighting strength which has been concentrated in Nicaraguan waters, within easy striking distance of the East Coast of Mexico, where most of the American oil fields and large interests are located

There are six light fast cruisers, seven destroyers, a submarine tender and a mine sweeper now adjacent to Mexican waters, carrying a fighting complement of 5,000 marines and blackjackets.

The process is to be, according to information here, for Admiral J. L. Latimer to extend the "neutral zones" as rapidly as possible. American troops take possession of these zones, disarm both the government forces under Diaz and the revolutionists under Sacasa. Eventually this process will succeed in disarming all of the combatants, and leave control of the country in the hands of Diaz, which is just where the state department wants it. Diaz was elevated to the presidency by the state department.

Mexico Has Right.

The greatest possibility of "trouble" is admitted to be in the efforts of Mexican gun-runners to get arms to the Sacasa forces. Sacasa is recognized as the constitutional president of Nicaragua by the Calles government of Mexico.

If American naval forces intercept a Mexican vessel carrying arms to Sacasa an open clash may result that will have far-reaching effects. Mexico, if she chooses, can stand stiffly on her prerogatives as a sovereign nation and insist on being permitted, under international law, to sell arms wherever she pleases. The ballef prevails here, however, that the Calles government will proceed cautiously to avoid open hostilities.

Borah Opposes.

Meanwhile, the senate revolt against the administration's "big stick" policy showed no signs of abating today.

Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, has broken absolutely with the administration. And he is supported by the republican insurgents, and by a considerable number of the Democrats.

A Few Boats Only Needed.

If Nicaragua constituted the sole concern of the administration, it was pointed out, a mere fraction of this imposing force would be sufficient to take care of any eventualities, for there are but little more than 5,000 combatants on both sides of the Nicaraguan revolution.

A couple of gunboats and a company of marines have handled many Central American revolutions in the past, it was pointed out today. Yet for this particular, which is considered no more serious than a dozen of its predecessors, the American government has concentrated a force not incomparable to that which "took" Vera Cruz in 1914.

Bolsevists Returns.

Arthur Schoenfeld, counsellor of the American embassy in Mexico City, has been summoned to Washington. He is due to arrive here by Jan. 21, the date on which, under Mexico's new land and petroleum laws, all foreigners who have not complied with the laws are due to relinquish control of their properties.

Join the war against the imperialist war.

Communist Appeal to Fight the New War Danger Is Broadcasted to All Workers' and Farmers' Organizations

In an appeal to the American Federation of Labor, to the Socialist Party, to the Industrial Workers of the World, and to all other labor and to all farmers' organizations in this country, the Central Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party calls upon these organizations to unite to fight the developments of American imperialism in Nicaragua, in Mexico and in China that threaten the American workers and farmers with another war in which they will have to go out and fight Wall Street's battles.

The Situation in Nicaragua.

The situation in Nicaragua, the open letter points out, is a most flagrant example of "dollar diplomacy." American warships and marines are sent to a country to help maintain a reactionary puppet government against a rising tide of popular revolt just because that government guarantees the rights of Wall Street to exploit the country.

The concentration of forces against Nicaragua is also a demonstration against Mexico, the statement continues. "Mexico is threatened with the fate of Nicaragua because its government has adopted a constitution which declares that the resources of that country belong to the Mexican people."

The third field of the robber activities of American imperialism supported by the American government is China where warships are being hurried to forestall the final victory of the people's movement for freedom from imperialist exploitation.

Wall Street Forces Mobilized.

Everywhere the American government is mobilizing its armed forces to fight Wall Street's battles and to suppress any movements of revolt against its exploitation. A situation like this is a direct menace to the American workers and farmers, and demands the united action of the workers' and farmers' organizations to fight it. The Central Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party calls upon these organizations to unite to fight the developments of American imperialism in Nicaragua, in Mexico and in China that threaten the American workers and farmers with another war in which they will have to go out and fight Wall Street's battles.

The Situation in Nicaragua.

The situation in Nicaragua, the open letter points out, is a most flagrant example of "dollar diplomacy." American warships and marines are sent to a country to help maintain a reactionary puppet government against a rising tide of popular revolt just because that government guarantees the rights of Wall Street to exploit the country.

The concentration of forces against Nicaragua is also a demonstration against Mexico, the statement continues. "Mexico is threatened with the fate of Nicaragua because its government has adopted a constitution which declares that the resources of that country belong to the Mexican people."

The third field of the robber activities of American imperialism supported by the American government is China where warships are being hurried to forestall the final victory of the people's movement for freedom from imperialist exploitation.

Wall Street Forces Mobilized.

Everywhere the American government is mobilizing its armed forces to fight Wall Street's battles and to suppress any movements of revolt against its exploitation. A situation like this is a direct menace to the American workers and farmers, and demands the united action of the workers' and farmers' organizations to fight it. The Central Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party calls upon these organizations to unite to fight the developments of American imperialism in Nicaragua, in Mexico and in China that threaten the American workers and farmers with another war in which they will have to go out and fight Wall Street's battles and to protect Wall Street's investments.

The American workers and farmers' organizations must act immediately, the call concludes. "The Workers (Communist) Party . . . calls upon all labor and farmers' organizations to join in calling a united front conference in every city, and eventually on a national scale, to fight against American imperialism and against the sacrifice of American lives and wealth created by workers for Wall Street investments. It calls upon the American Federation of Labor, the Socialist Party, the Industrial Workers of the World, and all other labor and farmers' organizations to join in with it calling such united front conferences. It calls upon the workers and farmers everywhere to join in the demand for the formation of such a united front of labor."

Copies of this appeal have been sent to the executive council of the A. F. of L., to the national executive committee of the Socialist Party, to the fecueral executive board of the A. F. of L. and to the leading committees of other labor and farmers' organizations.

"More Dangerous Than Imperialism of the Kaiser," Says L'Humanite

"The American imperialism of 1927 is more dangerous than Germany's was in 1914" says the Paris Communist organ L'Humanite in commanting on the present invasion of Central America by the United States, a sentiment echoed thruout Europe by the Communist press and more or less mildly stated by the socialist and even the conservative journals in the capitals of the continent and in England.

The New Statesman (London) remarks that "it will not do to imagine that the southward thrust beyond the frontier can be arrested." While the conservative German press is commenting innocuously on the invasion, the Communist papers there are protesting vigorously against the "militant and armed extension of the interests of oil magnates and financiers at the expense of the Latin American people."

The press of Latin America was never more outspoken against United States imperialism. All papers from Mexico to Argentine are castigating the Kellogg policies and declaring that a United Spanish America is necessary to stave off the unbridled advances of the American expansionists.

Popular Outburst in Panama Raps Shackle Treaty with United States

PANAMA, Jan. 9.—Popular sentiment against the Panama-U. S. treaty signing away all rights of the former nation in war and most of them in peace, is growing thruout the republic. One of the leaders of the movement against the treaty, Dr. Ricardo Arias, Panaman delegate to the league of nations, said in a speech in Panama City:

"It is quite evident that in all sections of the country every man, woman and child feels that an injustice will be committed against Panama in the event of its (the treaty's) approval.

"Instead of remedying the hardships of Panama, brought by the treaty of 1903 and by its too stringent interpretation by the United States government, the new treaty establishes additional and even more serious burdens on Panama which will impede or at least seriously hamper her progress and prosperity without materially benefiting the United States."

Baltimore Sun Demands Kellogg Resign

BALTIMORE. — Denouncing Secretary Kellogg as "a discredited foreign minister," the Baltimore Evening Sun demands that he resign.

"In his dealings with the Latin-American republics," it says editorially "his diplomacy has proceeded regularly from disaster to disaster. He was put to ignominious flight by President Calles. He has fumbled the Tacna-Arica affair so wonderfully that no one knows whether Peru, Chile, or Bolivia is most resentful against this country. His diplomacy has alarmed and irritated every nation in South America.

"He intervened in Nicaragua apparently to put Diaz in power, and now apparently has abandoned Diaz to his fate. [This was written before Kellogg authorized Admiral Latimer to seize the Constitutionalist supplies and to allow shipments of arms to Diaz only].

"His department was caught trying to put into circulation reports that Mexico is steeped in bolshevism, thereby drawing upon himself a wrathful castigation from Mexico, the stinging contemptuous sarcasm of the Soviets and the scorn of honest Americans.

"Whipped by the diplomats of every banana republic, publicly ridiculed by the bolsheviks, denounced by candid men among his own countrymen, he now runs to earth and hides in sullen silence behind a door closed to representatives of the press. He will no longer give to the people diplomatic information about what he is doing in their name.

"In any other great nation a foreign minister so consistently beaten at every turn, so humiliatingly exposed as trickery, so obviously vacillating incompetent and disingenuous, would immediately tender his resignation or it would be demanded of him.

"Why should the American people be worse servde in the foreign office than any other people? Our foreign affairs now involve half the national debt, incalculable private investments abroad, and the economic and political systems of every nation in the world. Their importance makes it imperative that the man at the head of the state department shall be a strong man, a wise man and an honorable man.

"Therefore, Mr. Kellogg should resign."

New York Building Trades Will "Test" Five-Day Week Plan

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(FP)—Three months try-out in summer of the five-day work week is the plan of the Newark Building Trades Council, provided by the business agents board are unanimously agreed and the council delegates endorse the program and are taking details to their respective locals.

Unification of holiday celebration and pay provisions among Newark Building Trades Unions has been provided by the council. The nine holidays chosen on which no work it to be done, unless for double pay, will be proposed to the New Jarsey state building trades convention for general acceptance.

MOVE TO KEEP VARE OUT OF SENATE BEGINS

Wilson Challenges His Election in Pa.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—William B. Wilson, former secretary of labor, has filed a formal contest challenging the election of William S. Vare, republican, as a senator from Pennsylvania.

The Wilson petition paved the way not only for a battle to bar Vare from the senate, but laid the basis for a fight to seat a democratic senator from the republican stronghold of Pennsylvania.

Announcement of the filing of the contest was made on the floor of the senate by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic floor leader.

Charge Illegal Election.

The petition charged Vare was "not legally elected" in the November election and declared Wilson was chosen "by a majority of the votes legally cast." It alleged that gross fraud and corruption had been responsible for the majority accorded Vare in election returns from the keystone state.

Wilson Claims Office.

Robinson declared that "Wilson claims in his contest that a thoro investigation of the election will show that he was chosen as United States senator by the qualified voters of Pennsylvania and specifically reserves the right to amend his petition to state additional facts, an investigation now being in process."

Hit Expenditures.

The petition charged Vare had admitted spending $71,000 of his personal funds" to obtain his nomination and that "this constitutes a violation of the corrupt practices act of 1925, which limits expenditures of a candidate for senator in every case not to exceed $25,000."

Would Impound Ballots.

Robinson introduced a resolution calling for the impounding of the ballots cast in the Pennsylvania election and declared the ballots would have to be saved by the government or in the state senatorial districts they will be destroyed shortly because of special elections. He charged specifically that Vare's election was due to the manipulations of the corrupt political machines in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

Cites Frauds.

"In addition," said Robinson, "it is charged that widespread registration frauds were perpetrated in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other cities; that the registration lists were padded with the names of dead men and women; that the names of voters sick and in hospitals, with the names of minors and former residents, were voted."

He also referred to the "zero districts" in Philadelphia where Wilson received not a single vote.

LEAGUE REFUSES U. S. CONDITIONS ON WORLD COURT

GENEVA, Jan. 9.—Thirty-six members of the league of nations have notified the secretariat of their approval of the league's joint reply to the United States' "reservations" on adhering to the world court. The league's reply was that it could not agree to two of the five conditions. Approval of the document by the league members means that the United States will not be accepted into the court on its own terms.

Matter to Be Dropped.

President Coolidge has declared that the United States will not consider the question of its own standing, and with the league members backing the refusal to accept the Washington conditions, the whole matter will be dropped, it is said.

No new attempts to urge the U. S. to affiliate will be made, it is predicted, unless the Washington government demonstrates responsiveness.

Object to Two Conditions.

The two reservations refused by the league are: that the United States insist on the privilege to withdraw at any time, and that the statutes of the court cannot be amended without approval of the United States; that the league demands regarding publicity on advisory opinions be satisfied. The first is objected to on the grounds that other signatory nations would be denied equality, and the second because the reservation is vague and needs specific interpretation.

Admit No Legal Relations.

Reservations accepted were: that the United States by joining the court is not involved in any legal relation with the league or the Versailles treaty; that U. S. representatives have equal power with representatives of league nations, and that the amount of money to be paid by the U. S. for court maintenance be determined by the U. S. congress.

Capitalist Press Fails in An Effort to Spatter Mud on Leonid Krassin

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

AMERICAN workers and farmers cannot help but instinctively resent the malicious lies being circulated about Leonid Krassin, the Soviet ambassador who died recently in London. The propaganda is so palpably false that it refutes itself.

The most popular story, from the capitalist viewpoint, that was spread over the world by the kept news agencies and given big space in the subsidized press, declared that Krassin left an estate of from two to three million pounds sterling, which would total from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 in American money.

Soviet officials at London met this malicious propaganda by showing that when Krassin died his total assets amounted to five one pound sterling bank notes, or about $25. That sets forth the difference between the truth and the lie.

No effort was made anywhere by the Bolshevik-hating press to show what Krassin, the Communist, would have done with the wealth he was alleged to possess.

The reactionary Los Angeles, Cal., Times, that suddenly becomes conservative also in figures, states that Krassin accumulated a "private fortune of more than $1,000,000." The Times declares:

"The things he (Krassin) condemned publicly he practiced privately. He helped to drive the capitalists from Russia and became himself a capitalist, one of the millionaires he so vehemently denounced.

The Los Angeles Times, so close to the mimic world of Hollywood, infers that capitalism, like "drinking in private," is something that can be confined to a back room. It charges that Krassin "accumulated a private fortune during seven years in the service of the Soviet government, and invested it in foreign securities. It evidently thinks that this is a plausible story.

In order to accumulate "a private fortune" one must possess the means of exploitation. Since private property does not exist in the Soviet Union, Krassin could not come into possession of profit-producing resources. All the great natural resources, the means of communication, the financial system, foreign trade, are all in the control of the Soviet government, owned by the workers and peasants of the Soviet Union.

Possessing more than the usual sagacity of a capitalist editor, the Times' writer declares that the millions impossible to constitute the estate of Krassin were "taken from the banks that were looted and from private individuals, who were murdered that they might not compete."

The writer, of course, conveniently forgets that the Kerensky and other makeshift capitalist governments were in power from the time of the czar's overthrow in March, 1917, until the Bolshevik triumph eight months later on Nov. 7, 1917. If there was any looting done, it was accomplished during those months by the Russian capitalist friends of the Times. Boris Bakhmeteff, the Kerensky representative at Washington, with the all of the United States government, openly maintained at great expense an "embassy" in this country years after the Kerensky government was swept into the discard. He squandered funds that belonged to the workers' and peasants' government. Every effort of Soviet rule to recover these funds met with determined resistance at Washington.

Thus the United States government loves the grafters of its own class: in fact, teaches the profit children it spawns how to graft. It was the United States government, in the days of President Woodrow Wilson, that planned a loan to the Kerensky government "to continue the war." But the Bolshevik1 came into power and took Russia out of the war. Bakhmeteff arrived in Washington in the meantime, and he was allowed to draw on this loan, which he did to the tune of several millions of dollars, using it in riotous living and anti-Soviet propaganda. Now the United States government is trying to collect this money as a debt owing to it by the Soviet government. But the Los Angeles Times has no space to give publicity to these damaging facts against its own class government in Washington.

This Times' editor fails to state, however, how Krassin could have gotten millions in gold bullion successfully out of the country, and how he could have invested it in "foreign securities" without the fact becoming known. These reported riches in "Soviet gold" escaped the eagle eyes of the sleepless capitalists for the sole reason that they never existed.

When mirrors first came into existence the excited possessors of these contraptions of the devil failed to recognize themselves in the reflection. Believing they were looking at someone else, perhaps a foe, they would tell the truth about what the glass revealed.

Thus it is with the mirror that the First Workers' Republic holds up before the capitalists of the world. Capitalism beholds its own ugly visage—but cries out that it is "Bolshevism!" because it hates the rising power of the workers and peasants.

It is not Krassin who accumulated a private fortune, but the "Olde gang," with its Harding, Daugherty et al, that pillaged the government treasury, Fall, Doheny and Sinclair, who robbed the nation of its resources; Morgan, Rockefeller, Ford, Gary, Schwab and the rest, who garner great wealth thru the exploitation of the many, because private property is held to be sacred, while human rights are spat upon.

Great thrones of workers, in the shadow of the walls of the Kremlin, in Moscow, paid their last tribute to the memory of "The unifying revolutionary fighter, Krassin." They honored the Krassin who had helped to destroy the social system—capitalism—that alone makes it possible for the few to accumulate great wealth, thru the agony of the many.

That social change will in time win the many in the United States to its standards in spite of the lies of the Los Angeles Times and the capitalist class that it serves.

Capitalism has made a dismal failure of its effort to spatter mud on the memory of Leonid Krassin.

COAL INTERESTS SAY WOODS IS UNFIT FOR COMMERCE COMMISSION

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON.—Representatives of Kantucky and West Virginia coal interests appeared before the senate interstate commerce committee to oppose the nomination of Cyrus E. Woods of Pennsylvania to the interstate commerce commission. They said that his connection as counsel ten years ago for the Pittsburgh Coal company disqualified him for the post because he would participate in the lake cargo coal rate decision.

CONSIDER CHINESE ACTION.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—With more than 80 delegates from important cities of the United States and Canada in attendance, the Chinese nationalist party (Kuomintang) began the first of a three-day session at the Los Angeles headquarters, 424 North Los Angeles Street.

The party, known as the Kmomintang, is convening to consider what action it will take in the revolutionary crisis in China.

MEXICAN EMBASSY BRANDS REVOLT RUMORS AS OIL PROPAGANDA TALES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The Mexican embassy issued a statement here this afternoon, denying reports of widespread disorders in Mexico, and attributing such reports to "propaganda" on the part of those opposed to the new land and petroleum laws.

"The situation in Mexico is perfectly normal," said the statement.

BORAH HITS AT LOWDEN'S REACH FOR NOMINATION

Digs Up Mud of 1920 G. O. P. Convention

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — "There was a deliberate and well organized attempt to buy the nomination for the presidency in 1920 and those who were in that convention will never efface from their memories its sordid and covetous atmosphere. We are still dealing with matters hatched at that convention."

Slaps Lowdan.

This was part of a speech made in Washington by Senator Borah, republican of Idaho, that is taken to be a direct slap at Frank O. Lowden's aspirations for the presidential nomination in 1928. In this speech Borah, in effect, declares his intention of shaking up the mind that attaches to Lowden's name as the result of the manner in which that politician and General Leonard Wood attempted to buy the republican nomination in Chicago in 1920.

Borah's words are a direct reference to that scandal that became so odious that the republican bosses were forced to pick a "dark horse," Harding, in an attempt to lay it down. Another interesting side to the case is that Borah has himself an ambition to win the next nomination and is trying to eliminate Lowden as a contender.

Longworth Pressed.

The partisans of Congressman Nicholas Longworth who are booming him for the next convention are highly pleased with Borah's speeches against Lowden in the belief that Lowden is a strong contender in connection with Borah's participation in Illinois politics it is recalled that he came to Chicago to campaign for Frank L. Smith in the primaries when the later gentlemen's campaign coffers were being swelled by utility magnates' cash—for which he is now being barried from the senate.

New Madison Square Garden Will Witness Big Lenin Memorial

NEW YORK.—The announcement that the Lenin memorial meeting this year will be held at the New Madison Square Garden, the largest hall in the United States, with a seating capacity of 20,000, has aroused wide interest and enthusiasm among progressive workers of New York.

Already demands for tickets are beginning to pour in. It is expected that this will be the biggest demonstration for Leninism yet held in America.

An impressive array of speakers will address the meeting, including C. E. Ruthenberg, William Z. Foster, Moissaye Olgin, J. Louis Engdahl, and others.

Huge Attendance Seen for Lenin Memorial Meeting in Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 9. — The district executive committee of the Workers (Communist) Party is arranging for a gigantic Lenin memorial meeting this year in Boston, on Thursday, Jan. 20 at Faneuil Hall, 53 Ashburton Pl. A large number of circulars and posters in all languages are being widely distributed and it is expected that the hall, with the capacity of over 1,000 people will be taxed to the full capacity.

The principal speaker this year will be James P. Cannon, a well known and able speaker. A very interesting program will be provided by the various singing clubs and labor organizations. All friends and members are invited to come promptly on time.

Dresker Boy Ground to Death on Job.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. — A nineteen-year-old breaker boy, Michael Mikitas, was ground to death in the machinery of the Loomis breaker of Glen Alden Coal Co. The breaker boy was caught in the scraper line and carried some distance before his fellow workers noticed and had the machinery stopped. His younger brothers and sisters and a widowed mother are left without support.

Loss From Spontaneous Combustion.

STERLING, Ill., Jan. 9.—Spontaneous combustion in shredded fodder caused the fire which destroyed a large barn on the John Ferris farm two miles south of Rock Falls, authorities said today.

Thirty head cattle, three horses, a car, machinery and a large amount of hay and grain were burned with a loss of $10,000.

To Fight Corn Borer.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—A fund of $50,000 to fight the onrush of the European borer in Illinois may be appropriated soon by the state legislature, which is said members are favoring the measure if state agricultural officers deem it necessary.

Pittsburgh Can Men get Raise.

PITTSBURGH. — Pittsburgh Railways is paying motormen and conductors a cent and a half an hour more for 1927 than for 1926, bringing the rates to 61½ cents minimum, 68½ cents maximum. The agreement runs to May 1, 1928, beginning Jan. 7, 1927.

U. S. ARMADA HEMS IN ARMY OF DR. SACASA

Coolidge War Policy Goes Forward

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The vanguard of the American special fleet organized for service in Nicaragua, reached their destination as the chief leaders of the destroyers Boris and Edwards were paid out and anchors cast at Puerto Cabezas, the headquarters of the rebels under Dr. Sacasa. They steamed out of Hampton Roads four days ago for a record run under full speed orders. Close on their stern, the cruisers Cincinnati and Marlborough, a flying wedge of more destroyers conveying the transport Argonne with an unknown complement of landing troops.

Rush Arms to Diaz.

On the Pacific side, fast boats are rushing consignments of arms and ammunition from California ports to the beleaguered forces of the Diaz government surrounded in their capital, Managua, by the victorious liberal army. A blockade of both coasts by American warships is preventing arms from reaching the liberals.

Organize Battalion.

From San Diego come dispatches telling of the mobilization of an expeditionary battalion under Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler, who has orders to stand by for moving instructions.

Hampton Roads is reported to be in a state of war-time activity as further ships clear their decks for sailing orders.

Coolidge and Kellogg Provoke Mexico, By LAURENCE TODD, (Federated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Provocation of the Mexican nation and government is the latest step taken by President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg in their program of seizure of Nicaragua in order to set up and maintain there a regime hostile to the Mexican liberal government.

Following the cabinet meeting of Jan. 7, Kellogg told the press that "There is no doubt that Mexico sent these (military) stores to the Sacasa forces." When asked whether Mexico had not equal right with the United States, under international law, to ship arms to whatever political group in Nicaragua she chose, Kellogg replied that "Under ordinary circumstances, yes; but under existing conditions it would be a most unfriendly act."

Provocative Phrase.

The phrase "most unfriendly act," used by the foreign minister of one country regarding the government of another, is seldom used unless the minister is ready for an ultimatum or war.

Kellogg attacked Sen. Borah, who issued a statement saying that if the United States were going to intervene at all in Nicaragua it should send arms to Sacasa, who is the constitutional president, and not to Diaz, who is a rebel even the Kellogg has recognised him. Borah charged that Diaz is maintained in office only by force of "foreign arms."

The Evarts Policy.

President Coolidge, thru his mythical spokesman, repeated to the press his claim that he is simply protecting American lives and property in Nicaragua. He read the declaration made by Secretary Evarts in 1878 with reference to intervention on the Mexican border as being his own rule of policy. This declaration was that governments must first protect lives and property, else they are "worse than useless," and the United States would not permit its citizens to be injured thru their neglect.

Senators Wheeler, Norris, LaFollette and other progressives are agitating at the capitol for an immediate discussion of the raid on Nicaragua and the threat of a war of conquest of Mexico. Editors on magazines and newspapers are bombarding the White House with questions as to the real pretexts for the Nicaraguan expedition.

REPEAL OF LAW MEANS THAT JUGO-SLAVIA IS FRIENDLIER TO SOVIET

BELGRADE — The cabinet has decided to repeal the Extraordinary Defense of the Realm act which was passed in December, 1924, and was directed chiefly against the Communists, and under which Stephen Raditch was sent to prison. Raditch has since been released, his son-in-law, August Keshutich, is a member of the present cabinet, but the law has been allowed to remain.

Its repeal means a closer affiliation with the Union of Soviet Republics.

Pittsburgh to See Passaic Picture on Thursday Thru C. L. U.

The picture is shown under the auspices of the Central Labor Union and is receiving the wholehearted support of the organized labor movement of this city. No worker or person friendly to labor can afford to miss the opportunity to see this splendid picture of the Passaic strike.

SHOWDOWN NEAR ON SCRAP OVER BIG NAVY PLAN

Navy Partisans to Ask Three Cruisers

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A showdown on President Coolidge's policy toward Central America may overshadow an anticipated fight against his navy program when the new $324,000,000 naval appropriation bill reaches the floor of the senate, it was learned today.

Would Stop Warships.

Opponents of American intervention south of the Rio Grande were threatening today to inject the issue into debate on the navy bill by an attempt to forbid the use of American warships and American marines in behalf of the Diaz faction in Nicaragua. This could be accomplished if the senate were willing—by forbidding the use of naval appropriations for that purpose.

Want 3 Cruisers.

The senate naval affairs committee met this morning to begin consideration of the bill, which the house passed Saturday after upholding the president's "small navy" program. As the measure reached the senate, it provided $23,350,000 for increased

TWO SPECIAL ISSUES!

TWO Special Editions of The DAILY WORKER are in preparation. They must be given wide circulation.

They will be issued incidental to the Third Anniversary of the starting of The DAILY WORKER, Jan. 13, 1924, and to commemerate the death of Lenin, Jan. 23, 1924.

But these special editions will do more than commemorate these events. They will be dedicated, in addition to great issues now confronting the workers of America and of the world.

THE BIRTHDAY EDITION: It will be dated Thursday, Jan. 13, and will contain special material on the Sacco-Vanzetti case that is now on appeal again in the Massachusetts state supreme court, while demand is being made for a congressional investigation of the frame-up activities of the department of justice in this case. This month is due to see another crisis in this case. This special issue will help arouse workers everywhere as to its importance.

THE LENIN EDITION: This edition, dated Saturday, Jan. 15, will be dedicated to the working class struggle against imperialism. It will be an Anti-Imperialist War Edition. It will deal with the present situation in Mexico, Nicaragua and China from the Leninist viewpoint and constitute a valuable educational weapon in rousing labor for the war against war. It must receive a wide distribution.

Order bundles of both these issues. Send in the orders today at the rate of three cents per copy; $3 per 100.

WORKERS' FIGHT IN PASSAIC NOT YET COMPLETED

6,000 Mill Workers Are Still on Strike

By LEON BLUMENFELD,
(Worker Correspondent)

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan. 10.—The great epoch-making labor struggle in Passaic is by no means at an end. This despite the report in a number of newspapers to the contrary. Garfield, Botany, Passaic Worsted and Dundee, which comprise the more important mills have already settled, more or less favorably. The partial victory for the strikers merely signifies that 50 per cent of them will eventually go back to their jobs, whereas the remaining 50 per cent are still out. The Forstmann-Huffmann company, the biggest of them all, has not yet come to decent terms with its employees.

6,000 Still Out.

At this very moment there are 6,000 men, women and children in Passaic who are on strike. They are fighting for a principle that has for centuries been disregarded by the all-powerful actions of employers. These workers are human. Yet an outsider would be forced to think different, judging by the harsh tactics they are subjected to. How long the worker must submit to this is a question of how soon he acquires the rights that are due him. Picket lines will continue to be formed until justice has been given. Hired men with guns and hidden weapons, cut-throat dogs and long prison terms cannot frighten him. He is marching right on!

Not a Local Fight.

This fight of the textile strikers is not a local event. It is a fight for unorganized workers the world over. To allow such a state of affairs to continue would be a distinct blow to organized labor and would make way for a continued use of such atrocities against organized labor in the civilized state of New Jersey in the United States.

Gary Editorials Full of Nauseating Bunk

By a Worker Correspondent.

GARY, Ind.—An attentive reader of the editorial page of the Gary Post-Tribune will inevitably notice that the editorials seldom touch upon questions vital to the residents of the city or the state.

As an example, let us consider the editorials of today (January 4, 1927).

The first one philosophizes on the demise of the queen and king of England. The workers will probably read the first few lines, which will make their mouths water, and will turn in disgust to some other page.

How to Use a Fork.

The second editorial is on "Good Form and Geography," bringing out a very important conclusion that etiquette and good form seem largely a matter of good form!"

The third is on "Changing Vacation Time"—this topic which is a closest approach to something that would interest the reader is taken from the Newcastle Ties.

Then comes "Eat Your Bunk and Laugh," which is an addition to the bunk contained in the previous three.

Last comes the "Sea Doctor's Testimony"—more bunk.

Real Money for This Stuff.

Someone is paid for writing bunk editorials for the Gary Post-Tribune in order that the citizens of Gary shall not by chance dwell on real problems, the conditions in the steel mills, the housing conditions, the questions of rent and taxes, the rule of the Klan, Klan corruption in politics, racial questions, and so and so forth.

The lovers of bunk will continue to read the Gary Post-Tribune.

Intelligent workers and citizens of Gary will read The DAILY WORKER.

Christmas Is Over; Employment Offices Swamped by Jobless

LILLIAN GREENSWEIG
(Worker Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The employment offices are again swamped with applicants who were employed as extras during the Christmas rush. But there is no work for them. The holidays are over and so the prosperity illusion.

These workers will have to wait for the next Christmas season to get employment. All of them may do some action to ban the axle grease suit "on moral grounds and also to protect the swimmers from the giant barracuda."

On the recommendation of the committee, the communication was filed without further consideration.

Mrs. Schoemmell, mother of two children, was emphatic in her defense of the axle grease bathing suit.

"There is nothing immodest about it," she declared. "A ten pound suit of axle grease is really more modest than the two-piece bathing suit now commonly worn."

PASSAIC STRIKE DISTRICT TO SHOW GRATITUDE TO DAILY WORKER; BEHIND WORKERS' PRESS BALL AT GARFIELD

By VERA BUCH,
(Worker Correspondent)

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan. 6.—The workers of Passaic know the service rendered them by the workers' press, that is, by The DAILY WORKER and similar papers in foreign languages, and they are now getting behind The DAILY WORKER drive with a monster Workers Press Ball which is to be held Saturday, Jan. 15th, at Belmont Park Hall, Garfield.

Know Real Friend.

The strike taught the workers which newspapers are their friends. In times when to other papers the strike was a source of sensational news merely, The DAILY WORKER pointed out its real and deeper significance. When the bosses' newspaper distorted the strike, The DAILY told the truth. It gave out news when other papers had grown tired and neglected or sabotaged the struggle. Many a worker who could read English became a regular reader or subscriber of this splendid workers' newspaper. To those who read foreign languages, the Knave, the Tribune Rabotnicza, the Lavoratore, the Freiheit, the Volkszeitung, the Novy Mir came to have the same value.

Will Show Gratitude.

Therefore the workers are paying a debt of gratitude when they arrange for a splendid ball for Jan. 15, by which they hope to raise at least $250 for The DAILY WORKER fund. There will be a first-class speaker at this ball to explain the meaning of the workers' press for the workers. There will be the best of music and some surprises which will not be announced yet.

With the slogan: "The Workers' Press Helped Passaic, Let's Help the Workers' Press," all working class organizations in the city are at work to make this affair a huge success.

Unorganized Labor at Great Disadvantage in Tacoma in Fight with Business Interests

By a Worker Correspondent.

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 10.—Tacoma is at present governed by a commission of five members, fairly typical of the commission plan city governments which replaced the old systems modeled after state governments. But it is not altogether adapted to present day needs, so a commission of fifteen is drafting a new city charter.

Labor has no official representative among the freeholders. One man, a member of the Typographical union, had the endorsement of the labor council, but the workers failed to elect him. One man, Homer T. Bone, who received by far the largest vote, is very friendly to the workers, and four or five more are mildly so. The business interests possessing the class consciousness which the workers lack, elected several representatives who are fighting to the utmost for their class interests.

Municipal Ownership.

The city owns a municipal railway serving the industrial district (a private line serves all the rest of the city), a power plant and the waterworks. The sale of light is a city monopoly, but the sale of power is not. The city cannot make a long term contract with any business desiring large supplies of power, at a reduced rate based on quantity service. One reason for needing a new charter was to remedy this. But, it appears that either the state laws must be changed or a new and favorably supreme court decision must be had. At present, the city is severely restricted in the extent to which it may compete with private business. The government of a capitalist state exists for the protection of private business—and the government of this state knows it. Any one familiar with local conditions knows that not ten members of the legislature, nor one of the supreme court, would do anything to offend the private power interests. They have been carefully selected.

At present the city employs large amounts of day labor. Not only is there the usual paving, grading, water main and sewage construction, but the rapid extension of municipal electric activities requires much labor. There was some trouble when the Cushman dam was being built, but the city finally paid the Tacoma wage scale. This hiring of day labor directly by the city, interferes with the profits of contractors. This is true, not only of Tacoma, but of other cities and of counties also.

Contractors Oppose Day Labor.

And the contractors object to interference with their profits. They are conducting a campaign of thoroly dishonest propaganda, claiming that day labor is expensive and contracting for projects is not. Contractors of the Pacific northwest held a convention at Vancouver, B. C. (where most business groups held their conventions since it went wet again) and laid their plans. When the 1927 legislature convenes at Olympia they expect it to pass laws which they want—and it probably will. They went a law that on all public work bids must be called. This will prevent day labor at union wages being employed direct and not only make more profits for contractors, but give them additional advantage in trying to reduce wages.

The contractors, their representatives in the legislature, and their representatives among the Tacoma freeholders drafting a new charter, are thoroly class conscious and are fighting for their interests. Organization and class consciousness, possessed by the contractors, will win the victory for them. Lack of these two things will cause the workers to lose. And, as present, the workers seem blind to their interests and their needs.

There is one other group putting up a strenuous fight for special privileges. The ex-soldiers. They demand that in all civil service examinations ex-soldiers must be granted a preferred place, a higher rating. They will not win all they ask for. But they will win part of it. They have organized and fought for what they want. They win. Labor, unorganized enslaved by the lies of class-collaboration, loses.

Business vs. the Workers.

The business interests want a city manager, but will probably be unable to put it over this time. They feel that that is a more efficient method of having the city look after THEIR interests. It is. It is even less responsive to the people than the present system of delegated government. Seattle and Victoria, B. C., have recently refused the city manager idea. But organization will win in the end, and again the business interests will have one more shekels on the worker. Of course, a city manager could act in the interests of the workers. But of course, he will not. Like judges, preachers, editors, statesmen, etc., he will be carefully selected.

Los Angeles Council Says Those Who Don't Wish to See Woman Garbed in Axle Grease May Look in Opposite Direction

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—While Mrs. Charlotte Moore Schoemmell who arrived here from New York was announcing that she would not wear any bathing suit in the Catalina channel swim, the city council issued a statement in which it declared that it was without jurisdiction to keep the contestants from entering the swim clad only in an axle grease bathing suit.

The council's action was taken following the receipt of a communication last Monday from Robert M. Smithers, Los Angeles resident, in which he demanded that the council take some action to ban the axle grease suit "on moral grounds and also to protect the swimmers from the giant barracuda."

On the recommendation of the committee, the communication was filed without further consideration.

Mrs. Schoemmell, mother of two children, was emphatic in her defense of the axle grease bathing suit.

"There is nothing immodest about it," she declared. "A ten pound suit of axle grease is really more modest than the two-piece bathing suit now commonly worn."

Post Danger Not Immediate.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 9.— The present situation in regard to the invasion of Illinois by the European corn borer does not constitute an emergency and there is at present no need for alarm, state director of agriculture, S. J. Stanard, declared today. The borer has been expected in this state for some time and steps will be taken to combat it, Stanard declared.

The situation cannot become serious within two or three years at the earliest, he said.

Hyena Has Twins

PERU, Ind., Jan. 9. — A hyena which has just given birth to triplets was the center of attraction at a circus winter quarters here.

The baby hyenas are believed to be the only ones ever born in America. They weigh about a pound each.

Both mother and the youngsters are doing well. The babies now about 13 hours old, must stay in a dark room for 13 days.

Chicago Workers Have Opportunity to Increase Knowledge of Labor Problems and Study World Influences at School

Workers interested in learning more about their position in present day society can learn a great deal at the Chicago Workers School. Of vital importance is the course in problems of the labor movement. Not only will it deal with labor movements thruout the country, but will pay particular reference to Chicago. The course will therefore be a practical one. A second course deals with the historical side, considering not only labor, but also political history. Such a combination will be of lasting benefit.

Other Worthwhile Courses.

The three other courses are in Elementary Economics, Elements of Political Education, and American Imperialism, all worthwhile. American Imperialism will study the present position over the rest of the world, and how it controls the working class. Elements of Political Education will be based on the splendid text book, "Elements of Political Education" recently translated from Russian and published by The DAILY WORKER. Some chapter headings are: Fundamental Conceptions of Political Economy, Development of Capitalism up to the Epoch of Finance Capital, The War and the Fate of Capitalism. The course in Elementary Economics will be based on a simple pamphlet, and is intended to supply at least a minimum of knowledge on Marxist Economics. This course is indispensable; no worker can fight his battles intelligently unless he is equipped with this knowledge.

These courses furnish real training for the class struggle. Every worker of Chicago should avail himself of this opportunity.

Schedule of Classes.

The following classes are being formed:

"Problems of Labor Movement with Particular Reference to Chicago," Monday night. Teacher Swabeck.

"Elementary Economics," Tuesday night. Teacher, L. Fisher.

"Elements of Political Education," Wednesday night. Teacher, W. Simons.

"American Imperialism," Thursday night. Teacher, M. Shachtman.

"American Labor and Political History," Friday night. Teacher, R. Cooper.

Classes in English.

Monday night, 1902 W. Division street, teacher, L. Reisecof.

Thursday night, 1006 S. Racine avenue, teacher, L. Beidol.

All classes meet at 19 S. Lincoln St. except the classes in English which will meet as stated. Dates of classes in English may be changed by mutual consent of students and instructors. The fee is $1.50.

Change in N. Y. Literature Class.

NEW YORK — The course in "Social interpretation of Modern Literature," conducted by Eli Jacobson at the New York Workers School, announces a change in schedule of authors to be taken up, because of the interruption of the class on Christmas and New Year.

On Friday night, January 7, Ernest Toller and Franz Werfel were taken up. Tolstoi is scheduled for Friday, January 14. Dostoyevsky for Friday, January 21; and Turgenev for Friday, January 28. On the first Friday in February, Gorki and Chekhov will be studied.

This course takes place on Friday nights at 8 p. m. in addition, Comrade Jacobson is giving a course in Advanced English at the same school on Tuesdays and Fridays (Tuesdays at 7 p. m. and Fridays at 9:15 p. m.). A new term of this course will start early in February as will also a new term in the course in Modern Literature.

Registration are now being taken for both of these courses, any afternoon or evening at the headquarters of the Workers' School, 108 East 14th street.

Will Unveil Huge Portrait of Lenin at Detroit Memorial Meeting, Sunday, Jan. 23

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 10.— Two well known artists, whose names are now withheld, have undertaken to paint a huge portrait of Lenin for the great Lenin memorial meeting which has been arranged by the Workers (Communist) Party for Sunday, Jan. 23, at 2:30 p. m. in the Detroit Armory.

The portrait, now in the process of completion, will be the largest ever made in the United States, being seven feet wide and nine feet long.

The painting will be unveiled at the Lenin memorial meeting of the Young Pioneers. After the event it will be placed in the newly completed Workers Home at 1343 East Farry Ave.

Foster Speaks.

William Z. Foster will be the principal speaker at the meeting. He will talk on "Lenin, His Life and Work." Other speakers will be Rebecca Grecht who will talk on "Lenin's Contribution to the World Revolution," and Walter Trumbull, representing the Young Workers League.

Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock a get wise luncheon will be held at the Labor Temple, 9129 Delmar avenue. There will be singing, toasts, and refreshments. The luncheon is held under the auspices of the Trade Union Educational League. Admission will be 50 cents.

Newark Party to Give Dance to Raise Funds for Workers' Center

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 10—On Jan. 15, the Workers (Communist) Party of Newark will make the first attempt to raise money for headquarters and a workers' center here. A dance will be held that night at the Slovak Workers' Home, 52 West St., the proceeds of which will go toward the building. Every worker in the city feels the need for such a center where they will be able to meet, spend an evening reading, listening to lectures, or other recreations.

Good snappy orchestra music will be provided for the affair and an interesting program has been arranged. Tickets are 50 cents.

Benjamin Explains New Government Role at Workers' School

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—"Uncle Shylock, Incorporated," a study of the present role of our government, will be given by D. Benjamin, assistant director of the Workers' School of New York, on Friday, Jan. 14, at 8 p. m., at 1347 Boston Road, Bronx, N. Y.

Arranged by the Young Workers (Communist) League, Bronx section.

Build the Front Against Wall Street

The call of the Workers (Communist) Party to worker and farmer organizations of this country for united action against the Wall Street policies of the American government as manifested in the imperialist attacks on Nicaragua, Mexico, and China puts the question squarely before American labor.

There can be no two opinions as to the significance of these events. In the most brazen and undisguised way the American government is following the instructions of Wall Street and is attempting to suppress the movements for emancipation in Latin-America and in China. In Nicaragua, Kellog and Coolidge are supporting with armed force the reactionary puppets of Wall Street, Diaz, against a rising tide of popular revolt. And the reason is brazenly announced. We must maintain the security of American investments.

This move against Nicaragua is in part also a demonstration against Mexico which is fostering and supporting all movements in Latin America against United States imperialism. Mexico is threatened and even more than threatened with armed force because it has dared to limit the exploitation carried on by American oil companies, American mining companies and American land companies controlled by the great Wall Street banks.

Intervention in favor of Wall Street's investments is also being planned in China as is evidenced by the concentration of American warships in that quarter. The victorious progress of the Chinese national revolution towards emancipation from the yoke of imperialist oppression has frightened Wall Street and caused it to worry about the regular flow of its profits from the exploitation of China. So again Coolidge steps forward to protect his masters, the Wall Street bankers, and American armed forces are dispatched to be used when necessary against the awakening Chinese masses.

This situation is full of menace for the American workers and farmers. Who will be called upon to fight the battles of Wall Street in Nicaragua, in Mexico and in China if not they? If the imperialist greed of Wall Street, supported and served by the Wall Street government, plunges us into a new imperialist war, who will stand the sacrifice of lives and suffering if not labor?

The cause of the Nicaraguan and Mexican and Chinese people is the cause of American labor. Their enemies are our enemies. The imperialists that exploit and oppress them are the same capitalists that conduct the wage cutting, open shop union smashing drives here at home. In fighting the Wall Street policies of the government we are fighting our own bosses. It is one battle on two fronts.

The situation requires immediate action. The only force that can offer any effective resistance to the imperialist adventures of Wall Street and its government is the labor movement and the farmers. Only a united front of all honest and militant elements among the workers and farmers in this country in support of the movements for freedom in the oppressed countries can meet the brutal "dollar diplomacy" of the American government. American labor must awaken now and face the issue. It must act before it is too late and we find ourselves involved in another bloody war for the sake of the security of Wall Street profits.

The Workers (Communist) Party has seen the danger and has called upon all labor to unite to demand hands off Mexico, Nicaragua and China. We do not expect that the leadership of every one of the organizations to whom the appeal of the Workers (Communist) Party is addressed will respond with any great enthusiasm or militancy. We know too well that the foreign policies of the A. F. of L. bureaucracy and, in a more disguised way, of the Socialist Party of Ficaldom have always been a faithful reflection of the policies of Wall Street's government. But we expect that the imminent danger and the flagrantly imperialistic direction of Coolidge's policies will awaken to consciousness and action tens and hundreds of thousands of American workers and farmers who will, thru rank and file pressure, force their leaders into proletarian lines of action or else act over their heads.

The present situation puts one course of action before the American workers and farmers to fulfill which it is their duty not only to themselves but to the toilers of the whole world: BUILD A UNITED FRONT OF LABOR AGAINST THE WALL STREET POLICIES OF THE GOVERNMENT!

NEW YORK LENIN MEMORIAL MEETING WILL BE MIGHTY DEMONSTRATION OF SOLIDARITY AND MILITANT UNIONISM

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—When the progressive workers gather in the new Madison Square Garden, 50th street and 8th avenue, on Saturday evening, Jan. 22, to commemorate the death of Nicolai Lenin, it will be more than to pay tribute to the leader and guide of the Russian Revolution, and beloved master of the workers of the world. This year the Lenin Memorial meeting has more significance to the workers of New York than at any other time since 1924.

Never before in the history of the New York labor movement have the progressive workers of this city been subjected to such bitter and vicious attacks on the part of the enemy of labor as at the present time. The general onslaught against militant trade unionism and the policies of class struggle which is now being carried on in the United States has been centered on New York, particularly against the needle trades workers who have been following a left-wing leadership.

Immense Meeting.

To these workers, as well as to all progressive workers of this city, the Lenin memorial meeting this year signifies an opportunity for a mighty demonstration of working-class solidarity and support of a militant program of struggle against the bosses and the reactionary labor bureaucracy.

Reports from all sections indicate that the New Garden will be filled to capacity. The rank and file among the workers here are determined to show their opposition to the red-baiting campaign directed against the Communists and all militant fighters in the New York labor movement.

Prominent Speakers.

The most prominent revolutionary labor leaders are scheduled to address the meeting among them C. E. Ruthenberg, William Z. Foster, Scott Nearing, Moissaye J. Olgin, J. Louis Engdahl, and others.

An excellent musical program has been arranged. Admission is 50c, 75c and $1.00. Tickets may be had in advance at the headquarters of the Workers Party, 108 East 14th street; Ilmnie Bilgins Book Shop, 127 University Place, and at all other party papers.

A Suggestion for the Upbuilding of The Daily Worker

A worker correspondent in Afton, Minnesota, sends in the following suggestion for other workers to increase the number of readers of The DAILY WORKER: He writes:

"I have been trying out a little plan to teach progressive friends with The DAILY WORKER, and I thought I would pass it along to you.

"The thought comes to me that there are a great number of progressive workers who would become readers of The DAILY WORKER if they came in contact with it. So here is how I make use of my DAILY WORKERS. I write this note on the top of page one: "Please hand me to a progressive friend." I then hand these marked copies to my personal progressive friends, with a request that they pass it on to another friend.

"This has started some of my friends to read The DAILY WORKER. Some have sent in for extra copies; others have ordered books, and still others have started to talk about a real Farmer-Labor party.

ANTI-LYNCH LAW, DEMAND OF 1500 NEGRO DELEGATES

N.A.A.C.P. Hears of the Year's Toll

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—Withholding of the Federated Trade Commission appointment from Governor Thomas G. McLeod of South Carolina is asked of President Coolidge by the 1500 delegates to the annual meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Gov. McLeod is charged with failing "for family reasons" to proceed against lynchers of three Negro workers at Aiken. Walter White, assistant secretary of the N. A. A. C. P., who personally investigated the case, blamed McLeod for the lack of action. While gave the governor the names and addresses of persons involved in the lynching—some of them local officials.

Congress Apathetic.

More work for the passage of the federal anti-lynching bill was urged upon the delegates by White. "Congress is apathetic about lynchings," he declared, "but it is very much interested in baseball scandals. The race problem in this country has resolved into the saving of the bodies of blacks and the souls of whites," he added. Louis Marshall, known for his knowledge of constitutional law, praised White for the Aiken investigations in the course of his address to the meeting.

Failure of the senate to take action on the federal anti-lynching bill is "one excellent and reasonable explanation" of the increase in lynching during 1926, James Weldon Johnson, N. A. A. C. P. secretary, stated in connection with the organization's report. "While there was a threat of federal law, with consequent jurisdiction of federal courts over this crime, the lynchers hesitated," Johnson states.

Notice of No Interference.

"When the United States senate refused even to discuss the Dyer anti-lynching bill, that was equivalent to serving notice on the lynchers that they could pursue their pastime virtually unmolested. So far only one lynching, and that one in Georgia, has been visited by punishment at the hands of the law."

Lynchings in 1926 very nearly doubled the number in 1925, the N. A. A. C. P. report shows. Against 18 lynched in the United States in 1925, 33 were mob victims in 1926. Florida leads with eight; Texas follows with five; Mississippi with four. Three each are scored against both Louisiana and Tennessee; one against Kentucky, New Mexico and Virginia. Three of those lynched were white; one was a Navajo Indian; and there were two women among the remaining colored victims. One of those lynched had been ordered acquitted by the presiding judge at his trial. One in Texas was shot by white officers while manacled. The majority of lynching victims are usually colored workers and small farmers.

12-YEAR OLD OMAHA GIRL HELPS KEEP THE DAILY WORKER; SAVES PENNIES TO MAKE XMAS DONATION

The following inspiring letter has been received by The DAILY WORKER, revealing a spirit that means our paper cannot fail:

"Dear Comrades: My father has taken The DAILY WORKER for quite a while now. I love to read it and sometimes I wonder what all the readers would do without The DAILY WORKER. I wouldn't be surprised that some readers think the same.

"Sometime ago I heard my father tell my mother that he would like to present a gift of a few dollars to keep The DAILY WORKER up. ## WITH THE YOUNG WORKERS

CONDUCTED BY THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

Who Was Spartacus?

MORE than two thousand years ago, the most powerful country of that time spread itself where today the land of Italy exists—the Roman empire.

In this land, where the power was in the hands of the rich patricians and where the unfortunate plebians were oppressed, ruled for centuries a slavery which was a disgrace to man.

Each time the Roman legions (soldiers) conquered some new land, the inhabitants, who were called "barbarians" by the Romans, were not only made slaves, but they were forced by the Roman rulers, for their pleasure and to satisfy the needy plebians, to fight one another in a great circus before hundreds of thousands of people. These fighters, who were compelled to fight one against the other, even if they were brothers, were called "gladiators." They were trained in special schools in the art of killing one another and the owners made lots of money from the human blood that was shed.

ONCE, in Rome, during the reign of the bloody consul Sulla, a memorable incident occurred in the Roman coliseum, before the eyes of more than a hundred thousand people.

In the arena of the Circus, more than thirty gladiators on either side fought their bloody fight. One, by his strength, daring and courage, had drawn the attention of all upon him. He fought like a lion and defended himself from the combined attacks of a dozen enemies, and at last, many times wounded, he left the fight as the VICTOR!

The multitude, astonded at so much strength and bravery, shouted, "Long live Spartacus!" "Freedom for Spartacus!" For that was his name. Sulla dared not oppose the will of the people and he gave to the brave gladiator his freedom.

But Spartacus would not accept his freedom whilst his brother remained a slave and was compelled to kill his comrades for the entertainment of the duped plebians and bloody patricians.

So he began to prepare a revolt of all the gladiators against the powerful might of Roma!

FOR years Spartacus and his friends went from one school to the other. And in other different disguises, they risked being arrested and killed and they spread their brother gladiators for a determined struggle for their freedom.

One dark and rainy winter's night, Spartacus and his friend Oknome got into the great gladiatorial school in which about 10,000 gladiators were being trained.

Earlier they had been divided into ten groups, so that all that remained now was the capture of the weapons, which were kept in an armory guarded by Roman soldiers.

The gladiators had nothing but their empty hands, but they believed in the victory of their cause and indeed they held no other way. For them it meant freedom or death!

They flung themselves on the guards and seizing their torches they forced them to flee.

Only five hundred gladiators were successful in leaving the town and under the leadership of Spartacus they occupied a hill in the neighborhood of the town and there planted the red flag of revolution.

Twice the Roman troops attempted to take the hill. The first time they were beaten back by the gladiators who flung stones down upon them. The second time a division of the rebels allowed themselves to be driven with great difficulty down the hill, then they surrounded their attackers and destroyed them.

Spartacus was responsible for this war strategy. He alone never lost his head and called his men continuously and with obstinate bravary to the struggle, for he believed in the success of his cause.

After he had gathered thousands of slaves under his flag, he descended into the plain and spread fear and dismay amongst the Roman patricians. These sent their most capable generals and their best legions against Spartacus, but all proved themselves helpless against these "barbarians," who fought for their freedom.

FOR ten long years Spartacus and his fellows carried on the struggle against the might of Rome. Thousands of gladiators who had fought for their freedom, perished. Spartacus himself died the death of a hero in the unequal struggle against the more powerful army. Almost all the gladiators and many, many slaves were killed.

MORE than two thousand years have passed since then. Thorich do not like anything to ha written about Spartacus. One can find in no history book a section devoted to this great man. This comes from the fact that the struggle Spartacus started continues today, though in a somewhat different form. Then slaves, who could be bought and sold like chattels, fought. Today, proletarians fight, who are bought by the capitalists and at the first chance flung on the streets and left to starve.

In Russia the workers have flung off the yoke of the rich. They have built a workers' and peasants' government.

In Germany in 1919, the workers stood before the same fight. The leaders of this struggle were the Communist workers, who had already, on the outbreak of the revolution in Berlin, fought on the barricades and carried the name of Karl Liebknecht, who is known all over the world amongst class-conscious workers as that of the Modern Spartacus. He too, like Spartacus, died at the hands of his enemies. It was at the end of the famous and heroic revolt of the workers in Berlin known as "Spartacus Week," when he was taken unarmed and cruelly murdered by the officers of the German government.

This name Spartacus is holy for all fighters in the cause of freedom and it arouses the fear of all exploiters.

We young Communist comrades will take it with pride and we will show that we are worthy to bear the great name—"Spartacus!"

WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT

THE CHALLENGE OF YOUTH

Upton Sinclair:

"Interesting. . . It is full of facts young workers ought to know."

Freeman Hopwood, Secretary, American Association for Advancement of Athsism.

"The Challenge of Youth is a gem. It is one of the best things for propaganda that I have ever seen. I handed it to a Catholic youth and he finished it during the afternoon at work. Another took it with him to the six-day bicycle race and read it all there. The simple style is effective. I hope it is sold by the thousands."

UNION HEADS FACE FURTHER CRAFT CHARGES

New York Local Adds to Those of International

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Charges going beyond what International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Vice-President H. H. Broach made against 17 officials of Local 3 New York have been preferred within the local by members.

Collecting funds now for their defense is one of the new charges made among the 19 counts on which the local members arraign their officers. Refutation of the accused officials' claim in court that the international was after their treasury is included under another charge of misrepresentation.

Five Affidavits.

Affidavits containing the charges of local members are filed in connection with the court action of Joseph A. Lynch, Local 3 member, who is seeking to have the 17 accused officials enjoined from using the local union's money. Lynch tells in his complaint that the local officials have already been tried by the international and found guilty but that his removal has been held up by court action instituted (in violation of the union constitution) against the international officers.

Try to Judge Selves.

Reading of the charges without President O'Hara picking, as presiding officer, his judges is asked by the union complainants. The four local members making the charges also ask their fellow-members that the officers be not allowed to try themselves "as they have in the past." They ask that the charges be read at the next local union meeting and action taken. Signers of the charges are Joaquin Diaz, Hugh Morgan, John J. Mullin, Sr., and Thomas A. Bennett.

State Funds, Charge.

Besides repeating similar charges of bribery to those preferred by the international, the local members add that the accused officials have "stolen certain records belonging to the local union in order to try to cover up their guilt."

Horseshoers' Union Controversy Over; Fitz "In" All Over

The controversy that divided union horseshoers in Chicago a number of years has been amicably adjusted and so Journeyman horseshoer John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, is again in good standing in the International Union of Journeyman Horseshoers. Fitzpatrick sided in the split with the faction that prohibited boss horseshoers from having active membership in the local. The peace pact confirms his stand.

He had maintained good standing in the American Federation of Labor during the years his local was outside the fold by membership in the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths.

Cloakmakers to Go Ahead with Voting

clone to be held until he had "finished what he had set out to accomplish," the manifesto declared. In view of this attitude, the committee of 55, authorized by the resolutions of the mass meeting, decided to hold elections in Locals 1, 9 and 35 as the only means of settling the dispute in the union in a democratic manner.

The Manifesto.

The manifesto to the workers continued as follows:

"Brothers and Sisters, Cloak and Dressmakers: Our union which was built thru struggle and sacrifices of thousands of workers, cannot and must not be destroyed because of the personal ambitions of individuals. Our union, which is maintained and financed with our hard earned money, cannot be dominated by one ambitious person. The cloak and dressmakers, who have suffered to build a union, must be the ones to dictate its policies and decide who its leaders shall be.

Sigman Flayed.

"Did Sigman and his supporters ask the consent of the workers when he threw our union into the civil war of a year ago, a war which meant untold suffering to the workers and brought our union to the brink of ruin? Did the Perlsteins, Feinbergs and Sigman ask the members at that time whether they wanted war? No—they brought about the war; they had nothing to lose. Did Sigman ask the cloak and dressmakers NOW whether we want war? NO—like a tyrant he decided to make war on the membership and our elected officers, with the result that our whole union is on the point of being shattered into fragments.

Fears Membership.

"Sigman and his general executive board accuse our legally elected officers of incompetence and treachery. Why not turn them over to the judgment of the members? Sigman is afraid to permit the thousands of cloak and dressmakers to pass judgment on the leaders of the joint board. Why is he afraid to come to the meeting at the request of a thousand shop chairmen? Why does Sigman have to print full page advertisements for weeks in succession for the workers to join his union for 50 cents, if the cloak and dressmakers are with him? Why does he have to send committees to the shops to threaten workers that they must register or they will be stopped from work? Why does he send hired gunmen to mortally wound the workers if they refuse to join him in splitting activities? Why does he have to go to the bosses and make all sorts of promises to them if the workers refuse to register at the international office?

Knows Decision.

"Does the joint board ever employ such methods? The joint board leaders have declared time and again that they want to submit the leadership to the judgment of the members of the union thru a referendum vote? Sigman and his general executive board know what the decision of the membership will be and therefore refuse to submit the question of leadership to a general election.

Is Treason.

"Brothers and Sisters! An act of high treason that cannot be equalled in the history of the labor movement is now being perpetrated on our union. With the aid of the bosses, by threats, force and terrorism, Sigman wants to force his leadership on our union.

"If we are real union men and women this must never happen. The thousands of cloak and dressmakers must be aroused to protest and action against the poprom in our union! Force, threats and terrorism must not beat us into submission. We must offer an iron wall of resistance against the hirelings of Sigman when they come to our shops to force us to submit to their registration. Leaders who can't maintain themselves by force cannot be clustered by us. Mussolini rule cannot be permitted in our union. The cloak and dressmakers cannot and will not recognize the 50 cent union. The Cloak and Dressmakers' Union will be built and maintained by the cloak and dressmakers, together with their chosen leaders.

Will Hold Elections.

"The shop chairmen's council, authorized by the shop chairmen's meeting, will carry thru elections for officers in our union, and only those elected will be entrusted with the affairs of our union.

"Let us force an iron chain of all the cloak and dressmakers about the shop chairmen council. Let us support and recognize our present legally elected officers of the joint board until the new elections. Let us go to victory over the dark forces that would split our union in order to rule it. Let us all together, with united strength, frustrate the attempt of Sigman to dominate our union by brutal force.

"Long live the Cloak and Dressmakers' Union led by the membership!

"Shop Chairman's Council of Cloak and Dressmakers."

C. F. L. DELEGATES FORCE ENDING OF RADIO CONTRACT

Preacher Hits 40-Hour Week Over WCFL

Preachers who buy time on labor's radio and then knock labor's aspirations when they broadcast will get the hook, as the Rev. Simon Peter Long of Wicker Park Lutheran church, Chicago, has discovered.

Anti-Labor Ita Control.

Long had a contract with WCFL, radio station, for an hour each week at $75 the hour. He used most of the time for more or less legitimate religious purposes, including sermons, sacred music, prayers and not forgetting the collection. The collection was fervently solicited via the ether and quite a number of radio fans who had tuned in responded with remittances to the pastor by mail.

Hit 40-Hour Week.

Waxing bolder, Long ventured to use his time on the labor radio to attack labor aspirations for the 40-hour week. This proved his undoing.

Delegates to the Chicago Federation of Labor protested vigorously in regular meeting against this abuse of a labor enterprise. Labor circles became agitated and finally the Wicker Park Lutheran church was officially signed off WCFL for good. Its contract was cancelled in accordance with the provisions in it for such revocation.

Yet another church, which also contracted for time, has not transgressed. Its contract remains unimpaired.

GREEN ANSWERS BUILDERS ASS'N ON 5-DAY WEEK

Hits Argument Shorter Day Is "Extravagant"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. — (FP)— President Green of the American Federation of Labor defends the five-day week program adopted at the Detroit convention, in an editorial in the American Federationist for January. He replies to a resolution adopted by the National Association of Building Trades Employers in which they determined to oppose the shorter work week "as a patriotic as well as an economic duty." They also declared it as an extravagance breeding device.

"Why should higher standards of living be regarded as extravagance by the building trades employers?" he asks. "Without higher standards of living, how would our increased productivity be absorbed? Our industrial organization rests upon the principle that high wages are compatible with low production costs. Labor thinks the construction industry should frankly face the problem of doing its part toward social progress. Labor is confident that the financial difficulties involved could readily be met if the construction industry bats more economical ways of financing.

"Labor is not making the immediate introduction of the five-day week an issue in any industry. It asks each industry and each employer to consider this new standard, to determine what are the obstacles to the five-day week under present conditions, and to accept the cooperation of trade unions in removing such obstacles. How can rejection of this proposal be either a patriotic or an economic duty?"

To Build "Cost" Hospitals

ANTI-INJUNCTION MOVE STARTED BY NEW YORK UNIONS

Smith to Be Held to Legislature Speech

By SYLVAN A. POLLACK.

NEW YORK( Jan. 10.—Delegates from New York labor unions, assembled at the regular meeting of the Central Trades and Labor Council in Beethoven Hall, united in a threefold move to stop granting of injunctions to bosses in labor disputes, to eliminate company unions, and to boycott so-called "labor" judges who double-crossed the Tammany Hall labor leaders, who endorsed them at the last election.

Shea Initiated Action.

This action on three important labor fronts resulted from the presence of a resolution presented by P. J. Shea, organizer of the Street Carmen's Union here, protesting the issuing of an injunction by Supreme Court Justice Delehanty. Shea's union was enjoined, together with all its sympathizers, from organizing the motion employes on the interborough Rapid Transit and the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit systems, now members of company unions.

Demand Federation Action.

The resolution demanded that the legislative committee of the N. Y. State Federation of Labor immediately confer with Governor Smith and draft a bill to be presented to the legislature that will place on the statute books the paragraph in his annual message that referred to the injustice done to workers by indiscriminate handing out of injunctions by prejudiced judges. Thru this resolution, labor leaders hope to pin the governor down to legislation on this retreat from his former stand on injunctions, his action in enjoining thru a subordinate Tammany judge, the recent strike of the New York taxicab drivers being still fresh in the memories of the unionists.

Venstski Supports Resolution.

In a speech that won the sustained applause of all the delegates, Emma Venetski, delegate from Local 22, of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, endorsed the resolution, and pointed out that she had offered a similar one seven weeks ago. "Seven weeks ago," she said, "I presented a resolution which was adopted, demanding that this body petition the State Federation to call a delegate conference of all local unions in the state to plan ways and means of carrying on an aggressive campaign against injunctions and company unions. This conference was never called.

I predicted then that such injunction would be issued against other workers. This last one is the most terrible of all," Delegate Venetski concluded.

Frayne Urges Boycott.

Urging the friends of labor to boycott the judges, endorsed by labor leaders in the last election, who have issued injunctions against workers, Hugh Frayne, general organizer of the New York State Federation of Labor, added his endorsement to the position in a speech that outlined the program of the State Federation on these issues.

New Sigman Ally.

Ike Cohn, delegate from the United Garment Workers Union, revealed his union as a new ally to the Sigman forces in their fight against the left wing and the Communists in the I. L. G. W. U. He inquired if a communication had been received notifying the Central Trades that delegates from four locals of that union were not entitled to seats, having been expelled by the international.

Secretary Coughlin, in reply, stated that no such communication had been received. Thereupon Cohn, in a challenging manner, sat down and the meeting proceeded.

Enemies United.

This completes the united front against progressive unionists by bringing together Abraham Beckerman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and Thomas Hickey of the United Garment Workers, ordinarily arch-enemies.

Asks About Workers' School.

In the minutes of the executive committee, read by Secretary Coughlin, mention was made of a communication received from the American Defense Society, requesting the council to furnish information about the Workers' School.

When Coughlin said he filed the letter, not being able to comply with the society's request, Abraham Lefkowitz, delegate of the Teachers' Union, jumped to his feet demanding to know why he had not been consulted on the matter, being the chairman of the council's committee on education.

STATE SOLONS TO FIGHT ON LABOR COMMITTEE HEAD

8-Hour Law and Injunction Coming Up

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 10—The legislative reference bureau is busily engaged in drafting bills for members of the 55th general assembly, and a regular deluge is certain with the return of the lawmakers Jan. 18. Speaker Robert Scholes has announced that the roll will be called for introduction of bills with the return of the house members, and similar action is expected in the senate.

Fight With Labor Committee.

A lively fight has developed over the chairmanship of the house industrial affairs committee to which will be referred bills to be introduced repealing the anti-injunction law and the woman's eight hour bill which will again make its appearance. Labor advocates would like Rep. R. G. Soderstrom of Streator, a union printer, at the head of this committee, while the manufacturing interests are lobbying for Rep. Thomas L. Fekete, Jr., of East St. Louis or Rep. Ralph H. Hoar of Elgin.

Bar Election Laws.

A number of radical changes in the election laws of the state is certain to be suggested. Rep. Dave McClugage of Peoria will present two bills, one of which provides for the filling of vacancies on senatorial committees, and the other requiring senatorial candidates to file nominating papers at the state capital. As the law now stands these candidates can file with the clerk of the county in districts lying wholly within one county. Outside of Cook, but three districts are affected—the 18, Peoria county; 39, La Salle county, and the 49 in St. Clair county. Under existing law there is no means of filling a senatorial committee vacancy.

Change Municipal Law.

Another change to be urged by McCluggage will be amendment of the city election law to permit registration of voters to stand indefinitely, except for changes necessitated by removal or death, and new voters. "There is no reason why a voter who has lived in a precinct forty years should be required to register every two years," McCluggage said.

Express Company Head Pleads Poverty Before Wage Arbitration Board

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—In presenting his case against the granting of a wage increase of 12 cents an hour to employes of the American Railway company, Lewis R. Gwynn, vice-president of the company, told the board of arbitration that such an increase would cost the company $19,257,240 annually.

He produced statistics designed to show that the company could not afford the increase, that the express workers were now getting enough in proportion to the cost of living, and that they were not doing as much work as in former years.

Sixty-five thousand workers will be affected by the decision of the arbitrators.

Railmen in Southeast Take Vote on Strike

RICHMOND, Va.— Conductors, trainmen, and yardmen in the railroads in the Southeastern territory are taking a strike vote. The vote is being taken at the request of the executive committees of the unions involved, with the approval of L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, and W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

"Ma" Pardons 27.

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 10— Twenty-seven full pardons and three restorations to citizenship were announced by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. Those bring Mrs. Ferguson's clemency total to 3,112 for her two-year term, which expires at noon, Jan. 18.

WELL, WHO WOULDN'T "SMILE EASILY" WITH A MILLION DOLLAR HUT?

NEW YORK.—An order of preference has been signed by Supreme Court Justice Tierney in the suit brought by Doris Duke, fourteen-year-old daughter of the late James B. Duke, and chief heiress to his estate of $60,000,000.

Miss Duke has sued the estate to compel the delivery to her of the New York residence of her father, valued at $1,000,000.

Miss Duke is tall for her age and very slender. She has raddish, bobbed hair and blue eyes. She smiles easily.

She has been educated by private tutors, and she has in addition a French maid, Fanny Ranaude. Her principal tutor is a French woman also. Miss Duke plays the piano, but is not known to have any other accomplishments. She is fond of motoring.

Lenin Would Ask for Subs.

If Lenin were alive today to attend the huge meetings which are being arranged thruout the country, in his honor, he would make it a point to emphasize among other things the importance of building up a large circulation for The DAILY WORKER, the revolutionary organ of the American workers.

Particularly at this time he would show how far-reaching and valuable is an English newspaper for the revolutionary movement. In his emphatic way, he would show what a powerful weapon our Daily will become against the combined forces of reaction and opportunism in the labor movement during the present struggle.

With the country on the verge of entering upon new imperial invasions into Nicaragua, China and perhaps Mexico, with the possibility of war, in all its frightfulness, we surely must build up that revolutionary agent, which will carry the message of proletarian resistance against imperialism.

The coming Lenin memorial meetings must mark a distinct forward step in the life of our paper. To the masses of workers demonstrating their tribute to Lenin and to the movement for which he stands we must point out that there is no better way of honoring his memory than by joining the party of which he was a member, and by becoming a reader of the paper, which is the organ of Leninism in America.

The DAILY WORKER Builders will be busy at the Lenin memorial meetings. In fact, they have begun to organize now. A well-arranged scheme will be formulated for securing a subscription from each member of the audience, who is not already on our mailing list. Communist brains are working on the proposition now. Results will show later.

Mexican Consulate Will Defend Rights of Its Nationals; Mrs. Spencer Moves to Have Morales Admitted to Bail; Consul-General Backs Defense

The Mexican consulate in Chicago is prepared to defend the rights of its nationals in the territory it serves. It has been especially stirred by the recent happenings at Melrose Park, which have been reported in The DAILY WORKER. Vice-consul Amador is very deeply moved at the case of Agustin Morales, now in Cook county jail, having been bound over to the grand jury, on no evidence, for the murder of Policeman Lyman J. Stahl of Melrose Park.

Mary Belle Spencer, Morales' attorney and the lawyer for the consulate, has served notice on the state's attorney's office that she will ask Chief Justice William J. Lindsay to fix the amount of Morales' bail. A man under a charge of murder can be admitted to bail only if there is slight evidence of guilt. The law reads that if there is definite evidence of strong presumption of guilt, no bail can be allowed. But to pass on such an application, the judge must hear evidence to ascertain whether or not the case is one where bail may be granted.

By this move, Mrs. Spencer expects to show up at once on what slight grounds Morales is detained. The judge must pass on the application, or a writ of habeas corpus will stand on the ground that the defendant is being deprived of a legal right.

Judge Lindsay has set ten o'clock today as the hour for hearing the application. In the meantime he has a transcript of the testimony of the two hearings of the coroner's inquest and is going over the evidence.

In the event that he admits Morales to bail, the Consul-General of Mexico in New York stands prepared to put up the bail in any amount the court may call for. This is strong evidence that from now on the Mexican government is prepared to demand for its nationals in this country the rights to which they are entitled, believing that only so can it obtain for them the respect and dignity that is due a citizen, however lowly, of the Republic of Mexico.

The Mexican Consul-General in New York is financing Morales' defense and Mrs. Spencer will fight the case of the defendant into and thru the last ditch.

What About It, Mr. Green?

According to a Federated Press dispatch, Andrew Furuseth, president of the International Seamen's Union of America, took up with President Green of the American Federation of Labor the question of protesting against the action of the United States government in invading Nicaragua in behalf of the reactionary tool of American imperialism and of the threat of war against Mexico indicated by the recent statements of Coolidge and Kellogg and the provocative display of force in Mexican waters.

We have already commented on the death-like silence of President Green during this crisis. The small town baptist is not one who is accustomed to hiding his light in a barrel. He is ever ready to bleat his patarian puerilities against Russia and the revolutionary movement everywhere. He waxes eloquent in drawing false pictures of life under Soviet rule and poses as one of the foremost champions of freedom. Why is Green as dumb as a mute on the question of Washington's bullying of the Latin American countries?

President Green cannot draw the red herring of religious conflict across the trail of American intervention in Nicaragua as he tried to do in his statement on the conflict between the fascist catholic church and the progressive Calles administration. The issue in Nicaragua is as clear as crystal. It is between the elements who demand Nicaragua for the Nicaraguans and those who would sell Nicaragua to the Wall Street money barons. The Coolidge administration is supporting the Wall Street tools with warships and bayonets. What has Mr. Green to say? Nothing.

It is a sad commentary on the depth to which the officialdom of the A. F. of L. have descended in their subserviency to big business that, while bourgeois politicians are raising their voices against the brutal policy of oppression followed by the snivelling occupant of the White House, there is not a word of protest from the headquarters of the A. F. of L.

The A. F. of L. council meets this week in the sunny city of St. Petersburg, Florida. The eyes of the American working class will be upon their deliberations. A war against Mexico is a certainty unless the hands of the Wall Street puppets in Washington are stayed. This war will arouse the deepest indignation in the hearts of the American masses. President Green and his executive council may yet come to realise that the A. F. of L. has no millionaires in its rank and file.

Every local union of the A. F. of L. should urge the executive council to at once issue an immediate warning to the government:

"Hands Off Nicaragua!"
"Hands Off Mexico!"

A Fallen Angel

Flushed by his victory in the United States court over those who would punish him for peddling government property to his friends, Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior in President Harding's cabinet, suggested that he might confound his enemies by running for election to the United States senate from New Mexico on the republican ticket next year.

When the news reached the senate lobby there was another scurrying for gas masks and disinfectants. Our senators—those of them who have not been caught in the quiz—are extremely virtuous nowadays and most of them are willing to crash party lines in their haste to hurl bricks at those who would bring the chamber of millionaires into disrepute. Several senators immediately predicted that Fall would no sooner be in than out again.

If Fall sets out to win the senatorial toga from the natives of New Mexico in all probability he will be successful, unless the opposition has heavier artillery and can afford to travel on its belly, in the language of a great general. Money and guns are almost as invincible in that part of the country as in Chicago. If the Latin American countries had a sense of humor they would keep the wires burning with constant threats of invasion unless our elections ceased to infect the western hemisphere with the habit of surrounding elections with the glamor of battle. Let us suppose that Editor McGeehan against Fall and falls dead before Fall's bullets! Would not Calles be justified in not recognizing the Fall election on the ground that it was won by force and violence? Of course, Calles is too much of a gentleman to interfere in our family affairs and in addition there is practically no Mexican capital invested in New Mexico.

It is getting to be so now that our senators are kept busy trying to fumigate the senate. There is a regular army of odoriferous senators-elect on the way. Smith from Illinois will inject himself into the August assembly and is promised the bum's rush. But Smith may play the role of Mother Goldam in "The Shaughai Gesture" and tell a few little stories about those who feel like taking the air when he approaches the clerk's desk to take the oath.

And no sooner will Smith either be seated or booted than Mr. Vare of Pennsylvania will roll his glue barrel into the chamber. There will be another chorus of indignation and another bum's rush. If this kind of thing keeps on, by the time Fall's turn comes around he may have a majority of the votes in his own pocket.

American democracy is indeed a sweet-smelling flower. It is rather amusing to watch a set of capitalist flunkeys and hypocrites defend their own political corruption by rending the fox whose tail got caught in the farmer's trap.

The Britons in China are said to be humiliated over the action of the Cantonese in chasing their forces out of Hankow. The fact that the hitherto despised Chinese were able to give them the "bird" will have an effect in India and Egypt not conducive to the health of British capitalist interests there.

After three years THE DAILY WORKER is still on the job and as saucy as ever. "We are poor, but we are honest" and the fact that we never expected to be rich until we have our editorial offices in the Times Building enables us to grin at hardships.

If thieves could agree, honest men would be doomed. The Japanese press is against co-operation with the British in China. The Japanese ruling classes have their own axes to grind.

NICARAGUA TO FOLLOW PANAMA—THE EAGLE HOVERS OVER MEXICO

WANTING A SECOND CANAL, THE UNITED STATES PROCEEDS TO TAKE NICARAGUA—THE MONROE DOCTRINE AND ROOSEVELT'S BIG STICK—TO MAKE THE CARIBBEAN AN "AMERICAN LAKE," MEXICO MUST BE SUBDUED—LATIN AMERICA CONGEALS FOR RESISTANCE—THE WORKERS OF THE UNITED STATES ARE THE NATURAL ALLIES OF THE VICTIMS OF IMPERIALISM.

By THURBER LEWIS.

I.

PANAMA is a little country stolen from the United States of Colombia because the United States of America wanted to build a canal thru it. Nicaragua is a country a little farther to the north that the United States also wants to build a canal thru. So the United States is taking Nicaragua.

This is not the whole story with regard to either Panama or Nicaragua, but the example of Panama serves to show that the business of taking countries is not new to the United States.

The complete story is very involved. The United States wants Nicaragua for military, economic and political reasons. These are important enough reasons for any capitalist country like the United States to salve its conscience with.

Military.

THE military reasons are the proposed new isthmian canal; the United States naval base in the Bay of Fonseca; the completion of the Pan-American railway, the Nicaragua leg of which has not yet been built; and the use of Nicaragua as a base of operations for the defense of the Panama Canal.

Economic.

THE economic reasons are that American bankers already control finances of the country and need a government that will do what it is told; mines, all wells, timber resources and fruit plantations are owned by American firms; the new canal and railway are also of economic importance to United States interests; and secure control will make Nicaragua an ideal country for the further export of capital by New York bankers.

Political.

THE political reasons are that the United States must be assured of a willing government in a country thru which it intends to build an essentially military canal and one as near to another important canal; control of Nicaragua assists the United States in checking the spread of the Mexican anti-imperialist spirit thruout the rest of Latin-America; and the country offers a political and military base for the acquisition of other Latin republics when the time is ripe.

This explains why a little country with a population smaller than that of Detroit or Cleveland and slightly larger in area than New York state can become so important.

II.

AMERICAN interference in Central America is an old story. The present armed invasion of Nicaragua by United States marines is only the latest evidence of an adventurous spirit which the United States embarked many years ago. It begins with the Monroe Doctrine.

"The American continents, by the free and independent conditions which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered subjects for future colonization by any European powers," said President Monroe on Dec. 2, 1823, to the "Holy Alliance" of European monarchists.

U. S. Bailiwick.

FROM that time on, the territory to the south has been considered the bailiwick of the United States. It wasn't many years after that the Mexican war was fought and another state added to the union at the expense of Mexico. It wasn't much longer before Spain was kicked out of her last stronghold in the Caribbean and that sea made an "American lake."

At the time when the United States, under Roosevelt in 1903 and 1904, took over the Dominican Republic and stole Panama from Colombia, a reformulation of the Monroe Doctrine was found to be necessary. In his annual message in 1904 Roosevelt declared:

Chronic wrongdoing, or an impotence which results in the loosening of the ties of civilized society, may in America as elsewhere, ultimately require intervention by some civilized nation, and in the western hemisphere the adherence of the United States to the Monroe Doctrine may force the United States, however reluctantly, in flagrant cases of such wrongdoing or impotence, to the exercise of an INTERNATIONAL POLICE POWER.

The Big Stick.

THIS was called the policy of the "Big Stick". Events in Nicaragua show it to be very much in force. The Monroe Doctrine and the "Big Stick" are the high spots of the political background of American expansion to the south.

The economic basis of the Mexican war, the first aggressive move of the United States towards the equator, was the desire of the slave states of the south to acquire new territory for the growth of the trade in flesh. The southern aristocrats even hoped for the annexation of Mexico and the West Indies not to speak of other territories in South America.

This was not to be for the Negro slave breeders, but it is still dear to the hearts of their successors, the traders in wage slaves and dollars. The events since the Spanish-American War have seen a steady growth of penetration, economic, political and military that gives sign of stopping no place north of the Straits of Magellan.

Latin-America Balks.

THIS is duly resented by Latin-America. Very few Spanish Americans have been fooled by the Monroe Doctrine. They may not have minded it so much in 1823. But with its Roosevelitan amplification and all that has transpired in the passing years, it is hard not to see its true meaning.

A famous Argentine publicist, Manuel Ugarte, epitomized the attitude of Latin-America towards the United States in an open letter to President Wilson just prior to his inauguration in 1913:

We desire that Cuba be freed. We desire that Nicaragua be permitted to become the arbiter of her own destiny. We desire that the abominable injustices committed against Colombia be rectified. We desire freedom for the heroic peoples of the Philippines. We desire that to Panama be conceded the dignity of a nation. We desire that Mexico should not continually see the sword of Damocles of intervention suspended over her flag. We demand equality; we demand respect; we demand, in short, that the Stars and Stripes cease to be a symbol of oppression in the New World.

The words of Senor Ugarte, uttered in 1913, are more true today than ever as a picture of the resentment of Latin-America towards the encroachment of the big northern power.

Every Nook and Corner.

THERE is not a country in Latin-America in which the power of the United States is not felt. Since the war, since the United States ceased to be a debtor nation and had fabulous sums of capital for export, the bankers of New York have put their fingers into every nook and corner of the continent. Sugar, coffee, fruit, mining, oil, lumber and most important of all, money trusts and companies with headquarters for the most part in New York have worked their way into the economic and political life of all twenty republics in Latin America some of them controlled out right.

Revolutions and counter-revolutions have been started and stopped at will in Central America and the Caribbean, marines have been landed to control the course of elections or for complete occupation. In South America the hand of the bankers works in devious ways. The granting or withholding of a loan, of itself, carries with it great political power. Venezuela dances to the tune of American banking firms and Bolivia is owned part and parcel.

THE WHY OF WAR WITH MEXICO

THE war-like attitude of the United States being displayed in the recent moves of the state department, both diplomatic and military, raises the question of just how much American capitalists have at stake in Mexico.

It goes without saying that most of the American investment in Mexico is owned or controlled by the international bankers of New York City at whose disposal the United States government under the last four or five presidents has placed its diplomatic power and its armed forces in practically every section of the world. This is particularly true of Latin America where the various administrations have obligingly loaned marines at the behest of whatever capitalist group desired "protection" of acquired interests or an opportunity to extend them.

Robt. W. Dunn, in his book, "American Foreign Investments," estimates American interests in Mexico at $1,280,000,000.

The investments are divided as follows:

|---|---|
| Government Bonds | $ 22,000,000 |
| Railroads | 160,000,000 |
| Mining and Smelting | 300,000,000 |
| Oil lands and refinaries | 478,000,000 |
| Wholesale and retail stores | 50,000,000 |
| Manufacturing | 60,000,000 |
| Plantations and timber | 200,000,000 |
| Banks and electric utilities | 10,000,000 |

Oil is seen to be most important. The value of the Mexican petroleum industry is estimated at over one billion dollars. Including pipe lines, land and equipment, Dunn estimates that United States interests control 55.7 per cent of this. The leading American oil companies there are Standard Oil, the Doheny group and the Mellon group.

Proposed New Canal in Nicaragua

The map shows the line of the proposed new isthmian canal thru Nicaragua to supplement the canal at Panama for commercial and military purposes. Plans are to take advantage of Lake Nicaragua and the San Juan river leaving only a short space between the lake and the Pacific ocean to be cut thru.

Being much farther to the north than Panama, the canal saves several hundred miles in passing from New York to San Francisco, by boat.

The map also indicates, Puerto Cabezas on the Caribbean sea, the headquarters of the liberals under Dr. Juan Sacasa which has been occupied by American marines and established as a "neutral zone." The real purpose of the landing is to cripple the liberals in their fight to overthrow the American-controlled President Diaz.

The liberals are closing in on the latter's stronghold, the capital, Managua. Marines have been sent there to assist Diaz in holding the town. Liberals in their fight to overthrow operations in Nicaragua. The bay between Nicaragua and Salvador is called the Bay of Fonseca and is leased by the United States as a naval base.

The January Workers Monthly

A concrete analysis of the tasks of the American revolutionary movement and of the American Communist Party from the Leninist viewpoint is the subject of the leading article (Bertram D. Wolfe, Towards Lenin ism) in the January issue of the Workers Monthly just off the press. As the author points out very clearly, the leading position of American imperialism in the scheme of world economics and politics of today as well as the recent developments of the most modern forms of rationalization and class-collaboration in this country have made the United States the center of the attention of world capitalism and of the world labor movement, reformist and revolutionary. This places a very serious responsibility upon the American workers and especially upon the American Communists which they can meet only thru a better understanding and a more direct and concrete application of the principles of Leninism. Comrade Wolfe sketches briefly the chief problems and tasks of the approach towards Leninism in this country.

Another phase of Leninism is discussed by Max Bedacht (Position and Opposition in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union) in an excellent article explaining the fundamentals of the late controversy in the ranks of the Russian Communist Party. The article is by no means a narration of the events of the struggle, it is a fundamental analysis of the basic problems of the Russian revolution and post-revolutionary development from the point of view of Leninism. It should be read and studied by every Communist and every advanced worker.

Very noteworthy in this issue is the article on the agrarian situation in this country by J. Louis Engdahl (Peasantry or Power) which explains in a very clear way the recent developments in the farming situation in America, reviews the various manifestations of the farmers' movements in the last period of time, and throws considerable light on the relations of the government to agriculture. Together with the other articles on the agrarian question in the last issue of the Workers Monthly this article provides a problem for much consideration.

The article closes with an analysis of the perspectives facing the American farmer in connection with independent political action and the class struggle.

The offensive against the left wing in the trade unions is commented upon and examined by William Z. Foster (The Struggle in the Needle Trades) who explains the recent right wing activities in the needle trades unions from the point of view of the advancing tide of company unionism, whether initiated in an open form by the bosses or in a hidden form by the right wing bureaucrats. From Comrade Foster's analysis of the situation in the needle trades conclusions are drawn as to what the tasks and activities of the left wing must be in order to save and vitalize the trade union movement.

Another phase in the development of the American trade union movement is touched upon by Earl R. Browder (The Five-Day Week). The movement for the five-day week is brought back by Comrade Browder to its economic basis, the unexampled increase in the rate of productivity in industry. The author also points out very effectively the relations of the recent victory of the New York Furriers, the A. F. of L. and Ford to the movement for the five-day week.

Among the shorter articles the outstanding one is the presentation of the problems facing the VII Enlarged Executive of the C. I. written by John Pepper before the Plenum opened and interesting now to compare with the actual work of the Plenum. The analytical and statistical articles—by L. Pilott on the Youth and the Labor Movement and the article on the situation of the Soviet Economy on the Ninth Anniversary—present valuable material for use and for reference.

An interesting feature of this issue of the Workers Monthly is the article by E. Kantor (Civilization—An Historical Category) in which the exact scientific meaning of the often misused term "civilization" is discussed. Together with the other

OIL! A NEW NOVEL by Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair.)

Also Bunny reviewed his threat about Annabelle. "You tell Verne, with my compliments, I'm going to lay siege to his girl, and take her to that meeting. I'll tell her he's trying to keep her in a golden cage, and that'll make her go; and if ever she hears the full story of those political prisoners she'll make Verne wish he'd known when to quit!" Dad could hardly keep from grinning. Poor old man, in his secret heart he was proud of the kid's nerve!

Whether Dad used the argument about Annabelle, or what he said, this much is history—two days after Vernon Roscoe arrived from Washington in his private car, carrying in his own hands the precious documents with the big red seals of the department of the interior, the district attorney of San Elido county appeared before Superior Judge Patten, and entered a "nolle pros" in the eight criminal syndicalism cases. So Vee Tracy got back her ten thousand dollars, and the seven oil workers were turned out half-blinded into the sunshine, and Bunny postponed his premier appearance in the role of that "big bird—which ever may be the name of it—which is reputed to foul his own nest.

III.

Bunny got the news before it was in the papers, and he hastened to take it to Paul and Ruth. Paul had got work as a carpenter, and they had rented a little cottage on the rear of a lot, not too expensive. Ruth had started her nurse's course in one of the big hospitals, and Paul had got some books, and there was a little paradise transported to a working-class part of Angel City. And oh, the happiness that shone in Ruth's face when Bunny came in with the news! And then the strange mixture of anguish and pride, as Paul spoke. "It's good of you, son, to have taken so much trouble, and I do appreciate it; but I'm afraid I can't think me very grateful when you hear what I'm going to do with my freedom."

"What is it, Paul?"

"I've decided to join the Workers Party."

"Oh, Paul!" Bunny's face showed dismay. "But why?"

"Because I believe in their tactics. I always have, ever since my time in Siberia. I waited, because I didn't want to hurt the strike; and after I got arrested I couldn't do anything without compromising the other fellows. But now it won't hurt anyone but myself, so I'm going to say what I know."

"But, Paul! They'll only arrest you again!"

"Maybe so. But this time they'll arrest me as a Communist, and there'll be a trial, and—"

"But they've already convicted so many!"

"That's the way an unpopular cause has to grow—step by step, one way. Here I am, an obscure working man, and nobody pays any attention to what I think or say; but if they try me as a Communist I make people talk and think about our ideas."

Bunny stole a look at Ruth; a pitiful sight, her eyes riveted upon her brother, and her hands clasped tight in fear. It was so like she had looked when Paul was going off to war. It was her fate to see him go off to war.

"Are you sure there's nothing more important you can do, Paul?"

"I used to think I was going to do a lot of great things. But the last few years have taught me that a working man isn't very important in this capitalist world, and he has to remember his place. A lot of us are going to jail, and a lot more are going to die. The one thing we must be sure of is that we help to awaken the rest slaves."

There was a pause. "You're quite sure it can't come peaceably, Paul?"

"The other side has the say about that, son. Do you think they were peaceable during the strike? You should have been there!"

"And you've given up hope for democracy?"

"No, not at all! Democracy is the goal. It's the only thing worth working for. But it can't exist till we've broken the stranglehold of big business. That's a fighting job, and it can't be done by Democrats. Look at the books that Ell has got in his tabernacle, and imagine them getting out to get the best of Verne Hoosier!"

Bunny could not avoid a smile. "That's exactly Verne's own statement."

A continuation of Heinz Neumann's valuable discussion of the recent Ultra-Left offensive in the Comintern (Ultra-Left Manshevism), the editor's review of two recent outstanding Marxian publications, Jay Lovestone's discussion of another notable work on the American revolution, and the usual quota of striking reviews conclude the enumeration of the contents of what is certainly an unusually rich number—both in quantity and in quality—of the Workers Monthly.

THE LION - A Story - By HENRI BARBUSSE

As will be remembered, the leader of the Macedonian Liberation movement, Todor Panitza, was murdered in 1925 by Mencie Karnicin, an agent of the Tsankoff government in Vienna. The murderer, Cernicin, was sentenced to eight years imprisonment and soon afterwards released by the Austrian authorities for "reasons of health."

"Did you know this Todor?"

He put his heads on the newspapers which we were just reading; we sat in a cafe.

"His was a real man!"

"What kind of a man was he then?"

"He was a real man!"

"I told you already that I belonged to a fighting group together with Todor Panitza. He was our leader. Imagine, our whole group had been sent to the district of Drama by the congress in Pirmine. That was in 1906. Drama was, perhaps you don't know it, the dirtiest district of the whole of Macedonia. The tyranny of the Turks, the Turkish propaganda, the Greek landowners and tradesmen and a whole net of spies,—all that burdened the poor peasant population. When they bade us farewell, the committee said to us, as if to encourage us: "If you return, we will see each other again—but you will not return."

"We have stayed there two years, old boy. For a group of fighters like us that was not bad, eh? The reason was that our leader was a man! He knew better than anyone else! He incited the tradesmen and the spies dexterously against each other—by his great tricks. He was certainly not over-sensitive, for instance in the case of Kamburieff (in this family there were also innocent people, whom he saved). At Yantchoglu it was otherwise, however. One demanded from him: 'Subject him!' But Panitza had other tactics. He discussed with him. He explained to him that he had not come to kill the poor Turks, Bulgarians or Greeks; no, he wanted to unite them all in order to fight against the tyranny of the Turks, for he was a friend of the oppressed peoples of Macedonia. Thus it won Yantchoglu for the poor peasants, similarly Crumoglu and Bolgureff, the three Macedonian leaders.

"He never killed without necessity, our Todor! Yes, he was a lion and no cannibal. He did not permit that the powerful Bey of Karklakova, Demir Aga, was killed, despite the fact that the poor shepherds pleadingly asked him for it. 'Kill him,' they said to Todor. But he held another opinion. He spared his life and rather imposed a high fine on him.

"One day in a field we met a group of weapons. Turks from Boadagve. You should have seen their faces when suddenly a group of riders, as if they had risen from the earth, were before them. Yes, we have returned to these reapers their bread and their weapons despite the fact that they were Turks and that we were frightfully hungry. The next day these reapers met some gendarmes. They took away their weapons and their bread and gave them nothing but a thorough beating. The reapers all came to us, filled up our ranks and were more enthusiastic for the good cause than we ourselves!

"He developed plans in his head of which neither you nor I have a proper idea. He said, for instance, to the poor peasants: 'Hide a part of your harvest, then the tradesmen will not be able to exploit you.' The peasants followed his advice and ruined many rich robbers, who were now compelled to sell their land to the peasants.

"In short, he educated them. Finally, all people said about us: 'They are the fighting group which one misrepresents as a group of bandits.'

"He consoled the poor, troubled the tyrants and sold all his property in order to supply us with arms. For 20 years he served the cause of Macedonian revolution.

"And how he worked for the independence of Macedonia! Everybody knows it and yet it must be said over and over again: He was the creator of this idea. Unfortunately the committee which was led by Alexandrov, Panitza and Protogerow, later on split. The autonomists, headed by Protogerow, were finally nothing else but instruments of Bulgarian imperialism.

"And then Tchaulev was murdered in Milan, Dukalo was murdered in Prague.

"The revolutionary Alexandrov was murdered on the order of Protogerow and then the autonomists demanded: 'Now also Panitza must be killed!'

"But that could very easily be said, but how was it to be done?

"Panitza has done more extraordinary things than he had hairs on his head and he knew also how much a thing is done. In Vienna he was safe, for there he was guarded by his friends. He was always attentive, able to cope with any immediate danger; he was elastic, had power over his body—it was absurd to think that he might be murdered'

"Therefore one had to use a trick, a trick like against a lion who is much stronger than oneself. But who was cleverer than he?

"In the group of more or less obscure persons, who surrounded the ministries and the Bulgarian embassy, who lived from the secret fund that was taken from the pockets of the tax payers, there was a young girl by the name of Mencie Carnicin. She was the daughter of a bankrupt usurer, had lived loosely, was ill and very ugly: thin, pale, with hollow cheeks,—she looked almost like a white monkey. She received much money and secured information. Even the confidential name Antonov was told to her.

"And she was able to secure admission into the family of Panitza. Soon she won his pity—the most dexterous tactic towards a great man.

"One day she bought a theater ticket and said to Panitza: 'I have received a theater ticket.' They went to the theater: Panitza, his wife, his friend, who never left him,—and the murderer. They had a box in the Vienna Burgtheater.

"Der Gyot was given. You know it. It is a piece with music, in which a great thunderstorm takes place. For one moment it gets quite dark on the stage and in the whole theater, it lightens and thunders.

"You must imagine what happened now in the box. On the one side sat Panitza, beside him his faithful friend, she behind him. When the thunderstorm on the stage began, she took a revolver from her handbag: she could do that during the thunderstorm without being noticed. With two shots she broke both arms of Panitza's friend, then she shot at Panitza, and got up and went out.

"While Panitza died, the man with the broken arms rose and opened with a powerful kick the door of the box. The murderer had already almost reached the exit of the theater, when also was arrested.

"You have seen her during the trial, how she sat in the courtroom, morally and physically disgusting, and the secret agents and policemen acted a hospital scene. She was carried on a stretcher and played the role of a deadly ill person, who had done a deed of liberation in hatred against a rung of murderers, money and whose soul was just as foul as her she, who had carried out Tschkoff's will only for body."

He kept silent and showed me a newspaper report:

"In Vienna Mencia Carnoclu was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment; however, on account of her health she was released. She was received enthusiastically in Bulgaria, participated in many meetings and was celebrated as a Bulgarian Charlotte Corday."

THUS is world history and THUS it is written.

The Doctor Faces the Social System - By B. Lieber

(Fragment from a new novel, "The Healers.)

William had hard times.

But during all those times none of the patients who had so often said that he had saved their lives and that they were forever devoted to him, none came to see him. They followed the crowd and the gossip. Nobody asked him whether he had his rent or food. He struggled on passively, waiting for better days.

His situation improved when a few Jewish patients found the way to his office. But they were difficult to deal with. They were not as quiet and resigned and submissive as his previous non-Jewish clientele. They were nervous, often on the verge of insanity, questioning every one of his orders and wanting to know the reasons for everything.

How often did he have to treat those who had just come over from Europe and were suffering from the terror, of the great war and from the shocks of the antisemetic persecutions. Their refined eyes were wide open and they gazed around themselves with a constant fear of an impending danger. There were the women who had seen horrors, have cowardly rapes for the act that the people called love. They still felt on their feelie bodies the creeping fingers of strong men, drunk with rut and vodka, the caress of the bloody tyrants, the "knights" and "heroes" of the war. And some were yet pallid and nervous from the recent operation by which they had gotten rid of the fruits of this rape which was grown by impenetrable, brutal, amoral nature.

Like the office of every physician, whether he was aware of it or not, William's was full of sounds from outside. It reverberated the suffering and pain from the street, the houses, the working places. It received the wrecks, the flotsam and jetsam of life. He walls heard the cries, the sobbing, the sighs of the wounded world a repercussion of its endless misery.

He had to repair, to fix human organs and minds, to put them in shape for further use and abuse.

Now that his practice was changing he was dealing more and more with working people. And alas! that was the most unpaid-for work for the physician. No sooner had he improved the body of a workman and sent him back to labor than he returned with the doctor's broken in spirit and with disturbed functions. There was a connection. Was between the factory and the consulting room.

Often William said to himself: "What is the use?"

When one of his friends once greeted him: "How is the mender of broken?" he replied sadly: "Sorry, I am not even that. In the best case a patching up cobbler—and he is more efficient than I am."

Modern industry with its deadly means and disregard of human lives caused disease at every step, acute and chronic. It maimed and killed.

It took the young human animal, sometimes before ten, in the most favorable case the undeveloped youngster of fifteen or so, when he still needed play and much leisure and in the adolescent years, during his greatest crisis and subjected him to work and worry, the fire of which it was impossible to withstand without damage. It surrounded him with all sorts of poisons which, added to his abominable home environment and acquired injurious habits, destroyed his health with the utmost certainty.

No wonder then that long tuberculosis, if it did not kill the patient in halghood, threw between sixteen and twenty-six. It was an industrial disease mainly. And no wonder that those who escaped it developed constitutional troubles at an age when their resistance had reached the limit and died between forty-five and fifty-five.

William sighed:

"That is called living! What am I doing here, what are we doctors all doing?"

Dusts of wood, feathers, flour, stone, wood, ivory, paper, coal, mining, irritated the fine lung tissues. Chemical poisons as solids, liquids, gases deteriorated the heart, blood, nerves, digestive tract. Inhuman gestures for hours at a time bent, distorted, deformed, misshaped, marred the limbs the spine, produced aches and pains, accelerated or slowed up the disturbed internal plumbing. Prolonged exposure to or excess of cold and heat, light and darkness attacked the senses and indirectly the reasonal organs. Fatigue without sufficient compensating rest, monotony at machine work combined with worry and wrong living at home, wrecked the muscles and nerves. And at the same time the industrial accidents amputated and injured hands, legs, eyes. Indeed, there were few workers in possession of all their fingers and perfect limbs or who were not mutilated in some way.

Inasmuch as the workers' health had improved in the last years, including the decline of tuberculosis it was due not to medical care, but to the amelioration in their living conquered with difficulty through organization, solidarity, strikes.

But how few in number were the physicians who understood that!

Most of them treated a backache, a knee-pain due to work, with their usual remedies that did not remedy. As if the patient had fallen down from the moon and had no connection with surrounding outside life, with his environment.

William felt like calling to his colleagues: "Brothers, we're on the wrong track. Let's give it up! Let's resign! Not we are needed, but we are for the doctors. A greater physician than all of us put together is wanting. Mankind itself must right the wrongs if it wishes to be healthy. Or let's all unite, go to mankind and at least try to pull it out into the sunshine, teach it how to live in present conditions and close the factories in time to give rest . . ."

Then he thought: "How can we do it—ourselves are unprepared? How indeed? Health, to met even our trade. What do we know about health and prevention of sickness? . . . So let's be honest and quit! . . . And as to healing disease, even we really do it under today's circumstances! . . . No, we cannot, we cannot so long as you do not reform your living socially and individually. And if you do, you'll need us but little . . . [illegible] one . . ."

But he asked himself: "How about the middle class and the rich?"

No, they were not healthier. They had physical illnesses and mental shortcomings of their castes. There were diseases due to idleness and excesses and what was called the good things of life, as there were diseases of poverty and labor.

Worry and fear were general causes of sickness that did not distinguish between classes. The only difference was the kind of worry, the reason for fear. But the fear of disease was a universal obsession that brought and aggravated sickness in all sections of society.

Nobody had seen a rich man living two hundred years because of his wealth. Wealth was not synonymous with health. Nor did it engender much beauty. The most beautiful specimens of human beings were not to be found among the well-to-do. As a whole they lacked beauty about as much as the overworked majority. Ugliness had become a common human trait, but there was an ugliness of the rich and one of the poor.

The great knaves, the thiefs of human felicity were punished by their own rapacity. They acquired power and momentary pleasure, but that did not make them happy and healthy. It was a civilized anthropophagy where the victims' blood was drained and sucked indirectly, but, as it was sick and unclean, it was converted in the body of the exploiters into new venome and diseases.

What and How to Study Trade Unionism

By SOLON DE LEON.

"If I were deported as a Red and could take with me only one book on American trade unions, I would want that book to be "Trade Unionism in the United States," by Robert F. Hoxie. No other single volume gives so clear a picture of the motives, structure, control, and history of organized labor.

Let us then set out with this excellent guide to study trade unionism. But, Hoxie asks at once, have we only one kind of unionism? Do all unions want the same thing? Clearly not. An analysis of what particular unions want is therefore necessary before we can decide whether unionism is good or bad for the workers.

Beginning with the easy question of structure, Hoxie shows that unions are not even all built alike. Some are—well, what is a local union? A national craft union? A city central body? A state federation? A national or international federation? An industrial union? A general labor union?

Next comes an analysis of union laws, which are more important than the way a union is constructed. Hoxie was the first to apply psychological principles to the study of trade unions. He divided labor organizations into four "functional" types—business unions, friendly or uplift unions, revolutionary unions, and predatory or hold-up unions. Why did each of these spring up? What are examples of each? Which are the most common? Which have advanced the cause of labor, and which have not? Are violence and disregard of the existing law ever justified in union activity?

The next section takes up the historical causes which led to the growth of different union structures and different kinds of activity. The first unions, formed shortly after the American revolution, were naturally local in area and craft in form. Why? Why did nationism develop just then and not earlier? No unsavy workers reading that the legal right to organize was won only after forty years of bitter struggle? During that time the employers repeatedly attacked the unions in court, and had them declared illegal conspiracies. The story of this struggle is well told by Hoxie.

Hoxie advances the idea that union forms tend to follow the structure of industry and of capitalist organization. Does this idea seem reasonable? On this basis, how can you explain the gradual joining of craft unions into city central bodies, state federations, national federations, and finally a federation of national craft unions? The spurt in union organization which took place during the Civil War led to the formation of the Knights of Labor. What sort of body was the Knights? How did it come that the American Federation of Labor, a much later body, was able to overthrow the Knights and assume leadership of the American union movement? Growing dissatisfaction with the Federation led to the organization of the I. W. W. Why did the I. W. W. fail?

Though the unions aim at more democracy in industry, Hoxie points out that in their own affairs they are likely to be controlled by officers and leaders. What influences cause leaders to lose touch and sympathy with their own rank and file? Can you tell from your own experience why the rank and file do not exercise more control? No doubt the membership should secure more voice in ruling affairs—but how try to get it? Without strong left-wing criticism and organization a union is likely to drift into more and more conservative policies. How can left-wing activity be strengthened and improved?

The part dealing with employers' organizations is especially keen and helpful. Most employers are "open shoppers." They seize every opportunity to smash the workers' organizations. Yet Hoxie shows that they have their own organizations and find them very useful in the class struggle. Hoxie vividly describes the methods used by "American plan" employers' associations in fighting unionism. It is well to learn these methods, and be prepared to defeat them. On the other hand, some employers prefer to make business deals with business unions. Can you see any advantage to the bosses in this?

Another brilliant section of the book takes up the question of labor and the law. The capitalist state, always the guardian of the interests of the capitalist class, has written enormous volumes of legislation controlling the activities of workers, individually and in their unions. Do these laws recognize that society is in constant change, or do they assume that what was right or wrong in the past must always be right or wrong? Do they emphasize the individualistic or the social point of view? Do they place property rights above personal and social rights, or just the opposite? Are the laws adjustable to new conditions, or are they rigid and inflexible? Are they clear, or contradictory and confusing? Answer these questions from your own knowledge, and then see what Hoxie says about them.

When unionists and employers agree on wages, hours, and conditions of labor, the procedure is called "collective bargaining." Hoxie clearly shows why the employers' bargaining power is greater than that of the workers. How can the workers increase their bargaining power? Should unions favor or oppose standardization of conditions? How far is it wise for unions to make concessions to employers for the sake of making agreements? Business unions frequently enter into deals with monopolistic employers, to force higher prices for their product. Is this wise union policy? Then there is the whole question of state intervention in labor disputes. Is government mediation or conciliation ever of benefit to the workers? Would you agree to voluntary arbitration of a dispute in which you were interested, if you were bound beforehand to accept the arbitrator's decision? How do you feel about the growing demand of employers to make arbitration compulsory?

Under union programs Hoxie compares a number of different union demands. He shows that these demands are drawn up on immediate considerations, as practical means of improving the conditions of workers in that particular union. He raises a number of interesting tactical questions. Should unions seek to increase output in the hope of getting more wages? Are the unions justified in limiting output? Should unions resist or encourage the introduction of new machinery? See whether you agree with Hoxie's answers.

Scientific management, under capitalism, has two objects—to squeeze more profits out of the workers, and to break up trade unions. Hoxie, who wrote another valuable book on this subject alone, shows how motion study and the stop-watch aid in subdividing processes and destroying the workers' craft skill. Hence arises the question, can the unions co-operate in time study and scientific management plans without endangering their own existence? On the other hand—and this is a point which Hoxie fails to raise—could not scientific management be used to great advantage by the toilers themselves under workers' control of industry?

Poetry and Revolution

The rich man's keg whom our plight could not soften;
Who took our last penny by taxes and cheats,
And lets us be shot like does in the streets,
We weave, we are weaving."
ring with challenge that is little felt in our poetry today.

The poet who merely shrieks at the hideous hells we call factories, or wants to dynamite them like Yank in The Hairy Ape, or scrap them like the humanitarians of the nineteenth century, is not a poet of the revolution. A poet of the revolution must see in the factories the growth of man's control, in machinery the mastery of nature which must be mastered by men. Out of ugliness must come beauty, by transformation of control and ideal, and not by destruction of substance and shift. The machine must be an ally and not a foe. It is the way the machine is controlled that embodies it with so much horror and destructiveness. Modern art has discovered in the lines of the machine the essence of exquisite form. Modern society must find in the machine the sesame to a future freedom of the tool and torture of our present life.

Revolutionary poetry, then, must embody an ideology entirely different from the one that has prevailed. Poetry of protest, as we have said, is not poetry of revolution. Revolutionary poetry involves a whole, life as a connected, coherent, synthetic faith in a new order. It is not one phase of life that it sings, one segment of experience, but life as a whole, like as a connected, coherent, synthetic thing, that it desires to express. Its vision should be inclusive. A new economic life, a new social life, a new politics, a new art life, a new scientific life—all these should be part of its vision. Revolution is not a simple, single thing, with simple, single manifestations. Its basis which is economic eventually comprehends every other experience. The revolutionary poet must acquire the completeness of this conception.

In the final analysis, poets must come to learn their place and function in society. With the ascendancy of the bourgeoisie, the artist has become an exalted curiosity in the social world. He must come to learn, as Lowell aptly expressed it in his essay on Nationality in Literature in 1849, that and also that, to continue to quote from Lowell:

"Poets, however valuable in their sage, [illegible] are not, after all the most important production of a nation"

"If we can frame a commonwealth in which it shall not be a misfortune to be born, in which there shall never be a pair of hands nor a mouth too much, we shall be as usefully employed as if we should flower with a Dante or so, and remain a busy stalk forever after."

When the poet realizes that, after all, he is not an independent creation, but part of a social organism that his work must inevitably express and to which organism he owes a social obligation—then the new attitude of revolutionary poetry will have begun its rapid evolution. Then the poet will see in his old individualism, his elevation of personal eccentricity and vain peculiarities that are minor and insignificant. Then he will see in himself and in his work part of the process of social change and revolution, and will realize that in the greater realities of our social world are themes for the greater poetry of our new era.

Invocation.

O let me greatly live and die
Who am so base and meek of soul;
Give all this coward flesh the lie,
Resistless sweep me to the goal.
Thou song of songs, sweet Liberty,
Strengthen, uplift, inspire me!

When men build barricades from woe
And man them with the heart of hope;
When Misery would strike a blow
Surging from slum, from mill, from stope
Of darkest mine—O bid me rise
And voice thy noble ecstasies!

Scented with wine, and silver clad,
Voluptuous, passion-breathing lutes;
Strung cords vibrating to the mad
Lust after strange forbidden fruits,
"The art for Art's sake"—let him be—
He cannot rise and follow thee.

But I so base and humble, I,
This six-score ten of coward flesh,
Would greatly live and greatly die,
Would slip the thong and loose the leash,
Would sweep with thee to life or death,
Thy wild sweet music on my breath.

—Henry George Weiss.

To a Certain Massachusetts Judge

What shall the future's children speak of you,
You bought and paid for tool of tyranny,
You bloody Jeffreys of New England's Greed?
You cringing, servile lackey, shall spew
The thought of you forth from their memory
As something loathsome, vile in history
No words could pen the depths of, infamy
Too black to fill the minds of people freed.

Crawl on your belly while you live, and lick
The pudgy hand of wealth that fills your purse;
Employ every artifice and trick
To doom the brave . . . We name you with a curse.
Corrupt, debased, swine of a tinselled sty,
Our hate shall haunt your sleep until you die.

—Henry George Weiss.

How the Boiler Was Brought

(From Moscow Izvestia.)

The factory was idle. Buildings a thousand feet long stood gloomy, lifeless, with rows of dark windows looking down upon the yard, which was white with piles of birch cord-wood. The machines were silent; no longer did their cheerful clang and the radiate from the depths of the buildings into the surrounding fields and forests. The slender chimney stacks no longer competed with each other throwing out the dark, undulating curls of smoke which the wind so loved to play. Everything stood; the unsleeping watertpump alone disturbed the stillness with its sighs.

Autumn came. The birch and poplar woods took on more and more golden hue. The field work was drawing to an end, but the factory stood idle. The workers were saddened with doing nothing, were quarrelling among themselves over nothing, were often away from homebrew; they brawled, and at brief intervals between card games they shouted every-body and everybody.

"It did seem sneered maliciously: "Eh! The boiler won't fire itself! "We'll get along by ourselves!" they said. Well, you see now, do you get along?" And what a fine life it was before—there was enough bread, enough of everything. You got, more rubles—you could buy the whole market and could besides drop into the saloon on the way home. What's the use of talking! Now you have tried it without bosses, and still stupidity has been driven out of you."

The factory was not working. During the hydrostatic the main steam generating boiler had burned and the second was at the end of its life. The third boiler was used mainly for the water pump and it could not be used for other purposes.

The machines were standing motionless. Hundreds of people were doing nothing. All repairs had been made, and the master mechanics were making their own hands pails, pans, and other trifles. They had collected enough fuel, raw material, and other oils, but the steel plates for another boiler were lacking. There was nowhere to get them and nowhere to get another suitable boiler.

But one was found. Now, of fine proportions, the locomotive Babcock stood in perfect order, a neighboring factory closed forever. It hid itself in a pine strawberry from careless eyes; but the wise and energetic chairman of the District Soviet of People's Economy appeared on the scene. He made a list of inspection cars his district; and as a result the mechanics are already at work detaching the boiler.

Two gangs of mechanics are working, not sparing their energy and not counting the time: they start at dawn, work, but the joy of their home folks in the boiler acts as their main inspiration. See how it is, how clean, not even a touch of rust, not even of a leak, strongly built, the plates in order.

The it is not large in size, yet according to the mechanics it will be more powerful than were two old ones together.

"Sparks, don't yawn! Cut straighter! Eh, eh! Carefully! Tell! As if welded together . . . . . Good work. The masters were Englishmen . . ."

Clang, clang, clang, clang . . . The bodies of the muscles swell. They are scarcely able straighten their fingers in the intervals. There are even those who do this . . . Clang, clang, clang . . . The head of a bolt flies with into a corner. Two hundred and eight bolts in addition, and how much energy one bolt has! Even to get the bolt itself out is quite a chore.

"Ivan Zakhar Petrovich! We didn't start right. Have to cut off the heads from the inside. Cut them! This side it's hard to get the bolt out. Eh! Place to swing! Pipes in the way everywhere."

They both crawl into the boiler. It is cold there and their shirts are wet with perspiration. It's hard to breathe; not much room to swing, either. They remember; no place to straighten up. The boiler is filled with cotton, still their heads are ringing with the noise.

"Several They must hurry. The children are waiting. Bang, bang, bang, bang, bang.

Now the boiler is free. The attached parts are ready to fit, and made ready for the journey. Slowly chains are straightening out, growing taut, and only the boiler is rising, higher and higher. Crash! Heavy, short, powerful blow. The rear end has been sent back upon the saddle. The hook of the chain is broken.

"Ivan Zakhar Petrovich! See what good iron the boiler is made of! It glitters with sparks, but here not a crack."

"The Lord saved us. God pity us if it had broken down!"

The sailor, Nikifor Ivanovich, returned from the shop is a skeptic and sibalist: "It has nothing to with God. The hook was simply weak; but I have another in reserve. It will hold."

From the watchman of the factory they secure additional tackle. The reinforced tackle is applied to the pipes. Again the chain straightens. The heavy mass goes up like a balloon and hangs beneath the crane.

"Start it, turn it! Go on!"

The crane easily gives the desired direction to the heavy weight. In a couple of hours the drum and rollers ready to be moved out. Now the battle have their turn. Between the smoke pipes are put rollers to prevent any bending. These are supported on three frames on hewed log runners.

Slowly the immense affair moves toward the door, but it cannot pass thru. The rear part of the saddle is too large. To break the wall is dangerous, for over the door are windows and over these are vestibules. What is to be done? Nichevo! This has been foreseen. The carpenters are already busy; the lintel is already propped up on horses. The sides of the door frame have been taken out and the rest of the boiler is outside. Here there is waiting for it a large truck with iron wheels.

The whole artel* has arrived to remove the desired guest. Soon it is put on the truck, balanced, bolted to it, lashed with ropes. Breast collars are attached in order to help the animals, and supports are fastened to the boiler to keep it balanced while in motion; the whole affair is once more looked over. Tomorrow on the road—home!

In the early morning three pairs of steers and two pairs of horses are hitched to the truck. The drivers get in line. "With God's help! Let us pray." Sllant'ich, who, the old, is lively and energetic, begins the boisterous dubinushka. They bare their heads and make the sign of the cross. "Ei, dubinushka, oho! Once, now it goes by itself!" The others join in. "Once, once! Tsobe, tsob! Tsobe, tsob! On, on! A, a, a-a-a! It goes, goes, goes! Oh, yes, it goes! Oh, yes!" Trumphingly and unwillingly the boiler begins to move.

Only to reach the pike, to get out to it! Well, there is the first trouble—the gate is too low. They turn around it, but the rear wheels sink into the ground up to the axle. "To the left, plank in under the wheels, ahead!" sounds the command. Dubinushka, shouts, aghe, curses, profanity—all blend into a mighty roar. The rope cuts into the hands, the friction raises blood blisters, the wheels are cracking, the planks are bending, the horses are pulling to the side, the steers are stubbornly straining, and the boiler moves, to sink again at the first moment's halt.

But things are different on the pike. The animals are able to pull it smartly. The horses begin to accustom themselves to the slow pace. The—men begin to smoke, now that they are free to do so. Behind them is a long train of wagons with provisions for the men and feed for the animals, with clothes and tools, extra traces, and axes.

"It's going! But a mulla crossed the road!" (It was a backwoods place and the people were superstitions.) A mulla—he is the same as a priest—some mishap might occur!

There are now worries ahead of them—two bridges, one old and strong, the other unsafe. A mechanic orders planks put under the wheels as a safeguard. The first bridge is passed safely; the second begins to crack and rumble as if protesting against this overpowered weight in its old age. But nichevo! the front wheels are already on the ground. Suddenly the rear wheels, jumping off the planks, fall upon the bridge with a crash. The whole bridge creaks and begins to sink. "To the beams back!" but the artel is ready and does not lose its head. The members hasten to help their futuro breadwinner off upon the earth.

They curse the mulla. The carpenters remain to repair the bridge. Everything moves ahead. They breathe freely—the danger is over. But their joy is premature. The iron axle bends. What to do now? They move on—perhaps it will hold. They go five versts. But things grow worse and worse—the axle bends at the point of the weight. They unharness the horses and steers and begin to fry potatoes and boil soup.

But Sllant'ich has no appetite, for he doesn't know what to do—there can be no thot of going back to the factory, it is too far now; the village blacksmith is not able to make the repairs. The mechanics hold a consultation; they go around, and the conclusion is to turn the axle and let the weight straighten it.

"Nichevo, comrades! Let us spit upon the mullai We will reach our destination."

And they begin to raise the rear of the truck, turned the axle, and started their journey anew. Things go nicely —would that they would continue so. The artel is cheerful. Only when going uphill or after having stopped do they need to be helped. The old sinner Sllant'ich is satisfied—he starts the songs with such liveliness that the men grow enthusiastic. (The songs hit everyone—the gentlefolks, the authorities, even the factory workers.) They laugh aloud, playful like a herd of colts, and at the same time they also pull like good horses.

There, beyond the railway, on the village road it will be harder. Nevertheless they begin to calculate the time of their reaching home. They are moving quite rapidly, when suddenly someone notices something wrong at the back of the truck. Alas, several spokes are broken at the rim, which is bending. They can go no farther. A stop is made. Seemingly the mulla was in the clutches of hiccups that day; poor thing, he might really become ill.

*An artel is an organization of laborers something like our crew or gang, which makes contracts for jobs, has its own elected foreman, and is paid by the job, i.e. gets the contractor's profits in addition to the usual wages. Artel is a Tartar word meaning "freedom-ly." This form of labor organization is prevalent in Russia in every gainful occupation.

A Big Stick—a workers' song.

An Incident in the Life of Production.
By N. FALKOVSKII.

The whistle is taken down by Sllant'ich, they hire sick him to bring more bread, as the supply is getting low. The ship was made in the form of the road, far from inhabited places. They name the boiler Mauser. It is decided to call it and go to the nearest village. The people meet them in a rather unfriendly way, refusing to let them into their huts. What else can the peasants do? There are in the artel twenty-seven men and twenty beasts of burden; there is little feed and no money.

So the majority have to sleep, some in the barns, some under wagons, and some in the open. The night is rainy, windy, and cold. But what can they do? Their clothes are poor; their slippers are made of the bark of trees, and the rags wound around their legs are wet thru. They again ask to be let into the huts. Some are let in, not all. Toward morning a number are feverish. They get up early, eat what they have—potatoes—warm themselves in the sunshine, and the feverish feeling disappears. The old rascal Senlushkin (nicknamed "Mouse") makes a clever mouse; squinting his watery, mouse-like eyes he begins to beg: "Comrades, I do not feel well; let me go home. For what help can I be to you?"

"Stop that. We all are sick. When the artel elder returns, ask him. He might let you go; and should you die, we will bring you home on the bolier, just like a general on a gun."

The critical time comes; the bread is gone, no more potatoes, and what money can tollers have? There is nothing to do. They have to go "to shoot" about the village. They feel ashamed and sorry, but how can they help it? To go home? Would the artel allow this? Somehow they satisfy their hunger, and Senlushkin even returns with a sackful —he is a master at shedding "mouse" tears.

On the fourth day does Sllant'ich return. He brings the required wheel, an iron bar for the support of the rear axle, bread and money for the folks. He was told at the factory that the boiler was not taken down completely; it was necessary to cut the sprichts and to bring the batteries separately. The load would have been easier, but who could do the welding again, as the mechanic had said? But what is the use of talking about this? Everybody gets to work. Hurry up, hurry up!

They reach the railway, and—a stoppage again. The load cannot be moved over the railway track without the permission of the authorities, and, still worse, the boiler cannot pass under the telegraph wires. Sllant'ich runs to and fro, but he cannot do anything. They have to leave the boiler and go home. No little cursing and profanity is let loose at the expense of the factory authorities. They, the devils, busy themselves with tea-drinking and sugar-sucking, and drive us naked into the cold and rain without proper provisions! They don't deserve anything. They take joy-rides behind a team, instead of inspecting and doing something in regard to the telegraph wires.

The engineers are called, but there is no help from them. A mechanic leaves and is absent several days. He arranges everything and the people are sent again to the boiler. Now the factory mechanic has to be with the artel all the time.

The telegraph wires are raised and the boiler crosses the track easily. But it rains the whole day. The people at the factory will long remember this road and tell their children about it. For is it easy to haul the boiler on a bad road in the autumn mire? It's slippery, the wheels sink, one can hardly get it uphill or let it downhill. One has to repair bridges and cover road ditches. The people are hungry and in scanty clothing. Oh, how hard it is. But what can be done? Everyone has to help to his utmost. They clench their teeth and grasp the ropes, the levers, put on the breast collars—and forward! Nichevo, it will be done! The boiler has to be brot home. We'll do it!

See, the mechanic is scolding: "Loafers, you don't want to work!" The people feel offended: "How is that, we don't want to work? Is it easy in mud, in cold here, without eating and drinking? Do you need the boiler? Do not the children and women folks wait for us?" The people feel insulted. They become agitated, noisy, and abusive. But what's the use of hammering the teeth with the tongue—the boiler has to be brot home!

At last home is reached! The day is dry and the sun warming. All pipes and saddles are decorated with evergreen. The whole factory comes to meet it. For a moment the difficulties of the bad road are forgotten. Everybody feels easy and gladness is tickling the heart. The steers stop. The manager stands by. The leader sets the tune, "We bow to the engineer." The latter smiles, as if saying, "Sing—well, why not sing? You have toiled enough. Ei, dubinuska, oho! Once, it goes by itself—"

They arrive. There is no end of talk and questions. But they cannot pay much attention to these. They rush to embrace their children, to eat porridge, into the bathhouse (the committee has not forgotten them), and finally to rest, for their bodies are creaking and aching.

The next day the people are as busy as ants. The old boiler is thrown out and a new foundation is laid, on which the new boiler is placed. But there are no boiler makers for the bolting work. The blacksmiths have to do it. But the connections for the steam pipes are missing. Where to get them?

Progress in a Soviet Factory

By C. A. Hathaway

To begin with, I must explain how I happen to know something about a textile factory and its progress. During the month of July, this year, I, together with a number of other foreign comrades, worked in the Nikolsky factories of the Orekevo-Zuevo Textile Trust, a unit of the state textile syndicate. While there we attended all the meetings of the workers and took a full part in the life of the factory.

And I want to say quite frankly that on the morning we started to work, I was considerably disappointed. As a mechanist, I was assigned to the machine shop, in which repairs were being made on the machinery of the dyeing factory. I was given a lathe to operate that had been imported from England 34 years ago. Workers who know something of machinery will need no further explanation. For the benefit of those who lack machine experience, I merely add that this machine was much worse than a three year old "Henry" (if you never owned one, ask an owner)—when we fixed it up in one place, it fell apart in another. Furthermore, this lathe was little different from the balance of the equipment in the machine shop.

Overcoming Obstacles.

My disappointment, however, changed to almost incredulous surprise after talking to the workers. They had a full realization of how bad their equipment was and of the need for new, modern machinery, but they also knew of the gigantic progress that had been made, even with this old machinery, since the revolution. This they explained to us in detail.

The machine shop, they said, (and we later found out for ourselves) was not an exception—the machinery in all the departments of this factory had likewise been imported 25 or more years ago. During the period of the war the capitalist owners had run the factories to their utmost capacity with a minimum of shut-downs for repairs. In the period of revolution and civil war practically no repairs were made and no repair parts for this imported machinery were available because of the capitalist blockade. Whole departments stood idle, to which ceased with the windows broken, the roofs leaking, and the machinery not adequately protected. The major attention of the country was directed towards the defense of the revolution from its internal and external enemies.

After finally defeating the counter-revolution in 1921, they set about the task of rehabilitating the industries. Repairs of both buildings and equipment were undertaken on as large a scale as the available manufacturers of the machines, for they made blue prints, patterns and castings of all of the machine parts and produced them in their own machine shop, in schools connected with the factory (which I have dealt with in another article) they turned out designers, draughtsmen, pattern-makers and machinists. In this way they are laying the basis for building their own textile machinery in the very near future.

After these machines are repaired, they are not set back in their former places. They are set up in accordance with the new plans that have been made. For example, all of the spinning machinery is being put together in one set of buildings, the weaving machinery into another and the thread making machinery into the third. All of these units are being so arranged that they feed directly into the bleaching, printing and dyeing plant, from which the finished goods are sent to the warehouse. The state syndicate in Moscow receives the orders for all textile goods. There the orders are distributed among the various factories, from which the goods are shipped directly to the purchaser.

If by any chance the former owners were to come back to Orekevo to reclaim their property they would have a pleasant time trying to decide which buildings and machinery belonged to them. They would find it so hopelessly mixed up that they would be compelled by the force of circumstances to continue the operation as one plant. However, we need not worry. This very progress now being made precludes any possibility of their ever coming back.

A Few Concluding Facts.

In addition to the general production figures given at the beginning of the article the following items are even more startling as evidence of what has been accomplished by the workers during their short period of industrial management.

In spite of the fact that most of the spinning and weaving machinery dates back to 188, i. e., 44 years old, production has greatly increased.

Output in Spinning Mill per 1,000 Spindles.

| 1913 | 1926 |
|---|---|
| 111 poods of yarn. | 122 poods of yarn. |

Output in Weaving Factories.

|---|---|
| No. 1 | |
| 17.7 running meters | 24. running meters |
| No. 2 | |
| 19.5 running meters | 24.6 running meters |
| No. 3 | |
| 23. running meters | 23.8 running meters |

Output in Bleaching, Dyeing and Printing Plant.

| 1913 | 1926 |
|---|---|
| 1.10 per man per day | 1.1 per man per day |

In the dyeing plants mass production of the printed cloth has commenced. The highest production of the two former plants during the peak periods of

The Nizhni Novgorod fair was 3,500 pieces of cloth per day. In the one plant now with the same machinery concentrated together in a rational manner the normal daily output is from 8,000 to 8,500 pieces. Under pressure it can reach 10,000 pieces or more per day.

Each set of factories in the state syndicate are now beginning to specialize on a relatively few types and patterns of thread and cloth. The Nikolsky factory, for example, is just making 50 patterns of cloth instead of 478 before the revolution; the numbers of yarn have been reduced from 40 to 28, the assortment of cotton has been reduced from 17 to 10; and beginning with the end of this year the assortment of semi-finished cloth will be cut down to 32. This specialization greatly increases the possibility of further increasing the production.

These great results have been accomplished in four years' time. It will require another five years to complete their plans of rebuilding and reorganizing the Nikolsky factory, but each year as the end approaches its conclusion, the production will increase at the same or possibly at an even more rapid rate than these figures show. In addition to the work of rebuilding the old machinery, $2,500,000 worth of new machinery has been purchased by the Orekevo trust which will be delivered and set up by the middle of next year. With this new machinery operating, the workers claim they will more than double the pre-war production—and after working with them, I have become imbued with their spirit, I believe they can.

I asked the "White" director, the specialist, who was to be given the credit for these accomplishments. He said, "The credit for what has been accomplished in this factory belongs to the Communist Party and the trade unions. As a result of their organized struggle for improvement and their determination to overcome what seemed to me insurmountable difficulties—they are responsible for even the technical improvements."

How the Boiler Was Brought.

Nichevo, there is a moulder and there are also carpenters. The missing parts are made now. Everything is done by themselves, and with what care. One hundred and ninety pounds of pressure is applied, and not a drop from bolts or saddles. The women folk carry heaps of clay and bricks and the masons perform their part. The mechanics painstakingly go over everything in detail. Everything is ready. Only to heat it. The fire is made, at first a slow one; this is gradually increased. After a few days no draft appears. The firemen are laughing: "Engineers, eh! There is your boiler. When you clean it, there is only a little draft, but when you open it, no draft at all to speak of. A housewife has more draft in her kitchen stove."

The mechanic comes, he looks the boiler over and says: "The heat is more; the draft will come."

"From where? Heat is, yourself!"

But in front of the factory office there is a great rush. The people from all near-by villages come to register for work. All will be taken, for the factory will start in full blast.

After a week of heating, the draft really appears —and what a draft! On opening the furnace a little, the burning logs in it begin to dance. On Monday the factory will start work. It is time. Winter is at hand. The firemen are agitated; it seems to be easy to raise steam, but how about lowering it? They have to work with the boiler for years to come.

Monday comes. The smoke stacks are beflagged. A melodic whistle of three notes cuts the dreaming morning air and is carried into the distance over the fields, streams, and forests—a final call to work. From the surrounding villages the girls and boys are coming with a quickened gait to work.

Another cheerful thrill—the sleeping kingdom has come to life. Out of the windows of the boiler room rushes a motley, forous roar of machines; the shuttles are knocking, trying to outrun each other; the drive shafts are crashing like machine guns; the revolutions of the shaft transmission give out a stiehly slapping noise; one hardly hears the rumbling of the belts; and in the distant carpenter shops the circular saws are screaming in falsetto.

In this wonderful harmonious concert of machines is born and flourishes the best hymn of all—the hymn of toil, the hymn of victorious struggle, the hymn to titanic creative-man.

BORAH SAYS 'WE HAVE NO RIGHT IN NICARAGUA'

Thinks Sacasa Is Only President

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.— A conference today between President Coolidge and Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, failed to shake the Idahoan's opposition to intervention in Nicaragua.

"We have no business in Nicaragua," said Borah, as he left the White House.

"Backing Wrong Horse."

He further expressed the opinion that the state department is "backing the wrong horse" in the troubled little republic.

"In my opinion," continued Borah, "Dr. Sacasa is the constitutional president of the country and should have been recognized under the five-power Central American treaty."

Dr. Sacasa is recognized by Mexico, while the state department recognizes Adolfo Diaz, and has dispatched warships and marines to support his regime and to prevent Sacasa from getting arms from Mexican sources.

Made Own Treaty.

"So far as the Nicaraguan treaty is concerned, we made it with ourselves," Borah continued. "We sent marines down there in 1911. They killed 150 Nicaraguan and set up a clerk for an American corporation as president. It was with this president we negotiated the Bryan-Chamorro treaty."

Borah scouted the state department's contention that the Sacasa revolutionists are menacing American lives and property.

Got Letter.

"I have just received a letter from a business man who has been in Nicaragua for 17 years," said Borah. "He has all his interests in the very heart of the territory controlled by Sacasa. He says he has never seen or heard of any American property being seized or damaged, and no American lives have been taken in the present revolution, nor have any American lives or property been threatened by either side down there.

"We have no business in Nicaragua."

Borah declined to discuss his conference with Coolidge.

LOS ANGELES WORKERS TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY OF DAILY WITH BANQUET

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—Readers and friends of The DAILY WORKER will gather here at a banquet on Saturday, Jan. 15, to celebrate the third anniversary of the establishment of the only militant workingclass daily newspaper in America. The affair is expected to be one of the biggest events arranged by Los Angeles militants and will mark a new high point in support of The DAILY WORKER in this section.

The banquet will be held at 8 o'clock Saturday night at the Cooperative Center, 2708 Brooklyn avenue. A plate dinner will be served. The banquet will cost $1 per person.

An elaborate musical program has been arranged for the evening and well known speakers will talk.

Everyone is invited to attend this affair.

But there are deserts in South America also, and American soldiers drawn from the loins of the working class may be pointing their guns on the midday sun one of these days and their lips may be longing for a drink of lemon pop while their minds dwell on the question: Who the hell are we fighting for?

THE lads who fought in the world war and survived know what this is all about. I have yet to meet the returned "hero" who did not realise that he was a sucker. Yet Kellogg will get "heroes" to fight against Mexico, if war there will be. And it looks almost like a certainty. American capitalism, full of champagne and vinegar needs expansion. "Our" banks are bursting with gold. South America is "our" sphere of influence. There, profits can be made so that the daughters of our ruling classes can marry impecunious European counts and afford the luxury of half a dozen divorces a year.

WHAT right has the United States to interfere in Nicaragua? Only one. The United States has the power to interfere and get away with it. At least for the time being. That is what counts. But power is not eternal. That is, power exerted by any particular class is not everlasting. The czar of Russia once had power to send Lenin into exile. And Trotsky, Zinoviev and Stalin. But it did not last forever. Neither will the power that is now behind Coolidge's threats to South America. The people of the "backward" countries are organizing. Look at China, Syria, Egypt and the Latin American countries! The Chinese are just now in the front of the fray and leading the vanguard against imperialism. Watch China! India will soon raise the standard of revolt and then imperial Britain will bite the dust. Egypt will follow. Then the colonies of France, Holland and the United States will start into line. This may be considered a pipe dream, but the dreams of the optimist are usually more real than the skepticism of the pessimist.

IS it surprising that world capitalism should hate the Soviet Union? The law of self-preservation is reckoned to be the first law of nature and it looks that way. The capitalist system does not want to die. The capitalists and their parasites do not want to go to work. They find plenty of excuses to justify their existence. They can hire plenty of professors and writers to prove that without them the world would go to devil. And, as long as the masses can satisfy their needs with food, clothing and a place to sleep, plus other little things that are usually regarded in connection with the noble aim of perpetuating the species, they will allow the capitalists to rule the roost. But when the belly begins to play a drum snare solo on the backbone and the slave cannot afford to even think of the current Follies chorus, there will be a different tale to tell.

CAN the threat of war against Mexico be stilled? It is doubtful. The American Federation of Labor officialdom is a servant of Wall Street. Therefore it will not be possible to mobilize the full power of the American labor movement immediately against militarists. It is now possible to see how the strings that made the catholic agents in the American Federation of Labor too were pulled by the vatican. "William Green turned against Mexico ostensibly because Mexico fought the catholic church. That was not the reason. It was because Wall Street gave orders to Green that it was preparing for a break with Mexico unless the Calles government surrendered to American imperialism. Calles refused to surrender.

THIS war against Mexico and the liberal forces of Nicaragua is as shameless a piece of bullying as was ever pulled off in any section of the world. There is only one position for the American workers and farmers to take. That is a policy of unalterable opposition. Wall Street is out to conquer South America, but the hazards will have the pleasure of picking many capitalist bones during the struggles. Our bourgeoisie will be making the merry rich in London, Paris and Berlin while the sons of the working class will be dodging the bullets and suffering all the other hardships that are inseparable from war.

Young Lives Taken in Grade Crossing Crash

SUPERIOR, Wis., Jan. 9.—Four persons are dead, three are not expected to live, and fifteen others are being treated in hospitals today, following a grade crossing accident near here.

The tragedy occurred when a Great Northern passenger train bound from Superior to Minneapolis crashed into a street car carrying 23 passengers.

GUN ELEVATION ON U. S. SHIPS BRINGS PROTEST

Violation of Treaty Is Charged

LONDON, Jan. 9. — The old controversy over gun elevations has been revived here by reports of an American congressional resolution to increase the elevation of guns on old United States warships.

Violates Treaty.

The admiralty apparently is unconcerned but the foreign office is prepared to protest that such a step would be a violation of the entire spirit of the Washington treaty.

One admiralty official pointed out that, from the practical viewpoint of the most modern school of gunnery experts, the limit of accuracy of big gun fire had already been reached before the Washington conference and added range would only mean a further loss of accuracy.

Diplomats Worry.

The diplomats, however, while admitting that the question has not yet assumed practical importance, insist that any alteration of the American elevation would be a distinct contravention of the Washington treaty.

dangerous places to protect the oil interests. The American people ought not to be played with in this connection. It is a shame on this government, this senate, this congress and this president."

Stirred by Hearst.

The administration was defended by Senator Edge (R) of New Jersey who said the present policy had protected the American lives and property. The debate came when Wheeler read jingo statement by William Randolph Hearst praising the administration's policy.

The Coolidge administration is "deliberately and consciously driving toward war with Mexico," Representative Hnddleston (D) of Alabama, charged on the floor of the house today.

Nat Casuel.

"These quarrels with Mexico over land and oil laws are not just casual," he said. "These actions in Nicaragua are not just casual. They are only done for a purpose and that purpose is war."

Huddleston declared that business interests which seek great profits in Mexico are behind the war movement.

"They are augmented," he said, "by certain ecclesiastical forces who believe they have been abused."

Huddleston danounced "this false and contemptible statement that Mexico is a Bolshevistic nation," which was carried in some newspapers after a state department conference.

Coolidge Wants War.

"That was not accidental, it was deliberate, and it seems impossible that any official would do such a thing," he said. "There isn't doubt but that President Coolidge has yielded to the forces that want war with Mexico."

The administration of Admiral Latimar in Nicaragua was declared "contrarious" by Huddleston, and President Diaz of Nicaragua, who is being aided by the United States, is a tool of New York financial interests, he said.

Latin-America Will Fight.

"I fear that a war with Mexico will be so terrible that the sister nations of Mexico in Latin-America will feel that they cannot longer submit to a bully and an overlord in the western hamisphere," he declared.

The meeting was presided over by Anthony Ramagila, who recently suffered a similar attack. It unanimously passed a resolution protesting against the "fascisti" methods of the International, and pledging those present to "refuse any financial support to the International, which would only use the workers' money for attacks like this upon the workers themselves."

Ettore Frisina, Giovanni Di Gregorio, Enea Sormenti, Francesco Coco, Charles Zimmerman, Ben Gitlow and Nino Caprafo were other speakers at the meeting. It was one of the largest and most enthusiastic meeting of Italian workers held in some time.

Kalinin Speaks to the Farmers

Kalinin speaking at the first Jewish Peasants' Congress at Odessa.

MOSCOW—(By Mail)—At the first Jewish peasants' congress of the Soviet Union held in November at Odessa, Comrade M. Kalinin spoke in the name of the government.

"I doubt whether in any other country is there a possibility for a Jewish peasants' congress," began Comrade Kalinin. "It is characteristic for our country; the only country in the world where all nationalities and races have full possibility for development.

No Oppression Now.

"Tsarism tried to assimilate the Jews by force and for that reason persecuted them. The Soviet state does not oppress any nationality and therefore does not care to assimilate the Jews. The Soviet state strives to liberate the working masses of all nationalities from all forms of oppression, including national oppression.

"The October revolution which broke freedom to the laboring masses at the same time hit hard the main material base of the Jewish population: hit the Jewish poor living in the cities and villages by small trading.

Praises Jewish Culture.

"The Jewish population as an ayeraga is quite cultured, and should take its place in the upbuilding of our proletarian state."

Discussing the success of the Jewish laboring masses in agriculture, Kalinin said: "The success that we have in populating the Jews on land are microscopically small. It cannot be otherwise. The creation of a national territory with an agricultural basa is a great undertaking. Agriculture does not provide immediate success. A great undertakinge require great efforts.

Is Next Problem.

"A great problem facas the laboring Jewish masses: to turn a majority of the Jewish population into an agricultural mass. Into farmers, and thereby preserve its nationality. The government can not spend large sums for that purpose, but it is providing some money and is granting land. While selecting the land we took in consideration the hehits and peculiarities of the Jewish people. The land that was granted needs much effort and investments. If we would grant this land to some other nationality, we should not have enough funds to make it a self-sustaining concarn. While granting this land to the Jewish people we are elded somewhet by the Jewish capitalists from the bourgeois countries. There are such interesting coincidents of conflicting interests.

Why the Capitalists Aid.

"Our own Jewish capitalists we sefely liquidated economically. The Jewish capitalists abroad feel somawhat guilty before the Jewish poor, which is similar to the relations felt by our former nobility to the peasants. If the Jewish capitalists believe in god, they are attempting to gain for themselves a place in haaven not far from Moses, and if they will not part with some of their money, they will be asked in the 'other world'—What did you do while the Jewish people were creating their future, creating its own national territory?' That is the reason why they are giving money.

Soviet Union is Fatharland.

"It is impermissible for the Soviet Union that from a proletarian country the Jewish leboring masses shall go somewhere else to look for their future. (Applenas). The Soviet Union should be the homeland of all the laboring masses, including the Jewish, and a greater homeland then any Palestine. (Great Applause.)

"The Jews and the Russians have a superstition that the homeland of the Jews is not Russia but Palestina. The Jewish people lived for a thousand years on the territory of Russia. The Jews, just as much as the Ukrainians and the Russians, have a right to consider the Soviet Union as their fatherland—their socialist fatherland. We are not afraid of national supremacy (oppression) because by building their own future the Jewish people are at the same time building the future of the Soviet Union. The Jewish people who are tilling the land in Crimea are not competing with anybody, but are creating new riches for the benefit of the Soviet Union.

"Agricultural labor—creative labor—will finally bring about full equality of the Jewish people in all phases of labor.

Is the Beginning.

"So far the Jews have a small fatherland, just one colony (county), but they have the territory, the beginning. (Great applause). In all phases of public life, politics, science, the Jews take a proper place. I have no doubt that also in agriculture they will not take the last place.

"The government considers of great importance the settlement of the Jews on land, and I may say in the name of the government, that if the foreign capitalists will ceass to help in this, the Soviet government will help as much as possible to settle the leboring Jewish masses on land."

BIG POTASH RING UNITES FRANCO-GERMAN INDUSTRY

LONDON.—A huge industrial merger of great economic and political significance is soon to be added to the already long series of combines that have arisen in Germany in the recent period of the revival of imperialism. Following the dye-stuff, the steel and other industries, a cartel of the potash mines are now to be combined into one company.

The strength of this new combine comes from its raw meterial monopoly rether then from its control of patents and special processes, as is the case in the dye-stuff and steel combines.

International in Scope.

It is especially noteworthy that this potash combine does not limit itself to Germany but includes much of the French potash mines. To conclude the arrangements on this huge international cartel a series of conferences have been arranged in Paris.

This monopolist venture is haing financed from London, by a city bank with large German connections. It also has the unofficial support of the German government.

It is expected that this new combine will co-operate closely with the recently formed dye combine. This is important particularly in view of the fact that the dye-stuff combine has had little control over potash.

International Workers' Unity Only Answer.

This new move of German and French capitalism has obviously great international significance. The inclusion of French and German concerns in so important an industry as potash provides one of the economic bases for the recent friendly approach between Germany and France. The development of an international cartel of such dimensions, moreover, increases many times the power of Prench and German capitalism in its offensive against the French and German working class and points out again in more concrete terms to the workers, not only of France and Germany but of the whole world, the burning need for International Trade Union Unity.

SAN FRANCISCO—John J. Michaelson, suava young Chicagoan, is in the city prison on charges of passing worthless checks amounting to between $5,000 and $10,000.

Michaelson was arrested after an orgy of spending in preparation for his marriage to Miss Paula Blenio, after a whirlwind courtship. Charles Blenio, his fiancee's brother, had arranged for a farewell dinner, following which the couple was to have gone to Reno to be married.

Blenio was notified of Michaelson's impending arrest just before the dinner. He persuaded officers to postpone it. Michaelson was taken into custody as he sat in his car awaiting Miss Blenio and her sister, who was to accompany them.

FATHER KNICKERBOCKER STIRS ETHER AND SAYS, "HELLO, JOHN BULL"

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The voice of the old world sounded across the Atlantic today and the voice of the new world echoed back.

At 8:44 o'clock this morning commercial radio-telegraph service was inaugurated for the first time in history between New York and London.

The telephone conversation lasted five minutes and partial at both ends heard each other distinctly, altho there was some static.

The price of the new trans-ocean telephone service is $25 a minute.

Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph company, sitting in the telephone company's office in New York, talked with Sir G. Evelyn P. H. Murray, secretary of the general post office of Great Britain, for two minutes.

Then Sir Evelyn Murray, in London, talked to Gifford for three minutes.

"We could hear each other clearly," said Gifford, "altho there was more static than during previous tests."

French Militarism Frees French Officer Slayer and Convicts Victims

BERLIN.—An example of such acceses of militarism as evan the old kaisar's army could not match has recently come up in a case of a French officer in the army of occupation who was acquitted by a French court martial after he had shot one German citizen and wounded another. The German who was a potash worker, as to escape death as well as other Germans concerned in the case received sentences of two years' imprisonment.

The greatest indignation is expressed in the German press which seems to forget the unsavory details of German militarism, old and new. The German ambassador to Paris has also made representations on this head. Among the working class, French and German, sentiment is being aroused for the evacuation of all German territory occupied by French armies.

MOONEY PARDON REFUSAL SCORED BY FEDERATION

A telegram expressing the regret of the Chicago Federation of Labor on the action of Gov. Richardson of California in refusing to grant a pardon to Thomas J. Mooney, victim of the San Francisco bomb frame-up, has been sent to Mooney at San Quentin by John Fitzpatrick, president of the federation, and E. N. Nockels, secretary.

"Your friends in Chicago regret sincerely the manner in which Governor Richardson treated your petition for pardon," said the message. "Surely every intelligent person could possibly be without definite opinion as to whether or not you have been the victim of a rank injustice. The world is convinced that you were railroaded on perjured testimony. Nineteen twenty-seven would have been more cheerful for you and for labor if your petition for a pardon had received the consideration we believe it merits."

Governor Bidestaps Issue.

Gov. Richardson denied Mooney's petition consideration on the pretext that, because his term of office expires in two weeks, he would not have "enough time."

Mooney is serving a life sentence, imposed when he was charged with staging the preparedness day bombing incident in San Francisco in 1916.

SAYS MELLON IS REAL INFLUENCE BACK OF WOOD

And Back of Mellon Is Pittsburgh Coal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.— Secretary of the Treasury Mellon was named today before the senate interstate commerce committee as the "real influence" behind the appointment of Cyrus E. Woods of Pennsylvania, to the interstate commerce committee.

Voicing strong opposition to Woods' appointment, on the gronnds that he had been associated with Pennsylvania coal interests, Senator Gof (R) of West Virginia, declared that Mellon, who has an interest in the Pittsburgh Coal company, was "more responsible than any one else" for the appointment.

Opposition to his appointment grew after revelations that he holds more than $400,000 in railroad and industrial stocks and bonds.

Woods, a former American ambassador to Spain and Japan, recently acted as campaign manager for Sen. George Wharton Pepper in the $3,000,000 Pennsylvania senatorial primary.

Woods Recommends Self.

Woods said he had talked with Mellon as to his qualifications for the office. He did not discuss the lake cargo coal case, which is now pending before the commission, he said.

"I did not know the case was pending," Woods declared. He advised the committee that if his appointment were confirmed he would not participate in the lake cargo case, nor in future phases of it. "I should consider it in bad taste," he said.

Woods declared he did not seek the appointment; it "came out of a clear sky" to him when Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania asked him to take the place.

The committe inquired into Woods' activities as campaign manager for Senator George Wharton Pepper in Pennsylvania, a recent $3,000,000 senatorial primary. Woods denied that he acted as "boss" of the combined campaigns of Pepper and John S. Pisbee, who won the republican nomination for governor. He declared that he had acted as "moderator" between the two factions when each became suspicious of the other group, but knew nothing of the money collected or expended on behalf of either.

FURTHER DELAY OF THE A. F. OF L. AUTO CAMPAIGN

Jurisdictional Clash Prevents Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(FP)—Further months of delay of the organizing campaign promised by the American Federation of Labor for the automobile industry is now seen by the officials in direct touch with the job. This delay is based primarily on the jurisdiction issue.

Mare Talk.

When the Detroit convention last October called for an organization campaign it asked the international unions in the metal and wood industries to yield jurisdictional claims in this field. A conference of executives of the international unions, held in Washington in November, decided that the executive council must first make formal requests upon the executive boards of theas organizations.

That step is to be discussed and probably will be taken by the executive council at its January meeting in St. Petersburg, Fla. Then the executive boards of the various unions must be given time to deal with the request.

Next April—Maybe.

Assuming that all replies are received before the A. F. of L. executive council meets again in April, the council will at that time determine whether the replies are nearly enough unanimous and are sufficiently definite in favor of a temporary industrial organization of automobile workers, to justify a serious attempt to enlist union members in Detroit and other motor factory centers.

A small organizing force is being kept in Detroit by the Int'l. Ass'n. of Machinists. Its achievements have been relatively small, because it is almost impossible to unionise any one group of workers in the mass-production plants.

Free Speech Test Is Held at Passaic as Police Stop Meetings

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan. 9.—With the aid of the American Civil Liberties union, the Polish Branch of the International Labor Defense held a free speech case in Ukrainian Hall, Passaic, N. J., George Collins of the Fellowship of Reconciliation represented the union. No police appeared and the heretofore forbidden meeting ended peacefully.

The free speech test followed the action of Passaic police in barring three meetings arranged by the Labor Defense for the Rev. Masur of Detroit. Mr. Masur is touring the country for the Labor Defense. His lectures were barred because Polish citizens present are alleged to have complained that he would "attack God and the state." His subject is "Political Prisoners in Poland."

A WEEK'S WORK IN THREE AND ONE-HALF HOURS; FINE FOR THE BOSS, BUT HELL FOR THE WORKERS

"This article is re-printed from "The Harvester Worker," the shop bulletin distributed at the McCormick Works by the shop group of the Workers (Communist) Party.

It shows how the losses of the workers' life in industry can be used to aid trade union organization and build shop committees which are the preliminary steps to trade union organization.

In the November issue of the Harvester World, an organ of the International Harvester Company, the company boasts of its newly developed speed-up and lowering of cost in the making of farm implements, such as mowers. Cyrus McCormick, Jr. states that the new plans are working smoothly. It can do some work now in 3½ hours that formerly took a week!

"Production is coming off the chain," he declares, "at a daily increasing rate. (Our emphasis.) "Mowers are mowers now in three hours and thirty minutes after the pouring of the molds in the foundry. This is spectacular speed when it is considered that formerly a week or more elapsed from foundry to warehouse."

The Harvester World points out that: "Smoothly and effectively, step by step, the plant organization is taking up new motions, new routings and new ideas of uninterrupted manufacture and translating them into new standards of production per hour or per day and new standards of quality." (Our emphasis.)

These quotations from the company organ and from the vice-president of the International Harvester Company are themselves convincing evidence and proof of what The Harvester Worker has declared all the while to the workers. Work is speeded up terribly; profits increase enormously. But wages are lowered steadily. The workers are ground more and more into a miserable state.

"New standards of production per hour or per day" is just scientific or polite language for lower piece rate or hour wages. Another polite name for this wage-cutting and speed'ng up of the workers is the development of quantity production and low-unit costs." So the speed-up system, with wage cuts and lower standards of living for the mass of workers now becomes the rule all thru the McCormicks' works—in the tractor and truck plants and in the tool or implement factories.

These improvements mean of course greater profits and dividends for the McCormick family and the few other large stockholders. But for us, the Harvester slaves, it means that the company is going to suck the last drop of blood and energy out of us. It means that soon hundreds more will be thrown on the scrap heap as unemployed. And we, too, perhaps, the company will be good to us and say, that if you will quietly and nicely accept another wage cut, we will let you work a little longer.

These improvements in the production are used to make worse the conditions of life for the thousands of Harvester workers. Instead, these improvements should mean an easing up in the work, more wages and less hours. Increased and cheaper production means hundreds of thousands of dollars more profit each year for the company. Why should not the workers, who produce all, share in the increase of profits?

Organization of Workers Necessary.

But the Harvester Corporation is the blood brother to the Ford system of exploitation, to the Gary Steel Corporation, and so on. These leeches and parasites upon the mass of workers give nothing up unless the workers compel them to. The Harrester Worker has pointed out before that we workers will get nothing unless we fight for more wages, go speeding up and better conditions of work. The Company Council or so-called union is a tool of the bosses. Still, we must demand that the so-called workers' representatives shall put forward in the council the demands of the workers which we have printed in another column. This fake Council of Employers and Workers will be shown to be only a company outfit. It is necessary that the workers in all the Harvester plants and shops shall begin to voice their grievances everywhere; shall send in their stories and complaints to us that we may show what the workers are really thinking. It is time to begin considering the formation of workers' shop committees without any boss interference or connection—and to lay the ground for an organized struggle for our demands.

Or. The speed-up system, the constant lowering of wages, the boasts of unprecedented profits by the company, these and other facts demand from us, the Harvester Workers, resistance against the extreme exploitation. Let us prepare!

Paper Box Strikers in High Spirits; Union Contributions Help Relief Work

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—A concert and dance were enjoyed by the paper box strikers when Joe Magazine with his Columbia Jazz Band played to a crowded mass membership at their meeting hall, the Church of All Nations, 9 Second avenue. The spirits of the workers are high and the gaiety was of the greatest when the chairs were moved back and dancing began. The strike is known to many as "the flapper's strike," and they certainly can dance.

Contributions toward the relief work of the union are coming in in increasing numbers.

The union gave a party to the children of the strikers yesterday, with the co-operation of Mrs. J. Seargent Cram, at the Peace House, Fifth avenue and 110th street. The 300 children who came with their parents were highly amused and learned something about the strike their mothers and fathers are putting up for decent working conditions in the paper box industry.

The following contributions were received and made possible the payment of relief checks to the girls, which had to be held back for lack of funds, due to lack of immediate funds: International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, $50; Upholsterers' International Union, Local 76, $12; United Neckwear Cutters' Unlen, $50; Fur Dressers' Union local, $250; Local 2163, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, $10; Emergency Committee for Strikers' Relief (Clarina Michelson), $100; United Workers' Co-operative Association, $63; Branch 301, Workman's Circlo, $25; Branch 245, $11.50; Branch 144, $3; Branch 20, $10; Branch 173, $2; Loyever Progressive Society; Branch 177, Workmen's Circle, $10.50.

Congress Idles as Longshoremen Die

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 — Leonardo Dorstadina was killed when a packing case containing an automobile struck the ladder on which he stood in the hold of the Peruvian Lina steamship Spurina. The case was one of many being lowered into the hold. The worker was guiding cases downward into place when the one struck him.

Another longshoreman was badly cut on the back by the corner of the case. These workers are unprotected by any compensation law, since the supreme court held them maritime workers and the federal congress has not enacted legislation pending which would cover such cases.

Pittsburgh Will See Passaic Strike Film

PITTSBURGH—This city will have an opportunity to get a close-up on the historic eleven month Passaic Textile Strike with the showing in this city on January 13 of the sensational motion picture of that stirring and dramatic struggle.

The picture will be put on at Moose Auditorium and will run continuously from 7:30 to 12 o'clock.

It is in seven reels, and of the mass drama type. In fact, it has been favorably compared with "Grass," a mass drama which scored a signal success a few years ago. Its grand mass movements, stark realism and sustained continuity make the Passaic picture a mass drama of outstanding interest and dramatic appeal.

Auspices Organized Labor.

The showing is under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union and has the backing of the entire labor movement in Pittsburgh. All proceeds from the showing will be sent to the General Relief Committee of Local 1603, 743 Main Ave., Passaic, to support the strikers in their fight against the five mills which still refuse to recognize the union. Of the nine original struck mills, four have settled, including the powerful Botany mills, but five still refuse to concede their workers the right to organise and do collective bargaining.

Nationwide Drive Goal of Union

By SYLVAN A. POLLACK.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Jan. 9. — The Photographic Workers Union of America, Local 17830, is planning a nationwide campaign for the organization of all photographic workers throuot the country. Organization of all the photographic workers in this city will be the first step in the campaign, to be followed by a broadening of the movement as time goes on. New members are being enrolled at every local meeting here.

To Organize Contractors' Shops.

As the foremost line in organization campaign to unionize the contracting shops is on. In these sweat shops the workers toil at piece work, and with great difficulty average $15 to $20 a week. About eight such shops are in this city, each employing from six to twelve workers under the most unsanitary conditions.

It is also planned to tackle the amateur finishers' shops where bigh school boys and girls are employed at $10 a week, depriving a full grown man of a job. These youngsters take these jobs on the promise of "learning the business" but they never do, being kept at special work.

Baum Tells of Plans.

In an interview with The DAILY WORKER, Louis A. Baum, secretary of the union, went with great detail into its plans for the future.

"We intend to appear soon before the Central Trades and Labor Council and ask for their assistance in our campaign for the organization of the photographic workers," said Baum.

"We plan to have all union-made photos bear the union label and all union studios display a union sign so all can see it.

"It is our hope to start shortly a nationwide campaign, and we desire the help of photographic workers in all parts of the country in this drive. They should write me care of the union office, 352 Brook Ave., New York City; in this manner we will be able to centralize organization work."

Henry Roesman is president of the union, and Harry Cohen, financial secretary.

Pan-American Labor Hits 'Nervous Nellie' Kellogg's Policies

WASHINGTON—(FP)—The Pan-American Federation of Labor believes that the secretary of state committed an error in recognizing the government of the 'directing head' of Gen. Chamorro, Adolfo Diaz," says an official statement by that organization on the Nicaraguan tangle.

Santiago Iglesias, Spanish-language secretary of the F. A. F. of L., in this declaration of attitude, reviews the protest made by Samuel Gompers in 1923-24, the activities of William Green in 1925, and the memoranda sent to Washington by labor organizations of Central America, in support of the liberal-labor movement in Nicaragua. It declares that both Dr. Sacasa and his agent, Dr. Vaca, held conferences with President Green since the Chamorro revolt, seeking aid in restoring constitutional government in their country.

Recognition of Diaz, the statement says, "has caused unnecessary life-long against the moral prestige of American democratic institutions, all over the world, because such recognition was useless, unjust, and inimical to the people of Nicaragua and of the United States."

It asserts the constitutional right of the Sacasa government and says the P. A. F. L. urges the United States withdraw its action and give its endorsement to the constitutional regime of Sacasa. It announces that a communication to this effect was sent some time ago to President Coolidge and to the state department. This plea was made, it says, in the interest of peace and better understanding in the western hemisphere, for the protection of the rights of all peoples, and in accordance with the sentiments of the labor movements of the American continents.

Bakary Plekets Get Stay of Sentance.

NEW YORK—(FP)—Stay of sentence was automatically granted on the appeal of Charles Solomon, International Bakery & Confectionery Workers' union counsel for the nine members of Local 87, fined a total of $750 and given sentences of 10 to 30 days. The workers were found in contempt of court under a two-year-old injunction against their picketing non-union shops and groceries.

CALIFORNIA GAG LAW TAKES TOLL OF 504 ARRESTS

Syndicalism Statute Hit by A. C. L. U.

NEW YORK.—By maladministration the criminal syndicalism law in California has often been converted into an instrument of "injustice and oppression," it is asserted by Dr. George W. Kirchwey of the New School of Social Research, formerly dean of Columbia University Law School and warden of Sing Sing prison, in a survey of workings of the law, published today by the American Civil Liberties Union.

The law itself Dr. Kirchwey describes as "a concrete expression of war psychology." Trials in criminal syndicalism cases he attacks as "in many instances characterized by methods calculated to bring serious reproach on the administration of law in California. There are cases in which the trial judge made himself the monthpiece of the prosecuting attorney and in which the prosecuting attorney was at his worst. Judged by its works, the syndicalism act must stand condemned."

Mob Law "Justice."

Prosecutiog attorneys in syndicalism cases, according to Dr. Kirchwey, who lectured on criminology in the University of California in 1925, "conducted the prosecutions with all the vindictiveness and the unscrupulous disregard of the lawful rules of procedure which is described by Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard as 'the spectacle of press, public, and prosecutor in full cry in a man-hunt.'"

The survey is the first maneuver of the American Civil Liberties Union in the campaign of its California committee for the repeal of the anti-syndicalism law. Since its passage in 1917 the law has kept mere political prisoners in California than in all other states put together, according to the union, and has given free

Outcome of Drive Rests with Workers

By a Worker Correspondent.

GARY, Ind., Jan. 9.—With a few additional restaurants signing the union agreement, the campaign to organize the restaurant workers is continued by Local 241 of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers of Gary.

Solomon's restaurant, located on 6th Ave. between Broadway and Washington, was picketed. The picketing revealed a widespread feeling of sympathy for the efforts of the union among the residents of Gary.

Teacher Pledges Aid.

A public school teacher approached the pickets and said, "I will not patronize this place any more, since the union is refused recognition. I am a school teacher and I will tell other teachers not to eat in this place. I am a member of the teachers' union myself."

Workers With Them.

Workers passing by expressed themselves briefly but strongly: "Stick to your shift, boys!" "We are with you, boys!" "That's right, step on them, fellows!" "You ought have done it long ago!"

Some of those who came out of scab places told the pickets: "I did not notice this place is picketed. I will not eat here any more."

The boss was trying to put up a brave front coming up to the window and grinning at the pickets. But his face grew more serious as the time wore on.

Service Depends on Workers.

With the sympathy of the workers and residents of Gary back of the union the success of the organization campaign rests with the restaurant workers themselves.

What we need is more getting together, more meetings of the workers; more solidarity; more of a friendly approach to those of the workers who have not yet made application to join the union.

Join!

Every worker knows where the Labor Temple is located. There is no need to wait until some one approaches you to join the union. Look for the union yourself.

Ask for Brother Parlee or Brother Foley, the international representatives and the business representative of the union; they will advise you.

Let's go and build strong!

LAUNDRY WORKERS IN 'FRISCO WORK UNDER SLAVE-DRIVING CONDITIONS; UNION FIGHTING BOSS EXPLOITATION

By a Worker Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9. — The laundries have been able to speed up the workers by playing one against the other with the hopes of steady work and by keeping them continually under the threat of being fired if they protested against the slave-driving conditions. The following is a fair example of how the workers are handled.

Get Half Overtime.

When the workers put in three hours overtime they are paid for only half of the time. If there are any protests threats are hurled against the head-worker by the superintendent. The superintendent is not satisfied with paying the workers under the union scale, but tries by all ways and means to rob the workers of what is due them.

Slave Drivers Paid Well.

In one of the laundries the headwasher gets $55 per week, not because he does more work than any other head washer, but because he is a better slave driver and exacts from workers right and left. Knowing that the union is a strong weapon in the hands of the worker, he tries as much as possible to bring in non-union men and pays them under the scale.

Health Conditions Bad.

The washing machines and the wringers are not connected to drains and the water streams all over the place. Most of the workers suffer rheumatism and all kinds of disease because of these unsanitary conditions, while the bosses pile their profits sky high.

Girls Treated No Better.

The girls in the laundries are treated no better. Mostly girls get $19.50 per week. The girls don't last long on the job because in the speed up system two mangles do the work formerly done by three. The tricks played on the girls are varied. They are hired Monday and laid off Thursday even though the week calls for a full week employment. The latest is the most dangerous work in the laundry, get only $29.50 for sorting all kinds of diseased dirty clothes. Forty-eight hours is a week's work according to the union regulations, but these girls work often from 10 to 12 hours a day during the rush periods.

The workers in the laundries are now putting up a strong campaign against these violations of union conditions and the unsanitary conditions in the shops.

Polish Women of a Textile Town Learn How to Run a Council and Aid Strike

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Some twenty-odd women sit around a red hot stove in the corner of a dimly lighted hall. It is a meeting of the Workingmen's Council in Wallington, New Jersey. They have more members, fifty altogether. Where are the others? Well, one has young children to mind, another is ranky husband, another is tired. It is hard for women to come out to meetings.

A God-forsaken hole, Wallington. Streets of mud, scattered frame houses, half a dozen stores, a population of Polish workers. Only once Wallington got on the map. That was when in Passaic and Garfield, those towns seething with the struggle of the textile slaves, strikers' meeting halls were closed. Wallington offered a place for mass meetings. Generally Wallington is outside of things, on the outskirts, a back-water of life and of the strike.

A Meeting in Action.

The women are jolly tonight. They are planning a Christmas ball (that is, Russian Christmas which will be held here in three days) and somewhere all the workers can come. All want to talk at once. The chairman, an active young woman with bobbed hair, keeps back-slapping others, raps on the table. "Slouchata, kobiety," she says in Polish. "Kapusta y hot-dogs we will have. We must get committee to select them. Kiebos you!" The woman designated grins sheepishly, twirks her fingers. "Me? No, I no smart enough. Some one else!" They try another. This one has five young children at home, and they think she can be there to serve hot dogs. At last they get the committees for the hot dogs and all else necessary.

Next to the chairman sits the secretary, a beautiful young woman of nineteen, holding a sleeping baby. She herself has the face of a wide-eyed, rosy child. A fine girl, withal. She is not a striker, but a striker's wife, and she understands the strike from A to Z. She is also the secretary of the union block committee in her district (she being the only one who can write English). "If only I didn't have such a young baby," she tells you wistfully, with a childish pout, "I'd be the first one on the picket line every day, you bet."

They Know What Strikers Are.

They are nearly all textile workers, these women. The strike has jogged them out of their sleep, their hack-breaking work, brought them together, they wear the round woolen caps, the shabby, shoddy coats you see everywhere here. Broad Polish faces, simple, open faces, marked with toil and struggle. Some of them are still a little puzzled at the meeting. All this talk about "order of business" and committees for this and that—they haven't quite got on to that yet. They were organized in September. At first they said, "Let's go the strike first. Then afterward we will think about Women's Council." But now they have seen that the Women's Councils have helped a great deal to win the strike, and so they support them.

CLEVELAND LABOR MEETS TO FIGHT ANTI-ALIEN ACTS

Conference Called for Protest on Jan. 13

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 9.—A conference of representatives in all labor and progressive organizations has been called by the Cleveland Council for the Protection of Foreign-Born Workers to protest and lay plans to fight against the proposed anti-alien legislation by congress. The conference will be held Thursday night, Jan. 13, at 7:30 o'clock in the Fraternity Center building, 1783 East 11th street.

A meeting of editors of foreign language papers was held on Jan. 4 and a huge publicity campaign has been launched as a result among the foreign born. A protest meetings are to be arranged in the various nationality wards and a monster mass meeting will be held soon at Grey's armory.

A fund of $1,000 is to be raised by the committee to further the work.

The conference is called by the Cleveland Federation of Labor, and Harry McLaughlin, president of the federation, is a member of the advisory committee of the council.

Says Labor Must Fight Bills Aimed at Foreign-Born

That the bills for registering and fingerprinting aliens are likely to be rushed thru congress in its closing hours and a March is feared by Max Orlowski of the Chicago council for protection of the foreign-born. Orlowski, who is on the district executive board of the machinists' union says:

"Chicago leber must voice its protest against the bills in such a manner that the sponsors will not dare bring them out of committee. Their silence now is rather a sign of danger to labor than of security."

The Aswell, Johnson and Holaday bills are particularly vicious, he says, placing the happiness of every alien at the whim of government officials. These bills have been condemned by the Detroit and Atlantic City conventions of the American Federation of Labor.

Tacoma Hears Griffin Speak in Lieu of Flynn

TACOMA, Wash.—Elizabeth Gurley Flynn was billed to speak here on the Passaic strike on Dec. 29. She was sick, and unable to appear, but thanks to C. Griffin, the meeting was a success anyway.

Griffin will be remembered as one of the I. W. W. leaders who were sent to Leavenworth in 1917 after the trial under Judge Landis in Chicago. He has been doing active work for the I. L. D. in the northwestern states lately.

He made a fine speech, dealing first with the Passaic strike. Then he spoke on the I. L. D., discussing Sacco, Vanzetti, Mooney, Billings, the Centralians, and other victims of the fren-ips of the capitalist class in their war on the workers. He stressed the need of class consciousness, organization, and the united front of all the workers.

Those who were disappointed by not hearing more news of Passaic, because of Miss Flynn's illness, will be able to hear it from Albert Weisbord, leader for many months of the Passaic strike. He will speak at 8:00 p. m., Tuesday, Jan. 11, at Eagles Hall, E St., near 13th, in Tacoma.

BIG DEFLATION IN FARM PROPERTY GIVE FARMERS ECONOMIC GRIEVANCE

By LELAND OLDS, Federated Press.

While record-breaking profits have been boosting the property of industrial capitalists to unheard of heights, while the wealth of these multi-millionaires has been swollen by an orgy of stock dividends, deflation has brot the value of the American farmer's capital down 30 per cent to a level touched by only three years in the entire period from 1912 to 1925, and in California from $210 to $150."

The depreciation of the farmers' capital in Iowa, Montana and South Carolina amounts to approximately 50 per cent. In Georgia the shrinkage amounts to 47 per cent of the value in 1920. Comparing the real value of the farmer's land today with the prewar value the report says:

The figure for the country as a whole means that in a single year more than 103,000 farmers lost their farms because they went broke. If we include the forced sales on account of delinquent taxes averaging 11 per 1000 farms, the number of farmers losing their farms on account of bankruptcy mounts to 130,000. Such forced sales in the Dakotas and Montana ran from 6 per cent to 7 per cent of all farms.

different regions. In Massachusetts the average value of farm real estate per acre increased from $100 to $109 between 1920 and 1926. In Iowa on the other hand there was a decrease in the same period from $255 to $168. In Georgia there was a decline in the same period from $57 to $30 per acre; in South Carolina from $74 to $45; in Montana from $42 to $25, and in California from $210 to $150."

WOOING THE FARMERS

From the Locomotive Engineers Journal for January, 1927.

THE president's message to congress expressed tender solicitude and touching sympathy for the bankrupt and near-bankrupt farmers of the west. But the ungrateful farmers do not seem inclined to be satisfied with fatherly platitudes. Their war paint is on. And they are bound to get something more than cheap promises from the administration before they go back contentedly to stop the hogs. Frederick Feng, chairman of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the most conservative of the big farm organizations, declares that farm property has shrunk $20,000,000,000 in value during the past six years, while industrial and city property has increased in value. Moreover, farm indebtedness is two and three times as great as in 1920; while the farm population, comprising nearly a third of the country, gets only one-fourteenth of the national income.

Organized business has already seized the opportunity to take advantage of the farmers' discontent by sending its speakers to the various farm organization conventions to tell them how necessary it is for big business and the farmers to stand together against the encroachments of organized labor. Representatives of organized labor at these farmers' meetings are conspicuously absent, despite the fact that the workers and farmers represent the two basic producing groups of the nation and that both pay for the one means a good market for the produce of the other.

Is it not high time that intelligent labor leaders join in mapping out a method of reaching the farmers of America with a message of friendship and good will and proffers of sincere co-operation in meeting their common problems? It has recently been suggested that labor-co-operative banks might find it greatly to their advantage to aid the farmers' co-operative marketing organizations in financing the sale of their crops. This and a hundred other ways of mutually helpful assistance could be worked out if the leaders of the organized farmers and organized workers could sit down around the table together. And since labor was the first to prove the value of organization, might it not take the initiative by offering to arrange such a meeting?

To Help Farmers Buy Seed.

WASHINGTON.—Believing that any permanent relief from legislation now before congress will be too late to affect the farmers during the 1927 crop year, Senator Norbeck, and Representative Johnson have introduced a bill to set aside $6,000,000 to be used in purchasing grain and flaxseed. The use of the fund would be limited to areas suffering from drought. The bill has the endorsement of Secretary of Agriculture Jardine.

Proper Case of Alien Exclusion; Send Mr. Corn Borer Back Home

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Jan. 9. — The European corn borer has invaded Illinois.

The first specimen was found on a Kankakee county farm near the Indiana line and advices to P. A. Glenn, chief inspector of the state agricultural department from Washington, where it was sent for absolute identification, confirmed the presence of the pest.

W. H. Flint and Dr. T. H. Frison of the state natural history survey have been conducting an extensive search in Kankakee county for further evidences of the corn borer without success, it was declared.

Authorities declare the pest will do little damage for several years, in which time it is hoped the invasion may be stopped.

Co-Ops Collecting for Mine Victims

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(FP)—More than $1,000 has been subscribed by various cooperative societies for relief of widows and orphans of the Michigan iron miners lost in late disasters. The mine accidents have cost some of the Michigan cooperatives staunch members. The entombing of 40 miners near Ishpeming cost the Consumers Cooperative Association of that town many members, the cooperative boarding house its part time manager and two boarders.

The cooperative boarding house at North Lake lost its part time manager in the Barnes-Hecker disaster. Relief is coming from cooperative societies made up chiefly of workers in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, New York, Illinois, a miners' coop'in Dillonvale, Ohio, etc. Donations may be sent direct to Jalmar Nukala, relief chairman, care of Ishpeming Cooperative Store, Ishpeming, Mich., states the Cooperative League New York headquarters.

Switchman Discusses Papers for Workers

(By a Switchman Correspondent.)

The December 8 issue of "The Bosses' Voice" which is fooling the workers thru its name, "Labor," comments very strongly upon the fact that The DAILY WORKER is short of funds. If The DAILY WORKER was forced upon the workers in the same manner that "Labor" is forced upon the railroad workers who are members of the so-called standard organizations, it would not be asking for donations.

There are thousands of railroad workers who receive this paper, not because they subscribed for it, but because their local lodges are compelled by the officers of the Grand Lodges to remit the annual subscription price for each member.

Labor does not beg, it takes by force.

The copy of Labor which I have was given to me by a Brotherhood member who had not unfolded it yet. When he handed it to me he remarked: "Here take this scabby sheet. I know that you like to look it over for reasons of your own. I will not have it in my home to pollute the minds of my children. I listened to its doctrines too long."

Railroad men have stood still for thirty years. There are hundreds of railroad workers in Chicago that can see no difference between Labor and the Chicago Tribune, they both champion the same cause.

While I am not a Communist, I cannot see how a worker can be represented by a democrat or republican. None of their candidates are workers nor do they associate with workers. It is my opinion that representatives usually represent their associates.

Sheboygan Comrades Do Well; Pledge More

Editor, DAILY WORKER: This is a small city, about 25,000. Most of the population is German, with a few other nationalities. Among them are about 200 Croatians. There are a couple of fraternal societies, one educational and dramatic club, and a Jugo-Slav fraction of the Workers Party with 12 members. And it is worth noticing that these few comrades are in full control of every society and organization and are working to the best of their ability for the working class.

So we have obtained subscriptions to Radnik and The DAILY WORKER. We have distributed literature to the amount of $80. Now we have raised $40 for "The Keep The DAILY WORKER Fund." This is a very small sum of money for such a big work that our party has undertaken. But when we consider the kind of people we are dealing with and the small group we have to do the work, we believe that the comrades in Sheboygan are doing well. There is promise of better work in the future.

Fraternally yours,
M. Muzewisk,

Hearst the War-Monger

That "virile American," William Randolph Hearst, whose activities range from the publishing of the most degraded and vicious newspapers in the world to "educating" movie actresses, has come out in support of the Wall Street-Coolidge policy in Nicaragua and Mexico.

Hearst's papers have baited Mexico consistently. They supported the bombardment of Vera Cruz in 1913, the invasion of Mexico in 1916.

Back in 1898 Hearst sent Frederic Remington to Cuba to get pictures of "Spanish atrocities." Remington could find no material of this kind and cabled Hearst to this effect. It was then that Hearst sent the message now famous in newspaperdom.

"You furnish the pictures and I'll furnish the war."

Hearst is said to own one million acres of land in Mexico and for this reason it is clear that his desire for a "firm policy" towards Mexico has a purely business basis. A multi-millionaire himself, he specializes in war-mongering and appeals to the lowest jingo instincts.

Hearst's papers, with their tremendous circulation, are a menace to the American masses. Their imperialist role is obvious in the present acute situation. More slimy and unscrupulous than the other capitalist sheets, Hearst builds up a huge circulation by advocating meaningless reforms and then floods the millions of readers with the special propaganda of Wall Street.

Hearst is a cowardly and conscious plotter against the lives of the American working class and the workers and peasants of Latin America. His papers should be boycotted by the American labor movement and he himself, in line with the suggestion of Congressman Huddleston of Alabama, should be lined up with President Coolidge, Secretary of State Kellogg, Elbert H. Gary, the Rockefeller and Morgan males, and a few hundred of the other wealthiest parasites and made to stage their own invasion of Mexico in Nicaragua unassisted.

The sudden cooling of their patriotic fervor would send the mercury down below zero for hundreds of miles around.

The working class press must do its level best to counteract the war madness Hearst is trying to engender. The weakness of the working class press is most apparent at a time like this when the issue of peace or war hangs in the balance. But it is in periods such as this that the working class feels most the need of a powerful and brilliant press and can be rallied to workers' papers which speak fearlessly and clearly in exposing the monstrous conspiracy which has been organized by and for Wall Street and its government—which Hearst supports.

Greetings to the American Kuomintang

The American section of the Kuomintang Party now concluding the sessions of its annual convention in Los Angeles can be of inestimable support to the people's liberation movement in China of which it is a part. It can aid the revolutionary struggles of its mother party in two principal ways: First, by rendering material and moral aid and support by mobilizing the Chinese population in America behind the liberation movement, and second, by joining with the revolutionary workers' movement in this country in the struggle against American imperialism.

The United States has posed as the friend of China. An earnest of this friendship was given in the form of returning the Boxer indemnities to educate Chinese in this country. But the friendship that the United States has displayed towards China with one hand has been more than counter-balanced by the imperialist scheming and grabbing that the United States has been guilty of in common with the other powers who have their claws in China.

The manner in which the United States has consistently maintained an attitude of hostility towards the Kuomintang government of South China should dispel, if it exists in the minds of Chinese residents in this country, all thought of assistance or even neutrality on the part of the United States when the Canton government is finally prepared to assert its complete sovereignty in China.

In greeting the American section of the Kuomintang THE DAILY WORKER pledges to continue its work of exposing American imperialism in the Far East and upholding the movement in China that is carrying out the doctrines of the great revolutionist Sun Yat Sen, to whose memory the American Kuomintang dedicated its work at the Los Angeles convention.

Presidential Warfare

The sole power to declare war is vested in the congress of the Union so says the constitution of the United States. But this mandate of "our fathers" has been put aside so often that one's well-meaning friends will have another occasion to gasp with horror if Coolidge and Kellogg decide to land troops in Mexico, or any place else in Latin America to "protect" American oil and dollars.

The great war president," Mr. Wilson, has done a great deal for dollar diplomacy not only in the matter of material aid but also in the legal matter of precedents.

If any person with the illusion that the constitution means anything asks Kellogg what right he has to send troops to Latin America and thus put the United States in a position of war without the consent of congress, he will doubtless remind the person that President Wilson took Vera Cruz in 1914 and sent General Pershing into Mexico at the head of a large body of troops in 1916. He will, if he wishes to go further back, make note of the fact that President Roosevelt took Panama on the quiet and that a two-year campaign was conducted against the Filipinos without a declaration of war. But perhaps the best precedent he can fall back on is Wilson's private war against the Soviet Republic in 1919.

It doesn't require a vote of congress to make war on Mexico if Coolidge decides to make it. And for that matter who knows that congress, as it is at present constituted, won't sanction such a war?

The democrats? Well, Wilson was a democrat.

A Popular Movement Against Militarism and Imperialist War Can Be Built

By WILLIAM F. DUNNE.

WALL STREET and its government is preparing to force upon the United States a policy in Mexico and Latin-America for which it cannot get popular approval. It is a policy of waging war without a declaration of war.

Secretary of State Kellogg, caught in a deliberate and particularly slimy attempt to poison the minds of the American people by means of a lying story put out which the state department itself dare not take responsibility, now takes refuge behind the phrase "not compatible with public interest" when asked to prove his statements.

This device, used by every tyrant and war-monger, is like the flag, a cloak for conspirators against the lives and liberties of the masses.

THE La Guardia resolution has forced Wall Street government somewhat more into the open but it has the weakness of all such documents, written by middle class spokesmen, which start with the premise that American government is correct in protecting American capitalist interests if they exist in colonial and semi-colonial countries.

The Coolidge administration has taken advantage of this weakness and now states boldly, and backs up its statement by a further use of armed force in Nicaragua, that it intends to maintain its position of arbiter of the destinies of the Nicaraguan people by every means necessary for its purpose.

Its excuse is the right of way for a canal purchased in 1916 for $3,000,000.

WHAT we are witnessing is the extension of the conquest of Latin-America designed to encircle Mexico as the first step to smashing its leadership of the anti-imperialist movement in Latin-America.

There is the further reason that, having secured the Panama Canal and thus divided Latin-America into northern and southern zones, American imperialism intends now to control all approaches to the canal.

The next step will be to control the approaches to the approaches and so on until all Latin-America is a Wall Street colony.

THAT such a policy cannot be carried out in Latin-America without war, goes without saying. Just as Great Britain has warred on the Egyptian people and other nationalities in the Suez Canal zone, justifying her bloody occupation of Egypt with the bombardment of Alexandria in 1882, so does American imperialism begin a new phase of its conquest of all territory contagious to the Panama Canal zone with the forcible overthrow of the popular government in Nicaragua and the armed occupation of its capital.

All this has been done in the face of popular opposition, but an opposition which lacks coherence, and in which the organized labor movement, the most effective force in this situation, has as yet taken no important part.

The Communist Party alone has a clear program for combatting American imperialist aggression which, in the case of war, is a joint menace to the masses of the United States and Latin-America.

STILL another danger inherent in the Latin-American policy of Wall Street is its threat to the living standards—wages and working conditions—of the millions of low-paid workers in the production of raw materials in the United States.

In 1926 alone there was invested in South and Central America a total of $515,000,000. Speaking of these investments Moody's Investor's Service says:

An interesting feature of Latin-American financing during 1926 is the trend of American capital into South and Central American enterprises, ESPECIALLY TO COMPANIES ENGAGED IN THE PRODUCTION OF RAW MATERIALS.
(Emphasis ours.)

Imperialism not only seeks fields for capital investment in raw materials or than can be obtained at home but also sources of supply for raw materials which CAN BE OBTAINED CHEAPER THAN THEY CAN BE PRODUCED AT HOME.

FOR a small privileged section of the working class this means participation in the profits of imperialism. For the great mass of the workers it means a more bitter struggle for a decent livelihood.

The dependence of workers and the threat to the living standards of workers engaged in production of raw materials—these are two main reasons for the working class, in addition to their duty to their comrades in the colonial and semi-colonial regions, to demand an uncompromising struggle by its leaders against the march southward by the American ruling class and its war machinery.

WE can be sure that no other sections of the population except the workers and exploited farmers will raise any real and sustained opposition to the Coolidge program. It is possible, however, to establish, on the basis of a struggle against such an arrogant imperialist brutality as is shown in Nicaragua, and the war preparations against Mexico, a united front of workers, farmers, liberal intellectuals and middle class elements which feel the pressure of militarism, in opposition to the Wall Street-Coolidge program of aggression.

Such a movement can have as its slogans, "Hands off Mexico and Latin-America." "Self Determination for all Latin-America." "Neutralization of the Panama Zone." "Withdraw all gunboats and military forces from Latin-America." "Neutralization of the Panama Zone." "Wall Street investors will not risk our lives for their dollars." "No gunboats for Wall Street," "Bankers fight their own battles." "The Monroe Doctrine is a Wall Street weapon," etc.

THE open aggression against Nicaragua and the less violent but just as determined and deadly pressure on Mexico, the "gunboat treaty" forced on Panama, all show the necessity for a broad popular movement to trace and expose the secret conspiracies of the state department and organize resistance to them.

I do not believe that any great numbers of the American people can be stirred to a high pitch of patriotic fervor by the prospect for war on the Latin-American republics. But many of these imperialist adventures which can culminate only in a war of major proportions can be carried out now by the professional military forces at the disposal of the state and war departments. The feeling that there is no immediate danger on the part of great numbers of the American masses in itself is of the greatest assistance to the imperialists.

BUT the world war came as the result of a series of imperialist adventures which made it inevitable but which were tolerated by the masses because it did not affect them directly. The capitalist class learned many lessons from the world war but the masses have yet to learn this one elementary lesson, the lesson that "every act has its logic," and that little wars breed big ones.

A UNITED front of all elements opposed to imperialist war will tend to dissipate the inclination to dismiss the danger to the American masses as far in the future and fix attention, not only on such events as the invasion of Nicaragua and the clubbing of Mexico but on the continuous extension of militarization in the United States and the gradual but rapid spread of the internal activities of the war department.

A popular movement against militarism and imperialism must be built

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair.)

These were all ranch fellows, outdoor men, that had worked in the sun all their lives, and grown big and bronzed and sturdy; but now they were bleached white or yellow, dirty and unshaven, with sunken cheeks and hollow eyes. Jirk Dugan was coughing; just as his wife had said, and there was not one healthy-looking man in the bunch. If Bunny had been able to say to himself that these men had done some vile deed, and this was their atonement, he might have justified it, even while he questioned what good it would do. But they were there because they had dared to dream of justice for their fellows, and to talk about it, in defiance of the "open shop" crowd of big business men.

Bunny had sent them some books —they were allowed to have books that didn't look radical to angry militant jailers, and provided the books came direct from the publishers, so that they would not have to be searched. He had carefully selected objects such as saws and dope. Now they wanted to tell him how much these books had helped, and to ask for more. And what did Bunny know about their prospects of getting a trial? Had he seen Paul, and what did Paul think? And what about the union—was there anything left of it? They were not allowed any sort of "radical" paper, so they were six or seven months behind the news of their own world.

II

Bunny came out into the sun shine with a fresh impulse of dramatization. His father was half sick, but even so, was his father much to have this burden of pain dumped onto him? The last time they had discussed the matter Dad had said to wait, Vernon Hedges would "see what he could do." But now Bunny would wait no longer. Dad must compel Vernon to act, or Bunny would take the job upon himself.

He drove his father back to Angel City, and learned that radicals had organized a "defense committee," and there was to be a mass meeting of protest, at which funds would be raised for the approaching trial. Paul was to be the principal speaker —despite the fact that it might cause his bail privilege to be cut off. When Bunny got that news he served an ultimatum on his father, the upcoming was to take place the following week, and unless Verne had acted in the meantime, Bunny was going to be one of the speakers, and say his full say about the case.

Dad of course protested. But it was one of those times when his son surprised him by failing to be "good." Bunny was not to be driven in by desperation. "Maybe you feel I haven't any right to debate like this, while I'm living off your money, and perhaps I ought to quit college and go to work for myself."

"Son, I've never said anything like that."

"No, but I'm putting you in a hole with Verne, and it would be easier if you could say 'I'm not living on you.'"

"Son, I don't want to say any such thing. But I do think you ought to consider my position."

"I've considered everything, Dad —considered till I'm sick at heart. I just can't let my love for any one person in the world take the place of my sense of justice. We're committing a crime to keep those men in jail, and I say Verne has got to let them out, and if he don't, then I'm going to make it hot for him."

Verne was on his way back from the east, and Bunny demanded that he should phone the district attorney his wishes, he might phone the judge, too, if he thought necessary —it wouldn't be the first time Bunny would wager. If he didn't do it, then Bunny's name would be announced as one of the speakers at that mass meeting. Upon Dad dashed the memory of that terrible meeting of Harry Scorer's; he saw his beloved son publicly adopting that same ferocious mask, clasping that sea of angry faces and uplifted hands and lusts of leather!

Calles Addresses the Mexican People

The text of President Calles' message to the Mexican people on New Year's furnished to The DAILY WORKER by Arturo M. Elias, consul-general of Mexico at New York City, was as follows:

FOLLOWING the practice established last year, I again take advantage of the opportunity provided by New Year's Day to send cordial greetings to the Mexican people and deliver a direct message concerning the general situation of the country as well as the work accomplished and the tendencies followed by the executive.

"The adoption of methods and systems for the development of our natural resources and the defense of our just national rights, methods and systems with which the most civilized countries of the world have successfully strived for their economic and political independence and their prosperity and full development—have aroused, because of suspicion and opposition attached to every innovation, internal and external difficulties; and the policy of strict compliance with the enforcement of the fundamental laws of the country have necessarily started the action of antagonistic forces.

Domestic Agitation Falls.

"Fortunately, the points of controversy abroad have been dealt with thru channels and by means of calm, technical discussion. The domestic agitation and opposition have not succeeded in disturbing fundamentally the public peace we are enjoying, the government being able to comply strictly with all its obligations at home and abroad without the least obstacle to the task of reconstruction that I planned since I took charge of the administration.

"Thus, in spite of numerous and complex handicaps, which are all of political or social character, the financial stability of the country has been replaced upon a sounder basis during the past year by means of a strict policy of economy and administrative honesty.

"The educational program for 1926 was carried out beyond its original limits.

"All of the agricultural schools which had been planned were duly completed; irrigation projects in several zones were finished and others begun by middle class spokesmen, which start with the premise that American government is correct in protecting American capitalist interests if they exist in colonial and semi-colonial countries.

The Coolidge administration has taken advantage of this weakness and now states boldly, and backs up its statement by a further use of armed force in Nicaragua, that it intends to maintain its position of arbiter of the destinies of the Nicaraguan people by every means necessary for its purpose.

A popular movement against militarism and imperialism must be built

gram of social disintegration.

"A rancorous press campaign has striven to represent Mexico as the follower or supporter of exotic forms of government and a dissemination, at home and abroad, of political and social systems wholly strange to our environment, and our tendencies.

Mexico Has Its Own Problems.

"Firm as I am in my conviction that truth shall necessarily come to light, I have continued serenely in my task without heeding the calumnies and the insults hurled upon me. I have confined myself to state, whenever the opportunity came, that our problems, similar in their nature to those of all peoples in a stage of formation, present in Mexico a phase of our present condition for the consideration of which it would be illogical to resort to the remote measures of which we are accused, and the unwholesomeness of which in social environments different from our own is not for me to comment.

"For I am well aware that they are not applicable to the conditions of our country, nor do they fit our political organization or the unalterable policy of my administration.

Due to the unavoidable resistance of the antagonistic forces and interests mentioned above, a natural result has been the arousing abroad of unjustifiable mistrust notwithstanding that up to this day no harm has been done to any material interests thru the policy adopted by this government, notwithstanding that I have repeatedly expressed my purpose not to interpret the constitutional laws of the country in any manner that would injure legitimate interests established in Mexico when those laws were enacted.

Capital Must Obey Laws.

"On the other hand, I am willing, naturally, to accept the decisions of the supreme court in cases arising from a conflict of interests, and I indeed that only in insidious propaganda of inimical interest and the natural distrust of capital have been able to restrict or delay the benefits accruing from co-operation between Mexico and the other countries, whose moral energies and capital shall always be welcome in our country with the sole restriction of respect to our laws. The only limitation that the external collaboration must not become an absorption, in prejudice to our national interests.

The Church's Success Untruth.

"I also wish to avail myself of this opportunity to repeat, ten months after the catholic hierarchy began its opposition to the Mexican laws, what I stated at the beginning, which has not been modified thru the attitude, seditious and rebellious at times, of the clergy: That my administration does not intend, nor has it intended, to oppose the legitimate exercises or development of any religious activity; that matters of faith or creed or dogma are absolutely outside the action and purposes of my government; that I hold the same sincere respect for all expressions of conscience or religious beliefs; that it is a gross untruth framed up by the clerical reaction that the government has endeavored or desired at any time to destroy or combat any religious faith.

Thanks National Army.

"The re-operation of the other administrative powers and the valuable assistance of order and respect afforded by the national army have made and shall make it possible for the country to succeed in honorably going thru a season of true hardship and trial.

"Notwithstanding the criminal machinations to alter peace and the insinuation made to army officers to pervert the high aims of this national institution, the preserver of the security and honor of the country, all of its members have continued to this day to give that discipline within the limits established by law, and my government firmly hopes that they shall thus continue for the prestige of the army and of the republic.

"But should the interests and hatreds intent upon reopening a new era of internal disorders, succeed in staining with the tarnish of treason what ought to be the highest and noblest of all the institutions of the country, my government is absolutely certain that the guilty shall receive an immediate and just punishment.

"In order to attain an extensive material and moral development of the country as well as a true collective prosperity, I asked in my message of January 1, 1926, for the earnest cooperation of every Mexican, who, forgetting ill feelings or personal ambitions, and with his shot bent upon the welfare and prosperity of Mexico, would wish to be with us.

"The passionate feelings and ancient hatreds stirred in the last year by conscienceless or malicious persons or by mere puppets in the hands of domestic or foreign interests would perhaps now render utopic a similar general call.

Call For Co-operation.

"But having in mind above all the welfare of Mexico; it is my wish to insist of such a call that all those who are still able to emancipate themselves of malevolent influence, and those who thorough generosity, or patriotic feeling are able to free themselves of the heavy burden of prejudice, selfish interests or hatreds, come to us and willingly accept as legitimate the aspirations of the rightful upliftment of the masses of our country, for which we have always struggled and are ready to struggle always, being convinced that only the welfare of the great masses of Mexico can establish the basis of a definite organic peace and promote the prosperity and development of the Mexican nation."

Plutarco Elias Calles.

Our Challenge Answered

DEAR COMRADES: This DAILY WORKER "poverty" is a terrible thing. I shudder in fear, patiently waiting how it will end. Could it be found in the land of education, intelligence, that one can be forgotten who so bravely spoke and is so willing to speak against all oppression and tell the working masses of their heavy positions?

No one ever did but The DAILY WORKER! It led us in splendid battle, willing to lead if we are true for the needs of life. We all know that it had no other purpose, and never will have, except to defend those who must work for a living, protect the unfortunate behind the iron bars—workers who dared to say a word against the meanest exploitation of toiling humanity in smelter, mines and hundreds of other outposts. No other press has whispered a word of any successful idea for the working class but The DAILY WORKER!

All of us know by this time the conditions under which The DAILY WORKER is struggling for its own existence. Can we simply forget and say: The DAILY WORKER has made important maneuvers, taken a hand in all labor struggles, showed the way out to a better future?

Dear comrades, wherever we are, we must make it one of our first obligations, not only to wait till we are asked for a little donation for our Daily, but always be ready to give assistance because it is for us, and that is the only way we can help ourselves.

I don't want to challenge anyone or do I want to be praised. It is my entire conviction that without our Daily we would be forced to do things that we do not want to do, but we now have a Daily, and we should work and make it more powerful than ever.

Come along, comrades, whoever you are, we all need The DAILY WORKER.

Yours in the class struggle,
Gee. Rupert.

Lost Without It!

DEAR COMRADES: I herewith send you my renewal for one year for The DAILY WORKER. I would feel lost without The DAILY WORKER on the farm for it is just as good as a life saver for a peer farmer. I send you one dollar ($1.00) for your Third Birthday and in honor of my youngest son for he is also three years old. On the same day I will send $1.00.

Sister is more real news in The DAILY WORKER in one day than there is in a capitalist paper in a month.

Hoping you the greatest fighting spirit for freedom.

Coolidge's War Policy for Wall Street Imperialism

The President's Message on Nicaragua

By C. E. RUTHENBERG
General Secretary, Workers (Communist) Party.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S message to congress on the Nicaragua situation is a notice served on the workers and farmers of this country that they will be called upon by the government to sacrifice their lives to protect the investments and profits of the American capitalists wherever in the wide world these investments and profits may be endangered.

It is also a notice to the people of other countries the world over, particularly to the people of Latin America, that they must not take any steps to free themselves from the exploitation of the Wall Street interests who dominate the financial life and government of the United States, and that any such steps to limit or free themselves from this exploitation will be met with the naval and military power of this country.

Stripped of its high sounding phrases, designed to arouse the jingo spirit of this country, and its sham efforts to create a legal justification of the intervention in Nicaragua, that is the essence of the message. The president has made a bold declaration of the policy of financial imperialism. He has declared openly to the American people that the government is the instrument of the Wall Street capitalists and its role to fight for the financial interests of these capitalists.

The Treaties and Agreements.

THE president recites at length the story of the agreements, treaties and arrangements between the Central American republics and the United States. No one who knows the history of the relations of the government at Washington with the republics of Central America and the West Indies will take these attempts at legal justification of the course of the government in Nicaragua seriously. The record of American financial imperialism in the Caribbean is too clear.

The government at Washington has in the past pointed to similar treaties and agreements with Haiti and Santo Domingo to justify its dictatorship in these countries. These treaties and agreements were made under the same simple process. The United States government threw out of office the government elected by the people of these countries and by force applied by American warships and marines, set up a government controlled by native citizens, who for a price were ready to carry out the will of the Wall Street banks, and then dictated the treaties and agreements which Wall Street wanted.

It is these facts which must be born in mind in judging the president's statement with Nicaragua and the other Central American republics, that:

"The United States government did not participate in the conference except to provide a neutral chairman; it simply offered its good offices to make the conference possible and arranged a neutral zone at Corinto at the request of both parties during the time the conference was held."

Its good offices and neutral chairman were backed by the American warships and marines, and the partici-pants in this and other conferences knew that they had better write into the treaties and agreements what the United States government, as the representative of Wall Street bankers, said must be written into them.

The president slurs over the point, but even from his message it would appear that the $3,000,000 the United States government paid for the canal rights thru Nicaragua went into the pot for the funding of the debts to the American and British bankers. In other words the purchase of the canal rights was a neat little game thru which the Wall Street bankers got $3,000,000 of the funds of the American government.

Why We Are in Nicaragua.

THERE is not a single bit of evidence in the president's message that the lives of American citizens are in danger in Nicaragua, altho the president, thrown in a suggestion of such danger in his effort to arouse the jingo spirit of this country. The danger that does exist is made clear by the president in the following paragraphs:

"For many years numerous American have been living in Nicaragua, developing its industries and carrying on business. At the present time there are large investments in lumbering, mining, coffee growing, banana culture, shipping, and also general mercantile and other collateral business.

"There is no question that if the revolution continues American investments and business interests in Nicaragua will be seriously affected, if not destroyed. The currency which is now at par, will be inflated. American as well as foreign bondholders will undoubtedly look to the United States for the protection of their interests."

Therefore we must use the armed forces of the American government in support of the Diaz government. But why in support of the Diaz government and against the legally elected Sacasa government?

There is only one answer. The Diaz government is another of the puppet governments of Wall Street, ready to turn over the resources of Nicaragua to the exploiters on the terms which they dictate, while the Sacasa government seeks to protect the interests of the people of Nicaragua.

The Policy of Financial Imperialism.

THE president goes further than a mere declaration of the policy of the government to support the exploitation of the Wall Street bankers in Nicaragua with American naval and military forces. In closing his message he makes a declaration, which is a warning to the workers and farmers of this country that they will be called upon to fight for the American capitalists' interests wherever they may be in danger. He says:

"It has always been and remains the policy of the United States in such circumstances (as those in Nicaragua—E. R.) to take the steps that may be necessary for the preservation and protection of the lives, the property, and the interests of its citizens and of this government itself. In this respect I propose to follow the path of my predecessors."

Neither the lives, nor the property, nor the interests of the workers and farmers of this country are in danger in Nicaragua. It is the property and interests of the Wall Street bankers which the government is fighting for.

The great Wall Street financial institution, which today dominates the industries of this country, also have property and interests in Mexico. They have $4,814,000,000 invested in Latin America. They have $2,515,000,000 invested in Canada. They have $3,837,600 invested in Europe. They have $1,086,000,000 invested in other parts of the world, including Asia.

AIMEE McPHERSON is a winner in the greatest publicity stunt ever pulled off in the United States. With the casualties, two dead and several wounded reputations, Aimee is about to start on a speaking tour. What Billy Sunday shook out of the devil when he was touring for Jesus is nothing to what Aimee will pull down. After all, Aimee is said to have lots of sex appeal and, if the Hearst Press is to be believed plenty of nice clothes. Yes, this is a great country for a clever fraud with guts.

WHILE one wealthy evangelist is getting ready for the rural south-west, the trouble in the coal mine fields of Pennsylvania is getting ready for another. In Austin, Texas, he is charged with the murder of a wealthy lumber man who upbraided the skypilot for the latter's abusive attacks on his friend, the mayor. The evangelist shot the lumberman and then got nasty. The evangelist's parishioners are extremely indignant at the prosecution for arresting their spiritual adviser.

FOREIGNERS IN SHANGHAI ARM; ARREST CHINESE

Search and Seize 100 Nationalists

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 11. — Panic-stricken and determined to hold the privileges imposed by foreign powers on a once helpless China, the foreign section of Shanghai is taking drastic steps against the nationalists whose troops are closing in on the war lord's stronghold, steps that they know will be backed up by the warships of the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan that are either in the harbor now or on the way under full steam.

Arrest 100.

More than a hundred Chinese nationalists were under arrest and held for questioning today, following a night of feverish activity during which the members of the Shanghai volunteer corps, police reserves and the regular police made a thorough search thruout the city for arms and for active nationalists.

The police search included all the thickly populated districts, in which shops and dwellings were entered and searched. Rickshas, automobiles and pedestrians were likewise searched and all persons questioned.

Fear Kuomintang Advance.

The international city authorities, spurred to activity by reports of a possible attack on Shanghai by the nationalist forces now in control of Hankow and other Yangtze river cities, announced their determination to hold their rich areas.

Barbed wire entanglements and barricades are being erected at all the entrances to the foreign settlements. The municipal council issued a proclamation forbidding all meetings and demonstrations of any kind. Agitators were warned against continuing their activities.

Troops From Manila.

There was an unconfirmed report that American regular troops were being sent from Manila with the naval contingent which is bringing Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the American Asiatic fleet, who is expected to arrive here tonight.

There was another report that a large contingent of Sikh (British Indian) constabulary was enroute here from Hongkong.

LEFT WING DELEGATES TO I. L. G. W. BOARDS WIN IN CHICAGO LOCAL ELECTION

The left wing scored another big victory in the election of delegates to the joint board and executive board of the international Ladies Garment Workers' Union by members of Chicago Local No. 58. Election results Wednesday revealed that delegates endorsed by the left wing were elected by more than a 2 to 1 majority. An unusually large vote was cast.

All but one local in Chicago has held their regular semiannual election. Our of 35 delegates already elected, all but 9 were endorsed by the left wing.

STRIKE OF COAL MINERS WINNING IN DISTRICT TWO

Board Member Welsh in Successful Campaign

By GEORGE PAPCUN.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

CRESSON, Pa., Jan. 11.—The strike of the coal miners who walked out on Jan. 3, is turning into a victory for the miners, under the militant leadership of Board Member William T. Welsh of Territory 1, District 2 of the United Mine Workers at Nanty Glo.

Strike Success.

Brother Welsh, after leading the strike for a period of one week, has forced the Hughes coal mine interests to sign up a contract recognizing the union, in spite of the fact that when the miners came out on strike the Hughes representatives refused to recognize the union and said that they would shut down and nail the drift before they would recognize the United Mine Workers' Union.

Hold Big Rally.

It is reported that other interests are being forced to sign the Jacksonville agreement and recognize the union. A large mass meeting of the striking coal miners was held at Twin Rocks on Jan. 9. The miners were determined that each coal company shall deal with the union. Brothers Welsh and Mayholtz spoke at the meeting.

BECKERMAN'S LIE ABOUT WEISBORD NAILED BY WISE

Rabbi Declares Garment Boss Untruthful

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Nailing a vicious lie circulated by Abraham Beckerman, manager of the New York joint board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, not only refused to make the confirmation that Beckerman claimed he would give concerning Albert Weisbord's conduct of the Passaic strike, but assailed Beckerman for being untruthful with regard to the strike.

Backerman Lies.

Beckerman's assertion was that Weisbord had an opportunity to settle the Passaic strike favorable to the workers six weeks after it started. The reference was made in the course of an attack upon the Furriers' and International Ladies' Garmen' Union joint boards. Beckerman has been one of the leaders of the reactionary fight against the Communists and left-wingers in the New York needle trades.

Dr. Wise's statement given to the press, follows:

"I have kept myself informed about every step in the Passaic negotiation since the beginning of the strike. According to Mr. Beckerman's state-

Huddleston Hits Coolidge Policy Against Mexico

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Congressional attacks on the Coolidge-Kellogg Mexican and Nicaraguan policies flared forth again today.

Rep. Huddleston (D) of Alabama declared that the president's message yesterday was "a deliberate affront to Mexico."

"This message confirms the charge I made that the administration is deliberately and consciously bound upon war with Mexico," said Huddleston.

He called Secretary of State Kellogg, "A bull in a diplomatic china shop."

Mexico's Ambassador Plans Reply

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The Mexican ambassador announced he would issue a statement later in the day. It will be the first pronouncement from Mexico since President Coolidge's message which developed the attack on the southern republic declaring the Mexican government as the virtual instigator of the Nicaraguan revolution.

ARREST BISHOPS AS REACTIONARY REVOLTS SPREAD

Calles Crushes Church-Inspired Efforts

BULLETIN

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 11. — The Mexican government is greatly concerned over the dissemination of rumors in the United States concerning alleged civil war in Mexico.

Unverified reports have been circulated here that rebels were in control of Durango, Jalisco, Zacatecas and Guanajuato; that there had been a military uprising in Torreon; that the railroad to Vera Cruz had been cut.

All of these reports lack confirmation and according to reliable information are false.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO, Jan. 11. — While supporters of the Calles government have been openly accusing the Mexican episcopate of fomenting the numerous rebellions of catholics that have occurred in outlying regions of late weeks and with these charges supplemented by additional ones connecting members in the United States with co-operating with the church in insurrectionary efforts, six catholic prelates were placed under arrest. Official quarters gave out the information that the bishops were held on charges of violating the law by holding services in the episcopate.

A report that Bishop Pascal Diaz, secretary of the Mexican episcopacy, had been sent to Vera Cruz for deportation to Cuba was denied by the government, which said all the bishops had been released.

Guarantee Protection to Workers.

Reports received here by the newspapers indicate that rebellious banus are operating in several sections of the country under banners reading, "Viva Christ the King." The newspaper El Sol states that these insurgent elements extend "through a vast area comprising concepcion del oro, minerales de Mexico, melchor musquiz and concepcion de escodebo but have been dislodged by government troops which now guarantee protection to the workers."

The government announces that it has taken steps to put down the rebels and denies that there is any possibility of a general revolution.

Indians Inspired by Church.

Reports from Durango indicate that there are heavy troop movements there where hands of fanatical Indians have had some successes against the government troops. These bands of Indians are reported to be receiving reinforcements from other tribes. According to reports received here the Indians are fighting under banners which indicate that theirs is a religious uprising begun by church inspiration.

Students Injured in Fire.

HUDDLESTON PROTEST DEMANDS WITHDRAWAL OF INVADING MARINES

Representative Huddleston.

Representative George Huddleston, of Alabama, who has introduced into the house of repreaontatives a resolution demanding the withdrawal of troops from Nicaragua. The Workers (Communist) Party urges all workers to rally behind this resolution and to get all possible labor bodies to send messages of endorsement to congress to back the measure. This does not mean that the party has any illusions about Huddleston, Wheeler or any one else in the senate or the house, but the party realizes the need for all possible pressure on the run-away policy of Kellogg and Coolidge that is leading directly to imperialist war to the south.

SENATE TO SIFT CHARGES AGAINST WILLIAM S. VARE

Launch Move for New Probe to Seal Fate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A new investigation into the Pennsylvania senatorial election looms as a result of the contest filed against Senator-elect William S. Vare by his democratic opponent, William B. Wilson.

With Wilson supported by democrats and insurgents in his bid to oust Vare and secure a seat for himself, the coalition planned to adopt the Robinson resolution authorizing the Reed slush fund committee to make a new inquiry. This committee's earlier investigation in Pennsylvania dealt only with the $3,000,000 primary and the Robinson resolution would order it to inquire into the charges of fraud and corruption raised against Vare's election.

Sacasa's Statement of Nicaraguan Facts Rips Misrepresentation by Washington

DR. JUAN B. SACASA, the constitutional president of Nicaragua has radioed a statement to the American press which presents the facts of the American maneuvered insurrection that placed Diaz at the head of the government for Wall Street. Those who read The DAILY WORKER'S account of President Coolidge's bare-faced message on the Nicaraguan situation yesterday, have an opportunity to compare the real facts of the manner in which the United States has intervened in Nicaraguan affairs.

SENT BEFORE COOLIDGE'S MESSAGE.

The message was radioed before Sacasa could have had knowledge of the bullying speech made by Coolidge to congress. This fact accounts for the manner in which Sacasa, in his radio, still holds out the hope of a change of heart on the part of the state department. The president's message and the recent food blockade against his forces which the navy has thrown around Nicaragua shatter any such hope for the liberals. The message follows:

SACASA'S MESSAGE

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, Jan. 21.—I gladly reply to your radio-gram. For better comprehension of the Nicaraguan problem and in order that the American people may be fully informed, I will make a fair and brief narration of the facts.

On Jan. 1, 1925, Senor Carlos Solorzano and the undersigned took the oath of office as president and vice-president, respectively, in conformity with the popular election of the previous year.

Chamorro's Treason.

On the 25th of October of the same year General Chamorro took hold of the Managua fortress thru treason, which act determined the resignation of President Solorzano.

The Nicaraguan constitution establishes that in case of the absolute or temporary absence of the president the executive power goes into the hands of the vice-president, but Chamorro persecuted me, employing violence to the point of obliging me to leave the country and having himself elected president by a discredited congress, that is, with the omission of liberal representatives.

Republics Stand by Pact.

Central American governments in compliance with the Washington treaties of 1923 expressly declared non-recognition of the Chamorro government, and the American government, guarantor of said compact, declared thru Secretary of State Kellogg and the American Legation in Nicaragua they qualified the Nicaraguan case as a question of principle and not of persons, and from the 25th of October he considered the constitutional order disturbed by the subversive movement headed by Chamorro and that the Washington treaties, which guaranteed peace in Central America, would be faithfully upheld.

After some months Chamorro, finding it impossible to obtain American recognition and popular Nicaraguan acceptance, handed his power to Senor Sebastion Uriza, who in turn resigned the same favor to Senor Adolfo Diaz.

Marine Protection.

The presidencies of Chamorro, Uriza and Diaz are equally virtiated in their stands on a constitutional basis. Moreover, the Washington compacts, sponsored by the United States, oblige the Central American signatory states to non-recognition of a government that originates from a "coup d'etat" or revolution against a recognized government, and these conventions are the same Secretary Kellogg affirmed would be observed as sponsored as they were by his government.

Nevertheless, Diaz has not only been recognized, but supported effectively, notwithstanding his being one of the principal organizers of said "coup d'etat."

Guatemala and Costa Rica True.

Guatemala and Costa Rica remain faithful to the compacts, refusing to recognize Diaz, but the state department in spite of its precise declaration it had made that the case was a question of principles and not of persons has recognized him.

Diaz lacks constitutional support and the Washington compacts invalidate him, having as his only support influential New York bankers connected with a group of Nicaraguan traders.

The responsibility of intervention affects the prestige of the American government while the yield of such intervention favors the exploiters.

During the whole of Diaz's former administration a body of American marines remained at Managua, protecting his unpopularity. Today there are again at Managua American forces to protect him against the people.

In compliance with my duty, after exhausting all pacific means during the long negotiations in Washington and Central America, and a fruitless peace conference at Corinto, while we fruitlessly proposed to submit our civil discord to the arbitration of Washington and of the Central American governments, I landed at Puerto Cabezas, organizing my cabinet for the re-establishment of constitutional order interrupted by Chamorro and Diaz.

On Dec. 23 marines were landed at Rio Grande and Puerto Cabezas. Here I was notified to disarm my guard, after surrounding the government building, menacing the same with cannons ashore and by the ships Denver and Cleveland. The alternative was to deliver my arms or abandon the town.

My government remains here disarmed in order to signify by its presence its right and possession.

U. S. Hostility.

Hostility is manifest. My government is impeded in collecting imports on timber in places under its control which in no way affects the American government of its creditors, since said imports are not comprehended in the financial plan.

I am obstructed in providing combustibles, and even provisions. Indeed, an unheard of fact.

The auxiliary schooner Albert, my only means of communication, was ordered away and a censorship established against me, thus leaving me isolated from my army and the world.

Latterly, thru the noble efforts of the American press, the censorship has been removed.

"Neutral Zones."

The neutral zones established have only served to protect Diaz and are hostile to my government.

Today I received advice from Rio Grande that a detachment of marines threw into the river about 2,000,000 cartridges exclusively our property, thus depriving us of important values with the purpose, undoubtedly, of weakening my army. Such a proceeding has no precedence between nations at peace.

However, in spite of all these obstacles, which favor Diaz, our forces continue advancing, having obtained, first at Pearl Lagoon and then in the interior, two great victories that cost Diaz about 1,500 guns, 500,000 cartridges, and two strong columns of his army were almost totally destroyed.

On Mexico.

There has been a manifest determination to accuse me of nourishing designs of changing the social order in a common campaign with Mexico. Said propaganda denounces my wicked intentions and seems simply absurd to those acquainted with my antecedents and ideas.

In regards to our armament, we purchased it in the United States previous to the embargo there and after from wherever we could get it, without compromising any nation or government.

About Cenet.

Allusion has been made latterly to American canal interests in order to explain the landing of forces, while in no manner are such interests menaced. I have declared that my government is a government of order and of respect for international agreements. The same statement has repeatedly been made by the liberal party, that support me, especially in reference to the canal.

There being no just cause for the landing of forces, apparent reasons are alleged. There is no record in Nicaraguan history of any offense against an American diplomat, not even during anomalous times. The Nicaraguan people are civilized, respect the rights of others; and demand their own rights.

Vain Hopes.

As a continental nation and by the fundamental principles of humanity and democracy nourished by the United States, this nation is highly regarded by Nicaraguans. Misgivings that have been banking exploitations that utilize national diplomacy for their own profits.

My earnest desire is for co-operation and open friendship with the United States—a political and honest commercial friendship that will benefit both Nicaragua and the United States. Thus American continental prestige will grow, otherwise it will be feared but not loved. I still trust that President Coolidge will do justice to Nicaragua.

SACASA.

EXPECT CALLES TO DEFY BULLY STAND OF U. S.

Congress Opposition to Message Grows

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. — President Coolidge's special message to congress was accepted on all sides today as constituting a blunt warning to Mexico that U. S. imperialism considers itself the sole master of the five "republics" of Central America. A warning, too, that is backed up by the presence of 16 American warships and 5,000 marines and blusjackets in waters adjacent to Mexico.

All Washington today was looking to Mexico City for the expected "comeback" of President Calles.

Vigorous Reply Expected.

It is anticipated here that Calles will make a vigorous reply, setting up the contention that Mexico is a sovereign power, and that she has as much right to recognise Sacasa and encourage him as the United States has to recognise Diaz and encourage him. It is expected, too, that Calles will challenge the right of the United States to interfere with Mexican vessels in Nicaraguan waters.

If Calles stands stiffly on his prerogative that Mexico is a sovereign power, as it is expected he will, then an extremely delicate situation is automatically created—and one that may easily lead to an armed clash, Admiral J. L. Latimer, in charge of American forces in the Caribbean is waiting for orders.

Opposition Solidifies.

Meanwhile, the president's message had the effect in congress of falling utterly to ally the strong opposition that grew on the part of the democrats and insurgent republicans. This opposition, if anything, was stronger than ever today, and it threatens to break out later in no inconsiderable proportions.

Rep. Garrett (D) of Tennessee, the minority leader, caustically criticised the president's message. He demanded to know the name of one American who has been endangered in the Nicaragua civil war.

"Protects Bond Buyers."

He called particular attention to that part of the message in which President Coolidge referred to American holders of Nicaraguan bonds, and inquired pointedly if the president considers it his duty to "protect buyers of Central American bonds, when they know the conditions and histories of those countries."

JAIL OWNER OF SHOW WHERE 76 CHILDREN DIE

Dead Were in Gallery; All Others Escape

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MONTREAL, Jan. 11. — As grief stricken parents claimed the bodies of their children, an investigation was in progress into the disastrous fire in the Laurier Palace picture theater which caused the loss of 76 lives, mostly those of children.

Arrest Owner.

The proprietor of the theater, Ameen Law, 31, and three employees of the theater were placed under arrest and released on bail later. The police arrested were the assistant manager, Michal Arie, the ticket-taker Camil Barzy, and the head usher, Alexander Berzy.

Are Related Law.

Police claim they have evidence that many of the children were admitted to the theater without escorts, in violation of law.

Bodies of the tiny victims of the fire were taken chiefly from a stairway, barely thirty feet long, leading from the east end of the theater gallery to the street, and there was mute evidence that the children were trapped here in panic, when within but a few feet of the street and safety.

Bodies Packed in Exit.

Police in removing the bodies of the children from the narrow stairway exit, found them compactly jammed, with the agony of futile struggle written on children's faces. Firemen had to chop away sections of the stairway, in order to remove some of the bodies, so tightly were they wedged.

All in Low-priced Seats.

The tragedy took its toll entirely from those who sat in the gallery—the cheaper section of the house—those sitting in the pit filing out in good order when the alarm of the blaze was given.

Today, before the theater the gaudy colored posters fleshed the name of film feature, which by some grim coincidence was "Get 'em Young."

Bandits Take Money and Bankers

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 11. — Six bandits robbed the Sapulpa State Bank at Sapulpa, near here, and escaped with $30,000 after kidnapping H. A. McCauley, president, and George Miller, assistant cashier. They were thrown out of the baddie car at the city limits.

Labor Must Refuse to Bleed and Die in Wall Street's Next Dollar War

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

THE Coolidge-Mellon-Morgen regime at Washington says that Nicaragua is slated for the same treatment meted out to Santo Domingo. In "Dollar Diplomacy" we find that Santo Domingo was, "The first of the Caribbean countries to suffer American military intervention and the practical establishment of a protectorate."

President U. S. Grant, unlike Coolidge and Kellogg in the present attack on Nicaragua, spoke out bluntly as to American intentions in Santo Domingo. He did not peddle phrases about "the protection of American lives and property," Grant declared:

"The acquisition of Santo Domingo is desirable because of its geographical position. It commands the entrance to the Caribbean Sea and the isthmus transit of commerce. It possesses the richest oil, the most capacious harbors, most salubrious climate and the most valuable products of the forests, mines and soil of all the West Indian islands. Its possession by us will in a few years build up a coastwise commerce of immense magnitude. . . In case of foreign war it will give us command of all the islands needed to and thus prevent an enemy from ever possessing herself of rendezvous on our very coast."

In the years that followed the United States securely fastened its financial tentacles upon the island, and with financial control went interference with the political life of the nation. As in Haiti, so in Santo Domingo, we find the National City Bank of New York, a Morgan-Rockefeller outfit, the dominating influence. Whenever a spark of smouldering discontent would light the fires of opposition in the island, U. S. warships were always ready to "do their stuff."

One stage of this development is carefully narrated in "Dollar Diplomacy" as follows:

"American financial and political interference in Santo Domingo finally led to armed intervention. In April 1916 another insurrection took place in Santo Domingo, and this time, on May 4, 1916, United States marines were landed. Shortly after American battleships entered the roadstead of Santo Domingo City, and under cover of a score or more long-range guns the American admiral, with a large force of marines, landed on Dominican territory."

"President Jiminez resigned and the United States recognized Dr. Henriquez y Carvajal temporary president. The state department refused to recognize this legally chosen president unless he signed a treaty with the United States which Washington had been pressing on Santo Domingo since 1915. This treaty was even more drastic than the one forced on the people in 1907, and was similar in nature and intent to the one forced by the Wilson administration on Haiti. It called for the control by American officials of the Dominican customs, treasury, army and police. President Henriquez refused recognition by the state department on such terms; whereupon, on Dec. 17, following instructions from Washington, the American customs collector refused to pay the duly elected Dominican government the revenues to which it was entitled.

"A deadlock ensued. The entire country rallied around the president; political differences were forgotten, and all confederated in their duty without pay as far as they could, owing to the refusal of the American officials to turn their salaries over to them until the treaty was signed.

"This deadlock was finally broken by the flourish of American rifles. Captain H. S. Knapp, in command of the marines, declared martial law on Nov. 29, 1916. He ousted the Dominican officials, dissolved the national legislature, forbade elections and declared himself 'supreme legislator, supreme judge and supreme executor,' established a regime of military force and court martial, set up a rigid censorship, levied taxes and increased the public debt. This military dictatorship was, according to the official proclamation of martial law, set up under instructions from Washington because the United States government . . . has urged upon Santo Domingo certain necessary measures which that government has been unwilling or unable to adopt.

"THUS THE UNITED STATES FRANKLY SET UP A MILITARY DICTATORSHIP FOR THE PURPOSE OF FORCING SANTO DOMINGO TO SIGN A TREATY GIVING TO AMERICAN INVESTORS COMPLETE CONTROL OVER THE FINANCES AND ADMINISTRATION OF THE REPUBLIC."

This National City Bank of New York City, that keeps its government at Washington continually on the jump and rushes battleships overseas in protection of the interests of "American investors" now has branches in 75 of the most important cities of 22 important countries scattered over the world. The beginning of this year saw it absorb the International Banking corporation which enebled it, in the words of the New York Time, to branch out "into a world-wide organization under the one name."

The extent of the consolidation is shown by the fact that the branches of the International Banking corporation, that will become foreign offices of the National City Bank, include eight in China, in Canton, Dairen, Henkow, Harbin, Hongkong, Peking, Shanghai and Tientsin; four in Japan, in Kobe, Osaka, Tokio and Yokohama; three in India, in Bombay, Calcutta and Rangoon, and one in Batavia, Java. Activities of the London branch will be combined with National City's office in the British capital. Branches in Spain and the Philippine Islands will continue to operate under the control of the corporation and its offices in London and San Francisco and the head office in New York.

The new branches will make an important addition to the list of National City foreign offices, which includes twenty-five in Cuba, seven in the Dominican republic and others in Argentina, Belgium, Brazil, Chile, England, France, Italy, Panama, Peru, Porto Rico, Uruguay, and Venezuela.

The above represents the ramifications of the interests of but one group of Wall Street's international bankers. It is to protect the profit interests of them all, under the high-sounding camouflage of "life and property," that "the greater navy" is demanded from congress.

For the glory of the American dollar the navy-army murder machine is sent against weaker peoples to crush and enslave them.

It can be halted in its tracks, however, by the American working class, that has always furnished the soldiers who are about to kill and die for the capitalists. Let labor spike the war machine of Wall Street, declare its solidarity with all oppressed, uniting all who toil against the common enemy profiteer for the victory of the working class.

Labor must not bleed and die to "protect" the imperialist loot in the new war.

PROF. FISHER PREDICTS STOCKS FALL, WARNS OF MONEY INFLATION DANGER

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 11. — Warning to business men that the stock market is due for a fall is contained in a statement issued by Irving Fisher, professor of economics at Yale University. Fisher comments on the new high mark set by the stock market in December, when the New York stock exchange recorded the highest average prices in its history, and says that "practically every factor that foreshadowing a fall of the stock market is now pointing in that direction."

Everything Points to Fall.

"The years of 1925 and 1926 have been unprecedented in the stock-rocketing of stocks," he said. "My index number of stock prices rose nearly 50 per cent from Jan., 1925, to Jan. 1926, and has ranged recently to 66 per cent above the base month of 1925. But these record prices of stocks seem now destined to give way to considerably lower levels during 1927."

How far the market will decline depends on the state of business, he said. If business is good, and profits large, people will sell their stocks and invest directly in business. Thus business will profit at the expense of the stock market.

Sees Inflation Danger.

Fisher warns of the danger of inflation should business take a swing upward. "Should a pronounced swing upward in business begin, the banking community ought to watch warily lest the country be tempted into a wave of deflation similar to that of 1919," he said.

The danger of inflation lies in the huge gold reserves in the federal reserve banks, he says. The federal reserve board now shows a gold reserve of 72.8 per cent, as compared with 44.5 per cent in November, 1919.

Australian Labor Party Strains at States' Governors But Swallows Governor General

SYDNEY, N. S. W.—At his recent conference the Australian Labor Party has come out against the system of state governorship. "The people," it states, "will not tolerate the exercise of autocratic power, and a personal veto by the governor, who is appointed from abroad".

It is expected that so long as the labor government remains in office in Brisbane, (Queensland) it will not agree to any governor being sent from Britain.

Strangely enough, however, the conference found nothing "undemocratic" in the autocratic governor-general who is sent from Britain to officiate for all Australia. Indeed, the conference states, "that the governor-general adequately represents the imperial connection." Why a governor for a state is "undemocratic" and why a governor-general for all Australia is not "undemocratic" is something that the militant Australian workers would like to know. To them it seems that the only logical demand is self-determination for Australia to the point of separation and the entire severance of the "imperial connection."

DON'T GET KILLED IN RUSH TO BUY TICKETS TO AIMEE'S LECTURES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—Aimee Semple McPherson announced today she was planning on leaving Los Angeles tomorrow on her lecture tour of the United States.

No matter what the outcome of her case, which will be decided one way or the other on Monday, the famous evangelist said she was going to take advantage of the "vacation" granted her by Angelus Temple and combine play with work for five or six weeks.

Prison Keepers May Turn 'Red' Now; Work Under Low Wage Scale

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(FP)—Prison keepers of Council 29, employed by the city of New York department of correction, are asking for more pay and provision for regular promotions as length of service increases.

Most of the men get less than $32 a week now. Pay ranges from $1,560 to $2,040 per year. Pay demanded would range from $1,769 to $2,500.

Grades for service are asked so that the keepers will be assured of increasing pay regularly like firemen, police and city workers of other departments.

MURDER TRIAL OF GUN TOTING PASTOR STARTS

'Austin Preacher Up for Shooting

(Special to The Daily Worker)

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 10.— Rev. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist church of Forth Worth, and nationally known fundamentalist, was to go on trial for his life in district court today.

He is charged by indictment with murder in the shooting to death of D. E. Chipps, wealthy Forth Worth lumberman, in the pastor's study at Forth Worth, last July 17.

Ask Far Death.

The battery of five prosecutors has announced it will be satisfied with nothing less than a verdict of guilty and a death sentence.

Attorneys for the defense declare their evidence will show clearly that Norris killed when he thought his own life was in danger, and that, under the circumstances, the Texas self-defense law provides a means for acquittal.

Norris' attorneys will endeavor to show that Chipps came to the pastor's study "with murder in his heart" after alleging Chipps made previous threats against the pastor.

Move Towards Hip.

According to statements made immediately after the killing Chipps went to Norris to protest against public attacks on Mayor H. C. Meacham, Chipp's close friend. In the argument that ensued, according to the Norris version, Chipps made a move toward his hip.

Norris, long known as a "gun-totin' preacher," saw the move toward the hip, and, attempting to "beat Chipps to the grab," fired several shots into Chipps' body.

Only One Gun.

Police, who went to the church immediately, have said they could find no weapon on Chipps' body, and found no gun in the room other than the one used by Norris.

Three hundred and fifty-one veniremen have been subpoenaed to appear for jury duty today.

Water Bills Loaded With 'Pork' Charges Burton, Fighting Act

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—The rivers and harbors improvement bill before the house was charged with being "loaded with pork" by Rep. Theodore Burton of Ohio, in a speech attacking the measure.

Burton's fight on the bill will probably precipitate a fight on the entire water question, before adjournment, including the diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago. Deepening of the Illinois river, as proposed in the bill is attacked bitterly.

Burton charges that those in control of the bill inclinded many projects merely to gain votes for the bill, and that the original proposal was boosted from $23,000,000 to $83,000,000.

Miner Unions to Show Passaic Picture At Neffs, O., January 18

NEFFS, Ohio, Jan 11.—The motion picture "Passaic Strike" will be shown at the Strand Theater here for the benefit of the Passaic strikers, Jan. 18, under the auspices of Local Union 2526, 3562, and 198 U. M. W. of A.

Military Lion Talks to Business Jackass

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 9.—Speaking before a meeting of the Lion's Club, an imitation of the Rotary, Kiwanis, and other Babbitt organizations, Gen. Robert Alexander of Camp Lewis made an attack on the pacifist movement. With the marvelous intelligence which characterises army officers, he not only attacked the pacifists who would interfere with his murderous profession, but said that there was proof that Russia was responsible for it. What proof he had, he failed to state.

After that the Lions gave out Christmas presents, such as a hair net to a bald headed member, crap dice and a deck of cards to a Methodist preacher, etc.

Tacoma business men are boosters for Camp Lewis which lies in the suburbs. When business at the camp is good, they make more profits. The local merchants and landlords made enormous profits during the wartime boom and have been hard hit since it collapsed, as local wages are so low that the buying power of Tacoma workers is limited. Now that Camp Lewis is being repaired and preparations are made to fit it up for the next war, they are rejoicing.

The army is asking $150,000 for new hospital accomodations in this state, half of it in the Camp Lewis area, "because the number of former service men suffering from mental diseases attributable to the late war has increased at the rate of 1,000 a year for the past four years." The business men and the warriors are agreed. They hope for more war, more profits and more lunatics.

collect damages. If the prohibition law is ever repealed the gun-toting beer and alcohol barons, accustomed to a luxurious standard of living may go into the religious business. Then Aimee McPherson may be able to tell a true kidnaping tale and the Rev. Norris will have to keep his hips healed and his liquor sealed.

FOUR murder stories appeared in two columns of a Chicago afternoon newspaper last Monday. Murder is of such common occurrence here that each incidents are not displayed in our press any more unless a husband shoots his wife. When it's the other way around and a wife kills her husband, the city editors almost yawn and grunt: "this isn't any more interesting than the story of a bank closing its doors or a government officer swindling his department." It goes in as a filler in the early Sunday editions if it happens to fit. This is a cynical city.

CIVIL war is raging in Marion, Illinois. Two gangs of bootleggers have been fighting it out with machine guns, poison gas and war planes for several months. A few days ago the G. H. Q. of one army was blown up and five soldiers killed. It is reported that only non-commissioned officers were in the headquarters when the explosion occurred. General Bieger was reported reconnoitering with a light skirmishing force in the vicinity at the time. General Shelton of the opposing army is out on bail under a $60,000 bond but declares he has not time to see the sheriff until he vanquishes General Bieger. The latter's mind is traveling in the same channel as Shelton's.

• • •

IT is said that Birger is peeved because he lost a $1,000 bet he placed with a friend that he would kill Shelton before the end of the year. In addition to the destruction of life the Birger forces also lost considerable arms and ammunition. The sheriff refuses to call for troops since he thinks the Birger might get sore and lay the country waste if the government steps in. Governor Small is not willing to interfere since both sides are alright when election day rolls around. He insisted, however, that they do not leave any unseemly blood puddles around or drop their bombs by accident on the home of a state official.

THIS is the part of Illinois that the Ku Klux Klan set out to restore to the ways of civilization. Klan Tyros, the "two-gun law enforcer," thought he could out-shoot the enemy but did not last long. His widow recently got married to a wiser if not to a braver man. He that runs away often lives to enjoy a better day and also the good things left behind by those who fight and die bravely. Still, some will fight and some will run and scientists tell us it is all a question of thyroids. The klan awakened a spirit in Williamson county that seems to be unquenchable. General Bieger published a proclamation in a newspaper in which he said: "After we (the Birger and Shelton gangs) licked the klan we split on the control of liquor. This war won't end until one side or the other is killed off." This is an example of open diplomacy that other governments would do well to emulate.

MISS Margaret Haley, editor of Margaret Haley's Bulletin, is an estimable lady who is very popular among the teachers for whom she has fought many bitter battles. Of course her present policy of depending on democrat and republican politicians and conservative labor leaders for help instead of trying to arouse the rank and file of her own organization and the rest of the labor movement into action against the school board and the capitalists who dominate it, is ineffective. But that is not what we started out to comment on.

IN a copy of Miss Haley's paper of November 30, there is an article by "A Knickerbocker Teacher" which tells of a reception given to Maria of Roumania by the children of the Knickerbocker school under the direction of the teacher. We are told that an eighth grade pupil by the name of Virginia Moore delivered a "touching address of welcome to the queen." She began, "Your majesty, queen of Roumania, we greet you with an affection that has come from the hearing of your noble werde and deeds." (Cotostaneti!)

IN return the queen was good enough to confess that she "was loved by the children of America, and America loves my peoples' children." Now the "Knickerbocker teacher" winds up with this pretty stiff, "the honor and respect were shown the distinguished visitor, nevertheless a spirit of true American democracy prevailed." This should suit flunkey McAndrew, Big Business's superintendent of schools, down to the ground.

St. Peter and Paul Bombed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11. — Saint Peter and Paul's church was bombed again, the fourth time within a year. A man hurled a bomb into the church entrance and a moment later the explosion left the portal a mass of wreckage.

Pan-American Nations Take Rap at U. S. "Economic Expansion" That Sends Warships After Merchants

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 11.—La Nacion today editorially declares that, while the newspapers in the United States profess diffarences of opinion regarding the action of the American government in dealing with Nicaragua, the newspapers of Central and South American regard American dealings in that country with suspicion.

It adds that it can see quite clearly thru the declarations appearing in American newspapers that the American policy has as its object Mexico.

The newspaper asserts that protection of the interests of Americans in Nicaragua hardly justifies intervention, arguing that citizens of one country who place themselves under the flag of another country do so voluntarily.

"If the United States would disclaim all ideas of suspicion regarding its action toward Nicaragua," the paper adds, "she will have to defend herself against charges that she is seeking economic expansion and that she sends her warships after her merchants."

Chile Set to Oppose U. S.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 11.—Deputy Enrique Matta Figueroa, liberal, has submitted a motion to the chamber of deputies by which that body, in view of the United States' attitude toward Nicaragua, would declare its adherence to the ideal expressed in the slogan "Latin America for Latin Americans." The motion also suggests that the Chilean foreign office formally notify the United States government of this attitude.

Upon the request of the Communists the motion was held over for further debate.

The President's Message on Nicaragua

specially in China.

During the year 1926 these Wall Street financial houses invested nearly two billion dollars, wrung from the American workers and farmers, in foreign countries.

The president's message is a notice that the American workers and farmers, out of whose labor the American capitalists secured the $19,000,000,000 they now have invested in foreign countries by their exploitation of the workers and farmers, must be prepared to sacrifice their lives in wars to protect these investments of the Wall Street financial houses and their right to take further great profits on these investments out of the natural resources and labor of the people of the countries in which these billions are invested.

The government at Washington will demand of them that they go to war against Mexico, against any of the South American republics which may resist this exploitation, in China, in Europe if need be, to fight for the property and interests of the Wall Street financial houses.

THIS IS THE POLICY OF FINANCIAL IMPERIALISM TO WHICH COOLIDGE HAS COMMITTED THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

NOW, before this policy of the American government involves the country in a new great imperialist war, is the time for the workers and farmers to take up the fight against American imperialism, and stop the sacrifice of American lives and the wealth produced by the workers and farmers in support of the imperialist adventurers of the Wall Street financial houses.

The Wheeler and Huddleston resolutions in the senate and house call for the withdrawal of the American naval forces and marines from Nicaragua. The workers and farmers of this country can call a halt on Coolidge's Wall Street policy by a mass demand for the adoption of these resolutions, and thus forcing Coolidge to withdraw from Nicaragua.

A victory in the fight against intervention in Nicaragua will be the beginning of a victorious struggle against the whole imperialist policy of the United States government.

Every organization of workers and farmers should immediately join in the fight against the intervention in Nicaragua and against the whole policy of financial imperialism.

BUILD A UNITED FRONT OF THE WORKERS AND FARMERS AGAINST THE THREATENING IMPERIALIST WAR. FORCE THE UNITED STATES OUT OF NICARAGUA. STOP THE THREATENING INTERVENTION IN MEXICO! HANDS OFF CHINA! DOWN WITH THE IMPERIALIST POLICY IN SUPPORT OF WALL STREET!

FREAK AMERICAN BUYS CZAR'S BABY RATTLE FOR FIVE THOUSAND

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK.—It is reported that an American has paid $5,000 for the czar's baby rattle. There are no quotations available in the municipal "millionaires' market on Rasputin's nightshirt, the czarina's camisole, the czarevitch's aronsupporter, or the Grand Duke's toothpick.

There has been no bidding whatsoever on the bullets with which Nicholas the Damned, and his spouse, and progeny were bumped off.

Porter Brotherhood Awaits New Hearing

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—After concluding successfully preliminary hearings with the United States mediation board, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters now confidently awaits the convening of that body when further hearings will be held. The original hearings were held in Chicago, Ill., and lasted from Dec. 8 to 17.

ILLINOIS SOLONS JOCKEYING FOR COMMITTEE JOBS

Aspirants on Job Early at Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 11.—Presence here of leaders of the house of representatives of the 55th General Assembly, has stirred up keen speculation over committee assignments, announcement of which will not be made until the session is resumed at 5 p. m. next Tuesday. When speaker Robert Scholes of Peoria went into a series of conferences with administration leaders in the house, practically none of the chairmanships had been agreed on. Rep. Reed Cutler of Lewistown, administration floor leader, and A. Otis Arnold of Quincy, both staunch supporters of the governor are active in the conferences.

DRYS REFUSE TO GIVE PLACE TO NEGRO BISHOP

Defend 18th, Forget the 14th Amendment

WASHINGTON—A furor of excitement attended the closing banquet here of the Citizens' Committee of One Thousand, organized to compel enforcement of the eighteenth amendment.

The excitement was caused by the committee's refusing to seat Bishop Clement, a Negro churchman of Louisville, Ky., and it afforded capitol west much fun today as they pointedly asked their dry brethren, whether the eighteenth amendment "was more sacred than the fourteenth."

Clement is chairman of the committee on race relations of the Federal Council of Churches. Originally he had been urged to attend the banquet and two tickets had been forwarded him with the suggestion he bring a guest. It was indicated by officials of the Committee of One Thousand that the barrier was set against him because of objections from the hotel management, but hotel officials stated they had had no advance information that he was even to be present.

The high light of the banquet was a letter from President Coolidge who declared that if the law "fails to be enforced, government itself fails."

Senator Sheppard ((D) of Texas, "Father of the dry law," and Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, made the keynote speeches.

Sheppard led his argument with an attack on those who purchase liquor, holding them to be guiltier than the bootlegger who sells.

Rabbi Wise Nails Abe Beckerman's Lie About Passaic Strike

ment, Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and one of the wisest labor leaders in the country, saw the mill owners in Passaic and obtained an agreement from them in which they expressed a willingness to recognize the union.' Mr. Hillman never could have made such a statement.

Never Stood in Way.

"Mr. Hillman and I did confer with a director of the Botany Mills which at that time would not even consider the matter of recognizing the union, in fairness to Albert Weisbord, it must be said that he never stood in the way of a settlement of the strike based on recognition of the union.

"I have no judgment to make of Mr. Beckerman's quarrel with the fur workers but he must not be untruthful about Weisbord to indict the Communist Party.

Weisbord Ready.

I must state for the first time, that within three weeks of the beginning of the strike, a group of men interested in the Passaic situation, including the Rev. J. H. Melish, Dr. Elliott, Paul Kellogg and myself, with little effort got Weisbord to hold himself ready to withdraw from leadership of the strike whenever we could guarantee that the strikers would receive adequate support during the remainder of the strike, for recognition of the union."

Premature Announcement.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia.—Police are trailing down the authorship of a missive, found in a Marion, Ia., letter box, reading "Col. Smith W. Brookhart's funeral will take place at Washington, Ia., on March 1, 1927!"

The note, written in large crayon red letters on the back of a handbill, is regarded as the work of a crank.

LEFKOWITZ AGAIN DENIED PROMOTION BY BOARD OF SUPERINTENDENTS IN N. Y.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 11. —(FP)— Once again Abraham Lefkowitz, legislative committee chairman of the New York Teachers' Union, has been passed over in promotions for the new term, altho he heads the list of eligibles for first assistant in history and civics in high school.

The full board of superintendents voted against the union teacher this time, tho in July the vote stood 5 to 3 rejecting. The high school list which the teacher heads expires July 1, 1928.

Lefkowitz has been charged with radical activities in connection with his participation in the teachers' union.

HOUSE VOTES FOR AIRSHIP AGAINST COOLIDGE WISHES

Yield to Cal's Stand on Battleships

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—President Coolidge's naval policy emerged battle-scarred from the house to face another barrage in the senate.

House Rejects Cal's Proposal.

Rejecting the president's request that no funds be voted for another giant airship and yielding to his demand that building of three cruisers be postponed, the house passed the naval supply bill carrying $324,694,850 for the next fiscal year.

Women Vote for Arms.

Party affiliations were thrown to the winds in the final vote. Members of the "farm bloc" were heavily represented in the vote against additional expenditures for the navy, while the three women members supported the plea for new ships of war.

Lunacy Commission Threatens 'Strike' on Account of Low Pay

(Special to The Daily Worker)

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Jan. 11. — Twelve men sitting in Jersey City chancery court as a lunacy commission refused to give a decision on a case until they were guaranteed $3 each for the day's work instead of the $2 they had heard was their rate.

The foreman declared to the court that they were on strike because the $2 would not cover their expenses getting to the court, eating and losing work for the day.

But the men finally agreed to take the $2 and kick to the sheriff.

NEW BILLS FOR FARMER RELIEF ARE INTRODUCED

Will Provide Temporary Aid to Tillers

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Declaring that there is no hope of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill passing this congress, Senator Curtis, Kansas, republican floor leader and Representative Crisp, Georgia, democrat, have introduced a new "farm relief" measure. This bi-partisan bill, the sponsors declare, will offer temporary relief to the farmer, and does not include the "objectionable features" of the previous bills.

Provides Emergency Action.

The Curtis-Crisp bill would provide a federal farm board and an appropriation of $250,000,000. The duty of the board would be to insure reasonable profit to the farmer by declaring an emergency for any crop when one existed and permitting co-operatives to buy up surplus and hold it.

The bill was introduced in the senate and house simultaneously and at the same time that the house agricultural committee started discussing farm relief measures again.

Farm Loan Bill.

Senator Norbeck and Representative Johnson of South Dakota have also introduced a bill designed to provide $6,000,000 for loans to farmers in the northwest for purchasing grains and flaxseed. The bill specifies that the money is to be used in sections affected by the drought, but the introducers predict most of the money would be used in Montana, North and South Dakota and Minnesota.

Workers (Communist) Party

Nationalization of Coal Is Lecture at N. Y. School Friday

NEW YORK, Jan. 11. — Nationalization of the coal mines, as a solution of the permanent coal crisis that afflicts our industry, will be the subject for a lecture by H. S. Raushenbush, secretary of the committee on coal and giant power, at the Workers School, 108 East 16 St., Friday night, Jan. 14 at 8 p. m., as one in the series of symposium lectures on American Labor Problems, held every Friday night.

Qualified Speaker.

Raushenbush is qualified to speak on this subject both by his position as the secretary of the committee consisting of economists, lawyers, engineers, labor leaders, publicists, business men who have been investigating the coal and power industries, and also by virtue of his authorship of several important studies on the subject, including a book entitled, "The Anthracite Question" and a pamphlet entitled, "The People's Fight for Coal and Power." As the coal industry faces a new strike in the spring of this year, this lecture should prove an important contribution to an understanding of the questions involved.

Gold and Zimmerman Speak.

On the following Friday night, Jan. 21, Ben Gold and Chas. Zimmerman, leaders in the fur and garment industries respectively, will speak on "Amalgamation in the Clothing Industry; and on January 28, Benjamin Stolberg will speak on "The Vested Interests in Organized Labor."

Cleveland Workers Arrange Big Affair for Lenin Memorial

CLEVELAND, Jan. 11. — On Jan. 23 Cleveland will hold a meeting commemorating the death of Lenin. It will take place at 2 p. m. at Moose Hall, 1901 Chester St.

Comrade Benjamin Ottlow, member of C. E. C. of the Workers (Communist) Party, will be the chief speaker for the occasion.

An excellent program is being arranged with the Lithuanian and Hungarian choruses and a symbolic pantomime representing the international struggle between world imperialism and the Communist International. This pantomime is given by the Workers Drama League of Cleveland under the direction of Com. Sadie Amter.

Tickets are 25c. A full house is expected.

Call for United Front Against Danger of New War in Leaflet Form; Rush Distribution!

The brazen attacks of American imperialism and its tool, the American government, upon Nicaragua, Mexico and China provides a unusual opportunity to arouse the masses of the American workers to realize the menacing situation looking them and to rally in the campaign in support of the struggle for emancipation of the peoples of China, Mexico and Nicaragua and against the imperialist adventures of Wall Street.

The party has issued a call addressed to the American Federation of Labor, to the socialist party, to the Industrial Workers of the World, and to all other workers' and farmers' organizations calling for united struggle against the dangers of new wars that Wall Street is planning. This open letter has been printed in leaflet form and will be distributed at $3 a thousand.

It is one of the most important duties of every party organization and of every party member in preparation for this united front to distribute thousands and thousands of copies of this call so that the message of united resistance to Wall Street will reach every worker in this country with whom we have any sort of contact. This task cannot be delayed. Days count and the party must respond immediately.

Rush all orders to: Workers (Communist) Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago.

Weinstone to Give Comparative Study of Lenin and Debs

NEW YORK, Jan. 11. — A lecture on "Debs and Lenin" by William W. Weinstone is announced at the Workers' School Forum at 108 East 14th Street, for Sunday night, Jan. 16.

The comparison of the hitherto outstanding leader of the American revolutionary workers and the outstanding leader of the Russian revolutionary workers and of the world proletariat, presents an interesting study in the entire problem of working class leadership, its nature and the qualifications that make for such leadership. It is from this angle that Comrade Weinstone will treat his subject.

On Sunday night, Jan. 23, Louis Lozowick will speak on "Art and Society." Lozowick is an outstanding proletarian artist and in addition a conscious one with a definite and conscious theory of proletarian art. His lecture will deal with the influence of social history upon the development of art.

On Jan. 30, H. W. L. Dana will speak on "Revolution and Literature," and on Feb. 6, Bernard J. Stern on "Contributions of Modern Science to Historical Materialism."

More Answers to Our Challenges

Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 4, 1927.

Dear Comrade:

In the Saturday issue of The DAILY WORKER, dated January 1, I have been challenged to state what I am doing to Keep The DAILY WORKER. I will answer the challenge with five points.

First, I am co-operating 100 percent with our local DAILY WORKER agent in building up the subscriptions of our daily.

Second, I have renewed three expired subs to our press for one year, also added two new readers, one for a year and one for six months and have renewed my own subscription for the year 1927.

Third, have appeared before labor unions and fraternal societies in behalf of The DAILY WORKER.

Fourth, I have kept the comrades of Group No. 21 on razor edge to sell certificates to save The DAILY WORKER. Our quota is $45.00. Up to date we have raised $30.00 and we are going over the top.

Fifth, I have pointed out to the local executive committee of the party that it was wrong for them to change the program as was laid down by the party to save The DAILY WORKER, with the result that Group No. 21 is carrying out the work in accordence with the program that was received from The DAILY WORKER.

In closing, may say to the comrade that challenged me, this is all I have done, which is a mere trifle; so let us keep our shoulders to the wheel and build a powerful labor press. The DAILY WORKER to fight the combined capitalist sheets and all of those that are enemies or betrayers of the working class.

Yours for the cause and on with the fight,

Comrade Bushier.

I am challenging Comrade E. W. Sells of Akron, Ohio, to show a record equal to mine in this campaign to Keep The DAILY WORKER.

We Challenge Margaret Miller, Chicago.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 4, 1927.

Dear Comrade Miller:

This, I think, I will answer your challenge.

Being secretary of a nucleus—I naturally place the question of the support of The DAILY WORKER as the main and most urgent point on the order of the nucleus business at every meeting.

Result is that in spite of the difficulties to a nucleus composed practically of all foreign speaking comrades, who are hardened with the support of their respective language papers, we have managed to raise $161.35 upto-date. That makes about $5.00 per member. Of course, our intention is not to stop there. Coupons are being sold right along and practically every comrade has donated a day's or at least a half day's wages for The DAILY WORKER.

Individually, I feel I have raised my quota, but my conscience is not resting peacefully. How can we the campaign still going on and so much at stake? I am sure my whole nucleus feels that same way about it. Practically at every meeting we manage to raise some money for The DAILY WORKKER. With this persistence, we hope to double our quota.

Fraternally yours,

Nellie Katilus, Sec.

O yes, I am challenging Comrade Margaret Miller of St. Nucleus No. 6, Chicago, to show that she and her nucleus here done as much as we have in the campaign to Keep The DAILY WORKER.

All right, Margaret, do your stuff!

FOUR MORE DIE IN GANG FEUDS AT HERRIN, ILL.

Shelton Gang Raids Birger Stronghold

HERRIN, Ill., Jan. 11.—Sheriffs of the three southern Illinois counties joined forces today in an effort to seek out those guilty in the midnight bomb and machine gun attack on "Shady Rest," a roadhouse near here, in which three men and one woman lost their lives.

20 Murders in 2 Years.

The roadhouse was located in a dense woods, 300 feet back from the highway running between Herrisburg and Marion, and was said to have been the rendesvous of the notorious Charles Birger gang, blamed for more than a score of murders in the past three years.

The roadhouse was burned to the ground and the bodies were so badly charred that positive identification was impossible. Two of the bodies were thought to be those of Steve George, a Birger henchman, and his wife. George was proprietor of Shady Rest.

Accuse Shelton Gang.

Authorities working on the case today declared their belief that the attack was made by the Shelton gang, long a rival of the Birgers for control of the bootlegging concessions in "Little Egypt."

George was identified by a finger ring. The woman's body was believed to be his wife, as she was the only women known to have been at the roadhouse at the time of the attack.

Like France.

Farmers living in the neighborhood described the scene as "just like accounts of Belleau Wood and the Argonne." J. R. Ritchey gave this account:

"At midnight all was quiet. A few minutes later a blast, obviously a bomb, resounded over the countryside. Then there was a great burst of flame and the rat-tat-tat of machine gun fire. The heavens lighted up as Shady Rest went up in smoke. Soon all was quiet again."

Millinery Workers Demand 40-Hr. Week From N. Y. Employers

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The 40-hour work week is one of the demands of the millinery workers of New York. Organized by the International Cloth Hat, Cap and Millinery Workers Union, they are asking wage increases in shops paying below present standards; penalizing of employers or foremen who work at the bench; no purchasing of ready-made hats when shop workers are not fully employed and purchasing of such hats otherwise from union shops only; security for payment of one week's wages in case the firm goes bankrupt.

Employers are asked to grant the 40-hour week if the bulk of the workers in the trade are put on that basis by agreements. Nathaniel Spector of the millinery workers' union, estimates the number of shops with which the union has written agreements at 250, employing 35 per cent of the workers; and the number of verbal agreements at 150, covering 65 per cent of the workers.

DAYTON, Ohio —(FP)—Fired for talking about the klan is the fate of E. W. Castella, president of the newly organized Dayton janitors' union. The school board's action against Castella has stirred strong labor protest.

Our Teacher.

By H. M.

OUR teacher is a big fool. He takes the bible in the morning and reads it to us. Then he asks us questions from the bible. One question I did not know so he asked: "What kind of a Catholic are you?" Many times we here prayers, even. But never say them.

On Thanksgiving Day he told the children to eat all day. But he didn't ask whether we had anything to eat. So that's the kind of fool he is. His name is Mr. Francis Simpson. He is a mean bad teacher. I hate him with all my might. Every time we make a mistake he makes fun of us. That shows how much sense he got. All of us hate him and are against him.

Bella Scoffar, Detroit, Mich.— "I happened to notice the picture in the Young Comrade Section of The DAILY WORKER. It asked who the man was and it said he was the leader of a strike and it asked where the strike was. Here is my answer: His name is Albert Weisbord. The strike is in Passaic, N. J."

WE MUST CARRY OUT THE WORK LIEBKNECHT DIED FOR!

It is now eight years that Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg were brutally murdered because they were inch good fighters for the working people. They were killed on January 16, 1919.

Liebknecht's great work was fighting against militarism and helping to organize the young workers. The old Socialists, who were already beginning to betray the workers, didn't like the work he was doing and they tried in every way to hinder him but they couldn't stop him very much.

When the war broke out most of the Socialists and trade union leaders went right over to the side of the kaiser and told the workers to go out and fight for the bosses. But Liebknecht and Luxemburg and his small band—the Spartakus League—stood firm and told the workers the truth and led the workers against the war. For that Liebknecht was put into prison.

Finally the German workers got tired of the war and started a revolution. The kaiser was overthrown and Liebknecht was let out of prison. But the workers still believed in the fake socialists and let them lead the government. Just as these fake Socialists had before supported the kaiser's war so now they went ahead suppressing the workers and handing the government over to the bosses. Liebknecht and his friends cried out against this and told the workers that they must really do in order to have a workers' government. For this the fake Socialists made a conspiracy with the old kaiser officers and butchered many hundreds of good workers and killed Liebknecht and Luxemburg.

Liebknecht's great fight and heroic death is a great source of inspiration for the revolutionary workers and workers' children the world over. The things Liebknecht fought against—militarism and the dangers of capitalist wars—we must fight against now. The things he fought for—the organization of the young workers—we must fight for now. Liebknecht has shown us the way—it is up to us to follow!

TEACHERS MUST KEEP HANDS OFF CHILDREN

By S. D.,

Frunze (Newark, N. J.) Pioneer.

HERE is what happens in our school. In case children turn around, the teacher takes them by the ear and pulls them and pulls their hair and says: "That's a nice bunch of hair to take hold of." The teacher takes us by the chin and shakes us. She also has a ruler which she uses pretty often on the children.

If we leave the room to go to the toilet the teacher gives our names to the head teacher and then we have to make up the time we are out of the room after school.

She says we should think before we talk but when we get up to talk and take some time in thinking, she hollers: "Come over here" and she shakes us and makes us cry.

I think teachers should use their hands on themselves if they like to and not on other children who don't belong to them. That's one thing we Pioneers are fighting for. The main thing we say is: We want to have a say about how our school is run and how our teachers treat us. We want no hitting or hair pulling.

LABOR SPORTS UNION HOLDS THREE-DAY SPORTS' EXHIBITION IN DETROIT

By WALTER BURKE.
(In Detroit Labor News)

Detroit will have the opportunity to witness the greatest elaborate exhibition of sports ever arranged by the Labor Sports Union of America, commencing Thursday, Jan. 13th, and lasting thru Sunday, Jan. 16. From Ohio, Illinois, Minnesota, New York and Massachusetts, sport delegations will be present to compete with Michigan groups and individuals for the honors of the first great labor sports' exhibition in Detroit.

Events at Meet.

Working men and women and working class children will participate in this exhibition which will cover a wide field of sport. High jump and running broad jump for men and women, horizontal and parallel bars, calisthenics and other group work is indicated in the program. Also a basketball game on Friday and Saturday with a banquet at the conclusion of the program on Sunday. Dances will follow the conclusion of the program each evening.

To all men and women interested in the labor sports idea and in particular to trade unionists, the coming exhibition in Detroit should be an event of the greatest importance. It must and will receive the support of everybody in the working-class movement who is desirous of keeping the sport instinct free from the poison of commercialism, in the first place and in the second place, of utilizing this instinct for developing class-consciousness and dignity, instead of letting it be used by the employers for greater profits to themselves and for killing the class spirit.

Mertel to Speak.

President Frank X. Martel, of the Detroit Federation of Labor and George R. Woonacott, of the Detroit Labor News, have shown their interest by accepting invitations as speakers at the banquet. Furthermore in addition to the local speakers the National Organiser of the Labor Sports Union will speak of the past experiences and the concrete plans for the future. The National Conference of the Labor Sports Union will take place in the nearest future. This important affair will be held at the Finish Labor Temple, 2965 14th street, near McGraw. Single admission is 50c and tickets for the entire affair are $1.50.

Senator Shortridge Raps Y. W. L.; Result New Member Gained

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—In a speech which was broadcast over the radio, Samuel Shortridge, recently re-elected to the United States senate from California, demanded repressive measures be taken against members of the Young Workers League, and especially against the Young Pioneers in certain Los Angeles schools, where their activity has become a thorn in the side of the school authorities.

As a result of this speech, patriotic organizations like the American Legion, and the Daughters of the American Revolution (?), have held meeting where the "red propaganda" was painted in lurid colors. The American Legion of Whittier, a town near Los Angeles, decided to devote their best efforts to "clean up" the communists who were endangering their "sacred institutions." The most recent publication of the Better America Federation, a Good-person organization for the chamber of Commerce, spreads the alarm about the large and successful meetings held in and around Los Angeles where Scott Nearing spoke.

The Communist bogey seems to be their favorite diversion; it has even gone so far that members of the Red Squad have visited the offices of the Needle Trades Council, headquarters of several needle trade unions, and attempted to confiscate union literature and records. All that publicity given the Communists by Senator Shortridge over the radio gave the following net results, that a class-conscious young worker who had never heard of the Young Workers League before, attended its meetings for the first time, and joined the league shortly afterwards.

Reach Compromise on Radio Control, Sen. Dill Reports

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A tentative agreement for legislation giving the government control over radio has been reached between senate and house conferees, it was announced by Senator Dill (D) of Washington.

Form Compromise.

Dill said the conferees had agreed to a compromise respecting the house provision giving Secretary Hoover full control and the senate provision creating a separate federal commission to regulate the air. He declined to give details of the compromise but reports were current that the commission would be retained to issue regulations and Hoover given power to administer them. The conferees will meet Tuesday to draft a compromise agreement.

CONTRIBUTIONS COMING IN FOR BIG WORKERS' CARNIVAL BAZAAR HERE IN FEBRUARY; PRESS AND I. L. D. BENEFIT

Among the numerous contributions expected to the $10,000 Workers' Carnival Bazaar to be held in Chicago Feb. 25, 26, 27, is the one just announced by the committee in charge. The secretary of the Lenin Branch of the Independent Workmen's Circle, S. Miller, informed the committee that the branch would donate $250 worth of articles already collected for the bazaar.

But Small Portion, Too.

This donation is only a small portion of the wealth of variety that will be offered at the bazaar. The large Ashland auditorium, in which the affair is to be held, will have booths on all sides of the hall at which a rich display of articles will be available to all who come to the bazaar. Dancing, singing, music, and scores of other attractions will be features during the three days of jolly fun. Besides this a beautiful Chrysler sedan will be given to the winner of that prize, followed by a large radio set, and numerous other prizes for the other winners.

The bazaar is being held for the benefit of The DAILY WORKER and the Jewish Daily Freiheit. The committee has also decided to donate one-third of the net profits to the International Labor Defense for its work for the class war prisoners and defendants. Dozens of comrades are working energetically to make the bazaar a unique success, and from the reports already at hand it is certain that the Ashland Auditorium, Ashland and Van Buren, will be filled every moment of the three days during which the bazaar will be running full blast. Tickets are to be had at 19 S. Lincoln St., and from members of the Workers (Communist) Party.

MINERS DEMAND SAFETY LAWS OF PA. LEGISLATURE

Anthracite Workers to Lobby State House

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 11.—(FP)—More safety laws for the miners will be demanded of the coming Pennsylvania state legislature by the anthracite union group. At a joint meeting of the executive boards of districts 1, 7 and 9, United Mine Workers of America, it was decided to demand the following safety reforms:

Demand Safety Outlets.

Safety outlets in all mines to permit escape of workers in case of explosions; prevention of the use of electricity in gaseous mines; better ventilation thru stricter regulation of the use of ventilating fans; more protection for jack-hammer men, including elimination of dust.

Asthme Compensable.

Miners' asthma shall be declared a compensable disease, says another demand. General strengthening of the workers' compensation law is called for, with higher maximum payments and shortening of the waiting period before payments are made.

Increase Mothers' Fund.

Passage of an old age pension law is urged. A larger state appropriation for the mother's assistance fund is demanded. The present inadequate allowance of $1,000,000 a year from the state should be trebled.

Blame for N. Y. Central Wreck Placed on Dead Engineer; He Can't Talk

SYCARUSE, N. Y., Jan. 11. — Responsibility for the crash of two sections of the Twentieth Century Limited in a thick fog at Sevannah, N. Y., was placed by the owners on Walter Scoville, 49, engineer, who was found dead in his cabin with his hand on the throttle.

An official statement of the New York Central railroad said Scoville failed to obey warning signals of the sealed train ahead.

Scoville was piloting the fourth section of the Twentieth Century Limited, bound for Boston. He crashed into the third section just outside of Savannah.

Labor Department Brags of Deporting Aliens; Favors More Hostility Toward Them to Hamper Citizenship Process

THE attitude of suspicion and hostility toward the alien, which seems to have prompted various bills like the Arnwil registration and the Holoday deportation bills which are now pending in congress, is evident also in the annual report of the department of labor, which has been consistently favoring these proposed anti-alien measures.

Brags of Deportations.

The National Council for Protection of Foreign-born Workers, which is fighting these registration and deportation measures, calls attention to the fact that the labor department brags that it deported more aliens last year than ever before, and that this "is one of the most important functions of the immigration service." It talks of deportations in terms of dollars and cents—how by deporting in job lots, so much money is saved; or, as the report has it, the overhead on deportations is reduced. It all sounds like a "cattle deal; and this is the department that is trying to have its deportation powers extended (thru the Holoday bill) so that business can be bigger and better next year.

Wants "Better" Methods.

"The secretary of labor's report finds room for new deportation proposals," says the National Council for Protection of Foreign-born Workers. "It finds room for recommendations for a system of alien registration, and for the revocation of citizenship papers. But no place does it offer a remedy for the disgracefully overcrowded condition of our naturalization bureaus, which makes it increasingly difficult for aliens to become citizens when they want to, and when they have complied with all the requirements.

How Offices Are Crowded.

"A recent statement from Edward T. Meyers, in charge of the Bronx Naturalization Bureau, admitted that their office is 12 months behind with its applications for citizenship papers; Director Morton A. Burgess of the Manhattan office says they are 8 months behind; and certain applicants in Brooklyn have been waiting more than 15 months. Conditions are much the same all over the country, and those who come for citizenship papers are crowded into small rooms not nearly large enough to accommodate them.

No Remedy.

"All of this calls for larger appropriations for increased office staffs and new buildings, but the secretary of labor makes such a recommendation for only one place—Seattle, Washington. The rest of the service goes along as it is, the idea seeming to be that it ought to be made as difficult as possible for the alien to become a citizen. Make him suffer for what he gets."

Council Fights Attitude.

This is the attitude being fought by the National Council for Protection of Foreign-born Workers which in addition to watching the anti-alien legislation introduced into congress is establishing naturalization classes in many cities, and offering the alien every help in obtaining his citizenship papers.

The national headquarters of the Council for Protection of Foreign-born Workers is at 41 Union Square, New York. Branch councils are now at work in Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Boston, New Haven, Denver, Seattle and West Brownsville, Pa.

SEAMEN'S LAW CAUSES OWNERS TO SHED TEARS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. —(FP)— When President Dalton of the Emergency Fleet Corporation came before the senate commerce committee to discuss the issue of government ownership and operation of the merchant marine versus private ownership and operation, Senator Copeland of New York brought up the old complaint that the LaFollette Seamen's Act makes the labor cost of running American ships greater than the labor cost of operation of foreign ships. Dalton at first agreed that this was a burden, and then said it was a law that would not be changed, and Copeland hastily remarked that he would not want it changed.

Wants Private Control.

Copeland asked questions indicating his desire to sell the government ships at a sacrifice to private interests. Senators Johnson of California, Cousens of Michigan and Fletcher of Florida emphasized the necessity for government ownership and operation if an American merchant marine is to be maintained under existing economic conditions.

Dalton, who hitherto has been known as favoring government ownership and operation, appeared anxious to be counted for private ownership when he was testifying. Johnson and Cousens were irritated by his talk of how American industrial progress is due to private initiative, and his coupling up that sentiment with endorsement of a ship subsidy.

Johnson told him he must know that the people and congress will not grant a subsidy. Cousens said Dalton's was "a strange philosophy, that the government should initiate and develop each trade route and maintain it until it became profitable, and then be bound to give it up to a private company."

British Workers Demand Freedom for Class War Victims of Big Strike

LONDON—Large sections of the British workers are strongly aroused in the nation-wide campaign for the release of the class-war victims of the Emergency Powers Act during the general strike and the miners' strike that followed.

The International Class War Prisoners' Aid, thru its secretary of the British Section, H. B. Lovell, points out the large numbers of workers still imprisoned and calls for ever greater demonstrations and activity in the struggle to release them, especially in preparation for the monster demonstration to be held on Trafalgar Square on January 16.

Resolutions and protests from local trade unions, Labor Party branches, co-operatives and other workers' organizations are pouring in in ever increased numbers but the Home Secretary's office is still silent and is likely to remain so until pressure from the rank and file force the Labor Party and trade union officialdom to act in a more decided and vigorous manner or else acts over their heads.

Member of the British Labor Party, Woman, Speaks Here Sunday

Margaret Bondfield, member of the British parliament, will be the speaker at the Chicago Forum in the Hotsinger Theater Sunday afternoon, Jan. 16. Miss Bondfield is one of the outstanding leaders of the English labor party and was the only woman member of the Ramsay MacDonald's labor government in 1924.

CAN'T LIVE ON LAYOFFS, FORD WORKERS LEARN

Time to Think Is Now, Paper Says

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 11. — "Workers can't live on layoffs," which is what the employees of the Ford Motor company have been getting in the past two months, declares the Jan. 1 issue of the Ford Worker now being distributed urging the workers to demand more wages.

The leading article in the issue says: "Henry Ford announced to the world a few months ago that all his plants would go on a five-day week henceforth; that all his employees would get the equivalent of six day's pay or more.

Not Getting Work or Pay.

"We are not getting the six days' pay, nor are we getting the five days' work, but we did get a two weeks' layoff.

"We must eat. We must pay rent or contract payments. We must buy fuel and warm clothes. In other words, WE MUST EXIST! Six days' pay is only an existance. Demand not less than six days' pay. Demand the abolishment of the ruthless speed-up, so we can all work five days a week!

"Demand your rights of life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness! In rich and Free' America."

Workers Give Facts.

This issue of the Ford Worker is filled with news of slave conditions prevailing in the Ford industries and of accounts of buncombe fed the workers, told by them. A picture of conditions may be gained from one article written by one worker, which follows:

"This 'merit plan' is the biggest farce. A worker could kill himself by speeding, yet he wouldn't get a raise if the boss does not like his face. Only a few tall wagging fingers will get a raise in this department.

"The writer has worked over four years in one of the rottenest departments in H. F., the spring job, and could not get $6.00 because he committed the Ford crime of "talking back" to the star (czar) boss. Paying a man what he is worth does not mean anything here."

"Think or Surrender."

"Think or Surrender" is the title of the editorial in the paper. If ever there was a time for the workers at Ford's and elsewhere to think, now is that time," the editorial reads. "If you now have let the capitalist class do the thinking, and like any human being, they have been thinking in their own interests. They can only think of speeding up, of getting more profits out of your labor. You are hoping for things to change; hoping for a full pay; hoping for a raise. While you are hoping they are thinking."

Paper Growing.

It is announced in this issue of the paper that the Ford Worker will hereafter appear twice each month, on the first and fifteenth day of the month. The fact that the paper is growing is attributed to the awakening of the workers, who are educating and organizing themselves to destroy a system that is destroying their health and happiness.

SEATTLE MASSES REBUKE OFFICIALDOM AND FORCE HALL USE FOR WEISBORD

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 11.—Despite every attempt on the part of officials of the labor movement here to prevent Alfred Weisbord, Passaic strike leader, speaking in Seattle, a huge meeting was held at Central Labor Union hall.

Officials of the Central Labor Union and the American Federation of Labor attempted to block the meeting by denying the use of the hall to Weisbord, but the pressure of the masses was so great, the officials were forced to permit the meeting.

The action of the rank and file here who demended the right to hear Weisbord is seen as a direct slap at tactics of federation officers. A similar attempt was made in South Bend, Ind., when Weisbord spoke there, and the masses rebuked the labor officials.

CHI FINANCIER GETS AWAY WITH INVESTORS' FUNDS

Commonwealth Reserve Head Is Hunted

Warrants were prepared by the state attorney's office for the arrest of Glenn M. Meeker, president of the Commonwealth Reserve fund, whose disappearance preceded discovery that $600,000 assets had vanished.

With "Pretty" Blonde.

Police thruout the United States and Canada were notified to be on the lookout for Meeker, who left Chicago hurriedly last Dec. 28. At the same time a pretty blonde, with whom he had been seen frequently, also disappeared.

Some "Losers."

Among the "losers" according to authorities as revealed by the books were: Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Wall, Hazlecrest, Ill., $1,145; Edward and Bridget Wolf, Quincy, Ill., $1,300; Frank and Susie Meade, Midlothian, Ill., $1,400; Asge and Carrie Schiodt, Champaign, Ill., $1,000; Mrs. Irene Mells, Modoc, Ill., $1,200; W. F. Jaffrey, Waterloo, Ia., $3,200.

The Manager's Corner

The Daily Worker Is Your Badge.

The capitalist press is exceedingly careful before it permits anyone to present its views. Reporters on the capitalist dailies are cross-examined severely before they are trusted to handle the news and the views of the ruling class. No taint of radicalism or rebellion is permitted. A correspondent must be prepared to show years of training and willing subserrience to the forces which control public opinion in the United States before he wins that coveted possession, a reporter's badge.

It is different with The DAILY WORKER. Here we have an organ which is not the property of the few, but one which is the collective and treasured property of the many. To the cause of the workers it is devoted. Against privilege and exploitation, it has sworn a death struggle. For this reason it does not fear to publish the true facts of the class struggle. For this reason it welcomes the full co-operation of all workers who are interested in the revolutionary movement and the struggle against capitalism. Readers of The DAILY WORKER are urged to send in their views of conditions under American capitalism. Our columns are open for workers' stories from the mine, mill, factory and farm. For this reason we say, "The DAILY WORKER is your badge."

Already there is springing up in various parts of the country groups of loyal and faithful DAILY WORKER correspondents, "the eyes" of our movement. No occurrence of any importance goes by without an accurate account of the facts being sent to the editor of The DAILY WORKER. In this manner The DAILY WORKER is in a position to present to its readers a broad view of the class struggle on many fronts, a real picture of the conflict as a whole. It is this broad picture which makes for an accurate estimation of the struggle, no estimation free from local, craft or national narrowness, a CLASS viewpoint, the viewpoint of the Communist. It is the duty of every comrade who reads The DAILY WORKER, to add his touch to the broad and illuminating picture, which The DAILY WORKER is painting.

Associated Silk Workers Give Money Aid to Tapestry Strikers Despite Hardships

By a Worker Correspondent.

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 11 — In spite of slack season much unemployment, and general stagnation in the trade union field just now in Paterson, the Associated Silk Workers, progressive industrial union in the "silk city"-voted $500 out of its emergency fund for the striking Tapestry Carpet Workers' Union of Philadelphia.

Two representatives of the union had come from Philadelphia to make their plea, giving the history of the 16 weeks' struggle with scabs and police.

A member of the Associated lauded he union on its traditional policy of militancy and solidarity and moved the $500. With no more discussion and without a dissenting vote, the motion was passed.

Postal Employes Hit Night Work, Fight for a Curtailment

By L. P. RINDAL,
(Worker Correspondent).

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—Postoffice clerks and carriers are out for the curtailment of night work. A bill providing a penalty against it is pending in congress. Under this measure, 45 minutes work between 6 p. m. and 6 a. m. would be equal to an hour's work in the day time, with the same pay.

According to William Emery, secretary of Los Angeles Local No. 64, National Federation of Post Office Clerks, between 250 and 400 local clerks and 75 and 100 collectors in the carriers' service are effected by the bill; the maligned total affected is around 40,000.

Government employes, backing the bill, are not after an increase in their wage, they want only annecessary night work eliminated, Emery says.

In a majority of cases, six hours of work would be equal to that now performed in eight hours. The proposed shortening of hours of the night workers is estimated to cost the government $5,000,000 annually.

LOW WAGES, LONG HOURS AND FEW JOBS IN IRON INDUSTRY OF ST. LOUIS

By ANDREW R. MARTIN.
(Worker Correspondent)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 11.—Steel works and iron foundries in St. Louis district are paying the workers from the lowest rate of 35c to the highest of 67c. Working day hours range between 9 and 10.

Indications for the future work does not seem bright. National Enamel and Stamping Co., of Granite City, last week laid off 400 men and does not know when they will be able to take on men. Commonwealth Steel Co., of Granite City, are working on present orders and the future orders are not very promising.

There are a large number of men applying for work. In one foundry plant the employment manager asserts that he turns away as high as 150 men a day.

Gurley Flynn Greeted Warmly by Spokane in Tour for Mill Strike

By a Worker Correspondent.

SPOKANE, Jan. 11. — Under the auspices of the Spokane branch of the International Labor Defense, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn spoke to a well filled hall Jan. 5.

It had been some years since Comrade Flynn spoke in Spokane, but she met the same old time enthusiasm and hearty cheers as the portrayed so vividly the great Passaic textile strike declaring that in spite of all reports to the contrary the textile workers could be organized.

She spoke highly of the great struggle of the textile strikers. Their competent and efficient leaders, most especially of Albert Weisbord, and pointed out what workers could accomplish under a united front leadership.

SCAB PAPER BOX FACTORY MAKES SLAVES OF GIRLS

By a Worker Correspondent

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 11.—This is about conditions in a scab paper box plant, A. D. Shoup Co. This factory is one of the largest around the eastern states. The girls are paid from $5.00 to about $20.00. The girls are told they are piece workers and if they make anywhere between $2.50 to $3.00 on piece work, the foreman then puts the girl on week work which is from 25c to 30c per hour, but if the girl puts out small production on week work then she is paid piece work.

Do Three Persons' Work.

Some of the girls are doing two and three girls' work. Where men are needed on heavy work, they are replacing them with girls, which means they are paid only half price.

There are girls here that have been employed for about fifteen years.

Must Scrub Floors.

When the plant is slack they are out on the floor to scrub it up. If they refuse they are discharged.

The machinist is classified as something like a foreman. All day long he walks around the machine. If he sees a girl laying down on the job he reports it to the foreman.

When the strike was called out in the paper box industries there was no beds that went out from this shop.

They have the police scouring out on their trucks every day.

More Tanks for a Deadlier War

The Chicago Tribune, as the chief mouthpiece of mid-west industrial capital and some finance thrown in, is important enough to be used as a punching bag on our editorial page. It has a circulation of well over half a million daily and over one million on Sundays. In addition, the Tribune owners also publish a weekly with a circulation over a million and a pictorial daily in New York that has passed the million mark in circulation.

The Tribune believes in the Nietzschean diplomacy, howls for a big army and navy, glorifies war and pictures those who prefer the ways of peace to the ways of slaughter as anaemic individuals who got mixed up with the female sex in nature's laboratory before they saw the light of day. Yet we are told that the Tribune's editor who writes the most savage of those jingo editorials has only one kidney, half a lung and is obliged to take iodine in his coffee to keep his thyroid glands from slipping down his throat. This is the material of which this hero is made.

William Randolph Hearst and his "man Friday" Brisbane have a monopoly on the increased circulation that a continuous howl for more warplanes may bring. The Tribune being in competition with Hearst in Chicago and New York grabbed the tank haute and is now flogging it vigorously.

The manufacturers of machinery would like nothing better than another period of war hysteria. What a killing they could make? We would have another crop of multi-millionaires. The stocks of the shipbuilding companies and the steel corporations would rise, and since the insiders would be in a position to predict a rise they could make an additional killing on the stock market. It would be a glorious era for patriotism.

The Tribune is afraid that the "people" are not conscious of the dangerous state of unpreparedness in which the United States is alleged to be. The number of "people" that are conscious of anything except that they must have food, clothing and shelter is comparatively small. The Tribune wants to make the masses nonconscious, not conscious. It is mouthing the interests of the class that will profit by war; the class that will supply the guns, tanks, warships and warplanes. The working class, alias the "people," will supply the corpses, the legless bodies and the eyeless heads.

The Tribune is digging up the old hunk about the natural peacefulness of America. When Elihu Root received the Wilson peace prize he indulged in the same hypocritical twaddle, the while United States marines were occupying Nicaragua and United States battleships were steaming towards China.

We are also told that military preparedness is insurance against war. Germany and France could tell different stories. Neither is the opposite true. Nicaragua has not a military machine big enough to make a decent Moose parade, but it possesses mineral resources which are coveted by our ruling classes. Mexico is weak militarily, but has oil. To contend that the United States is endangered by Mexico or Nicaragua is to set a valuation on public intelligence that would be resented by a moron.

Not So Fine, Mr. Fine

Nathan Fine, who until now was only known as an underground member of the socialist party, his task being to do friendly jobs for the S. P. while posing as a farmer-laborite, has thrown off his mask and appears in bold print with the announcement that as a member of the socialist party, he has a perfect right to propose its liquidation.

This amazing proposal was made in the New Leader last week. It is part of a symposium running in that paper which deals with the problem of what do with what is left of the socialist party. Most of the readers have hope for the patient's revival, but not so Mr. Fine. "It's dead," says Fine in effect, "let's bury the corpse."

Fine is almost right, but an embalmed corpse is worth something as advertising in an undertaker's window. The socialist party leaders are not going to take Mr. Fine's advice until there is a prospect of a better paying proposition in sight. Just now there isn't, outside the capitalist parties and most renegades have fared ill in those parties.

Having access to a research department Fine presents us with some interesting figures. He shows that, discounting the votes cast for socialist candidates in the vicinity of Aimee McPherson's Temple in Los Angeles, in Victor Berger's bailiwick in Milwaukee and on the east side of New York, the S. P. did not poll enough votes in 1926 to make it fire. And the vote was the sole whole and only excuse the socialist party ever had for existing. To the socialist party work in the trade unions meant hutting in on the prerogatives of the labor leaders. The labor fakers thought this attitude very nice of them.

Being no longer able to poll votes or find candidates to look for them, Fine proposes that the socialist party quit the field as a political party and become a propaganda league, with only the aim of uniting with "friendly unions, parties and individuals for political action." This action would not take place until 1928. Provided the pay check came along regularly, a socialist functionary would have a long rest between jobs even if not between meals.

Fine would have the socialists first liquidate what is left of their party and then with the corpus delicti available for public inspection they could go to the labor fakers and ask for contributions to a fund to unite with the labor fakers and other friendly individuals. They would assure the labor leaders that Communists would not be allowed into this proposed charnel house either as individuals or as organizations.

Despite Mr. Fine's animosity towards the Communists we find ourselves in agreement with him as to the political bankruptcy of the socialist party. Mr. Fine wrote a lengthy article and covered the subject very thoroly with one exception. He forgot to say that the new united bash he proposes should have a policy.

But what has the profession of vote-catching to do with policy?

We wish Mr. Fine the best of luck in his praiseworthy aim, but we fear Messrs. Hillquit and Oneal will have sense enough not to throw away their old clothing until the propects of getting new garments are brighter.

As a comic sheet the New Leader is making Life step lively.

NICARAGUA TO FOLLOW PANAMA—THE EAGLE HOVERS OVER MEXICO

WANTING A SECOND CANAL, THE UNITED STATES PROCEEDS TO TAKE NICARAGUA—THE MONROE DOCTRINE AND ROOSEVELT'S BIG STICK—TO MAKE THE CARIBBEAN AN "AMERICAN LAKE," MEXICO MUST BE SUBDUED—LATIN AMERICA CONGEALS FOR RESISTANCE—THE WORKERS OF THE UNITED STATES ARE THE NATURAL ALLIES OF THE VICTIMS OF IMPERIALISM.

By THURBER LEWIS.

SIX hundred thousand American dollars started a revolution against the liberal president Jose Santos Zelaya in 1909. Zelaya was opposed to the United States acquiring control of Fonseca Bay for a naval base and perpetual rights for an isthmian canal. Hence the revolution, which was directed by an official of an American mining company, Adolpfo Diaz, the self same gentleman who is considered president of Nicaragua by the United States.

The rebels were supported by United States marines who landed at Bluefields. Their troops and ammunition were carried on American ships flying the Nicaraguan flag. Thanks to this aid, American paid rebels under General Juan Estrada, beat the Zelaya forces, forcing the president to flee and set up a government immediately recognized by the United States.

Loan Flows.

One year later, the U. S. state department arranged for a loan to be made to Nicaragua by the American banking firm of Brown Brothers and Company. From that time on, Nicaraguans have not been able to call their land their own.

Eventually, the railways and banks of Nicaragua were completely controlled by American banks and the customs and revenues collected by American commissioners to pay off the loans forced upon the country by the banks thru pressure by the state department.

Dems and Reps Alike.

All of these things transpired under the presidency of William Howard Taft, republican. President Wilson, democrat, continued the brave work.

In 1913, the population of Nicaragua began to boil with hostilities against the American controlled President Adolfo Diaz. The chamber called for an election which refused and the unpopularity of the regime soon expressed itself in a revolt led by the liberals.

Eight U. S. ships of war with a complement of 125 officers and 2,600 men were sent to Nicaragua and took military steps against the rebels. After the marines had participated in all the important military engagements and forced the liberals to surrender, an election was held with marines "guarding" the polls. Diaz was re-elected president.

IT was also under the democrat Wilson in 1916, that a treaty was signed with President Chamorro's government granting the naval base and the rights to an isthmian canal for consideration of $3,000,000 to be paid by the United States. Nicaragua, of course, didn't see a red cent of the money. It was all to the bankers in payment of loans which they had made to Nicaragua.

Again in 1922 the Chamorro government was threatened by an uprising. With the help of the marines the government arrested 300 liberals, declared martial law and suppressed the rebellion.

The same Adolfo Diaz who was supplied with American funds in 1909 under the republican Taft, saved by U. S. bayonets in 1913 by the democrat Wilson, is being again protected by the republican Coolidge, with more American troops than have ever landed in the republic.

The Liberals Come Back.

THE most recent invasion by marines came about in the following manner. Diaz was succeeded in 1916, the year of the canal treaty, by Emiliano Chamorro. In 1920, the Diego Chamorro was made president and served until his death in 1923 when Bartolome Martinez came to power to finish out the term. Then in the elections of 1924 a liberal government was elected with Carlos Salazorno as president and Juan Sacasa as vice-president.

The Salazorno government was in trouble from its very inception. From the start it clashed with American interests because it presumed that Nicaragua was still a "sovereign nation." It made demands for the administration of its own customs, banks and railways and, in fact, regained nominal control of the latter two.

Marines Go Away.

DURING 1925 the marines were withdrawn from the country. Heretofore, the marines had been present with necessary reinforcements from time to time to maintain the various conservative governments in power. On every occasion upon which the liberals had attempted to overthrow the various American controlled governments of Diaz and the two Chamorros, the marines were on hand in strong enough force to prevent it.

Why They Went.

BUT now the marines were suddenly withdrawn. American publicists began "pointing with pride" and announcing a new era in American relations with Latin-America. But the liberals very soon found out why the marines left. The soldiers had no sooner shouldered their knap-sacks than Chamorro started a revolution against the government. Salazorno resigned and Sacasa took charge in defense of the regime. There were no marines to help him.

Thanks to secret American aid, Chamorro, was at length successful in capturing Managua. With machine guns at back his demand, he forced a special session of congress to elect himself president. Later under pressure from the United States Chamorro stepped out and allowed an old friend Diaz, more sympathetic to Wall Street to get elected by another "packed" congress. Sacasa, however, refused to recognize the election and took to the field. His arms were being crowned with success, when the marines suddenly reappeared on the scene.

The Mexican Scare.

Then it was that Diaz, plainly under the inspiration of the American charge d'affairs, Lawrence Dennis, issued his notorious statement in which he declared that Mexico was aiding Sacasa, that the country was threatened by bolshevism and that Mexico's object in intervening was to endanger the American canal.

It was upon this flimsy pretext that Admiral Latimer's entire Caribbean special squadron was reinforced and took virtual possession of the country. At this writing there are fifteen first class fighting ships in Nicaraguan waters with 5,000 blue jackets and marines. The total number of troops in the combatant forces in Nicaragua is not more than 5,000.

BUT why all this array of force for such a little country as Nicaragua that could easily be subdued with less than half as many troops? Besides Nicaragua, there is still the question of Mexico.

Intended For Mexico.

IT is no accident that these forces are being marshaled in the Caribbean at the time when the controversy with Mexico over the oil and land laws has entered its critical stage. The fact is that this big naval power now off the coast of Central America is put there for use, not only in support of the reactionary Diaz in Nicaragua, but as well in preparation for armed intervention in Mexico.

Since the Mexican constitution of 1917 asserted the rights of that country to its own natural resources and challenged the imperial expansion of the United States, the republic across the Rio Grande has been regarded by the people of Latin-America as their champion.

The Stumbling Block.

MEXICO is the stumbling block to the American design for unqualified control of the whole of Central America and the Caribbean. On top of this, the Mexican people are now asserting their sovereignty over the oil, mineral and other natural resources out of which Doheny, Standard Oil et al have made many cool millions. The precedent for intervention in Mexico has been set. In 1914 and again in 1916. The Yankees are again looking their war cries. The oil men are demanding action. This explains why there are now so many ships in the Caribbean.

THE whole of Latin-America is aroused. One of the contradictions of rampant imperialism is that a subjugated people won't stay subjugated. Most of the cards are now in Wall Street's hand. But Latin-America has still a role to play and while there is at present no consolation for them in the dollar-drunk leadership of the American Federation of Labor, the fact still remains that the working class of the United States is the natural ally of the victims of American imperialism.

Press Criticism of Coolidge

That even the capitalist press refuses to swallow the interventionist policy of Coolidge and Kellogg with regard to Latin-America is shown by the following editorial that appeared in the San Francisco Daily News. It is a typical reflection of the attitude taken towards the present crisis by a large number of dailies thruout the country:

BLUNDERS THAT MAY LEAD TO WAR

America's official policy with relation to Mexico is in the hands of President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg. The latter seems to have made it or blundered into it; the former now asks the American press and public to support it. Together they are leading the American people into war. That is what it means if they do not take warning from the people's attitude and abandon the course on which they are embarked. They may not know this. It may be one of the many things in the present situation which they do not know. But it is the fact.

If reason does not supplant the present policy of our state department, this country will soon be launched upon as shameful a military undertaking as ever besmirched a proud nation's history.

New Year's Eve, at midnight, with merrymaking reaching its height in Washington, a very different scene was being enacted in Mexico City. There the chamber of deputies, in an extraordinary session, was ringing with bitter denunciation of the government of the United States—the government, not the people of the United States. And the galleries roared their approval.

These deeply-stirred Mexican legislators were not threatening war on the United States. They threatened only to defend their country and—to die fighting. The years have proved they will do just that. Do we wish to put them once more to the proof? Or do we wish to square the American government's course with the clear desire of the American people?

Kellogg's Navy Takes Nicaragua

Admiral Julian H. Latimer is shown above with a fore-and-aft hat. He commands 15 battleships and 5,000 man who are in Nicaragua to keep the puppet President Diaz, also shown, in powar. A deck full of blue jackets shows how they deliver broadsides of small arms on Latin-American rebels from time to time. The harbor in Bluefields, the American naval headquarters. There is also shown the state house at the capital, Managua.

OIL A NEW NOVEL Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair.)

"Well, he's a practical man, and I've a great respect for him. He wants to do something, and he finds out the way and he does it. He doesn't let the government get in his way, does he? No, he has overthrown the government by bribery. By the way, son, have you seen Dan Irving's Washington letter this week?"

"The paper's at home, but I did not stop to look at it."

"Well, you'll be interested. Dan says its known to all the newspapermen in Washington that Roscoe and O'Reilly made a deal with the attorney general to buy the nomination for Harding, on condition they were to get these naval reserve leases. They've been telling government officials right and left, and newspaper men also. There's claim or for an investigation, but the gang won't let it happen."

There was a pause. Paul, watching his friend's face, saw an uneasy look, and added, "Don't talk to me about it, son—I don't want to know anything I'm not free to tell. But you and I both understand—that is capitalist government, and what has it got to do with democracy?"

Again Sunny didn't answer; and Paul said, "I think about Verne, as you call him, because I've just had a run-in with him, and he's the system to me. I want to take his power away from him; and how am I going to do it? I've bored the compass, trying to figure out how it can be done legally. He's got the courts, and they'll call anything legal that he says, they'll wind you up in a spider's web of technicalities. He's got the machinery for reaching the masses—you can't tell them anything but what he wants them to hear. He's got the movies—people say he has a movie star for a mistress—maybe you know about that. And you've been to college—O'Reilly attends to that, im told. We could never get a majority vote—because Verne has the ballot boxes. Only once have we elected anybody he'd have them bought before they got into office. The more I think of the idea that he would give in to paper ballots—the crazier it seems to me."

"But then, Paul, what can you hope for?"

"I'm going to the workers! Verne's oil workers are the basis of his power—they're scared to death and they can be reached, they're not scattered all over. They have one common job and one common interest—they want the wealth that Verne takes from them. Of course, they know that only dimly; they read his newspapers, and go to his movies. But we're going to teach them—and when they have the oil wells how can Verne get them back?"

"He'll send troops and take them, Paul!"

"He won't send troops because we'll have the railwaymen. We'll have the telegraphers and they'll send our messages instead of his. We'll have the men in all the key industries—we're going out to organize them and tell them exactly how to do it—all power to the unions."

Sunny was contemplating once more the vision which his friend had brought back from Siberia. And Paul went on, with that condescending air that had always impressed Sunny and infuriated his sister. "It seems dreadful to you, because it means a fight and you don't want to fight—you don't have to. The men for this job are the ones that have had the iron in their souls—men that have been beaten and crushed, thrown into jail and starved there. That's how Verne makes the revolution, he throws us into jail and lets us rot. We lie there and have bitter, black thoughts! All the Bolsheviks got their training in dungeons; and now the masters are giving the same course in America. It's not only that we're tempered and made hard it's that we become marked men, the workers know us; the poor slavas that don't dare move a hand for themselves, they learn that there are fellows they can trust, that won't sell them out to Verne Roscoe! I'm going back to Paradise, son, and teach Communism, and if Verne has me arrested again, the Moscow program will go into the court records of San Elido county."

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

HERE we are again celebrating our third anniversary and as confident of celebrating another as we were of celebrating the second. We are not indulging in an idle boast because we have survived during years that have seen labor publications go into stargor back into the pulp mills. What we intend to do on this third anniversary of The DAILY WORKER is to call the attention of the working class as vigorously and as earnestly as we possibly can to a cause which The DAILY has battled since it was founded, in addition to others. But this one is the most pressing. It is the cause of Sacco and Vanzetti who sit with the sword of capitalist injustice hanging over their heads.

THIS story has often been told. But it must be told as long as their lives are in danger. That will be the case until the jail doors open for them and they are again free, at least as free as workers can be under this rotten system of ours. Sacco and Vanzetti are the victims of as foul a crime as was ever perpetrated on members of the American working class in a country famous for frame-ups. It is the task of the American workers to set them free. It is in their power to do it. Once they realize this we are sure they will consider no sacrifice too great to force the hands of the Massachusetts jailers. The details of this frame-up are brief the two Italian labor agitators probably familiar to all of you. In

BIG RAILROAD INTERESTS CONSOLIDATE HOLDINGS IN PENNSYLVANIA COAL MINES

CLEVELAND, Jan. 12.—(FP)—Consolidation of large mining interests controlled by railroad capital is seen in the election of Michael Gallagher of Cleveland as chairman of 8 boards of trustees, each of which administers a Van Sweringen coal interest.

Unification of control of these extensive properties, including the Pocahontas Coal Co. which has both anthracite and bituminous mines in 8 Pennsylvania counties, is a move of the Van Sweringens in pushing their huge railroad merger.

TAX HEARING ON FORD STOCK SALE REVEALS PROFITS

Investment of $48,000 Brings $52,000,000

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 12.—Staggering profits of the Ford Motor company were revealed in the opening of the huge tax appeal case in which the government seeks to collect $34,000,000 from Geo. James Couzens and other former stockholders of the Ford company. Joseph E. Davies, former chairman of the federal tax commission, now a defense attorney, gave facts showing how Ford piled profits upon profits in an almost unending pyramid.

$100 Brings $52,000 in 10 years.

One hundred dollars invested in the Ford company at the time of its organization in 1903 earned $52,174 in 10 years, Davies revealed.

"In 10 years, with an initial investment of but $48,000 in actual cash, the Ford company had paid $28,000,000 in dividends and had amassed $22,000,000 in property," Davies declared. "In 1904, the company made $200,000. By 1907, those earnings had increased five fold and were $1,011,000. Within two years these earnings had been doubled and were $2,500,000 Within three years these earnings were again multiplied five times and were $13,000,000 for the year. In another year, they were again doubled and amounted to $26,000,000.

Surplus Tremendous.

"The growth of the company's surplus was no less remarkable. Starting with a surplus of $153,000 in 1904, in three years its surplus had reached $1,377,000. Three years later, it had reached $3,366,000. Within two more years or in 1912 the surplus was $14,745,000. On March 1, 1918, it had increased to $22,000,000."

Claim Tax Too High

The startling earnings were revealed by Davies in outlining the position taken by the former stockholders. Senator Couzens and his co-defendants dispute claims of the government that the $9.59 value per share set by the bureau of internal revenue as the value of the stock as of Mar. 1, 1913, was too high. In fixing the LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—Jan. 15 is a "red letter" day for Los Angeles workers when the third anniversary of The DAILY WORKER will be celebrated here with a banquet. Arrangements for more than 500 have been made at the Co-operative center when the militant workers of Los Angeles will gather to celebrate three years of leadership of the only English working-class daily in the United States.

The week after, on Jan. 21, the Lenin memorial meeting will be held at the Co-operative, 2607 Brooklyn avenue. Albert Weisbord, leader of the Passaic strike, will be the main speaker. Tickets for this mass meeting are 25 cents.

15,000 TROOPS QUIETLY MASSED ON MEX. BORDER

War Dept. Says "No Significance"

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Fifteen thousand soldiers have for some time been concentrated along the Mexican border in anticipation of "possible trouble" with Mexico, it was said today at the war department.

It was emphasized, however, that "this concentration was in no way connected with the danger of war" contained in the present strained relations between the United States and the southern republic. Officials of the war department also added that recent orders transferring an unusual number of army officers to border posts have no special significance in the present crisis."

Only Organized Forces There.

The army's forces on the Texas and Arizona borders include the only completely organized infantry and cavalry divisions, which were described at the war department as "the only readily mobilizable units in the country." These divisions are the 2nd infantry, with headquarters in San Antonio, and the 1st cavalry, with headquarters in El Paso.

American forces stationed at or near the border include:

Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex.—2nd infantry division, commanded by Major General William D. Connor, made up of the 1st, 9th, 20th and 23rd infantry regiments, and the 12th and 15th field artillery regiments; total strength: 330 officers and 6,160 men.

Fort Brown, Brownsville, Texas — 12th cavalry, commanded by Colonel William T. Johnson; 1,000 men.

Fort Ringgold, Rio Grande City, Texas—One squadron of the 12th cavalry, commanded by Lcint. Col. C. O. Thomas, Jr.; 300 men.

Artillery Regiment.

Fort McIntosh, Laredo, Texas—4th field artillery regiment (less one battalion), commanded by Colonel Robert Foy; 500 men.

Fort Clark, Texas — 1st cavalry brigade, commanded by Brig. Gen. Leroy Eltinge; 5th cavalry regiment, commanded by Colonel W. B. Scales; 500 men.

Eagle Pass, Texas—Cavalry detachment of 23 men.

Marfa, Texas—1st cavalry regiment, commanded by Colonel Conrad S. Babcock; 500 men.

Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas—1st cavalry division, commanded by Brig. Gen. Edwin B. Winans, made up 7th cavalry regiment, commanded by Col. Pitchugh Lee; 8th cavalry regiment, commanded by Colonel Samuel McP. Rutherford; one battalion of the 29th field artillery; one battalion of the 8th engineers (mounted); 2,000 men.

Troops from 9th Corps Area.

Mexico Replies To "Big Stick" Talk; Liberals Cut Off

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Admiral Julian S. Latimer, in command of American forces in the Caribbean, has received instructions to entirely bottle up the liberals and has extended his control over the entire east coast of Nicaragua.

Mexico has sent a reply to Coolidge's "big stick" message to the senate in which Mexico's rights as a sovereign nation are firmly upheld and the position of the United States as an aggressor exposed.

Kellogg Before Committee.

Secretary of State Kellogg went before the senatorial investigation committee on Nicaragua, as the congressional opposition to the administration on the southern invasion took on a more belligerent tone.

These are the outstandng new developments in the powder magazine situation that has been created by the imperialist march of the U. S. thru Latin America.

Ascending the Escondia River for a distance of 60 miles, U. S. marines have established a neutral zone in the heart of the country as a further extension of the U. S. offensive against the rebels who are now harried from the entire Atlantic coast by similar "neutral zones."

Liberals Cut Off.

The situation for the liberals, it is reported, here is becoming very difficult. They are cut off from food and munitions entirely and are unable to follow up their victories over the Diaz forces that hrot them to the gates of the capital last week. The transport Argonne is said to have landed five hundred more troops at Bluefields.

While these offensive operations of the U. S. military in Nicaragua are going on, Mexico is expressing its determination to defend its independence. The message, signed by Aaron Sanas, Mexican minister of foreign affairs and released thru the Mexican embassy here, does not deny that arms were supplied to the Sacasa government of Nicaragua from Mexico. He declared that the Central American convention of 1923 gives Mexico the right to recognize Sacasa. So far as the "confiscation" charges with regard to American oil property in Mexico is concerned, the minister said that Mexico proposed no such action and that every American was entitled at any time to appeal his case to the mixed-claims committee sitting in Washington.

Ridicule Mexican War Charges.

The statement ridicules the suggestion that Mexico wishes to face the United States in a military way, but is emphatic in its declaration that Mexico is prepared to go to any length to preserve its independence against all aggressors.

For three hours today, Secretary of State Kellogg labored behind closed doors with the senate foreign relations committee, endeavoring to convince its members that the administration's "big stick" policy in Central America is justified by the trend of events there.

Failed to Move Opposition.

At the conclusion of his three-hour argument, it was apparent that he had failed to convert those who have strenuously opposed the intervention in Nicaragua's civil war, for opponents of the administration's policy left the session declaring their opinions unchanged.

Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, chairman of the committee and one of the most persistent critics of the dispatch of warships and marines to the Caribbean, declined to say anything after the session.

"I know of nothing new in this situation," said Senator Shipstead (Fl.) of Minnesota, who opposed intervention, "and my opinion is unchanged. The facts as revealed to my opinion, do not justify our intervention in Nicaragua."

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DECATUR, Ill., Jan. 12.—(FP)—66 "aputy sheriffs who guarded the Wabash railroad scabs at Decatur during the shopmen's strike of 1922 are suing Macon county for back pay totalling more than $6,000.

The county contends that the men were wall paid by the Wabash at the time. The men were given $5 a day and board by the railroads.

U. S. MISSION OF FORTY ASKS FAIR DEAL FOR MEXICO

Thinks Calles' Program Should Have Chance

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12.—Hubert C. Herring, who is the leader of an unofficial investigating committee of 40 professional men investigating conditions in Mexico, commends the Calles government on the progress it has shown in constructing the country and believes that the United States should allow the Mexicans to handle their affairs in their own way.

"Mexico is weaker than we," said Herring, "with the accrued liabilities of 400 years of tyranny. Mexico at present is balancing her budget, building schools, roads and irrigation work, recovering the alienated rights of Indians, to right the wrongs of centuries. Who are we to deny her the right?

"Herein lies the peril of constant pressure and reiterated insistence upon legal rights—all this gives comfort to those who would plunge Mexico into bloody rebellion and encourages those who would undo all the accomplishments of the Mexican revolution.

"For the first time in 400 years there is hope in Mexico. We cannot understand Mexico without going back to our own revolutionary days, when men fought with a courage which would not be denied and with a hope which saw beyond disorder and tyranny to democracy and peace."

KELLOGG RAISES 'RED' SCARE TO COVER INVASION

Attributes Latin-Hate to Communists

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Raising again the old reliable smokescreen of "Bolshevism", Wall Street's Secretary of State Kellogg, speaking before the senate committee on foreign relations, declared that "international Communists" are stirring up anti-American feeling in Mexico, according to a statement made public by Senator Borah, chairman of the committee.

The Fear of Dollar Diplomacy.

"The Bolshevik leaders have had very definite ideas with respect to the role which Mexico and Latin America are to play in their general program of revolution," said the statement.

"Communists in the United States have been repeatedly instructed to devote special attention to the struggle against 'American imperialism' in Latin America and to the organization of resistance to the United States.

"They have set up as one of their fundamental tasks the destruction of what they term American imperialism as a necessary prerequisite to the successful development of the international revolutionary movement in the new world."

To Cover Up Latin Resentment.

This statement was plainly made by Kellogg as an explanation of the storm of opposition to the American invasion of Nicaragua now sweeping Latin America and causing a deluge of criticism of the state department in this country. It follows the line of Kellogg-Coolidge policy towards Mexico which has also been marked by a well organized propaganda campaign posing the Calles government as a source of "Bolshevism" that is spreading through Latin America.

Anti-Imperialist League Replies.

Replying to the Kellogg charges, the Washington representative of the All-American Anti-Imperialist League whose sections in the United States and Latin America have been conducting a campaign against the military occupation of Nicaragua, said:

"Secretary of State Kellogg will not deceive anyone by his desperate charges. The truth is that 'anti-American' feeling in Latin America, if such it can be called, is due not to the Communists, but to the activities of Secretary Kellogg himself, in company with the other agents of Wall Street imperialism who make up the government at Washington.

"With U. S. military and naval forces making the Caribbean Sea an American lake, with president U. S. imperialist threats against Mexico and with U. S. marines occupying the soil of Nicaragua at the present moment, in defiance of the overwhelming majority of the Nicaraguan nation,—it is not necessary to ask why Latin America is uniting against Wall Street and Washington.

Brutal Policy.

"The All-America Anti-Imperialist League, organized to unite all anti-imperialist elements against American imperialism, is able to do so only because the brutal policy of American

AUSTRALIAN LABOR HEAD IS PLEASED WITH 'DAILY'; ASKS ONE FOR OWN LAND

That The DAILY WORKER finds a response among militant workers not only in the United States but, everywhere in the world where English is spoken is shown by the appreciation of The DAILY received from the secretary of the Labor Council of New South Wales (Australia). The latter reads:

"We appreciate reading your paper and it would be pleasing if we had in this country a daily such as you have in America."

Greetings from Mexican Communist Party

MEXICO, D. F., January 7, 1927.

DEAR COMRADES: The third anniversary of The DAILY WORKER is an opportune date for the Communist Party of Mexico to extend its warmest greetings to our fighting brothers of the Workers (Communist) Party of America who have succeeded in planting the red flag of the revolution in the very heart of international capitalism.

The DAILY WORKER represents an impulse which should be initiated and diffused thruout the whole continent.

If The DAILY WORKER had a Spanish section it would find a wide circulation thruout Latin America especially at this time when the struggle against American imperialism is more marked than ever before.

The exchange of permanent language sections in our respective organs would be an effective way of uniting our press in the struggle against Wall Street imperialism.

WORKERS OF THE WORLD, UNITE!

RAFAEL CARRILLO, General Secretary,
Communist Party of Mexico.

GET YOUR UNION TO TELEGRAPH CONGRESS TODAY! WITHDRAW ALL U. S. WARSHIPS FROM NICARAGUA! NO INTERVENTION IN MEXICO! HANDS OFF CHINA! DON'T DELAY!

AL SMITH AND JIMMY WALKER PRAISE 'RIGHTS'

Left Wingers in Unions Are "Un-American"

By GORDON GASCADEN
(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Jan. 12.—Labor's enemies are fast uniting in their war on militant New York labor, the political heads of this state and city being the latest foes to openly declare themselves as ready to do the bidding of their capitalist masters.

"Un-American."

Declaring that all left-wing labor forces are "un-American" and "unpatriotic," Governor "Al" Smith and Mayor "Jimmie" Walker joined William L. De Bost, president of the New York state chamber of commerce, in praising the generalship of Henry H. Pinder, for two and one-half years president of the Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc.

The occasion was a banquet in honor of the anti-labor head of the cloak manufacturers, held at the Hotel Plaza, and attended by 500 pronounced enemies of organised labor. Various speakers sounded the praises of the general who fought progressive labor thru alliance with reactionary labor groups.

"Smith for President."

Governor Smith, who has been selected by the Knights of Columbus wing of the democrat party to enter the contest for the presidential nomination of that party, explained the labor plank of the presidential program of the K. of C.

This program, it is expected, will rally all the reactionary forces of the American Federation of Labor machine to the Smith bandwagon.

"Pressure of public business during the legislative session prevents my attending the dinner in honor of your president, Mr. Henry H. Pinder," Governor Smith declared in a letter read at the banquet.

"I regret this all the more keenly as the problems of your industry are not unfamiliar to me, and as I have first hand knowledge of Mr. Pinder's courageous and sound leadership.

Appreciates Strike-Breakers.

"I wish I could express in his presence my appreciation for his efforts to avert, and later to settle the recent strike—one of the costliest and longest in the history of your industry.

"Enlightened leaders realize that avoidable industrial warfare is wasteful and profitless to employers and brings suffering and misery to the workers and their families.

"Responsible leaders of the American labor movement have always shown a willingness to sit around a table with their employers to achieve their just demands by peaceful negotiation before they resort to a strike.

"Mediation."

"A labor leadership which discourages mediation and voluntary arbitration and which refuses to recognize the interest of the public in industrial disputes is short-sighted, and when it concerns itself primarily with warfare, and characterises the public interest as 'class collaboration' it is un-American."

Walker Echoes.

Mayor Walker echoed Governor Smith's sentiments about the "un-American" attitude of left wing labor leaders, which the president of the state chamber of commerce and various anti-labor leaders applauded. Nor are New York state and city politicians and anti-labor leaders the only politicians attacking left-wing labor.

"Yellow" socialists and reactionary craft union bureaucrats, as a matter of course, denounce every labor group favoring a solid labor front in the class war.

Bedfellows.

So do capitalist newspapers, such "liberal" publications as the New York World and the "fair" New York Times carrying editorial denunciations under the cloak of "news" stories.

The extreme "right" capitalist press joins the A. F. of L. bureaucrats in their campaign against progressive unionism.

The New York Commercial, recently consolidated with the N. Y. Journal of Commerce, devoted one of its last editorials to an attack on the left wing and an eulogy of the right wing leadership of labor unions.

Slight Quake in Kansas.

McPHERSON, Kan., Jan. 12.—Residents of this city and others reported a slight earthquake shock was felt today. A keystone over an arched window in a stone building dropped out of place to the sidewalk in the business section of town. No other damage was reported.

"Ma" Pardons 32 More.

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 12.— Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today ran her clemency total for her two year term to 3,190 by announcing 33 full pardons.

SECRETARY OF "YOUNG ASIA" SENDS COMPLIMENTS TO DAILY WORKER FOR ITS DEFENSE OF OPPRESSED PEOPLES

ALTHO not having the honor of being a member of the Workers Party of America, on whose service The DAILY WORKER is faithfully devoted, I take great pride in congratulating you upon the fourth birthday of your great paper. As a reader, a subscriber, and a student of international politics, I must express my sincere gratitude to you for providing me with news and information that are not distorted by venal imperialist bias and special articles that do not bear the foul smell of "imperialist apologetics." As a native of an oppressed nation in the East, I think I am muttering the sentiment of the majority of the oppressed peoples of Asia when I say, without hesitation, that every sincere anti-imperialist is indebted to The DAILY WORKER for the militant attitude it has maintained and for the splendid work it has done in the three years of its existence.

Every morning, my mind often disturbed by the reading of the Chicago Tribune the night before, I have eagerly awaited The DAILY WORKER. Like a summer shower, it inveriably refreshes my intellect and immediately brings me back to my senses. I am not flattering The DAILY WORKER because I knew it needs no flatterer. I am simply expressing my sincerest convictions and sentiments about your paper. I think it is answering a definite demand and tho it does not boast of being "the world's greatest newspaper," I believe it is FIGHTING FOR THE CAUSE AND SUPPORTING THE VITAL INTERESTS OF THE MAJORITY OF THE PEOPLE ON EARTH. From the nature of tha papar I can judge that it is not merely American but INTERNATIONAL IN SCOPE. It truly BEARS A WORLD INTEREST and every conscious member of the oppressed alase should contribute to its support and should be benefited by it. I am confident that as long as tha cause for its existance remains, The DAILY WORKER has a mission to fulfill. Therefore, allow me to extend my hearty greetings on its fourth birthday and, with a thankful heart, permit me to assure you that conscientious representatives of tha oppressed nations of the East are as earnest supporters of The DAILY WORKER as tha most militant elements of the American proletariat!

Fraternally yours,
CH'AO-TING CHI, General Secretary, "Young Asia."

imperialism has aroused resistance against it. This resistance is the basis of our league, which fights for the withdrawal of all U. S. troops from foreign soil, the independence of U. S. colonies and semi-colonies and repudiation of the imperialistic Monroe Doctrine.

"Just now we demand immediate withdrawal of U. S. forces from Nicaragua and hands off Mexico! Let Secretary Kellogg meet these demands—the demands of all Latin Americans from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn, as well as of workers and farmers in the United States—instead of talking about the Communists.

"The All-American Anti-imperialist League is by no means a Communist organization, but we certainly do not repudiate the Communists, who stand by us in the struggle against American imperialism. Indeed, we freely admit that Communists are welcomed in our various national sections. However, it is outraged Latin American nationalism, not Communism, that supplies the great body of support for our movement, in the United States itself—the home country of imperialism—things are somewhat different. Here the Communists are our most active support. We have nothing to apologize for about this fact. All organizations willing to take up the fight against American imperialism are welcome."

amount of tax due. It was necessary to fix the 1913 value, as the difference between this figure and the price at which the stockholders sold their shares to Henry Ford, represents the amount on which the taxes were computed.

The figure set in 1913 was declared unfair by a subsequent regime in the bureau of internal revenue, almost five years later.

Should the government's contention be sustained, that a commissioner of internal revenue can set aside the acts of his predecessors, and levy additional assessments, Mr. Davies declared "there would be no security in other business or property rights of the citizens of this government."

CHICAGO FOREIGN-BORN CONFERENCE SCORES SUCCESS

More Than 100 Labor Bodies Represented

Representatives from over 100 trade unions and fraternal organizations attended a conference called by the Chicago Council for the Protection of Foreign-Born at Machinists' Hall, 113 S. Ashland Blvd., to protest the anti-alien bills now pending in congress and likely to come up any day. Plans were laid to conduct a permanent campaign against any legislation threatening the welfare of foreign-born residents in the United States.

Hit Aswell Bill.

Delegates branded the Aswell bill which calls for the registration of all aliens living in the United States as an attempt to crush the organized labor movement and as part of an "open shop" campaign sponsored by the National Manufacturers' Association and advocated by Elbert H. Gary and other large business interests in the country.

Also Holiday Bill.

The conference was unanimous in attacking the new voluntary registration bill offered by Representative Holaday from Illinois at this session and the argument advanced by Holaday that thru this means the 5,000,000 aliens living in this country would be assisted to become citizens as only a sugar coating of the pill, the Aswell bill, which has been consistently fought by labor. "They are determined to get this poison of police espionage into our system of government. This is only another version of their persistence to push these measures thru," the organizer of the Council told the delegates.

Elect Committees.

Committees were elected to conduct agitation work thruout the labor movement to rally members of organized labor in Chicago in the opposition against these measures. It was declared at the meeting that passage of the Aswell bill will be attempted at any time and immediate action on the part of labor organizations was urged.

Resolutions were adopted and copies were sent to all Illinois congressmen. Acting was also taken in opposition to the favorable stand adopted by the Chicago Federation of Labor in support of this campaign. Meetings of the conference will be held once a month. Part of the work of the council is to aid aliens to become naturalized. Clarence Darrow, Chicago attorney, is legal adviser of the council.

Mass 15,000 Troops on Mexican Border

Arizona—1st battalion of the 25th infantry.

Fort Huachuca, Arizona—10th cavalry, commanded by Colonel L. C. Scherer; 700 men.

Camp Stevens D. Little, Nogales, Arizona—25th infantry, commanded by Colonel Andrew J. Dougherty; 700 men.

Troops in the 9th corps area available in an emergency include 600 men of the 11th cavalry, stationed at Presidio, Calif., and commanded by Colonel Leon B. Kromer, and 800 men of the 6th and 13th cavalry regiments and the 76th field artillery, stationed at Fort D. R. Russell, Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Air Corps Ready.

These troops are augmented by the usual auxiliary units such as headquarters companies, quartermaster detachments, medical units, machine gun squadrons, etc. In addition the aid corps has machines and pilots at Fort Brown and Fort Clark as well as at the various flying fields in Texas and other southern states. Another force that could be called upon in an emergency is the army's "good will" fliers who recently started on a South American air voyage. These airmen were reported today as being in Salvador, Central America.

Breathe the Spirit of Class Struggle Into the Opposition to "the War"

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

OPPOSITION to the imperialist aggressions of Wall Street's government at Washington against the peoples of Latin-America comes from certain well-defined sources.

It is no accident that Huddleston and Hadlin, of Alabama; Caraway, of Arkansas, and other "southern-era" in congress are in the lead of tha fight against the "war policies" of the Coolidge-Mellon administration.

• • •

"The South" is far divorced from the great banking centers of New York, Philadelphia and Chicago. It has no great war munitions prodncing industries. It is not drawn strongly into the imperialist current. It wants a foreign market for its surplus cotton crop, to be sure, but it trras a cold shonlder on Wall Street's financial conquest of Latin-America.

• • •

This is quite a change from the days ante-dating the Civil War when "The South" directed its landhungry gaze toward the West Indies and South America as possible new slave territory.

The protestant South is not interested today in the religious phase of the Wall Street-catholic attack on Mexico. Oil and rubber passes it by, as well as Mexican land haws hostile to alien profiteers.

It was different, however, when the slave-holding South, in control of tha national government at Washington, launched an unprovoked war against Mexico to force the annexation of Texas and a large extent of other tarritory. But the bonnds of possible expansion were soon reached on continental America. Even much of the land taken from Mexico was closed to chattel slavery by the encroachments of the wage labor society of the north.

It was then that the chattel slave oligarchy in desperation turned to the tropical countries and islands further south The southern statesmen talked in Napoleonic terms of a manifest destiny" that was driving them on to the possession of Cuba and the Valley of the Amazon.

DeBow's Review, Vol. XVII, p. 280, contains a report of a convention held at Memphis, Tenn., in 1853, whare a long resolution on the opening of the Amazon was adopted, beginning as follows:

"Resolved, That the interests of commerce, the cause of civilization, and the mandates of high heaven, require the Atlantic slopes of South America to be subdued and replenished."

Thus envious eyes turned toward Cuba at this time, and the descriptions of the atrocities of Spanish rule in that island, according to A. M. Simons, "Social Forces in American History," read very much like the writings which appeared upon that same subject almost 50 years later, when Northern capitalism was, in its turn, struggling for expansion and launched forth on the imperialistic adventure known as the Spanish-American War.

Today, however, the South is not much concerned with Wall Street's "manifest destiny" as the financial kaiser of the world and Huddleston, Heflin and Caraway make their anti-war speeches knowing that they will not be opposed at home. Of course, when we actually breaks they will be ont selling "liberty bonds" along with the rest. Such is their loyalty to capitalism.

Farmers are inherently anti-imperialist. They look on the international bankers as their enemies. It is easy, therefore, for Sen. Wheeler, (democrat of Montana) professing belief in the destiny of capitalism, to make anti-war speeches, thus catering to the farmers and maintaining opposition to the republicans. Wheeler was in opposition, to some extent, in the world war. Sen. Norris (republican of Nebraska) responds in the same way to the agricultural interests of his state, that are concerned more with selling wheat and corn than with the protection of "vested interests" in Latin-America.

The playing of politics within the old parties, however, can be seen as an effective gag on the war opposition in congress.

Senator Borah (republican of Idaho) seems to have hamstrung his usual anti-imperialist attack with his presidential ambitions, now being nursed again in anticipation of next year's elections. He cannot get the treasured nomination without some assistance from the moneyed East.

The LaFollette group has been basking for a few weeks now in the warm sunshine of Wall Street's "Old Guard" and seems to like it. No one has heard any great cry against the threatening war from Senators Frazier and Nye, of North Dakota; from the farmer-labor senator, Hendrik Shipstad, of Minnesota; from Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin. They have all been strangely silent; silenced, it seems, with favors either already delivered or hoped for.

Laurence Todd, the Federated Press representative at Washington, points out that, "When Senator Shipstad of Minnesota, farmer-labor, member of the committee on foreign affairs, said he had been unable to get information as to why the armed expedition (against Nicaragua) was sent, or where it was to lead the country to, Senator Copeland (democrat of New York) suggested that since Shipstad had been eating breakfast at the White House he ought to inquire there. Shipstad replied that he had gathered no information from the president at these meetings."

Nevertheless, Shipstad seems to lean much closer to the White House than he does toward the workers and farmers of Minnesota.

• • •

The large foreign-born populations thru all the middle western states, in addition to the fact that they are agricultural states, made American entrance into the world war extremely unpopular among them. The elder LaFollette was the leader of the opposition until he was threatened with expulsion from the senate. Then he pulled in his horns sufficiently to hold his seat. The younger LaFollette evidently does not intend even to run the risk of being thrown out of the senate.

• • •

Victor L. Berger, the socialist congressman from Milwaukee, is also very much mum. Berger has looked on with approval at past interventions in Mexico. He has taken the position that Wall Street imperialism's conquest of Mexico and the other Latin-American countries would hasten the development of capitalism in these countries and thus better prepare the soil for the "manifest destiny" of

CARPENTERS IN 'FRISCO STILL OUT ON STRIKE

Contractors Determined to Wreck Union

By HOWARD HARLAN
(Worker Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12. — The carpenters' strike in San Francisco is not yet settled, nor is there any likelihood that such a consummation is to be attained soon. Since the first of April the strike has been on. The open or closed shop was the issue. Contractors have been almost unanimous in declaring the union shop to be "anti-American," and have repeatedly expressed an intention of securing its abolition.

The carpenters hold that the "American plan" is un-American, and that they must be given the right to organize the job for their own protection.

Fight All Summer.

All summer the contending forces have striven for victory. Many men were hurt, buildings ransacked, court cases held, and injunctions sought for and obtained, but no decisive step was taken to win the fight.

Just before Christmas, however, we were informed through the daily press that a big change was imminent. The spirit of peace was abroad in the land. It hovered over the hearts of our contractors to such a degree that they extended an invitation to the journeymen to meet them with industrial peace as the goal and aim. They met and talked the issue over but the spirit of peace was woefully lacking when the time for action arrived.

"Peace"—With Open Shop.

When the two factions met the representative of the industrial association announced that the basis for an agreement must be that the open shop, or American plan, was here to stay. If the men would grant this, then peace, blessed peace, would surely prevail.

Fight Still On.

The union men who worked for more than nine months for the sole purpose of destroying the open shop move, could scarcely be expected to agree to such a proposal. They vehemently voiced their objections and the result is that the fight is still on. Industrial tranquillity is a long way off.

"Important" Statement to Be Made by Smith Soon on Senate Plan

"Colonel Frank L. Smith will have a statement of interest to make about the middle of the week," former Rep. Allen F. Moore, (R) of Monticello, who managed Smith's senatorial campaign, declared here.

"Colonel Smith," said Moore, "is in conference at Dwight going over matters involved in his fight for his senate seat."

Cornelius J. Doyle, attorney, who spent several days in Washington sounding out sentiment on how the senate would vote if Smith demanded his seat, was giving Smith a bird's eye view of the situation, according to Moore. Only 29 senators would vote for him, Doyle told him.

SCOTT NEARING TELLS DAILY WORKER READERS WHY LABOR SHOULD FIGHT FOR SACCO AND VANZETTI RELEASE

By SCOTT NEARING.

Sacco and Vanzetti are in prison for the workers of the United States—for all of the workers, who will soon be called upon to defend themselves and their families against the disintegration of American capitalism. William Green, Matthew Woll and other leaders of the conservative labor movement are spending their time denouncing "Reds." They believe that the American workers can live well enough with things as they are in the United States.

But things never stay as they are.

Thirty years ago some of the British workers were enjoying the same prosperity that is now so general among some of the more favored workers in the U. S. A. Fifteen years ago the workers of Germany were enjoying a like prosperity. And there, as well as here, their leaders were telling them to let well enough alone. "The present system is good enough for us," they insisted.

Perhaps, but the "present system" of 1906 in Britain and of 1910 in Germany is history in 1926. In both countries the workers are fighting the battles of their lives to hold their living standards above the starvation level. The workers in both of these countries relied on the "present system" to protect them. For their pains they got war and poverty.

The masses of workers in the United States are being assured that "all's well with the world." Business men say this. Labor leaders say it. Here and there some bold, far-seeing worker, looking beyond the immediate present, realizes the struggle that is ahead of the American masses. He tells them about this struggle, interlaces with the "prosperity" chorus, and gets himself jailed on some frame-up charge or under some addition law.

"Only another fred," comment the papers.

But if the workers listened to what he was saying they would save themselves a peck of trouble. And if they do not listen and act, it is not only Sacco and Vanzetti, but thousands of others in the labor movement who must pay the price of neglect.

"A stitch in time saves nine." Sacco and Vanzetti tried to make their fellow workers take that stitch. They are paying the penalty of their courage and their far sightedness. Every worker in the United States should back them. They made the fight of the workers their fight. What less can the workers do than to stand by till both men are out of jail?

SMITH CAMPAIGN FOR PRESIDENT IS GIVEN START

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. — Gov. Al Smith's campaign for the democratic presidential nomination was definitely started when Senator-elect Robert F. Wagner announced at a dinner of the national democratic club that Smith would be a candidate. "Democrats of the state of New York present him to the nation," said Wagner.

Compared to Jefferson.

In making the announcement he launched into general praise of the democratic party in New York, commending everyone from Smith down. Smith was described as "one man in the country today who stands out as a defender of democracy in the same manner as did Thomas Jefferson."

G. O. P. Attacks Him.

While the new party was preparing to line the state up with Smith's presidential campaign, the republicans in the state legislature delivered a general attack on the governor's message to the state assembly.

Smith's stand on the water question, on the reorganization of the public service commission, and on tax reduction was flayed. The legislators claim Smith wants to shift the responsibility of a raise in street car fares on a state public service commission to evade the wrath of New York City. They also declare that his advocacy of a decrease in income tax is impossible.

OHIO PAPER SEES RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA NEARING

ALLIANCE, Ohio, Jan. 12—The Alliance Review in a leading editorial, "Our Relations with Russia" sees the opening of negotiations leading to recognition of the Soviet Union by the United States in the near future, and declares that necessity for recognition is becoming more and more apparent.

Discussion Stimulated.

Commenting on reports that the U. S. state department has recently made overtures to the Soviet government, and relating that these reports were subsequently denied by the state department, the paper says, "The greater meaning of the rumors is that they promise to stimulate a new discussion of the prospects of Russo-American relations being adjusted on a basis mutually satisfactory to both nations."

Must Treat it Seriously.

"The time is coming without question," says the editorial, "when a solution will be sought with seriousness." The solution referred to is that for the "three demands" made by the United States on Russia, claiming these must be satisfied before recognition. As given in the editorial they are restoration of American property; assumption of pre-revolution Russian obligations; cessation of "propaganda" in the U. S. The tone of the editorial is that the U. S. will modify these demands.

Talking to London Now 'Regular Thing'; Privacy Lack Bothers

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Trans-Atlantic telephone conversation between New York and London is now a matter of routine altho a luxury on account of the high toll charges—$25 per minute. Nevertheless, the overseas phone service again was deluged with applications for London calls. Many wealthy English visitors were perfectly willing to pay the cost of hearing the voices of relatives or friends at home.

Radio "fans" on both sides of the Atlantic are interested in tuning in their instruments to pick up the wireless telephonic conversation. For this reason international financial and business firms, who promise to be the best customers are unable to use the telephone for conferences on deals requiring secrecy.

Scientists are now seeking to devise methods of keeping the talks secret.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. — The Capper amendment to the packers and stockyards act, providing for federal control over private yards of packers was approved by the senate agriculture committee.

JURY PROTECTION THREATENED BY ILLINOIS JUDGES

Would Take All Power of Selection

An attempt to rob trial defendants of what jury protection remains to them, under the guise of "simplification of judicial procedure" is seen in a recommendation made by 40 circuit and superior court judges of Illinois, included in a number of suggestions for judicial reform, is the recommendation that the trial judge select the jury, eliminating the part now played by attorneys in jury selection.

Injunction Judge Behind It.

Judge Dennis Sullivan, notorious injunction judge of chancery division of the superior court is one of the chief sponsors of the measure to make judges all-powerful in jury selection. In the announcement of the recommendation, Judge Sullivan is quoted: "The new rules may be regarded as advanced, but we are given the power to regulate the manner in which courts are to be run and intend to use it. The supreme court will, of course, have to pass on the legality of the rules," he said.

Danger to Workers.

This move on the part of the judges, supported by the Chicago Bar Association, is seen as a means of making the Chicago courts more effective in crushing strikes. In order to gain justice when workers are arrested it has been necessary to demand a jury trial in each case. With the power of jury selection resting solely with the judge, juries, it is seen, will become ineffective to protect workers from anti-labor judges.

Brookhart Called 'Paid Lobbyist' for Woods, I. C. C. Appointee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Senator-elect Smith W. Brookhart, the republican insurgent from Iowa, was charged in the senate today with being a "paid lobbyist" for Cyrus E. Woods, recently named by President Coolidge to the interstate commerce commission.

The charges were made by Senator Daniel F. Steck (D) who took Brookhart's senatorial seat away a year ago.

This caused an uproar in the senate, with Senator Reed (D) of Missouri, and Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, demanding a senatorial investigation.

At a resumption of the hearing by the senate interstate commerce committee on Woods' appointment, Woods denied Steck's charges.

"They are absolutely false," said Woods. "I have not had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Brookhart and do not even know him. I have not employed any one to lobby in my behalf."

PITTSBURGH—The Pittsburgh Deposit and Title Company, believed to have been the only banking institution in Western Pennsylvania which paid 5 per cent on savings accounts, was closed today by the state banking department. Frozen assets was assigned as the cause.

The bank had capital stock listed at $125,000, with assets of $1,231,898.40.

OLD FORD THEATER MAY BE MADE INTO MUSEUM TO KEEP LINCOLN RELICS

WASHINGTON— Representative Rathbone (R) of Illinois announced that he would introduce a bill in congress making a museum of the old Ford Theater in Washington, where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated. Under his proposal the Oldroyd collection of Lincoln relics which congress purchased last year, would be placed in the museum together with other Lincoln relics.

INSTITUTE FOR AGRICULTURE IS PLAN OF SOLON

Political Bureau Not Dependable, He Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. — Establishment of an American institute of agriculture with government aid at Kansas City, Mo., to consider a permanent solution of agriculture's ills is discussed by the house agriculture committee.

The plan, which was explained by Rep. Jacobstein (D) of New York, its sponsor, would not delay emergency legislation such as the McNary-Haugen bill, he said.

Seek Million.

A federal appropriation of $1,000,000 would be sought to erect the institute's buildings. Annual meetings would bring together 300 representatives of agriculture, including representatives of farmer organizations, government departments and agriculture colleges and experiment stations.

To Fight Bureaucracy.

"We cannot depend on the department of agriculture," said Jacobstein. "For political reasons it is always too timid. We must not let a bureaucracy in Washington tell all the farmers what to do."

Objections were raised by committee members to any proposal which might delay the consideration of an emergency farm relief bill in the present session of congress.

Lumber Conservation Committee Urges Use of Discarded Shorts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Means by which millions of dollars can be slashed from the $2,000,000,000 annual bill for construction of small residences and farm buildings in the lumber conservation were outlined by the national committee on wood utilization.

The committee report advocated the utilization of short length lumber—under 8 feet—now generally discarded, as a method potentially offering a tremendous public saving.

Use of such lumber would produce three results, according to the committee:

Annual saving of about 7,300,000,000 feet of soft lumber; boost returns of lumber industry in the United States $100,000,000 annually without increasing log cut; release millions of dollars investment capital for further home building.

Liberal Faith Is Unbounded

Because the new ruler of Japan donned a pair of pants when mounting the throne, the Nation hails the innovation as a further step in bringing the throne into harmony with the spirit of modern civilisation. But perhaps the king's legs would not make a hit with the noble ladies who observed the ceremony! Certainly the change in the royal haberdashery will not put more rice in the Japanese worker's bowl or better tea in his cup, tho the Nation observes sagely that "it is difficult to worship a god who plays golf and talks to the common people."

The British royal family have survived for quite a number of generations even tho they have made a specialty of wearing the latest style in pants and drinking rum, wine and beer, yet even Oswald Garrison Villard thought it an honor to be entertained in Buckingham Palace by the present royal sot who occupies the throne.

Villard's paper notes in the same issue that the pope "has once more earned the gratitude of anti-fascists wherever they may be," simply because the pope would have his own boy scouts under his own control rather than under Mussolini's control. Which is no choice between two evils for the Italian people.

Again we are assured that the election of the wealthy aristocrat, Oswald Moseley, as a labor M. P. "is another triumph for that sort of fairness which we think of as being peculiarly British." What is British fairness? The kind practiced on the Egyptians, on the Chinese, on the Hindus and on the British miners! Moseley was elected because he ran on the labor party ticket in opposition to the conservative and liberal parties and because Smethwick is preponderatingly working class. There was little fairness in the election campaign. The tories hurled squalls of verbal mud at Moseley and called his wife everything short of a dissolute woman. The fairness to Moseley came from the working masses who were incensed against the government for its open sponsorship of the cause of the coal owners against the coal diggers.

This is plenty for the time being. What almost amazes us—if anything can—is the tendency on the part of people addicted to the reading of newspapers to consider liberal organs "reliable" whereas they regard the "intemperate" contents of radical organs with suspicion.

The explanation of the phenomenon is that liberals are satisfied with the present social system as a system, but they would like to cover up the nether parts of their kings, knock "hell" out of their popes and induce the conflicting social classes to lie in one social bed.

Introducing Mr. Evarts

When Henry Ford declared that history is bunk he did not know what he was talking about.

Whoever discovered William M. Evarts did a good day's work for the American imperialists who are now riding roughshod over Nicaragua and threatening to invade Mexico.

Evarts was secretary of state in 1878 and then as now our ruling class burglars had their eyes on what they could grab from Mexico. It appears that the government of that day had nothing to learn in the way of tricks from the government of today. Now we have fairy tales of atrocities inflicted on American citizens in Mexico, yarns of gun-running into Nicaragua (which is entirely within Mexico's sovereign rights), then we had stories of cattle rustlers from Mexico crossing the American border.

The secretary of state declared that the first duty of government was the protection of life and property and said that the United States "is not solicitous, it never has been, about the methods or ways in which that protection shall be accomplished, whether by formal treaty stipulation or by formal convention, whether by the action of judicial tribunals or by that of military force. Protection in fact to American lives and property is the sole point upon which the United States is tenacious."

The Chicago Tribune, commenting on the exhumation of the Evarts note, chortled with pride over the redbloodedness of our diplomacy in those days and significantly remarked that the publication of the Evarts note by Coolidge was intended for Mexico, also that "the subsequent administration of Diaz gave Mexico and the United States their only long period of orderly relations."

What does this imply? It implies that the Washington administration is planning to plant a Mexican Diaz in Chapultepec Palace, the residence of the Mexican president, as it has planted another Diaz in the official residence of the president of Nicaragua.

There are no Mexican cattle rustlers whirling thru the plains of Texas today. The lives of American citizens are much safer in Mexico City, Tampico, or Vera Cruz than the lives of either American or Mexican citizens in New York, Chicago or Detroit. What Coolidge dug up the Evarts note for is to provide an excuse, no matter how flimsy for the conspiracy now about to be consummated against the Mexican people: to overthrow the present government and substitute for it another Diaz regime in alliance with the catholic church which would be the puppet of American imperialism and under which Mexico would be a milch cow for the Wall Street money barons.

Workers Weekly, British Communist Paper, Greets Daily on Birthday

THE WORKERS WEEKLY, the organ of the Communist Party of Great Britain, which has established such a splendid record in defense of the workers' interests in the recent bitterly fought miners' strike and the great general strike last May, has sent its heartiest greetings to The DAILY WORKER on the occasion of the third birthday of our paper. It expresses the hope of being able soon to follow the example of The DAILY WORKER and establish a workers' daily in Great Britain. The cable follows:

"Workers Weekly staff sends heartiest birthday greetings. We hope soon to follow your splendid example, establish workers' daily here.—WORKERS WEEKLY, London."

The Daily Worker and the Alarm

THURBER LEWIS.

DAY took place the ... of a new phase in the ... ggle. Hitherto the revolutionary movement has been restricted to the better situated and the more intelligent Germans, Scandinavian and Danish workingmen. . . Since yesterday, this is no longer the case. Yesterday the typically American work a spoken word of the red flag thru the streets and thereby proclaimed its solidarity with the international proletariat."

This paragraph appeared in the issue of the Chicago Arbeiter-Zeitung following Thanksgiving Day, 1884, when Albert R. Parsons, the Chicago anarchist, led 8,000 unemployed workers thru the streets of Chicago.

In the two years that followed, until the ghastly Haymarket frame-up of '86 that spelled their death, Parsons, Fischer, Engel and Spies organized and led a movement of the working-class in Chicago and what was then the west, that caused the early industrial barons to shudder with fear.

THE organ of this group of revolutionists was The Alarm. This revolutionary weekly rallied the workers of Chicago behind the great 8-hour strike of 1886 in such great numbers that the bosses saw red. With The Alarm as their central organ, a little group of revolutionists that started out with five members early in 1884 counted 5,000 members in Chicago alone in 1886. It required the rope and prison to put an end to their activity. After the death of the leaders, the movement dissolved and The Alarm perished.

The files of this extraordinary paper will remain forever dear to the working-class movement of America. It participated directly in the struggles of the workers and helped to lay the groundwork for the revolutionary movement that was to come.

THE Communist movement of today has inherited much of the spirit and tradition of the Chicago martyrs. Keeping pace with the rapid development of capitalism that Parsons could not foresee and adapting itself to the new conditions of struggle created by the epoch of imperialism, the Communist movement of today, so far as its program and tactics are concerned, has little in common with the "Black Internationalists" of the eighties. But the Communist movement maintains the battle on the same front and seeks to keep alive the devotion to the revolution and the working-class and the indomitable fighting qualities displayed by the Chicago pioneers.

And in the very measure that the Communist movement carries on with the same uncompromising vigilance in the struggle against capitalism that the immediate goal of the Chicago martyrs, so does The DAILY WORKER aspire to maintain the alertness of its comrades and the militancy of its comrades that marked the two years of The Alarm.

THE leadership that The Alarm gave to the agitational unemployed in 1884 and 1885 and to the strike of the workers of the McCormick Harvester Company that found into the 8-hour struggle of 1886 is a model of working-class journalism that The DAILY WORKER emulates. The big struggles of the workers in this present decade are yet to come. But during the three years existence of The DAILY WORKER it has never failed to champion the cause of embattled workers everywhere. The strikes in the textile, mining, and needle trades industries of recent years have been the occasions for redoubled effort on the part of The DAILY WORKER to take its place in the front battle lines and to fulfil its mission as a militant fighter for the interests of the workers.

THE Chicago Alarm was a source of inspiration to the fighting proletariat of the eighties as The Chicago DAILY WORKER is a source of inspiration to the fighting proletariat of an epoch destined to complete the work so nobly furthered by the Haymarket victims.

THE THIRD BIRTHDAY

CURRENT EVENTS

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

were arrested and charged with the murder of a paymaster at Bridgewater, Massachusetts. Witnesses were purchased outright by the prosecution and the department of justice entered into a conspiracy with local officials to railroad Sacco and Vanzetti to the gallows. Their lives were saved—until now—by the splendid wave of labor solidarity that swept throuout the world. It should be stated however that the backbone of the fight to save those men was the radical wing of the labor movement. Outside of passing a few innocuous resolutions, the reactionaries did nothing and they are doing nothing now.

MASSACHUSETTS was once a citadel of organized labor. But there, as elsewhere, the soul has been burned out of it by the corrupt harpies of capitalism in the role of labor lieutenants, men who have sold their heritage for a mess of pottage, men who have been raised on the shoulders of the working-class to power and position only to kick their workers in the face for their pains. The labor officialdom of Massachusetts could force the lords of that state to release Sacco and Vanzetti within 24 hours, but they do not stir a finger.

• • •

IN the last congressional elections in Massachusetts the reactionary labor-leaders were supporting on one side the arch reactionary Tinker, open shopper and hirer of stool-pigeons to spy on his employes, and on the other hand another gang of labor fakers lined up behind the cool of the fascist catholic church, Joseph F. Walsh, the man who obeyed the dictates of Cardinal O'Connell on the question of child labor. What did a little thing like that mean to the corrupt labor officials who expected to be rewarded by a victorious candidate. Those are the men who are really responsible for the fact that Sacco and Vanzetti are behind prison bars.

IT has been stated and never successfully denied that a demonstration of workers in front of the American embassy in Petrograd (now Leningrad) first focussed public attention on the conspiracy to hang Tom Mooney. Those Russian workers looked on Tom Mooney as their brother in arms even tho they were separated by thousands of miles of land and water. Then the American workers took action, but did not secure one-tenth of their strength because they were blinded by the officialdom of the A. F. of L., who confined their aid to Mooney, to passing dignified resolutions and giving a few thousand dollars occasionally to the defense fund.

• • •

THE same policy has been followed in the Sacco and Vanzetti case. It is rather peculiar that a few petty bourgeois liberals who have fastened themselves on the Sacco and Vanzetti case should block every effort to organize the entire American working-class into a gigantic drive to free the doomed men. Yet this is the case. They seem to prefer to follow in the footsteps of the capitalist politicians and the gum shoers of A. F. of L. officialdom than do the most practical thing, do what has always made the American politicians sit up and take notice: arouse the masses. The attempt of those people, who said under the canvas of anarchism, to prevent a united front to save the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti is nothing less than criminal and should be condemned by every worker regardless of political belief. This is no question to split theoretical hairs over. Everything to save those two lives must be done.

• • •

THE International Labor Defense has covered itself with credit in the fight to save Sacco and Vanzetti. Throwing organizational pride to the four winds it stepped in and delivered its blows whenever it could, raising funds which it turned over to the small committee of liberals in Boston and working actively for a great mass conference that would mobilize American labor and all sympathizers behind Sacco and Vanzetti. The socialists, anarchists and labor fakers who are blocking this movement are taking a serious responsibility on their shoulders. They are playing with the lives of two workers. In their mad desire to retain their hold on their jobs they are willing that two innocent victims of capitalism should run the risk of execution.

• • •

ON its third anniversary The DAILY WORKER calls on its readers to use all their influence with all those they come in contact with to redouble their efforts from now on in this crusade, so that when our next anniversary comes around we will be able to send a message to our brothers, Sacco and Vanzetti in their homes, with their families and friends, rather than behind the gray walls of prison cells waiting for the invitation to walk to the lethal chair. Unity in the struggle to save Sacco and Vanzetti! Damn those who hinder the world!

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT COMMUNISM?

A WORKER doesn't have to look ever the field very long to come to the conclusion that there is only one movement in the United States that embodies the revolutionary spirit of the American proletariat, and that is the Communist movement.

The Workers (Communist) Party is not a very big party as parties go in the United States—but what other party in this country speaks for the militant and class-conscious worker? Whatever the size of the party at this time, its influence and prestige are much bigger because it is the only revolutionary party and is a part of the international Communist movement.

There is no worker whose consciousness of the class struggle and realization of the historic role of the proletariat as the destroyer of capitalist exploitation who can afford not to know about Communism. To Chicago workers an opportunity presents itself to learn about the movement at first hand.

THE CHICAGO WORKERS' SCHOOL which opens its classes next month for all workers who wish to enroll, contains a course entitled "The Elements of Political Education." It will be conducted by a competent student of the Communist movement, William Simons, and involves a study of the fundamentals of the revolutionary working class movement whose founders where Karl Marx and Frederick Engels, and whose theory and practice was brought to successful realization by the Communist Party of Russia under the leadership of the great revolutionary, Nicolai Lenin.

The school makes a special appeal to interested workers who are not members of the Workers Party, altho party members are urged to avail themselves of the opportunity to become better grounded in the principles and functions of their movement.

Other courses that will be given by the school covering various phases of the labor movement will be reviewed later. Enrollments for the class in the "Elements of Communism" will be received at the Workers' School headquarters, 19 So. Lincoln Street. A mass assembly of students and instructors in all courses will be held on Jan. 21. The hall will be announced later.

Begin Preparations for Tenth Soviet Anniversary; Amnesty Committee Chosen

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW.—(Tass.)—Preparations for the tenth anniversary of the Soviet revolution have already been begun. According to the Pravda the special commission in charge of this work has met under the chairmanship of M. Kalinin, the president of the Central Executive Committee. It was decided to organize and set up several sub-commissions to take care of various special matters. Among these sub-commissions there is one on general amnesty under the chairmanship of Enukidze, secretary of the Central Executive Committee. Kursky, people's commissar for justice, has also been invited to be a member of this sub-committee.

N. Y. Conference Dinner Friday

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK.—All the most progressive elements of the New York labor movement are expected to attend The DAILY WORKER Conference Dinner at Yorkville Casino this Friday, January 14th at 7 p. m. where the final plans for the launching of The DAILY WORKER in New York will be made.

Among the speakers will be Scott Nearing, Rose Wortis, Ben Gold, Ben Gitlow, Joseph Brodsky will act as chairmen and toastmaster.

There will also be a good musical program by the "Lyra" Mandolin Sextet and some classic selections by the world's foremost accordionist Frosini.

Those planning to attend should notify The DAILY WORKER Eastern Agency, 108 East 14th street by Thursday night.

ONE A NEW NOVEL Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair.)

IV

The newspapers announced a social event of the first importance, the engagement of Miss Alberta Ross, only daughter of Mr. J. Arnold Ross, to Mr. Hildon Burdick, a scion of one of the oldest families of the city, and recently chosen president of the California Defense League. A few days later came the announcement that Mr. Burdick had been appointed e secretary to the American embassy at Paris; and so the wedding was a state occasion, with more flowers than were ever seen in a church before, and Bunny all doffed up for a groomsman, and looking as handsome as the ringmaster of a circus, and Aunt Emma, who considered that she had made this match, assuming the mental position of the bride's mother, with the proper mixture of expression, half elation and half tears. "Mrs. Emma Ross, aunt of the bride, wore pink satin embroidered in gardenias and beads and carried pink lilies"—thus the newspapers, which set forth the importance of the Burdick family, and all about the Ross millions, and never mentioned that the father of the bride had once been a mule-driver, nor even that he had kept a general store at Queen Center, California!

And when the excitement was all over and bride and groom had set out for their post of duty, then a funny thing happened; Aunt Emma, uplifted by her success as match-maker, turned her arts upon Bunny! The occasion was the world premier of "The Princess of Patchouli," a work of family interest. Had not they been present at the inception of this sumptuous work of art? Had not Dad been blog? By golly, he had, and he had told Aunt Emma about it at least a dozen times; and so what more natural than that he should escort her upon his arm, following immediately behind the star of the occasion and her bunny-rabbit? And what more natural than that Aunt Emma should meet Vee Tracy, and fall at first sight for her fresh beauty, and tell her darling nephew about her feelings?

In short, Bunny became aware that he was being manipulated by the proverbial fact of woman to think that Vee Tracy made a perfect princess on the screen. She was a natural born aristocrat in both appearance and manner. It is part of the proverbial retuitive powers of woman, that she will be able to say exactly how an aristocrat will look and act, even though she has never been outside the state of California, and never laid eyes upon a single aristocrat in all her fifty years.

Bunny said, yes, Vee was all right; she was a good sport. With the proverbial unresponsiveness of the selfish male, he did not warm up to his aunt's hints and tell about his love affair. Aunt Emma was rather shocked, because he thought she was too old to know about anything improper. So Aunt Emma had to come right out with it. "Why don't you like her, Bunny?"

"Well, but Aunt Emma, I don't know that she'd have me."

"Have you ever asked her?"

"Well, I've sort of hinted around."

"Well, you stop hinting and ask her plain. She's a lovely girl, and you're getting old enough to be serious now, and I think it would make a very distinguished marriage, and I know it would please your father. I believe he'll propose to her himself if you don't." Aunt Emma was quite alarmed with this naughtiness, giving the younger generation to understand that they needn't be living the old folks away on the shelf quite yet!

Bunny always liked to oblige; so he went off and thought it over and half made up his mind to talk it over with Vee. But alas, the next time they met they got into one of those disputes that were making it so hard for them to be happy. Veg had just come from Anabelle Amas and reported that Anabelle was in distress, because some rascal journalist was writing letters from Washington, accusing Verne of having bought the presidency of the United States, denouncing the Sunnyside lease as the greatest steal of the century and demanding that Verne be prosecuted for bribery. Some thoughtful friend had cut out a copy of this printed article and marked it all with red pencil and mailed it to Annabelle's home, signed "Personal." The article was most abusive and the name of the writer sounded familiar to Vee—Daniel Webster Irving, where had she heard of Daniel Webster Irving? Of course Bunny had to tell her at once—because she'd be bound to find it out, and would think he was hiding it from her; "Dan Irving was his former teacher at the university and head of the labor college that had failed.

DELAY SACCO-VANZETTI APPEAL

Seven Years Bitter Struggle To Save Sacco and Vanzetti From Jaws of Class Justice

THE Sacco-Vanzetti case first arose as a part of the anti-red outbreak immediately following the "red raids" early in 1920. Sacco and Vanzetti, two Italian radical workers, became prominent on account of their activities in arousing labor against the torture and persecution of their friends, Robert Elia and Andrea Salsedo, by D. of J. agents. From that moment they were marked men.

THE attempt was at first made to deport them. It was with this in view that Sacco and Vanzetti were originally arrested and questioned as to their radical activities. But it immediately became clear that the evidence was hardly sufficient to accomplish this purpose. Another way of "getting" these two labor agitators had to be discovered.

Payroll robberies were very common in that section of Massachusetts and it did not take long before the idea occurred to some ingenious mind that one of the best ways to "get" rid of Sacco and Vanzetti would be to connect them up with one of these. As Letherman, a postal inspector and D. of J. man in Massachusetts, later explained: "The department of justice in Boston was anxious to get sufficient evidence against Sacco and Vanzetti to deport them, but never succeeded in getting the kind and amount of evidence required for that purpose. It was the opinion of the department agents that a conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti for murder WOULD BE ONE WAY OF DISPOSING OF THESE TWO MEN." (Affidavit of Lawrence Letherman.)

FINALLY, on May 5, 1920, Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were arrested at Brockton, Mass., and charged with the murder of the paymaster and guard of the Slater and Merrill Shoe Company at South Braintree.

From the beginning, those acquainted with the case were convinced of the innocence of the two men. Letherman's affidavit states: "It was also the general opinion of each of the agents in Boston as had any actual knowledge of the Sacco-Vanzetti case, that Sacco and Vanzetti, altho anarchists and agitators, were not highway robbers and had nothing to do with the South Braintree crime. My opinion, and the opinion of most of the older men in the government service, has always been that the South Braintree crime was the work of professionals." Nevertheless, altho this was the opinion of the agents of the department of justice, the federal authorities stimulated and aided the state authorities in railroading Sacco and Vanzetti to the grave; they had to "get" them one way or another.

In the trial that followed, everything possible was done to charge the atmosphere with a strong anti-radical and anti-alien sentiment. The class partiality of the presiding judge, Webster Thayer, was so cynically obvious as to evoke protests from even the capitalist newspapers. Statements to the effect that those "damned foreign radicals would get theirs" were heard everywhere. On July 14, 1921 both men were convicted and sentenced to death.

THIS brazen piece of class justice aroused stormy protests of thousands of workers at home and broad. In the month that followed, a stay of execution had been granted and motions for a new trial were argued—the entire labor movement of America and of the world were aroused to a high pitch of indignation. The case began to assume real international proportions and American embassies in many a foreign country were picketed by workers protesting against the judicial murder of their two comrades in America.

As time went on the utter hollowness of the case against the two Italian workers became more and more evident. One after another the witnesses produced by the prosecution were exposed as perjurers and unreliable characters. Experts testified that from many angles the charges of murder and robbery against the defendants were obviously absurd. But this piling up of evidence in favor of the condemned workers had no effect whatever on the class courts manipulated from behind the scenes by agents of the department of justice. As Weyand, another former agent of the department, states in his affidavit: "Shortly after the trial of Sacco and Vanzetti was concluded I said to Weiss (another agent) that I did not believe that they were the right men, meaning the men who shot the paymaster, and he replied that that might be so, but that they were bad actors and WOULD GET WHAT THEY DESERVED ANYWAY." The department of justice was out to "get" them and the mere fact of innocence could not be allowed to stand in the way!

THE case finally came up before the Supreme Court of Massachusetts on January 11, 1926. On May 12 of the same year the court rejected the request for a new trial and left it to the superior court to sentence them.

This new outrage stimulated even more the movement here and abroad in defense of Sacco and Vanzetti. New demonstrations involving tens of thousands of workers took place all over the world. In America the International Labor Defense organized a gigantic defense campaign and took the initiative in broadening and centralizing the protest movement in calling the Sacco-Vanzetti conferences, which were organized in scores of cities of America with hundreds of labor unions, fraternal organizations, and labor political organizations participating.

IN the middle of last year new evidence came into the hands of the defense which conclusively proved the entire innocence of the accused. A fellow by name of Madeiros, himself under conviction for murder, made a sensational confession in which he pointed out the real criminals and completely exonerated the two radical workers. The confession was received under very extraordinary circumstances. One evening Sacco was handed a magazine and was told it was from Madeiros and that he should look inside. In the magazine Sacco found a slip of paper which read as follows:

"I hereby confess to being in the South Braintree shoe company crime and Sacco and Vanzetti was not in said crime. (Signed) Celestino Madeiros."

Madeiros also indicated that the notorious Morelli gang of Providence, R. I., were the real instigators of the South Braintree hold-up and were themselves guilty of having committed the hold-up and the subsequent murder.

Of course a demand was immediately made for a new trial. On July 16, 1926 a date was set for a hearing on a new motion for a retrial. And then American class justice played another grim joke upon the unfortunate workers who were being sent to the grave. The judge before whom the arguments for a new trial were to be made was none other than the original trial judge, Judge Webster Thayer, the judge whose hostile and obviously prejudiced conduct had been commented upon by the capitalist press!

The result was, of course, a foregone conclusion. Despite the new evidence absolutely proving the innocence of the two Italian workers and despite a number of police affidavits to the same effect, Judge Thayer on October 24, 1926 refused to grant a new trial to Sacco and Vanzetti.

• • •

THE electric chair still throws its menacing shadow over Sacco and Vanzetti. Only the intensification of the protest movement on the part of the workers of America and of the world can call a halt to this seven year persecution of two radical workers who are being fast railroaded into the grave. The fate of Sacco and Vanzetti lies in the hands of the workers of America! Only the power of labor can snatch the two victims of the department of justice's "red raid" activities from the jaws of death!

SACCO AND VANZETTI MUST NOT DIE!

Expose Conspiracy of Capitalist Justice

SACCO AND VANZETTI, the two radical workers, are facing an open grave—dug for them by the Federal Department of Justice.

Officially Sacco and Vanzetti are charged with the murder of the paymaster and guard of the Slater & Merrill Shoe Company. Officially, too, the whole case against them is in the hands of the Massachusetts state authorities.

As a matter of fact, however, the real "crime" of these two Italian workers is their militancy in the cause of labor, particularly their work in defending two other victims of the Palmer "red raids," Elia and Salsedo. As a matter of fact, too, the attempt to murder Sacco and Vanzetti thru judicial procedure is instigated, organized and supported from first to last by the Federal Department of Justice.

SACCO AND VANZETTI were actively engaged in organizing protests against the mishandling of Andrea Salsedo who met his death while illegally detained by the agents of the Department of Justice. It was because of this that they were first arrested and questioned on their radical activities. The aim of the federal authorities was to deport these "reds." But when it became clear that any evidence the authorities could cook up would be ridiculously insufficient, a frame-up on murder charges was arranged. The Department of Justice was out to "get" these two courageous workers and was ready to stop at nothing.

Thru the confessions of some of its former agents, the activities of this department are now matters of notorious fact. In his affidavits made public some months ago Lawrence Letherman, for 25 years a postal inspector and for three years a D. of J. man in Massachusetts, has explained how he collaborated with other D. of J. men in the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Before, during, and after the trial various "under-cover men" were assigned to the case; spies were sent to watch the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee and some of these agents even got into its employ.

FRED J. WEYAND, another former agent who worked under Letherman's direction, has also cast light upon the intimate connection of the federal authorities in the persecution of Sacco and Vanzetti. He, as well as Letherman and all of the other agents associated with them, KNEW THAT THE ACCUSED MEN WERE INNOCENT of the crime charged against them. In his affidavits Letherman says that, from his own investigations as well as from the reports of his subordinates, it was clear that Sacco and Vanzetti had nothing whatever to do with murders at South Braintree. It was, however, as Letherman points out, the opinion of the department agents that A CONVICTION FOR MURDER "WOULD BE ONE WAY OF DISPOSING OF THE TWO MEN."

Weyand told Weiss, another federal agent, that there could be no question as to the innocence of the two radicals. Weiss answered that this might be so but "they would get what they deserved anyway."

When the attorney for the defense requested access to the records of the D. of J. in order to prove the innocence of the two men, Attorney General Sargent refused permission. The records are still held secret because access to them would show the real nature of the gigantic conspiracy organized by the attorney general's office against two radical workers who were marked for destruction because of their activities in the cause of labor.

THE whole history of the six year persecution of Sacco and Vanzetti has been nothing more than a series of attempts of the Department of Justice, operating thru the state authorities, to "dispose of these two men" in the face of their obvious innocence, in the face of confessions pointing to the real culprits, in the face of a mighty wave of resistance and protest on the part of labor from every corner of the globe.

The workers of America must not allow anyone to be fooled by the fake charges of murder. They must tear aside the veil of legal fiction that hides the real character of the Sacco-Vanzetti case as the most brazen example of deliberate anti-labor frame-up, as the most flagrant piece of class justice that has occurred for a long time! Sacco and Vanzetti are not facing death for murder! That is only a smoke screen thrown up by the Department of Justice to hide its own activities. Everybody knows that the two persecuted workers have never had anything to do with the murder charged against them or with any other crime. The D. of J. men, according to their own confessions, knew they were innocent when they were sending them to death. The last vestige of doubt has been eliminated by the recent confession of Madeiros to the effect that the South Braintree job was arranged by the notorious Morelli gang and that neither Sacco or Vanzetti had anything whatever to do with it.

Sacco and Vanzetti are facing death as a result of the determination of the Department of Justice to "get them" for their labor activities. It proved impossible to get any evidence on that head sufficient for deportation and so a murder charge was arranged. And now the open grave yawns before the two Italian radicals. From first to last the work of the federal Department of Justice!

THE workers of America must demand that the secret activities of the federal government in framing up and railroading militant workers be brought out into the open and exposed. The workers must face the question: Who will be the NEXT victim of that huge ruthless labor-smashing machine called the Department of Justice that has appropriated and improved upon all of the methods of the old czarist "political police"? Who will be the next worker to be framed up and railroaded to prison and death because of his activities in the cause of labor?

At its last convention the American Federation of Labor called for an investigation of the activities of the Department of Justice in the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Eighteen thousand people in the big demonstration in New York a few weeks ago and thousands and tens of thousands of workers in every country of the world have raised their voices in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti whose cause is the cause of the whole labor movement.

• • •

THE demand for an exposure of the nefarious anti-labor practices of the Department of Justice in framing up militant fighters in the cause of labor must be supported by every honest worker who has the interests of labor at heart. The demand for a congressional investigation of the part played by the Department of Justice in the Sacco-Vanzetti case must receive the support of every worker and farmer who is determined that this case shall not become another Mooney-Billings case, a shame and a scandal to American labor.

SACCO-VANZETTI COUNSEL GIVEN CASE EXTENSION

More Time Allowed to Prepare Appeal

By Federated Press.

BOSTON, Jan. 12. — More time has been granted to Sacco-Vanzetti defense counsel William G. Thompson to prepare for final appeal to the Massachusetts supreme court. Thompson is building up his arguments and brief on exceptions to superior court Judge Webster Thayer's last denial of new trial to the two Italian working men. Chief Justice Rugg of the supreme court extended the time, altho the case has headed the list to be argued before the full bench at its January term.

Another respite will have to be given Celestine Madeiros if the supreme court hearing does not result in a decision by Jan. 27. The convicted murderer on whose confession the last plea of Sacco and Vanzetti for new trial was made secured stay of execution from Governor Alvan T. Fuller to that date.

Madeiros Material Witness.

Madeiros is spared on the grounds that he would be a material witness at any possible new trial of the two Italians. He confessed to participation in the So. Braintree crime for which the two radical workers were convicted before his conviction for another robbery and murder was affirmed.

Judge Thayer's denial of the last Sacco-Vanzetti new trial motion brot such a storm of protest from Massachusetts citizens as none of his previous refusals in this six year old case. Thayer brushed aside Madeiros' confession and ignored the startling affidavits from former federal agents who told what the department of justice had done to help convict Sacco and Vanzetti of murder when deportation for their radical views was balked.

Show Prejudice.

Thayer went out of his way to attack defense counsel Thompson, former head of the Massachusetts bar association, as he had previously attacked Fred H. Moore, earlier defense counsel.

Dr. Morton Prince, nationally known specialist in nervous diseases, wrote publicly that Thayer's decision showed its emotional rather than judicial basis, prejudice instead of reasoning. Others wrote their approval of the conservative Boston Herald's relentant change of opinion on the case. This paper now calls for a new trial and a thoro investigation if that were prevented by legal quirks.

Many Classes Favor New Trial.

Among those who expressed themselves favorably were: Edward A. Filene, merchant; Professor Roscoe W. Coleman, of Columbia University; Francis Bowes Sayre and his wife, the former Jessie Wilson, daughter of Woodrow Wilson; Professor William Ernest Hocking, philosopher; Samuel Eliot Morison (historian), and Frank William Taussig (political economist) all of Harvard; Edgar Sheffield Brightman, philosopher at Boston University; John F. Moors, senior member of Moors & Cabot brokerage firm; William Allen Neilson, president of Smith College; Frank Hitchcock, a Republican; Daniel McCloud Fothera, Harvard preacher, and others joined the protest against Thayer's decision.

Colorado Governor Would Oust Warden; Files Many Charges

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 12. — Official charges of Governor W. J. Morley against Thomas J. Tynan, warden of the state penitentiary, were filed by William Lambert, member of the civil service commission. The complaint charges Tynan with: Official misconduct; being an habitual drunkard during the past two years; using obscene language; being violent, abusive and discourteous to residents of Canon City; assuming an insolent and overbearing attitude toward prisoners and employes, neglecting prisoners; misapplying state funds, operating the prison payroll in 1923 and 1924, using a revolver to obtain favors here on the general election held on Nov. 2, 1926.

Gov. Morley recently issued a ten-day suspension of Warden Tynan, re-appointment pending investigation of the above charges. Tynan ignored the suspension.

WORKERS' BEST FRIEND AT TIMES OF STRUGGLE

Workers' best friend at times of struggle is the working class press. This was recently fully demonstrated at the time of the Passaic strike. All over the country the press of the bosses was against the strikers in every way and form. The only press with the strikers was the press of the Workers Party, of which mainly the Daily Worker fought the fight of the strikers.

The Daily Worker is the first and only English Communist daily in the whole world and therefore, every revolutionary worker should Keep THE DAILY WORKER.

The financial backbone of any working class press is the working class organizations and mainly the service which the press can offer to the struggling workers. Therefore, all of us must do all in our power to send in news and subscribe for the Daily Worker.

A substantial list of subscribers and goodwill of all workers' organizations is the best guaranty for the growth of The DAILY WORKER.

Join the Co-operative Movement

The consumers' co-operative movement in America is still relatively weak. However, we have a strong beginning and the first steps this movement has taken, shows that the workers and poor farmers are able to organize the distribution of products on a business-like manner for their own benefit.

The Co-operative Central Exchange is a good example. It is a co-operative wholesale for the workers' and farmers' co-operatives and is owned by them. It was organized in Superior, Wis., in 1917. From a small beginning it has grown to such an extent that last year its sales exceeded one million dollars. The expenses of a private wholesale are about 11%, and of the workers' own wholesale only about 6%. And the benefit of getting quality goods! Workers won't cheat themselves, as private business is doing for the sake of profits.

The co-operative movement, however, is not purely commercial affairs. It is and must be a part of the working class movement against exploiters. It is a united front of the exploited workers and farmers for fighting and building a new and better system of society.

Every worker and farmer should join this movement. Become a member of your local co-operative. Join this united front and help to build it. Subscribe to the "Co-operative Pyramid Builder," a monthly co-operative magazine. Thru it you will get information about the co-operative movement. You can well afford to subscribe to it—the price is only 50 cents a year.

OUR THIRD BIRTHDAY!

Jan. 13, 1927

FACING THE FOURTH YEAR!

THE DAILY WORKER is facing its fourth year. On the eve of this occasion for examining the past and contemplating the future. What role has the DAILY played in the American labor movement in the last three years? And, for the future, what are its tasks, what must it accomplish in order to advance in the course it has charted for itself?

The role that the DAILY WORKER is called upon to play as the only working class daily paper in America was clearly formulated by Lenin more than twenty-five years ago.

"We need first of all a newspaper," Lenin wrote. "Without this it is impossible to conduct systematically that many-sided propaganda and agitation that constitutes the chief task of the social-democracy." (Now we say: Communism). The national Communist daily paper must be "an enormous pair of bellows, blowing every spark of the class struggle and of popular discontent into a general conflagration."

Can we say honestly that The DAILY WORKER has understood the true import of its task and has made serious efforts to fulfill it?

Let anyone look thru the pages of The DAILY WORKER for the last year. Will he not find every cause of the workers and farmers championed? Will he not find every movement directed against world imperialism supported and defended? Will he not find that The DAILY WORKER has made great strides forward on the road to becoming a powerful fighting weapon in the American class struggle?

Passaic! More than any other event of the past year, does the great upsurge of thousands of unorganized, unskilled workers show the intimate contact The DAILY WORKER has won with the life and struggles of some of the best elements of the American workers. Here it has developed into a real effective force in the hands of the textile workers struggling desperately against one of the most powerful capitalist groups of this country. Passaic has shown that The DAILY WORKER can become an organ of struggle upon which thousands of non-Communist workers can look with confidence and trust.

The DAILY has supported in every possible way the movement for the defense of the foreign-born workers against the vicious finger-printing and registration bills now before congress. It has shown to the American workers that these bills menace not only their foreign-born fellow workers but are aimed no less directly at themselves. The DAILY has certainly contributed considerably to the success with which "the protection of the foreign-born" movement has met.

The DAILY took its proper place in the election campaign last fall. It exposed the class character and the anti-labor programs of the capitalist parties. It called upon the workers to take the first step in freeing themselves from the political control of the bosses: to organise their own party of labor. Wherever sensible labor parties or united labor tickets could not be set up it urged the workers to support the candidates of the Workers Communist Party as the only party defending the interests of the workers and farmers from first to last. Thruout the whole campaign it carried on a clear and consistent agitation on the basis of the Communist election program, explaining to the masses of the workers the demands of the Communists and why those demands should be the demands of every honest and militant worker.

When Coolidge issued his brazenly anti-labor presidential message the DAILY took up the challenge, exposed it for what it was—the program of American capitalism, and answered it with the ringing slogan: "A Labor Party in the 1928 Elections."

The participation of The DAILY WORKER in the trade union life of this country has been more close and effective than ever in the last year. In every situation it could be found pointing out the road of the class struggle and supporting and stimulating the development of the left wing and progressive forces. It would require more space than we could spare simply to list the labor struggles in which the DAILY has played a recognized part. We can but mention the "Save the Union" campaign in the miners' union, the struggle of the needle workers in New York and elsewhere, the last American Federation of Labor convention in Detroit. Just recently the DAILY has rallied to the task of mobilizing the newly-organized united front of all reactionary forces in the trade union movement against the Communists and the progressive elements. Increasing numbers of non-Communist workers are coming to regard the DAILY as the only reliable newspaper, as the only paper that always sees, and tells to them to action. The splendid support given by our paper to the general strike and the subsequent miners' strike in England, the vigorous campaign for the "Hands off China," the campaign for International Trade Union Unity, the quick reaction of our paper to the imperialist political events of daily occurrence testify to this.

The Soviet Union has always found an unswerving champion in The DAILY WORKER. Not only have we explained to the American workers the real meaning and the lessons of the wonderful progress of Workers' Russia towards socialism but we have pointed out to the American masses how their own class interests and their duties of solidarity demand the vigorous prosecution of the campaign for the defense and recognition of the Soviet Union.

The responsibility that falls upon our shoulders thru the position of the United States as the leading imperialist country in the world has been realized by The DAILY WORKER and, during the last year especially, our anti-imperialist agitation—in connection with the Philippines, China, Mexico and Nicaragua—has received increasingly great attention in our columns. The DAILY WORKER has augmentionably reached the front rank in the struggle against United States imperialism.

Of course, against the sketchy account of the credit side of the ledger we must not forget to examine the debit side. The DAILY WORKER has not yet reached the acme of its development; far, very, very far from it! Its influence among the American workers and farmers is still entirely too weak, its circulation and sphere of contact regrettably small.

Yet, its achievements are substantial. How has it been enabled to make them in the face of very nearly insuperable obstacles of every kind? Its power lies in the fact that it has never forgotten for a moment that it is the expression of the organized Communist movement of this country, the only movement in the position to provide for the American workers with the program and with the leadership they so sorely need. It is because The DAILY WORKER, as the organ of the Workers (Communist) Party, has constantly and unswervingly followed the line of Leninism, the line of the Communist International, that it has been able to awaken a response among the best elements of the American workers and farmers, that it has been able to illumine the experiences of the working class so effectively, that it has been able to map out the road of the American class struggle with such precision and concreteness. It is because we have taken Leninism as the beacon end guide for our editorial course that we have succeeded in attracting the support and confidence of ever wider circles of workers who, tho far from being Communists themselves, are for The DAILY WORKER because "it is really fighting for the workers." This is the secret of whatever we have accomplished in the teeth of such tremendous odds.

We are now facing another year of life and struggle in a particularly difficult time. The American capitalists, with the support and thru the instrumentality of the Wall Street government, have embarked on new imperialist adventures in China, in Mexico, in Nicaragua. It is for the American labor movement and therefore for The DAILY WORKER to take the lead in beating down the brutal attacks of American imperialism, aimed equally at the peoples of the victimized countries and at the American workers and farmers.

Here, in America itself, the revolutionary movement is facing a critical period. The united front of all reactionary elements, from the government authorities down to the trade union bureaucrats and the socialists, the united front organized against everything that is progressive and alive in the American labor movement must be broken.

The attacks on the foreign-born, the desperate attempts of the capitalist agents at the head of the labor movement to expel the Communists and the left wingers from the unions and to separate them from the masses at any cost, the advance of class-collaboration and company unionism, the carrying into life of Coolidge's bitterly anti-labor program—these problems can be solved only on the basis of the program of militant struggle championed by The DAILY WORKER. In short, here in the United States, in the most powerful imperialist country of the world, we are called upon to challenge this mighty power and to bring to the masses the message of Communism.

This is no easy matter and it can be accomplished only if the loyal army of workers who have stood with us in the past three years will increase their numbers and intensify their determination quickly to achieve the goal we have set ourselves: to make The DAILY WORKER the collective Communist expression of every progressive and militant force in the American labor movement and in American society.

YOUTH GREETS OUR "DAILY"

By NAT KAPLAN
Editor of The Young Worker.

THE revolutionary young workers greet The DAILY WORKER on its third birthday. The DAILY WORKER has won our esteem by sounding the voice of the millions of young workers and exploited class children in their struggle against the capitalists and the capitalist government for improved conditions. Thru the regular young workers' and children's columns The DAILY WORKER has continuously driven home the lesson of the unity of the young and adult workers in the struggle against the common enemy and at the same time the need for fighting for the special demands of the young workers and working class children. On its third birthday the young workers and working class children must pledge anew their continued support of The DAILY WORKER—the fighting agitator and organizer of the whole working class.

The Manager's Corner

Tricks of the Trade.

Every trade has its tricks and journalism is no exception. Only the tricks of the capitalist press are more dangerous and insidious than those in other fields of endeavor. The tricks that poison the minds of men and women are the grossest crimes against human society.

It is interesting to observe—and the shrewd reader does keep his eyes open for these things—the devious ways in which the capitalist press seeks to mislead its readers. Take, for instance, the accounts of the situation in Nicaragua. The liberals, are rebels, who are being supported with gold from Moscow. "Bold Heir of Revolt Chief," is the headline of the Chicago Tribune, while it proclaims that "Marines Quiet Nicaragua." In the news of China, the Cantonese are called bandits, and groups of Chinese revolutionaries are called "a mob," or a "horde" invading the sacred precincts of the angelic Americans or British imperialists. Militant workers are called "tools of Moscow," the reactionaries and class collaborationists are "sensible labor leaders." Watch the terms which are used in coloring up the news of the capitalist press.

The source of the news is an important consideration, which the casual reader overlooks. A news item about Russia, emanating from Riga, London, Paris, Warsaw, Berlin or some other capitalist news center should be read with care, and a generous flavoring of salt. Very often a misleading article with very little foundation of fact will be published with a glaring headline, but the only guarantee given for the authenticity of the news is, "It is said," or "It is reported," or "Reports coming from high official sources," etc.

Position is important in a paper. You will often find that a vicious lie about the workers is played upon on the front page or in a prominent place while the real facts are given an inconspicuous place on the inside or are not published at all. By manipulating the position of a new item, the editor is enabled to play down the news according to his own viewpoint.

Our readers should watch these things in order to develop a real sense of discrimination for news values and in this way they will become more ardent supporters of The DAILY WORKER.

SOVIET UNION BLASTS KELLOGG'S LIES

KELLOGG'S REAL "RED" HERRING

Master and Man Disagree—Coolidge says, "We are in Nicaragua to fight for American property." Kellogg says, "We are fighting 'Red' plots!"

By C. E. RUTHENBERG
General Secretary, Workers (Communist) Party.

THERE is one usually unfailing method of uniting with the big capitalists, the little capitalists and the fringes of so-called progressives in the two capitalist parties. That is by creating Communist "plots" against the government—a "red" scare.

This method was used in Great Britain against the Labor Party in the last elections, by injecting the forged "Zinoviev letter," and resulted in the return to power of the Baldwin (conservative) government.

Evidently the Coolidge administration has learned by the experience of other countries, for it is the identical method which Secretary of State Kellogg is using in an endeavor to break the growing opposition to the policy of the government, of driving this country into war in support of Wall Street imperialism in Latin America.

Kellogg appeared before the senate committee on foreign relations to present a mass of documents purporting to establish Communist "plots" to overthrow the American government by stirring up opposition to it in Latin America. Promptly some of the opposition in congress to the imperialist policies of the government in Nicaragua and against Mexico wilted, and began to run for cover.

Master and Man Disagree.

IN this instance the trick is a little too transparent, however. Master and man disagree. President Coolidge in his message to congress told of the big American investments in Nicaragua and that "there is no question that if the revolution continues American investments and business interests in Nicaragua will be seriously affected, if not destroyed." And further along: "It has been and remains the policy of the United States in such circumstances to take the steps that may be necessary for the preservation and protection of the lives, the property and the interests of its citizens. . . ."

In other words, Coolidge tells us that he is following the time-honored policy of the government of using the "big stick" to protect the property and investments of the Wall Street bankers, and then Secretary of State Kellogg comes along to say: Oh no, this is something new and different. The "reds" are plotting against us in Mexico and Central America and we must protect ourselves against the attempt to overthrow our government!

Coolidge openly declares that it is the policy of the government to use American naval and military forces and to sacrifice the lives of the American workers and farmers to maintain the exploitation of Latin America by the Wall Street bankers. Then Kellogg comes along with a real red herring to drive to cover the opposition to this policy which has been manifested in congress.

The Communist and American Imperialism.

THE Workers (Communist) Party does not deny that it is part of its program to carry on a fight against American imperialism. The Communists have endeavored and will continue to endeavor to mobilize the American workers and farmers against the policy of the government which is leading this country into war in order to fight for the investments and profits of the Wall Street bankers. The Communists will continue to point out to the American workers and farmers that, first, the American capitalists rob them of a large part of the wealth they produce, and then the profits from this exploitation of the workers and farmers are invested in other countries to exploit the natural resources and people of those countries and when the exploited people revolt, the American workers and farmers are called upon by the American government to sacrifice their lives to fight for the investments and profits of the capitalists.

The Workers (Communist) Party believes that the people of the countries who are together with the American workers and farmers, the victims of this imperialist system, are the natural allies of the American workers and farmers in the struggle against it, and therefore call upon the people of Mexico, Nicaragua, and wherever American imperialism has its tentacles, to unite with the American workers and farmers in the fight against Wall Street imperialism.

Kellogg's red herring story about secret plotting of the Communists and of the Soviet Union is, of course, pure nonsense. The "mass of documents" from which he quotes, are the declarations of the convention of the Workers (Communist) Party, held a year and a half ago and published in the Communist press and in booklet form for everyone interested to read.

Substituting Effect for the Cause.

WHAT Kellogg has tried to do is to substitute an effect for a cause. The cause of the present situation in Nicaragua, Mexico and Latin America generally, is the exploitation of these countries by the Wall Street bankers. The effect is the revolt of the people of these countries against the grabbing of their natural resources and the exploitation of their people by the Wall Street bankers backed by the "big stick" of the government in form of American war ships and marines.

Coolidge has stated the cause in his message. He has declared for the right of the Wall Sreet bankers to exploit Latin America. He has declared, in effect, that the government is ready to go to war to protect this right.

If the Wall Street bankers did not plot to overthrow governments in Latin America in order to create puppet governments which would grant them more favorable terms for reaping profits, if the government and Washington did not support the oil, mining and other interests in Mexico in the attempt to set aside the Mexican constitution, there would be no revolt of the people of these countries, and no need of the American workers and farmers fighting to protect themselves from the results of the imperialist policies of the government.

The workers and farmers of this country should not permit themselves to be deceived by Kellogg's red herring. The imperialist policies of the Coolidge administration are leading them into the shambles of a new imperialist war, with all the sacrifice and suffering which follows in its train.

The fight against intervention in Nicaragua and against the threatening war with Mexico is the fight against this war for Wall Street imperialism.

The Communists are ready and will fight together with the mass of workers and farmers against this new war which threatens to engulf them. They call upon every workers' and farmers' organization to unite for this struggle and force the government to withdraw from Nicaragua and prevent the war with Mexico.

Why Rockefeller, Morgan, Mellon and Doheny Are Anxious About Mexico

Following are some facts on why Wall Street is so concerned about Mexico:

The Doheny controlled Mexican Petroleum Co. was purchased by Standard Oil of Indiana in 1925. Its properties are estimated to be worth $125,000,000 including some two million acres of land with a daily production of 150,000 barrels.

Standard Oil controls, in addition to the above, eight more large companies which in turn control a number of smaller Mexican petroleum concerns. Sinclair Oil has more then a million acres of petroleum land. The biggest oil company in Mexico is the Huasteca Co., owned by Doheny interests. Andrew Mellon's Gulf Oil corporation controls three Mexican companies, one of which, Mexican Gulf Oil, is among the largest in the country. The Morgan interests own the majority of the stock of the Maryland Oil Co., which, thru control of three other companies, has concessions on 15 million acres. There are several hundred American companies operating in Mexican oil all told. (Date from Dunn's "American Foreign Investments.)

CANCEL LENIN MEMORIAL AT DETROIT ARMORY AS KELLOGG MAKES CHARGE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 13.—Directly after Secretary of State Kellogg made his charge that "Bolshevist influences" were responsible for America's difficulties in Latin America, the post commander of the Michigan National Guard here cancelled the Lenin memorial meeting scheduled to be held in that building on Jan. 23 under the suspices of the Workers (Communist) Party.

A new hall is being procured and will be announced at a membership meeting of the party to be held next Monday evening at 1343 East Ferry Ave. Admission by card only, is announced.

Huddleston Raps Cal Coolidge as War Maker in Latin America

By LAURENCE TODD,
(Federated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(FP)—"Mexico has a perfect right to ship arms to the Nicaraguan government which she has recognized," said the Alabama member. "We know that the United States shipped arms to Russia—$1,000,000 worth were sent to Kolchak, who was seeking to overthrow the government of that country," said Rep. Huddleston of Alabama, democrat, who was the first member of either branch of congress to take the floor in reply to President Coolidge's message explaining the raid on Nicaragua and threatening like violation of the sovereignty of Mexico.

Huddleston showed that Coolidge had obscured the issue of imperialism in Latin America with a "haystack of words," and that he had misrepresented the essential facts.

Says Coolidge Should Withdraw Forces

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—The direct charge that American warships had been sent to Nicargua "not to protect American lives, not to protect American property, but to protect a loan that was obnoxious to 80 per cent of the Nicaraguan people," was made in the senate this afternoon by Senator William E. Borah, republican of Idaho, chairman of the senate committee of foreign relations, in the course of an attack on the administration's present policy in Latin America.

"Withdraw Marines!"

He suggested that President call for a new peace-initiated election in Nicaragua and withdraw the marines from that country, and that the dispute over the Mexican oil and land laws be referred to arbitration. President Calles of Mexico has already expressed willingness to take the dispute to the Hague.

Against Doctrine.

American intervention into the civil affairs of Nicaragua, as represented by the landing of marines there to support the Diaz government, does not uphold the Monroe Doctrine, but, on the contrary, violates that doctrine, he said.

Senator Borah began his speech with a display of pussy-footing by stating there was nothing "of a personal controversy in this situation," between himself and the president, or between himself or the secretary of state.

"Dear to U. S."

"In this situation, the Monroe Doctrine does not apply. The doctrine, dear to the American people, was born of a controversy between hemispheres. It was designed to stop European meddling in affairs of this hemisphere.

"In this situation today, there is no non-American power seeking to acquire territory in Central America, nor

"Absurd" Say Foreign Office and Kollontai

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Jan. 13.—"The height of absurdity" . . . This was the reply of the Soviet foreign office today to the charges of United States Secretary of State Kellogg that the Soviet Union is fomenting trouble in Central America.

"Only Americans could be naive enough to credit such a yarn," said a high official of the Soviet foreign office. "If England charges us with fomenting trouble in Syria, Sumatra and elsewhere, the English know it is a lie, but when Americans hear we are plotting against them in Central America they actually believe it.

"As a matter of fact ninety per cent of the Soviet citizens never heard the name Nicaragua.

"We have no representative in any Central American state save Mexico, where Mme. Kollantai has just arrived. She is credited with incredible activity.

"What a long arm Moscow must have.

"We are quite helpless against such fabrications. There is nothing to reply except 'nonsense.'"

Kollontai Answers

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 13.—"Absurd!" said Alexandra Kollontai, Soviet ambassador to Mexico when informed of Senator Kellogg's statement to the senate committee regarding "Bolshevik" activities in Latin-America. "Mr. Kellogg can not have information relative to a thing which does not exist."

While a strict silence was maintained in Mexican official circles regarding Secretary Kellogg's charges, Madame Kollantai, sole minister of the Soviet government in the Americas, was outspoken in her contradiction of the charges.

Look for Break.

A severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico at an early date was regarded as inevitable today, as the reaction here to the publication of Kellogg's charges to the senate committee that the Soviet government of Russia was operating here and in Central America against the interests of the United States.

The secrciary of state's charges, coming on the heels of president Coolidge's message to congress, was regarded as a clear declaration of the Coolidge administration's determination to carry out its imperialist policy for the "protection" of American interests in the region between Panama and the Rio Grande.

NEEDLE TRADES LEFT WING HAS HISTORIC RALLY

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Nearly 200 delegates from needle trades centers all over the United States and Canada attended the needle trades left wing conference just concluded in New York.

It was the most successful conference of the needle trades left wing ever held. It planned out a definite policy against the splitting and expulsion tactics of the reactionary bureaucracy and for the maintenance of unity, and the building up of the needle trades unions, the struggle against the Sigmun bureaucracy, the issue of amalgamation, and struggle against Beckermanism, were among the main issues. Full support of the loan to save the Cloakmakers' Union was voted with the greatest enthusiasm.

Organization Drive.

A plan was adopted for an energetic campaign to stimulate the unions for a big organization campaign in the various trades, with the left local unions setting the example.

A most thorough discussion took place on the question of class collaboration and company unionization tendencies of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' bureaucracy.

Work Among Italians.

The energetic upbuilding of the left wing amongst the Italian needle workers was characterized as one of the chief tasks of the left wing in the ## American Workers and Farmers Can Stop Wall Street's War!

THE armed forces of Wall Street government are to stay in Nicaragua, the preparations for breaking off diplomatic relations with Mexico are to go on with the ultimate object of making war on this republic and its people, and protest against the whole conspiracy against the lives of Latin Americans and Americans is to be drowned out by a stentorian cry of "Bolsheviks at work in Mexico."

This much is apparent from the Arabian nights tale with which Secretary of State Kellogg caused the 100 per cent American hair of congressmen and senators, attending the session of the committee on foreign affairs, "to stand on end like quills upon the fretful porcupine."

It was a moving narrative of "secret" plotting—so secret that The DAILY WORKER has been giving it first page publicity for the last two weeks—which Kellogg unfolded to justify the mobilization of the Atlantic fleet and its dispatch to the Caribbean, his continual insults to the Mexican government and his rape of the constitutional government of Nicaragua and his involving of the people of this nation in a Wall Street war.

The DAILY WORKER, the official organ of the Workers (Communist) Party of America, has made no secret of its support of the Latin-American masses against Wall Street aggression. Neither has it made a secret of the fact that it believes that Coolidge and Kellogg are instruments of Wall Street, as is the whole mechanism of the federal government.

Every intelligent person in the United States, both those who support Wall Street's policies and those who are opposed to them, is of the same opinion.

Whether congressmen and senators are to be included in the category of intelligent persons depends upon the extent to which they believe in the validity of Kellogg's and Coolidge's excuses for making war in Nicaragua and preparing war on Mexico.

Dr. Jesse Latane, professor of history at John Hopkins university and an authority on Latin-America, is not one of those who have fallen for the puerile propaganda of the Wall Street-Coolidge administration. After considerable difficulty, Dr. Latane was allowed to address the foreign relations committee. He said, according to Washington dispatches:

The president's statement that his action in Nicaragua was necessary to protect our equal rights is an absurdity. When a man adopts such an excuse to justify our intervention, it raises the belief that there is a real reason which he does not want to give.

There is a real reason which Wall Street's spokesmen in the White House do not want to give:

It is that Wall Street is getting ready to conquer ALL of Latin America, by bribery and treachery if possible, by force of arms if necessary.

Mexico is to be the first target of attack. The conquest of Nicaragua is part of the conquest of Mexico. Nicaragua is headed for a southern base against Mexico.

If the real reason for the invasion of Nicaragua was made public there would be such a popular outcry that the

BUKHARIN SOUNDS WARNING AT MOSCOW COMMUNIST MEETING AGAINST NEW DANGERS OF WAR

By JOHN PEPPER.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., January 13.—Reporting on the international situation of the Union of Soviet Republics at the Fifteenth Party Conference of the Moscow District, Nikolai Bukharin arrived at the most serious conclusions on the dangers of war. The conference passed a resolution containing the following passage:

In bourgeois international politics actively hostile tendencies are coming to the foreground. A number of states under the lead of the British conservative government are manifesting growing tendencies to break off peaceful relations with the U. S. S. R. and start war (Poland, Lithuania, Roumania). This is evidenced by the open and hidden preparations for war and intervention against the Soviet Union, by diplomatic attacks, by the military legends sent to the border states, by the shameless campaign of lies of the social-democrats, and by the series of fascist coups and upheavals. All this is causing great anxiety among the broad masses of the workers and peasants of the Soviet Union who want to use all their forces for peaceful reconstruction. The conference calls upon the workers and peasants of the Soviet Union and upon the world proletariat to watch most carefully every move of the imperialist enemies. The working class of the Soviet Union will pursue a policy of peace without neglecting the necessity of strengthening the defensive capacity of the republics. The conference, noting the war danger threatening the Soviet Union from the side of the imperialist states, brings to the foreground the task of strengthening the red army and calls upon the working masses to concentrate attention on the problems of defense of the Soviet Union.

while the administration claims that it is protecting American property down there, no evidence has been offered by the president to substantiate his charge that this property was endangered. Until proof is forthcoming I shall prefer to believe Sen. Borah, who denies that it has been endangered. Thank God for a man like Borah at the other end of the capital!

"Are we going to stand here silent and allow the president to drive us into war with Mexico? I for one am not. The Monroe Doctrine is not involved, and yet what crimes are committed in its name!"

Mythical Spokesman.

At the White House, the mythical spokesman of the president refused to discuss the Mexican or Nicaraguan developments. Answering a question as to whether he would give the same degree of protection to American properties in China as he is in Nicaragua, he replied that in safeguarding American property abroad the government would do the best it could with the resources at its command. Secretary Kellogg, to the same question, replied that he had not heard the issue raised.

Dr. Vaca, Washington agent of the Sacasa constitutional government of Nicaragua, which Coolidge has apparently determined to wipe out by force, issued a statement refuting many of Coolidge's claims as to the legal, political and financial situation. He showed that the constitution does not, as asserted by Coolidge, author ize his own congress to elect a president, to complete the unexpired term of an executive who leaves the country. He pointed out it is "extremely unfair" to describe Sacasa as having defaulted his office, when in fact he was driven out by armed rebellion.

Bankers Control.

As to Nicaraguan finances, Dr. Vaca declares that instead of being less in debt now than in the beginning of the American occupation, or in 1917 when Coolidge said he owed $22,000,000—her debt is now $6,600,000 more than in 1909. And she never owed $22,000,000 at any time. He recites the heavy cost of the fiscal control of the country by Seligman & Co. and Brown Bros., bankers, who made "a comparatively enormous amount in undue profits" which was borne by heavy taxation. The official property was not kept in good condition by them, Vaca asserts, and not a single locomotive was purchased for the Pacific railroad of Nicaragua after they took hold of it, about 1912. Stations and tracks were left in dilapidated condition. Yet dividends were regularly paid, while heavy increases in freight rates and big salaries to managers selected by them bled the economic strength of the country.

ADMIRAL LATIMER GIVEN POWERS OF DICTATOR OVER NICARAGUANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Rear Admiral Julian L. Latimer, in charge of American naval forces in Nicaragua, has authority to establish a censorship there whenever he deems it necessary, Secretary of State Kellogg said today, with reference to reports that censorship had again been clamped down on Nicaragua ports.

Latimer had not advised the department, however, of the reported renewal of the censorship.

periment would work out successfully, since the animal has to take twelve hours out of the twenty-four for gastronomic purposes. This would never suit the capitalist system. The workers might be willing to dispense with their stomachs rather than have to work filling them, but darn it the old appetite seems to hang on, if the dog story is true.

BASEBALL is saved! It could not be otherwise. The players accused of unethical conduct have been exonerated with a slight tap on the wrist. It would never do for the magnates to leave the fans under the impression that when they go to a ball game, baseball players are watching a not a sporting contest but a gambling orgy. The interests of those who rule are usually served by any decision with which the notorious Landis has anything to do.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN'S wife is out for the champion golddiggership of America. She has beaten "Peaches" Browning by several millions. It appears that she is a very virtuous woman—she certainly sets a high valuation on it. This lady's most serious objection to her artistic husband was his contempt for the present marriage institution. When this fact forced itself on the consciousness of the mayor of Quebec, a catholic citadel, he ordered Charlie's films off the screen. What would the clergy do if the people ever got it in their heads that the hocus pocus of priests and ministers had as little cementing effect on matrimonial relations as the incantations of a medicine man would have in bringing rain from a cloud.

CHAPLIN is one of the few artists on the American screen that puts thot into his work, and thot means propaganda. The respectable descendants in one of his films who slips on a banana peel thereby ruining a plot of shinkey which was parked in his hip pocket had a powerful anticlerical sock. Indeed, in most of his work hidden away in the slapstick, thoro is a healthy cynicism towards capitalist conventions. Perhaps most of the chaplin admirers saw little but the funny shoes and the little mustache. Those are the morons who will now give their former idol the raspberry because a female dumbbell objected to the kind of literature he read.

WE have the expected crop of revolts in Mexico. Catholic bishops are being deported. A youthful rebel launches a brand new rebellion against the Mexican government from American soil. No doubt half a dozen other aspiring presidents of Mexico will flock to insert their daggers into this noble patriot's heart. Those Mexican counter-revolutionists remind one forcibly of the czarist brigands who vie with each other in their desire to "restore Russia to civilization." But they would hang separately rather than hang together and nothing came of their good intentions, except starvation for the patriots.

THE unofficial reply of the Mexican foreign minister to the bullying propaganda speech of President Coolidge is up to the high standard of Mexican diplomacy. The Mexican reply does not leave Coolidge a leg to stand on. It meets the threat of war with an offer to discuss matters over which the two countries are at odds and at the same time insists that Mexico was thoroly justified in recognizing the legitimate government of Nicaragua rather than the puppet government set up by United States bayonets.

THE exchange of courtesies between the factions of the Cook county republican party promises to make interesting spring reading. The boys are quarrelling over the mayoralty polls. Former boson pals are now sending each other's shirts in an effort to prove that there is a dirty piece of underwear beneath many a white front. Edward J. Brundage, formerly a wheel horse in the Crowe-Barrett faction is now out for Crowe's teath ers. Brundage charges Crowe with the use of sluggers in elections and divors other crimes and high misdemeanors. We believe Mr. Brundage is telling the truth.

BUT listen to the retort courteous of Mr. Crowe: "Mr. Crowe is a political merchant. He offered his wares to Thompson the Monday after Christmas and they were rejected. He is offering them to Lilsinger now; and if Litsinger refuses them, he'll offer them to John Dill Robertson. He complains of bi-partisanship, but he didn't mention it at all the time he was drawing compensation of $12,000 a year from the sanitary district as a result of a bi-partisan deal . . . He objects to me now, but I was alright as long as I maintained members of his family in lucrative positions on the payroll." Take your choice.

I. C. C. NOMINEE ADMITS LARGE RAIL HOLDINGS

Woods, Coolidge Man, Grilled by Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Cyrus E. Woods, who has been nominated by President Coolidge for the interstate commerce commission and now seeking approval of the appointment by the senate, admitted before the senate interstate commerce committee that he held large holdings in various railroads and coal companies who are and would be directly affected by rulings of the commission.

Wood's appointment is bitterly attacked by senators, one of the principal reasons is that he is attorney for the Pittsburgh Coal company.

Huge Killings.

Woods listed his various corporation stock holdings as follows:

100 Shares of Pittsburgh Coal Co.

$50,000 in bonds of Pennsylvania railroad.

$25,000 par value, each in bonds of Norfolk & Western, Atchison, Union Pacific railroad and Northern Pacific railroad.

500 shares common stock of Pennsylvania railroad.

100 shares of West Moreland Coal company with holdings in West Virginia and Kentucky.

1,000 shares of United States steel preferred.

$25,000 in bonds of H. C. Frick Coal and Coke company.

Is Sounded Out.

Woods was asked by the senate investigators what position he would take on various cases to come up before the commission, should his appointment be confirmed. Woods answered that he had not "preconceived ideas" in regard to commission decisions.

In answering to the question, "Is not the Pittsburgh Coal company known as the 'coal trust'?" Woods, counsel for that company, said, "I don't know." He was also asked if Secretary Mellon did not own a controlling interest of the company and again he expressed ignorance.

Reed Suspects Him.

Senator David Reed, reactionary Pennsylvania congressman, is upholding Woods' appointment. He declares that in cases involving Woods' own interests, "he would not sit."

The hearing is to be continued and the committee will report its decision to the senate. The decision is expected to be unfavorable to Woods.

Theater Swept By Fire.

FALL RIVER, Mass, Jan. 13.—Empire Theater, a vaudeville and motion picture playhouse, was swept by fire today at a loss ostimated at $200,000. Actors and actresses who had run from nearby hotels into the burning theater saved most of their personal belongings.

There's Opposition to Wall Street's War But It Must Be Organized

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

A CORRESPONDENT who signs himself R. A. Smith, has sent a letter to the Los Angeles, Calif., Record that was published Jan. 8, 1927, in which he says:

"Editor, The Record: State Senator Charles Lewis shows a surprising amount of guts when he tambasts war so vigorously. It's dangerous business, senator, for a public official to say such things.

"The executive for the Better American Federation of some other of these red-blooded, he-men organizations will be after you!

"I'm a veteran but, at any rate, senator, I think you'll find there are a lot of us who'll never do it again. Keep on kicking! We're the reserves.—R. A. Smith."

This is an individual expression of a veteren of the last war against the next war.

It was Representative Huddleston (democrat of Alabama), who joined with Senator Wheeler (democrat of Montana) in demanding the withdrawal of United States battleships from Nicaragua, who declared in the senate that:

"I believe 99 per cent of the people of the United States are opposed to war with Mexico. I believe that if it were left to a vote of the people of this country at least 99 per cent, if they could get proper information and were permitted to express their will freely, would declare their opposition to it. And now I wonder whether that 99 per cent are to be hippodromed into an international war."

There are two big facts seared deep into the minds of the whole American people that makes "the new war" set uneasily upon their shoulders. There are many others. But these stand out prominently. They are

First—The "gold brick" handed to the world war veterans in the form of the so-called "bonus certificates" instead of the cash bonus. On Jan. 1, this year, many penniless veterans took their "certificates" to the banks in an effort to raise the promised loans on them, but found that they were merely carrying around scraps of paper." The banks refused to grant the loans claiming no provisions had been made to reimburse them. The insurance certificates were dated Jan. 1, 1925, with the promise that two years after their issuance, loans would be allowed on the insurance policies up to 90 per cent of their value. But there is no money provided to make the loans.

Second—Broad masses of workers and farmers cannot forget the deflation and unemployment years of 1920-22, when the "Liberty Bonds" forced upon them during the war, depreciated to low levels at just the time when they were forced to sell in order to raise funds to meet their immediate needs. The farmer foreclosed by the mortgage and bankruptcy. The city worker had to pay rent, buy food and clothing, and the "Liberty Bond" that was supposed to be redeemed at 100 cents on the dollar, was disposed of wherever possible at much smaller amounts.

While the Coolidge-Mellon-Morgan government at Washington, therefore, plots news wars, the two facts stand out like sore thumbs, that the government can't fool the fake "bonus certificates" perpetrated a swindle upon those who actually fought the war, while the great bankers have made untold millions out of speculation in war bonds at the expense of those who actually paid for the war, the broad producing masses, the workers and farmers of the nation.

This question got an airing in the senate the other day with Senator Heflin (democrat, Alahama) stating the case from his viewpoint as follows:

"The veterans favored a cash bonus . . . The republican party refused to give them a cash bonus. Finally this certificate plan was offered; it was all you would give them and then, rather then have nothing, they said, 'We will take it.'

"They have not been treated right. Those who bought Liberty bonds during the war and paid 100 cents on the dollar and who were told that they would always be worth 100 cents on the dollar and that they could obtain money on them at any time, were driven during the panic of 1920 and 1921 to sacrifice them for 80 and 85 cents on the dollar after having been turned down by the banks with a flat refusal to loan money on them. Here is what I fear is going on—a scheme amongst some of the bankers to handy these certificates around and refuse to loan on them until these boys in sheer desperation will say, 'How much will you . . . and liens. New York bankers will buy them at a miserable discount that would be disgraceful, as they bought the Liberty bonds."

At this point Senator Curtiss, of Kansas, the republican floor leader, tried to heckle Heflin, claiming the Liberty Bonds had depreciated during the democratic administration and that the Wilson regime had entered the open market and bought up the bonds at a discount. Heflin refused to get off the subject, however, continuing:

"I am talking about the bonds that had been bought by and were in the hands of the people of the South and West; they were gotten by the bond sharks at Wall Street for 80 and 85 cents on the hundred; and they will collect the money on them from the government at 100 cents on the dollar. They are now clipping their coupons while the farmers of the South and West are suffering from the losses they sustained."

Evidently failing to appreciate the fact that Wall Street recognizes no god except the "almighty dollar," Heflin continued as follows:

"I am praying to god that those brave boys who went abroad, 3,000 miles from home, to offer their lives at the battlefront for the rights and liberties of the world will not be treated as the hundreds and thousands of patriotic bondholders were treated. I am hoping and praying that something will be done to take care of those boys to meet the honest obligations this government owes them. What a shameful spectacle to have one of these brave, upstanding, manly young Americans walking up and down the country with a government certificate in his hand beggig somebody to relieve his distress by loaning him some money . . . If we owed to these boys this amount, we ought to have paid them in money instead of giving them worthless certificates to peddle about the country. It is a shameful outrage."

Heflin's hopes and prayers will be in vain. Capitalism does not respond to prayers. Its sense of bearing is attuned only to the clink of dollars. All capitalist nations have plundered and will continue to plunder the many to pay for capitalism's wars. The capitalists everywhere treat their cannon fodder the same. Soldiers are paid low wages to murder. When the slaughter is over the maimed are thrown on the human scrap heap with other social outcasts, many of them becoming beggars upon the streets to ward off death by actual starvation.

Workers and farmers of the United States are opposed to the imperialist war that threatens. Veterans of the last war oppose the next war. That opposition must be crystallized into effective resistance. If Wall Street wants war, let it fight its own war. In the moment that imperialism cannot find soldiers to blindly fight its profit cause, at that instant it must crumble.

• • •

Arthur Brisbane, in the Hearst press, comments on the declaration of the Giornale d'Italia that says, "United States policy may be called one of authority and force. When necessary there are cannon behind American dollars."

Brisbane truly says in comment that, "Dollars without cannon behind them are feeble things, like flabby jelly fish. It is the cannon that transform flabby dollars into vertebrate dollars."

With the masses refusing to fight the wars of the dollar owners, the whole capitalist structure built about the dollar crumbles and the triumph of the prodncers, the workers and farmers, must inevitably ensue.

U. S. WARS ON LIBERALS, SAYS REBEL LEADER

Dr. Sacasa Replies to Coolidge Message

PUERTO CABAZAS, Nicaragua, Jan. 13.—Charging President Coolidge with entirely misrepresenting conditions in Nicaragua and in effect, declaring war on the liberals in revolt against the unconstitutional president, Diaz, Dr. Juan B. Sacasa issued a statement in reply.

Danles Mexican Officers' Chergs.

The assertion of President Coolidge that Mexican officers fight in our army and that the Mexican government protests us is absolutely erroneous," he said. "Not a single Mexican gunboat is on our shores, but many more warships from the United States are announced to arrive shortly, and are being sent to Nicaragua to sustain the Diaz government against the constitutional president and the Nicaraguan people."

Regarding continued U. S. support to Diaz Sacasa said. "If this declaration is confirmed, it would be tantamount to a declaration of war against the Nicaraguan people, whim I legally represent.

Bankers Behind It All.

He declared there exists "in New York a great financial force which actively develops intrigues in favor of the political group in Nicaragua. That group is in bad favor with the majority of Nicaraguans, and since 1912 it has been permitted to exist only thru the support of the state department at Washington.

"Upon new Chamorro and Diaz are defeated in the military struggle as they were defeated two years ago at the polls in a popular election. Diaz himself has stated that it is impossible for him to sustain himself without the aid of the United States government.

"Explain" Constabulary.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—An explanation was made by the state department today of its connection with the recent effort to have an American soldier command the Nicaraguan constabulary.

The explanation set forth that the constabulary was a "non-political police force" and that President Diaz, recognized by the state department, asked the department to suggest a man to act as "instructor" of the force. Accordingly, several names were discussed, the department said, including Major George K. Shuler, a retired marine officer, but nobody has been named.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 13. — To celebrate the third birthday of our fighting paper, The DAILY WORKER the Workers' Party of the Twin Cities has arranged a banquet for Saturday night, Jan. 15, in Labor Lyceum, 1626 6th Avenue, North, Minneapolis. The DAILY WORKER, born three years ago, has raised a lusty voice and rendered important service in the struggles of the workers, and therefore our enthusiasm for this, the third birthday party, is only exceeded by our determination to keep our paper safe for further service.

Workers and Farmers Can Stop Wall Street's War

demand for the impeachment of President Coolidge would be something more than an agitational slogan.

It is because of their knowledge of this that Coolidge and Kellogg seek to divert attention from Wall Street's murderous program by putting forward the ordinary, every-day activities of the Workers (Communist) Party of America. In support of the Latin-American workers and peasants as an excuse for mobilization of the Atlantic fleet, the regular army and the invasion of Nicaragua and preparation for war in Mexico.

But one valuable fact has been disclosed by the bombast of the state department. It is ths insincerity and weakness of ths opposition in Washington to the Wall Street Coolidge program. It has needed, apparently, only some cock and bull story, some bogay-man tale which would not frightan any ohild who has discarded a belief in San'a Claus, to discourage such sturdy statesman as Senator Borah.

Washington dispatches tell us that after the meeting of ths foreign relations committee:

Senator Borah is inclined to think that nothing can be done now, however, to remedy the wrong which he believes has been done by the administration in Nicaragua. He contemplates making a speech on the subject in the senate AND LETTING IT GO AT THAT. (Emphasis ours.)

Senator Borah, like Senator Johnson of California, is undoubtedly concerned ovar the loss of American prestige that would follow a withdrawal of armed forces from Nicaragua now.

This is an old trick of capitalist statemen who by occasional outbursts against specific acts seek to give the impression that they are not part of the machinery of Imperialism. But once ths question of "prestige" is involved they complacently tolerate the most brutal acts of aggression against weaker nations.

The workers and farmers of America must be able to see thru the monstrous fakary of American capitalist government. They must depend upon themselves and their organizations to bring pressure upon the dictators in the White House and in Wall Street. They, and they alone, have the power to stop Wall Street wars. They can stop the war against Mexico and Latin-America which Wall Street and its agents are preparing if they will refuse to be fooled by government officials and a capitalist press, schooled to and skilled in raising false issues with which to deceive the masses and distract their attention while the conspiracy against them gains headway.

The plot which concerns the workers and farmers of this country is a plot against the Latin-American and American masses—a plot to involve them in war with one another in the interests of Wall Street which robs both groups with the aid of its Coolidges and Kelloggs.

The workers and farmers of this country have the task of DRIVING such weak-kneed and hesitating imperialists as Borah into open struggle against the conquests of Mexico and Latin-America and the launching of a war whose burden of blood and tears will rest upon the shoulders of the toilers of two continents.

Borah Shows U. S. Invasion Shatters the Monroe Doctrine

does any non-American power seek to overthrow existing government there.

"Under the Monroe Doctrine, we have no right, moral or otherwise, to interfere in the internal affairs of the nations of Central and South America.

"If the Monroe Doctrine be construed so as to include the right of the United States to interfere with the independence or sovereignty of these small South and Central American countries, it becomes a dagger and not a shield. Those who uphold this doctrine are doing it a great injustice to invoke it in defense of any attempt to dominate the countries south of us."

Borah declared the United States "had no more right to interfere" in the question of the form of government to be maintained in Nicaragua, "than we should have in any of the powerful nations of the world."

Borah sharply accused the state department of fostering the two Estrada revolution in Nicaragua. He said the department was informed of the revolution by American Consul Moffett a day before it started.

"This Moffett aided and abetted the revolution of 1909," said Borah, "advised us in advance, helped the men to be the head of it and was part of it.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 — Appearing before the house foreign affairs committee, Representative Huddleston of Alabama, declared that the forces in Nicaragua are there for other purposes than the "protection" of American life and property. Regarding Mexico he said the U. S. should ask for no more privileges for Americans than are accorded to Mexicans. He advocated recommendation of his resolution demanding the immediate withdrawal of U. S. armed forces.

POPE, FASCISTS NEAR OPEN WAR FOR SUPREMACY

Breach, Now Apparent, Is Growing

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ROME, Jan. 13.—The catholic church and the fascist government, the two most powerful political organizations in Italy, are near an open break. This is the prediction that is made based on open and secret activities of the vatican and of Mussolini, that observers say are rapidly making for warfare between the church and state.

The pope is already conducting a move of passive resistance to the fascist regime. Fear that it will lose its spiritual power over Italy if fascism is allowed to dominate the activities and thoughts of the people, has caused Pope Pius XI to declare virtual war on fascism.

Opposition to the domination of Mussolini by the clergy has been smouldering for some time, but diplomatic concessions on both sides have heretofore averted open antagonism. Mussolini has consciously attempted to spread the impression that he and the vatican are on the best of terms and are working in complete harmony. This impression is now being pierced by the pope himself.

Schools and Banks Involved.

Two main issues, outside of the ancient struggle of church vs. state, have appeared on the horizon, threatening to either destroy the power of fascism or of the church. They are in the interference of the government in the education of the children and the attempt of the fascists to dominate the catholic banking system. To force the catholic banks to loan money to the government, Mussolini has issued orders that fascists be elected in all cases on the bank directorates. These orders have been carried out by force, in some instances.

Pope Makes Statement.

Actions of the fascist government have been condemned by a statement drawn at a secret consistory at the vatican recently. Some statements in the document follow:

"It seems that an obscure menace, confirmed by clouds of suspicion, interference, and difficulties, hovers over the activities of the catholic action organization, which is the apple of our eyo.

Education Enlarged.

"It seems that the task of education of Christian youth, which is an important part of our divine mission, is endangered.

"It seems that there is a conception of the state which cannot be catholic, which absorbs and monopolizes everything, which makes the citizens believe the state end is again being emphasized.

Calls Fascists Enamias.

"It seems the ministers of religion are treated in a fashion unworthy of their calling. It seems that laws and provisions, in themselves good, are being enforced and interpreted in many cases by men, who, under new names and new banners, remain enemies to society and religion."

Officials Uneasy.

This statement has caused much uneasiness in ranks of high fascist officials, who are reluctant to precipitate an immediate open break with the church. Mussolini is attempting to pacify the pope by praising him at every opportunity. The attitude of the church has been to accept concessions from the government, as if they were its due, and to give none. How long present strained conditions can exist, without actual war is a matter for conjecture.

This little booklet is intended as a manual for American workers containing in the form of adopted laws all of the demands that they themselves must fight for in the United States. But it also shows what can be done in the way of protection of labor in a country where a child labor law cannot be declared unconstitutional because it interferes with profits. In Russia child labor is judged not from its effects on profits but on the health of the children.

Ten Secretaries of Anti-Imperialist Leagues In Latin America and One in U. S. Urge American Workers and Farmers to Oppose Imperialist War

Eleven secretaries of sections of the All-America Anti-Imperialist League, ten of whom are heads of the movement in Latin-American countries, have signed a statement to the workers and farmers of the United States asking them to join with the people of Latin America to prevent Wall Street's government in Washington from forcing a war in Mexico and Central America as the result of the present policy of aggression embodied in the invasion of Nicaragua and the Kellogg-Coolidge threat against Mexico. The statement follows:

Workers and Farmers of the United States:

Be yen know:

That United States military and naval forces have taken possession of all important points in the republic of Nicaragua, including the capital and virtually the entire Gulf coast?

That Admiral Latimer has quietly collected in Caribbean waters, a United States fleet manned by over 4,000 sailors and marines?

That the scouting fleet sailing for Guantsoamo bay, Cuba, will place in southern waters an additional naval force of three battleships, six cruisers, 39 destroyers and auxiliaries including air squadrons,—the combined personnel of which is 10,000?

That, while the brutal raps of Nicaragua is in progress, Coolidge and Kellogg are moving toward an open break with Mexico over that country's oil and land laws?

Danger of War.

War looms up as an immediate danger threatening the great masses of the American people! It is an imperialist war—a war for empire, which even before it is fairly started has already overwhelmed the little republic of Nicaragua. All Latin America is aroused.

The workers and farmers of the United States have no interest in this adventuristic policy which the lords of Wall Street and Washington are pursuing. The All-America Anti-Imperialist League, with national sections in eleven countries of the American continent, calls upon you to make common cause with us against them!

First, as to Nicaragua. President Coolidge boasts in his Jan. 10 message to congress, that he has violated the sovereignty of Nicaragua in the interests of U. S. lumber, mining, banana, shipping and banking lords.

"There is no question," he says, explaining his intervention, "that if the revolution continues American investments and business interests in Nicaragua will be very seriously affected, if not destroyed."

Sacasa Rightful President.

The constitutionally established government of Juan B. Sacasa, is admittedly nationalistic and has the backing of the great majority of the Nicaraguan people in this policy, including the Nicaraguan Federation of Labor. Adolfe Diaz, whose insolent pretensions to the presidency are recognized by Washington, is a Wall Street puppet quite willing to turn the resources of his country over to Wall Street. That is the purpose for which Diaz is supported. That the people of Nicaragua do not want him is plain to all the world. He was president once before, several years ago—and then, as now, was maintained in power only by United States bayonets. The presidency of Diaz signifies nothing less than the conquest of Nicaragua by the United States.

President Calles of Mexico, who has had his own troubles with Wall Street's grabbing imperialism, recognizes the government of Sacasa. Coolidge protests at "Mexican plots in Nicaragua," but all of Latin America is protesting not at Mexico but at the United States! The hypocritical Coolidge is cooking up plots at the present time not only in Nicaragua but in Mexico as well. Mexico is to be applauded for helping toward the creation of a solid Latin-American front against U. S. imperialism! It is a defensive front and all Latin America recognizes it as such.

Seek Pretext.

The truth is that Wall Street and Washington are seeking a pretext for war against Mexico. It would be ridiculous to consider the sudden U. S. descent upon Nicaragua without taking into account the present Mexican situation. The 14,000 sailors and marines in southern waters are certainly not all for use in Nicaragua!

For months Secretary of State Kellogg has been threatening the Mexican government because that country dared to limit the exploitation carried on by U. S. oil companies and other big corporations. The oil companies, openly and unitedly defying the Mexican laws, refuse to register their property with the Mexican government. They support the attempts of the reactionary Catholic leaders to stir up revolt. It is not unlikely that they are subsidizing such revolts, as an opening wedge for armed intervention by the United States.

Mexico Strong.

Intervention in Mexico would be quite a different thing from intervention in Nicaragua. This would be all war, against a nation of 15,000,000 people, backed by all Latin America. Many times 14,000 troops would have to be called out before the struggle was fairly under way. Thousands of Mexican and American workers would be called upon to give up their lives for the sake of oil-imperialism.

All desperate and bloody war is to be avoided, all possible forces must be mobilised against it. Latin America can be depended upon to render all possible support to any Latin-American country attacked by American imperialism. We call upon you, workers and farmers of the United States, to stand with us against imperialist attack.

Join with Latin People.

The people of Latin America do not consider you their enemies, even when the armies of U. S. imperialism are forming against them. We know that the lords of Wall Street and Washington are no particular friends of yours.

Join with us! Together we shall be able to defeat the aims of the imperialists!

You can cripple the plans of aggression by protesting, demonstrating, going on strike if necessary!

Demand the immediate withdrawal of United States forces from Nicaragua!

Demand recognition of the Sacasa government of Nicaragua!

Demand hands off Mexico!

Demand withdrawal of U. S. military and naval forces from China!

Send Delegates to Anti-Imperialist Conferences!

Call to Action by the United States Section, All-America Anti-Imperialist League

WORKERS, FARMERS AND ALL OTHERS OPPOSED TO AMERICAN IMPERIALISM:

You have read the appeal of the continental committee of the All-America Anti-Imperialist League, signed by the secretaries of eleven national sections.

The facts set forth there are indisputably true. Even these facts fail to indicate the full scope of the war danger, ner the extent of the imperialist outrages of Wall Street and Washington.

Admiral Williams has sailed for China with a fleet of American fighting vessels the size of which has been kept strictly secret, and additional forces for use in China are being conditioned in Guam and the Hawaiian islands. The advance of the Cantonese (revolutionary nationalist) armies, greeted with joy by the Chinese masses who see their country being freed of foreign domination, has made American business men fear for their profits. A new and much more drastic policy toward China is being elaborated by President Coolidge. That policy is embodied in Admiral Williams' battle fleet.

Imperialism and war are inseparable. The policy of aggression now being pursued by the United States government leads to one act of war after another.

The Latin Americans are correct when they say that the workers and farmers of the United States are "no particular friends" of Wall Street and Washington, whare imperialist policy emanates from. The interests of the wide masses of the American people are directly opposed to the financial ring that rules this country.

There are important elements in the United States opposed to American imperialism. There is a gigantic protest developing, as yet unvoiced, against U. S. aggressions in Nicaragua, Mexico and the Far East. We must make this protest effective! United States troops are occupying Latin-American soil.

Immediate action is necessary if we are to prove worthy of the confidance expressed in us by our Latin-American brethare.

The United States Section of the All-America Anti-Imperialist League will take steps to unite all workers, farmers and other anti-imperialist elaments in the United States for a concerted fight against imperialism. Our league will initiate the setting up of emergency conferances against imperialism thruout the country, composed of delegates from trade unions, fraternal societies, farmers' organizations, etc.

The executive committee of ths isague hereby instructs its local branchas to procead at once to tha calling of thass conferences in aach locality.

ALL-AMERICA ANTI-IMPERIALIST LEAGUE,
(United States Section),
MANUEL GOMEZ, Secretary.

LABOR NEWS IS SUPPRESSED BY POLISH REGIME

Workers' Paper Shows Many Blank Spaces

An example of the outrageous suppression of even the most elementary forms of free press by the brutal military government of Poland is found in a copy of Newiny Krajowa (The News of the Country), a labor paper that appears from time to time (when the censors will permit) in Krakev.

White Spaces Tell Tale.

The issue of Dec. 22, just received, is just shot thru with the mutilations of the censor. Suddenly, in the very heart of a piece of news or an article, a blank white space yawns with the inscription: "Skreslkawane" (Censored). Especially significant is one of these "white spaces" in the middle of an article on the breaking up of a demonstration in Vilna. What police outrages these "white spaces" hide can just about be imagined. Right next to this article is another "white space" significantly bordered heavily in black. Unquestionably this space was originally devoted to a final death notice of the unfortunate victims of the brutality of the maintainers of "law and order" in the Pilsudski.

16 in One Small Paper.

The story of the labor delegation from England that came to examine the conditions of the class war prisoners in Poland is liberally besprinkled with the censor's work. Even the correspondence section is not immune.

Altogether in this small four-page paper there are sixteen "white spaces" bearing the censor's mark. It is interesting to note that issue before the one we are examining was entirely confiscated as were perhaps many more before that.

And this is taking place in "emancipated Poland," in the "glorious new democracy" that came into being thru the grace of French and English imperialism!

MASS MEET TO PROTEST NICARAGUAN INVASION IS CALLED IN NEW YORK CITY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. — A mass meeting in protest against the Wall Street policies of the government and calling upon the workers not to fight the battles of American imperialism is being called in New York City for Sunday, Jan. 16.

This meeting will be held in connection with the Liebknecht meeting organized by the Young Workers League.

British Unions Reported In Support of Canton

MOSCOW, (Tass).— From London comes the report that the conference of delegates of the British trade unions has decided to organize a British Labor Council for Defense of China's Independence. The council has, as its object, the support of the Chinese liberation movement and the establishment of closer relations of co-operation between the British and Chinese labor movements.

SPENCER ASKS INVESTIGATION BY GRAND JURY

Melrose Park Affair Up to Crowe

In a letter to State's Attorney Robert E. Crewe, Mrs. Mary Bello Spencer, attorney for the Mexican consulate, has asked for a complete grand jury investigation into the shooting affair at Melrose Park on Dec. 7.

She asks an investigation into the fact that at twe or three o'cleck, in the morning of Dec. 7, Sergean Davis of the Melrose Park force reported to the coroner's office that there were four men killed, when the bodies of only twe were produced at the inquest.

She asks what evidence there was at the inquest that sustains the verdict that Policeman Lyman J. Stahl killed Jose Sanchez, or what evidence that is was justifiable homicide" on the part of whoever did kill him, since he was unarmed and not engaged in the commission of any offense at the time.

She asks what evidance the inquest afforded to sustain the verdict that Agustin Morales killed Officer Stahl.

She asks an investigation into the treatment given the 34 Mexicans who were routed ont eb their box-car homes, beaten, robbed, arrested, and fined $50.00 each and costs, after the Mexican consul had been assured by Chief of Police Pein that they would be released, as he had nothing against them.

She asks the grand jury to investigate and learn who shot and wounded Officer Juergen Kolwitz.

She asks that Agustin Morales he brought before the grand jury to tell them as to who beat him up after his arrest at Oak Park and after his being taken to Melrose Park.

With her communication to Crowe, Mrs. Spencer sends a copy of a letter from L. Lupian, the Mexican consul, in which he transmits a list of the Mexicans who were robbed by the police, so far as now known, and a list of the effects taken from them.

Judge Lindsay, who is considering the matter of admitting Morales to bail, said he found nothing in the coroner's evidence to warrant holding Morales, but that he would withhold decision until the state's attorney's office had had opportunity to present any evidence it may have. He will give decision on Thursday at 2 p. m.

Says Canton Army Efficient

PERTH—(FP)—S. H. Burridge, a businessman of Western Australia, returned from China, says what astounds foreign military observers of the Chinese civil war is the efficiency of the Chinese Nationalist army.

"ARMED REVOLT" AGAINST MEXICAN GOVERNMENT IS ANNOUNCED BY REACTION

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 13. — An "armed revolt" will start probably tonight or tomorrow in Mexico, according to a manifeste issued here today by General Nicholas Fernandez.

Jointly signing the manifesto is General Juan B. Galindo, a resident of El Paso for several years.

MINNESOTA F.-L. SOLONS MILITANT IN LEGISLATURE

Nominate Member for Speaker of House

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 13. — Militancy was the policy of Farmer-Labor members of the Minnesota house of representatives when it opened its new session here. Discardlng the policy that they should submit to control of the old line parties and depend on getting what legislation is given to them, leaders of the Farmer-Laborites placed one of their own number in nomination for speaker of the house.

Starkey Nominated.

Frank T. Starkey, member of the house for two terms from St. Paul, was nominated. Allie Starkey was defeated, part of the defeat being due to the non-support of some of the F.-L. members, the definite estrangement of the party from the fight for control of the legislature is seen as a sigeal for new militancy on the part of the Farmer-Labor members.

The nomination of a Farmer-Labor solon for speaker showed the existence of two "schools" in the F.-L. ranks. One group, led by Chauncey Petersoo of Duluth, opposed any attempt to elect a Farmer-Labor representative as a speaker.

Petersen contended that the republicans, out of the "goodness of their heart" would give the Farmer-Labor legislators something if they proved "harmonious and kindly."

Fight "Co-operation."

This argument was met by the more progressive leaders, Nellermoe, Enstrom, Nelsen, Davis, and Starkey, who declared the fight was not an isolated one, but would continue for many sessions, and the Farmer-Laborites must so align themselves with reactionaries with the hope of obtaining a few "crumbs."

Those who voted for Starkey were: Atwood, Baraness, Dahger, Davl, Day, Enstrom, Erickson, Holm, Kramer, Lagerstedt, Lodin, McDonough, Melby, Nelson, Olson, Hostetter, Salmonson, Samec, Spehrink, and Thorkelsen.

Contest Seat of F.-P.

The attempt of the reactionary legislators to deprive Emil S. Youngdahl, Farmer-Labor representative-elect from the 35th district, is holding the attention of the legislature. H. B. Rutledge, who was defeated, has filed a contest on the house. The first returns of the election in that district gave Rutledge the victory, but investigation revealed crookedness in the ballot counting, and subsequent recounting gave Youndahl a clear majority. Rutledge, however, appeared in the house, and was seated. An investigation by the house has been ordered.

All Set for Hearing in $36,000,000 Tax Suit of Government

DETROIT, Jan. 13. — The scene is set for the commencement of the greatest tax appeal case in American history—the suit by the United States government to collect $36,000,000 from Senator James Couzens and eight other original stockholders of the Ford Motor company.

The government contends the money is due on stock sold back to Henry Ford in 1919. The $36,000,000, the government claims, represents the unpaid tax on the increase in the valuation of the stock from 1913 to 1919.

Senator Couzens, from whom more than $9,000,000 is sought, will not be at the hearing.

The hearings will be held before three members of the board of tax appeals in a downtown hotel. Later a report will be submitted to the full board of 16 in Washington, and a decision will be reached.

U. S. Still Considers 'National Origin' Plan in Immigration Quotas

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. — President Coolidge denies that the secretaries of labor, commerce and state have quit their attempt to determine what immigration quotas should be allowed the several countries of the world under the "national origins" scheme enacted in the last amendments of the law.

The scheme is so unworkable that congress is likely to repeal it this winter. It is effective July 1.

PICKET REFUSES BRIBE OF BOSS; BEATING RESULTS

Fresh Violence Occurs in Box Strike

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. — Violence against workers who can't be bribed to go back or get off the picket line is the order of the day for paper box employers. The latest violence occurred when three gunmen attacked a picket on his way home and so injured him that he had to be taken to the hospital.

Worker Spurns Offer.

Max Birnham, 834 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, was asked by his employer to stay off the picket line and promised that he would receive his check for wages at home. He was further offered all back pay since the strike began fourteen weeks ago, if he would get the rest of the workers to break from the ranks of the strikers. He refused to sell out the union, and yesterday's brutal attack by hired guerillas was the bosses' answer.

Would Lower Wages.

Not content with trying to get workers back without a union, and later lowering their wages, when they are unprotected because unorganized, the employers are already trying to reduce the low wages existing before the strike. One employer, Irving Weissman, sent a letter to his stripper, asking her to come back for three dollars per week less than she got before the strike. Needless to say his post card reading, "If you can come back to work for $26.50, then it is O. K. If not, phone me," was ignored by the workers whose wages were $29.50 and was given to Fred Caiola, manager of the union, who read it to a mass meeting.

Eight arrests on the picket line show that the police are again being relied upon by the bosses. Two girls, Esther Parrish and Lena Fuch of the Unique Paper Box company, 109 Spring St., were dismissed in the city magistrate's court. They were arrested while peacefully picketing. This is the same company that used gangsters to beat up the picket.

Sluggers Threaten Workers Giving Out Labor Party Leaflets

Two Chicago workers who were attempting to awaken their fellows to the necessity for a labor party by distributing the labor party leaflets of the Workers (Communist) Party to workers at the Hart Schaffner and Marx clothing factory here were driven off the premises by armed sluggers.

The workers were Comrades Kishler and Lemson. They had gone to the "L" factory of the clothing company at Tripp and Western avenue. When news of the leaflets they were distributing reached the bosses, the sluggers were sent out to threaten them.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 13. — (FP) — New officers elected by the board of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, in the shifting of positions entailed by the recent death of general secretary-treasurer, A. E. King, are announced by President W. G. Lee. T. H. Dodge, assistant president, becomes general secretary-treasurer; W. N. Doek, first vice president, becomes assistant president; and James Murdock, who was for four years Canadian minister of labor under the McKinzie King administration, is a newly appointed junior vice president. The new officers take over their duties on Feb. 1.

Needle Trades Left Wing Has Historic Rally

needle trades, by William E. Foster, secretary of the national committee of the general T. U. E. L.

Cable From International.

The following cablegram was received from the Communist Workers' International Propaganda Committee of the Red International of Labor Unions:

"Garment Workers' I. P. C. greets Fourth Conference as expressing militance of workers in the needle industry and commends your struggle for unity and amalgamation in face of the splitting policy of the strike-breaking bureaucracy. We welcome your decision to carry on an energetic struggle for the elimination of this treacherous bureaucracy and to build up an effective educational propaganda organization to enlighten the workers, particularly the up-building of your own press organ."

Resolutions on all questions affecting the needle industry and the general labor movement were adopted, among which was the following:

RESOLUTION AGAINST SPLITTING TACTICS OF THE RIGHT WING.

The reactionary leadership of the needle trades unions are splitting and ruining the needle unions. In their mad determination to force the workers who refuse to follow their leadership to accept the speed-up systems and other conditions demanded by the employers, they are attempting to break down the opposition by a reckless policy of suppression and arbitrary action that is destroying the unions which have been built thru so many years of hard work.

The right wing reactionaries have combined to carry on this disruptive attack against the forces of progress in the unions. They have combined not only with the most reactionary and corrupt elements in the needle industry, but they stand allied with the ultra-reactionary leaders of the A. F. of L. and the employers to kill the fighting spirit in the unions.

Ruinous Policy.

In the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union the policy of the Sigman administration is absolutely ruinous. Not content with directly cooperating with the employers to break the cloakmakers' strike, Sigman has finished by arbitrarily suspending the New York Joint Board and all its affiliated local unions, without a shadow of justification by the international constitution or the facts of the situation.

In the Amalgamated Clothing Workers the Hillman administration has set up a reign of terror. In many cities—New York, Chicago, Rochester, etc.—it has almost completely abolished democratic procedure. The administration rules the unwilling with and the by force. Opponents of the administration's policy of more and more concessions to the employers are ruthlessly terrorized and often expelled from the union and the industry. This reign of terror reaches its highest pitch in New York under the dictatorship of the fascist Beckerman.

Furriers' Union.

In the Furriers' Union the Schachtman administration, too weak and isolated from the masses to make even a semblance of an effective fight itself against the left wing, is being assisted by all the reactionaries in the needle trades and the A. F. of L. executive council. Steps are now being taken by these reactionaries to disrupt the Furriers' New York Joint Board.

In the Copmakers' Union, the international officialdom are beginning to follow the same tactics by removals and suspensions, and giving full support to the Sigmen, Beckerman and the other right wing reactionaries. The reactionaries have formed the so-called committee for the preservation of the trade unions, to throw dissension and demoralisation into the ranks of the workers.

Cessation of Terror.

Against this splitting policy of the reactionaries the left wing, voicing the sentiments and determination of the overwhelming majority of the workers in all sections of the needle industry, makes emphatic protest. It demands the immediate restoration of democracy in the unions and the cessation of the present right wing terroristic tactics. It categorically insists upon the withdrawal of Sigman's outrageous suspension order and the immediate reinstatement of the New York Joint Board, its affiliated locals, and all their duly elected officials. It insists that the expulsion policy be stopped at once, that the destructive attacks against the Furriers' Joint Board cease, and that the various militants expelled because of their political beliefs and active defense of the fighting policy against the employers be at once reinstated.

The left wing calls upon the masses of workers to actively support its fight against the splitting tactics of the right wing and for the complete unification and rejuvenation of the needle trades unions.

RAISE FUND FOR N. Y. UNION AS SIGMANITES FAIL IN DISRUPTION

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 13.—Supporters of the Sigman machine in the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, brot a number of gangsters with them to the big mass meeting held here by the St. Louis conferences for the relief of the New York cloakmakers and tried to disrupt the meeting.

The speaker was Brother Cooper of the joint board of the New York cloakmakers. The right wingers interrupted the chairman repeatedly and were adopting a threatening attitude when they perceived that the whole meeting was against them. After they left the hall, the meeting was successfully concluded by the raising of $2,000 towards a loan to the New York union.

16 Chicago Teachers Over 70 Years Old, Are Put On Inactive List

Sixteen public school teachers in Chicago are slated for withdrawal from regular service in the school system and given "emeritus" duty in recommendations to the school board by Superintendent Charles Andrews. The teachers are all 70 years of age, and have served the schools from 26 years to 52 years. I. M. Schoslager, principal of Pierce School, held the long record of service.

The state law provides that when a school teacher reaches the age of 74 they must be placed on a pension of $1,500 a year. Fourteen come under this law in 1927.

27 MEMBERS OF LOCAL CAST 150 VOTES FOR LEWIS

Sample of Machine Rule in U. M. W. of A.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

FREELAND, Pa., Jan. 13. — A sample of how the Lewis machine in the United Mine Workers' Union Jarymandered the recent elections for international officers is seen in the manner in which the vote of Local 1,521 in the Upper Lehigh Valley was cast.

This local has 150 paid up members on the books. Just prior to the election a meeting was called by the officials of the local who support Lewis. Only 27 members showed up. The chairman recommended that the secretary of the union be instructed to cast all the ballots of the local members in the international and district elections.

150 Votes by 37 Man.

All of those present being supporters of the machine, the motion, of course, was carried. This meant that John L. Lewis and his slate was given 150 votes from Local 1,521 with a little better than one-sixth of the members knowing anything about it.

Mine Fire Boss Given Fine and Sentence for Blast That Killed Nine

WILKES-BARRE, Jan. 13.—Charles Treneary, a mine fire boss employed at No. 7 colliery of Susquehanna Collieries Co., received sentence of $500 fine and three months in the county jail for violating mine safety laws the day nine workers were killed in a gas explosion in the mine.

The fire boss had pleaded guilty, admitting that he had not made a thore inspection and that he had not warned the workers of the small percentage of gas he had detected.

Counsel for the fire boss asked mercy, saying there had been no willful intent or malice in his actions that the miners had safety lamps and knew conditions, but that the sudden starting of the inside fan seemed to have caused the explosion.

HISTORY OF C.E. TRACED IN TALK BY RUTHENBERG

Members of Proletarian Party Answered

The present attack of the labor bureaucracy on the left wing in the labor movement has aroused interest in how the Communist Party rose to its present position from a small propaganda group. Comrade C. E. Ruthenberg, executive secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party, in the second lecture of a series of three showed how the Communist Party grew from a propaganda society to a movement with roots imbedded in the mass movement of the workers of America.

From Beginning.

He traced the formation of the Communist Party and the Communist Labor Party, and the movement toward unity, based on a realization that work in America must aim toward participation in the mass movements of the workers thru an open party. The fight of the United Toilers for the maintenance of the underground, illegal party as the dominating factor was explained. The difference between a open and a party of the masses was well brot out, using the proletarian party as an example.

P. P. Members Talk.

The lecture was received as an authoritative presentation by one who occupied a central position in the development of the movement. One hour was taken for the lecture, half an hour in answering questions, and then an hour was reserved for discussion, speeches being limited to five minutes, after which Comrade Ruthenberg closed the discussion. Three members of the proletarian party answered the discussion by making criticism of the Workers Party. These were well answered by Ruthenberg in summing up.

The proletarian party members were invited to participate in the mass movements of the workers in a united front with the Workers Party and other working class organizations, instead of confining their activity entirely to study classes.

Next Lecture Saturday Night.

The third lecture by Comrade Ruthenberg, under the auspices of the Workers School, will be held this coming Saturday, Jan. 15, at 8 p. m. instead of Sunday night, since the Lenin meet memorial will take place on Sunday. Northwest Hall, North and Western Aves. Admission 25c.

Gary Lenin Memorial Meeting on January 22

GARY, Ind., Jan. 13. — The Gary Lenin memorial meeting will be held in Turner Hall, 14th and Washington St., Saturday, Jan. 22, 8 p. m.

The speakers will be Max Bedacht speaking for the Workers (Communist) Party and Nat Kaplan for the Young Workers League. A Young Pioneer will also speak.

All Gary workers are invited to attend this meeting. There will also be music. Admission is free.

WITH THE YOUNG WORKERS

CONDUCTED BY THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

PETTY BOURGEOIS PACIFISM

By NAT KAPLAN.

Article 1.

THE present events in the senate and house in regards to the Nicaraguan invasion and the enforcement by Mexico of the oil and land laws clearly demonstrates the existence of a broad, vague, anti-war, anti-militarist, pacifist sentiment among the small bourgeoisie. This is caused primarily by the steady shifting of the burden of taxation and national debt from the shoulders of the big bourgeoisie on to the shoulders of the petty bourgeoisie and the working class. We must understand this development and realize how far this petty bourgeoisie opposition will go if we are not to ride along on the tail of the Borahs, the Wheelers and the Huddlestons and ourselves become partners in creating pacifist illusions in the minds of the workers.

First of all it is perfectly correct to utilize this rift in the ranks of the bourgeoisie, to goad the small bourgeoisie on to more determined action against the big bourgeoisie. But the workers must realize from the start that this opposition will not go very far. These gentry in the senate and house will do nothing to organize the masses for a struggle around the slogans of: Demand that the United States get out of Nicaragua! No intervention in Mexico! Hands off China! They are twice as scared of the oppressed masses as they are of the big bourgeoisie that is brinning pressure against them. They will go as far as presenting bills, passing resolutions and making pro-ches but no further.

The Young Workers (Communist) League has had some experiences with these petty bourgeois pacifists. We entered into united fronts with the petty bourgeois youth for an imperialist struggle against capitalist militarism. These united fronts did not even go as far as we had hoped. In one question the petty bourgeois pacifist youth was quite militant and aggressive and that was on how most quickly and effectively to break up these united fronts, to frustrate every effort made by the more radical elements in it to take a single step against capitalist militarism.

Thru a few examples we will try to show how petty bourgeois pacifism only creates illusions in the minds of the workers and perverts the real struggle against capitalist militarism and the danger of new imperialist wars.

For instance there is the Fellowship of Reconciliation, a petty bourgeois religious pacifist organization. The main aim of this body is to make its members meek, humble, submissive in the present day society of class struggles. Its anti-militarist program consists in its totality of the following nonsense:

"Love alone can break the vicious circle of cause and effect that keeps war, exploitation and race discrimination with us . . ."

With a program of non-activity, turning the other cheek and impotence, the Fellowship poses as the "true" anti-militarist organization. In one place in its statement of principles the Fellowship declares:

"The members of the Fellowship desire to express their convictions in a spirit of humility, honor, and love and to guard against the danger of controversial methods . . ."

There can be nothing clearer than this as an outright pro-boss policy. "Humility" of the young workers to their exploiters, "Honor" to the bosses' government, "Love" for the Wall Street bankers that are ruining us into another imperialist war. No "controversial methods" against our exploiters. This is what the Fellowship's pacifism consists of.

'WRITE AS YOU FIGHT!'

Factory Newspapers--Communist Shop Organs

By REBECCA GRECHT.

SEVERAL months ago there appeared on article in the "Detroit Saturday Night", one of the most bitter anti-labor, open shop organs in the United States, calling attention to a new "menace" that had made its appearance in Detroit, threatening the peace and tranquility of the powerful automobile barons of that city. This "menece" was none other than the factory newspapers issued by the Workers (Communist) Party groups in the various automobile plants in Detroit—including the Ford Motor Co., Dodge Bros., the Fisher Body Plant, etc. While the American Federation of Labor was contenting itself merely with passing resolutions on the organization of the automobile industry, the above article stated, the Communists, thru their shop papers, were actually spreading the doctrine of organization among thousands of workers. In similar vein the New York "Journal of Commerce", likewise an open shop paper devoted to the "American Plan", recently issued a warning against the Communist "house organs" thru which the Communists Party is gaining a foothold in American industries.

Thus the significence of Communist factory newspapers is already being recognized by the capitalist enemies of labor, ever quick to discern whatever in any way threatens their control.

Functions of Factory Newspapers.

FACTORY newspapers issued under Communist direction are not peculiar to the American Communist Party. They are being published today in England, Germany, France, Czechoslovakia, and other countries where Communist parties function. They are a form of activity developed especially thru the reorganization of the Communist parties into units based on the place of work of the membership instead of the territory in which they live. As the aim of reorganization is to build the parties in such a way that their influence may penetrate deeply into the working class masses, the factory newspapers serve as one of the chief medithms thru which the influence of Communist groups, or nuclei, in the various factories can be exercised.

It is necesary for us in the American party to understand clearly the importance of these shop papers, and study ways and means of making them effective. As the name implies, the factory newspaper is intended primarily for the workers of a particular plant. It is the organ of the Communist factory group, to carry on agitation among the factory employes. It is a vehicle for conveying to the workers, in a manner they can readily understand, the principles of Communism and the program of the Communist Party in industry and politics. Basing its contents and methods of approach upon the needs and experiences of the factory workers, it aims to break down their apathy, to stir them against capitalist exploitation, to rouse their class consciousness and develop their political judgment, thus drawing them nearer to the Communist movement.

Agitation Instrument.

IN these respects the factory newspaper properly organized and edited, can often be a more effective agitational instrument than the general party press. Written for the workers of one enterprise, the factory organ can be adapted to their particular mentality and special interests. It is more concrete and specific than the party daily paper, as the latter, designed for wide masses of workers, necessarily deals with a broader variety of subjects, in a more comprehensive and complex manner. This does not mean that the factory newspapers can replace the Communist press, which, as a collective propagandist, agitator, and organizer", is indispensable to our party. The shop papers, in fact, bring the workers closer to the party organs and increase their circulation. Because of its direct appeal, however, the factory newspaper has special value. This must be utilized to the widest possible extent, and the slogan raised of "a shop paper in every factory am playing several hundred or more workers where there is a Communist group."

Shop Problems and Economic Demands.

MANY problems are involved in the preparation and publication of factory papers, most important of which is that of contents. The effectiveness of the factory newspaper depends largely upon what it contains. Upon this question, chiefly, rests the success of the paper and the achievement of its aims. It must be given earnest consideration.

The factory newspaper, by its very purpose, must deal primarily with the problems faced by the employes in the shop, approaching the workers thru their economic interests. This is the first principle governing contents. The questions of wages, hours, unemployment, organization, etc., constitute the fulcrum around which the agitation of the Communist factory group turns. Every wrong the workers in the shop are subjected to, every oppressive condition imposed upon them, great or small, may find a place in the factory newspaper. The workers must be made to understand the general system of capitalist exploitation under which they live by explanation and analysis of the specific conditions of enslavement under which they themselves toil. In every possible way the factory newspaper must demonstrate to the workers that the Communists are not interested merely in theories and in abstractly propagating the final social revolution, but are vitally concerned with the immediate welfare of the workers, alive to their every need.

POLICE SWARM PREMISES OF MILL COMPANY

Bosses Have More Cops Than the City

By a Worker Correspondent.

CAMPBELL, Ohio—Jan. 18. A lesson in "safety first" and company unionism was given to the steel workers here when the Sheriff of Mahoning county in Youngstown announced the reappointment of 450 special deputy sheriffs used as mill guards at a bond of $500,000 posted by their employers.

More than $30 of these special deputies are employed in the company union plants of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company. All are armed and uniformed and are authorized by the state to take the protesting slave either to the jail house or the paymaster. Five times more police are used safeguarding the property of the bosses then is used by the city of Youngstown with over a population of 160,000 people.

Armed deputies, safety first, company onion, for the bosses and disorganization for the slaves. The progressives in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers must face these conditions and fight shoulder to shoulder with the unorganized steel and iron workers for their complete organization.

Denver I. L. D. Demands Withdrawal of Troops From Nicaraguan Land

By a Worker Correspondent.

DENVER, Jan. 13. — At a meeting of International Defense League, the following resolution was adopted and passed unanimously:

Be it resolved, That we, the peace loving people of the state of Colorado, do hereby protest in the landing of United States troops and any kind of warships, in the Nicaraguan waters or land, we believe that it is against the constitution that the steps taken by our military forces are ill-advised and without ample cause, and that the great mass of the working people of America, who love peace and harmony amongst and with all of the world, do not believe in the imperialistic policy of our country.

Therefore, We, the Denver local of the International Labor Defense emphatically protest against the presence of our armed troops in Nicaragua and urge the full immediate withdrawal. We have enough hatred now against the United States.

Chairman.

Why don't you write it up? It may be interesting to other workers.

THIS WEEK'S PRIZE WINNERS

Jack Glass, New York worker correspondent, is awarded first prize this week for worker correspondence articles in The DAILY WORKER. His story appears on this page and gives details of hunting for a job in "prosperous America." He is awarded the splendid book by A. A. Heller, "Industrial Revival of Soviet Russia."

A worker correspondent of Campbell, Ohio, is awarded Lenin's book on "Imperialism—Final Stage of Capitalism" as second prize for the story telling of huge police activities at the Youngstown Sheet and Metal Works.

Another New York correspondent is awarded third prize. He will receive a copy of Yaroslavsky's book, "Lenin, His Life and Work."

THE PRIZES FOR NEXT WEEK

Workers! We want more and more stories from workers on conditions in American industry as they exist, and as YOU know so well. Write down that story today—get the facts—and send them in.

Three more valuable prizes are offered for next week. Here they are:

FIRST—"Letters of Rosa Luxemburg."
SECOND—"The Awakening of China," by Dolsen.
THIRD—"Strika Strategy," by William Z. Foster.

Send in that story today, workers! We want it!

YOUNG WORKER TELLS OF HARDSHIPS MET IN LOOKING FOR EMPLOYMENT; IS VICTIM OF MANY TRICKS OF BOSSES

By JACK GLASS, Worker Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—It was very cold. Rain was falling and the ground was muddy. I was walking on 36th St., looking for work. I walked all over and could get none.

I lost my job two weeks ago and could find none as yet. While walking I recalled how I was layed off from the last job I had.

For about two weeks before the lay-off, the workers were waiting for "their slips." I was lucky and worked about two weeks mere then most of the 6,000 others who were producing radios at 30 to 50 cents an hour. When I was layed off only about 100 were left in the factory to finish up and count the sets produced.

Look for Ads.

The first day I got the New York World. I looked at the boys' column and found something like this:

"Boy, strong, work in paper factory; $14 to start. Apply before 8 a. m. at . . . ."

When anybody did go down there he would find at least 50 "boys," some of them 23 years old. A little further down was this ad:

"Boy wanted in printing shop; chance to learn trade; must know something about printing; salary $12. Apply at . . . ."

In a different column you could see ads like this:

"Young man wanted, married or single; $25 start; chance for advancement. Apply at . . . ."

New They Do It.

I wanted to learn a trade so I applied at a place which asked for a boy wanting to learn the plumbing trade. I was there at 7 o'clock a. m. and was the only one. I waited for an hour outside in the frosty weather with plenty of snow on the ground. When the place was opened I was told to wait until the boss comes. I was nearly frozen, so I went inside. About 9:15 another boy came in. About 9:40 the boss come in and asked whether we knew anything about plumbing. "Of course not," we answered. He told us "nothing doing." He wanted somebody who knows something about the trade. Can you beat that? He wanted an experienced man and advertises for a boy!

Gets Job Finally.

I got a job so Thursday, answering an ad for a boy wanting to learn the printing trade. I worked there 2½ days and wasn't in the shop more than half an hour. As soon as I came in from one delivery, another package (some of them weighing about 50 to 60 pounds) had to be delivered. Had I a chance to learn the trade? Never.

In one place a job was refused me on account of being poorly dressed. They told me only "gentlemen preferred."

TAILORS FACED WITH DECREASE AFTER 'VICTORY'

Workers Realize Betrayal of Officers

By a Worker Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. — A year ago the workers celebrated their victory over the International Tailoring Co. and were told that this settlement was the best which could ever be reached for the tailors. During the past year the workers have realized their betrayal in this settlement, while the International has been reducing their wages time and time again.

Shop Committee Complains.

A shop committee recently appeared before the local executive board, with a complaint against the demand for another reduction in wages based on a new scheme, that the firm is taking a cheap grade of work, and is therefore compelled to demand a twelve and a half per cent reduction on the garments. The committee stated that the cheap grade of work is only a scheme to exploit the workers, because under piece work there is not a question of cheap make, as the foreman who is in charge of the garments, does not accept any botch work, but demands the best quality of work of the tailors. The committee therefore demanded protection by the union against the new wage cut.

The executive board after a brief discussion, have decided for the "good and welfare" on the workers, and this matter was referred to the manager for his adjustment.

Some of the naive tailors really believe that Manager Beckerman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers will stop reductions, while he collaborates with the employers against the members of the union.

Los Angeles School Head Militaristic, Outburst Reveals

By L. P. RINDAL
(Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13. — In a letter to John D. Hoeme, commander of American Legion Interpost Council, Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, superintendent of Los Angeles school, disclaimed having any sympathy whatever with the anti-military speech made recently by Herbert Martin before local school teachers.

Mrs. Dorsey is hostile toward the Young Workers League, the Pioneers and the Junior Atheist League. She has stated, time and again, that these organizations must not be allowed to work among the school children. But youngsters, you know, are getting into the habit of doing things oewadays without a permit.

I. L. D. Affair Great Success in Steel Town

By a Worker Correspondent.

GARY, Ind., Jan. 13. — The entertainment and dance given by the Bulgarian branch of the I. L. D. in this steel trust stronhold was attended by over 500 people and was a great success.

Wm. F. Dunne, editor of The DAILY WORKER, was greeted with great applause. In a short speech he exposed the morderous deeds of the capitalists of all countries in persecuting the labor movement and explained the need of the L. L. D.—the shield of the working class.

M. Popoff, a music student in North Western University, sang two songs much to the pleasure of the audiance. Mr. Popoff, with a group of students of music, will appear again in Gary at a concert given by the Macedonian-Bulgarian Educational Society of Gary on January 23 in the Rumanian Hall, 2nd and Adams St.

DETROIT WOMEN'S FEDERATION DOES MUCH GOOD WORK

Working Class Women Are Active for Labor

By LENA ROSENBERG
(Worker Correspondent)

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 18.—The Federation of Working Class Women of Detroit held a special meeting where officers and committees were elected, and new delegates seated. Credentials from 12 women's organizations were hrot in representing about 500 members.

Federation Active.

The reports from officers and delegates have proven that their was not a field of important activity for the workers that the federation as a whole and the branches individually have not considered and participated in.

Events in which it participated included the bakery drivers' strike in Detroit where members of the federation picketed until they forced the bosses to terms; Passaic strike in which hondreds of dollars were collected and much clothing and food sent; International Labor Defense to which money is collected, prisoners adopted, and taken care of; every demonstration that has been arranged by the I. L. D. the women have participated in; cloak makers' strike, money was collected and propaganda for the strike carried on, financial support for various workers' papers such as the Ukrainian Daily News, Vilnis, Russian workers' papers, DAILY WORKER and many others.

Will Hold Bazaar.

At this meeting a committee was also elected to print tickets for the annual bazaar which the federation holds on March 6, Woman's Day.

This bazaar will take place at the New Workers' Home, 1343 E. Ferry Ave., Detroit, Mich. All friendly and sympathetic orgnoitations are asked not to hold any affairs that might interfere with this arrangement for it is woman's day all over the world and we should make this bazaar a reusing success that the woman's movement here may grow to even greater proportions.

Russian Council to Meet.

There will be a meeting of the Russian Council for the Protection of the Foreign Born on Sunday, the 16, at 1902 W. Division street.

All Russian organizations are urged to send delegates to this meeting and become acquainted with the work which it intends to do.

The Manager's Corner

The American Mind.

"An astonishing plasticity or adaptability, and an equal suggestibility are the two impressions of American mentality which a visitor receives."

I. A. Richards of Cambridge University makes this comment in the current issue of Harpers Magazine. Of course, this bourgeois intellectual treats "the American mind" as if it were something suspended in a vacuum, unaffected by and isolated from all surrounding influences. Unfortunately he fails to point out the underlying economic forces of American economic life which have been the chief factors in building up this state of mind. American capitalism, comparatively vigorous and youthful, has inculcated among the American workers the ability to accept startling changes in their environment with little or no comment or signs of astonishment. Methods of production are revolutionized almost overnight. Huge construction projects are born almost before the eyes. The American workers have learned to accept these transformations as a matter of course.

It is true that the American workers have not inherited that rich legacy of revolutionary theory and tradition, of which the European workers can boast. But this is no reason for discouragement or lack of faith in the vast possibilities for revolutionary activity in America. To make up for his lack of theory, the American worker has developed a lively imagination, a spirit getter spirit which enthusiastically, perhaps even rashly surmounts even the most formidable obstacles.

It is to this imaginative spirit which the Russian revolution has made a strong appeal. It is this suggestibility and mental daring, which The DAILY WORKER can arouse and more to tremendous achievements.

Job, Job, Who's Got a Job? Too Old, Too Heavy, Too Many Is Answer Seeker Gets

By OSCAR S. POMEROY
(Worker Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—"No, not quite as much unemployment as last year, but enough," said the Salvation Army relief officer, in response to the question if this winter was as hard as last.

No Work There.

To a request for work he said: "We have nothing just oow, but I can send you to one of our homes. The pay is only three dollars a week, with room and board. That is the best I can do for you today. However, the board is good and substantial. Later maybe you can find a better job."

Is Too Old.

This was not the first place he had visited. At a restaurant with a "Dishwasher Wanted" sign in the window. "Too old for the job," was the answer to his application for the place.

When he answered an "ad" for an elevator man, he was told, "You are too heavy."

At the wharves the answer was, "We're laying men off. Nothing Doing.

At a fashionable [illegible] white collared slave nearly had a fit because he came in the front door and asked to see the manager. The manager heard the request made to the flunkey and came to him. "I'm sorry, I can't give you something to do, as we are going to lay some help off." The look he gave the flunkey plagued the applicant.

Again he was too old for a janitor helper.

Six other places had just been filled. The applicant thought he was the worst "Jonahed" man in New York City, but he found hundreds of others who were willing to work, had to shared in Carl Conklin's prosperity and were glad to do anything to support themselves and keep them from panhandling and seeking charity.

Two Letters to Our "Daily"

THE wide appeal of The DAILY Worker among all sections of the working class is strikingly shown in the following two letters. One is from an "industrial onionist," not a Communist as he specifically says, yet one who is glad to help "The Daily" because "it is really fighting for the workers." What better tribute could a working class paper require?

The other letter is from a ten-year-old little working class girl. This little girl, to whom the class struggle is a comparatively new thing, also understands that The DAILY WORKER fights in the interests of her class, the working class. Her lone dollar bill is no less significant than the contribution of the "industrial onionist."

The letters follow:

Hopes for Big "Daily."

Dear Comrades—I received a letter from you about the Birthday of The DAILY WORKER. I am sorry that I cannot help so much because I am only ten years old and cannot make as much money. I am going to send at least one dollar for The DAILY WORKER Birthday. I hope The DAILY WORKER will be a large paper.—Mary Karpis, Shelton, Conn.

Doing Good Job.

Editor, The DAILY WORKER.—You will please find enclosed a one dollar bill for your Birthday. I am not a Communist but am an industrial unionist and am glad to help any organization that is really fighting for the workers, by exposing the A. F. of L., and you are doing a pretty good job of it.—O. L. Gerretson, South Dakota

How to Get Rich

If you are rich you have only yourself to blame! For confirmation of this gallant sentiment read the financial figures produced in the government suit against Senator James Couzens and other former stockholders of the Ford Motor Company, for collection of $34,000,000 in taxes.

Senator Couzens had only $900 when Henry Ford hit him up for a touch. Ford had pieces of engraved paper, called stock which he offered for cash. He sold the novelties at $100 a shot. Couzens wanted another hundred to make an even thousand so he borrowed a hundred from his sister. Couzens held nine shares of stock and his sister held one.

This was in 1903 and without any effort on Couzens' part his nine shares increased and multiplied to 2,180 shares in 1919 for which Couzens received $29,308,87.40. His sister's $100 has now brought forth fruit to the value of $1,000,000.

This is one of the ways money is made. Capitalist scribblers will hold out before the eyes of the American working class the prospect of getting rich quick, even tho for every individual who strikes it lucky thousands of disillusioned rainbow chasers go to an early grave, their hopes dashed against the rocks of reality.

What a picture to hold up before the eyes of the nation's youth? That nothing is worth while in life except the accumulation of wealth! Regardless of how it is amassed!

For every thousand that was added to the treasury of Senator Couzens thru the investment of that $900, thousands of wage slaves were thrown on the scrap heap, the marrow extracted from their bones and the blood thinned in their veins, in Ford's factory prisons.

For the great majority of the people the hunt for wealth is a futile chase. The foxy type of human will always gather shekels under capitalism while the producer is lucky if he receives enough to live and pass on another consignment of wage slaves for the next generation. Only when this robber system is abolished and a socialist society built on its ruins will the accumulation of riches be eliminated as a goal for the individual. Then a citizen of society will be esteemed for what he contributes to the social fund and not by what he takes out of it.

The Socialists and Their Allies

The Tammany governor of New York state, the Tammany mayor of New York City, the president of the New York chamber and the labor-hating chiefs of the clothing industry all joined in putting on a harmonious concert of denunciation of the left wing leaders of the needle trades unions in New York, and praise for the leader of the clothing bosses who, in an unholy alliance with the socialist right wing leaders, waged a bitter war against the striking members of the New York Joint Board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

Here is a united front from the boss down to the labor faker. In between, as servants of the boss, we have the capitalist officials of state and municipality.

We have continually stressed the existence of an alliance between the manufacturers and the reactionary labor leaders. The average well-informed worker is convinced of the truth of this charge, as far as the non-socialist labor fakers are concerned. But many of them are still under the spell of the title "socialist" which the right wing leaders of the needle trades unions carry on their lapels. But the socialist of today is part and parcel of the alliance between the employers, the labor officialdom and the government from the White House down to the smallest town in the United States. This alliance is directed against the interests of the masses and the fire of the allies is levelled against the left wing labor leaders who insist that the function of unionism is to fight against the bosses for better conditions for the workers and not merely furnish an excuse to the labor fakers for demanding a higher price from the employers for their treason to labor.

The yellow socialists are welcome to their allies. Daniel O'Connell, the famous Irish parliamentarian orator, once said that whenever the British government had a good word to say about him, he went home and examined his conscience. We should suggest a similar soul-searching to the socialist leaders of the needle trades unions, but you cannot operate on a vacuum.

U. S. Gifts for China

Manila, Jan. 12.—The United States destroyer Edsall will depart for Shanghai as soon as it loads 3,000 hand grenades brought here by the transport Meiga. It is understood here that several destroyers of the Asiatic fleet have been ordered to be prepared to leave for Shanghai on short notice.

The above dispatch shows plainly that the Coolidge administration is equally bent on protecting the loot of the American imperialists in China and in Nicaragua.

Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the Cantonese government charged the United States with being a party to the unequal treaties forced upon China by superior force with the aid of the traitorous military brigands that are now being gradually driven out of business by the victorious Cantonese.

It is never too late for Uncle Sam to give war gifts in the form of lethal weapons to protect the interests of Wall Street.

Borah, Wheeler, Reed and Huddleston have TALKED against the Coolidge-Kellogg policies in Nicaragua and Mexico. In the meantime marines are in Nicaragua and U. S. warships are ploughing the waters surrounding Mexico. Let's have a little ACTION, Messrs. Borah, Reed, Wheeler and Huddleston, unless you intend to prove that our suspicions of your sincerity are proven true

If Secretary of the Treasury Mellon continues to poison the potential cancer fodder with adulterated hooch he may have no customers for the product of his distilleries when the eighteenth amendment is either repealed or completely ignored. Perhaps he is training them so that they can get happy on poisoned gas, as usual.

"Stop Thief!" -:-

An Article from The Pravda, Official Organ of the Soviet Union Communist Party.

THANKS to the efforts of the German social-democratic lackeys of the entente, a fairy tale was printed in a great liberal organ in Great Britain some time ago. This fairy tale, after making the rounds of the various European editorial offices, finally retired to a place unknown and apparently gave up the ghost. The sensation did not last long, although it must be admitted that the wings of this fairy tale fluttered most beautifully as to give an illusion of truth.

According to an agreement between the military authorities of the Soviet Union and those of Germany, several German firms built three factories a few years ago within the territory of the Soviet Union for the purpose of manufacturing certain articles for war defense, so runs the story. Amongst these things were aeroplanes, poison gas, shells, etc.

If the beautiful fairy tale had only been supplied with these wings, then it would certainly never have been able to fly; its attempts would only have produced laughter. Its parents were also aware of this deficiency and they therefore added the following: The war material which was, or which will be produced in these factories, is only partly to be used for the defense of the Soviet Union, the greatest part of it to be sent to . . . Germany! A short while ago no less than six vessels landed with all these good things, arrived in Stettin from Leningrad. In other words, these factories are working for the German reichswehr and for the German black hundreds, thus driving a carnation and pale thru the Versailles treaty and assisting the cause of monarchism and nationalist reaction in Germany!

After giving it, readers shivers down the spine with this horrible nonsense reprinted from the English paper, (to which its friends had first of all dispatched the fairy tale) the Forward pathetically asked the Communist workers: "If you see now share the rifles and ammunition come from with which they shoot you down?" It turns out, "as we see, that not Noske, the "bloodhound," not the social-democracy, but the Soviet Union, the country of the victorious socialist revolution, is the ally of these reactionary forces which throttle the German working class movement.

We always suspected that the German social-democracy, and in particular, its central organ, was on more than speaking terms with those craftsmen who produce anti-Soviet forgeries. The Forward has now proved this. We do not know whether the Forward occupies itself directly with this noble calling or whether the pupils and imitators of Drushelovsky and his friends do the work for it, but there is no doubt that this whole fairy story which has gone thru various editorial offices, is based upon forgeries. Its aim is to do the entente a service which is looking for an excuse to abandon the responsibilities towards Germany which it accepted at Versailles and Locarno, and to create an atmosphere of hostility towards the United Soviet Union.

The disgusting attitude which the slanderers have taken towards their own dear fatherland, which they so zealously defended during the imperialist slaughter, does not interest us in the least in this connection. We are only interested in the accusation which is made against us. The accusation, that we are supporting German reaction and chauvinism; that we are assisting Germany to prepare for a war of revenge against the victors of yesterday, in other words, that we are the most dangerous enemies of democracy and of the peace of Europe. It is not pure coincidence, that these new "proofs" of our "red imperialism" are very much needed by the bourgeois governments at the moment, for all its neighbors of the Soviet Union are arming feverishly, and strenuous attempts are being made to isolate and weaken the Soviet Union.

A few days ago our press reported upon the arming of Rumania by Italy. Whole trains loaded with war material euphemistically labelled "italian fruit" are going over Austrian territory to the Dniester. We know from British newspapers that these "fruit" consist of 50,000 rifles, 12 million rounds of ammunition, 3,000 machine guns, and machine parts of those destroyers ordered by Rumania in Italy at a cost of 300 million lire; the credit granted to Rumania in return for the treaty of "friendship"; concluded with Italy, with a view to guaranteeing at the very least the neutrality of Rumania in case of war between Italy and Jugo-Slavia, the companion of Rumania in the Little Entente. We know also that in agreement with Jugo-Slavia, Greece has the right to transport war materials delivered to its harbors, over Jugo-Slavia territory, to Poland. Further, the neighbors of the Soviet Union, the Baltic countries and Poland, have been solemnly permitted by a decision of the International armament conference in 1925, to maintain secrecy concerning their armaments, in contradistinction to the other powers participating in conference. The aim of this was to prevent the Soviet Union from knowing the stage of their armaments and the names of those precious powers who supply them with their arms.

If we now add the proposal made by Great Britain to the conference of ambassadors—to prohibit Germany to export boilers for seagoing vessels and lathes capable of serving for the production of shells—we have a picture of definite technical preparation for war against the Soviet Union on the part of all the countries bordering upon the Soviet Union with the assistance of the "democratic" great powers with Great Britain at the head. We place Great Britain at the head of this combination, because even the treaty between Italy and Rumania giving the latter the possibility of arming itself, was made with the knowledge and approval of Great Britain, which sanctioned in Livorno the proclamation of an Italian protectorate over Albania and consequently also the possibility of war with Jugo-Slavia and its consequences including the military and political rapprochement between Italy and Rumania.

And now, as it is necessary to put up a smoke-screen to mask all this, the obliging Forward shouts "Stop thief!" In the usual mannar and nahren a series of forgeries into being to prove that the enemy of peace is the Soviet Union which is allegedly manufacturing war material with the assistance of German firms, which is cooperating secretly with the official and the black German reichswehr and which has practically concluded a military alliance with the German sovereign. The English newspaper of which we have already spoken, also declared that a secret military convention exists between the Soviet government and the German military authorities, and the Berliner Tageblatt which attempted to refuse all these inventions, could think of nothing better to say in defense of its government, than the lie that a few years ago the Soviet government proposed such a military alliance. Such a military alliance did not and does not exist, either as a proposal or as a fact, but it had to be invented in order to provide a further invention, i. e. that the military authorities in the Soviet Union and in Germany are cooperating with each other, with a more or less believable basis.

On the whole, we consider that the German social-democracy has well earned its keep from the entente. It has earned the right to receive the noble peace prize, at least next year for this year it has already been presented to equally worthy recipients.

Anti-Alien Bill Is Masked Attack Against Unionism

By EDITH RUDQUIST.

THE Aswell bill purports to be aimed only at the alien population of America, but upon closer analysis its provisions are found to be of vital concern to every worker, alien or native; especially every worker who is a trade unionist.

It was shortly after the "red scare" of 1920 that the first of the anti-alien bills was introduced in congress. It was then thot to be a rather easy thing to put across such legislation because the bulk of America's native population actually believed every word the capitalist press printed about the "vicious reds, bolsheviks and anarchists," and these laws seeking to fingerprint, register and photograph the aliens, were said to be "for the protection of the natives against the onslaught of this undesirable element." These earlier bills evidently didn't pass muster in the united house of Immigration and Naturalization where they were sent for further consideration.

The Aswell Bill Against the American Workers.

The Aswell bill however, stands a good show of being accepted verbatim. Its provisions outwardly appear legal enough, its language is clear but the purpose sought for is there, i. e., discrimination, not only against alien workers but against all workers, alien and native alike.

Its aims thus being properly veiled and containing sufficient technical legal phraseology to get the necessary loopholes, no doubt its constitutionality will be upheld and the committee will recommend its adoption to congress.

Smoke Screening.

The commissioner of immigration recently showed surprise that anyone should protest against the anti-alien bills, saying, "American citizens are frequently called upon to record themselves upon official registers. Any sound and responsible government would expect and require that resident aliens should similarly" indicate their willingness to become and remain a law abiding part of the population by properly submitting themselves to enrolment in official records." This is the sort of propaganda broadcast by the capitalist press to blind the natives as to the true issues involved. Every American worker every trade unionist must become fully aware of the fact that neither the Aswell bill, nor the other anti-alien bills are for the protection of the native, but are vicious schemes for blacklisting all workers so as to better be able to hinder, yes, even stop all trade union and other class conscious activity of the workers.

Attacking Trade Unionism.

Section 6 of the act requires among other things that "whenever any alien is temporarily absent from the district in which he is registered he shall report at such times and places and give such information in regard to his movements as may be required." What sort of information will be required? Political and trade union activity, most essentially. What effect would this have? Suppose a state federation of labor is to have a convention. Before an elected delegate (if an alien) can attend he must report his intention to the registering officer in his district and obtain his leave to go, giving "such information in regard to his movements as may be required." What an easy matter it would be with the able assistance of the A. F. of L. bureaucracy to prevent militant trade unionists from actively participating at important conventions and meetings; of keeping the choice of the rank and file away from such deliberations; to control thru questioning the aliens the work and activity of every labor organization, to spy upon and keep a close watch over every radical movement in this country. A clever and round-about way of preventing the constitutional guarantee of free speech and assembly. All speakers and organizers would become timid except those officially sanctioned by the bosses, i. e., the bosses' own lackeys and paid labor lieutenants.

The bill goes even further and would make practically impossible the attendance of trade unionists to their own meetings. Section 5 provides for the dividing of the U. S. into districts "each as far as practical containing a port of entry" and "each alien shall register in the district in which he resides," if, e. post office district. How many trade union members live in the same post office district that their union meets? Not many . . . and yet, if you want to go to a meeting, to be "temporarily absent" from your registered district, you must according to the Aswell bill—report before you go and answer questions as to where you are going and why.

$5,000 Fine—Two Years in Jail.

To go without the registering officer's permission would mean a $5,000 fine, imprisonment for not more than two years—or both! (See Section 20.)

To prevent the alien membership from actively participating in trade union work is a deadly blow to unionism, made with full knowledge of the fact that, up to the present, it is just this element that comprises by far the largest percent of the active fighting class conscious militants, the very element upon whom the American capitalists ejects their most bitter venom and hatred; the upholders of that class conscious spirit which the capitalist class must extinguish at any cost, regardless of its being American or "imported."

Prevents Naturalization of Militants.

To urge each alien unionist to become naturalized as soon as possible—the duty of every revolutionary worker—would not help matters much after the passing of the Aswell bill, because its provisions are a barrier to the naturalization of militant workers. Section 11 provides that the record of registrations shall contain "any information bearing upon the fitness of such alien for citizenship." This certificate shall be surrendered to the judge of the court of Naturalization (Section 9). With the information recorded on the certificate that he is a fighting militant; with record of his participating in strikes; of his activities picketing, etc., he is not likely to be "found qualified" (Section 8) for citizenship.

Thus by ostensibly legislating against the foreign born workers the house will be better able to force damnable conditions, open shop and a lower standard of living on all workers, native and foreign born. This similar scheme for disorganizing the labor movement, for preventing the organization of the unorganized, for making ineffectual blunt weapons of the trade unions would mean the disruption of every progressive labor movement, a severe blow to America's working class.

A United Front Against the Anti-Alien Bills.

Every trade unionist should take these matters up for serious debate in their respective unions; send vigorous protests, calling attention of these facts, to their press (trade union papers, weeklies, monthlies, etc.); broadcast the contents and consequences of the antialien bills thru every possible channel; urge the district and state organizations to send in protests and participate in the organization of a mass movement for protection of the foreign born, against the anti-alien bills. Only by intensive and systematic publicity can the organized labor movement be rallied preventing a unified front which will destroy this cleverly planned offensive of the bosses, and forcing them to retreat!

CLOAKMAKERS! Are we to let such worthies in to a workers' meeting?

Call Mass Meeting in Cleveland to Explain Industry in Russia

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 13. — A mass meeting of all workers in Cleveland has been called by the Russian Technical School for Sunday, Jan. 16, at Gaita's Hall, 4906 St. Clair avenue. The subject will be "How can you go to the U. S. S. R." H. Schmidt from Detroit will be the main speaker. He is a member of the Soviet American Tractor corporation.

The meeting is at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Admission is 10 cents.

Crew Is Rescued.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 13.—Trapped all night in a terrible blow aboard the stranded freighter Ponham, the crew of eighteen were rescued today by the coast guard crew of the Brenton's Reef station. The coast guardsmen, battling high seas and heavy winds, finally worked their one-hundred-foot boat, the Eagle, to the side of the vessel, which ran onto the reef off Rose Island, a mile from Newport, yesterday afternoon.

A NEW NOVEL by Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair.)

So then Vee went up into the air. This fellow had been becoming intimate secrets out of Bunny! And when Bunny stated firmly that he had never mentioned the matter to Dan or to any other of his radical friends, Vee cried, "Oh, my God! My God! You poor, naive, trusting soul!" She went on like that, it was proof positive of the cunning of these dangerous reds, that they should be able to keep him in ignorance while they used him for an ell well, and panged him dry! In Vee's view of the matter, it now became the utmost urgency that Annabelle and Verne should not find out that Bunny knew this rascal journalist and had actually helped to support him. If they found out, it would be all over with their friendship, they would be sure they had been hugely betrayed or at least that Bunny was such a scatter-brain that it was unsafe to have him about. Vee wanted to be loyal and romantic and melodramatic, just like one of her "continuities." And Bunny was bored, and told her that Dad had probably told Verne all about the matter at the time that he, Bunny, had told his father.

So the young oil prince did not ask the "natural born aristocrat" to marry him. No, he went off and was wretchedly unhappy, because he acted for Vee whenever he was away from her and yet they seemed to be always having violent emotional scenes and having to make it up with tears. There was no way for him to avoid trouble, except to give up the radical movement; and after a time that intellectually nothing else appealed to him. He wanted to see Paul, and argue with him and prevent a score of new objections to the Workers Party! He tagged along to Rachel to meet Paul and Ruth, and hear the arguments that would fly fast and furious, when Rachel set forth her opinion of Lenin—left wing insanity. He wanted to go to the meetings of the "Ypsels," the Young Peoples' Socialist League, of which Rachel had recently taken on the duties of secretary—here was real education, young folks who actually wanted to use their minds, and took ideas with the seriousness that other students reserved for football and fraternity politics.

V.

Of all the people Bunny knew, it appeared just now that only one was capable of surrender and completely happy, and that was Jim Watkins, prophet of the Third Revelation. For the Lord had carried out to the letter the promise revealed to the mediums of the Bible Marathon, a great banker had secretly provided the money for the great new tabernacle. Now the structure was completed, and it was opened amid such glory to the Lord as had never been witnessed in this part of the world.

Southern California is populated for the most part by farmers from the middle west, who have come out to die amid sunshine and flowers. Of course, they want to die happy, and with the assurance of sunshine and flowers beyond; so Angel City is the home of more wierd cults and doctrines—you couldn't form any conception of it till you came to investigate. To run your eye over the pages of performances advertised in the Sunday newspapers would cause you to burst into hysterical tears, according to your temperament. Wherever three or more were gathered together in the name of Jesus or Buddha or Zoroaster, of Truth or Light or Love, of New Thought or Spiritualism or Psychic Science—there was the beginning of a new revelation, with mystical, inner states of bliss and esoteric ways of salvation.

Ell had advantages over most of these spiritual founders. In the first place, he had been a real shepherd of flocks and herds, and there are age-old traditions attaching to this profession. Also it was symbolically useful; what Ell had done to the goats he was now doing to the human souls of Angel City, gathering them into the fold and guarding them from the cruel wolf, Satan. He had taken to carrying a shepherd's crook on the platform, and with his white robes and the star shining in his yellow hair, he would call the flocks, just as he had done upon the hills, and when he passed the collection plate, they would do the shearing off themselves.

Committee Approves Bill to Cut the Postal Rates on Newspapers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.— The McKellar proposal to restore second class mail rates to the 1920 basis was approved by the senate post office committee by a vote of 10 to 2.

The bill provides a $7,000,000 reduction in postal rates upon newspapers. The 1920 rates were 1½ cents for each two ounces. The present rate is 3 cents for each two ounces.

CHALLENGE TO IMPERIALISM GROWS

Sinister Tone of Capitalist Press Shows Need of Labor Aid for Mexico, Nicaragua

There is a sinister tone in the American capitalist press when it speaks of Mexico these days. Especially is it sinister for labor.

The same tone can be noted in the news and editorials dealing with China.

Off the coasts of both countries there are huge American war fleets. The general tenor of the press is the same as when America was intervening and favoring armed intervention by other powers in Russia. The burden of the tales dealing with Mexico and China is of disorder-uprisings and atrocities, a menace to foreign lives and property, and an obvious attempt to create the impression that civilization is in danger.

Such stories, generally the product of the crudest faking, invariably precede and follow organized attempts at conquest of weaker nations rich in raw materials and having a population which can be enslaved by the foreign investors and their governments.

The Chicago Tribune, one of the most vicious propagandist agencies against Mexico, heads its two column tale of uprisings and civil war in Mexico, in its issue for Jan. 14, with the following:

"Catholics Rise in 10 States to Oust Calles".—"Mexican Youth Rallies Army; Gets Cash in U. S.—Attack on American Consul Blocked.

Such sentences as these give an idea of the tone of The Tribune story:

"All over Mexico uprisings are spreading like a flame. By another month, it is forecast, Mexico will be in the throes of a general revolution—a religious war."

Capistran Garza is named as the leader of the American financed reactionary movement. His program, as given by The Tribune, entitles him to the support of Wall Street and its state and war department. There is little doubt that he is getting this support. His program could not be improved upon for Wall Street purposes if written in the offices of the house of Morgan. Dispatches state:

He will, if successful, WIPE OUT ARTICLE 27, the famous article of the 1917 constitution which is THE BASIS FOR THE PRESENT CRITICAL OIL AND LAND LAW CONTROVERSY . . .

HE WILL ALSO KILL THE LABOR LAWS, under which, he contends, A LABOR TYRANNY has been set up in Mexico. (Emphasis Ours.)

Make the Lenin Memorial Meetings Demonstrations Against Imperialism!

Statement of the Central Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party of America

THE mass meetings which have been arranged by our party to honor the memory of the great leader of the proletarian revolution, Lenin, will be held this year at a moment when the American capitalists and their government at Washington are giving the workers and farmers a concrete example of the dangers of new wars with all their consequent sacrifice and suffering for the workers, which are the logical developments of this epoch of capitalist imperialism.

The invasion of Nicaragua, the threats against Mexico, the mobilization of naval forces in Chinese waters all show clearly that the government of the United States is the tool of the financial oligarchy which rules the country from Wall Street, and which carries on its imperialist exploitation in all parts of the world.

It was one of the great services of Lenin to the proletarian revolutionary movement that he pointed out to the workers that the development of capitalism leads inevitably to the sacrifice of the lives of the workers and farmers in the shambles of imperialist wars, into which they are sent to fight for the super-profits which the capitalists win thru imperialist exploitation.

It was also one of Lenin's great contributions to the principles which must guide the workers and farmers in their struggle to free themselves from the oppression and exploitation of the capitalists, that the peoples of countries exploited by the imperialist capitalist countries are the natural allies of the workers and farmers in their fight against capitalist imperialism at home.

There is no better way of honoring the memory of Lenin on the third anniversary of his death, than thru the application of the principles of Leninism in the crisis which American imperialism has created thru its imperialist adventures in relation to Nicaragua, Mexico and China.

The Lenin Memorial meetings must be made great mass demonstrations against American imperialism.

Make the central slogan of these meetings the building of a united front of the workers and farmers of the United States to carry on the struggle against American imperialism. Bring to the workers and farmers the message of Leninism, that they must carry on the fight against American imperialism in alliance with the people of Nicaragua, Mexico and China.

Withdraw the American naval forces from Nicaragua!

No intervention in Mexico!

Defend the people's revolution in China from American imperialism!

A united front of all workers and farmers against the threatening imperialist war!

Central Committee,
Workers (Communist) Party,
C. E. Ruthenberg,
General Secretary.

Labor Rallies in Memory of Lenin; Fights Dollar Rule

While workers in the United States prepare to commemorate, on Jan. 23, the third anniversary of the death of Lenin, whose works embody the struggle against all capitalist-imperialism—the fight against the further expansion of colonial and semi-colonial exploitation becomes intense in Latin America, China and Indonesia.

The rape of Nicaragua by Wall Street bankers relying upon the armed forces of the United States to do the dirty work and the menace to the Mexican people involved in the threat of invasion to guarantee American investments, has caused to flare up thruout the whole of Latin America demonstrations of the sharpest resentment against American imperialist aggression.

The gathering of American, British, French and Japanese warships in Shanghai and the Yangtze Valley is the best possible indication of the rapidly growing strength of the Chinese nationalist movement which has for its object the expulsion of imposed foreign exploitation and the building of a centralized people's government in China which depends up on the abolition of unequal treaties and the extra-territorial privileges of foreign powers. While in Java and Sumatra, the workers and peasants are in open revolt against their Dutch rulers.

Expose Deception.

"It is essential to continually expose," said Lenin, "the deception fostered among the masses of the toilers in all and especially in the backward countries, in creating, under the mask of political independence, various governments and state institutions which are in reality completely dependent on them economically, financially and in a military sense."

What other explanation more clearly applies to the behavior of American imperialism in subduing such countries as HAITI, Panama, Santo Domingo, Porto Rico, Cuba, Nicaragua and the Philippines?

Support Oppressed.

"The victory over capitalism cannot be fully achieved and carried to its ultimate goal unless the proletariat and the toiling masses of all nations of the world, rally of their own accord in a concordant and close union"—this inspiring doctrine, written by Lenin, is the guiding principle of Communists and has been the basis of the active assistance rendered by the Workers (Communist) Party and The DAILY WORKER to the liberation movements of the oppressed peoples of China and Latin America who are the victims of imperialism.

PASSAIC VICTIM OF FRAME-UP IS GOING INSANE; NEED BAIL

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. — One of the 11 textile strikers held in New Jersey jails on allegedly "trumped-up" charges of bombing has gone temporarily insane, reports Hollace Ransdell, secretary of the defense committee formed by the American Civil Liberties Union and the International Labor Defense. The man is Paul Kovac, who had three ribs broken in police beatings, says Miss Ransdell, and is now in need of medical attention and good food. His life can be saved if $15,000 can be raised for his bail, she declares. Kovac has a wife and three small children. Miss Ransdell asks that Liberty Bonds be lent for bail, since the bonding company in these cases has refused ordinary notes. Return of bonds is guaranteed by the joint committee. Either bonds or funds should be sent to Hollace Ransdell, joint defense committee, 743 Main Avenue, Passaic, N. J.

PAN-AMERICAN FEDERATION TO MEET IN JULY

Call Makes No Mention of Present Crisis

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. — Placing the date of meeting safely in the future and sliding over any reference to the present Nicaraguan and Mexican situations, a call has been issued for the fifth Pan-American Labor Congress to meet in Washington next July 18.

The signers are: William Green, president; Luis N. Morones, of Mexico, vice-president; Mathew Woll, treasurer; Santiago Iglesias, of Porto Rico, Spanish language secretary, and Chester Wright, English language secretary, officers of the Pan-American Federation of Labor.

Innocuous Gestures.

While the call makes much of needed unity of the organized workers of the western hemisphere called for by the unity among commercial, industrial and financial interests, the complete failure to make the slightest direct reference to the crisis present to the Pan-American labor movement by the invasion of Nicaragua and the threat of war with Mexico presages a congress that promises nothing but

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

JUST as we forcast a few days ago the most loud-mouthed of the senatorial bleaters against the Coolidge policy in Nicaragua have either shrugged their shoulders and declared that "now the thing is done we must make the best of it" or have threatened to delivar a speech on the subject and then let matters take their course. Senator Johnson, one of the men responsible for Tom Mooney's imprisonment, thundered against the government policy in Nicaragua, but now declarias that American interests must be protected and since "we" are involved in a mess an American senator must be an American first. That was Johnson's stock-in-trade when seeking popular favor by attacking the league of nations.

SENATOR WILLIAM E. BORAH is the administration's decoy duck. Somebody said he is the administration's "adviser." His true role is that of safety valve which enables the administration to go ahead and accomplish Wall Street's business while "Bill" is growling and threatening to raise the roof off the senate chambers. Something always happens to draw "Bill's" fangs. No, "Bill" Borah is not the administration's "adviser." He, like the rest of them takes his instructions.

WHAT a false alarm this man Borah is! What a political prostitute? On the question of Nicaragua and Mexico he is still convinced that the Coolidge policy is wrong but he will confine his opposition to a speech in the senate for the consumption of his Idaho constituents who have nothing to gain but something to lose by a war against Mexico and intervention in Nicaragua. As far as Borah is concerned the Idahoans are useful in providing him with the votes he needs to get into the senate but when in the senate his ear is to the east rather than to the west. His words are for Idaho, but his deeds are for Wall Street.

ANOTHER false alarm is Senator James Reed of Missouri. This man is obviously honest. It shines from his rosy countenance. He breathes it with the fumes from his cigar. He also thunders against the Coolidge policy for the benefit of the democratic party, but while the circulus is bordering on hostilities he de-

ORGANIZE COAL FIELDS, BROPHY URGES MINERS

Asks for Progressive Delegates on Jan. 25

CLEARFIELD, Jan. 14.—(FP)—Organize the non-union miners; work for nationalization of the mining industry; build a labor party. These are three parts of the program that every delegate to the Jan. 25 Indianapolis convention of the United Mine Workers of America should be, instructed to support, says John Brophy in a public statement. Brophy, the president of the central Pennsylvania miners, was the opposition candidate for union president against John L. Lewis in the December elections.

Brophy warns of the peril to the union when the bituminous wage agreement expires next April. With 65 per cent of the tonnage coming from non-union territory, he says that the success of any strike will depend on the union's pulling out and organizing the fields now outside of the fold.

Temporary employment in the union fields should not delude the members of the U. M. W. of A., says the Pennsylvania leader. These temporary jobs sprang from the export demand caused by the British strike and the added flush of operations resulting from the stocking up of coal for the strike crisis.

Brophy's statement indicates that the fight for a more aggressive union program that he led during the campaign of last fall will be fought again, in a second round, at the coming Indianapolis convention. No official figures of the election have yet been given out from Indianapolis, tho the administration forces claim re-election by a large majority. This is disputed by the opposition, which is calling for a tabulated local-by-local report.

U. S. POPULATION IN 1930 WILL BE 123,288,000, IS CENSUS BUREAU ESTIMATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. — The United States will have a population of 123,288,000 in 1930, director of the census Stewart estimated to congress. The 1920 census showed 105,710,620.

Stewart estimated the population of Illinois in 1930 would be 7,589,000.

Railroad Official Praises Soviet Rule Before St. Paul Club

ST. PAUL, Jan. 14. — Speaking before the Transportation Club here, B. O. Johnson, assistant to the vice-president of the Northern Pacific railroad, declared that the government of Russia has "economic ideas which have proved effective and is destined to rise to greatness." He praised the order that he found in Russia while serving five years there and in Siberia as an army engineer.

The inherent courage of the people make Russia destined for greatness," he said.

McNary-Haugen Bill Approved by House Farming Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The McNary-Haugen farm relief-bill has been reported favorably by the house committee on agriculture by a vote of 13 to 8. The committee's action came after a bitter fight on the equalization provision contained in the bill, which resulted in victory for the sponsors after three days of debate.

Mexico Can Handle Catholic Disrupters

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 14.—The Calles government insists today that the rebellion in North and Central Mexico presents no great difficulty and announced its firm intention of using drastic measures to put down the insurrectionary movement fomented by the Catholic church.

'COLOSSUS OF NORTH,' OBJECT OF BIG PROTEST

Mexicans Demonstrate Against U. S. Threats

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 14.—The imperialist pronouncements of Latin-American relations has caused a wave of protest thruout Mexico. Mexico City newspapers are charging that Coolidge is dominated by the "exploiters who have money invested in Mexico" and who are advocating invasion of the country; the national students' conference, meeting in Oaxaca City declared that the whole of Latin America is confronted by "the use of brute force and piracy directed by the plutocratic and imperialistic United States government"; and the workers of Guadalajara staged a protest demonstration before the United States consulate in that city against the "Colossus of the north."

People Behind Calles.

These are some of the indications of the popular resentment of the people of Mexico against the threatening tone of the United States with regard to the oil laws and Mexico's connection with the Nicaraguan liberals. There is no doubt but that the vast majority of the populace is solidly behind the Calles government. The catholic inspired revolts occurring in various places are, according to the government, of very small proportions and can easily be handled by state forces.

As proof of the fact that no revolutionary movement of any danger exists, government officials state that not a single officer in the army has endorsed the movement. In Mexico,

The court denied his petition for a writ of review.

ITALIAN FRONTIER AGAIN CENTER OF WAR ACTIVITY; FRANCE GROOMING TROOPS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NICE, France, Jan. 14.—France's best troops and much new equipment are being sent into this district, on the Italian-French frontier, as hostility between the two countries is continuing unabated.

French officials, reluctantly commenting on the movement of troops, have indicated that the preparations are merely to prevent "unofficial" raids on French territory by Italian fascists. They express fear that Italy is planning to make of Nice another Fiume, which was seized by Gabriel D'Annunzio.

Italian hatred for France is growing and many evidences of this are found on the borderland.

JOHN L. LEWIS BACKS MELLON GANG'S CHOICE

Supports Cyrus Woods for I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. — (FP) — Confirmation of Cyrus Woods of Pennsylvania, millionaire paymaster of the millions spent by the Mellon machine in the Pepper senatorial primary last spring, to be a member of the interstate commerce commission, is backed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

The disclosure was made before the senate committee on interstate commerce, Jan. 11., when Sen. Dan Steck, democrat, and Senator-elect Brookhart, progressive republican, of Iowa, faced each other on the issue of Steck's charge that Brookhart was a "paid lobbyist" for Woods' confirmation. Steck had not made the direct charge; he made public a statement that it was "rumored that" Brookhart was so engaged. For a senator-elect to take money for any such action would subject him to expulsion, and Steck was summoned to make good his attack. He withdrew it, after some evasive answers to questions.

Lewis Supported.

Then a press dispatch and two telegrams from Iowa were read, showing that John L. Lewis of the U. M. W. of A. had urged Iowa labor men and their friends to endorse Woods. J. C. Lewis, president of the State Federation of Labor and a close friend of Brookhart, had taken action accordingly. He asserted that this was done without consulting Brookhart. The latter told the committee he had not endorsed Woods and had not been paid to work for any action of any kind in Washington.

Sen. Goff of West Virginia declared that "Some of the most prominent coal operators of my state, in whose interest and behalf I have taken the stand I have in this matter, asked me to trace the source of these telegrams" which the Iowa labor leaders sent in support of Woods.

Lewis Backs Mellon.

John L. Lewis action is explained by the fact that Woods is a Mellon man, fighting the freight rate advantages, given thus far to the West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia coal fields, which happen to be non-union. Coal from western Pennsylvania is mined, to a large extent, under union conditions. Lewis seeks to maintain the jobs of union coal diggers in Pennsylvania by helping Mellon to reduce the freight rate handicap of Pennsylvania as against West Virginia.

Sen. Wheeler of Montana, pro-labor democrat, is fighting Woods because he represents the Mellon crowd's attempt to increase the value of their properties—coal and railroads—thru manipulation of the freight rates on the interstate commerce commission.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 — Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, told President Coolidge that he "had the votes" to insure the confirmation of Cyrus E. Woods as interstate commerce commissioner.

"I have the votes on the floor," said Reed, "despite the adverse vote in committee."

Lenin Points Out Basic Meaning of Imperialism, Exploitation, War and Relations to Workers

The following extracts culled from the works of Lenin illuminate with the clarity that Lenin alone commands the basic questions of the meaning of imperialism, the relation of imperialism to colonial exploitation and oppression, to war, and to the working class and its movement. American workers faced with the task of fighting American imperialism, the most powerful in the world, should ponder well what Lenin says and should pass from these questions to a further study of Lenin's teachings—the only reliable guide for the workers struggling to overcome imperialism and capitalism.

What Is Imperialism?

Imperialism is monopolist capitalism.

Imperialism is the rule of finance capital, the rule of the financial oligarchy.

Imperialism is a special stage in the development of capitalism. It has three peculiarities: Imperialism is (1) monopolist capitalism, (2) parasitic or stagnatic capitalism, and (3) dying capitalism.

*

Imperialism is capitalism in the phase of its development in which the domination of monopolies and finance capital has established itself; in which the export of capital has acquired very great importance; in which the division of the world among the great international trusts has begun; in which the partition of all the territories of the earth amongst the great capitalist powers has been completed.

Imperialism and Colonial Exploitation.

What do we have? A few of the richest and most privileged nations living like parasites off the rest of humanity, living like lords thru the exploitation of the Negro, the Hindu, etc., and holding these masses in subjection thru modern militarism.

The interests of finance capital (thru the export of capital) press on to the conquest of colonies, to the driving away of competitors, to strengthening of the necessary "connections," etc.

*

Spheres of investment for capital interest finance capitel. Sources of raw material interest finance capitel. But finance capital is also interested in new possible sources of raw materiel.

*

A handful of rich countries have developed colonial axploitation to gigantic dimensions. They receive millions and billions of super-profits, oppress millions and hundreds of millions of people in the colonial and "backward" countries, and struggle among themselves for a division and re-division of the rich spoils.

Imperialism demands the continuel division and re-division of the "backward" countries among the big imperialist, powers.

Imperialism and War.

War is no accident. It is no result of "sin" as tha preachers and tha liberals make out. It is an unavoidable stage in the development of capitalist militarism.

Tha development of capitalism, when it reaches tha staga of imperialism, gives rise to imparialist wars.

*

War is no more than the continuation of the regular policy of imperialism thru special means.

Under imperialism there is no way of finally settling controversies over markets, investments, etc., except war.

Imperialism and the Working Class.

Imperialism has a tendency to create privileged sections among the workers and to detach them from the main proletarian masses.

Tha bourgeoisia of a capitalist power is able to win economically tha upper sections of "its" working class thru scattering among them a few millions of the billions of super-profits it gets out of its imperialist axploitation.

The receipt of high monopoly profits by tha capitalists (thru industry at home, thru axploitation of colonies, etc.) gives them the economic possibility of corrupting certain individuel sections of the working class and especially its "leaders" and attracting them on the side of the capitalists and against the rest of the workers.

But for the masses of tha workers—something alse. The trusts, tha financial oligarchy, the increase of prices, the intensification of exploitation, etc.—all of which makes possible the corruption of the upper layers of the workers—this means the aver greater oppression, torture, and the misery of the masses of the proletariat and the semi-proletariat.

CURRENT EVENTS

By T. J. O'Flaherty.

lvara a long speech against poisoned ooch and amuses himself and his udiences—he is a witty man—by poking fun at the mythical gentleman known as the "president's spokesman." It should not be forgotten by those hopeful people who aspect bour chois senators and congressman to make a fight against the threatened war on Mexico, that Senator Reed also opposed a war with Germany, but voted for it when Wilson decided the time was ripe to step in in behalf of J. P. Morgan's loans.

a a a

THERE is not a peep out of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor on the question of intervention in Nicaragua and the danger of war with Mexico. As we have often stated the members of the executive council of the A. F. of L. and indeed the whole A. F. of L. bureaucracy are part of the capitalist organism. They draw their sustenance from it. There is no more working class feeling in their systems than there is in the belly of a polecat. Their professed loyalty to trade unionism is a sham which anables them to fool the organized workers. They stand ready tomorrow to cut the throats of their Mexican fellow trades unionists if Wall Street gives the signal.

a a a

LAST week we expressed the opinion that there was a secret deal between England and the United States, the former agreeing to look benevolently on American intervention in Nicaragua in return for United States assistance in China. The rush of American warships to China, confirms this suspicion and Heber Blankenhorn in a London cable to "Labor" declares that the newspaper organs of the Tory government are congratulating Coolidge on his course in Nicaragua and expressing the hope that American marines will soon be fighting beside Britain's armed forces in China." Which may account for Cilliam Randolph Hearst's sudden love for the British Empire.

* * *

IN view of the speed with which the capitalist powers are preparing for the next war we cannot think of a better way to waste money than to give it to any organization that hopes to preserve peace by tickling the souls of the imperialists with pacifist feathers. An imperialist is no more bloodthirsty in private life than a professional gunman on a holiday. But it is bad to slaughter 100,000 workers or natives of a subject country in order to protect his profit-making machinery he will do so without the slightest compunction, in the meantime using the pacifists' soft words with all his heart for world peace but is convinced that the best guarantee of peace is to be prepared for war.

BUT there is always a hopeful cuss hanging around who has more money than common sense. Such a person is William Floyd who sold a portion of his property that was in his possession since the days of King James II and turned the proceeds over to the cause of "compulsory arbitration in case of war." The leaders of nations has been in existence for several years. Its maintainance has cost a lot of money, but so far it has not prevented any power intent on war from firing a shot. And note how Coolidge turned a deaf ear to Calles' suggestion that the matters in dispute between Mexico and the United States be referred to arbitration.

* * *

THE treaty recently negotiated between the United States and Panama, whereby the latter is forced to join the United States in case of war is subjected to severe criticism in Panama. The Panaman government, creature of Washington has prohibited mass meetings in criticism of the treaty. Thus the blessings of American imperialism march southwards.

a a a

THE diplomatic nerves of the European governments are on edge. England is suffering from a bad attack of spy fever. Agents of the homo office scrutinise every person landing at the channel ports. The movements of every foreigner in Great Britain are reported hourly to Scotland Yard. During the general strika hotel managers were put on the auxiliary list by Scotland Yard and they were asked to report on any "suspicious" characters registered at their hotels. Italy is also jumpy. While a train was crossing the border into France recently, a passenger stood on the carriage steps. A fascist guard who suspected he was taking a too close look at the landscape, pulled the trigger of his rifle and sent a bullet crashing thru the train windows. Oh, yes, the ite world ended war alright!

U. S. Airmen Bring the Threat of the Dollar to Latin American People

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

THE news dispatches from San Salvador, Republic of Salvador, state that the so-called United States "good-will" Pan-American flyers this morning (Jan. 13) hopped off for Amapala, Honduras, on the next leg of their 20,000-mile flight.

They come just 16 years after the armed forces of the United States government (in 1911), with the plunder of Santo Domingo as a precedent, first hoisted the stars and stripes of Wall Street over this Central American republic "on behalf of a banking syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co."

The quotation is from "Dollar Diplomacy" by Scott Nearing, while additional information on this subject can be secured by scanning Stuart, "Latin-America and the U. S.," p. 278 and U. S. "Foreign Relations," 1911, p. 572 ff.

The "good will" mask worn by the American flyers hides the grinning skull of death to such liberties as still remain to the peoples of Latin-America.

Senator Borah, in his speech to the United States senate on Thursday, telling of American efforts to saddle the people of Nicaragua with a loan, stated:

"The American minister (this was in 1909) represented that the loan negotiations were in danger because the people opposed the plan. THE MINISTER ASKED FOR A WARSHIP."

* * *

Right now, when discontent rages thru Latin-America, as a result of the vicious aggressions against Nicaragua and Mexico, the United States sends a fleet of airplanes thru Mexico, Central and South America, not as a message of good will, but as a threat of the power of the Washington government that rules at the will of Wall Street.

Senator Borah states further, in regard to the pillaging of Nicaragua against the will of her people, that:

"We made the loan treaty, and we made the canal treaty WITH OURSELVES. We encamped upon the White House grounds of Nicaragua for 14 years. We will camp there for a hundred years unless we go back and secure the judgment of the Nicaraguan people.

"After the canal treaty was ratified, Costa Rica and Honduras, claiming that the treaty was in violation of a treaty which they had with Nicaragua, took the matter before the Central American court. The Central American court had been set up under the auspices of this government, AND THAT COURT, 4 TO 1, DECIDED AGAINST THE VALIDITY OF THE TREATY. WE (THE UNITED STATES) IGNORED THE DECISION."

It is to be hoped that there is some spirit in Honduras today courageous enough to flaunt in the faces of Wall Street's airmen the fraudulent "good will" offering they claim to bring, and to tell them to go back to their masters in Washington and ask about the treaty that was torn to shreds like a "scrap of paper" and the court decision that was kicked out the window because it did not satisfy the desires and ambitions of American imperialism.

Honduras lies next to Nicaragua on the north. Amapala is on its western coast, looking out on the Pacific Ocean.

It was at the time of the invasion of Honduras by the Morgan banking syndicate that Secretary of State Knox, the Kellogg of that day, who had developed "dollar diplomacy" in China and Latin-America, summed up the assistance given by the Washington government to American investors as follows:

"During the course of a year it is many times necessary for the U. S. to send forces to the ports of some of the Central American republics in order to afford protection to foreign life and property. This is done at an enormous expense, as informal estimate from some of the naval officers showing that the annuel cost to this government amounts to over $1,000,000."

But that cost is not borne by the international bankers, not at all. It is shouldered by American producers, the workers and farmers, who who must pay the bills incurred by the "big navy," the "big army" and now the "big air fleet."

The cost is also borne by the peoples of Honduras, in common with all other subjects within the borders of the Morgan empire.

In 1920 the American investment in Honduras was estimated by Ingalls in his "Wealth and Income" p 56, at $18,000,000. This was a gain of $5,000,000 since 1916, fruitful war years in the fruit business. The major investments are the United Fruit Co. and the New York and Honduras Rosario Mining Co. The arrival of the American airships this week might be made the occasion of the celebration of a total investment of at least $40,000,000 at the present time, since the plantations and equipment alone of the United Fruit Co., in 1923, were valued at $24,232,275.

* * *

Business developed under the guns of American warships has been good in Honduras. That of the United Fruit Co., according to its own annual report, has grown as follows:

|---|---|
| 1900 | $ 45,628 |
| 1916 | 7,614,535 |
| 1919 | 9,983,288 |
| 1920 | 13,118,067 |
| 1921 | 16,323,299 |
| 1922 | 19,077,752 |
| 1923 | 24,232,275 |

There is something for Morgan's airmen, with the dollar sign emblazoned on the wings of their machines, to use in taunting the peoples of Honduras. In 1910 the sweated toil of Honduras was compelled to bleed for only 45,000 American dollars invested in their midst. Now they must bend under the task of producing profits on upwards of 25,000,000 dollars invested. When they complain the answer is—MORE WARSHIPS! MORE MARINES!

* * *

That is the way of imperialism that rouses all peoples against it and thus achieves its own doom.

The American airmen, encircling South America, are not heralds of good will, instead, to all oppressed peoples south of the Rio Grande, they bring the threat of the growing imperialist dangor against which all should unite and struggle.

FORD TAX TRIAL BARES TALE OF HUGE PROFITS

Trial Linked with Ford-Newberry Contest

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 14.— Every $100 invested in the Ford company in 1903 "became" over $52,000 by 1913. This piece of startling "money magic" came out today in the proceedings of the "country's greatest tax suit" in which the federal government is attempting to collect some more taxes from some former stockholders in the Ford Motor company because of alleged irregular valuations.

"Money Magic."

Ford workers who worry over what happens to all they produce over and above their meager wages can find out by examining the information as to the financial history of the Ford company as brought out in this trial.

In the same "magic decade"—1903-1913—the Ford company paid out $23,000,000 in dividends and amassed $22,000,000 in property. Onward from 1913 the company "earned" 136 per cent on every dollar invested.

The case of Mrs. Hauss, the sister of Senator Couzens, illustrates very well how big fortunes are built up thru hard work and saving. In 1903 Mrs. Hauss lent $100 to her brother to invest in Ford's. In the ten years that followed Mrs. Hauss received $47,000 in dividends, rather below the average. When the Ford Motor company was recapitalized in 1915 she received $56,000 in stock. She saw her $50,000 stock grow to $260,000 four years later and in the meantime her dividends reached $160,000. Thus the $100 "grew" to nearly a million.

"Irregular" Valuations.

All this information, which should provoke somo thot in the Ford workers and in all other workers, was brought to light in a general statement on the history of the Ford concern read today by Joseph E. Davies, senior counsel of the five stockholders. It appears that round about 1919 Henry Ford decided to get rid of the minority stockholders who held about 41 per cent of the stock outstanding because they disagreed with his policy as to the disposition of the earnings of the company. Ford's threat to start a new company lead to negotiations for the sale of the minority stock. The minority stockholders represented themselves willing to sell out if they were definitely assured of their income tax liability, in order to obtain this valuation, A. G. Seymour, the general counsel of the treasury department, says Henry Ford made a special trip to Washington and saw Commissioner Roper who fixed the valuation at $8,000 a share by secretarial action which Mr. Gregg asserts were "irregular." The treasury department subsequently "discovered" the incorrectness and the irregularity of Commissioner Roper's valuation and is now claiming $31,000,000 more in addition to the $20,000,000 already paid by the minority stockholders on the basis of the Roper valuation.

Political Implications.

Gossip as to the political implications of the trial is bustling around in Detroit and Washington. Much of it has to do with a "memorandum" sent by an unlisclosed outside party to the internal revenue bureau in 1922 relating to the sale of the Ford stock in 1919. It suggested the line of action the treasury department has taken. This "memorandum" dates back to the Ford-Newberry contest for the senatorship of Michigan in 1922. It was during this struggle or immediately after that the mysterious memorandum appeared in the treasury department. The question now arises, as Senator Couzens asked on the floor of the senate some time ago why this memorandum was held up between 1922 and 1925 when the treasury department suddenly discovered the old "irregularity."

This trial has many lessons for the watchful worker who can dig out its economic and political implications.

BERLIN, Jan. 14 — Hundreds of workers gathered before the Lithuanian legation this evening to demonstrate against the action of the fascist government of Lithuania in putting four Communists to death.

In order to avoid the police the workers approached the building on all sides in small groups. The police were soon called and a clash followed.

Pan-American Federation Will Meet in July

the same innocuous gestures regarding Wall Street's imparialist invasion of the south that marked previous meetings.

Nicaraguan Demand at Last Session.

However, the most active section of the Pan-American Federation is the Mexican Regional Confederacion of Labor headed by Morones, also a member of the Calles cabinet, while the Nicaraguan labor movement, behind the Sacasa liberals in rebellion against American interests is the second most active participant. At the last session of the federation, the Nicaraguan delegation demanded that the congress go on record against U. S. interference in Nicaragua.

"The problams of the working people of one country," says the call, "are identical with those of all countries with which their country has intercourse. Every problem of international relations thus has its human phase . . . The safety of liberties and democracy of the working people of every country of Pan-America depends upon the existance of an industrial organization among the workers and close relationships between those organizations. Slowly such relationships are being established between the P. A. F. of L. and the hona fide organized Pan-American workers thruout the continent.

Teach a Lesson.

"The higher representatives of big business of all Latin countries united with those of the United States are teaching a great lesson to the workers of the two Americas; they are showing how to develop a common policy of defense and international union in their industrial organizations, and taking constructive forethought in order to shape future events.

"The working people of the Pan-American countries would welcome such an opportunity to dispel the unjust judgments created in the minds of fallow-workers all over the nations. Such a thought based upon bedrock economic and social human power would place the workers of the western hemisphere in a position to advance to the P. A. F. of L. in maintaining peace and to demand and enforce the good will and their rights in matters affecting the welfare and progress of their own peoples and nations, from within and without."

After reciting the principles of mutual help upon which the federation was established, the call declares:

"Until a short time ago there had been no means of communication between the masses of the people of the American countries. The only relations existing were those established by the financial, commercial and industrial interests, and, as everyone knows, these interests are not always actuated by a desire to promote the welfare of the people. Those interests are actuated by three motives—profits, profits and more profits, in their mad rush for material aggrandizement they completely lose sight of the rights and interests of humanity.

"Since the financial, commercial and industrial interests of Pan-America so closely allied and are every day extending their activities over a wider field opened up by the conditions created by the late war, it is all the more evident that the wage earners of Pan-America must unite for their own protection. In our present day the organization of wage earners on a purely national scale will not be adequate for the protection and promotion of their interests and for the attainment and realization of their hopes and aspirations."

BRITAIN MOVES TOWARD WAR ON THE KUOMINTANG

May Use Navy to Get Back Concessions

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 14.—Great Britain is messing an imposing naval force in Chinese waters and it is felt here that London has decided to resort to force to regain possession of the British concessions in Hankow and Kiukiang that were taken over by the nationalists following the shooting of Chinese by British troops.

Charge d'affairs O'Malley, of the British legation, is now in Hankow conferring with Eugene Chen, Kuomintang foreign minister. It is understood he will demand the return of the concession. Feeling this, it is the belief here that British warships will sail up the Yangtze to enforce the British demand.

Foreigners Arm.

The international council here that governs the affairs of the various foreign concessions is continuing to arm in large force in preparation for the occupation of Shanghai by the nationalist armies. They rely upon the foreign warships in the harbor that have been rushed here by the United States, Britain and Japan.

Resent U. S. Moves.

A statement issued by the nationalists at Hankow declares that the Kuomintang will give entire protection to all foreigners in cities under their control. Eugene Chen is understood to have stated that the nationalists take unkindly to the ravaraal of the American attitude, referring to the sending of a big naval force under Admiral Williams which just arrived in Shanghai to co-operate with Great Britain.

Nationalists Advance.

The nationalist armies under eGn. Chang Kai Shek continue their steady advance into the Yangtze delta. Supporters of the Kuomintang in Shanghai say that the presence of foreign warships in the Yangtze in large force is giving comfort to the northerners under Sun Chuang Fang and that Great Britain will do everything possible to prevent the nationalists from occupying Shanghai.

Correspondent Views Glittering Trinkets of Czardom and Nails Fake Report of Big U. S. Purchase

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

MOSCOW, Jan. 14.—Soviet Russia boasts today that it is still the owner of the greatest collection of gems in the world, but it wishes that reports published in the United States that Americans had bought $610,000,000 worth of the Romanoff crown jewels were true.

"You see—we still have some left," said the Soviet custodian of the treasure as he laid the jewels—pounds of diamonds, rubies, pearls, emeralds and sapphires—before the International News Service correspondent, the sun blasting thru the window, seemingly setting ablaze each one of the 5,000 diamonds in the crown of Catherine the Great.

5,000 Carat Crown.

"This crown," commented the custodian in a professional manner, "weighs four pounds. There are 3,000 carats weight of diamonds in it alone, and the ruby there, about the size of a hen's egg, weighs a quarter of a pound. The crown is valued at $52,000,000."

One of six husky guards, who bros the treasure from the basement of the treasure house, shtted a window shade and another beam of sunlight shot across the table, struck the 300-carat sapphire atop the "globe of the realm" and split it into a thousand rays of intense blue light.

$24,000,000 Globe.

"You think that sapphire is pretty good?" inquired the custodian. "Well it is, and that circlet of diamonds helps make the value of the 'globe of the realm' about $24,000,000. Some American papers reported it on its way to America. Not yet. But just look at this." He picked up an immense uncut sapphire and twirled it in the sunlight. It scattered blue flame.

"This is the largest sapphire in the world, and its quality is unrivalled," the custodian remarked. "Weighs 353 carats, worth about $11,000,000. Nicholas used to love to toss it in a sunbeam." He tossed it himself, just a trifle, and with his other hand picked up a cubical, clear stone, looking in the shadow a bit like quartz.

Shah Diamond.

"The shah diamond," he announced. "It weighs 86 carats and is worth about $15,000,000. It used to lame by a string on the peacock throne of the Persian shah, and tradition had it that the man who dared to cut the string would die on the spot. But in 1829 when a Russian ambassador was killed in Persia, the shah heard that the Russian throne were vacillating. He cut the string that held the diamond, wrapped it in a silk handkerchief and sent it top czar to the czar. Yes, the czar called of his army.

"Speaking of trinkets. This was the prize present of history." He grasped the hands of a scepter, and, swinging it into the sunlight, let the light refract on the depths and surfaces of the Orlov diamond, embedded in its head.

No Sale Yet.

"They also said we had sold this to America. Not yet. But you can have it for $18,000,000. Prince Orlov fell out of favor with Catherine the Great about 150 years ago. She gave a birthday party and everybody gave her magnificent gifts. Prince Orlov came last and handed her a little package. She was angry when she saw its size, but changed her mind when she opened it. This diamond weighs 194 carats, one of the finest in the world. What? Certainly Prince Orlov was restored to favor with Catherine the Great. Now if you would win the favor of a lady, here is a 2 Vesavius bracelet. See this flat diamond with a polished surface of seven and one half square centimetres? A perfect mirror! It's yours for only $750,000."

Nicky's Toys.

The correspondent glanced down the long table. "Toys," said the custodian, "Toys of the czars. A golden model of a trans-Siberian express train, with a platinum engine—twenty diamond Easter eggs—a tiny golden carriage with a 30 carat diamond swinging from the roof.

"This was Nicholas' toy when he was a kid—a golden rattle set with diamonds. See this whistle in ivory blows.

"Look at this," he touched a green gold Easter egg. Its top flew open and out popped a little bird about the size of a peanut, flapped its wings and piped a tune. He wound a tiny handle on a golden pyramid and the bird strutted three steps then spread its tail, shimmering in the sunshine.

Only $250,000 Sold.

"You see we have a good deal left in stock. You know that last sale of ours was only $250,000, which was but a tiny part of what we have to se-

New York 'Plutes' to Miss Chicken at Dinner While Teamsters Are on Strike

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(FP)—New Yorkers may be so stuffed with holiday poultry that the acute shortage occasioned by a strike of poultry handlers does not spoil their dinners. On the other hand, the strike of the 700 members of local 167, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, is stopping the supply of chicken and other poultry to metropolitan markets. Shippers, receivers, poultry wholesalers and dealers within a radius of 150 miles around New York are affected.

Want Better Pay.

Demands of the workers are for an increase in pay of $10 per week over the present $40 scale; $1.50 an hour for overtime, $2 for holidays. Complaints of strikers center even more on the irregular hours they are compelled to work. The men say that the poultry business, altho an industry running into over fifty millions turnover per year, is poorly organized. Shipment come at all hours and the workers must be on hand early and late to unload and transfer the poultry.

Use Strikebreakers.

Employers of the striking poultry handlers are trying to use strikebreakers under strong police escort. Strikers here the backing of inside workers in the poultry houses and expect to keep a complete tie-up of the big markets.

Why Not Become a Worker Correspondent?

BELGIAN SOCIALISTS AND BRITISH TORIES UNITE ON POLICY TOWARDS CHINA

BRUSSELS. — Belgian socialism and British toryism seem to have identical views on the policy towards China, according to the statements of M. Vandervelde, socialist leader, in the Belgian parliament. The British government's secret memorandum on China came up for consideration and M. Vandervelde made the official statement on it. After strongly commending it he continued: "I regret to say that I cannot at present inform you of its contents, but after having perused it I may say that the principles it sets out, the policy which it proposes, the immediate measures which it suggests bear witness to a breadth of view and to a conciliatory desire to meet the aspirations of the Chinese people which cannot be too greatly admired."

This is astonishing news to the tens of thousands of British workers who are protesting against Britain's imperialist attacks upon the Chinese people and are rallying under the slogan: "Hands off China!" The workers are beginning to see that the "Socialists" and the bitter reactionary conservatives can always unite in the pursuance of an imperialist policy and in organizing and agitating for an attack on the Soviet Union.

Millions in Furs Sold by Soviet Union

MOSCOW.—(Tass.)—In the course of the first eleven months of the past fiscal year, from Oct. 1, 1925, to Aug. 31 1926, 72,400,000 rubles (about $36,200,000) worth of furs were sold on foreign markets, mostly in England, United States and France.

FARM RELIEF UP FOR DEBATE IN CONGRESS SOON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Farm relief forces began today to work up the preliminaris of their drive for legislation, with prospects that the battle will be raging on the entire congressional front within two weeks.

Despite their inability to reach an agreement with the administration or to end all differences in their own ranks, farm bloc leaders expressed belief that an imposing farm aid bill may be passed before congress folds its tent and goes home on March 4.

The house edition of the McNary-Haugen bill, modified slightly to meet the demands of Rep. Haugen (R) chairman of the agriculture committee, will be given the right-of-way by that body. Consideration of the bill is scheduled for tomorrow, with a strong probability that a vote will be reached within a few days.

Senator McNary, (R) of Oregon, announced that the senate agricultural committee of which he is chairman will begin hearings on his own bill late in the week.

Under the present plans of farm relief leaders, the fight for legislation will be conducted in both houses of congress at the same time.

Equalization Fee Stumbling Block.

The entire present fight, it is generally admitted, hinges upon the application of an equalization fee to meet losses which would be incurred in the sale of products abroad at lower prices than are paid by American consumers. Southern senators and congressmen have shown no disposition to yield to insistence that this fee be applied to cotton, as well as to wheat, corn and hogs.

Meanwhile Senator Curtis (R) of Kansas and Rep. Crisp (D) of Georgia, both pushing their committee measure, which is reported to have the partial endorsement of the administration.

This measure is claimed by its sponsors to be a composite production, embracing many features of the McNary-Haugen, Fess-Tincher, Aswell and Drummond bills and to include some of the ideas promulgated by ex-Governor Lowden of Illinois.

The house committee prepared also to hear officers of the national grange expound their debenture plan for meeting losses on export products sold at the world level of prices, while senator-elect Brookhart (R) of Iowa will push his own plan before the senate committee.

SHANGHAI LABOR AND MERCHANTS FIGHT WAR LORD

People Unite Against Sun; Cantonese Near

Special release by Kuomintang Press Service.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 19.—(By Mail.)—The representatives of the various labor, merchant and social organizations in Shanghai held a meeting in place of a mass meeting of citizens, and passed the following resolutions:

1. Until the new municipality of Shanghai is formed, the payment of taxes shall be stopped.

2. The association of the citizens of Shanghai for forming a special municipality shall make necessary preparations thereof.

3. Opposition shall be shown to the southward advance of the Fengtien-Shantung (northern) army.

Commerce Body Acts.

The general chamber of commerce of Shanghai held an urgent meeting for the discussion of measures for coping with the situation. At the meeting the following resolutions were adopted:

1. That the general chamber of commerce shall join in the autonomous movement.

2. That opposition shall be made against the dispatch of Shantung troops to Shanghai.

3. That Shanghai shall be made a special autonomous municipal district.

4. That opposition shall be made against the issuance of military notes at Shanghai by any military unit.

5. That unreserved support shall be given to the general labor union, which was recently suppressed for a third time by the police authorities.

Sun's Star Wanes.

With the expansion of influence of the Southern army, the star of Marshal Sun Chuanfang is waning by degrees. A fierce struggle is proceeding in Shanghai between the officials supported by Marshal Sun, on the one hand, and the masses who are trying to gain power by taking advantage of the situation.

The people of the big commercial city are against the Shantung-Mukden expedition to the Yangtze. Police and military authorities in Shanghai are becoming very vigilant as a result of the public statement, and are doing all in their power to restrain it, it is said.

On December 8 headquarters of the Postal Trade Union Council were raided. Officials of the organization broke into the offices and removed documents and any evidence which might reveal its membership, it is reported.

DIAZ CATCHES COOLIDGE IN A LIE

THE U. S. state department has not been functioning with its customary smoothness with regard to the constitutional law of Latin republics as evidenced by the bare discrepancy between the explanation of President Coolidge and that of the Nicaraguan brother and servant, President Diaz, touching on the legality of the latter's regime.

Coolidge's message to congress on the Nicaraguan question said that the Nicaraguan congress was within its constitutional rights in choosing Diaz as president because the elected incumbent, Salazorne, was residing in California after having resigned office, while Dr. Sacasa, his vice-president, "was in Guatemala."

Diaz, on the other hand, in his last news release (like all his others written by on agent of the U. S. state department) claims that Sacasa was denied his rights of succession because in the judgment of the congress (packed for Diaz) he had forfeited his office by seeking aid from a foreign government "to make revolution against the government." (One might ask here, what government? Sacasa was the rightful president by succession from the moment Salazorne resigned.)

The two statements follow:

Coolidge

The Nicaraguan constitution provides in article 106 that in the absence of the president and vice-president the congress shall designate one of its members to complete the unexpired term of president. As President Solorsano had resigned, and was then residing in California, and as the vice-president, Doctor Sacasa, was in Guatemala, having been out of the country since November, 1925, the action of congress in designating Senor Diaz was perfectly legal and in accordance with the constitution. Therefore the United States government on November 17 extended recognition to Senor Diaz.

Diaz

The liberals saw no solution possible and acceptable other than that of the installation of Dr. Sacasa. The conservatives solved the problem satisfactory by means of the thoroly constitutional procedure of having congress designate one of its members, myself, to be president for the remainder of the constitutional term of Senor Solorzano, who had resigned, and of Dr. Sacasa, who had, in the judgment of the national congress, empowered to impeach public officials, forfeited his rights by reason of his action in seeking foreign armed aid to make revolution against the government.

BOTH WRONG.

At the same time Sacasa and his Washington representative, Dr. Vaca, declare that the constitution of Nicaragua makes no provision for the congress to choose the president under any circumstances while the president and vice-president are alive and one of them prepared to take the chief executiveship.

Kellogg simply slipped up in not co-ordinating Diaz's statement with Coolidge's.

There is, of course, also the general question of the right of the United States to interpret constitutional law for the Nicaraguans. But since Admiral Latimer's navy squadron controls the country anyway, it is futile to ask about Nicaraguan rights.

WITH THE YOUNG WORKERS

CONDUCTED BY THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

Liebknecht Memorial Day—And Why

Karl Liebknecht was the champion of the working youth in every country of the world. When the world war of the bankers and business men found Liebknecht was one of the very few who opposed it. He called to the workers of the world to put an end to this war of the capitalists. He urged the working class to strike at the enemy fighting for a workers' government. His voice inspired the millions who were being sent to the slaughter for the benefit of the money-lords.

Is Assassinated.

Because of his courageous fight against capitalist militarism which murders young workers for the profits of the bosses, the German capitalists assassinated him. He was brutally murdered with the aid and incitement of the socialists of Germany.

Not Forgotten.

But the young workers of the world, who championed Liebknecht, have not forgotten him and his work. He was one of the founders of the fighting working class youth movement. Every year the young workers gather to pay tribute to the memory of the noble fighter and leader. They assemble in every country of the world to pledge themselves to the continuation of the work he began.

Liebknecht Memorial Day is the day of the young workers. Liebknecht belongs to those who are the worst exploited, the working youth. They must carry on his work.

The Answer to New Wars.

New wars are coming into which the young workers will be expected to go and die for Wall Street. Whether it be in Mexico or China, in Nicaragua or Europe, the young workers must answer with one voice:

"We fight only for the interests of the working class to which we belong."

Show your solidarity against war and militarism! Join the working youth on International Liebknecht Day! Come to the Chicago Karl Liebknecht meeting on Sunday, Jan. 16 at 8 p. m., Northwest Hall, corner North Ave. and Western. Max Bedacht, John Williamson and H. Zam are the principal speakers. Pioneers and musical program. Admission is 25 cents.

Pioneers Answer Boy Scouts' Dough Drive

On Feb. 1st the Boy Scouts' organization in Chicago will appeal to the boss interests that support it to come across with $200,000 to finance their work for the present year. The press publicity states that the work of the Boy Scouts consists of "training young men and boys in kindness and service and of building good citizenship for the future." Minnie Luyrie, district director of the Young Pioneers Movement points out that the Boy Scout drive will make no headway among large sections of the workers' children. "When they speak about training for service," said Comrade Luyrie, "they mean service for the boss class thru military training and practical obedience to the capitalists. Under the slogan of "good citizenship" the big business heads running the scouts tell them that all strikers are foreign agitators subsidized by Moscow."

Simultaneously with the scout drive the Young Pioneers will carry on a drive to increase its membership and secure subs for the Young Comrade. The Douglas Park Parents' Organization of the Young Pioneers is at present carrying on a drive for $1,000 to build a Pioneers' Club House in Chicago. "In the schools where we have Pioneer Groups," said Comrade Luyrie, "we will carry on an agitation against the misleading drive of the Boy Scouts."

Imperialist War Clouds Gather in the Far East

There are evidences of a new policy towards the Chinese national liberation movement on the part of the United States of which American workers and farmers should take note.

These evidences consist not only in the assembling of a huge American war fleet in Chinese waters, but of developments indicating at least a temporary agreement between Great Britain, Japan and America to prevent the capture of Shanghai by the people's armies and the consolidation of Kiangsu province, in which it is located, under the people's government.

The largest port in China, and the third largest in the world, the great bulk of customs receipts for all China are collected in Shanghai. The possession of this port would greatly increase the financial resources of the people's government and at the same time deprive Sun Chuang-fang and Ching Tso-lin, imperialist tools, of a great source of revenue.

It can be said without exaggeration that the capture of Shanghai and the extension of the people's government to Kiangsu and adjoining provinces which, with the exception of Shantung, would be the natural and immediate result, will be the end of imperialist and militarist rule in three-fifths of China. In the north, with the exception of Manchuria proper, now under Japanese control, this would leave only Shangtung and Chili provinces to Chang Tso-lin and his imperialist and militarist allies.

The imperialists, confronted with the reality of losing all control of the port of Shanghai and consequently of the whole rich valley of the Yangtze river, are casting discretion to the winds. A dispatch from London under date of Jan. 13 says:

England immediately will adopt whatever measures are necessary to protect the interests of British citizens in Shanghai and Hankow, and it is understood at the foreign office that the UNITED STATES WILL ACT IN ACCORD.

Reversal of the pacific policy followed a conference between Prime Minister Baldwin and Sir Austen Chamberlain at the foreign office. . . . . It is said here that the plan will be left to the British and AMERICAN authorities in the vicinity of Shanghai. . . . . Co-operation BY THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT IS UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE BEEN ASSURED. (Emphasis ours.)

Only such a concentration of foreign naval and military forces as is now taking place in and around Shanghai can prevent its speedy capture by the people's armies. The Chinese population, especially the workers, are already preparing to welcome the people's armies. If the great powers try by force to wrest victory from the people's government the bloodiest fighting yet seen in China will take place.

It is not only for the sake of the Chinese national liberation movement as such, and because of its tremendous importance to the struggle of the masses the world over, but because of the danger of a world war arising out of the rival ambitions of Great Britain, Japan and America in the Far East, that the American masses should insist on the withdrawal of all armed forces from Chinese waters and territory. The struggle for the trade and the remaining territory of China outside of the domain of the people's government has been made sharper by its recent victories.

It is only that for the moment these rivalries are dwarfed by the GENERAL danger to imperialism that the imperialist powers are enabled to unite to keep Shanghai in their hands. (It is an international settlement altho British interests predominate.)

War can come in the Pacific area without further warning and catch us unprepared just as the threat of war against Mexico contained in the invasion of Nicaragua has found the labor movement unprepared to resist it.

It needs only an "incident," similar to the Sarajevo affair which preceded the world war, to set the whole East aflame and involve all the great powers.

The slogan of "Hands Off China!" must be joined to that of "Hands Off Mexico and Nicaragua" and be raised in every section of the American labor movement.

Jingo Press Shows Sinister Tone

ridge and Kellogg, is becoming clearer day by day. The protests in congress and the senate have not stopped its progress one inch.

This policy is to threaten Mexico, to invade her sovereignty by refusal to recognize Mexican law, to arouse public sentiment against her thru lying stories in the American press, to encourage internal strife by the activity of such open agents of reaction as Garza, to utilize the catholic church to the utmost, to cry "Bolshevism" when caught red-handed plotting war on the Mexican people and, if all these measures fail, to withdraw recognition, blockade Mexican ports with the huge war fleet now assembled in southern waters, recognize some such black reactionary as Garza and if necessary invade Mexico to install him as president.

How the official spokesmen of the American Federation of Labor can remain silent in the face of such an obvious conspiracy against the Mexican and American labor movements will be a mystery to many. The call for the convention of the Pan-American Federation of Labor, with President Green and Vice-President Woll endorsing it, has been sent out.

It contains not one word relative to present grave crisis with its menace of Wall Street war, the date for the convention is the eighteenth of next July.

Surely, if a special convention of this body was ever needed it is now. Such a gathering, adopting unanimously a protest against the bludgeoning of Nicaragua and Mexico, and calling upon the labor movements of all countries involved to oppose it, would do more than all the speeches in Washington to halt Wall Street aggression.

When the leader of the reactionary opposition in Mexico announces openly that he will abolish the labor laws of the republic and give imperialists a free hand to dispose of the natural resources as they see fit, it is a challenge to every worker and farmer on the North and South American continents.

Labor officials who remain silent now, in the face of proof that silence aids the blackest reaction, are equally guilty with Coolidge and Kellogg and the Wall Street financiers, in a conspiracy against the masses of North and South America.

Every local union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor should demand an open statement in support of the Mexican and Nicaraguan labor movements and against Wall Street aggression by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor now in session in St. Petersburg, Florida.

As part of the labor movement every local union should also send their most emphatic protest to congressmen, senators and President Coolidge.

Let the Wall Street rulers know that American labor is not fooled by its attempt to identify its program of conquest with the interests of the American masses and that labor will not be cajoled.

'FIGHT AMERICAN IMPERIALISM!' SLOGAN OF BIG LENIN MEMORIAL MEETINGS THRUOUT THE COUNTRY

THE struggle against the imperialist attacks of the United States government upon the peoples of Mexico, Nicaragua and China at the behest of the Wall Street banks will be the keynote of the series of Lenin memorial meetings organized by the Workers (Communist) Party in the most important cities of the country. Tens of thousands of workers will meet towards the end of January to pay honor to the great leader of the world proletariat and to demonstrate their determination to follow in the way of Lenin and to accomplish the tasks he indicated in overthrowing the most powerful capitalist class in the world.

The lessons Lenin has taught as to the meaning of imperialism and the ways of fighting it will be told to the American workers at these meetings and the special role of American imperialism and its latest developments will be particularly stressed. "What has Leninism to say to the American workers at this critical period?" This will be the great question that the speakers at the Lenin memorial meetings will answer.

The American workers and farmers are facing a gigantic responsibility in face of the pre-eminance of American imperialism on the world political stage. This responsibility can only be met by a clear and militant line of policy—a policy of Leninism. It is the duty of all workers in America who do not want to fall their class at the critical moment and become unconscious tools of their bosses to acquaint themselves with this program and to demonstrate their readiness to fight for it. It is their duty to come to the Lenin memorial demonstrations and show their readiness to take up the flag of Lenin and continue his work for the emancipation of toiling masses the world over.

Lenin memorial meetings have been arranged in the following cities. Speakers and halls are indicated wherever possible:

Lecture on China in Gary Saturday

GARY, Ind., Jan. 14.—Gary workers of all races and nationalities are invited to attend a lecture on what is occurring in China at the Labor Temple here Saturday afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

Chao Ting Chi, student at the University of Chicago, will give the lecture.

Lowell Lenin Meeting on Monday, Jan. 17

LOWELL, Mass., Jan. 14.—Workers of Lowell will observe the third anniversary of the death of Lenin on Monday, Jan. 17, at 19 Union street. James P. Cannon and M. Rudvansky, editor of the Novy Mir, will be the main speakers.

Discuss Amalgamation of Races.

The American Negro Labor Congress Open Forum, which meets at 3618 State St., at 4 p. m. every Sunday, has something really interesting for their program for this Sunday, Jan. 16. William A. Thomas will speak on "Amalgamation of the Races."

'FLIMSY PIECE OF PROPAGANDA,' —LA FOLLETTE

Sacasa Also Answers Kellogg Scare

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The bolshevist memorandum issued by Secretary of State Kellogg following his appearance before the senate foreign relations committee was a "flimsy piece of propaganda," designed to influence American newspapers into believing that Mexico was dominated by Russia, Senator LaFollette (R) of Wisconsin, declared today in the senate.

"There is not one scintilla of evidence in his statement indicating a red plot between Mexico City and Moscow," said LaFollette.

Demands Further Sifting.

He demanded the senate foreign relations committee investigate charges raised by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that the state department previously attempted to influence the American news services to carry this "propaganda" on their wires.

Sacasa Answers.

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, Jan. 14.—Coming to his own defense, Dr. Juan Sacasa, leader of the Nicaraguan liberals, today declared in a statement to the International News Service that charges raised by the United States government of bolshevism and a menace to American canal rights in Nicaragua are but a pretext.

Dr. Sacasa states the United States has recognized the Diaz government, "which is undeniably the successor of the Chamorro government which the United States refused to recognize," and has resolved "upon intervention to sustain Diaz by force against the Nicaraguan people, thus repeating the case of 1912."

Roto Fahns Hits Kellogg.

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—The Communist newspaper Die Rote Fahne, organ of the Communist Central Party, today editorially ridiculed Secretary Kellogg's charges that the Soviets are trying to bolshevize Central America.

The bolshevist outcry is calculated to serve but to mask the United States' dollar imperialism, and to invite support of the nation for further exploitation of Central American states, the paper declared.

Die Rote Fahne has been waging a campaign against the United States policies in Mexico and Nicaragua, charging the United States with backing up and supplying huge funds to rebels fighting against the Calles government.

Conference Meeting on Workers' Bazaar Planned Here Sunday

The next meeting of the conference for the workers' carnival bazaar will be held at the Workers' Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd., Sunday, Jan. 16, at 10 a. m. Preparations are now going ahead full blast for the $10,000 bazaar which is to take place at the Ashland Boulevard Auditorium on Feb. 21, 25 and 26. The bazaar is being held for the benefit of The DAILY WORKER and the Jewish Daily Freiheit, and 30 per cent of the proceeds will be given to International Labor Defense.

Mexicans Protest Against Tyranny of "Northern Colossus"

this is a sure sign of a very weak movement.

K. C. Support.

What counter-revolutionary movement does exist, is directed by the clergy and prominent members of catholic lay institutions. One of the latter, Capistran Garza, president of the League of Catholic Youth, is in the United States presuming to direct counter-revolutionary movement against the Calles regime. It is charged here that Garza has been taken under the wing of the Knights of Columbus in the United States and is being supplied with funds from the million dollar collection made recently by that organization for work against the Mexican government.

Hear Ruthenberg on Communist History at School Saturday

Chicago workers should attend the lectures at the Workers' School, North Hall, North and Western avenues, Saturday, Jan. 15, when C. E. Ruthenberg, general secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party of America speaks, if they would learn of the history of the American Communist movement. This will be the third of a series of lectures Ruthenberg has delivered on that subject.

The lecture will be given at eight o'clock. Admission is 25 cents. The lecture was originally scheduled for Sunday night, but has been changed to Saturday.

Oil A NEW NOVEL Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair.)

Eli possessed a sense of drama, and turned it loose in the devising of primitive little tableaux and pageants, which gave rapture to his simple minded followers. When he told how he had been tempted of the devil, the wicked One came upon the scene, hoofs, horns and tail, and with a red spotlight on him; when Eli lifted up the cross on high, the devil would fall and strike his forehead on the ground, and the silver trumpets would peal and the followers would burst into loud hosannahs. Or perhaps it would be the command, "Suffer little children to come unto me"; there would be hundreds of children, all robed in white, and when Eli lifted his shepherd's crook and called, they came storming to the platform, their fresh young voices shouting, "Praise the Lord!" And of course, there was the regular mourners' bench and the baptisms to the huge new tank. You were never allowed to forget that you had a soul, and that it was of supreme importance to you and to Jesus, and that you were having it saved by Eli's aid. You were always being called upon to do something to stand up for the Lord, or to clap your hands for salvation, or to raise your right hand if you were a newcomer to the tabernacle.

But the great advantage Eli had over elite people was the pair of brazen bellows he had developed out on the hills of Paradise Netter was there such an electrifying voice, and never one that could keep going so long. All day Sunday it bellowed and boomed—morning, afternoon, evening; there were weekday services every evening but Saturday, and in the mornings and afternoons there were prayer meetings and Bible schools and services of song and healing blessings and baptismal ceremonials and thank offerings and wholesale weddings and Bride of the Lamb dedications; you just couldn't keep track of all that was going on in the many rooms and meeting halls of this half million dollar tabernacle.

Science had just completed a marvellous invention, the human voice became magnified a hundred million fold, it could be spread over the whole earth. The population of America had gone wild over radio, and everybody had rushed to get a set. The first great public use made of this achievement in Angel City was to erect a new three million dollar hotel for the pleasure of the very rich, and the opening ceremonies were broadcast, and the newspapers were full of the wonder of it; but it proved to be dreadful, because everybody in the hotel got drunk, and the manager of the institution placed himself in front of the microphone and poured out a stream of obscenities such as farmers' wives from Iowa had never dreamed in all their lives. So it was felt that the next invention needed to be sanctified and redeemed, and Eli proceeded to instal one of the biggest and most powerful broadcasting stations. Thru the Lord's mercy, his words were heard over four million square miles, and it was worthwhile to preach to audiences of that size, praise Jesus!

What Wall Street Wants In Latin America

Map by Thurber Lewis.

By THURBER LEWIS.

THE above map shows the disposition of United States strength in the Caribbean and Central America.

(1) Shows Puerto Cabezas, the headquarters of the liberal rebels under Dr. Sacasa. United States marines were landed here to hamper Sacasa's movements against the puppet President Diaz who is besieged in the capital, Managua (4) by the rebels. Later, the entire east coast of the country was blockaded by Admiral Latimer's fleet to prevent munitions and also food, from reaching the liberals.

(3), (2) and (4), respectively show the Corn Islands, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba and Fonseca Bay, Nicaragua, in all three of which places, the United States has naval bases for the protection of the Panama Canal (7). There is a general mobilization of naval forces at Guantanamo at present. If the United States attacks Mexico, the first place to be occupied will be Vera Cruz, (5) her most important port, which was occupied by U. S. troops in 1914. (6) shows Mexico City, for which Vera Cruz is the port.

The strategic positions held by the United States in this region as shown above prove how ridiculous the charge is that Mexico "threatens" the Panama Canal, itself strongly fortified. There are now 15 first class ships of war and 5,000 landing troops on both coasts of Nicaragua. They are not there for use solely against the small army of rebels who are fighting to regain the country from the American tool, Diaz, altho they are doing this as well. There is no doubt that Admiral Latimer's large force (being reinforced every day) is in Caribbean waters to intimidate Mexico and for possible use against that country if Washington so orders. There are more marines and blue-jackets off the coast of Nicaragua now than there are troops in the ill-equipped armies of both Sacasa and Diaz.

The Story of Leather Gloves - By Joel Shomaker

LONG while ago there was war in the United States. It was known as the War of the Rebellion. It was a struggle between armed forces of the North and the South. The cause of the trouble was human slavery. The Negro was bought and sold as a living chattel. So the people of the North fought the people of the South to maintain the union of states and set the black man free.

Abraham Lincoln became the hero of the nineteenth century. He was president of the United States, and issued the famous emancipation proclamation. His acts were sustained. The colored man received the gift of citizenship. He was granted all the rights and privileges and insured protection to life and property. The slavery question was settled. The Negro was free—to be lynched. But the twentieth century has the problem of setting the white man free.

THEIR worker was the real man in the war on human slavery. The manufacturers of the North objected to the constriction of manufacturers of the South. It was claimed that employed labor was more expensive than owned labor. The capitalists of the North argued that they could not compete with similar operators of the South because of the difference in cost of hired men and chattel slaves.

When the Civil War ended real competition was introduced. The manufacturers tried to put the best material in the hands of competent workmen to produce the best finished articles. The cloth was all wool, all cotton or all silk. There was nothing just as good. The consuming public did not have to choose between the real and the substitute. The word imitation was unknown. We generally refer to that period as the time when men were honest.

IN the second year of the Civil War I came to the south. My parents were poor farmers. They lived in the clay hills of Kentucky. Their money crop was tobacco. Once a year we could buy boots made of real leather. Our horses worked in leather harness. If it was leather we knew the product of the factory was good. It was guaranteed to last long and wear well. We did not have fellowship feelings for revenue only in those days.

Long while ago I grew to manhood and located in the West. When free homesteads became scarce men began to build towns and cities. Capitalism took possession of industry. The dollar was the accepted god of commerce. Competition gave way to trusts and combinations. Prices for raw materials went down. Labor had to fight for just compensation. Sales prices of finished products went up to the limit of profiteering.

ABOUT one year in ten I saw some evidence of prosperity. In that year I could sometimes afford to buy a suit of clothes. It was during one of those fat periods that my folks decided to remember my birthday with a present. The gift selected was a pair of gloves. So I was escorted to a dealer in leather goods. The clerk was one of those high school retail selling boys. He gave me one of his class smiles and displayed the gloves.

"They are all leather," the youthful merchant suggested.

"But the price is too much for leather," I retorted.

"You know leather is leather nowadays," said the boy, while a line of wisdom creased his brow.

"I know leather is leather but why ask so much for leather gloves?" I quickly shot back at the boy in training.

"The old farmers get big prices for their hides," he retired, as he straightened up and relieved his pocket space.

"Say boy, the farmers are not shipping many hides. They do not care to get freight bills from the buyers," I quickly volunteered the information.

"Labor costs a lot. You know the unions must have big money for glovemakers," the little fellow suggested, while the boss listened in from the back end of the shop.

"Well, I'll take the gloves," I announced as the boy began to breathe more freely. "But, young fellow, listen to this. Have your boss give you another line of talk. I am an old newspaperman, I know a thing or two about the farmers and the union workers, who make gloves."

"I am listening," the boy whispered, as one eye turned a corner, to get a fair glimpse of the head storeman.

"The cost of the raw material and the union labor used in making those gloves would not amount to ten per cent of the retail selling price. It is not the rich old farmer nor the high paid union worker that gets the big slice of bacon, but the manufacturers, distributors and retailers that take the whole loaf."

The gloves were almost without value to me. They were made to sell not to wear. The animal from whose hide the gloves were cut had suffered much poverty, for cracks opened and, holes appeared in less than a month. My gloves were not worth pocket space.

HIS LAST MEAL.

The prison director asked the criminal, whose execution was to take place next morning: "What do you want for supper? You are allowed to eat and drink what and as much as you want."

"What a pity," the murderer replied. "If you had only asked me that three months ago! Then the murder would not have taken place!"

Can You Not Hear?

By HENRY GEORGE WEISS

They deem because the days in seeming quiet
Pass by with laggard feet,
Because there is no red rebellious riot
To tumult all the street,
That there is peace betwixt their class and ours,
That with this endless toil we are content,
That in its lair, divided, slavery cowers,
Shackled, bespent.

But listen close—can you not hear the rumble
As of volcanic forces underground,
Where in the hives of work, the meek, the humble
Go round and round?
Can you not hear the groaning and complaining
Of little children in the noisome mills?
Can you not feel the social structure straining
Under [illegible]

In the Wake of the News - - By T. J. O'Flaherty

THOSE who have seen Lenin's body in the mausoleum in the Red Square can tell you that he looks like a healthy child asleep and there is even the suggestion of a twinkle in his eyes and a smile on his lips. A spiritualist would immediately jump to the conclusion that Lenin is inclined to laugh his head off at the troubles which beset the imperialist powers all over the world. Of course this would be managing, nevertheless were it possible for Lenin to step over to the headquarters of the Communist International on the other side of the Kremlin he would chuckle audibly, as he read reports of the situation in China, the upsurge of sentiment in Latin America against United States aggression, the continued rise of the sentiment for independence in the Philippine Islands, the slumbering revolt in India and Egypt, the bitter clashes between the imperialist powers over a division of the loot, between Great Britain and the United States, Great Britain and France, and to a lesser degree between Italy and Great Britain, between Italy and France, between the United States and Europe as a whole, and between the United States and Japan, between the United States and France, etc.

• • • •

IT is true that the capitalist system is not as groggy today as it was a few years after the war but its pulse is low and its temperature is mounting dangerously. Only the United States of all the capitalist powers retains a healthy economic system, but let no one think that American capitalism will escape the fate that is overcoming the same economic system in other countries. Crisis follows crisis in quick succession in Europe. The military establishments are becoming a greater drain than ever on their resources and armaments mean only one thing, and that is war. The capitalists know that another war will be a Waterloo for them but they can no more avoid this fate than a person can avoid death.

• • • •

THE two outstanding events of the year in the revolutionary struggle against capitalism have been the [illegible] strike and the Chinese revolution. Both events hit British imperialism deadly blows. It is true that the miners lost because of the perfidy of the right wing labor leaders, but there was no victory for the British capitalists. The strike left them weakened and it also left a heritage of hate behind it that will come down on their heads in the near future like the stroke of doom. The weakening of British power resulting from the strike shackled England's ability to exert any considerable strength against the Chinese who have been arousing themselves kicking British soldiery all over the scenery, much to the indignation of the British settlers who have never seen such a thing happen before. It is true that British soldiers, when confronted with troops of industrial nations like Germany proved that they could run as well as the rest, which is nothing to their discredit since there is no glory in being brave fighting for capitalism. On the other hand the British working-class have proven themselves to be among the best soldiers of the international army of labor as they showed by the bulldog tenacity with which they held out for nine months in the great coal strike.

• • • •

BUT the Chinese! How come that they should suddenly develop such combativeness? British, Japanese, American and French explorers were having a picnic sweating profits out of Chinese bodies. And the Chinese dared not protest. To organize a labor union meant death to the organizers and to many of the rank and file as an example to others. Did the foreigners not have their own courts in which to try Chinese who disobeyed them? Did they not collect taxes and practically rule the country outside of allowing a puppet government to rule in Peking until the rise to power of the Cantonese, who are now pushing forward on the way to the unification of China.

• • • •

IN this great turning point in the life of China it is [illegible] of that down-trodden country had only one power to look to for a friendly hand; the [illegible] workers and peasants of the Soviet Union. While the capitalist powers were drawing the life blood out of the Chinese masses and humiliating them socially and diplomatically the Soviet Union was abrogating all the old unequal treaties and placing the Chinese nation on a basis of full diplomatic equality with the Soviet Union and giving its representative in Peking the state of an ambassador. The imperialist powers considered this act of decency a provocation and rallied against Russia for spoiling their game. Today, there is every reason to believe that within a year the Chinese troops will be in Peking and there will be nothing left to the foreign powers except their [illegible] base, granting that Chiang-Tso-Lin survives the revolutionary whirlwind.

• • • •

MOST important of all the gains of the year is the great strides made by the Soviet Union economically and politically. The fortification of the Workers' and Peasants' Republic have increased in productivity, the standard of living of the masses has increased and the political power of the Soviet government has gained internally and externally. Even the most optimistic of the paid anti-Soviet propagandists of imperialism no longer dares credit monstrous predictions of impending Soviet disaster. The emigres who lived at the expense of wealthy reactionary American and British Soviet haters, no longer draw the pay checks. Their deliberate lies of alleged Soviet woes no longer poison the political atmosphere.

• • • •

THE Communist Party of the Soviet Union, the brain and backbone of the Soviet government, has succeeded in overcoming all obstacles placed in the way of its greater consolidation. Even outstanding figures, some of them with names that had a conjuring effect on the masses a few years ago, came to grief before the iron discipline of the Communist Party. When the internal differences over questions of policy became acute, the hopes of the imperialist powers arose, only to fall speedily when they learned that those once-powerful leaders did

The Youth and the Fight Against Militarism

By JOHN WILLIAMSON.

It is not enough that we study and know of Lenin, only as the leader of the mighty Russian Revolution. We must study the cofcributions of Lenin, both in theory and practice and be able to apply them to our reapective situations. One of these basic questions is the attitude of the working class to militarism.

The four knowledge of the very basis of capitalism with its historical growth and its intensified antagonisms in the present imperialist epoch, we know that WAR is inevitable. Today the clashing economic interests of Great Britain, the United States and the all-powerful capitalist countries are driving them rapidly to a struggle, which can only find its ultimate expression in WAR. The immediate situation in relation to Wall Street and Latin America is not a contradiction to this rivalry between Britain and America, but one of the symptoms of its development and the preparation of the United States for such an event.

At home we are acquainted with the internal war preparations for such events. The rapid increase of 250 per cent in military, naval and aircraft expenditures within the U. S. A. from the years 1913 to 1925; the institution of C. M. T. C.'s on a compulsory scale for every year; the R. O. T. C. system introduced into the public school system; the planned out scheme of economic reserves (factories, etc.) on a national scale and many other facts that could be piled up as proof.

"Pacifism" Raises Its Head.

The cries of "Disarmament," "Pacifism," "National Defense Only," etc., have found loud expression recently, just as we have in the past found this agitation the keenest intensively prior to armed contentions. History teaches us that these slogans and the people who advocate them generally "blow up" when confronted with concrete situations. In fact, the majority of them become the worst jingoes and comrades of the working class, vieing with each other to demonstrate their patriotism and the sincere elements continue to raise their false slogans which only can help to create illusions in the minds of their audiences. We need only remember the jingoistic social patriots during the last war.

TODAY in America the anti-militarist sentiment, has unfortunately found too much leadership in the petty-bourgeois liberal elements. Such organizations as the National Student Forum, The League for Industrial Democracy, the Fellowship of Reconciliation, the American Federation of Youth and the dozens of other similar pacifist organizations have taken the helm. Our Communist Youth Movement partially fell into the mistake of allowing such elements to assume leadership in this activity—a most drastic mistake which must be changed.

What are the reasons for this popular anti-militarist crusade among the petty bourgeoisie. Primarily the fact that the burden of this great increase of armaments has been shifted, thru taxation, onto the shoulders of the working class and the petty bourgeoisie, and the latter have reacted more vigorously. Other motives which contribute, are the general post-war horror of war and militarism, which especially finds expression in the ranks of the intelligentsia (students).

Amongst the unskilled workers, the fact that in every labor struggle, whether of local or national importance, the military is arrayed against them, creates resentment and bitterness.

As a last fact we must brand many of these efforts as a conscious policy of betrayal of the workers by presentation of fine phrases and slogans and promises which divert their immediate attention from a militant policy against militarism.

THE basis of this agitation conducted and led by the petty bourgeois liberal elements is pacifism. Such a theory treats militarism as some separate phenomena which can be abolished at will, without recognizing the basic truth that militarism is one of the main pillars of capitalism and cannot be attacked without attacking capitalism itself. Pacifism, theoretically and practically, is a utopia.

The Leninist Position.

In the period of 1914-17 when the bulk of the Social-Democracy had capitulated and only a few left wing sections maintained their revolutionary program, the question of the attitude of the proletariat towards militarism was on the order of the day. At that time in the ranks of the revolutionary Socialist Youth movement, which was carrying on the attack against capitalist militarism under the leadership of Liebknecht, much confusion reigned. Today in our own Communist movement we can record the fact that the real Communist position towards militarism has received too little attention and no study by the militant workers.

The Fetel Bits.

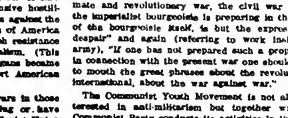
In this period Lenin raised principal questions and today they represent the Communist position towards militarism:

1. Are we against all wars? Lenin answered, "Socialists cannot be against every war without ceasing to be Socialists." He went on to explain that in the period of imperialism the national minorities and colonial peoples are suppressed by force and they in turn must answer by force. Such wars must receive the support of the proletariat. A case in question would be the present defensive hostilities by the Nicaraguan republican forces against the U. S. armed forces. The working class of America must do everything possible to aid such resistance to the armed forces of American imperialism. (This is a concrete case where the liberal slogans became worthless and they in turn will support American imperialism).

Again there is the question of civil wars in those countries where the workers are seizing or have already seized power. The workers of Soviet Union have their Red Army in order to protect their revolution. The pacifist would have the workers and peasants of Russia lay down their arms and be drowned in blood, a la Finland, Hungary or Germany. The Communist, the working class position, has no such sophist illusions. The revolution must protect and guard itself by a better armed force as long as world capitalism exists. The Communist position is not a humanitarian one. As Lenin said, "An oppressed class which does not strive for the knowledge of arms, for the practice of arms, for the possession of arms, such an oppressed class is only worthy to be oppressed, maltreated and regarded as a slave class."



2. The inevitability of wars under capitalism, especially in the epoch of imperialism. The conclusions of the Communists on this point that all wars have their economic basis, either in securing new lands for exploitation or sphere of influence for distribution of manufacturers' products or for cheaper raw materials, etc., is now even proclaimed in various degrees in the flood of new bourgeois literature concerning the relationship of America and Europe in connection with the last war. The pacifists in their propaganda neglect this completely, and propagate the possibility of abolishing militarism without mentioning capitalism. Thus they create illusions of the worst character in the minds of the workers.

3. Unmerciful unmasking of bourgeois pacifism. Connecting this with the immediate American situation, we must in relation to the previous paragraph, unmask such organizations as the openly imperialistic Y. M. C. A. when it talks "peace," and just as ardently expose the real character of the pacifists of all other brands.

4. Defense of the Fatherland. Experience has taught us that just these elements who raise pacifist meaningless slogans today, in time of crisis, are the conscious lackeys of big capital in mobilizing the workers for the slaughterfest between respective capitalist countries. At this time they use is, "Defense of the Fatherland." Such a slogan is a death warrant to the workers. The workers have no "Fatherland," under capitalism. Only by turning the imperialist wars into revolutionary civil wars will the proletariat win a workers' "fatherland" like the present Soviet Union, which they will defend with all means and at all costs. This point is the kernel of the whole Communist attitude towards war, in reconciling the causes of war and the historical connection of war with the present social system. In order to further this, the Communist position is not to run away from the army but to work inside the army. Lenin said, "To preach the demand of better, the dream of disarmament, at the present time, when obviously and clearly before the eyes of all of us the only legitimate and revolutionary war, the civil war against the imperialist bourgeoisie is preparing in the hands of the bourgeoisie itself, is but the expression of despair" and again (referring to work inside the army), "If one has not prepared such a propaganda in connection with the present war one should cease to mouth the great phrases about the revolutionary international, about the war against war."

The Communist Youth Movement is not alone interested in anti-militarism but together with the Communist Party conducts its activities in line with the policies of Lenin.

At this time the concrete application of these policies to America means work along the following general lines:

(a) The Y. W. L. as the leader of the working class youth must take the leadership of the anti militarist movement out of the hands of the petty bourgeois liberal elements, such as the Student Forum, etc.

(b) In taking the leadership the young workers must be mobilized for the struggle together with the student elements but the first must be the basis.

(c) The policy of the Communist Youth Movement which it must never cease propagating must be that laid down by Lenin.

(d) United Front movements must be encouraged and promoted on a local scale on concrete issues. These must rally primarily the working class youth forces, either unorganized or thru the trade union movement.

(e) Continuation of a struggle against the C. M. T. C. and demanding in its place a four weeks paid vacation annually for all young workers. Oppose the R. O. T. C.

not succeed in swinging the party from its Leninist moorings. With the differences in the Communist Party substantially smothered, with a surpassingly good grain collection and an increase of industrial productivity, together with the spread of Soviet influence in the Orient, there is reason to believe that the coming year will see the Soviet Union making strides forward that will surpass the most optimistic hopes of its friends. And this despite an almost complete financial blockade of the capitalist world. The Soviet Union has taken socialism out of the abstract heavens and brought it down to a concrete foundation.

FRANCE and Italy are growling at each other across the frontiers like two hungry wolves quarreling over a carcass. The former loving allies are now deadly enemies. Italy wants French colonies in northern Africa and while England does not care who licks France a strong Italy on the Mediterranean would not make things any safer for Britain's water route to India. No matter what those brigands do; no matter even if they were concerned over peace, they will always find themselves in those contradictions which are bound to sound the death-knell of the robber system. But those contradictions must be given assistance. The workers of the world must organize nationally and internationally to kick the system into the historical cesspool and build on its ruins the socialist state of the producers. Under the leadership of the Communist International, one of Lenin's great contributions to the workers of the world, the proletariat of all countries are forging the political weapons thru which the toilers will be able to free themselves from the thraldom of wage slavery. The third anniversary of Lenin's death finds Leninism more potent than ever, and the prospects for a complete victory of labor and subject peoples brighter.

A PEEK EACH WEEK AT MOTION PICTURES

"WE'RE IN THE NAVY NOW."

Hear ye! All ye gullible, hear ye! "We're in the Navy Now" is not the funniest picture of the year. This solemn statement about a funny picture is made after thoughtful deliberation, accurate counting of laughs and weighing all evidence appended hereto.

And yet, we feel that with four bits to spare this picture showing at the McVickers wouldn't be a bad investment. Wallace Beery is a prize fighter and prize dumb-bell, whose equally dumb manager is played by Raymond Hatton. Beery particularly is a deadringer for the numerous heavy numb nannies that pass as prize fighters. If you have spent any time around a gymnasium you'll appreciate the acting. Chester Conklin has a minor part of little importance.

The subtitles are snappy enough to entitle the writer to be put in electric lights as a co-star. You can't expect us to tell you the plot of a slap-stick comedy. It's about war and of course our dumb hero catches a German spy. They all do and they all get medals. The whole business is not designed to discourage recruiting for the navy altho the dignity of the navy also is subject to an occasional pot-shot of ridicule. However since you have not joined yet despite the premium of a free trip around the world (scrubbing decks) you're not likely to join after seeing this picture.

As a whole it is a little overdone, slightly long-winded, just a bit too clever—but you'll laugh alright. And you'll laugh often. Especially when you see Beery in a prizefight in which he gets hit just once, after which the subtitle tells us—"He was out all night without going anywhere." —W. C.

ALASKAN ADVENTURES.

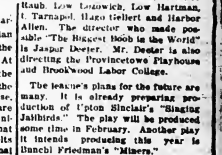
Just a word on this scenic. For the first time we have heard an audience applaud a travel picture. Capt. Robertson and Art Young (not our great cartoonist), one of them a champion with a bow and arrow, make over a year's trip by all conveyance available thru Alaska. They have photographed the natural wonders of the country: Yukon river, ice break-ups in the spring, the salmon run, animal life, midnight sun and other things. It's a beautiful job, an interesting one and as a whole, one of the best educational pictures we have ever seen. We should have more of these.



Lois Wilson co-starring with Estelle Taylor and Ricardo Cortez in the new film, "New York" at the Oriental.

"NEW YORK."

There is this in its favor: the cast includes Lois Wilson, Ricardo Cortez, Estelle Taylor (Jack's wife) "Skeets" Gallagher and one or two other actors of ability.

And then they put this capable troupe thru a story a blurb tells us is: "A song writer's romance with a society heiress. Jazz songs and millionaires tangled by fate." (Oh ye Gods, who supervises movies when, oh, when will we hear the last of boring Berlin's marriage?)

The story is cut on an ancient pattern and hasn't been changed since Columbus wore short pants. The hero repeatedly tells his sweetie his low birth on the East Side of New York doesn't make him good enough for her. But she has different ideas. Despite complications which are finally untangled, her diagnosis is correct.

Honesty and noble ambition win out in the end. God is good—and the picture is terrible.

Lois Wilson particularly, and the rest of the troupe also, do all that the story allows. That means nothing. There is only this consolation you can get at the Oriental theater in Chicago where the show is on exhibition: Leo Paul Ash show is particularly good this week. And this isn't consolation. It's a treat.

It will be interesting to watch how the producers will guess "What the public wants" in the case of the Russian movie actress Natalie Barrache, recently arrived. She has been rechristened. Nalelie Barrache is now Natli Barr. If they will only give her the stories to act in which here almost ruined Pola Negri as an actress, the thing will be complete. In the meantime Natalie, beg pardon, Natli, is being cast in "a romantic dramatic role" by the First National Pictures.

THE THEATER

THE WORKERS' DRAMA LEAGUE
By MAX GELTMAN.

THE Workers' Drama League, characterized as the "first proletarian theater in America" is situated in the finest part of Greenwich Village. At 64 Washington Square it enjoys the distinction of being bounded on the west by the Provincetown Playhouse, on the north by Washington Square Park, on the east by New York University and on the south by what most characterizes the Village—its eating places. Enough of the external physical aspects of the league. What is the league doing? What does it intend to do?

The Workers' Drama League has not presented, as its initial production of its first reorganized season, "The Biggest Boob in the World," a fantastic melodrama of workers' life, by the young German writer, Karl Wittfogel, who may be remembered by readers of this magazine as the one who wrote the article on Bernard Shaw. The show was a tremendous success. It was shown three times at the Church of All Nations in New York. At the conclusion of the third performance requests came in to have he show performed in various parts of the city and Passaic. The play will be shown in Passaic sometime n January.

The Workers' Drama League is an organization made up entirely of workers in its "acting" body. That is all its actors are workers at various trades. For its realization as a true proletarian theater it nees professional people closely connected with the radical left movement of the country. On its executive committee are such people as Michael Gold, Florence Haub, Low Lesinick, Low Hartman, I. Tarnapol, Hugo Gellert and Harbor Allen. The director who made possible "The Biggest Boob in the World" is Jasper Deeter. Mr. Deeter is also directing the Provincetowns Playhouse and Brookwood Labor College.

The league's plans for the future are many. It is already preparing production of Upton Sinclair's "Singing Jailbirds." The play will be produced some time in February. Another play it intends producing this year is Bunchi Friedman's "Miners."

But just merely the production of plays is not the only purpose of the Workers' Drama League. The league must spread its ideas not only from the acting stage, but also from the lecture platform. In latre-production periods, the league is planning a series of lectures on the theater from a sociological aspect. Some of the lecturers whom it has already applied for the purpose are V. F. Calverton, Michael Gold, L. Losowick and H. W. L. Dana.

The most ambitious undertaking yet attempted by the league will be the holding of a symposium, the subject of which shall be, "Is a Workers' Theater Possible in America?" Many of the biggest actors on Broadway, playwrights, critics, directors and scenic artists will be asked to participate. This symposium (with the help of a few philanthropic comrades—address all checks payable to the Workers' Drame League, 64 Washington Square South, New York City.) should be held some time in February. This ought surely to prove one of the most interesting intellectual events of the new year.

The Prospects of the Revolution in China

prospects open up in this respect and up to what limits an advance can and should be made—that depends on the course of the revolution. I think that it should finally be carried as far as the nationalization of the land. In no case can we connect ourselves with the slogan of the nationalization of the land.

What path should be pursued by the Chinese revolutionaries in order to mobilize for the revolution the peasantry of China which numbers many millions?

I think that in present circumstances there are only three alternatives.

The first way is that of forming peasant committees and of introducing Chinese revolutionaries into them in order to influence the peasantry. (Interjection: "And the peasant leagues?") I believe that the peasant leagues will group themselves round the peasant committees or that the peasant leagues will turn into peasant committees possessing this or that competence which is necessary in order to carry through the demands of the peasants. This way has already been announced, but this way is not enough. It would be ridiculous to suppose that the number of revolutionaries is sufficient to carry this out. The population of China is roughly 400 millions. Of these 360 millions are Chinese, and more than nine-tenths of them are peasants. It is a great mistake to assume that a few tens of thousands of Chinese revolutionaries are enough to permeate this ocean of the peasantry. Well then, we must seek other ways.

The second way is that of influencing the peasantry through the apparatus of the new national revolutionary power. It cannot be doubted that in the newly liberated provinces a new power will arise after the pattern of the Canton government. It cannot be doubted that this power and the apparatus of this power will have to satisfy the most urgent demands of the peasantry, if it wishes to advance the revolution. The task of the Communists and of the revolutionaries in China altogether is to penetrate into the apparatus of this new power, to bring this apparatus nearer to the masses of peasants and to help the peasant masses to satisfy their most urgent demands by means of this apparatus, whether it be by expropriating the landowners of their land, or by reducing taxation and rents—whatever the circumstances demand.

The Peace of Versailles
—From Russian Paper

The third way is that of influencing the peasantry through the revolutionary army. I have already spoken of the extraordinary importance of the revolutionary army in the Chinese revolution. The revolutionary army of China is the force which first penetrates into the new provinces, which first becomes known amongst the bulk of the peasantry, and by which the peasant forms his opinion of the new power, of its good or bad qualities. The attitude of the peasantry towards the new power, towards the Kuomintang and towards the revolution in China as a whole, depends in the first place on the behavior of the revolutionary army, on its behavior towards the peasantry and towards the landowners, on its readiness to help the peasants. If we bear in mind that there are doubtful elements in plenty which have joined the revolutionary army in China, that these elements may alter the aspect of the army for the worse, we shall understand the great importance of the political aspect of the army and, so to speak, of its peasant policy in the eyes of the peasants. For this reason the Communists and the Chinese revolutionaries as a whole must take all possible measures to neutralize the elements in the army which are hostile to the peasants, to preserve the revolutionary spirit in the army and to direct things in such a way that the army helps the peasants and mobilizes them for the revolution. It is said that the revolutionary army in China is welcomed with open arms, but that later, after it has established itself, there is a certain disillusionment. The same thing happened with us in the Soviet Union during the civil war. This is explained by the fact that the army, when it has liberated new provinces and established itself in them, is compelled to maintain itself in some way or other at the expense of the population of the district. We Soviet revolutionaries, usually succeeded in making up for these disadvantages by endeavoring to help the peasants against the landowners by means of the army. It is essential that the Chinese revolutionaries should also learn to make up for these disadvantages by carrying out a correct peasant policy with the help of the army.

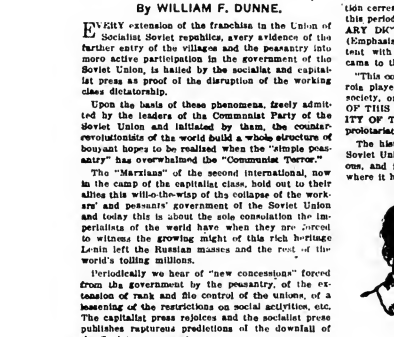
These are the methods and the points of contact through which it will be possible to carry out a correct peasant policy in China.

6. The Proletariat and the Hegemony of the Proletariat in China.

THE 6th remark concerns the question of the Chinese proletariat. It seems to me that in the theses sufficient emphasis has not been laid on the role of the Chinese working class and its importance. Comrade Rafes asks: Towards whom should the Chinese Communists orientate—towards the left or the center of the Kuomintang? A strange question. I believe that the Chinese Communists should orientate themselves according to the proletariat and to those who are active in the freedom movement in China and in the and according to the revolution. Only then will the question be put in the right way. I know that among the Chinese Communists there are comrades who do not approve of strikes of workers for improving their material and legal position, and who dissuade the workers from striking. (Interruption: That happened in Canton and Shanghai). This was a great mistake, comrades; it was a serious underestimate of the role and of the specific gravity of the proletariat in China. This should be recorded in the theses as a decidedly negative phenomenon. It would be a great mistake should the Chinese Communists not take advantage of the present favorable situation to help the workers to improve their material and legal position, even though it be through strikes. Why in all conscience, have we a revolution in China? A proletariat which allows its members to be beaten and tyrannized by agents of imperialism when they are on strike, cannot be a leader. This mediaeval abuse must be abolished so that the sense of power and the sense of its own dignity may be strengthened amongst the Chinese proletariat and that it may thus be made fit to hold the hegemony in the revolution. Unless this takes place, a victory of the revolution in China is not to be thought of. For this reason the economic and legal demands of the working class in China, which aim at a serious improvement of its situation, must be given the place they deserve in the theses. (Comrade Mif: they are spoken of in the theses). Yes indeed, they are spoken of in the theses, but unfortunately these demands are not sufficiently emphasized.

7. The Question of the Young People in China.

THE sixth remark concerns the question of the young people in China. Strange that this question is not considered in the theses. The question of the young people is at present of first-class importance. This question is, it is true, referred to in a part of Tan Ping Shan's report, but unfortunately it is not sufficiently emphasized. The question of the young people is at present of first-class importance in China. The young people at the universities (revolutionary students), the young workers, the young peasants—all of them form a force which might drive the revolution forward with giant strides, if the young people were brought under the ideological and political influence of the Kuomintang. It must be borne in mind that there are some who experience the oppression of imperialism so deeply and so vividly, some who feel so sharply and so painfully the necessity of fighting against oppression, as the young people in China. This circumstance should be taken into consideration in every respect by the Chinese Communist Party and the Chinese revolutionaries in order to bring about an intensification of work among the young people throughout the country. Youth must also have its place in the theses on the Chinese question.



The Lion Feels the Chinese Lash.

8. A Few Final Conclusions.

I SHOULD like to draw two final conclusions — with regard to the fight against imperialism in China, and with regard to the peasant question.

There can be no doubt that the Chinese Communists will new no longer confine themselves to demanding the abolition of the unequal treaties. Even a counter-revolutionary like Chan Szen Lyan now advocates this demand. It is obvious that the Chinese Communist Party must go further. It must make the question of the nationalization of the railways its aim. This is necessary, and things must be directed towards that end. A further aim must be that of the nationalization of the most important factories. This raises above all the question of the nationalization of those undertakings whose owners have distinguished themselves by special hostility and special aggressiveness towards the Chinese people.

Further, the peasant question must be promoted by combining it with the prospect of the revolution in China. In my opinion, the final aim of the whole matter must be the nationalization of the land.

Everything else is a matter of course.

To a Boss

This hatred for your class and kind
Is strange and terrible to me,
It never knows satiety,
And night or day nor lets me be,
This hatred for your class and kind
Is strange and terrible to me.

Against your own my strength would press
In anger burning me to dust,
Awakening such consuming lust
My wanton hands must grip you—must—
And break you, crush you, with the rest
Of anger burning me to dust.

O you so fat and sleek to view,
To whom all profits now accrue,
While slaves go hungry, gaunt and lean,
What does this burning hatred mean,
Unquenchable, within my breast,
Bidding you conquered, dispossessed?

Lenin's Greatest Legacy—The Soviet State

By WILLIAM F. DUNNE.

EVERY extension of the franchise in the Union of Socialist Soviet republics, every evidence of the further entry of the villages and the peasantry into more active participation in the government of the Soviet Union, is hailed by the socialist and capitalist press as proof of the disruption of the working class dictatorship.

Upon the basis of these phenomena, freely admitted by the leaders of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and initiated by them, the counter-revolutionists of the world build a superstructure of buoyant hopes to be realised when the "simple peasantry" has overwhelmed the "Communist Terror."

The "Marxians" of the second international, now in the camp of the capitalist class, hold out to their allies this will-o-the-wisp of the collapse of the workers' and peasants' government of the Soviet Union and today this is about the sole consolation the imperialists of the world have when they are forced to witness the growing might of this rich heritage Lenin left the Russian masses and the rest of the world's toiling millions.

Periodically we hear of "new concessions" forced from the government by the peasantry, of the extension of rank and file control of the unions, of a lessening of the restrictions on social activities, etc. The capitalist press rejoices and the socialist press publishes ruptureus predictions of the downfall of the Soviet government.

On the anniversary of the death of Nicolai Lenin, whose genius rescued the revolutionary teachings of Marx and Engels from the revisionists of the second international, and who charted unerringly the course the workers' and peasants' government of the Soviet Union is following, it is of interest to show, as Lenin showed at a time when the safety of the Russian revolution, meeting invading imperialist armies on all fronts, hung in the balance, that the so-called concessions to the peasantry in the form of increased electoral participation, the new activity of the villages in political and cultural life, the extension of democracy in the unions, etc., represents not a growing weakness but a growing strength of the revolution.

The second international abandoned the revolutionary struggle against the capitalist state, twisted and distorted the Marxian teaching concerning the role of the state. To them government became a permanent institution which, by an evolutionary process consisting of securing minor reforms from time to time, would take on a socialist character.

Having decided that the role of the socialist parties was to work within the capitalist government, their last thought was of destroying this instrument of oppression.

As Bucharin says in his "Lenin as a Marxist":

"If these Marxist 'epigones' took into account certain new changes in the domain of the capitalist order, of the intervention by the economic and politics, if they examine under their theoretical magnifying glass some new phenomena in the realm of current life, then they would on principle always take into consideration these new phenomena from one aspect, from the aspect of THE INCORPORATION OF THE WORKING CLASS ORGANIZATIONS INTO THE GENERAL SYSTEM OF CAPITALIST MECHANISM IN AN EVOLUTIONARY MANNER. (Emphasis in the original.)

"Ultimately," continues Bucharin, "the whole revolutionary substance of revolutionary Marxism began to melt away."

When the Bolsheviks took power in Russia, the social-democratic leaders failed to recognize that here was the most powerful living example of applied Marxism. They charged everything from anarchism and Blanquism to outright aid to capitalism against the Bolsheviks and today, when the working class of Russia, aided by the peasantry, has ruled for ten years under the leadership of the Communist Party, they still refuse to recognize this proletarian power as the concrete expression of the Marxian formula:

The state, that is, the proletariat organized as the ruling class.

Lenin, especially in his "The State and Revolution," in order to cover the "Marxists" who had prostituted Engels' sentence, "The state will not be abolished; it will wither away," on which the social-democracy had built almost entirely its whole theory of "peaceful, evolutionary progress towards socialism," but he also dismissed the anarchists to whom the sacred character of the capitalist state visualized by the socialists had been of great value in their antistate campaigns.

Lenin says in this great work:

"The first fact has been established with complete exactness by the whole theory of evolution, indeed, by the whole of science—a fact which the Utopians forgot, however, and which is now forgotten by the present opportunists, afraid of the socialist revolution—that is, historically, there must undoubtedly be a special stage or epoch of TRANSITION from capitalism to Communism. (Emphasis in the original.)

Then Lenin quotes Marx, whose teaching on this subject conveniently had been forgotten or hidden by the "evolutionary socialists"

"Between capitalist and Communist society, there lies a period of revolutionary transformation from the former to the latter. A state of political transition corresponds to this period, and the state during this period can be no other than the REVOLUTIONARY DICTATORSHIP OF THE PROLETARIAT." (Emphasis in the original.) But Lenin was not content with quoting Marx. He explains how Marx came to this conclusion:

"This conclusion Marx bases on an analysis of the role played by the proletariat in modern capitalist society, on the FACTS OF THE DEVELOPMENT OF THIS SOCIETY and on the IRRECONCILABILITY OF THE ANTAGONISTIC INTERESTS of the proletariat and capitalist class." (Emphasis mine.)

The history of the whole struggle in and of the Soviet Union, where the revolution has been victorious, and in Germany, Italy, Finland and Bulgaria, where it has so far been defeated, since Lenin best a re-birth of revolutionary Marxism, proves to the hilt the correctness of the conclusions of these twin giants of the class struggle.

Bucharin Stalin Rykoff

It is a dictatorship of the working class supported by the peasantry that rules in Russia—democracy for the masses, rule of the most rigid kind for the enemies of the workers.

It is for this reason that there is so much rejoicing in capitalist and socialist circles when alleged evidences of a weakening of the working class power are brought forward.

But we workers need pay attention to the mouthings of the workers' enemies only to laugh them to scorn. Lenin here too wrested revolutionary Marxism from the hands of its defilers and brought the Marxian teachings sharply to the attention of the conscious workers. He tore loose the deceptive veil with which the leaders of the second international had covered the Marxian theory of the state in the transition period, proved that only AFTER the working class headed by its revolutionary party has taken power does the state begin to "wither away."

Said Engels:

"The first act of the (proletarian) state, in which it really acts as the representative of the whole of society, namely the assumption of control over the means of production on behalf of society, is also its last independent act as a state. The interference of the authority of the state with social relations will then become superfluous in one field after another, and will finally cease of itself. The state will not be abolished; it will wither away."

But the withering away of the state does not take place while the revolution is still in combat with its class enemies—whether these be internal enemies—the remnants of the old ruling class—or external enemies in the shape of imperialist nations. In the Soviet Union the revolution has not yet been completed—it is in the transition stage and there is not full democracy for all members of society, but only for the working class.

Lenin says:

". . . . , in using the term 'withering away,' Engels quite clearly and definitely refers to the period AFTER 'the taking over of the means of production by the state on behalf of the whole of society,' that is, after the Social Revolution. We all know that the proletarian form of the state is an absolutely complete democracy. But it never enters the head of any of the opportunists who shamelessly distort Marx that Engels deal here with the withering away of the democracy. At first sight this seems very strange. But it will only be unintelligible to one who has not reflected on the fact that democracy is also a state and that consequently democracy will disappear when the state disappears. Only a revolution can 'destroy' the capitalist state. The state in general, that is, most complete democracy, can only wither away."

Is there alarm over the "withering away" even of democracy—the stubbornness of the capitalist class and its dupes? Does this seem to approach the wild dreams of the anarchists with their visions of the destruction of "the state" in one fell swoop and the inauguration of perfect freedom over night?

But Lenin was nothing if not clear. He comes back to what after all is the main point for workers at present—the role of the working class state in the transition period and says:

"Again, during the TRANSITION from capitalism to Communism, suppression is still necessary; but in this case it is the suppression of the minority of exploiters by the majority of exploited. A special instrument, a special machine for suppression—that is, the state—is necessary, but this is now a transitional state, no longer a state in the ordinary sense of the term. For the suppression of the minority . . . by those who were BUT YESTERDAY wage slaves, is a matter comparatively so easy, simple and natural, that IT WILL COST FAR LESS BLOOD SHED THAN THE SUPPRESSION OF THE RISINGS OF THE SLAVES, SERFS OR WAGE LABORERS, AND WILL COST THE HUMAN RACE FAR LESS. And it is compatible with THE DIFFUSION OF DEMOCRACY OVER SUCH AN OVERWHELMING MAJORITY OF THE NATION that the need for any SPECIAL MACHINERY will gradually cease to exist."

One has only to read the biased stories carried by the capitalist press about conditions in the Soviet Union to understand that there is less need for SPECIAL MACHINERY to suppress the capitalist class and its agents in Russia today, for instance, than there was when the workers, led by the Bolsheviks, took power in 1917. Arthur Darling, Yale University professor, writing in Current History for January on the economic report of the Soviet Union, says, for instance, that the burden of proof that progress is not being made in the Soviet Union will come be upon its enemies.

Multitudes of similar utterances could be given, but it is necessary only to point to the abolition of "war Communism"—compulsory labor—to prove that there is a far wider measure of individual liberty than there was during the more critical days of the working class dictatorship.

The meaning of the relaxation of restrictions is NOT that the proletarian power is weakening but that it is growing stronger day by day—that it has a broader base of mass support and that sections of the population which were neutral or hostile during the earlier period now support the proletarian power without qualification. The general tendency in the Soviet Union is towards a broader democracy which will in turn "wither away." Only in periods of emergency, such as an armed attack by the imperialist nations, will there be a temporary halt in this direction. Socialism is being built in the Soviet Union, not only in the narrow sense of the socialization of industry but in the cultural field as well and together with the extension of the administrative machinery of the proletarian power is creating the finest sense of social responsibility that the world has ever seen.

What the tendency towards the extension of democracy to the widest possible masses of the population, beginning with the workers, portends, was explained by Lenin:

"Finally, only under Communism will the state become quite unnecessary, for there will be NO ONE to suppress 'no one' in the sense of a CLASS, in the sense of a systematic struggle with a definite section of the population . . . . . we know that the fundamental social cause of excesses which violate the rules of social life is the exploitation of the masses, their want and poverty. With the removal of this chief cause, excesses will inevitably begin to 'wither away.' We do not know how quickly and in what stages, but we know that they will be withering away. With their withering away, the state will also wither away."

And how will this come about? Not by a miracle but by a working class free to carve out its destiny in making over a whole world:

"Only in Communist society, when the resistance of the capitalists has finally been broken, when the capitalists have disappeared, when there are no longer any classes (that is, when there is no difference between the members of society in respect of their social means of production), ONLY THEN does the state disappear AND ONE CAN SPEAK OF FREEDOM . . . . . freed from capitalist slavery, from the innumerable horrors, savagery, absurdities and infamies of capitalist exploitation, people will gradually BECOME ACCUSTOMED to the elementary rules of social life, known for centuries, repeated for thousands of years in sermons . . . . . without the SPECIAL APPARATUS for compulsion which is called the state."

The above passage, which read in its entirety is one of the most beautiful expressions in any language, should be memorized by every class conscious worker. It gives the goal, the final goal of the Communist revolution.

Far from seeing a weakening of the revolution in the extension of democracy in the Soviet Union, it is the best guarantee of the unshakable strength of the proletarian power and an assurance, if any is needed, that the Soviet Union, under the leadership of the Communist Party, is driving straight down the path charted for it by Lenin—the most skilful wielder of the weapon of revolutionary Marxism.

THE PROSPECTS OF THE REVOLUTION IN CHINA

By Joseph Stalin

(Speech Delivered in the Chinese Commission of the Enlarged E. C. C. I. on November 30, 1926.)

BEFORE I enter into the question, I consider it necessary to say that I have not had at my disposal exhaustive material on the Chinese question such as would be necessary to unfold a complete picture of the Chinese revolution. I am, therefore, compelled to confine myself to a few general remarks of a fundamental nature which are directly connected with the question as to the main trend of the Chinese revolution. The theses of Comrade Petrov, the theses of Comrade Mif, two reports of Comrade Tang Ping Shan and the remarks of Comrades Rafes on the Chinese question are in my possession. In spite of their excellence, all these documents have in my opinion, the great defect that they evade a number of the fundamental questions of the revolution in China. I think that our attention should be above all directed to these defects, and for this reason my remarks will at the same time be of a polemical character.

Joseph Stalin

1. The Character of the Revolution in China.

LENIN said that the Chinese would soon have their 1905. Some comrades took this as meaning that exactly what took place with us in Russia in 1905 would necessarily repeat itself in China. This is wrong. Lenin certainly did not say that the Chinese revolution would be a copy of the Russian revolution in 1905; he merely said that the Chinese would have their 1905. This means that, apart from the features which the Chinese revolution would have in common with the revolution in 1905, it would have its own specific peculiarities, which would stamp its special features on the whole revolution in China.

What are these peculiarities?

The first peculiarity is that the Chinese revolution as a bourgeois-democratic one is also a revolution for national freedom directed against the rule of foreign imperialism in China. This is the chief feature which distinguishes it from the revolution in Russia in 1905. The position is that the rule of imperialism in China expresses itself not only in military power but above all in that the imperialists have the power of disposal over the main threads of industry in China, the railways, the factories, the mines, the banks, etc. The result is that the questions of the struggle against foreign imperialism and its Chinese agents play a predominant part in the Chinese revolution. This is exactly what links the Chinese revolution directly with the revolutions of the proletarians of all countries against imperialism.

Another peculiarity of the Chinese revolution arises out of this peculiarity and that is that the national large bourgeoisie in China is extremely weak, much weaker than was the Russian bourgeoisie at the time of 1905. This is easy to understand. If the main threads of industry are gathered in the hands of foreign imperialists, the national large bourgeoisie of China cannot but be weak and backward. In this respect Comrade Mif is quite in the right when he remarks that the weakness of the national bourgeoisie in China is a characteristic symptom of the Chinese revolution. From this results that the part of initiator and guide of the Chinese revolution, the part of leader of the Chinese peasantry must inevitably get into the hands of the Chinese proletariat, which is better organized and more active than the Chinese bourgeoisie.

Neither should the third peculiarity of the Chinese revolution be overlooked; it is that, in addition to China, the Soviet Unions exists and is developing, the revolutionary experience and help of which cannot but facilitate the fight of the Chinese proletariat against imperialism and against the feudal-mediaeval remains in China.

These are the fundamental peculiarities of the Chinese revolution which determine its character and its trend.

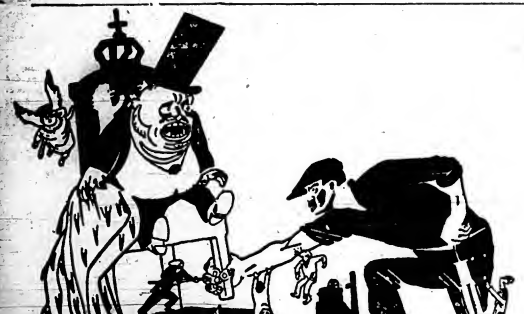
2. Imperialism and Imperialist Intervention in China.

THE first defect of the theses before us is that they avoid or underestimate the question of imperialist intervention in China. If we read the theses correctly, we might imagine that there is at present in China no actual imperialist intervention, that there is nothing but a struggle of the North against the South or of one group of generals against another group of generals. We are apt to understand under intervention a condition in which foreign troops march into Chinese territory and, if this does not take place, then there is no intervention. This is a serious error, comrades, intervention is by no means exhausted by the entry of troops, and the entry of troops is by no means an essential characteristic of intervention. In the present circumstances of the revolutionary movement in capitalist countries, where the direct entry of foreign troops might rouse a number of protests and stir up conflict, intervention has assumed a more elastic character and a more masked form. In the present circumstances, imperialism prefers to intervene against the revolution by organizing civil war within the dependent country, by financing the counter-revolutionary forces against the revolution, by moral and financial support of its Chinese agents. The imperialists tried to represent the fights of Denekin and Kolschak, Yudenitch and Wrangel against the revolution in Russia as an exclusively internal struggle. But we all knew, and not we alone but the whole world knew, that these counter-revolutionary generals were backed by the imperialists of England and America, France and Japan, without whose support a serious civil war would have been quite impossible in Russia. The same applies to China. The fight of Wu Pei-Fu and Sun Tchuang-Fang, Chang Tso Lin and Chang Tsun Chan against the revolution in China would be quite impossible were it not that the imperialists of all countries had inspired these counter-revolutionary generals and had supplied them with money, arms, instructors, "advisers," etc. How is the power of the Canton troops to be explained? By their having an ideal, a passionate enthusiasm, by their being inspired in their fight for liberation from imperialism, by their wanting to give China her freedom. How is the power of the counter-revolutionary generals to be explained? In that they are backed by the imperialists of all countries, the owners of all possible railways, concessions, factories, banks and business houses in China. For this reason it does not depend alone, it does not depend at all to any large extent, on whether foreign troops enter the country, but on the support given by the imperialists of all countries to the Chinese counter-revolution. Intervention by using other people—that is the kernel of imperialist intervention at present.

For these reasons imperialist intervention in China is an undoubted fact against which the point of the Chinese revolution is directed.

Anyone who eludes or undervalues imperialist intervention in China eludes or undervalues that which is most important and most essential.

It is said that the Japanese imperialists show a certain amount of "good-will" towards the Cantonese and towards the Chinese revolution as a whole. It is said that in this respect the American imperialists are far in no way behind the Japanese. This is self-deception, comrades. We must know how to discern the true nature of the policy of the imperialists, including the Japanese and American imperialists behind their mask. Lenin used to say that it was difficult to win over revolutionaries with a stick, with fists, but that at times it is very easy to win them by kindness. This truth, spoken by Lenin, should never be forgotten, comrades. In any case, it is clear that the Japano-American imperialists have pretty well understood the significance of this truth. For this reason we must make a definite distinction between friendliness and compliments addressed to the Canton people and the fact that the imperialists, who distribute their friendliness most liberally, cling most desperately to "their" concessions and railways in China, from which they do not wish to be "liberated" at any price.



Pulling the Seat From Under the Boss

3. The Revolutionary Army in China.

THE second mark in connection with the theses before us concerns the question of the revolutionary armies in China. The point is that the question of the army is evaded or undervalued in the theses. This is their second defect. The advance of the Pankuomin towards the North is generally regarded not as the growth of the Chinese revolution, but as a fight of the Canton generals against Wu Pei-Fu and Sun Chuan Fang, as a fight for supremacy of one group of generals against another group of generals. This is a great mistake, comrades. The revolutionary armies in China are the most important factor in the fight of the Chinese workers and peasants for their liberation. Is it then a mere coincidence that until May or June of this year the situation in China was regarded as the rule of the reaction which had set in after the defeat of Feng Yu Hsiang's army, but that in the summer of this year it was only necessary for the victorious Canton troops to advance northwards and occupy Hupe in order to change the picture fundamentally in favor of the revolution? No, it was not a coincidence; for the advance of the Canton troops meant a blow aimed at imperialism, a blow aimed at its agents in China, it meant the freedom of assembly, freedom to strike, freedom of the press, freedom of coalition for all the revolutionary elements in China in general and for the workers in particular. In this lies the peculiarity and the greatest importance of the revolutionary army in China.

In former times, in the 18th and 19th century, revolutions began in such a way that usually the people rose, for the greater part unarmed or badly armed, and encountered the army of the old regime. They made every effort to break up this army or at least to win it over as far as possible to their side. This was the typical form of the revolutionary explosions of the past. The same thing occurred with us in Russia in 1905. In China things developed on different lines. In China, it is not the unarmed people against the troops of their own government, but the armed people in the form of its revolutionary army. In China, armed revolution is fighting against armed counter-revolution. This is one of the peculiarities and one of the advantages of the Chinese revolution. This also explains the special significance of the revolutionary army in China.

It is therefore a reprehensible defect of the theses before us that they underestimate the revolutionary armies.

In consequence of this, however, the Chinese Communists ought to devote special attention to work in the army.

First of all the Chinese Communists must use every means in their power to intensify political work in the army and must succeed in making the army a real and model support of the ideas of the Chinese revolution. This is particularly necessary at the present moment because the Canton troops are being joined by all kinds of gen-rals who have nothing in common with the Kuomintang, who join it as a force which overthrows the enemies of the Chinese people and who, by joining the Canton troops, introduce disintegration into the army. It is only possible to neutralize such "allies" or to turn them into genuine adherents of the Kuomintang by intensifying the political work and by organizing revolutionary control over them. Unless this is done, the army may get into a most difficult position.

Secondly, the Chinese revolutionaries, including the Communists, must make a special study of things military, they must not regard military questions as something of secondary importance, for military questions in China are at present the most important factor in the Chinese revolution. The Communists, must, with this object in view, study militarism in order to advance gradually and to be able to occupy some leading post or other in the revolutionary army. This will guarantee that the revolutionary army of China will follow the right path, will keep its eye steadily fixed on its aim. Unless this is carried out, it is inevitable that there should be vacillations in the army.

These are the tasks which the Chinese Communist Party has to fulfill with regard to the question of the revolutionary army.

4. The Character of the Future Power in China.

THE third remark concerns the fact that, in the theses, the question as to the character of the future revolutionary power in China is hardly dealt with at all or altogether disregarded. Comrade Mif, to his credit, has closely approached this question in his thesis. But, when he was on the threshold of it, he failed to carry it out to the end, as though he had been frightened and did not dare to go further. Comrade Mif believes that the future revolutionary power in China will be a power of the revolutionary petty bourgeoisie under the leadership of the proletariat. What does this mean? At the time of the February revolution in 1917, the Mensheviki and social revolutionaries were also petty bourgeois parties and to a certain extent revolutionaries. Does this mean that the future revolutionary power in China will be a social revolutionary Menshevist power? No, it does not mean this. Why? Because the social-revolutionary Menshevist power was an imperialist power, while the future revolutionary power in China must be an anti-imperialist power. This is the fundamental difference. The MacDonald government was actually a "labor" power but it was at the same time imperialist, for it was based on the maintenance of England's imperialist power, for instance in India and Egypt. As compared with the MacDonald government, the future revolutionary power in China will have the advantage that it will be an anti-imperialist power. What is important is not the bourgeois-democratic character of the Canton government which forms the nucleus of the future pan-Chinese revolutionary power; the most important thing is that this power is an anti-imperialist power and can be nothing else, that every advance of this power is a blow aimed at world-imperialism and is therefore a stroke in favor of the revolutionary world movement. Lenin was right when he said that, if in former times, before the beginning of the epoch of the world revolution, national movements for freedom were part of the general democratic movement, now, after the victory of the Soviet revolution in Russia, and since the beginning of the epoch of world revolution, national movements for freedom are part of the proletarian world revolution.

This peculiarity was not taken into consideration by Comrade Mif.

I believe that the future revolutionary power in China will, in its character, resemble the power which was spoken of in our country in 1905, i. e., a dictatorship of the proletariat and the peasantry, but with the distinguishing feature that it will be predominantly an anti-imperialist power. It will be a power of transition to a non-capitalist, or, to be more exact, to a socialist development of China.

This is the direction in which the revolution in China is likely to develop. This path of development which the revolution will follow, will be facilitated by three circumstances; firstly in that the point of the revolution in China, as a national revolution for freedom will be directed against imperialism and its agents in China, secondly in that the large bourgeoisie in China is weak, weaker than the national bourgeoisie was in Russia in 1905, which facilitates the hegemony of the proletariat, the leadership of the proletarian party as against the Chinese peasantry; thirdly, in that the revolution in China will develop in circumstances which make it possible to make use of the experience and the aid of the victorious revolution in the Soviet Union.

Whether this method will with certainty lead to victory, depends on many circumstances. One thing is clear, that it is the chief duty of the Chinese Communists to fight to prepare the way for the development of the Chinese revolution.

From this we may conclude what is the chief task of the Chinese Communists in the question of their relations to the Kuomintang and to the future revolutionary power in China. It is said that the Chinese Communists ought to secede from the Kuomintang. This is pure folly, comrades. It would be the greatest mistake for the Chinese Communists to leave the Kuomintang. The whole course of the Chinese revolution, its character, its prospects, undoubtedly indicate that the Chinese Communists ought to remain in the Kuomintang and intensify their work in it. But can the Chinese Communist Party take part in the future revolutionary government? It not only can, it must. The course of the revolution in China, its character, its prospects, speak eloquently in favor of the Chinese Communist Party taking part in the future revolutionary government of China. This is one of the necessary guarantees for the hegemony of the Chinese proletariat becoming a concrete reality.

5. The Peasant Question in China.

THE fourth remark concerns the question of the peasantry in China. Comrade Mif believes that we ought at once to issue the slogan of the formation of soviets, of peasant soviets, in the open country. I believe that this is a mistake, Comrade Mif is in too great a hurry. It is out of the question to form soviets in the country and to leave out the industrial centers in China. The question of organizing soviets in the Chinese industrial centers however, has not yet been raised. Furthermore we must not forget that the soviets cannot be considered independently of their connection with the whole situation. It would only be possible to organize soviets, let us say peasant soviets, if China were passing through a period of a flourishing peasant movement which would break down the old power and create a new one, under the assumption that the industrial centers of China had already broken down the barrier and entered on the phase of forming a soviet power. Can it be said that the Chinese peasantry or the Chinese revolution as a whole has already entered on this phase? No, it cannot be said. It is therefore trying to suppose evolution to speak of soviets at the present time. At the present moment, we must not raise the question of soviets, but of the formation of peasant committees; I mean committees, elected by the peasants, which are capable of formulating the fundamental demands of the peasantry and of taking all the necessary measures for realizing these demands by revolutionary methods. These peasant committees should form the axis round which the revolution in the village can unfold.

Tan Yan Kai, Chairman of the Central Executive Committee of People's Government.

I know that there are people amongst the adherents of the Kuomintang and even among the Chinese Communists who do not consider it possible to let loose the revolution in the village lest the entitlement of the peasantry in the revolution should disrupt the united front against imperialism. This is the greatest error. The anti-imperialist front in China will be all the stronger and more powerful the more quickly and thoroughly the Chinese peasantry is persuaded to join in the revolution. The authors of the theses, especially Comrades Tan Ping Shan and Rafes are perfectly right when they maintain that the immediate satisfaction of a number of the most urgent demands of the peasantry is an essential preliminary for the victory of the Chinese revolution. In my opinion, it is high time to do away with the indifference and "neutrality" towards the peasantry which is noticeable in the activity of certain elements of the Kuomintang. I think that both the Communist Party of China and the Kuomintang, including the Canton government ought, without delay, to pass from words to deeds and immediately to raise the question of satisfying the most vital demands of the peasantry. # CHALLENGE TO IMPERIALISM GROWS

Sinister Tone of Capitalist Press Shows Need of Labor Aid for Mexico, Nicaragua

There is a sinister tone in the American capitalist press when it speaks of Mexico these days. Especially is it sinister for labor.

The same tone can be noted in the news and editorials dealing with China.

Off the coasts of both countries there are huge American war fleets. The general tenor of the press is the same as when America was intervening and favoring armed intervention by other powers in Russia. The burden of the tales dealing with Mexico and China is of disorder-uprisings and atrocities, a menace to foreign lives and property, and an obvious attempt to create the impression that civilization is in danger.

Such stories, generally the product of the crudest faking, invariably precede and follow organized attempts at conquest of weaker nations rich in raw materials and having a population which can be enslaved by the foreign investors and their governments.

The Chicago Tribune, one of the most vicious propagandist agencies against Mexico, heads its two column tale of uprisings and civil war in Mexico, in its issue for Jan. 14, with the following:

"Catholics Rise in 10 States to Oust Calles".—"Mexican Youth Rallies Army; Gets Cash in U. S.—Attack on American Consul Blocked.

Such sentences as these give an idea of the tone of The Tribune story:

"All over Mexico uprisings are spreading like a flame. By another month, it is forecast, Mexico will be in the throes of a general revolution—a religious war."

Calpistran Garza is named as the leader of the American financed reactionary movement. His program, as given in The Tribune, entitles him to the support of Wall Street and its state and war department. There is little doubt that he is getting this support. His program could not be improved upon for Wall Street purposes if written in the offices of the house of Morgan. Dispatches state:

He will, if successful, WIPE OUT ARTICLE 27, the famous article of the 1917 constitution which is THE BASIS FOR THE PRESENT CRITICAL OIL AND LAND LAW CONTROVERSY . . .

HE WILL ALSO KILL THE LABOR LAWS, under which, he contends, A LABOR TYRANNY has been set up in Mexico. (Emphasis Ours.)

Garza is heading a revolt in Mexico FOR THE PROGRAM OF WALL STREET.

Make the Lenin Memorial Meetings Demonstrations Against Imperialism!

Statement of the Central Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party of America

THE mass meetings which have been arranged by our party to honor the memory of the great leader of the proletarian revolution, Lenin, will be held this year at a moment when the American capitalists and their government at Washington are giving the workers and farmers a concrete example of the dangers of new wars with all their consequent sacrifice and suffering for the workers, which are the logical developments of this epoch of capitalist imperialism.

The invasion of Nicaragua, the threats against Mexico, the mobilization of naval forces in Chinese waters all show clearly that the government of the United States is the tool of the financial oligarchy which rules the country from Wall Street, and which carries on its imperialist exploitation in all parts of the world.

It was one of the great services of Lenin to the proletarian revolutionary movement that he pointed out to the workers that the development of capitalism leads inevitably to the sacrifice of the lives of the workers and farmers in the shambles of imperialist wars, into which they are sent to fight for the super-profits which the capitalists win thru imperialist exploitation.

It was also one of Lenin's great contributions to the principles which must guide the workers and farmers in their struggle to free themselves from the oppression and exploitation of the capitalists, that the peoples of countries exploited by the imperialist capitalist countries are the natural allies of the workers and farmers in their fight against capitalist imperialism at home.

There is no better way of honoring the memory of Lenin on the third anniversary of his death, than thru the application of the principles of Leninism in the crisis which American imperialism has created thru its imperialist adventures in relation to Nicaragua, Mexico and China.

The Lenin Memorial meetings must be made great mass demonstrations against American imperialism.

Make the central slogan of these meetings the building of a united front of the workers and farmers of the United States to carry on the struggle against American imperialism. Bring to the workers and farmers the message of Leninism, that they must carry on the fight against American imperialism in alliance with the people of Nicaragua, Mexico and China.

Withdraw the American naval forces from Nicaragua!

No intervention in Mexico!

Defend the people's revolution in China from American imperialism!

A united front of all workers and farmers against the threatening imperialist war!

Central Committee,
Workers (Communist) Party.
C. E. Ruthenberg,
General Secretary.

Labor Rallies in Memory of Lenin; Fights Dollar Rule

While workers in the United States prepare to commemorate, on Jan. 23, the third anniversary of the death of Lenin, whose works embody the struggle against all capitalist-imperialism—the fight against the further expansion of colonial and semi-colonial exploitation becomes intense in Latin America, China and Indonesia.

The rape of Nicaragua by Wall Street bankers relying upon the armed forces of the United States to do the dirty work and the menace to the Mexican people involved in the threat of invasion to guarantee American investments, has caused to flare up thruout the whole of Latin America demonstrations of the sharpest resentment against American imperialist aggression.

The gathering of American, British, French and Japanese warships in Shanghai and the Yangtze Valley is the best possible indication of the rapidly growing strength of the Chinese nationalist movement which has for its object the expulsion of the hated foreign exploitation and the building of a centralized people's government in China which demands not only the abolition of imperial treaties and the extra-territorial privileges of foreign powers, [illegible] in Java and Sumatra, the workers and peasants are in open revolt against their Dutch rulers.

"It is essential to continually expose," said Lenin, "the deception fostered among the masses of the toilers . . . all and especially in the backward countries, in creating, under the mask of political independence, various governmental and state institutions which are in reality completely dependent on them economically, financially and in a military sense."

Support Oppressed.

The victory over capitalism can not be fully achieved and carried to the ultimate goal unless the proletariat and the toiling masses of all nations of the world rally of their own accord in a consolidated and close embrace" this inspiring doctrine, written by Lenin, is the guiding principle of the Communists and has been the basis of the active assistance rendered by the Workers (Communist) Party and the DAILY WORKER to the labor movements of the oppressed [illegible] of China and Latin America who are the victims of imperialism.

NEW YORK Jan. 14 — One of the 11 textile strikers held in New Jersey jails on charges of "dynamite-up" charges is believed has gone temporarily insane, reports Hollace Ransdell, secretary of the defense committee formed by the American Civil Liberties Union and the International Labor Defense. The man is Paul Kosok, [illegible] three ribs broken in police beatings, says Miss Ransdell, and is now in need of medical attention and good food. His life can be saved if $15,000 can be raised for his bail, she declares. Kovac has a wife and three small children. ### ITALIAN FRONTIER AGAIN CENTER OF WAR ACTIVITY; FRANCE GROOMING TROOPS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NICE, France, Jan. 14.—France's best troops and much new equipment are being brot into this district, on the Italian-French frontier, as hostility between the two countries is continuing unabated.

French officials, reluctantly commenting on the movement of troops, have indicated that the preparations are merely to prevent "unofficial" raids on French territory by Italian fascists. They express fear that Italy is planning to make of Nice another Fiume, which was seized by Gabriel D'Annunzio.

Italian hatred for France is growing and many evidences of this are found on the boulevard.

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

JUST as we forecast a few days ago the most loud-mouthed of the senatorial thinkers against the Coolidge policy in Nicaragua have either shrugged their shoulders and declared that "now the thing is done we must make the best of it" or have threatened to deliver a speech on the subject and then let matters take their course. Senator Johnson, one of the men responsible for Tom Mooney's imprisonment, thundered against the government policy in Nicaragua, but now declares that American interests must be protected and since "we" are involved in a mess an American senator must be an American first. That was Johnson's stock-in-trade when seeking popular favor by attacking the league of nations.

Sometimes always happens to draw "Bill's" fire. No, "Bill" Borah is not the administration's "adviser." He, like the rest of them takes his instructions.

WILL a false alarm this man Borah is? What a political prostitute? On the question of Nicaragua and Mexico he is still convinced that the Coolidge policy is wrong but he will confine his opposition to a speech in the senate for the consumption of his Idaho constituents who have nothing to gain but something to lose by a war against Mexico and intervention in Nicaragua. As far as Borah is concerned the Idahoans are useful in providing him with the votes he needs to get into the senate but when in the senate his ear is to the east rather than to the west. His words are for Idaho, but his deeds are for Wall Street.

ORGANIZE COAL FIELDS, BROPHY URGES MINERS

Asks for Progressive Delegates on Jan. 25

CLEARFIELD, Jan. 14.—(FP)—Organize the non-union miners: work for nationalization of the mining industry; build a labor party. These are three parts of the program that every delegate to the Jan. 25 Indianapolis convention of the United Mine Workers of America should be instructed to support, says John Brophy in a public statement. Brophy, the president of the central Pennsylvania miners, was the opposition candidate for union president against John L. Lewis in the December elections.

Brophy warns of the peril to the union when the bituminous wage agreement expires next April. With 65 per cent of the tonnage coming from non-union territory, he says that the success of any strike will depend on the union's pulling out and organizing the fields now outside of the fold.

Temporary employment in the union fields should not dedouble the members of the U. M. W. of A., says the Pennsylvania leader. These "temporary jobs spring from the export demand caused by the British strike and the added flush of operations resulting from the stocking up of coal for the strike crisis.

Brophy's statement indicates that the fight for a more aggressive union program that he led during the campaign of last fall will be fought again, in a second round, at the coming Indianapolis convention. No official figures of the election have yet been given out from Indianapolis, the the administration forces claim re-election by a large majority. This is disputed by the opposition, which is calling for a tabulated local-by-local report.

Railroad Official Praises Soviet Rule Before St. Paul Club

ST. PAUL Jan. 14. — Speaking before the Transportation Club here, B. O. Johnson, assistant to the vice-president of the Northern Pacific railroad, declared that the government of Russia has "economic ideas which have proved effective and is destined to rise to greatness." He praised the order that he found in Russia while serving five years there and in Siberia as an army engineer.

The inherent courage of the people make Russia destined for greatness," he said.

McNary-Haugen Bill Approved by House Farming Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The McNary-Haugen farm relief bill has been reported favorably by the house committee on agriculture by a vote of 13 to 8. ## 'COLOSSUS OF NORTH,' OBJECT OF BIG PROTEST

Mexicans Demonstrate Against U. S. Threats

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 14.—The imperialist pronouncements in Coolidge's message to congress on Latin-American relations has caused a wave of protest thruout Mexico. Mexico City newspapers are charging that Coolidge is dominated by the "exploiters who have money invested in Mexico" and who are advocating invasion of the country; the national students' conference, meeting in Oaxaca City declared that the whole of Latin America is confronted by "the use of brute force and piracy directed by the plutocratic and imperialistic United States government"; and the workers of Guadalajara staged a protest demonstration before the United States consulate in that city against the "Colossus of the north."

People Behind Calles.

These are some of the indications of the popular resentment of the people of Mexico against the threatening tone of the United States with regard to the oil laws and Mexico's connection with the Nicaraguan liberals. There is no doubt but that the vast majority of the populace is solidly behind the Calles government. The catholic inspired revolts occurring in various places are, according to the government, of very small proportions and can easily be handled by state forces.

As proof of the fact that no revolutionary movement of any danger exists, government officials state that not a single officer in the army has endorsed the movement. In Mexico,

JOHN L. LEWIS BACKS MELLON GANG'S CHOICE

Supports Cyrus Woods for I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. — (FP) — Confirmation of Cyrus Woods of Pennsylvania, millionaire paymaster of the millions spent by the Mellon machine in the Pepper senatorial primary last spring, to be a member of the Interstate commerce commission, is backed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

This disclosure was made before the senate committee on interstate commerce, Jan. 11, when Sen. Dan Steck, democrat, and Senator-elect Brookhart, progressive republican, of Iowa, faced each other on the issue of Steck's charge that Brookhart was a "paid lobbyist" for Woods' confirmation. Steck had not made the direct charge; he made public a statement that it was "rumored that" Brookhart was so engaged. For a senator-elect to take money for any such action would subject him to expulsion, and Steck was summoned to make good his attack. He withdrew it, after some evasive answers to questions.

Lewis Supported.

Then a press dispatch and two telegrams from Iowa were read, showing that John L. Lewis of the U. M. W. of A. had urged Iowa labor men and their friends to endorse Woods. J. C. Lewis, president of the State Federation of Labor and a close friend of Brookhart, had taken action accordingly. He asserted that this was done without consulting Brookhart. The latter told the committee he had not endorsed Woods and had not been paid to work for any action of an kind in Washington.

Sen. Gaff of West Virginia declared that "Some of the most prominent coal operators of my state, in whose interest and behalf I have taken the stand I have in this matter, asked me to trace the source of these telegrams" which the Iowa labor leaders sent in support of Woods.

Lewis Backs Mellon.

John L. Lewis action is explained by the fact that Woods is a Mellon man, fighting the freight rate advantages, given them for to the West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia coal fields, which happen to be non-union. Coal from western Pennsylvania is mined, to a large extent, under union conditions. Lewis seeks to maintain the jobs of union coal diggers in Pennsylvania by helping Mellon to reduce the freight rate handicap of Pennsylvania as against West Virginia.

Sen. Wheeler of Montana, prohibitionist, is fighting Woods because he represents the Mellon crowd's attempt to increase the value of their properties—coal and railroad—through manipulation of the freight rates on the interstate commerce commission.

• • •

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. — Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, told President Coolidge that he "had the votes" to insure the confirmation of Cyrus E. Woods as interstate commerce commissioner.

"I have the votes on the floor," said Reed, "despite the adverse vote in committee."

Lenin Points Out Basic Meaning of Imperialism, Exploitation, War and Relations to Workers

The following extracts culled from the works of Lenin illuminate with the clarity that Lenin alone commands the basic questions of the meaning of imperialism, the relation of imperialism to colonial exploitation and oppression, to war, and to the working class and its movement. American workers faced with the task of fighting American imperialism, the most powerful in the world, should ponder well what Lenin says and should pass from these questions to a further study of Lenin's teachings the only reliable guide for the workers struggling to overcome imperialism and capitalism.

What Is Imperialism?

Imperialism is monopolist capitalism.

Imperialism is the rule of finance capital, the rule of the financial oligarchy.

Imperialism is a special stage in the development of capitalism. It has three peculiarities: Imperialism is (1) monopolist capitalism, (2) parasitic or stagnatic capitalism, and (3) dying capitalism.

*

Imperialism is capitalism in the phase of its development in which the domination of monopolies and finance capital has established itself; in which the export of capital has acquired very great importance; in which the division of the world among the great international trusts has begun; in which the partition of all the territories of the earth amongst the great capitalist powers has been completed.

Imperialism and Colonial Exploitation.

What do we have? A few of the richest and most privileged nations living like parasites off the rest of humanity, living like lords thru the exploitation of the Negro, the Hindu, etc., and holding these masses in subjection thru modern militarism.

The interests of finance capital (thru the export of capital) press on to the conquest of colonies, to the driving away of competitors, to strengthening of the necessary "connections." etc.

*

Spheres of investment for capital interest finance capital. Sources of raw material interest finance capital. But finance capital is also interested in new possible sources of raw material.

*

A handful of rich countries have developed colonial exploitation to gigantic dimensions. They receive millions and billions of super-profits, oppress millions and hundreds of millions of people in the colonial and "backward" countries, and struggle among themselves for a division and re-division of the rich spoils.

Imperialism demands the continual division and re-division of the "backward" countries among the big imperialist powers.

Imperialism and War.

War is no accident. It is no result of "sin" as the preachers and the liberals make out. It is an unavoidable stage in the development of capitalist militarism.

The development of capitalism, when it reaches the stage of imperialism, gives rise to imperialist wars.

*

War is no more than the continuation of the regular policy of imperialism thru special means.

Under imperialism there is no way of finally settling controversies over markets, investments, etc., except war.

Imperialism and the Working Class.

Imperialism has a tendency to create privileged sections among the workers and to detach them from the main proletarian masses.

The bourgeoisie of a capitalist power is able to win economically the upper sections of "its" working class thru scattering among them a few millions of the billions of super-profits it gets out of its imperialist exploitation.

The receipt of high monopoly profits by the capitalists (thru industry at home, thru exploitation of colonies, etc.) gives them the economic possibility of corrupting certain individual sections of the working class and especially its "leaders" and attracting them on the side of the capitalists and against the rest of the workers.

But for the masses of the workers—something else. The trusts, the financial oligarchy, the increase of prices, the intensification of exploitation, etc.—all of which makes possible the corruption of the upper layers of the workers—this means the ever greater oppression, torture, and the misery of the masses of the proletariat and the semi-proletariat.

CURRENT EVENTS

By T. J. O'Flaherty.

ivore a long speech against poisoned nooh and amuses himself and his udiences—he is a witty man—by poking fun at the mythical gentleman known as the "present czar's spokesman." It should not be forgotten by hose hopeful people who expect bou ecole senators and congressmen to make a fight against the threatened war on Mexico, that Senator Reed n so opposed a war with Germany, he voted for it when Wilson decided th time was ripe to step in in behalf o J. P. Morgan's loans.

• • •

THERE is not a peep out of the ex ecutive council of the American Federation of Labor on the question of intervention in Nicaragua and the danger of war with Mexico. As we have often stated the members of the executive council of the A. F. of L. and indeed the whole A. F. of L. bu reaucracy are part of the capitalist organism. They draw their sustenance from it. There is no more working class feeling in their systems than there is in the belly of a polecat. Their professed loyalty to trade unionism is a sham which enables them to fool the organized workers. They stand ready tomorrow to cut the throats of their Mexican fellow trade unionists if Wall Street gives the signal.

LAST week we expressed the opinion that there was a secret deal between England and the United States, the former agreeing to look benevolently on American intervention in Nicaragua in return for U. S. military assistance in China. The rush of American warships to China confirms this suspicion and Heber Blankenhorn in a London cable to Labor" declares that the newspaper organs of the Tory government are organizing Christian opinion in the course of Nicaragua and expressing the hope that American marines will soon be striking beside Britain's armed forces in China." Which may account for William Randolph Hearst's sudden love for the British Empire."

• • •

In view of the speed with which the capitalist powers are preparing for the next war we cannot think of a better way to waste money than to use it to any organization that hopes to preserve peace by tickling the souls of the imperialists with pacifist feathers. An imperialist is no more bloodthirsty in private life than a professional gunman on a holiday. But it is he has to slaughter 100,000 workers or natives of a subject country in order to protect his profit-mailing machinery he will do so without the slightest compunction, in the meantime singing pacifist lullabies that go along with all his heart for world peace but is convinced that the best guarantee of peace is to be prepared for war.

• • •

BUT there is always a hopeful class thanking around who has more money than common sense. Such a person is William Floyd who sold a portion of his property that was in his possession since the days of King James II and turned the proceeds over to the cause of "compulsory arbitration in case of war." The league of nations has been in existence for several years. Its maintainance has cost a lot of money, but so far it has not prevented any powerful nation from firing a shot. And note how Coolidge turned a deaf ear to Calles' suggestion that the matters in dispute between Mexico and the United States be referred to arbitration.

• • •

THE treaty recently negotiated between the United States and Panama, whereby the latter is forced to join the United States in case of war is subjected to severe criticism in Panama. The Panaman government, creature of Washington has prohibited all mass meetings in criticism of the treaty. Thus the blessings of American imperialism march southwards.

• • •

THE diplomatic nerves of the European governments are on edge. England is suffering from a bad attack of spy fever. Agents of the home office scrutinize every person landing at the channel ports. The movements of any foreigner in Great Britain are reported hourly to Scotland Yard. During the general strike hotel managers were put on the anxillary list by Scotland Yard and they were asked to report on any "suspicious" characters registered at their hotels. Italy is also jumpy. While a train was crossing the border into France recently, a passenger stood on the carriage steps. A fascist guard who suspected he was taking a too close look at the landscape, pulled the trigger of his rifle and sent a bullet crashing thru the train windows. Oh, yes, the little world ended war alright!

U. S. Airmen Bring the Threat of the Dollar to Latin American People

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

THE news dispatches from San Salvador, Republic of Salvador, late that the accredited United States "good-will" Pan-American flyers this morning (Jan. 13) hopped off for Amapala, Honduras, on the next leg of their 20,000-mile flight.

They come just 16 years after the armed forces of the United States government (in 1911), with the plunder of Santo Domingo as a precedent, first hoisted the stars and stripes of Wall Street over this Central American republic "on behalf of a banking syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co."

The quotation is from "Dollar Diplomacy" by Scott Nearing, while additional information on this subject can be secured by scanning Stuart, "Latin-America and the U. S.," p. 278 and C. S "Foreign Relations," 1911, p. 573 ff.

• • •

The "good will" mask worn by the American flyers hides the grinning skull of death to such liberties as still remain to the peoples of Latin-America.

Senator Borah, in his speech to the United States senate on Thursday, telling of American efforts to saddle the people of Nicaragua with a loan, stated:

"The American minister (this was in 1909) represented that the loan negotiations were in danger because the people opposed the plan. THE MINISTER ASKED FOR A WARSHIP."

• • •

Right now, when discontent rages thru Latin-America, as a result of the vicious aggressions against Nicaragua and Mexico, the United States sends a fleet of airplanes thru Mexico, Central and South America, not as a message of good will, but as a threat of the power of the Washington government that rules at the will of Wall Street.

• • •

Senator Borah states further, in regard to the pillaging of Nicaragua against the will of her people, that:

"We made the loan treaty, and we made the canal treaty WITH OURSELVES. We encamped upon the White House grounds of Nicaragua for 12 years. We will camp there for a hundred years unless we go back and secure the judgment of the Nicaraguan people.

"After the canal treaty was ratified, Costa Rica and Honduras, claiming that the treaty was in violation of a treaty which they had with Nicaragua, took the matter before the Central American court. The Central American court had been set up under the auspices of this government. AND THAT COURT, 4 TO 1, DECIDED AGAINST THE VALIDITY OF THE TREATY. WE (THE UNITED STATES) IGNORED THE DECISION."

It is to be hoped that there is some spirit in Honduras today courageous enough to flaunt in the faces of Wall Street's airmen the fraudulent "good will" offering they claim to bring, and to tell them to go back to their master in Washington and ask about the treaty that was torn to shreds like a "scrap of paper" and the court decision that was kicked out the window because it did not satisfy the desires and ambitions of American imperialism.

Honduras lies next to Nicaragua on the north. Amapala is on its western coast, looking out on the Pacific Ocean.

It was at the time of the invasion of Honduras by the Morgan banking syndicate that Secretary of State Knox, the Kellogg of that day, who had developed "dollar diplomacy" in China and Latin-America, summed up the assistance given by the Washington government to American investors as follows:

"During the course of a year it is many times necessary for the U. S. to send forces to the ports of some of the Central American republics in order to afford protection to foreign life and property. This is done at an enormous expense, on informal estimate from some of the naval officers showing that the annual cost to this government amounts to over $1,000,000."

But that cost is not borne by the international bankers, not at all. It is shouldered by American producers, the workers and farmers, who who must pay the bills incurred by the "big navy," the "big army" and now the "big air fleet."

The cost is also borne by the peoples of Honduras, in common with all other subjects within the borders of the Morgan empire.

In 1920 the American investment in Honduras was estimated by Inzells in his "Wealth and Income" p 56, at $18,000,000. This was a gain of $8,000,000 since 1916, fruitful war years in the fruit business. The major investments are the United Fruit Co. and the New York and Honduras Rosario Mining Co. The arrival of the American airships this week ought be made the occasion of the federation of a total investment of at least $40,000,000 at the present time, since the plantations and equipment alone of the United Fruit Co., in 1923, were valued at $24,252,276.

• • •

Business developed under the guns of American warships has been good in Honduras. That of the United Fruit Co., according to its own annual report, has grown as follows:

|---|---|
| 1909 | $ 45,628 |
| 1914 | 7,614,535 |
| 1919 | 9,983,288 |
| 1920 | 13,418,067 |
| 1921 | 16,323,299 |
| 1922 | 19,677,532 |
| 1923 | 24,252,275 |

There is something for Morgan's airmen, with the dollar sign emblazoned on the wings of their machines, to use in taunting the peoples of Honduras. In 1910 the sweated toil of Honduras was compelled to give only 45,000 American dollars invested in their midst. Now they must bend under the task of producing profits on upwards of 25,000,000 dollars invested. When they complain the answer is—MORE WARSHIPS! MORE MARINES!

• • •

That is the way of imperialism that rouses all peoples against it and thus achieves its own doom.

The American airmen, encircling South America, are not heralds of good will. Instead, to all oppressed peoples south of the Rio Grande, they bring the threat of the growing imperialist danger against which all should unite and struggle.

FORD TAX TRIAL BARES TALE OF HUGE PROFITS

Trial Linked with Ford-Newberry Contest

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 14.— Every $100 invested in the Ford company in 1903 "became" over $52,000 by 1913. This piece of startling "money magic" came out today in the proceedings of the "country's greatest tax suit" in which the federal government is attempting to collect some more taxes from some former stockholders in the Ford Motor company because of alleged irregular valuations.

"Money Magic."

Ford workers who worry over what happens to all they produce over and above their measly wages can find out by examining the information as to the financial history of the Ford company as brought out in this trial.

In the same "magic decade"—1903-1913—the Ford company paid out $25,000,000 in dividends and amassed $22,000,000 in property. Onward from 1913 the company "earned" 126 per cent on every dollar invested.

The case of Mrs. Hanes, the sister of Senator Couzens, illustrates very well how big fortunes are built up thru hard work and saving. In 1903 Mrs. Hanes lent $100 to her brother to invest in Fords. In the years that followed Mrs. Hanes received $47,000 in dividends, rather below the average. When the Ford Motor company was recapitalized in 1915 she received $2,000 in stock. She saw her $50,000 stock grow to $260,000 four years later and in the meantime her dividends reached $30,000. Thus the $100 "grew" to nearly a million!

"Irregular" Valuations.

All this information, which should provoke some thot in the Ford workers and in all other workers, was brot to light in a general statement on the history of the Ford concern read today by Joseph F. Davies, senior counsel for the stockholders. It appe ring round about 1919 Henry Ford decided to get rid of the minority stockholders who held about 41 per cent of the stock outstanding because they disagreed with his policy as to the disposition of the earnings of the company. Ford's threat to start a new company led to negotiations for the sale of the minority stock. The minority stockholders expressed themselves willing to sell out if they were sufficiently assured of their income tax liability. In order to obtain this valuation, A. G. Gregg, the general counsel of the treasury department says, Henry Ford made a special trip to Washington and saw Commissioner Roper who fixed the valuation at $8,400 a share by negotiations which Mr. Gregg asserts were "irregular." The tax audit department subsequently "discovered" the incorrectness and the irregularity of Commissioner Roper's valuation, and is now claiming $71,000,000 more in addition to the $29,000,000 already paid by the minority stockholders on the basis of the Roper valuation.

Political Implications.

Gossip as to the political implications of the trial is floating around in Detroit and Washington. Much of it has to do with a "memorandum" sent by an undisclosed outside party to the internal revenue bureau in 1922 relating to the sale of the Ford stock in 1919. It suggested the line of action the treasury department has taken. This "memorandum" dates back to the Ford-Newberry contest for the senatorship of Michigan in 1922. It was during this struggle and immediately after that the mysterious memorandum appeared in the treasury department. The question now arises, as Senator Couzens asked on the floor of the senate some time ago why this memorandum was held up between 1922 and 1925 when the treasury department suddenly discovered the old irregularity."

This trial has many lessons for the watchful worker who can dig out its economic and political implications.

Workers Picket the Lithuanian Legation

HERLIN, Jan. 14.— Hundreds of workers gathered before the Lithuanian legation this evening to demonstrate against the action of the fascist government of Lithuania in putting four Communists to death.

In order to avoid the police the workers approached the building on all sides in small groups. The police were soon called and a clash followed.

Pan-American Federation Will Meet in July

the same humorous gestures regarding Wall Street's imperialist invasion of the south that marked previous meetings.

Nicaraguan Demand at Last Session.

However, the most active section of the Pan-American Federation is the Mexican Regional Confederation of Labor headed by Morones, also a member of the Calles cabinet, while the Nicaraguan labor movement, behind the Sacasa liberals in rebellion against American interests is the second most active participant. At the last session of the federation, the Nicaraguan delegation demanded that the congress go on record against U. S. interference in Nicaragua.

"The problems of the working people of one country," says the call, "are identical with those of all countries with which their country has intercourse. Every problem of international relations has its human phase . . . The safety of liberties and democracy of the working people of every country of Pan-America depends upon the existence of an industrial organization among the workers and these relationships between those organizations. Slowly such relationships are being established between the P. A. F. of L. and the bona fide organized Pan-American workers thruout the continent.

Teach a Lesson.

"The higher representatives of big business of all Latin countries united with those of the United States are teaching a great lesson to the workers of the two America; they are showing how to develop a common policy of defense and international union in their industrial organizations, and taking constructive forethought in order to shape future events.

"The working peoples of the Pan-American countries would welcome such an opportunity to dispel the unjust judgments, created in the minds of fellow-workers all over the nations. Such a thought based upon bedrock economic and social human power would place the workers of the western hemisphere in a position to adhere to the P. A. F. of L. in maintaining peace and to demand and enforce the good will and their rights in matters affecting the welfare and progress of their own peoples and nations, from within and without."

After reciting the principles of mutual help upon which the federation was established, the call declares:

"Until a short time ago there had been no means of communication between the masses of the people of the American countries. The only relations existing were those established by the financial, commercial and industrial interests, and, as everyone knows, these interests are not always actuated by a desire to promote the welfare of the people. Those interests are actuated by three motives—profits, profits and more profits. In their mad rush for material aggrandizement they completely lose sight of the rights and interests of humanity.

"Since the financial, commercial and industrial interests of Pan-America are so closely allied and are every day extending their activities over a wider field opened up by the conditions created by the late war, it is all the more evident that the wage earners of Pan-America must unite for their own protection. In our present day the organization of wage earners on a purely national scale will not be adequate for the protection and promotion of their interests and for the attainment and realization of their hopes and aspirations."

BRITAIN MOVES TOWARD WAR ON THE KUOMINTANG

May Use Navy to Get Back Concessions

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 14.—Great Britain is massing an imposing naval force in Chinese waters and it is felt here that London has decided to resort to force to regain possession of the British concessions in Hankow and Kiukiang that were taken over by the nationalists following the shooting of Chinese by British troops.

Charge d'affeirs O'Malley, of the British legation, is now in Hankow conferring with Eugene Chen, Kuomintang foreign minister. It is understood he will demand the return of the concession. Failing this, it is the belief here that British warships will sail up the Yangtze to enforce the British demand.

Foreigners Arm.

The international council here that governs the affairs of the various foreign concessions is continuing to arm a large force in preparation for the occupation of Shanghai by the nationalist armies. They rely upon the foreign warships in the harbor that have been rushed here by the United States, Britain and Japan.

Resent U. S. Moves.

A statement issued by the nationalists at Hankow declares that the Kuomintang will give entire protection to all foreigners in cities under their control. Eugene Chen is understood to have stated that the nationalists take unkindly to the raversal of the American attitude, referring to the sending of a big naval force under Admiral Williams which just arrived in Shanghai to co-operate with Great Britain.

Nationalists Advance.

The nationalist armies under Gen. Cheng Kai Shek continue their steady advance into the Yangtze delta. Supporters of the Kuomintang in Shanghai say that the presence of foreign warships in the Yangtze in large force is giving comfort to the northerners under Sun Chuang Feng and that Great Britain will do everything possible to prevent the nationalists from occupying Shanghai.

Correspondent Views Glittering Trinkets of Czardom and Nails Fake Report of Big U. S. Purchase

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

MOSCOW, Jan. 14.—Soviet Russia boasts today that it is still the owner of the greatest collection of gems in the world, but it wishes that reports published in the United States that Americans had bought $250,000,000 worth of the Romanoff crown jewels were true.

"You see—we still have some left," said the Soviet custodian of the treasure as he laid the jewels—pounds of diamonds, rubies, pearls, emeralds and sapphires—before the International News Service correspondent, the sun slanting thru the window, seemingly setting ablaze each one of the 5,000 diamonds in the crown of Catherine the Great.

3,000 Carat Crown.

"This crown," commented the custodian in a professional manner, "weighs four pounds. There are 3,000 carats weight of diamonds in it alone, and the ruby there, about the size of a hen's egg, weighs a quarter of a pound. The crown is valued at $52,000,000."

One of six husky guards, who brot the treasure from the basement of the treasure house, shifted a window shade and another beam of sunlight shot across the table, struck the 300-carat sapphire atop the "globe of the realm" and split it into a thousand rays of intense blue light.

$24,000,000 Globe.

"You think that sapphire is pretty good?" inquired the custodian. "Well it is, and that circlet of diamonds helps make the value of the 'globe of the realm' about $24,000,000. Some American papers reported it on its way to America. Not yet. But just look at this." He picked up an immense unset sapphire and twirled it in the sunlight. It scattered blue flame.

"This is the largest sapphire in the world, and its quality is unrivalled," the custodian remarked. "Weighs 353 carats, worth about $11,000,000. Nicholas used to love to toss it in a sunbeam." He tossed it himself, just a trifle, and with his other hand picked up a cubical, clear stone, looking in the shadow a bit like quartz.

Shah Diamond.

"The shah diamond," he announced. "It weighs 86 carats and is worth about $15,000,000. It used to hang by a string on the peacock throne of the Persian shah, and tradition had it that the man who dared to cut the string would die on the spot. But in 1829 when a Russian ambassador was killed in Persia, the shah heard that the Russian troops were mobilizing. He cut the string that held the diamond, wrapped it in a silk handkerchief and sent it top speed to the czar. Yes, the czar called off his army.

"Speaking of trinkets.

This was the prize present of history." He grasped the handle of a scepter, and, swinging it into the sunlight, let the light refract on the depths and surfaces of the Orlov diamond, embeded in its head.

No Sale Yet.

"They also said we had sold this to America. Not yet. But you can have it for $25,000,000. Prince Orlov fell out of favor with Catherine the Great about 150 years ago. She gave a birthday party and everybody gave her magnificent gifts. Prince Orlov came last and handed her a little package. She was angry when she saw its size, but changed her mind when she opened it. This diamond weighs 196 carats, one of the finest in the world. What? Certainly Prince Orlov was restored to favor with Catherine the Great. Now if you would win the favor of a lady, here is a Venetian bracelet. See this fine diamond with a polished surface of seven and one half square centimetres? A perfect mirror! It's yours for only $750,000."

Nicky's Toys.

The correspondent glanced down the long table. "Toys," said the custodian. "Toys of the czars. A golden model of a trans-Siberian express train, with a platioum engine—twenty diamond Easter eggs—a tiny golden carriage with a 30 carat diamond swinging from the roof.

"This was Nicholas' toy when he was a kid—a golden rattle set with diamonds. See this whistle in ivory shaves.

"Look at this." he touched a green gold Easter egg. Its top flew open and out popped a little bird about the size of a peanut, flapped its wings and piped a tune. He wound a tiny handle on a golden peacock and the bird strutted three steps then spread its tail, shimmering in the sunshine.

Only $250,000 Sold.

"You see we have a good deal left in stock. You know that last sale of ours was only $250,000, which was but a tiny part of what we have to sell.

New York 'Plates' to Miss Chicken at Dinner While Teamsters Are on Strike

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(FP)—New Yorkers may be so stuffed with holiday poultry that the acute shortage occasioned by a strike of poultry handlers does not spoil their dinners. On the other hand, the strike of the 700 members of local 167, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, is stopping the supply of chicken and other poultry to metropolitan retailers, peddlers, receivers, poultry wholesalers and dealers within a radius of 50 miles around New York are affected.

Want Better Pay.

Demands of the workers are for an increase in pay of $10 per week over the present $40 scale; $1.50 an hour for overtime, $2 for holidays. Complaints of strikers center even more on the irregular hours they are compelled to work. The men say that the poultry business, also an industry running into over fifty millions turnover per year, is poorly organized. Shipment come at all hours and the workers must be on hand early and late to unload and transfer the poultry.

Use Strikebreakers.

Employers of the striking poultry handlers are trying to use strikebreakers under strong police escort. Strikers have the backing of inside workers in the poultry houses and expect to keep a complete tie-up of the big markets.

BELGIAN SOCIALISTS AND BRITISH TORIES UNITE ON POLICY TOWARDS CHINA

BRUSSELS. — Belgian socialism and British toryism seem to have identical views on the policy towards China, according to the statements of M. Vandervelde, socialist leadar, in the Belgian parliament. The British government's secret memorandum on China came up for consideration and M. Vandervelde made the official statement on it. After strongly commanding it he continued: "I regret to say that I cannot at present inform you of its contents, but after having perused it I may say that the principles it sets out, the policy which it proposes, the immediate measures which it suggests bear witness to a breadth of view and to a conciliatory desire to meet the aspirations of the Chinese people which cannot be too greatly esteemed.

This is astonishing news to the tens of thousands of British workers who are protesting against Britain's imperialist attacks upon the Chinese people and are rallying under the slogan: "Hands off China!" The workers are beginning to see that the "Socialists" and the bitter reactionary conservatives are always units in the pursuance of an imperialist policy end in organizing and agitating for an attack on the Soviet Union.

SHANGHAI LABOR AND MERCHANTS FIGHT WAR LORD

People Unite Against Sun; Cantonese Near

Special release by Kuomintang Press Service.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 13.—(By Mail.)—The representatives of the various labor, merchant and social organizations in Shanghai held a meeting in place of a mass meeting of citizens, and passed the following resolutions:

1. Until the new municipality of Shanghai is formed, the payment of taxes shall be stopped.

2. The organization of the citizens of Shanghai for forming a special municipality shall make necessary preparations thereof.

3. Opposition shall be shown to the southward advance of the Fangtien-Shantung (northern) army.

Commerce Body Acts.

The general chamber of commerce of Shanghai held an urgent meeting for the discussion of measures for coping with the situation. At the meeting the following resolutions were adopted:

1. That the general chamber of commerce shall join in the autonomous movement.

2. That opposition shall be made against the dispatch of Shantung troops to Shanghai.

3. That Shanghai shall be made a special autonomous municipal district.

4. That opposition shall be made against the issuance of military notes at Shanghai by any military unit.

5. That unreserved support shall be given to the general labor union, which was recently suppressed for a third time by the police authorities.

Sun's Star Wanes.

With the expansion of influence of the Southern army, the star of Marshal Sun Chuanfang is waning by degrees. A fierce struggle is proceeding in Shanghai between the officials appointed by Marshal Sun, who is going down hill, and the masses who are trying to gain power by taking advantage of the situation.

The people of the big commercial city are against the Shantung-Mukden expedition to the Yangtze. Police and military authorities in Shanghai are becoming very vigilant as a result of the public statement, and are doing all in their power to restrain it, it is said.

On December 8, headquarters of the General Trade Union Council were raided. Officials of the organization are broke into the offices and removed documents and any evidence which might reveal its membership, it is reported.

FARM RELIEF UP FOR DEBATE IN CONGRESS SOON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Farm relief forces began today to wind up the preliminaries of their drive for legislation, with prospects that the battle will be joined on the entire congressional front within two weeks.

Despite their inability to reach an agreement with the administration on to end all differences in three-way conkin farm bloc leaders expressed hope that an imposing farm aid bill may be passed before congress folds its tent and goes home on March 4.

The house edition of the McNary-Haugen bill, modified slightly to meet the demands of Rep. Haugen (R) chairman of the agriculture committee, will be given the right-of-way by that body. Consideration of the bill is scheduled for tomorrow, with a strong probability that a vote will be reached within a few days.

Senator McNary (R) of Oregon, announced that the senate agriculture committee of which he is chairman will begin hearings on his own bill late in the week.

Under the present plans of farm relief leaders, the fight for legislation will be conducted in both houses of congress at the same time.

Equalization Fee Stumbling Block.

The entire present fight, it is generally admitted, hinges upon the application of an equalization fee to make losses which would be incurred in the sale of products abroad at lower prices than are paid by American consumers. Southern senators and congressmen have shown no disposition to yield to insistence that this fee be applied to cotton, as well as to wheat, corn and hogs.

Meanwhile Senator Curtis (R) of Kansas and Rep. Crisp (D) of Georgia, began pushing their compromise measure, which is reported to have the partial endorsement of the administration.

This measure is claimed by its sponsors to be a composite production, embracing many features of the McNary-Haugen, Fess-Tincher, Aswell and Drummond bills and to include some of the ideas promulgated by ex-Governor Lowden of Illinois.

The house committee prepared also to hear officers of the national grange expound their debenture plan for meeting losses on export products sold at the world level of prices, while senator-elect Brookhart (R) of Iowa will push his own plan before the senate committee.

DIAZ CATCHES COOLIDGE IN A LIE

THE U. S. state department has not been functioning with its customary smoothness with regard to the constitutional law of Latin republics as evidenced by the sharp discrepancy between the explanation of President Coolidge and that of the Nicaraguan brother and servant, President Diaz, touching on the legality of the latter's regime.

Coolidge's message to congress on the Nicaraguan question said that the Nicaraguan congress was within its constitutional rights in choosing Diaz as president because the elected incumbant, Solozorno, was residing in California after having resigned office, while Dr. Sacasa, his vice-president, "was in Guatemala."

Diaz, on the other hand, in his last news release (like all his others written by an agent of the U. S. state department) claims that Sacasa was denied his rights of succession because in the judgment of the congress (packed for Diaz) he had forfeited his office by seeking aid from a foreign government "to make revolution against the government." (One might ask here, what government? Sacasa was the rightful president by succession from the moment Solozorno resigned.)

The two statements follow:

Coolidge

The Nicaraguan constitution provides in article 106 that in the absence of the president and vice-president the congress shall designate one of its members to complete the unexpired term of president. As President Solorsomo had resigned and was then residing in California, and as the vice-president, Doctor Sacasa, was in Guatemala, having been out of the country since November, 1925, the action of congress in designating Senor Diaz was perfectly legal and in accordance with the constitution. Therefore the United States government on November 17 extended recognition to Senor Diaz.

Diaz

The liberals saw no solution possible and acceptable other than that of the installation of Dr. Sacasa. The conservatives solved the problem satisfactory by means of the thoroly constitutional procedure of having congress designate one of its members, hyself, to be president for the remainder of the constitutional term of Senor Solorzano, who had resigned, and Dr. Sacasa, who had, in the judgment of the national congress, empowered to impeach public officials, forfeited his rights by reason of his action in seeking foreign armed aid to make revolution against the government.

BOTH WRONG.

At the same time Sacasa and his Washington representative, Dr. Vaca, declare that the constitution of Nicaragua makes no provision for the congress to choose the president under any circumstances while the president and vice-president are alive and one of them prepared to take the chief executiveship.

Kellogg simply slipped up in not co-ordinating Diaz's statement with Coolidge's.

There is, of course, also the general question of the right of the United States to interpret constitutional law for the Nicaraguans. But, since Admiral Latimar's navy squadron controls the country anyway, it is futile to ask about Nicaraguan rights.

WITH THE YOUNG WORKERS

CONDUCTED BY THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

Liebknecht Memorial Day—And Why

Karl Liebknecht was the champion of the working youth in every country of the world. When the world war of the bankers and business men came Liebknecht was one of the very few who opposed it. He called to the workers of the world to put an end to this war of the capitalists. He urged the working class to strike at its enemy by fighting for a workers' government. His voice inspired the millions who were being sent to the slaughter for the benefit of the money-lords.

Is Assassinated.

Because of his courageous fight against capitalist militarism which murders young workers for the profits of the bosses, the German capitalists assassinated him. He was brutally murdered with the aid and incitement of the socialists of Germany.

Not Forgotten.

But the young workers of the world, whose champion Liebknecht was, have not forgotten him and his work. He was one of the founders of the fighting working class youth movement. Every year the young workers gather to pay tribute to the memory of the noble fighter and leader. They assemble in every country of the world to pledge themselves to the continuation of the work he began.

Liebknecht Memorial Day is the day of the young workers. Liebknecht belongs to those who are the worst exploited, the working youth. They must carry on his work.

The Answer to New Wars.

New wars are coming. Into which the young workers will be expected to go and die for Wall Street. Whether it be in Mexico or China, in Nicaragua or Europe, the young workers must answer with one voice:

"We fight only for the interests of the working class to which we belong."

Show your solidarity against war and militarism! Join the working youth on International Liebknecht Day! Come to the Chicago Karl Liebknecht meeting on Sunday, Jan. 16 at 8 p. m., Northwest Hall, corner North Ave. and Western. Max Bedacht, John Williamson and H. Zam are the principal speakers. Pioneers and musical program. Admission 15 cents.

Pioneers Answer Boy Scouts' Dough Drive

On Feb. 1st the Boy Scouts' organization in Chicago will appeal to the boss interests that support it to come across with $200,000 to finance their work for the present year. The press publicity states that the work of the Boy Scouts consists of "training young men and boys in kindness and service and of building good citizenship for the future." Minnie Luyrie, district director of the Young Pioneers Movement points out that the Boy Scout drive will make no headway among large sections of the workers' children. "When they speak about training for service," said Comrade Luyrie, "they mean service for the boss class thru military training and preaching obedience to the capitalists. Under the slogan of "good citizenship" the big business heads running the scouts tell them that all strikers are foreign agitators subsidized by Moscow."

Simultaneously with the scout drive the Young Pioneers will carry on a drive to increase its membership and secure subs for the Young Comrade. Th' Douglas Park Parents' Organization of the Young Pioneers is at present carrying on a drive for $1,000 to build a Pioneers' Club House in Chicago. "In the schools where we have Pioneer Groups," said Comrade Luyrie, "we will carry on an agitation against the misleading drive of the Boy Scouts."

Imperialist War Clouds Gather in the Far East

There are evidences of a new policy towards the Chinese national liberation movement on the part of the United States of which American workers and farmers should take note.

These evidences consist not only in the assembling of a huge American war fleet in Chinese waters, but of developments indicating at least a temporary agreement between Great Britain, Japan and America to prevent the capture of Shanghai by the people's armies and the consolidation of Kiangsu province, in which it is located, under the people's government.

The largest port in China, and the third largest in the world, the great bulk of customs receipts for all China are collected in Shanghai. The possession of this port would greatly increase the financial resources of the people's government and at the same time deprive Sun Chuang-fang and Chang Tso-lin, imperialist tools, of a great source of revenue.

It can be said without exaggeration that the capture of Shanghai and the extension of the people's government to Kiangsu and adjoining provinces which, with the exception of Shantung, would be the natural and immediate result, will be the end of imperialist and militarist rule in three-fifths of China. In the north, with the exception of Manchuria proper, now under Japanese control, this would leave only Shangtung and Chili provinces to Chang Tso-lin and his imperialist and militarist allies.

The imperialists, confronted with the reality of losing all control of the port of Shanghai and consequently of the whole rich valley of the Yangtze river, are casting discretion to the winds. A dispatch from London under date of Jan. 13 says:

England immediately will adopt whatever measures are necessary to protect the interests of British citizens in Shanghai and Honkou, and it is understood at the foreign office that the UNITED STATES WILL ACT IN ACCORD.

Reversal of the pacific policy followed a conference between Prime Minister Baldwin and Sir Austen Chamberlain at the foreign office. . . . . It is said here that the plan will be left to the British and AMERICAN authorities in the vicinity of Shanghai. . . . . Co-operation BY THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT IS UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE BEEN ASSURED. (Emphasis ours.)

Only such a concentration of foreign naval and military forces as is now taking place in and around Shanghai can prevent its speedy capture by the people's armies. The Chinese population, especially the workers, are already preparing to welcome the people's armies. If the great powers try by force to wrest victory from the people's government the bloodiest fighting yet seen in China will take place.

It is not only for the sake of the Chinese national liberation movement as such, and because of its tremendous importance to the struggle of the masses the world over, but because of the danger of a world war arising out of the rival ambitions of Great Britain, Japan and America in the Far East, that the American masses should insist on the withdrawal of all armed forces from Chinese waters and territory. The struggle for the trade and the remaining territory of China outside of the domain of the people's government has been made sharper by its recent victories.

It is only that for the moment these rivalries are dwarfed by the GENERAL danger to imperialism that the imperialist powers are enabled to unite to keep Shanghai in their hands. (It is an international settlement altho British interests predominate.)

War can come in the Pacific area without further warning and catch us unprepared just as the threat of war against Mexico contained in the invasion of Nicaragua has found the labor movement unprepared to resist it.

It needs only an "incident," similar to the Sarajevo affair which preceded the world war, to set the whole East aflame and involve all the great powers.

The slogan of "Hands Off China!" must be joined to that of "Hands Off Mexico and Nicaragua" and be raised in every section of the American labor movement.

Jingo Press Shows Sinister Tone

lidge and Kellogg, is becoming clearer day by day. The protests in congress and the senate have not stopped its progress one inch.

This policy is to threaten Mexico, to invade her sovereignty by refusal to recognize Mexican law, to arouse public sentiment against her thru lying stories in the American press; to encourage internal strife by the activity of such open agents of reaction as Garza, to utilize the catholic church to the utmost, to cry "Bolshevism" when caught red-handed plotting war on the Mexican people and, if all these measures fail, to withdraw recognition, blockade Mexican ports with the huge war fleet now assembled in southern waters, recognize some such black reactionary as Garza and if necessary invade Mexico to install him as president.

How the official spokesmen of the American Federation of Labor can remain silent in the face of such an obvious conspiracy against the Mexican and American labor movements will be a mystery to many. The call for the convention of the Pan-American Federation of Labor, with President Green and Vice-President Woll endorsing it, has been sent out.

It contains not one word relative to present grave crisis with its menace of Wall Street war, the date for the convention is the eighteenth of next July.

Surely, if a special convention of this body was ever needed it is now. Such a gathering, adopting unanimously a protest against the bludgeoning of Nicaragua and Mexico, and calling upon the labor movements of all countries involved to oppose it, would do more than all the speeches in Washington to halt Wall Street aggression.

When the leader of the reactionary opposition in Mexico announces openly that he will abolish the labor laws of the republic and give imperialists a free hand to dispose of the natural resources as they see fit, it is a challenge to every worker and farmer on the North and South American continents.

Labor officials who remain silent now, in the face of proof that silence aids the blackest reaction, are equally guilty with Coolidge and Kellogg and the Wall Street financiers, in a conspiracy against the masses of North and South America.

Every local union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor should demand an open statement in support of the Mexican and Nicaraguan labor movements and against Wall Street aggression by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor now in session in St. Petersburg, Florida.

As part of the labor movement every local union should also send their most emphatic protest to congressmen, senators and President Coolidge.

Let the Wall Street rulers know that American labor is not fooled by its attempt to identify its program of conquest with the interests of the American masses and that labor will not be gagged.

O'L A NEW NOVEL Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair.)

Eli possessed a sense of drama, and turned it loose in the devising of primitive little tableaux and pageants, which gave rapture to his simple minded followers. When he told how he had been tempted of the devil, the wicked One came up on the scene, leaped, horns and tail, and with a red spotlight on him; when Eli lifted up the cross on high, the devil would fall and strike his forehead on the ground, and the silver trumpets would peal and the followers would burst into loud hosannahs. Or perhaps it would be the command, "Suffer little children to come unto me"; there would be hundreds of children, all robed in white, and when Eli lifted his shepherd's crook and called, they came storming to the platform, their fresh young voices shrieking, "Praise the Lord!" And of course, there was the regular suppers' bench, and the baptisms in the Yoga River tank. You were never allowed to forget that you had a soul, and that it was of supreme importance to you and to Jesus, and that you were having it saved by Eli's aid. You were always being called upon to do something to stand up for the Lord, or to raise your hands for salvation, or to raise your right hand if you were a newcomer to the tabernacle.

But the great attraction Eli had over the other preachers was the lure of bodily healing. He had developed out on the edge of Paradise Newspaper Row to such an electrify ing score and never one that could keep a secret. Day after day, Sunday in and out, and twice-of-evening, after-noon-evening, there were workshops of sufferers, every prayer meetings and Bible schools and services of song and healing blessings and baptismal ceremonials and what not. And all day Saturday and all day Sunday the aisles were filled with the halt and the blind—with folks dolled up in their finest clothes, and folks in their rags and tatters, with folks who had come on foot, and folks who had come in motor cars and limousines and private coaches. And the whole north side population of America had passed over the river radio, and everybody who had to get a set. The first week in the trade of this new center in Angel City was to open a new three million dollar house for the old home of the very rich, and the ceremonies were held inside, and the newspapers were full of the wonder of it, but it proved to be dreadful, because everybody in the hotel got drunk and the manager had the illumination placed in front of the skyscraper and poured out a stream of obscenities such as farmers' wives from Iowa had never dreamed in all their lives. So it was felt that the new location is needed to be beautiful and redeemed, and Eli proceeded to install one of the biggest organs ever put in a broadcasting studio. There the Lord's mercy, His words were heard over four million square miles, and it was to be possible to preach to audiences of that size, praise Jesus!

'FIGHT AMERICAN IMPERIALISM!' SLOGAN OF BIG LENIN MEMORIAL MEETINGS THRUOUT THE COUNTRY

THE struggle against the imperialist attacks of the United States government upon the peoples of Mexico, Nicaragua and China at the behest of the Wall Street banks will be the keynote of the series of Lenin memorial meetings organized by the Workers (Communist) Party in the most important cities of the country. Tens of thousands of workers will meet towards the end of January to pay honor to the great leader of the world proletariat and to demonstrate their determination to follow in the way of Lenin and to accomplish the tasks he indicated in overthrowing the most powerful capitalist class in the world.

The lessons Lenin has taught as to the meaning of imperialism and the ways of fighting it will be told to the American workers at these meetings and the special role of American imperialism and its latest developments will be particularly stressed. "What has Leninism to say to the American workers at this critical period?" This will be the great question that the speakers at the Lenin memorial meetings will answer.

The American workers and farmers are facing a gigantic responsibility in face of the pre-eminence of American imperialism on the world political stage. This responsibility can only be met by a clear and militant line of policy—a policy of Leninism. It is the duty of all workers in America who do not want to fall their class at the critical moment and become unconscious tools of their bosses to acquaint themselves with this program and to demonstrate their readiness to fight for it. It is their duty to come to the Lenin memorial demonstrations and show their readiness to take up the flag of Lenin and continue his work for the emancipation of toiling masses the world over.

Lenin memorial meetings have been arranged in the following cities. Speakers and halls are indicated wherever possible:

'FLIMSY PIECE OF PROPAGANDA,' —LA FOLLETTE

Sacasa Also Answers Kellogg Scare

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The bolshevist memorandum issued by Secretary of State Kellogg following his appearance before the senate foreign relations committee was a "flimsy piece of propaganda," designed to influence American newspapers into believing that Mexico was dominated by Russia, Senator LaFollette (R) of Wisconsin, declared today in the senate.

"There is not one scintilla of evidence in his statement indicating a red plot between Mexico City and Moscow," said LaFollette.

Demands Further Sifting.

He demanded the senate foreign relations committee investigate charges raised by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that the state department previously attempted to influence the American news services to carry this "propaganda" on their wires.

Sacasa Answers.

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, Jan. 14.—Coming in his own defense, Dr. Juan Sacasa, leader of the Nicaraguan liberals, today declared in a statement to the International News Service that charges raised by the United States government of bolshevism and a menace to American canal rights in Nicaragua are but a pretext.

Dr. Sacasa states the United States has recognized the Diaz government, "which is undeniably the successor of the Chamorro government which the United States refused to recognize," and has resolved "upon intervention to sustain Diaz by force against the Nicaraguan people, thus repeating the case of 1912."

• • •

Rote Fahne Hits Kellogg.

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—The Communist newspaper Die Rote Fahne, organ of the Communist Central Party, today editorially ridiculed Secretary Kellogg's charges that the Soviets are trying to bolshevize Central America.

The bolshevist victory is calculated to serve to mask the United States' dollar imperialism, and to invite support of the nation for further exploitation of Central American states, the paper declared.

Die Rote Fahne has been waging a campaign against the United States policies in Mexico and Nicaragua, charging the United States with backing up and supplying huge funds to rebels fighting against the Calles government.

Conference Meeting on Workers' Bazaar Planned Here Sunday

The next meeting of the conference for the workers' carnival bazaar will be held at the Workers' Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd., Sunday, Jan. 16, at 10 a. m. Preparations are now going ahead full blast for the $10,000 bazaar which is to take place at the Ashland Boulevard Auditorium on Feb. 21, 25 and 26. The bazaar is being held for the benefit of The DAILY WORKER and the Jewish Daily Freiheit, and 20 per cent of the proceeds will be given to International Labor Defense.

Mexicans Protest Against Tyranny of "Northern Colossus"

this is a sure sign of a very weak movement.

K. C. Support.

What counter-revolutionary movement does exist is directed by clerics, and prominent members of catholic lay institutions. One of the latter, Capistran Garza, president of the League of Catholic Youth, is in the United States presuming to direct a counter-revolutionary movement against the Calles regime. It is charged here that Garza has been taken under the wing of the Knights of Columbus in the United States and is being supplied with funds from the million dollar collection made recently by that organization for work against the Mexican government.

Hear Ruthenberg on Communist History at School Saturday

Chicago workers should attend the lectures at the Workers' School, Northwest Hall, North and Western avenues, Saturday, Jan. 15, when C. E. Ruthenberg, general secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party of America speaks, if they would learn of the history of the American Communist movement. This will be the third of a series of lectures Ruthenberg has delivered on that subject.

The lecture will be given at eight o'clock. Admission is 25 cents. The lecture was originally scheduled for Sunday night, but has been changed to Saturday.

BEN GITLOW EXPELLED FROM LOCAL 4, N. Y., BY AMALGAMATED OFFICIALDOM

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Carrying out the orders of the General Executive Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union, Abraham Beckerman, manager of the New York Joint Board, expelled Ben Gitlow, prominent member of the Workers (Communist) Party, from the union by forcing on aye and nay vote in Local 4, of which Gitlow was a member.

He was expelled on the following grounds: For being a member of the Trade Union Educational League, for being a Communist and for attacking the A. C. W. leadership at public meetings and in the press. In a speech that lasted a full hour, Gitlow lashed the expulsion policy of the officials of the union. Beckerman, in closing, avoided real issues and attempted to create hysteria against the Communists.

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THE wild Bill of the Idaho pampas, Senator Borah, has delivered his speech and the mighty voice is now silent. "Silent" Cal continues to dispatch warships to Nicaragua and Kellogg continues to puzzle the public mind against Mexico. The administration knew beforehand that Borah's opposition is not to be taken seriously. Even Norman Hapgood, as complacent a liberal as ever lived, declares that Borah has betrayed the liberal cause in not going to the mat with Coolidge on his Latin-American policy.

WHAT else could be expected? There is even less difference between liberal and tory in England. The general strike proved that under the skin the liberal and the tory are as alike as two peas. Leaders of both parties vied with each in denouncing the miners and upholding the cause of the mine owners. The British working class, unlike ours, have had cruel experience with liberals and tories to convince them of the necessity of having a political party of their own which they can hold responsible for their conduct.

• • •

COOLIDGE has succeeded in getting all South America on its ear against his policy of egression in Mexico and Nicaragua. Mass meetings are held in Argentine and several other countries. The capitalist scribblers convenientaly attribute all their troubles to "Soviet propaganda," just as every scab-harding employer whose employee strike against intolerable conditions blames his trouble on Communist agitators, instead of attributing them to the proper cause: the grinding exploitation of capitalism.

• • •

WHEN the wave of protest that is surging thru South America begins to express itself in the boycott of American goods as it did in China against British and Japanese goods, then our jingoes who are in the exporting business will begin to realize that bananas growers and oil magnates may be having the best end of the Coolidge policy. The best place to hit imperialism is in the head but the imperialist's most sensitive spot is his pocketbook.

• • •

SO far the A. F. of L. chiefs in session in St. Petersburg, Fla., are unmoved by the threat of war against Mexico and the intervention in Nicaragua. But they are concerned with radical activities in the trade unions. William Green in a public address declared that he is in a finish fight to drive the radicals out of the unions. A Herculean task truly. This is not the first time such a man's sized job was essayed, but its accomplishment is yet in the future. In the meantime the Amalgamated Clothing Workers proved its eligibility to stand under the same roof with the A. F. of L., by expelling Benjamin Gitlow, Communist, for "conduct unbecoming a labor man."

• • •

IT is a relief to turn from this gloomy subject to a little incident in Chicago politics which proves that every cloud has a silver lining and that the darkest hours come before dawn. Only occasional rays of light have managed to break thru the gloom of Chicago's underworld since the boys who are engaged in the business of enforcing law learned that the traffic could bear a lot of punishment. The poor fellows who try to make an honest living by giving adventurous

BOSTON CLOAKMAKERS TO HEAR N. Y. JOINT STRUGGLE PRESENTED

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 16.—Under the slogan, "Prevent a split in the Cloakmakers' Union," Boston needle workers will listen to prominent members of the New York cloakmakers' joint board tell of the struggles of the cloak and dressmakers of that city to maintain their union following a long strike in the face of a concerted attack by the international officers and the bosses. The big mass meeting will take place at Scenic Auditorium, Berkley and Tremont Sts., Tuesday, Jan. 18, at 8 p. m.

Local right wingers attempted to break up a similar meeting held previously, but failed. The speakers from New York will address the workers in English, Yiddish and Italian.

SIGMAN'S PACT WITH BOSSES IN SECRECY CLOUD

Gave Away Hard Won Rights, Report

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Betrayal of the workers' interests in order to gain illegal control over the union is seen by trades union leaders in the agreement with the dress manufacturers, now reported "practically reached" between the international and the employers.

Important conditions which the workers had gained after years of struggle are being signed away in President Moses Sigman's attempt to maintain himself in power in the union. Concessions to the manufacturers already granted are said to include the abolishing of the minimum guarantee for piece workers, the loss of pay of 15 per cent in addition to the regular wage for temporary workers, the concession of no pay for holidays which fall on Saturdays, the practical abolishment of the schedule for price settlement, the permission to manufacturers to change the system of work in the shop from week work to piece work without consent of the workers, the extension of the discharge clause giving employers additional rights of discharge.

Fights for Secrecy.

Another clause pledges the International to put every barrier in the way of shops that wish to sign an agreement independent of that made by the association. Altho so many changes and losses to the workers are being put into the agreement, Sigman is fighting to keep its exact terms sec-

COOLIDGE'S COAL LEGISLATION IS KILLED IN HOUSE

Plan to Interfere in Coal Strikes Frustrated

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. — President Coolidge's plan to gain power to interfere in case of coal strikes has been doomed by this session of congress. The Parker bill, which embodied Coolidge's ideas for ending a strike by the use of government power, was rejected by the house committee on interstate commerce by a vote of 16 to 6.

Coolidge's request for authority was turned down by the committee despite the warnings he made on the possibility of a coal strike this spring, which he claimed would make necessary executive interference.

Republicans from coal districts, listening to their coal miner constituency, and democrats united to frustrate the president's wish.

500 VOLUNTEERS NEEDED FOR LENIN MEMORIAL IN NEW YORK; APPLY TUESDAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Five hundred comrades are needed to act as ushers, captains, literature agents, etc., at the New York Lenin memorial meeting.

Volunteers should report Tuesday, Jan. 18, 8 p. m., at Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East 4th street, where they will be assigned to their tasks.

The success of the meeting depends largely upon these volunteers. Come yourself and bring others with you, the committee asks.

GREEN REGIME ORDERS ATTACK ON LEFT WING

Desperate Policy of Extermination Begun

(Special to The Daily Worker)

TAMPA, Florida, Jan. 16. — The executive council of the American Federation of Labor meeting at St. Petersburg considered the report of a committee headed by Mathew Wall that investigated New York needle trades unions, said President William Green, and that "shocking conditions" were found to exist.

With special reference to the New York Furriers' Union, which under left wing leadership won a strike recently, Green declared that the members of the union were "mostly foreigners" and susceptible to teachings of a "destructive nature." He claimed the committee has "conclusive proof that Moscow directed the recent strike of that organization."

For Expulsion.

The decision of the council, he announced, was to expel every known communist who held office or had any influence from the ranks of the A. F. of L.

It is significant that these revelations were made at a meeting in Tampa at the City Auditorium following an afternoon tour of the city as guests of the Board of Trade, which later in the day banqueted the members of the council. On the same platform at the auditorium were prominent business and commercial men of the city. Mr. Green was preceded by Under Secretary Grew, of the state department, who explained the functions of the U. S. diplomatic service and the important relation this service bears "to our commercial and industrial interests abroad."

More Harmony.

Mr. Green pointed to the presence of members of the board of trade on the platform as evidence of the "harmony existing between capital and labor in Tampa and elsewhere."

Mr. Green told the several hundred persons in the audience that labor, in the early days, had been misunderstood and assured the bosses that the A. F. of L. could be relied upon for "amicable cooperation" in all struggles between capital and labor. He said could be ended "by frank, honest understanding and truthfulness." This goal, he said, has practically been reached.

"Patriotic Service."

He dwelt at length on the patriotic services the unions gave during the war and ended by urging the workers of Tampa to give "a big measure of labor" to their employers and to boost for their "beautiful city."

MOROS REVOLT IN PHILIPPINES; DEFY OFFICIALS

U. S. Soldiers Stage War Maneuvers

MANILA, P. I., Jan. 16.—Moros on the island of Sulu are in revolt against high and unjust taxes levied against the natives by the government. A force of more than 200, headed by Datu Tahil, have established a stronghold at Jolo where they are successfully repelling attempts of the constabulary to suppress them. The sending of U. S. troops against the rebels is expected momentarily.

U. S. Soldiers Display "Warss."

At the time of the revolt American soldiers are conducting military maneuvers on the opposite extremity of the island of Luzon, calculated to impress the native Filipinos with the war strength of the United States. "Sham" battles are being fought by what the government calls "reds" and "blues." The "game" also has the result of wheeling the "appetites" of the soldiers for actual conflicts.

Score Kellogg's Charges.

MANILA, Jan. 16. — Secretary of State Kellogg's charges of Bolshevism in the Philippines is branded as a smoke screen to conceal blunders of the United States in its policy in the islands and in Latin-America by the Philippine Herald. Kellogg included the Philippines in his statement, declaring Communists were to blame for the Latin-American situation.

The newspaper said that if Communists had been active here the United States "would have raised a hue and cry long ago." Instead it has been blaming native politicians for an independence agitation.

London School Has Matteotti Evidence

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Proving conclusively the guilt of the fascist government of Italy in the murder of deputy Matteotti, socialist, what is said to be the only existing copy of evidence in the murder trial has been sent by the London School of Economics. The evidence, which contains verbatim testimony of the trial, was given to the school by Prof. Salvemni, anti-fascist and former socialist deputy.

Brownsville Workers Must Support I. L. D.

A meeting of the Brownsville Branch of the International Labor Defense will be held in the Workers Center, 63 Liberty Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., on Tuesday, Jan. 18, at 8 p. m.

ANNOUNCE COOLIDGE TO VISIT U. S. STEEL'S GARY FOR MEMORIAL

GARY, Ind., Jan. 16.—The Gary chamber of commerce this afternoon received official word from Washington that President Coolidge will visit Gary and the Calumet District on Memorial Day. The president, it is stated, will take part in dedicating Wicker Park, Gary, as Lake county's memorial to its soldier and sailor dead.

Kellogg's "Peace" Talk Is Merely Maneuver to Stem Tide of Opposition

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Casting about for ways in which to stem the growlog tide of resentment against the administration's Nicaragua-Mexican policies, the resources of the state department have produced a number of "peace proposals," the insincerity of which are revealed by the adamant refusal of the Coolidge regime to even consider the recall of the armed forces of the United States from Nicaragua.

The state department announces its "readiness" to sanction mediation by "any Central American government," in the Nicaraguan dispute. In view of the fact that every Central American country is, like Nicaragua, under the bows of a big American fleet in the Caribbean Sea; that the devious intrigues of the state department do not stop with Nicaragua but extend to all countries of Central America; that one of these countries, Panama, is merely a Washington adjunct; that the people of the rest of Central America, as do the Nicaraguans, resent the presence of the U. S. naval force and the occupation of Nicaragua—in view of these things, coupled with the fact that Kellogg has expressed his determination to sustain the Diaz regime at all cost—this offer of the administration presents itself as a mere diplomatic ruse to sopify the bulk of opposition growing against the Latin-American invasion.

Mexican "Plan."

Along with this maneuver, another is brot into use in the case of Mexico. Secretary Kellogg has told the press that the cause of American property brot into question under the Mexican oil and land laws can be referred to the Mixed Claims Commission under Obregon in 1923 and that position in American recognition of his regime. The principal American member is Charles Beecher Warren, of Detroit, who is now in Washington conferring with Kellogg.

The claims commission was set up for the purpose of passing upon indemnities to be paid to American owners who suffered losses as the result of the Constitution of 1917. Since the point upon which the administration has been concentrating in its diplomatic war with Mexico is the whole question of "confiscation" that Kellogg declares is involved in the oil and land laws based on the Constitution of 1917, the claims commission can be of little help in preventing a clash.

It is generally agreed that with the present administration demanding from Mexico concessions that can only be made by the rewriting of that country's constitution and complete "freedom" and ownership of acquired properties by American concerns, that he claims commission's ability to ameliorate the relations between the two countries is very small.

It is also noted here that Kellogg merely sensted the possibility of the claims commission's help in this case. No demands have been made in the demands formulated in Coolidge's message to congress. Mention of the claims commission, like the Nicaraguan "peace" plan, is calculated solely to stem the tide of opposition to the administration while Kellogg follows the path marked out in the beginning—the forcing of Mexico to her knees and the retention of Diaz in Nicaragua.

WRANGLE OVER WAY TO VALUE FORD'S STOCK

Court Buried by Figures and Formalae

DETROIT, Jan. 16.—The courtroom here where the government is pressing its suit for $34,000,000 in taxes from Senator Couzens and eight others charged with evading taxes of that amount in the sale of Ford Motor company stock is being "figuratively" buried by an avalanche of figures, mathematical computations and algebraic formulae. The government and defense are spending most of their time wrangling over the "proper" method of valuating the stock that was transferred in the stock sale.

So far nine different methods have been placed before the court, giving nine different valuations. The court must decide on the most equitable one. The valuations range from $1,425 per share to $9,489 per share. However, the stocks were actually sold for $12,500, $13,000 and $13,444 per share.

An idea of the vast profits of the Ford company and how they mounted year by year is gained by a table presented at the trial. The table shows that the earnings from 1905 to 1913 were as follows: 1904: $201,000; 1905, $295,200; 1906, $102,000; 1907, $1,011,000; 1908, $1,251,000; 1909, $2,686,000; 1910, $4,452,000; 1911, $6,326,000; 1912, $13,056,000; 1913, $24,716,000; 1914, $30,764,000; 1915, $24,619,000; 1916, $59,017,000; 1917, $69,017,000; 1918, $61,837,000; 1919, $76,776,000.

Nearing Has Special Message for New York Lenin Memorial; Is One of Imposing Array of Speakers at Big Madison Garden Affair

NEW YORK, Jan 16.—Scott Nearing, noted lecturer and writer, will be one of the principal speakers at the New York Lenin memorial meeting at the New Madison Square Garden Saturday evening, January 22, at 8 p. m. Nearing recently spent several months studying conditions in the Soviet Union, and has just completed a lecture tour of the United States.

Special Message.

This is the first time that Scott Nearing will speak at a mass meeting held under the auspices of the Workers (Communist) Party. He has a special message for the workers of New York which no militant should fail to hear.

Other noted speakers will be C. E. Ruthenberg, general secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party of America, Wm. Z. Foster, secretary of the Trade Union Educational League, Louis Engdahl, editor of The DAILY WORKER, Messaye J. Olgin, noted revolutionist and editor of the Party monthly, "The Hammer," William Weinstone, secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party, District Two, and others.

Imposing Speakers Array.

This is the first time in New York that such an imposing array of speakers have been scheduled to address a meeting. It is expected that Madison Square Garden will be packed to capacity. The Lenin memorial meetings this year will be the occasion for a huge demonstration against American imperialism against the invasion of Nicaragua, the threats of war against China, the menace of bankruptcy to Great Britain, and has become a welcome to the DAILY WORKER which is now coming to New York.

Good Concert.

A different style of Lenin memorial is in the making. A concert is arranged in the immediate hall of the chief events of the musical program is a group of Russian songs popular in the United States. These will be sung by Ivan Velikanoff, chief cantor of the Imperial Students of the Russian Art Theater, who is now in the United States on special business. He is also a member of the New York Symphony Orchestra. Modern music, the music of the Soviet Union, and of all party press.

Seats Limited.

Admission is free, 50c and $1 entitle a limited number of seats at the first and second balcony, and once at Workers (Communist) Party headquarters, 108 East 14th street, and all party press.

SACASA WILL FIGHT DESPITE U. S. BLOCKADE

Diaz Offers "Peace" Plan Based on U. S.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, Jan. 16.—Declaring false all rumors of his desertion of his cause in Nicaragua and defiantly stating that he will stick to his post despite the "blockade by the United States navy," Dr. Juan B Sacasa, liberal president of Nicaragua and leader of the rebellion against the U. S. owned Adolfo Diaz, announced that the liberals will continue their fight for power.

Diaz' "Overtures."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—In another statement addressed to the "American people," President Adolfo Diaz, Wall Street tool in Nicaragua, announces he is making "peace overtures" to the liberal rebels under Juan B. Sacasa. Saying that the intervention of the United States by sending armed forces to Nicaragua has spared the country "the horrors of Bolshevism," Diaz is attempting to split the liberal cause by offering "responsible posts" to adherents of the liberal cause.

The so-called peace plan that Diaz offers is a fraud. With the U. S. armed forces now in the country practically controlling every square mile of any importance and with a navy blockade stifling the once successful military campaign of the liberals, Diaz wishes to offer peace, with the United States as arbitrator.

WRANGLE OVER WAY TO VALUE FORD'S STOCK

So far nine different methods have been placed before the court, giving nine different valuations. The court must decide on the most equitable one. The valuations range from $1,425 per share to $9,489 per share. However, the stocks were actually sold for $12,500, $13,000 and $13,444 per share.

An idea of the vast profits of the Ford company and how they mounted year by year is gained by a table presented at the trial. The table shows that the earnings from 1905 to 1913 were as follows: 1904: $201,000; 1905, $295,200; 1906, $102,000; 1907, $1,011,000; 1908, $1,251,000; 1909, $2,686,000; 1910, $4,452,000; 1911, $6,326,000; 1912, $13,056,000; 1913, $24,716,000; 1914, $30,764,000; 1915, $24,619,000; 1916, $59,017,000; 1917, $69,017,000; 1918, $61,837,000; 1919, $76,776,000.

SENATOR RAPS U. S. CATHOLIC WAR MONGERING

Says $1,000,000 Fund Is for Mexican Use

Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. — Charging that the Knights of Columbus are provoking war with Mexico and using a million dollar fund to support the public relations in Mexico, Senator Tom Heflin, (D), Alabama, raised the religious issue on the senate for the first time in decades. The Knights were defended by Senator Walsh of Montana, himself a member of that body, by saying that the million dollar fund was raised for "educational purposes" and "to the end that the policies of Soviet Russia shall be eliminated from the philosophies of American life."

"They are plotting to coax Knights of Columbus into war," declared Heflin, "and that is treason." He declared "They [the Knights] are using the power of the Catholic church in Mexico to stir up strife and bloodshed in order to bring on a war with Mexico.

Fomenting Strife.

"A man would be stupid indeed who does not believe that are fomenting strife in Mexico. He would be dull indeed not to see those forces are working for war. It is important to stir up the public mind. I call out opposed to anti-Mexican crusade and against all churches only if they try to throw us into war."

Gold and Zimmerman Speak on Union Amalgamation at N. Y. School Friday

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Ben Gold, chairman of the Joint Board of the Furriers' Union, and Chas. Zimmerman, strike leader in the recent strike of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, will lecture at the New York Workers' School, 108 East 14th Street, this Friday night at 8 o'clock, on "Amalgamation in the Clothing Industry." This lecture is one of a series on American labor problems by men prominent in the labor movement. Amalgamation is one of the central tactical aims of the left wing in the unions, and both Gold and Zimmermen are at present under fire from the right wing elements in the garment trades largely because of their efforts to amalgamate all of the various locals into one strong powerful union of the industry. At the lecture they will explain their purpose in attempting to amalgamate their respective unions and the methods they intend to pursue.

CALLES STOPS DRILLING OF 4 NEW OIL WELLS

U. S. Companies Make Court Fight

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 16.—The Calles government has taken the first active step towards the enforcement of the oil and land laws over which the United States threatens a break in relations. The Huasteca Oil company, a Doheny concern, have been denied four permits to drill new wells on the ground that they failed to comply with the law by not registering claims for concessions prior to Jan. 1st. In return for their fee simple titles.

A Sure Case Aim.

Existing oil wells are not yet affected, the latter step appearing to be to build a sure and sure case before taking steps that will give the oil companies a chance to provoke a break between that country and the U. S., to which they are appealing for help.

On the side of the oil companies, it is said they are preparing to seek injunctions in the lower courts against the enforcement of the law. It is possible that an injunction will be sought restraining the government from preventing the drilling of new wells.

First As Ever.

Anticipating this, the Calles government has called for reports from its local officials in the districts rather than on the application which already established law in official quarters, that while Calles and his cabinet are proceeding cautiously, they are as firm as ever in their determination to enforce the laws.

The belligerent attitude of the United States and its pet oil concerns, catholic revolts, inspired by the church and U. S. interests, are shaping the cautious policy of Calles. But it is evident that he does not share in the confidence of the American bank majority of the people and that every step he takes towards the enforcement of the land constitution will be supported by wide spread working class movement.

Farmers Told How to Reduce Damage from European Corn Borer

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Jan. 16.— With the European corn borer now a reality in Illinois, there are eight ways farmers of the state can reduce future losses from the pest, H. W. Mumford, dean of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois announces.

The program contains recommendations as follows:

1. Adopt soil management prices to produce maximum yields of corn on large, healthy stalks.
2. Select and grow earlier maturing varities of corn, with heavier stalks, that can be planted late.
3. Adopt a good rotation of crops, going as much as possible as suggested by the agricultural college.
4. Utilize as much of the corn crop as possible thru the silo and as finely shredded material.
5. Increase the acreage of legumes.
6. Practice clean plowing.
7. Become familiar with quarantine regulations.
8. Watch fields for the presence of this insect and send suspected specimens to the state entomologist.

Interstate Business Asks Federal Help to Reform State Taxation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Co-operation of the treasury in assisting state governments to remodel their tax laws and establish budget systems eventually may lead to a general revision and standardization of taxation methods thruout the United States, it has become known.

Women School Teachers at Cambridge Organize

By a Worker Correspondent.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 16.— Cambridge women school teachers expect to become affiliated with the A. F. of L. soon. Many attempts have been made previously to organize the teachers and many meetings have been held, but always they have failed, until now. Finally a committee representing these women school teachers has made application for a charter.

This was made the first step in the campaign of unionization. Miss Bernice Rogers is chairman of the committee.

NOW things seem to brighten considerably. A mayoralty election is around the corner and the various aspirants are catering to various elements of the population. One aspirant caters to those who take the business of saving other peoples' souls seriously. They would enforce the law ostentatiously, which would mean that it would cost more to violate the law order such an administration. Another aspirant catering to the voters who don't give a hang how many souls go to hell as long as they have a good time while they are living, promises to be blind in both eyes when certain laws are being trodden on.

DOWN on the south side of this city there ruled with an iron hand for many years a colored boss by the name of Wright. This man was a cog in the Crowe-Barrett-Galpin G. O. P. machine. In return for delivering the votes the machine placed about 200 of his friends on the public payroll. But Wright was offered a better proposition from another faction of the G. O. P., so he refused to support the Crowe candidate for mayor. Crowe, being a man of action, bounced Wright and now another colored boss is lord of the south side or the so-called black belt. Rumor has it that no sooner was Wright ousted than his successor ostentatiously opened his gambling joints and made merry, assuring all and sundry that the lean days were over and that "Bobby" Crowe, the "hanging prosecutor" of Cook County, intends to make it possible for honest gamblers to make a living.

COUNCIL BEGINS FIGHT ON ALIEN BILL IN HOUSE

Holaday Introduces His "Voluntary" Measure

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.— A telegram of protest against the new "voluntary registration of aliens" bill introduced in the house Jan. 9, by Rep. Holaday of Illinois, was sent by the National Council for Protection of Foreign Born Workers to Rep. Albert Johnson, chairman of the house immigration committee.

Hit Prussian Espionage.

The telegram reads: "Any form of registration of aliens is opening wedge for compulsory registration and a Prussian espionage system in America. In behalf of thousands of trade union workers in this country we voice our opposition to new registration bill introduced by Rep. Holaday on Monday, and ask you do all possible to prevent its purpose.

"National Council for Protection of Foreign Born Workers.

"(Signed) Nina Samorodin, secretary."

This same telegram was sent also to Rep. Adolph J. Sabath, also of Illinois, because he has continuously opposed the various compulsory registration, registration and deportation bills which have been introduced from time to time since 1922.

Rally Opposition.

"Our organization was formed to combat just such legislation and we are planning to call on all those who have previously taken a stand against such bills as the Arens and Sonnenberg registration bills, to help now in the fight against this newest anti-alien measure," said Miss Samorodin in announcing on the Holaday bill. "Evidently this has been introduced in accordance with the statement of Secretary of Labor Davis in his annual report that he was willing to try out a scheme of voluntary registration of aliens since there was such fear of the proposed compulsory registration.

Must Forget It Now.

"This concession was made only because of the strong public sentiment aroused against the proposal to force a system of police surveillance on our foreign born population. We intend to help rouse the same resentment against this voluntary registration proposal, for we feel certain that when it has failed to accomplish its purpose—as it surely will—there will come compulsory registration; first for aliens and then for everyone in the country. The scheme must be fought now before it goes any further."

SHIPPING BOARD PAVES WAY FOR TREASURY HAUL

Merchant Marine Subsidy Necessary, It Says

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Subsidizing of the United States merchant marine is inevitable and necessary if the marine is to be maintained, declares the report of the shipping board to the senate. The report is significant in that it advocates government ownership and control instead of private ownership. Ship owners have conducted an extensive campaign to have the United States surrender its ships to private companies at an extremely low price, coupled with a subsidy.

Stress Defense Angle.

The board urges a subsidy not only to maintain the commercial part of the marine, but also to provide "adequate defense reserve." It makes no difference what form of ownership prevails, private or public, a subsidy is necessary, it said, favoring public ownership "for the present."

"If the government is to develop our merchant marine to the extent contemplated in the merchant marine act, and continue its operation, appropriations both for operation expenses and for replacements and improvements are necessary," it says. "Under either plan (public or private) government support is indispensable."

Direct Payments.

The board urges direct subsidy payments, both for freight and passenger vessels, based on speed and on the number of days at sea while carrying mail to and from the United States. Mail contracts, providing for "liberal" payment from the government for carrying mail should be entered into, the board says.

Fort-Whiteman Tells Negroes Here Aims of Negro Labor Congress

An interesting and educational meeting of the American Negro Labor Congress was held when Lovett Fort-Whiteman and James Ford spoke on the race as an industrial factor in the United States. Fort-Whiteman told the audience that the purpose of the Negro is to unite only class industrially than racially. Ninety-eight per cent of the race are workers, he pointed out. The aim of the American Negro Labor Congress is to build up unions and organize the unorganized, regardless of color, he told them.

Ford outlined the history of organized labor in this country, pointing out the good points and defects in each movement since the Knights of Labor. The A. F. of L. takes in only skilled workers and in many cases bars Negroes, he said, declaring the Negro workers must organize to combat this.

MINERS FIGHTING NON-UNION COAL BEFORE THE I. C. C.

Appeal to I.C.C. Against Discrimination

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The interstate commerce commission has been urged by the United Mine Workers of America "to see the mine worker's side of the freight question," and give protection to "his interests, investments, home and family."

Hold Freight Rates.

This plea was made in a brief filed in connection with the lake cargo coal case now under investigation by the commission.

Speaking specifically for the Illinois fields the brief said that the loss in production in that state and the increase in production in West Virginia and Kentucky has been due solely to changes in freight rates, favorable to those states and prejudicial to Illinois.

Coal Discriminated Against.

"We now have the spectacle of seeing great trainloads of coal being transported from southern preferred fields thru the Illinois coal belt, the greatest bituminous coal field in the world, destined for the northwest," the brief said.

"You have the spectacle of seeing coal shipped from the preferred southern fields hundreds of miles farther to the great northwest, with Illinois coal, closer by far, excluded from a market it has enjoyed for years."

Crowd Out Illinois Product.

The brief also said that not only have these rates permitted other coals to exclude Illinois from its market in the northwest, but it has permitted and encouraged other fields to ship their coal to Chicago market in direct competition with Illinois coal, with the result that Illinois coal is largely excluded from the Chicago market.

C. F. OF L. RAPS SCHOOL TYRANNY OF WM. McANDREW

Brought Here to Break Up Teachers' Unions

School Superintendent William McAndrew was the object of a broadside in the Chicago Federation of Labor meeting on Sunday during which Aldermen Oscar Nelson, vice-president of the federation, charged the bosses of Chicago brot him hara to crush organization among the teachers and to run the schools for the tax dodgers.

Condemn Platoon System.

A resolution was passed which branded the platoon system and the junior high school system that McAndrew instituted as a plan to save money for big tax payers by building fewer school structures. It also condemned the intelligence tests for children as a fraud.

The reappointment of Mrs. Wm. S. Heffurman and Dr. Otto Schmidt to the school board was opposed because of their support of tho McAndrew polici

Call Him Czar.

Another resolution took exception to McAndrew's czarlike conduct of the schools. Lillian Hratein of the Chicago Teachers' Federation declared that McAndrewn refuses to talk to the teachers or accept any recommendations from them. She said that unless a labor member is added to the school board, the public and the labor movement will have no source of information concerning the conduct of school affairs.

"The main issue is whether the parents or the business institutions, notably the Rockefeller Foundation will have the last word about the education of Chicago's children," Nelson said. "Business interests seek to control the educational system for two reasons. First, to dodge taxes by cutting down the building program and second to mould the minds of the children to make willing industrial slaves of them."

ANTI-EVOLUTION LAW IS UPHELD BY TENN. COURT

Fundamentalists Score Victory; Will Appeal

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 16.—Tennessee's famous anti-evolution law was held constitutional by the state supreme court. But the conviction of John Thomas Scopes, Dayton school teacher, was ordered reversed because Scopes was fined $100 instead of $50.

Trial Remanded.

The high court remanded the case to the circuit court for retrial on the ground that Judge John Ralston violated the Tennessee constitution in fining Scopes more than $50.

Justice Green, who read the decision, recommended that the case be nolle prossed because Scopes had left the state. Justices Cook, Chambliss and Grey assented, while Justice McKinney in a dissenting opinion declared the act was invalid.

Overruled Defense Points.

The majority opinion overruled all assignments of error made by Clarence Darrow, Dudley Field Malone and other lawyers for Scopes and held that the legislature had the right to determine what should be taught in state tax-supported schools.

"Fight Should Go On."

"The fight ought to go on," John Scopes said, at the University of Chicago, where he is now studying. "It is not a case in which science is tried on against religion. It is rather an issue in which the American people are asked to withhold certain facts from their children because of the belief of a certain few that those facts conflict with religion."

Civil Liberties Ready

Officials of the Civil Liberties Union, who were reported present at the recent conference, were reported to have anticipated the Tennessee tribunal's action and told all plans for an immediate appeal.

Anti-Evolutionists.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 16—Encouraged by the Tennessee supreme court's decision upholding the anti-evolution act, Rep. D. Scott Poole, of Hoke County, declared that he would introduce an "anti-evolution bill" in the North Caroline legislature next week. Poole is author of the 1925 anti-evolution bill, which failed to pass.

Draft Foe Remains Disbarred.

SAN FRANCISCO — (FP)— Dunle O'Connell, San Francisco attorney disbarred for anti-draft activities during the war, has lost the latest of his many attempts at reinstatement, the district court of appeals having refused his application. # Fraudulent Socialist Opposition to War Is an Aid to Imperialists

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

"THE American Appeal," the official organ of the socialist party, offers its readers as the headline of its leading first page article, the following:

"Congress and People Alone Can Prevent War."

The article declares:

"This position (that of the Coolidge administration) is such that unless the American people voice an irresistible mandate for peace, or congress acts to prevent a rupture, or the Mexican and constitutional Nicaraguan governments surrender abjectly to American capitalism and imperialism there will be a break between these countries. . .

"Mexico is the first line of offense in this path. Time over that barrier it will dominate Latin-America as a base for further conquests. . .

"If the people permit this first step to be taken, America will soon be the hated hatred of the whole world. We will turn the world against us. We will place ourselves in the position of the Germany, of the Kaiser and we will suffer the same fate."

* * *

It would be different for the official socialist organ to depart a single distance from socialist principle without coming out actively as the champion of imperialism itself.

Not one of the three possible alternatives to war advanced by The American Appeal, can be realized.

First: The American "people" cannot voice an irresistible mandate for peace" because there is no unity of interest that does the whole people together, not even against war. So-called reaction, something that the editors of "The Appeal" want to forget in the face of the war danger, that "the people" are divided into classes based on their economic interests. Every [illegible] class organization, what-ever it advances their interests, or "to protect their property." The press, the pulpit and other mediums of propaganda help to fool the middle class into line to defend properties interests of the ruling class. The middle class, all declarers of the capitalist social order. It is only the exploited workers and farmers, the working class, that can be definitely aroused from its own enervation, to defend war thru the allegation of capitalism. The workers alone can "voice an irresistible mandate for peace" thru their class power. Labor's voice must be heard in the trade unions fighting the alliance of the officialdom with the capitalist machine. That is one way, right now, to build the war against the war. Communists lead in this struggle. Socialists in the trade unions, especially in the needle trades, make war on the Communists and launch campaigns of expulsions against them, thus becoming the allies of the capitalist war. The fraudulent appeal to "the people" is merely a mask under which socialists try to hide their real treason to the working class.

Second: The socialist "hope" that congress will prevent a rupture leading to war is merely another sample of the infantile socialist faith in capitalist institutions. It grows out of the belief that congress is something to be "captured" some day at some election by an aroused electorate—the phantom "people." Socialist party spokesmen like to turn their backs on all socialist teachings, especially that congress is part of the capitalist state, an instrument of oppression in the hands of the capitalist class, established and bulwarked with a growing police power for the protection of private property rights. It may be said that no congress that has ever sat in Washington has shown itself more servile in the face of a threatening war. The foreign affairs committee of the house of representatives even voted against requesting Secretary of State Kellogg to appear before it and give information that might be demanded of him. The constitution of the United States specifically states that "Congress shall have the power to declare war." But the house foreign affairs committee, that must inform the members of the house of representatives as to the vital causes leading toward war, just interested in getting the information, either for or against. In the senate the foreign affairs committee is won over to the Wall Street viewpoint by the mere sight of Kellogg's "red herring." Borah, the middle class political leader, makes a speech on constitutional and international law, labels it "anti-war" and lets it go at that. LaFollette demands that the senate foreign relations committee investigate the charges that the state department had attempted to influence the news services to carry its "propaganda" on their wires. Why investigate? The truth of this is already out. LaFollette could employ his energies better by demanding the immediate ousting of Kellogg and the impeachment of Coolidge, the two "warmakers," office boys of Wall Street, but he will not do that. That would be too unsyntetic. And all the time Victor L. Berger, the socialist congressman, is silent, offering nothing, not even in his daily newspaper. Too Milwaukee Leader. There is no basis for the childlike faith that the socialists have in capitalism's democratic sham, its socalled congress.

This capitalist parliament can be made useful only as a forum to expose Wall Street's parliamentarism. No member of this congress will do that. The workers and farmers, in the recent elections, failed to send Communists to Washington to perform this task. They are therefore weak now in their war against the war.

Third. Neither Mexico, Nicaragua nor any other subject people can solve the problems growing out of imperialist oppression thru what the socialists call "abject surrender." They may be temporarily betrayed by their leaders. President Calles offers to arbitrate the differences between the United States and Mexico. Calles may accept some form of surrender. But the struggle goes on just the same. A trade union official may betray a strike, but that does not eliminate the class struggle. It only puts out of the way [illegible] the class struggle itself. The break between the imperialist homeland and the subject colonial countries grows just as the class war develops, the conditions for determining when either side needs into open struggle. No subject class, or subject nation, can be survived for an indefinite length of time, as the organ of the socialists infers might be possible, thus offering a solution of the present crisis.

Wall Street imperialism moves forward, earning the "honest hatred" of the whole world, but it is only the world's working class, developing Communist leadership, that moves forward to the destruction of the rule of Wall Street. In the final struggle, even as in the present time, as is more clearly known than ever, western capitalist disrepute, the socialists are among the best allies of the imperialists. This is revealed in the helpless, middle class attitude toward war championed in their publications, especially in the official organ of the party. It is definitely revealed by the socialist attack against the Communists in the trade union movement.

Thus the socialists worry that Wall Street's "America" will be placed in the same position as the Germany of the kaiser. The German workers got rid of the kaiser, but the socialists helped establish the German capitalist republic. Later will support Morgan's America with a Soviet America in spite of socialist opposition.

CHINESE RESENT WARLIKE FRONT OF FOREIGNERS

People of Shanghai for Kuomintang

SHANGHAI, Jan. — With the Cantonese armies nearing the city and the foreign concessions arming to the teeth, large bodies of workers in Shanghai are expected to go on strike shortly in support of the Kuomintang and against the northern war lords who, thru Marshal Sun Chuan Fang, hold Shanghai.

The populace of Shanghai makes no secret of its overwhelming sympathy for the nationalist cause and is showing resentment towards the improvoked military steps being taken for the defense of the foreign concessions as well as the presence of numerous foreign warships in the harbor.

Hankow Quiet.

Reports from Hankow, the occupation of the British concession in which place four of the nine Canton Communists are confined, that everything is quiet. The nationalist government is holding the British concession until negotiations with the British are completed. They are demanding satisfaction for the death of a number of Chinese at the hands of British troops.

Needless Panic.

It is remarkable that in all the storm and turmoil created by the foreigners the workers by the hasty and needless evacuation of Yantze town, that not a single death, injury, or even serious inconvenience to foreigners is reported from any source.

FURNITURE TRUST MEMBERS FACING FEDERAL CHARGE

Seventy-nine furniture companies, charged with illegal combination, are scheduled to go on trial in federal court in Chicago, A. Carpenter, Special Assistant Attorney General Roger Slade announced in the opening session that he had evidence to show that the companies conned furniture users by price-fixing, causing furniture prices to rise 250 per cent in recent years.

The suit is a continuation of the one started some months ago when 16 other firms pleaded guilty and were fined a total of $500,000 for their activities.

The defense of the furniture manufacturers is that they had formed only an "association" for the purpose of getting cheap production costs.

The government has in its possession a circular letter sent to members of the trust, just after it was formed, which said, "If we prove to you where you can price just one article higher than you otherwise would, then the dues are not an expense but an investment."

Millinery Workers Hold Mass Meeting Here Tuesday Night

WORLD OIL WAR LOOMS AS BIG GROUPS SPLIT

U. S. and English Row Over Russia

LONDON, Jan. 16.— War between the English and American oil monopolists over the purchase of Russian oil products is threatening as the result of a break between the oil companies after an agreement was reached. The parties are the Rockefeller Standard Oil group, represented here by the Anglo-American Oil company, the Vacuum Oil company of New York and the Royal Dutch Shell combine and Anglo-Persian Oil company, controlled by the British government.

Politics Enter.

After many years of bitter competition to gain a monopoly of Russian oil products, an agreement was reached between the two forces providing for a division of the oil. Then Sir Henri Deterding, of the Royal Dutch Shell, announced that negotiations were off. Deterding said that he did think it "policy to enter business relations with the Soviet government because of its activity in China." Deterding is the same oil king who lost spring wirad John D. Rockefeller not to send Russia money for purchasing oil because, "it would be used by the churches." The Steodard Oil groups attack Deterding, declaring he was not so "squeamish" in April, when he signed a contract for purchase of 200,000 tons of Russian kerosene.

reca Started in 1920.

The race for Russian oil was started in 1920 by the Shell group. It sent a representative to Russia to buy concessions. Standard Oil, hearing of this, started doing the same. Both failed to get concessions and a long series of conferences with official and semi-official Soviet union representatives followed.

Boycott Russian Oil.

When Standard Oil was later successful, Shell started a campaign of boycott against Russian oil. Deterding entered into an agreement with France to furnish it with all its oil, provided it did not purchase Russian products. But Deterding could not furnish enough oil and the contract was voided. Again Deterding approached the Standard Oil group for "co-operation" in negotiating a deal with the Russian government. The deal was arranged, when Shell backed down.

Cantonese Move Their Capital Farther North

(The following is a special dispatch to The DAILY WORKER from the bureau of information of the department of foreign relations of the Canton revolutionary government of China giving direct information on events there.)

CANTON, China, Dec. 4.—(By Mail)—Actual preparations for the transfer of the nationalist capital from Canton to Wuchang were under way during the first week of December. All the departments held meetings to decide upon the personnel of the first group which would leave for the Yangtze on approximately the tenth. The various bureaus of the Central Kuomintang headquarters did the same. Records were packed and prepared for shipment.

The decision of the political council that the government and the central party headquarters be removed came after considerable discussion of the problem in all its phases. It came, also, after it had been made plain by the civil and military authorities of the provinces newly brot under nationalist domination by the military drive, that the transfer hed the wholehearted support not only of these authorities but also of the entire population in the newly-acquired provinces.

Will Centralize Movement.

Tactical considerations also were involved. Tha geographical position of Wuchang, on the Yangtze, in the center of the great Yangtze valley, the commercial backbone of China, will centralize the heart of the nationalist movement. The whole circulation of the nationalist organism will be normalized.

From the psychological point of view, the removal is a gesture of confidence, in the security of the nationalist position in the Yangtze terrain and in the certainty of its leaders that the entire movement has complete popular sanction.

Gains Bring Necessity.

With the actual territory controlled by the nationalist government stretching so far to the north—a thousand miles from its present base—Canton no longer was the reasonable home for it. It had bpcome inevitable that the home-base would have to be removed to a point more intimately in touch with the new territory. The enormous labors of co-ordinating the work of the government in the new territory, of making a beginning toward unifying the finances of the territory and tying them up directly with the government treasury, of educating a mass of officials in new and modern methods of administration, of pouring the revolutionary dogma into the general population for the purpose of intensifying its already-manifest "nationalist sense"—all this required that the base of operations be much closer to the center of the new territory. The requirements Wuchang fills, geographically.

Mission at Work.

The government mission, now in the Yangtze, comprising the finance minister, foreign minister, communication minister and justice minister, with a large clerical and secretarial personnel, will take the first steps of settling in the new capital. So soon as the first group of hureau chiefs and department heads, with their assistants, arrive there, the preliminary steps in establishing the seat of the nationalist government in Wuchang will have been accomplished. There will remain the question of the removal of thet personnel still remaining here to close up affairs here which had to be carried on during the interim period.

The Tientsin Arrests.

The arrest by the British authorities in the British concession in Tientsin on Nov. 23 of certain Chinese residents who are Kuomintang members, and their delivery into the hands of the Mukden military authorities, caused great indignation throuout the country. The nationalist government on Dec. 2 telegraphed a strong protest direct to the British foreign office.

See British Opposition.

The protest took the line that the arrest of these men, at the request of the Mukden militarists, indicated clearly that the British authorities in China had become the active adversaries of the nationalist government and the nationalist movement, since they had conformed with the request of the principal Chinese adversary of Chinese nationalism by turning over into his hands Chinese citizens who were associated with the party of nationalism. The fact that the delivery of the arrested men had been directly authorized by the British legation at Peking was taken as proof that this represented deliberate British policy, and was not merely the action of a police chief or even a consul-general in the Tientsin British concession.

Moscow Restrain Execution.

The Kuomintang authorities in Canton have been dependent upon telegraphic reports of the occurrence from party sources in Peking. Even these learned of the event only several days after the actual arrests. There was no immediate fear that the Mukden militarists would follow their usual course and execute the arrested men at once. This appears, however, not to have been the case. Chang Tso-lin appears to have heard fatal suggestions, even inside the fastnesses of his yamen, of the rumble of popular opinion in China. They have somewhat restrained his usual style in these matters. Up to the present writing, there is no definite word that the men are executed.

Irresolution in Peking.

The telegraph lines have been fairly cluttered with reports about the new "cohesion" amongst the anti-nationalist militarists and their large plans for an enormous expedition against the Cantonese revolutionary armies. Sun Chuan-fang himself was at Tientsin to participate in the conference, which was presided over by the Mukden warlord, Chang Tso-lin. Chang Tsung-chang, the Tupan of Shantung, was authorized by this conference, the reports stated, to lead 150,000 men into Kiangsu province and the leading city of Shanghai. Sun Chuan-fang is reported to have agreed to this ploy most reluctantly.

No Action Yet.

Out of a welter of reports, rumors, deoials and charges, this seems clear: that up to the moment, no action on a large scale has been started by these anti-nationalist militarists toward beginning such an expedition.

Wu Pei-fu has finally admitted the facts of a situation which everyone also has seen and admitted for months—that he and his "army" are impotent to do anything against the nationalists. In a statement, reported from Pekin, he is said to have admitted that there is too much disorganization among the army chiefs under him in Honan to hope for any cohesive movement against Hupeh province.

Koo is Contradictory.

Dr. Wellington Koo, the acting premier and foreign minister of the Peking government, reflects the indecision and irresolution of his military backers by announcing one day that he will resign, with his entire cabinet, and the next day that he will retain office for the present. One of his statements on the subject of resignation asserted that he was personally exhausted, physically and mentally, by the strain of attempting to keep a "government" together in the face of the utter chaos of the military factions in the northern regions.

Rumor British Aid.

Rumors come — unconfirmed — that British banking institutions have agred to give—it could in no sense be considered a loan, since there can be no security offered—five million pounds sterling to the northern militarists on guarantees that the money will be used to finance a military campaign against the nationalist armies. Specific details from this loan have been given out from Chinese sources, but there is no verification available.

Hongkong and Co-operation.

Racket piracy outrages in south China waters have led to a new discussion of bandit suppression in Kwangtung. The provincial authorities are now successfully undertaking a campaign against bandit bands in various parts of the province. But their work has not satisfied Hongkong, where an agitation has been started for an expedition against Bias Bay on the Kwangtung coast, believed to be the headquarters of a powerful pirate organization. Co-operation between British naval forces and Kwangtung forces has been suggested.

Co-operate With Chiang-min.

Lacking such co-operation, it is authoritatively stated that the Hongkong government may consider "co-operation" with certain subordinates of the notorious Chen Chiung-min, an avowed enemy of the nationalist government who has often made Hongkong his headquarters. It is made plain, in authoritative circles, that the Hongkong government has actually seriously listened to proposals for such "co-operation" from trusted lieutenants of Chen Chiung-min.

Such a "co-operation" expedition would, of course, be looked upon in nationalist circles as a form of foreign intervention, with the assistance of open enemies of the nationalist government. The repercussion in Chinese popular opinion would be inevitable and clear. The effect upon Sino-British relations doubtless would be extremely bad.

A plan like this kind, following closely after such affairs as the Wanhsien bombardment and the recent arrests of Kuomintang members residing in the Chinese British concession, would inevitably convince Chinese opinion that British policy in China was more and more clearly becoming a frank policy of anti-nationalism.

FASCIST TERROR TOLD BY INT'L. RED AID REPORT

Fake Attempts on Duce's Life Are Exposed

The exact course of the "regeneration of Italy", as the bourgeois correspondents call it, at the hands of the murderous Mussolini is graphically told in the various facts and figures made public by the executive of the International Red Aid. It is impossible for us to reprint more than a very small part of the tale of horror and outrage that has succeeded in slipping thru the lens fingers of the fascist censor. This is the "paradise" so much admired by Judge Gery and the Hearst papers.

"Attempts" and Their Consequences.

MUCH is heard of the "invulnerability" of the bloody Duce. "No bullet can hit him." Recent disclosures following the arrest of Nicolai Garibaldi have supplied the key to this "invulnarability." It now appears that all the attempts were no more than police provocations, known to and even organized by the police in order to provide an opportunity for intensifying the campaign against the workers and all anti-fascists. That the "plots" were utilized to increase the fury of the fascist terror is shown by the following facts.

The Sept. 5, 1925, "attempt" was followed by at least eight murders, 46 injured, nearly 1,500 arrested, over 2,000 searches, 135 prohibitions of the press, and 131 liquidations of anti-fascist organizations.

The April 7, 1926, "attempt" had the following consequences: 5 murders, 18 injuries, 2,500 arrests, 315 searches, 8 prohibitions and 3 liquidations of organizations. (There seem to have been very few newspapers left to prohibit or organizations to liquidate.)

The Sept. 11 1926, "attempt": 2 murders, 53 injured, 1,000 arrested, 1,200 searches, 12 press prohibitions, 4 organizations disbanded.

The facts for the fourth "attempt" (October 30) are not yet available but it is obvious that the figures will exceed anything that has gone before.

Death to Every Anti-Fascist.

ACCORDING to the new law on the death penalty, not only is the death penalty involved against anyone who "undertakes any attempt against the life of the king, or the regent, the queen, the crown prince, or the chief of the government" (Mussolini), but against anyone "who threatens the unity of the state." Thus anyone who tells workers that their interests are opposed to the interests of the employers is subject to the death penalty. No wonder Judge Gary admires Mussolini so much.

A Spy in Every Home.

IN order to keep his eye out for every sign of sign of anti-fascist sentiment is required, according to a new regulation, that in every house there be employed a fascist porter who is to spy on the lodgers and to watch over their political opinions. The government has declared explicitly that all porters must be people "recognized" (that is, approved) by the police and fascist authorities. Inasmuch as according to the present law anybody opposed to fascism may be summarily imprisoned, the spy-porters have made themselves very useful to the fascist regime.

"Regenerating" Italy.

HERE is an example of the regeneration of Italian civilization. The deputy in Bergamo, a catholic, was taken by a fascist murder gang from his house to a near-by hill. After spitting at him and kicking him, they took him to a gallows they had erected and made all preparations to hang him. During all these proceedings the fascists danced around the unfortunate deputy like lunatics. Finally the deputy was terribly beaten and left to be taken to the hospital in a well-nigh hopeless condition.

ACCORDING to certain estimates of the bourgeois circles, nearly a quarter of a million arrests have taken place in the last period of time. Of course, the prisons proved insufficient. The wave of arrests is far from being over.

* * *

Off With Their Heads.

The fascist paper "Impero" writes: "The opponents of fascism in Italy must be completely suppressed. Italy has only one head, fascism, and one single brain, Mussolini. The heads of all those who do not believe in that must be cut off."

MANY TO ATTEND WORLD CONGRESS ON IMPERIALISM

Meeting Is Opportune for America

BRUSSELS, Jan. 16.—The congress on world imperialism that opens here in the first week in February will be a gathering of representatives of oppressed nations and peoples from every corner of the globe. The gathering will be a protest against white political rule of colored peoples as well as against extension of imperialism. Distinguished Europeans are sponsoring the conference.

Delegates From Many Lands.

There will be delegates from the United States, representing the Negro race and anti-imperialist organizations; from Cuba, Porto Rico, Colombia and Peru. Asia will be represented by Cantonese Chinese, Arabians from Palestine, and other lands. Africa will be represented by delegates from the gold coast, South African labor organizations, Tunis, Algeria, and Egypt, who will protest foreign domination.

Among the leaders of the congress are Henry Barbusse, and Ferdinand Buisson of France; Prof. Theodor Lessing of Germany and George Lansbury of England.

Comes at Opportune Time.

"As far as America is concerned the congress on world imperialism comes at an opportune time," states the All-America Anti-Imperialist League, which is the organizing body in America for the congress. "The congress is symbolic that at the same time that American imperialism is expanding, the forces which are destined to overthrow it are gathering.

"The movement for Latin-American unity is accelerated," says Manuel Gomez, secretary of the league, "by the arrogant attitude of the United States toward Mexico, by the Thompson report on the Philippines, and the sending of warships to China. The movement against American imperialism is growing, and has reached the point where the All-American Anti-imperialist league is striking real blows at the citadel of American imperialism.

"Oppressed peoples of the American continents will be represented at the Brussels conference and will be proud to stand shoulder to shoulder with the oppressed of other parts of the world in the common struggle."

Poincare Gets Confidence Vote.

PARIS, Jan. 16.—Premier Poincare was given another vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies, by a vote of 365 to 167.

Lloyd George Crowd Sounds Labor on Views and Methods

LONDON, — Symptomatic of the new tendencies of disintegration in the English Liberal party, is the "questionaire" recently sent out by Lloyd George's committee of industrial inquiry. This questionaire was elaborately arranged under nine main heads tries to probe the views of the trade unions on the aims and methods of the labor movement as well as its attitude on the laws affecting it.

This questionaire represents the attempt of the Lloyd George Liberal faction to find some sort of social basis in certain sections of English labor on the platform of extreme collaboration. This is in line with the repeated rumors and even more substantial indications of some sort of approach between the Lloyd George liberals and the right wingers in the Labor Party. Lloyd George is, of course, known to the masses of English workers for what he is and any such move would arouse the bitterest resentment and opposition against the right wingers.

German Communists Pledge Support to Chinese Revolution

MOSCOW, Jan. 16.—(Tass.) — The German Communist Party has addressed the following message to the executive of the Kuomintang and to the commanders of the Cantonese armies:

"We greet your victory over Wu Pei Fu and Sun Chuang Fang, the servants of imperialism, and we congratulate you upon the removal of your government to Central China. We hope that the workers and peasants of China will soon win their full freedom like the toilers of the Soviet Union and that your soldiers will be as well trained as the Red Army. We hope that Canton, as the revolutionary stronghold, will be well protected against the onslaught of its enemies. We promise to exert all our efforts to prevent intervention of the imperialists and the participation of the tierman capitalists. We shall demand that the German government recognizes the Canton government as the only real government of China."

Workers (Communist) Party

Chicago Workers Party Raises Issues of Vital Interest to All Workers in Municipal Elections

The Workers (Communist) Party District 8 has issued the following statement with regard to the municipal elections to be held in Chicago on March 4:

To All Chicago Labor Organizations:

The Chicago city elections will be held in April. Among the politicians of the two old parties there is now already a considerable scramble for the jobs to be filled. This is all it means to them. They are not paying the slightest attention to the interests of the workers of this city; but they do actively seek the favor of the bankers and big employers, those, whose heavy slush funds put over the "successful" candidates.

Differences Disappear.

The differences between these two old parties have disappeared long ago. Bipartisan alliances are formed or dissolved according to the distribution of campaign funds by the big capitalists and the combinations or quarrels among the politicians. When labor leaders and trade union officials participate in this game of supporting one set or another of these politicians, it merely means that they themselves have lost sight of the interests of the workers. They have become part and parcel of the capitalist political parties and the defenders and supporters of the capitalist system which rules the city.

It is precisely this system which upholds and encourages the practices of anti-labor injunctions. It is this system which encouraged the union-busting campaign of the once existing so-called citizens' committee. It permitted thugs and gunmen to protect imported scabs and sent the city police to help in the work to establish the "open shop." It is the same rule which has its unparalleled corruption and complicity are themselves responsible for what is called the present crime situation. Whether republicans or democrats makes no difference.

Vital Issues.

There are many issues vitally affecting masses of workers fundamentally bound up with these control things elections. So far, however, no candidates have appeared champioing the interests of the workers. There are the questions of the traction problem, the Chicago schools, tax dodging by big corporations and what is more important, questions of injunctions and conditions of labor in which labor and particularly its organized sections should be interested.

The Workers (Communist) Party, Chicago District, proposes that the organized labor movement of the city of Chicago unite to put up a labor ticket sponsoring a labor program for these coming elections. The basis of such movement to be the trade unions.

We Propose

We propose a set of labor candidates to be selected by a conference of trade unions and other working class organizations willing to participate, and we suggest the following issues to the attention of such conference.

The Traction Problem.

The franchise for the Chicago surface lines runs again for a extended for six months on a day to day basis. Roughly, the owners of the surface lines are "earning" annually 8 per cent on a valuation of $163,000,000. That is a profit of $13,400,000, aside from funds for maintenance and improvements, high salaries for officials, etc. The Chicago transportation system is becoming completely unutilized with increasing profits and increasing exploitation of the workers employed.

The interest of the working masses of the city of Chicago demands that there be no more franchise.

As a solution of the traction problem, we propose the control of municipal ownership of surface and elevated lines with participation in the management by the workers employed. We further propose:

A reduction of fares on surface and elevated lines.

The immediate building of a subway.

Public Utilities.

The thousands of dollars expended in the Illinois primaries slush funds prove the public utilities are run for big profits instead of what is claimed, for the public need. To really have service there should be municipal ownership of public utilities with participation in the management by the workers employed.

There should further be made a reduction of rates of utility service.

Public Schools.

The interests of capital on the Chicago school board are today sponsoring the platoon system and junior high schools. On other words, a mechanical system of education completely negating any development of the children as thinking human beings thru the platoon system and a segregation of the children of the rich and the poor thru the junior high. The schools as existing are overcrowded and becoming a real danger to the children.

In this situation the interests of labor demands that there be representatives of labor on the Chicago school board.

That teachers' councils be re-established and authorized to take over the immediate direction of the individual schools.

The military training in the public schools be prohibited.

Public Administration.

Today out of thirty-six billion dollars taxable properties, taxes are assessed and collected by the city on a valuation of only four billion dollars. Many large corporations entirely dodging parmitted and that there be a revision of assessments of taxable properties, to tax in full all large corporation properties now escaping taxation.

The interest of labor further demands that there be a thoro unionization of all city employes and workers on city jobs with wage increases commensurate with the requirements of a decent standard of living. Not only to employes in administrative positions, but to all employes of the city including workers employed on city jobs.

And finally the interest of labor demands:

Prohibition of labor injunctions in labor disputes.

No race segregation, but full economic and social equality of all races.

These issues will form a practical basis for a labor program upon which labor candidates should be entered for the coming Chicago city council elections.

The establishment of such united labor ticket has become an actual need of the working masses of the city of Chicago.

District No. 8.

What We Have Done to Keep The DAILY WORKER

By C. E. RUTHENBERG
General Secretary, Workers (Communist) Party.

THE Keep The DAILY WORKER campaign on January 13 showed close to $30,000 of the $60,000 fund has been raised. Altho we have not raised the total of $60,000, this is an achievement for the party. With the contributions which will still be made, and with The DAILY WORKER moving to its new base in New York City, we are in a fair way to overcome the crisis which threatened the life of The DAILY WORKER.

The standing of the districts in raising their quota for the Keep The DAILY WORKER Fund is as follows:

| District | Quote | Amount raised | Percentage |
|---|---|---|---|
| 4—Buffalo | $ 1,100 | $1,296.62 | 117.87 |
| 7—Detroit | 2,500 | 2,877.10 | 115.06 |
| Agricultural | 400 | 389.85 | 97.46 |
| 10—Kansas City | 1,000 | 962.64 | 96.26 |
| 8—Chicago | 7,500 | 5,890.98 | 78.54 |
| 3—Philadelphia | 3,000 | 1,888.74 | 62.96 |
| 12—San Francisco | 3,000 | 1,852.46 | 61.75 |
| 9—Minneapolis | 3,500 | 2,107.92 | 60.23 |
| 6—Cleveland | 3,000 | 1,722.49 | 57.41 |
| 5—Pittsburgh | 2,500 | 1,183.88 | 47.35 |
| 2—New York | 15,000 | 6,920.49 | 46.14 |
| 12—Seattle | 2,500 | 928.88 | 37.15 |
| 13—Boston | 4,000 | 1,431.03 | 35.77 |
| 15—New Haven | 1,000 | $30.92 | 33.09 |
| Canada and Foreign | | 109.35 | |
| Total | $50,000 | $29,893.35 | 59.79 |

Many of the units of the party have not raised the quota of $5.00 per member which was set as the aim of every party unit in the campaign. These units are urged to continue to collect the funds resulting from the sale of the Keep The DAILY WORKER certificates and to endeavor to place their nucleus among those which appear in the honor list.

On January 24 The DAILY WORKER will be published in New York City. With the strengthening of the editorial staff thru the comrades who will be drawn into the work of building our paper in its new location, The DAILY WORKER will become even a better working class revolutionary paper than it has been in the past.

The removal of The DAILY WORKER to New York City places upon the eastern districts of the party, which have lagged far behind in the Keep The DAILY WORKER campaign, with the exception of Philadelphia, which has made a fair showing, the responsibility of increasing their support.

New York, Boston and New Haven, particularly, must come to the front by a continued campaign to raise the quota for the Keep The DAILY WORKER fund. The New York district promises to complete its quota of $15,000, which will boost the Keep The DAILY WORKER fund close to the $40,000 mark. The other districts must make a similar effort.

The Chicago district has arranged a Keep The DAILY WORKER bazaar, thru which the balance of its quota will be raised and Chicago put over the 100% mark.

While the daily drive for the Keep The DAILY WORKER fund in the columns of our paper has been discontinued, the work of raising the Keep The DAILY WORKER fund must be continued thru the work of the party organization until the full $50,000 is raised.

The completion of the Keep The DAILY WORKER fund, or a large part of the balance which is still to be raised, will give us a sound foundation for the work of this year.

The subscription drive, thru which the number of readers and supporters of The DAILY WORKER is to be increased, will have as its aim to increase the subscribers for The DAILY WORKER to 20,000. This subscription drive must be taken up with the same spirit which has been shown by the party in raising the Keep The DAILY WORKER fund. If we can win 20,000 subscribers, besides the newsstand circulation of our paper, we will assure that The DAILY WORKER will continue to serve our movement as one of its most important weapons in the fight against capitalism.

While the outlook of The DAILY WORKER for the future is improved every party member, every unit of the party, every sympathizer with our movement, must realize that a working class revolutionary paper can only live and grow strong thru the continued, day to day, enthusiastic support of those who stand with it in its fight.

IT IS THIS SUPPORT WHICH MUST BE MOBILIZED AND ORGANIZED FOR THE DAILY WORKER. WITH SUCH SUPPORT WE WILL KEEP THE DAILY WORKER.

AT all times the contents of shop bulletin must be tied, linked up with the situation in the shop, with the facts of life in the shop, which leading article, based on some event or condition in the shop or the industry which is of outstanding importance at the time, must appear regularly in each issue of the paper, focusing the attention of the workers on a particular problem, and breaking what would otherwise be a monotonous array of facts, all of equal significance. Since the paper must appeal to all the employes in the enterprise, the contents will not be complete without news of the different departments. In factories where women and young people are employed, their problems should be dealt with in special articles, and, if possible, a column set aside for a discussion of matters pertaining primarily to them. It is necessary also to expose the inequalities existing under the capitalist system, and explain how the workers are robbed of the products of their labor. Facts should therefore be given on the profits of the company, and a concrete contrast drawn between the workers' mode of life and that of their bosses.

The factory newspaper must become the voice of the factory. The workers must be made to feel that this is their paper, expressing their thots and wishes. They must be invited to write for it, to contribute to a letter box, or a workers' column, which should be made a feature of every shop paper. We cannot expect a flood of contributions immediately upon the appearance of the paper, but the workers can gradually be encouraged to write, especially when they are assured their identity will not be revealed. In this way the pulse of the shop, as it were, will be felt by our party group in the factory, and the workers will come to accept the paper as their own with increased interest and enthusiasm.

Human Interest.

A VERY important matter which has been neglected in the factory papers thus far published in America is what we may call the element of human interest. We are often led, because of our absorption in the weighty problems of the labor movement, to underestimate the importance of light features, and to forget that the workers we aim to reach thru our factory newspapers are not constantly buried in solemn thot, or engrossed in the serious activity of the class struggle. Our shop papers must not be overburdened with heavy articles. They must have variety, and make an intimate, personal appeal. Jokes, anecdotes, and jokes, all pointedly illustrating the conditions and needs of the workers, are an excellent medium of approach, and even the newspapers. News of a worker who has been discharged or who has fallen ill thru overwork or other hazards connected with his job, comments on the economic need which compels both husband and wife to work such personal items make a decided appeal to the question of wages, hours, safety measures, etc. This aspect of the factory newspaper must receive careful attention.

The shop paper, however, must not devote itself only to the questions as arise within the walls of the factory. It must look beyond, envisage the labor movement as a whole. In order to relate the struggles of the workers of a particular plant to the struggles of labor in general, to show the dependence of their conditions upon the conditions of the working class in its entirety, the factory newspaper should carry items about other workers in the same industry, news of the labor movement, of strikes and other significant events illustrating the class struggle. In this way the seeds of class solidarity will be planted and a basis laid for the development of class consciousness—one of the main foundations of shop papers.

Party Campaigns and Shop Papers.

THIRD all this variety of material must run the binding thread of the party program and campaigns. Each factory newspaper should link its contents to the special tasks of the Communist group within that factory; at the same time all shop papers must be definitely based on the work of the party as a whole.

At the present time one of the biggest campaigns of the party, which is also a vital need of the American labor movement, is organization of the unorganized workers. Most of the factory papers in this country are published in unorganized shops or industries. The tasks of the party group is therefore to agitate for organization, to point out the value of trade unionism, contrasting conditions in union and non-union shops, to urge affiliation with trade unions where these exist in the industry—as in the automobile plants and machine shops or lay the basis for their formation. Again, the party is engaged in a campaign against company unionism. It then becomes one of the concrete tasks of the party group in those plants where such unions exist to utilize the shop paper for agitation in line with this drive. In fact, the shop paper must become a platform for agitation against all "co-operation" schemes of the bosses calculated to develop a spirit of submission and weaken or destroy class conscious mass. One of these schemes which has spread considerably within the past decade is the publication of employe magazines. As against these organs of the capitalist class our factory newspapers must be developed as organs of the workers, exposing the aims of the company paper as basis of capitalist propaganda.

Every shop paper must present a definite program to the workers, embodying such demands as may be necessitated by conditions within the shop and the program of our party. It is not enough merely to call attention to these conditions and then, as it were, leave the problem hanging in the air. Nor is it effective to deal with questions in the abstract fashion. All these problems must be tied together, and a clear-cut program for the plant formulated by the Communist fraction. The factory paper must raise these demands—whether it be the 8-hour day, or sanitary washrooms or an increase in wages—and systematically rally the workers of the shop in support of them. These demands should be presented in the very first issue of each paper, and should form the main substance of all succeeding issues. Only in this way can the shop paper be the constructive guide of the workers in the plant and establish the influence of the Communist fraction.

The Importance of Political Agitation.

THIS brings us to a very important problem, one which has presented the most difficulties in the preparation of factory newspapers. In discussing the contents of these papers we have thus far dealt principally with industrial and economic questions, which, as has been stated, constitute the basis of approach to the workers. The factory paper, however, is not merely an economic organ, concerned only with questions of wages and hours. It has a very definite political purpose, and must be developed as a revolutionary weapon. Failure to grasp this, and a consequent failure to properly relate and balance economics with politics, has proven the main weakness of factory newspapers in this country.

It must be clearly understood that the factory newspaper is not simply a trade union paper. True, it deals extensively with trade union organization and economic demands; but while its immediate objective may be written up in such a way that the employes should see them in their relation to the class struggle in its entirety, and the battle of the workers for power and control,

WITH THE YOUNG WORKERS

CONDUCTED BY THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

PETTY-BOURGEOIS PACIFISM

By NAT KAPLAN.
Article II.

LAST year the petty-bourgeoisie opposition to militarism reached the colleges and quite a sentiment was created against the continuance of the compulsory military training in the colleges thru the war department instrument known as the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (R. O. T. C.). In certain quarters where students from proletarian families influenced the situation, real actions were undertaken as, for example, the big referendum vote against the compulsory military drill in the City College of New York and the mass meetings held therewith. Such actions must be extended.

The Pink Opposition.

The shortcoming of the movement is that it is permeated thru and thru with pacifism, the so-called pink anti-militarism. It is a wavering, indecisive movement, and finds its expression in the National Student Forum. The student branches of the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., etc. The recent Milwaukee conference of the college Y's" after declaring for the discussion against militarism and imperialism, did not pass a resolution on the question under the pretext that resolutions are of little value anyway.

This students' movement is permeated with the ideology of indecision, of running from pillar to post, of not acting but experimenting and investigating, of educating one's self for the future. "You have only three summers of your college life," says the New Student, organ of the National Student Forum in its April, 7, 1926, issue, "Use them experimentally. Try new thots and different beliefs." This wavering attitude, a reflex of the economic status of the petty-bourgeoisie in capitalist society, is brought homeven more clearly in an editorial of the New Student of March 1, 1926:

"There are more student writers gathered in this number than we have had together at once in quite a length of time; there is also more disagreement between them and the editors than usual. SOME OF THEM WE BELIEVE ARE WRONG FROM START TO FINISH. THESE ARE NOT SPECIFIED HERE, BUT THEY ARE A RATHER INTELLIGENT GROUP, ARE THEY NOT?" (My emphasis.—M. K.)

Red Baiting.

Here we see a paper without an editorial policy, without a line, afraid to criticise what it disagrees with. And if you think that the above quotation means "freedom of expression" to all, including Communists and particularly the Communist anti-militarists, let us disillusion you. There is nothing but misrepresentations and perversions of the Communist position in this sheet.

For example, when the Young Workers (Communist) League was participating in two working youth conferences which were dominated by non-Communist young workers organizations for unionization and better conditions; when we were trying to broaden out these conferences to include as large a number of non-Communist young workers as possible, the New Student did its bit by trying to destroy support for the conferences thru the following note in its issue of April 28, 1926: "The Young Workers (Communist) League non-league members will be admitted by special permission." Other examples of anti-red propaganda can be shown in this sheet.

The height of asinity of the petty-bourgeoisie students is to pass resolutions, which after being passed, are neatly shelved. And resolutions on what questions? Resolutions on all the reformist slogans which have been shouted so much since the world war by the social democrats and the bourgeoisie - pacifists and have so miserably failed.

Pacifist Slogans.

The New Student editorially congratulates the resolutions of the International Student Conference which conference held in Evanston, Ill., Dec. 29 to Jan. 1, 1926, which declares:

"In particular we urge the immediate ratification of the protocol of the Permanent Court of International Justice at the Hague, participation of the United States in formulating plans for the projected disarmament conference and entry into the League of Nations."

But slogans of entering the world court and disarmament are the slogans of Wall Street and not Wall Street Coolidge government in Washington. Yet the petty-bourgeoisie pacifists gobble up these slogans and spend the illusion that peace will come if the United States enters the International Robbers' Combine known as the League of Nations thru its back door, the world court. The class conscious workers know of the atrocities committed against the oppressed colonist masses in China, Syria and Morocco, etc., during the reign of the league and under the slogan of peace. They saw the league turn over Mossul oil to the British imperialists. They see the American imperialists extending one hand to the world court and with the other hand invading Nicaragua, preparing for similar action in Mexico, rushing gun boats to China.

Disarmament Bunk.

Then they spread the illusion that the bourgeoisie governments will disarm in the face of an international tension in the race for more armaments by the capitalist governments. The young workers must realize that the capitalist governments will arm and arm themselves. They need a large armed force to quell the national revolution in their colonies, to fight their rivals in the struggle to dominate the world, to fight the oppressed masses at home in the revolutionary struggle against capitalism (strikes, etc.), to fight against revolutionary governments.

Thus we see that militarism is part of capitalism and to abolish militarism exists in the first place to abolish capitalism. "Universal disarmament" means that the Soviet Union must disarm in the face of an armed attack of the imperialist world, that the Shanghai liberals lay down their arms in face of the American marines and gunboats, that the Cantonese must disarm. We are opposed to such disarmament and in favor of the war for national liberation, for the revolutionary government to protect its interests, for the class war. The slogan of "universal disarmament" is reactionary and perverts the real struggle against the manufacture and transport of war material.

What Is Going to Happen in Chicago Sunday, March 13?

What is going to happen in Chicago Sunday, March 13, is the question being asked in the Russian colony of Chicago. The Worker Correspondents of the New Mir are preparing something, but would not say what. The rumors have it, that Mirror Hall was rented by them for that day.

But what is going to happen? That is the question being asked.

LIEBKNECHT MEETINGS.

BUFFALO—January 22, 8 p. m., at Workers Forum Hall, 36 West Huron street. Speaker, Sam Kesman.

BOSTON—Labor Memorial Hall, 9 Appleton St., Jan. 23rd, 2:30 p. m., S. Bloomfield, speaker.

NEWARK—Sunday, Jan. 23rd, 7:30 p. m. Newark Labor Lyceum, 701 So. 4th street, near Springfield Ave.

PITTSBURGH—Sunday, Jan. 23rd at 8 p. m., at Labor Lyceum.

New Revolutionary Drama Form to Feature Lenin Memorial Jan. 23

"STRIKE!"—This word that embodies the meaning of working class struggle against wage slavery is the title of a drama form new to the United States that will be an apt part of the great memorial to Nicolai Lenin by Chicago workers on January 23.

"Strike" is the name of a mass recitation written by one of the foremost of the young revolutionary writers in this country, Michael Gold. It catches the real spirit of working class solidarity and proletarian struggle and it is because of this that it fits in so well as part of the observance of the memory of one whose entire life was given to that struggle.

Ashland Auditorium, Ashland and Van Buren, will be the scene of the third Lenin memorial meeting to be held by Chicago workers. Speakers of national prominance and musical numbers will round out a full program. The memorial is under the auspices of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Gitlow to Address Lenin Memorial at Akron on January 19

AKRON, O., Jan. 16. — The Workers Party of Akron will hold a Lenin memorial meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 19 at Liberty Hall, 601 S. Main Street, 7:30 o'clock. Ben Gitlow of the New Mir will be the main speaker. His subject is "Lenin, His Life and Works."

Admission will be 10 cents. All workers are urged to attend this meeting to pay tribute to the memory of the great leader and to learn of his life.

"The pen is mightier than the sword," provided you knew how to use it. Come down and learn now in the worker correspondent's classes.

LENIN AS A MARXIST

By N. Bukharin

The Present Chairman of the Communist International.

This splendid analysis of Lenin and his place in the field of Marxism is written by N. Bukharin, who is considered one of the leading living Marxists of the present day. This book is not a mere personal tribute to Lenin. It is rather an attempt to analyze Lenin's contribution to the principles of Marxism. The book treats the following phases of the subject: The Marxism of Lenin; Lenin and the Peasantry; The Theory of Proletarian Dictatorship; Lenin and Imperialism; Lenin on the State; Lenin as a Publicist; The Theory of Proletarian Revolution and Dictatorship; Lenin and Proletarian Culture.

On sale now at 40 cents a copy, attractively bound in paper.

LEWIS MACHINE USES PRESSURE FOR CONVENTION; DELEGATE ELECTIONS IN ILLINOIS UNION HOTLY FOUGHT

(Special to The Daily Worker)

O'FALLON, Ill., Jan. 16.—Local 708, United Mine Workers of America, elected a progressive delegate to the Mine Workers' International Convention. But it is doubtful whether the machine will let him go.

This local met at the regular time to elect delegates, and voted from early evening until two o'clock in the morning. The machine succeeded in throwing out of the meeting various progressives, so that it was impossible to secure a majority vote for any candidate.

The meeting was adjourned until next evening for further voting; word spread around the locality of the situation, the progressives turned out and when the vote was taken the next night, the progressive, Luke Coffey, got 87 votes to 39 given his opponent, A. Campbell. It is reported that the machine will ask for an order prohibiting Coffey from attending the convention, on the grounds that he was not elected on the proper date.

Pass Resolutions.

In this same local all of the progressive resolutions were passed. There was little opposition to any of them but the resolution in favor of recognizing Soviet Russia and the resolution ordering international officials not to negotiate or sign any contracts of more than one year's duration. A bitter attack on each of these was led by Dan Thomas, sub-district president, and Dan Wilson, for many years an appointee of the machine.

All the locals in Collinsville are sending progressive delegates to the international convention. In Belleville there are four progressives, four machine delegates, and two doubtful.

Most of the delegates from Springfield sub-district are progressives.

Sigman's Pact with Bosses in Secrecy Cloud

ret, and announce only that the agreement has been renewed.

A shop chairman's meeting to consider that situation had been called at Webster Hall, 119 East 11th street, for Thursday evening.

Covert Agreements.

"It is probable that these concessions to the manufacturers are not the only ones that Sigman has made," Louis Hyman, manager of the joint board, said today in discussing the terms of the agreement. "We know from past experience that he is likely to make a 'supplementery' and secret agreement with the employers, practically nullifying important points in the agreement that he announces to the workers."

Happened Before.

Such a case occurred in 1925 when it was discovered that former Vice-President Feinberg had made a "secret supplementary" agreement with the American Association of Dress Manufacturers that nullified the most important points in the agreement by stipulating that such clauses would not be enforced. Sigman is perfectly willing to sign away the hard-won rights of the workers in his unscrupulous attempts to crush the honest and progressive elements of the union.

It has been openly announced in the trade papers during this past week that the employers would deal with whichever side would consent to their terms, and they have realized that the joint board would never allow the terms they are getting from the International. Sigman is making a united front with the employers against the workers in order to further his own nefarious schemes.

An attempt of the International to obtain money to carry on its fight against the joint board and at the same time gain control of the office buildings of the "ousted" locals and the joint board has been checkmated by appeal to the courts, Hyman announced today.

Try to Mortgage Property.

Locals 2, 9 and 22 have filed pleas for orders restraining their building companies from mortgaging or selling the buildings of the locals. After he had "ousted" the officers of these locals, Sigman appointed new officers, who have attempted to negotiate mortgages with the incorporated building companies that have the properties in trust for the locals.

Thus the International would be able to raise large sums to use in its fight against the joint board, and would menace their tenure of the buildings. The suits are expected to checkmate this scheme.

Frame-up Collapses.

An attempted frame-up of Isadore Moskowitz, organizer for the joint board, who was arrested last week on charges of felonous assault, collapsed in court today when Magistrate Joan Norris refused to take the charge seriously, and dismissed it, imposing a small fine on a substitute charge of "disorderly conduct." The arrest of Moskowitz grow out of an attempt of the International to cover up its own methods of gangsterism and terrorism by "proving" gangsterism against the joint board. A "committee" which represented itself as coming from the joint board under orders of Moskowitz spread terror in one of the shops and Moskowitz was "identified" as its leader, altho he was not on the scene and was able to prove in court that he had been eating breakfast in a restaurant at the time of the attack.

C. & A. RAILROAD ANTI-LABOR WAR WRECKING ROAD

Equipment Near Junk to Avoid Recognition

The attempt of the bankrupt Chicago & Alton railroad to operate its shops on a company union basis is rapidly reducing its rolling stock to junk, according to reports from shop points along the line. The belief is growing among the employes that the company will attempt to save the situation in the spring and summer by sending its decrepid freight cars to contract shops for repairs.

Turn Over Repairs.

This belief that the C. & A. intends to turn over the maintenance of its equipment to outside contractors to avoid union recognition is supported by the fact that the company has contracted out its coach cleaning and the coal chute work at the Chicago terminal. Colliani & Son, who took the contract, expected to do the work cheaply with inexperienced common labor. The conditions established by this contractor caused most of the experienced coach cleaners to throw up their jobs. Labor turnover has been high and the sanitary condition of trains on the Alton is bad as a result.

Is Uneconomical, Too.

Prior to the 1922 shop strike the railroads had resorted to the contracting out of maintenance work in order to undermine the shop unions. But it proved very uneconomical. When the interstate commerce commission investigated it found repairs costing 2 to 3 times the expense when done by union shopmen in the railroad shops.

Workers' Morale Low.

The present poll v of the C & A management has given the morale of the shop forces to a low ebb. The road refuses recognition to the shop unions altho 98 per cent of its shopmen are members of these unions. It continues to check dues to the company union out of their pay contrary to the wishes of 99 per cent of the employes.

The percentage of bad order cars on the road is increasing. Only such repairs as are being made as are absolutely necessary to keep a maximum of cars in operation. When cars are carried for heavy repairs at outside shops points the foremen are taking off as much as possible at the time in order to reduce costs without repairs. By this means they hope to create a false appearance of cutting down expenses.

Connecticut State Conference to Fight Alien Bills, Jan. 23

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 16.—A state conference of the Connecticut Council for Protection of Foreign-Born Workers is to be held on Jan. 23, at Fraternal Hall, 19 Elm street, New Haven.

Trade unions and fraternal organizations thruout the state are electing two delegates to represent them at this meeting.

Secretary F. Alfeno of the New Haven council has arranged a special Italian mass meeting for Sunday afternoon, Jan. 16, at Music Hall where Arturo Giovannitti will be the speaker. Leaflets will be handed out giving an account of the vicious anti-alien bills which the council is fighting, and where the workers will be invited to send delegates to the Jan. 23 conference.

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 16.—Charleroi branch of Connellsville region will hold its first conference Sun., Jan. 16, at the Slovak Hall, 700 McKean Ave., Charleroi.

All trade unions and labor fraternal organizations are requested to send delegates. Those organizations that will not meet before the date of the conference, may be represented by their officials.

Unemployment and Low Wages Make Workers Desperate in Calif.

By L. P. RINDAL
(Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16. — Workers, some of them, are getting desperate here. Two dishwashers, who for some time had been working for their board in a restaurant on Pico street, "helped" themselves to $60 in cold cash in a cold-blooded manner the other day. They probably thought that they had earned the money, $30 each, and then some.

Another man, 75, broke a jewelry store window, grabbed a diamond and waited for the police. He pleaded with the judge to send him to the penitentiary for the rest of his life.

BISHOP BROWN TO TOUR FOR LABOR DEFENSE

Famous "Heretic" Goes on Road for I. L. D.

In response to numerous requests urgently made by the West, arrangements are being completed for a Western tour for International Labor Defense by the internationally famous "heretic bishop," William Montgomery Brown. Approximately a dozen meetings will be held with Bishop Brown as the chief speaker in the main centers of the West.

Interest in Book.

Nation-wide interest in Bishop Brown and his work was first created with the publication a few years ago in this country of his famous booklet, "Communism and Christianism," which he wrote with the slogan of "Banish the Gods from the Skies and the Capitalists from the Earth." Not only did the booklet sell in tens of thousands of copies in this country, going thru one edition after another, but it was translated into numerous other languages and printed in countries in every part of the world. His second book, "My Heresy," gives the complete story of his life and work.

The non-conformist opinions expressed in his booklet, together with Bishop Brown's open sympathy with the labor and radical movements of the United States, came to a head with the attempt of the house of bishops of his church to unfrock him. A number of trials and appeals were instituted with the result that, after a sensational trial in New Orleans, the bishops decided to convict Bishop Brown of entertaining heretical opinions, despite that, he now bishop of the Old Catholic church.

Aids Labor.

Previous to that time, and since, Bishop Brown, despite his advanced age, has given a great portion of his time to aiding the progressive labor movement. Since its inception, he has been a member of the national committee of International Labor Defense and has spoken at numerous meetings under its auspices. His meetings thruout the country and in Canada have been highly successful and thousands of workers have gathered to hear the interesting and unusual viewpoint of this "heretic bishop".

Definite dates are being arranged swiftly in the forthcoming tour for International Labor Defense, and as soon as these arrangements are completed, the dates, cities, and halls will be made public. Special efforts are being made to make these meetings unusually successful, and if the opinions of those who have been held is an indication it is certain that thousands of workers will be present at the meetings to be held.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn Ill.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, nationally-known labor orator and organizer, who is chairman of Intl. Labor Defense and active leader of the Passaic textile strike, has been making a coast-to-coast tour for the I. L. D., has been taken ill during her stay in the northwest and is now confined to a hospital at Portland, Oregon. This information was today received by the national office of International Labor Defense.

Altho the illness is not a very serious one, and Comrade Flynn is under excellent medical care, she is unable to speak at the meetings scheduled for her in her swing back to the east, so her physician has ordered her to rest for some time and many of the meetings already arranged in the tour, which was to end at the starting point in New York, will unfortunately have to be postponed. At some of the meetings in Minnesota at which Comrade Flynn was to speak, Ralph Chaplin, the noted I. W. W. poet, who is a member of the executive committee of the I. L. D., spoke in her place to the satisfaction of the audience.

It is hoped that the illness of Comrade Flynn will be of very short duration so as to enable her to resume the work into which she has put a lifetime of energetic struggle and ability.

Filibuster on Bill for Mothers' Care

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. — Filibustering against any vote on the renewal of federal aid to the states under the Maternity and Infancy act, Sen. Bayard of Delaware, Blease of South Carolina and Reed of Missouri have blocked the progress of that measure since the middle of last session.

Sen. Sheppard of Texas has now served notice that he will use all possible means, without obstructing necessary appropriation measures of the departments, to keep this measure before the senate until a vote is permitted by the opposition.

Labor and other organizations having humanitarian ideals have anticipated the continuance of the work of saving the lives of mothers and babies by teaching proper care of health at the time of childbirth and early infancy. Tens of thousands of lives have been saved by this work in two years, according to public health officials.

Why don't you write it up? It may be interesting to other workers.

The Spokesman.

"I rise to a question of personal confusion," said Senator Reed of Missouri on the floor of the senate the other day. "For some weeks I have been wandering in mists of doubt and uncertainty in reference to the public business of the country. There was suddenly interjected into the newspapers a nameless individual called 'the spokesman of the president.' I have been questioning whether he was some mythical creature created by the wicked newspapermen of Washington." The "spokesman" is a typical example of the hypocrisy and lack of straightforwardness of the representatives of American capitalism in their dealings with "the public."

Senator Reed might well go further than the president's "mysterious phantom" and ask who it is for whom the capitalist editors speak when they pass opinion on the events of the day. Editors assume a detached or impartial manner which often misleads the unwary reader. But the period of personal journalism is gone when a newspaper is the mouthpiece of this or that individual. The newspaper of today is the expression of certain forces in society rather than that of any particular individual. How and by what interests the newspapers of the day are supported and therefore the elements in society for whom they speak is shown clearly by the following figures recently issued by the U. S. department of commerce for the year 1926.

Newspapers printed about 1,290,000,000 lines of advertising during the year.

The first ten months of the year showed 1,043,118,000 lines of advertising in newspapers and 22,191,000 lines in magazines, the latter being a gain of 9 per cent.

National newspaper advertising amounted to 295,922,000 lines up to October 31. Toilet articles and medical preparation advertising led the list with 34,508,000; foods, groceries and beverages being second with 38,312,000 lines, and cigars, tobacco and cigarettes 21,624,000 lines.

STILL ROOM FOR MORE RECRUITS IN REHEARSAL OF MASS RECITATION

Rehearsals are now going on for the mass recitation "The Strike" which is to be presented at the Lenin Memorial Meeting Sunday, Jan. 23. Rehearsals take place Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m., and Sunday mornings from 10:30 to 12 m.

The effectiveness of the presentation depends on the choruses which have speaking parts, short stories, which can be learned easily. More volunteers are requested to come to the next rehearsal, Sunday morning. All rehearsals are at the Russian School, 1902 W. Division. Come and make this a success. Members of language choruses are especially urged to attend.

Workers desirous of attending the rehearsal are invited.

An Answer to Our Challenge.

Dear Comrade: Have been named, have been challenged to let you know at once what I have done in the last few weeks to KEEP The DAILY WORKER and help it to overcome the financial crisis.

The party members and supporters of The DAILY WORKER want to know what I have done. Crisis, big serious emergency to KEEP The DAILY WORKER. to KEEP OUR SLOGAN going. Must show it as past history and could not be efficient at this critical stage to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER.

Instead, my challenge is that all comrades and supporters of The DAILY WORKER who have been employed or earned wages for the last six months should answer to me like twice within a fortnight and to CONTRIBUTE ONE DAYS WAGE TO KEEP THE DAILY WORKER.

Enclosed you will find a money order of my ONE DAYS WAGE contribution of $10.00 TO KEEP THE DAILY WORKER. WILL THEY ALL JOIN WITH ME AND ALWAYS BE READY TO CARRY FORWARD TO SUPPORT THE CAMPAIGN TO KEEP THE DAILY WORKER?

Comradely yours,

Leo Hofbauer.

Fight Company Union on Gotham Bus Lines, Ask Franchise Clause

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.— Unionists will demand that the board of estimate insert in the new bus franchise to be awarded soon that bus workers be allowed to join any organization they see fit without interference from the employers. A delegation representing the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, the New York State Federation of Labor, and the A. F. of L. will call on the board and insist that no franchise be given unless the company agrees to the desired provisions.

This is demanded to prevent the forcing of a company union on the bus workers, such as the Interborough "brotherhood" on the I. R. T.

Czar Green at St. Petersburg

The story from our correspondent at Tampa, Florida, appearing on page one of today's issue, entirely confirms our repeated declarations that the official leadership of the American Federation of Labor is the tail of Wall Street's imperialist kite.

What does this story show? That the executive council of the A. F. of L., meeting at Tampa, has nothing to say about the attack upon the labor movement of the two Americans, represented by the present occupation of Nicaragua by U. S. marines and the threat of war against Mexico, involved in the defense of the privileges of exploitation enjoyed by Wall Street oil companies in that country.

The Mexican labor movement is the main prop of the present government of Mexico that is threatened by the Coolidge-Kellogg policy. The Nicaraguan labor movement, one of the most active sections of the Pan-American Federation of Labor, is being crushed by United States armed forces along with the liberal rebels whom it supports. Not a word about all this from the balmy seashore at St. Petersburg where the council is meeting.

Instead, President Green speaks at a meeting in Tampa (the stage, as usual, decorated by local captains of industry) following an under-secretary of the state department who told his audiences what wonders the diplomatic service of the U. S. government is doing for the extension of trade and commerce. Does Green say anything about what wonders the state department is doing in Nicaragua now? No. He makes no mention of Mexico or Nicaragua.

But to the unsuppressed delight of his board of trade friendsitting on the platform, Green proudly announces that the executive council has decided to expel the left wing and Communist members of the trade unions. He says this in reference to the Furriers' Union in New York City where 12,000 workers, under the leadership of the left wing and the Communists won the forty-hour, five day week and wage increases after a long and hard-fought battle with the bosses. Is it any wonder the bosses of Tampa smiled proudly when they heard the president of the A. F. of L. say that the leaders of a successful strike are to be expelled from that organization?

Such is the position of the A. F. of L. executive: objective support to the Wall Street rape of Nicaragua and the oil thieves in Mexico by failing to rally the decisive force in this country that can put a stop to both—the labor movement—and breaking down the morale of that movement by the summary expelling from it of successful strike leaders.

$28,000 Becomes $288,000,000

That the government may have been beat out of $30,000,000 in taxes on Ford Motor Co. shares sold in 1919 is of far more interest to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon (himself reputed to be a clever old bird at the game) than the Ford worker whose labor built the huge fortune that made such a gigantic tax dodge possible. What should open the eyes of the paternalized slave of River Rouge and Highland Park is the fact that a mere $28,000 (some of it in notes) put up in 1903 as the original capitalization of the motor company grew by 1926 into an international concern valued at some $288,000,000.

Where came all this wealth? All the original stockholders retired millionaires many times over in 1919. From 1903 to that year they amassed a fortune that, when sold, is, according to the claims of the government, liable to taxation alone of $52,000,000. They had nothing to do with the business.

The wealth of the Ford family is untold. Since 1919 they are the sole owners of the hundreds of millions involved in the company today.

There are now 200,000 or more Ford workers. Some of these must have been working for the company since its birth. They are making six dollars a day.

The industrial development of the country, the creation of a social need adapted to the period, the expansion of American trade and commerce to all sections of the earth, the financial hegemony of the United States—all of these are the objective contributing factors that made the Ford institution possible.

But who made the wealth? The hundreds of thousands of workers who have passed, for more of a score of years, thru the heart-breaking and nerve-wrecking machine known as the "Ford system." The labor of those myriads of toilers, paid for at an extremely low rate considering the terrible extraction thru speed-up and routine—this alone made possible the $288,000,000 and the millions more in unearned dividends. This is not only the lesson of the phenomenal Ford fortune; it is the lesson of all capitalist fortunes.

"World Heading for Smash"—Leacock; Sees No Way Out; Forgets Communism

(Special to The Daily Worker)

OTTAWA, Ontario, Canada, Jan. 16.—In a speech delivered before the big audience that came to the lecture arranged by the Professional Institute, Professor Stephen Leacock, well-known economist and humorist, said that if the problem of distributing wealth was not solved then the world would "blow up." He pictured quite graphically the "economically unjust world" in which we are living and declared that in radically criticizing it "we must go at least that far with the Communist and Socialist."

"We cannot analyze the world and find there is justice in it," he continued, "and we cannot solve the problem of social injustice by denying it exists. We live in a strange medley of complex forces. The blind forces of the industrial machine are getting beyond our control and all the more need exists therefore for the creation of a body of economic thought to grapple with this extraordinary problem."

He also cast for the creation of a body of economic thought to grapple with this extraordinary problem." Thus he admits the bankruptcy of all bourgeois economics in the face of the problems raised by modern industrial capitalism. But "this body of economic thought" after which Prof. Leacock longs so much has already been created and is used very effectively by the workers in fighting against capitalism. It is Marxism. Prof. Leacock cannot recognize Marxism, however, because it demands the destruction of the capitalist system. And so he is left without any economics at all.

None are so blind as those who will not see.

Passaic Enters the Twelfth Month

January 25th Will Mark a Full Year of Struggle by the Passaic Textile Strikers

TIGHTENING their belts yet another notch, the Passaic textile strikers have entered their twelfth month of struggle grimly prepared to battle on against the gaunt spectre of hunger and the myriad other weapons of the millionaire textile bosses until the 47th remaining mills shall have settled on the basis of Passaic Worsted, Botany Worsted, Garfield Worsted and Dundee Textile.

Strike One Year Old.

IT will be one year January 25 since the big textile strike began, precipitated by a ten per cent cut in wages already too low for anything but a near starvation existence. The strikers have forced the bosses to make many concessions since last January, even including the restoration of the wage cut, but nothing short of recognition of the union would satisfy them. Workers who had learned their lesson well in the long months of the struggle. Two months ago, on November 11, the first break occurred in the mill owners' opposition to a real workers' union, with Passaic Worsted signing an agreement with the union on the basis of (1) recognition of the union; (2) right of collective bargaining; (3) wage cut not demanded; (4) arbitration; (5) no discrimination in re-employment. Five weeks later the powerful Botany and its subsidiary, the Garfield Worsted, followed the example of the Passaic Worsted after a futile effort to stampede the strikers by announcement of the restoration of the wage cut. Five days after the Botany settlement, the Dundee Textile followed suit.

THE fighting spirit infused into the mill workers by the left wing leadership of the group of class conscious workers who initiated and carried on the struggle in the worst months of the long fight, is still carrying them thru to the completion of a year's battle and sacrifice. For many months it was only the militant and left wing elements in the labor movement that gave support to the brave strikers, and they have not forgotten this expression of solidarity. When, finally, the American Federation of Labor came into the field and the workers were organized, with the help of the left wing, into the United Textile Workers' Union, the striking textile workers still looked to the left wing for leadership and inspiration.

Company Union vs. Real Union.

It is now a grim struggle between the Forstmann-Huffmann company union plan and the workers organized in the United Textile Workers of America. And unless the forces of organized labor rally again to their support, the strikers, after their gruelling experiences during this long struggle and particularly during the last weeks when the relief stores were almost empty—these strikers who have conducted so heroic a struggle, may become discouraged, altho today still possessed of the splendid determination that has made them a terror to the open shop forces and an inspiration to the entire working class.

Bosses Undermining Relief.

THEIR fight is made the more difficult by the subtle attacks on relief rendered by the Forstmann-Huffmann company and the open shop forces thruout the country. As a result of the lies sent broadcast in the daily press that the big textile strikers are getting relief unmerited greatly, and the strikers are now faced with the most critical of all the difficult situations that have confronted them in their long struggle for the right to organize. The Passaic strikers have faced many vicious attacks in their struggle against the powerful millionaire mill bosses, but nothing as deliberately cruel, nothing as directly menacing, nothing so near of success as this cold-blooded effort to cut off relief from the children and families of workers who have been on strike for eleven months and are now absolutely destitute. It is only thru the frantic efforts of Relief Chairman Wasshuhut and the various relief committees working for Passaic that the situation has been saved so far. But unless organized labor immediately wakes up to the menace confronting Passaic, not only will these heroic strikers be thwarted in the fight against the Forstmann-Huffmann company union, but the victories already won for the labor movement will go by the board.

Work Resumption Slow.

WHILE four of the original nine struck mills have settled with the union, this does not mean that all the workers of the settled mills have gone back to work. The very effectiveness of the strike makes re-employment on a wholesale scale impossible for weeks to come. The mill machinery is rusty and resumption of operations is necessarily slow. Re-employment is by groups, just as in the case of mills newly opening, with first the wool sorters, then carders, combers, spinners, winders, twisters, beamers, warpers, slashers, drawing-ins, weavers, examiners, finishers, dyers, etc. Little more than a thousand have been returned to the mills so far, in the big Botany mills, where normally 4,500 workers are employed, only 100 have been called for so far; 1,200 are normally employed at the Garfield Worsted, 600 at the Passaic Worsted, 150 at the Dundee Textile, but to date only 100, 250 and 50 respectively, have been returned. Some 2,000 still have temporary jobs outside the mills. This leaves 9,000 who must be fed by the union and the American labor movement.

Building the Union.

QUITE workers of the settled mills are not under the delusion that the fight is ended with settlement. Eleven only of the 47 mills of the union, in which police clubs and prejudiced courts did their share, have trained been well and they realize that the work of building the union must be carried on inside of the mills. Problems will come up which the union will have to meet. Already such problems have arisen, because of the natural tendency on the part of the mill employers to discriminate against those strikers who have been most active on the picket lines and in the delegations to mills. Very little has been done at the Passaic Worsted in this direction, but the same cannot be said for the Botany, where some very knotty questions have arisen to test the strength of the union. It will appear that the Botany has not altogether relinquished the hope of foisting a company union on its workers. Certainly there is some sort of a company union attempting to function inside the Botany, so far with no vitality whatever, and little success, in the meantime, the contrast between the spirit of the two groups of workers in the Botany is of vast interest to the observer. The little group belongs to the impotent company union, with the exception of the officers, is apathetic and dumbly unconcerned, while the group of real union members is aggressively alert and keenly interested in everything that goes on inside the mill.

Of the four settled mills, the union has had the greatest success so far in the Passaic Worsted, where most of the workers are members of the U. T. W. The union has been successful not only in obtaining the employment of its members at this mill, including some of its best material, but is supplying the help for the office as well, thus opening up new opportunities to those strikers trained as office workers by the general relief committee.

Complete Victory Possible.

IF the unemployed and striking textile workers of Passaic can be assured of continued support for the new few weeks they will be able to make all the settled mills live up to their agreements and compel the five mills still holding out to recognize the union. The strikers look to the American labor movement, which has loyally supported them from the first month of the struggle, to continue that support until a complete labor victory can be registered in Passaic.

The "Big Farm" Offers No Solution of Farmer's Problems

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

THE big farm, where every bit of work possible is done by machinery, is offered as one of the solutions of the farm problem.

The parallel is drawn with small industry that melts away before the coming of the more efficient, gigantic monopoly. So the small farm must disappear, it is argued, with the coming of the "big farm."

But this will not be a solution for the farm worker, the farm tenant and the mortgage farmer, nor even for large numbers of present-day farm owners. They will all be plunged into the same farm working class—serfs of the land.

Just as the development of billion dollar mergers in industry put great numbers of the middle class, former owners, into the shops, the mills and the mines, just so will the mechanized farm, operated on industrial lines, spell a smaller class of richer farm owners and a larger and poorer class of farm workers.

Thomas D. Campbell, of Hardin, Montana, owner of what is reputed to be the largest wheat farm in the world, is offered by Evans Clark, in the New York Times, as an excellent example of the industrialized farm overlord, who wants as little legislative interference from Washington in agriculture as Gary, Schwab, or Rockefeller desire government meddling in their business. Of course, when these capitalists want to dictate to the government, that is different.

Mr. Campbell believes in the big corporation farm. He thinks that the question of over-production, that now affects every farm staple, can be overcome by reducing production, just as is done in industry when overproduction threatens. Mr. Campbell, spokesman for the budding farm capitalists, says:

"It is evident that there are two types of farming in the United States under present economic and weather conditions: The small farm, operated by the farmer and his family without any payroll whatsoever, and the large farm, operated on an industrial basis with industrial methods, mass production, low cost per acre and increased output per man.

"The Eastern farm is in the first class, but practically all of the farm land in our corn and wheat growing states can be operated under industrial methods which will decrease the costs. All other industries in the United States have increased the output per man. Modern machine tools have made it possible for the mechanic of today to equal the output of 20 to 30 men 30 years ago. Modern locomotives have made it possible for the same train crew to pull several times the number of cars. But in a sense the farmer is still driving four horses. This limits the output per man, thereby limiting the compensation, and as a result it is impossible for the farmer to get labor in competition with the city mechanic."

With farming raised to the savious level of large scale capitalist production, Campbell claims that agriculture will take on new dignity, the "enterprising" farm boy, instead of going to the city to become a "captain in industry," will remain on the land to direct "the farm corporation."

The Campbell Farming Corporation operates a 100,000 acre wheat tract. It is declared that not an animal can be found on the Campbell farm and very few workers; the whole process of plowing, seeding, harvesting and threshing is done, on a gigantic scale, by machinery.

There has been a decrease in the number of farms from 1920 to 1925 of 75,735 or 1.2 per cent. In 1920 there were 6,448,343 farms in the United States. By 1925 this had fallen to 6,372,263 and all the indications are that the number will continue to fall.

The consolidation of farms is given as one of the major reasons for this smaller number. The migration of Negro farm workers, especially tenants, from the Southern cotton states to Northern industry is a phase of this same movement, resulting in a return to the large plantation. This movement is being augmented by the invasion and increasing use of cotton picking machinery, which does away with considerable labor and makes large scale production easier, just as the cotton gin gave cotton growing its first great impetus. The combination harvester-thresher hastens the same evolution in the grain states. That the process has been hastened in the northern states, as compared to the southern states, is shown by statistics revealing the South as a land of small farms, while in the North they are fewer and larger.

Southern states have farms as follows: Alabama, 237,564; Georgia, 249,101; Kentucky, 253,511; Mississippi, 257,227; Tennessee, 252,669, to cite a few.

Northern states make the following showing: Wisconsin, 183,144; Minnesota, 188,227; Montana, 46,896; North Dakota, 75,969; Washington, 73,266.

The drop in the number of farms would show a much larger figure were it not for the fact that some ranches and large farms are being broken up for more intensive operation, and from the development of orchards and truck and poultry farms. The establishment of small truck and poultry farms, especially near the large cities, accounts for actual increases shown in the number of farms in New England and some other parts of the east.

* * *

This evolution of the land, however, solves nothing insofar as the great human element is concerned. Great masses of wage workers on the farms being paid, according to figures for 1926, the small pittance of $32.03 per month with board, lays the basis for the building of a great organization of farm laborers reconsidering, as the organized workers in industry must inevitably do, that there is no salvation for them under capitalism.

* * *

The land, as well as natural resources and industry, must become the common heritage of all, not of the rapacious few.

BIG FARMERS PUT VIEWS TO HOUSE COMMITTEE; POOR FARMERS IGNORED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. — The Gripp and Aswell farm relief bills offer no real solution of the problem; only the MacNary-Haugen bill does this. Such is the gist of the communication sent to the house committee on agriculture by the representatives of various farm capitalist and big farmers' organizations of the United States.

The communication was signed by E. A. O'Neil and Chester H. Gray, of the American farm bureau federation, George N. Peek of the north central states agricultural conference, William Hirth of the corn belt federation of farm organizations and representatives of the American cotton growers exchange.

The position and necessities of the working farmers of this country will of course receive no consideration from the house committee nor will their voice ha able to make itself heard in its deliberations.

FARM AID NOW CERTAIN, SAYS ILLINOIS ASS'N

House Report on Haugen Bill Means Passage

"The McNary-Haugen bill will go thru this time," is the comment of Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association on word received here that the farm committee of the house of representatives had reported favorably on the new proposed farm relief legislation. The bill is a revised draft of the former McNary-Haugen proposal.

Sees No Side-Stepping.

"We are quite certain the bill will be passed this session," said Smith, "and don't think there will be any side-stepping this time. Last session the committee was split and reported several without recommendation. This year they are practically united, for the first time—which is a good sign."

Bill Satisfies.

The new Haugen bill is satisfactory, Smith said. "It is a simplification of the former bill, but contains all the main provisions wanted by the farmers."

A vigorous campaign will be conducted among Illinois farmers to bring pressure to gain passage of the bill, he said. All congressmen will be communicated with and informed of the wishes of the farmers, who demand action.

Smith said that a recent trip to Washington revealed to him that senate and house leaders favor passage of the bill at the present session.

CLEVELAND—(FP)—The American Plan Ass'n., the Cleveland open-shop organization, estimates 65,000 unemployed in the city. Other estimates make it 75,000.

Oil! A NEW NOVEL by Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair.)

Eli's preaching had thus become one of the major features of Southern California life. You literally couldn't get away from him if you tried. Dad had been told by his doctor that he needed more exercise, and he had taken to walking, for half an hour before dinner; he declared that he listened to Eli's sermons on all these walks, and never missed a single word! Everybody's house was wide open in this warm spring weather, and all you had to do was to choose a neighborhood where the moderately poor lived—and ninety per cent of the people were that. You would hear the familiar bellowing voice, and before you got out of range of it you would come in range of another radio set, and so you would be, relayed from street to street and from district to district, the sermons on sin and conjure with family bibles in their hands and tears of rapture in their eyes, or perhaps a mother washing her baby clothes or making a pudding for her husband's supper and all the time her soul caught up in awe on the wings of the modern prophet's eloquence! And Dad walking outside also exalted—because, don't forget that he was the man who had started this Third Revelation, he had invented all its parts, and day by day he had tried to keep old Abel Watkins from beating his daughter Ruth!

VI.

Bunny received a letter from Dan Irving telling about his new job. It was a couple more to be a radical press correspondent in Washington these days, the regular newspapers always were loaded up with industrial propaganda not allowed to be handled. But a few of the "hard guys" were boiling over with indignation at what they saw, and when they met Dan they boiled over on him. The only trouble was, his labor press service had so little space, and only a score or two of radical papers would look at its material.

President Harding had brot with him a swarm of camp followers, his political bodyguard at home; the newspaper men knew them as "the white gang," and they were hooting everything in sight. Barney Brockway had given one of his henchmen a desk in the "secret service department; this was the "Colonel," and if you wanted anything he would tell you the price. The Wilson administration had grown fat by exploiting the properties seized from enemy aliens, and now the Harding administration was growing fat out of turning them back. Fire per cent was the regular "legal" fee, if you wanted to recover a ten million dollar property, you turned over half a million in blarney bonds to the "Colonel." Bootlegging privileges were sold for millions, and deals were made right in the lobbies of the capitol. Dan heard from insiders that more than three hundred millions had already been stolen, and from the funds appropriated for relief of war veterans the head of that bureau was another of the "white gang." And the scandal was, as Dan's letter how many of these scandals you might unearth, you couldn't get a single big newspaper or magazine in the country to touch them!

Bunny took the letter to his father, and as usual it was out to the old man exactly the opposite of what it meant to Bunny. Yes, politics were rotten, and so you saw the folly of trusting business matters to government. Take business away from the politicians, and turn it over to business men, who would run it without graft. It those oil lands had been given to Dad and Verne in the beginning, there wouldn't have been any bellyaching—wasn't that clear? Dad and Verne were patriots, putting an end to a vicious public policy.

Did Dad really believe that? It was hard for Bunny to be sure. Dad had lies that he told to the public; and perhaps he had others that he told to his son and yet others that he told to himself. If you held hold of him and tore all those lies away, he would not be able to stand the sight of his nakedness.

His enemies, the "sore-heads" in congress, were busily engaged in depriving him of these spiritual coverings. There was one old senator in Washington by the name of La Follette—his head had been sore for forty years, and no way could he found to heal it. Now he was denouncing the oil leases, and demanding an investigation. The Harding machine had blocked him, but it couldn't keep him from making speeches he would talk for eight hours at a stretch, and the galleries would be full, and then he would mail out his speeches under government frank. Dad would grumble and growl, and then in the midst of it he would realize that his own dear son was on the side of these trouble-makers. Instead of sympathizing with his father's lies, Bunny was criticizing them, and making his father ashamed.

Chang Kai Shek Reafirms Faith In Sun Yat Sen

Horror Tales In Foreign Press Are Fabrications

(Special to The Daily Worker)

HANKOW, China, Jan. 17.—As proof of the entire confidence placed in the nationalist government of China, 25,000 Chinese gathered in one race course here to listen to an address by Chang Kai Shek, the youthful commander of the Kouminntang armies now driving on Shanghai to expel the war lords. This big demonstration was preceded the night before by a huge torch-light procession that marched thru the streets of Hankow.

"It is only thru the efforts of the Kounintang, which is enforcing the doctrines of our great leader, Sun Yat Sen, that the imperialists can be expelled from China and the unfair and unequal treaties with the foreign powers abolished," said Chang Kai Shek. A number of Sikhs (British imported police, natives of India) were in the demonstration and one of them made a speech to the crowd.

Hair-Raising Tale.

The hair-raising stories being told in the foreign press about the "atrocities" to foreigners being committed by "coolie mobs" in the Yangtze Valley are absolutely groundless. All processions and demonstrations are orderly and the Kuminntang government, having the complete confidence of the Chinese, is in undisputed authority.

The horror tales being told by "refugees" going to Shanghai are mostly hallucinations caused by panic-stricken residents who are accustomed to treating the Chinese like dogs. The mere fact that they were put to the inconvenience of having to board warships was enough to start the terror stories. This action was not provoked by the Chinese. The residents were ordered aboard the ships by their various consulates. This order followed the occupation of the British concession in Hankow because of the shooting of Chinese by British troops.

Orderly Demonstrations.

The demonstration that took over the concession was an orderly one and there is not one statement made even by the so-called refugees themselves when they arrived in Shanghai, to show that anyone was the victim of bodily harm.

The nationalist government immediately took charge of the concession and negotiations are proceeding now for its return to the Chinese as soon as they give satisfaction for the killing of the Chinese who were shot.

"Hair Dragging."

Stories emanating from Foo Chow to the effect that American women have been mobbed and dragged thru the streets are of the same cloth as the Hankow tales. During a period of open warfare thru which China is now going, with armies fighting back and forth across the various provinces, the remarkable feature is that foreigners have not come to the harm that might be expected.

The reports from Foo Chow state that the women were "mobbed" by former northern troops who are now in the Canton army. It is more than likely that the women and missionaries in Foo Chow were conducted thru the streets under guard and that the "dragging by the hair" angle was added in Shanghai.

Creata Hysteria.

There is hardly any doubt that the consuls and foreign agents in China are trying to create hysteria in their various home papers by issuing evacuation orders and "warning" missionaries. The latter, however, are sharply split, a good portion of them warmly supporting the Canton government.

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THE fascist government of Italy intends to spend about half a million dollars more than it spent last year on its navy. This would not seem to indicate that the dove of peace will be able to find a comfortable resting place on the shores of the Mediterranean Sea in the future. Mussolini is making good use of the millions of dollars that Wall Street placed at his disposal to crush the revolutionary movement. This should be a good time to think up slogans for the next war. Why not have a little guessing contest?

MARGARET BONFIELD, British imperialist, the a member of the Labor Party and member of parliament, spoke in Chicago last Sunday and unwittingly gave out some delicious information. She was particularly bitter against A. J. Cook, the secretary of the miners' union. She boasted that the socialists of Great Britain were now respectable and respected by the capitalists, and instead of being considered enemies of the state they were treated with the courtesy which His Majesty's opposition is entitled to.

THE lecture delivered by Miss Bonfield would not look out of place in the portfolio of a British liberal. The British trade union movement considers the Communists a nuisance, she said, but had to admit that the workers of Russia under Communist leadership contributed over $5,000,000 to the striking miners' relief fund, which was twice as much as all the workers of the rest of the world contributed. She admitted that the Second International contributed a lot of sympathy but little cash.

• • •

MISS BONFIELD did not mention the conduct of the British government in China India, Egypt and other colonies of the empire. It is quite obvious that Miss Bonfield is as much concerned over the fate of the empire as Winston Churchill or Stanley Baldwin. She claimed that the conservatives are now adopting and passing bills that were proposed originally by the socialists, which proves that there is no fundamental difference between the aims of the socialist leaders and those of the conservative leaders. No doubt the British miners will be interested to know that Miss Bonfield, instead of attacking the tory government on the American platform, is seeking to damage the cause of the miners and slander their most trusted leaders.

PERU REJECTS U. S. PLAN FOR TACNA-ARICA; STATE DEPARTMENT IS SILENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Peru's reply to Secretary of State Kellogg's proposal for the settlement of the Tacna-Arica controversy has been delivered to Kellogg by Peruvian Ambassador Velarde.

The note is understood to be a flat rejection of the Kellogg plan. The text of the note was not made public.

NOTED MUSICAL TALENT AT N.Y. LENIN MEETING

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. — Musicians of high rank, well-known thruout the country, feature the program of the Lenin Memorial Meeting, to be held at the New Madison Square Garden, 50th street and 8th avenue, on Saturday evening, Jan. 22, at 8 p. m.

Among them is Mischa Mishakoff, noted young Russian violinist. As concertmaster of the New York symphony, one of the leading symphony orchestras in the United States, and also as soloist, Mishakoff has established himself as an artist of distinction. He will play "Algeunerweisen" (Gypsy Airs), by Sarasate, and "Chardash", by Gubol. To hear him is a treat which New York workers should not miss.

Another attraction is Ivan Velikanoff, chief tenor of the Moscow Art Theater Musical Studio. The studio was recently on tour in the United States. Velikanoff is remembered for his splendid performance as "Jose," the soldier, in the studio's production of "Carmencita and the Soldier." Acclaimed by all leading critics, Velikanoff has now made his home in the United States. He will sing a group of Russian songs by Borodin and Rimsky-Korsakoff. Those who heard him will want to hear him again. And those who never heard him should come to listen to this young singer of the New Russia.

The Russian Mastersingers, a vocal quartet, each member of which is a soloist of distinction, will also be heard in a group of Russian folk songs. Finally, the Freiheit Singing Society, a chorus of 300 voices, will also appear.

The Lenin Memorial Meeting this year promises to be the greatest demonstration yet held in New York City for the policies advocated by this great leader of the working class of the world. Prominent speakers will address the meeting, among them being C. E. Ruthenberg, W. Z. Foster, Scott Nearing, Moissaye Olgin, and others.

Admission is 50c, 75c, and $1.00. Tickets may be obtained in advance at the Workers Party headquarters, 108 E. 14th street, Jimmie Higgins Book Shop, 127 University Place, and at all party papers.

SOUTHERN MILL INVASION HITS NORTHERN LABOR

Open Shop Paternalism Controls South

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(FP)—Silk mills, hosiary millls, knitting mills, rayon, blanket and tire fabric factories—new varieties of textile plants are breaking into the southern states where cotton cloth has led. Special writers in the Journal of Commerce 30th annual textile review number tell the story of southern workers challanging northern in variety of production. In spite of the slow sales situation prevailing in textiles for the last few years, over twenty northern manufacturers are given offhand as having moved south in 1926, or establishing southern branches or expanding southern equipment.

Goodyear Tire & Fabric Co. took over Paragon Mills at Cedartown, Ga., during the year while Goodrich and Fish tire companies made Martha Mills at Thomaston, Ga., their fabric supply plant. Connecticut Mills moved from Danielson, Conn., to Albany-Decatur, Ga., to continue their capacity tire fabric manufacture.

Nine silk mills invaded the south in 1926 in addition to the Piedmont Plush Mills making velours and plushes at Greenville, S. C. Several knitting mills went south and more hosiery mills, one the Hudson Silk Hosiery Co. of New York, which moved to Charlotte, N. C. Two new blanket mills are given and a number of new bleachery and finishing plants. Holleson Mills of Norwood, Mass., are building such a plant at Kingsport, Tenn., to prepare material for their capacity production of book linen.

Several of the important New England cotton manufacturers joining the southward march during 1926 are Chicopee Falls Mfg. Co. (controlled by Johnson & Johnson surgical gauze manufacturers) with its 400 house village at Gainesville, Ga.; Pepperell Mfg. Co. of Biddeford, Me., with its 1,000 house village at Opelika, Ala.; Crompton Mills of Rhode Island with a site purchased at Waynesboro, Va.; Dwight Mfg. Co. (subsidiary of Pacific Mills

Notice to Daily Worker Readers

ON and After Monday, January 24th, The DAILY WORKER will be published in New York and will appear each morning on the news stands in New York City and vicinity and also in the principal cities of New York state, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania. Readers and supporters of The DAILY WORKER are urged to bring this to the attention of their newsdealer and convince him of the necessity and value of handling The DAILY WORKER every day.

The new edition to be published in New York will be improved in many ways. First of all, New York City as a whole has vastly improved news facities, being practically the news center of the world. Secondly, we will be better able to get first hand information of the struggles in and near New York, not only in the needle trades, but also in the mining, taxtile and manufacturing industries which are located in the immediate vicinity.

We have also secured the assurance of the co-operation of a number of well-known writers who will contribute to The DAILY WORKER as soon as it reaches New York. Among them in addition to our present staff will be Scott Nearing, Bertram D. Wolfe, Benjamine Gitlow, Albert Weisbord, Robert W. Dunn, V. F. Calverton, Michael Gold, Simon Felshin, Joseph Freeman and many others. Plans are under way for publishing daily the cartoons of the following well-known radical cartoonists: Robert Minor, Fred Ellis, H. Gropper, Hugo Gellert, K. A. Suvanto. This is but a brief list of the interesting features which the new edition of The DAILY WORKER will include. In spite of the addition of new features, the price of the paper will remain the same, 3c on weekdays, 5c on Sundays.

Labor Officialdom Exposes Itself

THE executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in its anxiety to smash the Furriers' Union and its left wing leadership in New York, has had its official fingers badly nipped.

Accusing the New York joint board of bribing the police in the recent strike—the accusation being about the choicest piece of black guardism of which there is any record in the labor movement—the executive council now finds its statements challenged by no less a personage than President Ryan of the New York Central Labor Council, a member of the committee which investigated the furriers' strike, appointed by President Green.

The full story of the rift in the official lute is published in another column. It is a sordid tale and illuminating in connection with the present struggle for fighting trade unionism.

PRESIDENT RYAN rises to defend the police department of Tammany Hall. He is just as hostile to the left wing leadership of the furriers' union as are Vice-President Woll, President Green and Morris Sigman, but he is greatly concerned over the implied attack on the integrity of the New York police force.

According to President Ryan the police, actuated by a high sense of duty, could not be prevented from slugging and arresting strike pickets by any amount of money.

The official statement of the New York Central Labor Council says:

> Mr. Ryan himself does not believe that one member of the New York police force received or has been paid one penny of graft, because he is a resident of New York and knows what the police force is composed of, ESPECIALLY MEMBERS OF THE INDUSTRIAL SQUAD, MANY OF WHOM ARE FORMER MEMBERS OF THE LOCAL TRADES UNIONS OF THIS CITY. (Emphasis Ours.)

THIS is indeed interesting.

The head of the New York labor movement leaps to the defense of one of the most notorious official strikebreaking agencies in the United States. It was the "Industrial Squad" which made a murderous assault upon a meeting of the Interborough Rapid Transit strikers some time ago and it is the industrial squad which always is charged with the task of beating up pickets and raiding union meetings.

This is the type of individual chosen to uphold the banner of trade unionism. What better proof is needed of the charge made by The DAILY WORKER time and time again —the charge that the official labor movement of New York, which is making war on the left wing, is hand in glove with the police department and other agencies of the bosses?

As for the charge that officials of the furriers' union bribed the police, the facts of the strike, with hundreds of workers arrested and beaten up, cited in the statement of the New York joint board, show that President Ryan's beloved industrial squad, "many of whom are former members of the local trades unions," functioned as usual.

The officials of the American Federation of Labor try to turn strike leaders over to the police while the local New York union officials defend the police and boast that "former members" of trade unions are on the pay roll of Tammany Hall, doing the most brutal kind of strikebreaking.

WE hope that Green, Woll and Ryan will keep up the good work. They are "exposing" the left wing in a manner that will fill the heart of every sincere trade unionist with great joy. So far the "exposure" of the left wing has served only to prove every charge it has made against the official leadership—from corruption downwards.

With the executive council of the A. F. of L. playing the role of common police informers, the officials of the New York Central Labor Union pleading the cause of uniformed thugs and defending strikebreaking, and the two gangs abusing one another because of internal differences, the left wing is left free to organize, strengthen the unions, make them into keen and effective weapons of the workers—the task it was engaged in when the "exposure" began.

The issue has been greatly clarified by the utterances of the A. F. of L. and New York labor leaders. It is now quite plain that the real struggle is between strikers and strikebreakers.

THE great majority of the American workers will have no difficulty in choosing the side they will support. They are not ready yet to turn the unions over to the police department and as for the "former members" of trade unions Whom President Ryan says are members of the "Industrial Squad", they are exactly as loyal to the labor movement as are labor officials who defend them and who try to turn strike leaders over to the police.

The left wing is fighting for the trade unions as weapons of the workers. The right wing policy of the reaction is to make the unions adjuncts of the police department and efficiency instruments of the capitalists.

RYAN, N.Y. LABOR HEAD, REJECTS WOLL'S CHARGES

Protests to Green at St. Petersburg, Fla.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.— Joseph P. Ryan, president of the Central Trades and Labor Council of New York City, has wired to President William Green of the American Federation of Labor protesting the publication of charges against the New York Joint Board of the Furriers' Union that cannot be substantiated.

Ryan [illegible] A. F. of L. investigating committee named to look into the causes of the furriers' strike of last year. The executive council of the A. F. of L. meeting in St. Petersburg, Florida, issued a report from Matthew Woll, who headed the investigating committee, following which the leaders of the [illegible] strike were accused of having bribed police officials in New York.

Ryan Repudiates Woll.

Ryan's telegram to Green follows:

William Green,
President A. F. of L.
Prince Martha Hotel,
St. Petersburg, Fla.

I wish to enter my strong protest against the action of the executive council on the report of the special committee on the strike of the Fur Workers Union.

Your committee had no direct evidence of the truth of the statements made by the Communist strike leaders that they had paid money to police officials, and this part of the report should not have been made public until you, as president of the American Federation of Labor, could present our so-called evidence to the proper authorities in New York.

As a result of the council making this report public, the New York morning papers state that the American Federation of Labor charges that $100,000 was paid the police by the Reds; and I, as one member of the investigating committee, feel that we have no direct evidence to back up this charge.

JOSEPH P. RYAN.

The charges of bribery of members of the New York police [illegible] have caused a [illegible] furs, it was getting [illegible] and calling forth indignant [illegible] from the Tammany [illegible] James Walker and the police [illegible] Some Mc Laughlin

"As to the charge of our having bribed the police and to accuse workers," the statement continued, "the facts give the lie to this ridiculous accusation. Never before in the history of our union have there been so many arrests of workers during a strike. About 1,500 of our workers were arrested. Our strikers were most brutally beaten by the police. We were denied the right to picket. Hostile and cruel judges sentenced our workers to more than a thousand days in jail. In some instances our workers were sentenced to from two to three years in prison for their tireless efforts to win the strike.

Farmers Ask Arms to Fight Church

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 17.—President Calles today called upon the agrarians to aid in suppressing the rebellion of "clericals and reactionaries" and sent Secretary of Agriculture Luis Leon to Guanajuato to distribute 1,000 rifles to farmers in the neighborhood.

The president wrote a letter to the agrarians who had asked for arms for self-defense, and declared that stern action will be taken to put down the uprisings thruout the country.

Defend Revolution.

"These government arms are sent to sustain the institutions of the republic now menaced by clerical and reactionary groups, at a time when the foreign situation contains serious complications for us," he said.

"These arms should serve only and exclusively to protect the life and honor of the homes of farmers and to save once more, by defending the government, the principles of the revolution."

THE United States marines are in Nicaragua to stay, according to Washington reports. The navy department has drafted plans to establish a naval base on the Bay of Fonseca in Nicaragua. The ostensible purpose of this base is the protection of the canal that is to be built thru that country. Mexico is now nicely bedeviled in by American military and naval forces and this should help console our oil magnates. When Mexico desires to extend its influences over other countries it is a plot. When the United States does the same thing it is a patriotic act!

In a report to the cabinet on the Chinese situation, Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary, made it quite clear that he had come to the conclusion the progress of the Cantonese could not be seriously impeded by anything the empire could do, and that the use of force on a large scale would only make matters worse for the British.

"ARBITRATION" TALK COVERS UP KELLOGG DESIGN

Capital Takes Interest in Mexican Reaction

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Having stated their policy towards Mexico and reiterated their decision to keep the marines in Nicaragua, President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg have again drawn the veil of secrecy over the Latin-American maneuvers of the administration.

Meaningless hints, for public consumption, that arbitration might be considered in Mexico and Nicaragua are entirely overcast by the tightening of the blockade around Sacasa's forces in Nicaragua and the extreme interest being taken in the reactionary rebellion in Mexico that, of itself, can offer an easy excuse for intervention.

Excuse for Invasion.

The agents of Wall Street that are swarming in the capital as well as the representatives of foreign powers are taking an exceptional interest in this angle of the situation. Observers here recall that it was during a revolutionary period in Mexico in 1914 that Woodrow Wilson found an excuse to bombard Vera Cruz.

There is sufficient evidence to show that the catholic rebellion in Mexico which is gathering under the banner of leaders who wish to abolish the constitution of 1917 that the U. S. takes exception to, are being financed and supported by interests within the United States.

Opposition Grows.

While the opposition in the senate still continues and telegrams of protest against the administration policy pour into the capitol and the White House, Coolidge and Kellogg have drawn into their shells for a time to let the storm blow over. In the meantime the court fight being waged in Mexico by the oil companies to put aside the constitutional requirements they object to are going forward to a finish. At the same time the catholic revolutionaries are stirring up discontent in the outlying states of Mexico and attempting to co-ordinate a force that can make a stand against the federal troops.

Would invite intervention.

If the reactionaries can mobilize a force large enough to take over portions of a state like Tamaulipas or Vera Cruz where foreign oil interests are thickest, an excuse for intervention can easily be found by the state department. The catholic hierarchy would invite intervention to achieve their purpose of reverting to the reactionary constitution of 1857, destroying the labor movement and setting up again a Diaz regime.

under charges arising out of his strike activities.

"We protested vigorously to the police department against the brutal attacks on the workers on strike. We brought these wanton attacks of the New York police against the workers to the attention of the Central Trades and Labor Council of New York, which elected a special committee to investigate these bestial police outrages against the striking fur workers.

Accounted For All Funds.

"The statement of the executive council of the A. F. of L. insinuating that the union cannot account for $400,000 is a malicious falsehood. The cost of the strike was $840,000, ont of which over $600,000 was paid out as relief to the strikers, for which vouchers are in possession of the New York Joint Board. The so-called investigation committee of the A. F. of L. had access to these vouchers during their investigation.

"The union has accounted for the funds received and spent during the strike at a membership meeting at Cooper Union to which Mr. Woll was invited to present his facts, which he did not dare to do. A complete report was published in the organ of the New York Joint Board, The Struggle, and was mailed to every member of the union. The membership of our union who are the real judges of our action have expressed their unqualified support of our conduct during the strike."

How It Started.

The original investigation was begun by the A. F. of L. on the request of the right wing heads of the International Furrier's Union who had been repudiated by the bulk of the membership and who sought to gain control of the New York Joint Board. The closing of the forty-hour week and wage raises, thus making the long strike a distinct success, solidified the leadership of Ben Gold and his New York associates who have made no secret of the fact they are Communists. The "investigation" was designed to weaken this prestige and attempt to frame-up the strike leadership.

But Matthew Woll's enthusiasm ran away with him. In his haste to make the frame-up complete, he presented his so-called "facts" to the executive council at St. Petersburg. His main indictment of the furriers was the charge that they bribed the police. The executive council immediately broadcast the details of the case, thinking to aim a death blow to the furrier's joint board by the "exposure."

Forgot Tammany.

But they forgot that Ryan and the heads of the Central Trades Council who were on the investigating committee were bound by close ties to the Tammany machine which is sure to be hit by even mythical charges of bribery. It was this fact that caused Ryan to issue his repudiation of Woll's "facts" and cause the whole frame-up to fall to the ground under pressure of his Tammany friends.

The close alliance between Tammany and the Central Council is made particularly evident in the following statement of the council designed to defend the Tammany police:

"Ridiculous Position."

"The Central Trades and Labor Council and the membership in Greater New York now feel that they have been placed in a ridiculous position by the action of the executive council, which practically means that the honorable labor movement itself has now made charges of graft against the New York police department, and will have to depend on men like Gold, Cross and others, who already have denied making those statements.

"Unionists On Force."

"Mr. Ryan himself does not believe that one member of the New York police force received or has been paid one penny of graft, because he is a resident of New York and knows what the police force is composed of, especially members of the Industrial squad, many of whom are former members of local trades unions of this city."

Nicaraguan Labor Must Oppose Slavery "Peace" Urged By Wall Street

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

WALL Street offers "peace" to Nicaragua. It is urged by the bankers' puppet, Adolfo Diaz, president by the grace of the shooting irons of the Coolidge-Mellon-Morgan navy.

The "peace proposals" reveal the sinister ambitions of American great finance not only toward Nicaragua, but toward all Latin-American countries. The suggested "peace" cannot be placed as a noose about the neck of the Nicaraguan people without also strangling the rights of all countries south of the Rio Grande, further enslaving them to the tyranny of the dollar. These slavery terms offered the Nicaraguan people by Wall Street are:

1. Agreement that Adolfo Diaz and his government, subservient to Washington, remain in power for nearly two years more, until Dec. 1928.

2. Promise to "select" representative "liberals" for executive and judicial posts, giving the party a "fair participation" in the government.

3. The holding of free elections in 1928, for which my (Diaz) government accepts in advance American supervision to be requested of the United States government.

4. A mixed claims commission, with equal conservative, liberal and American representation, to settle impartially all revolutionary claims.

5. I (Diaz) hope as soon as peace is re-established the American government will grant our request for the detail of an adequate military mission to reorganize and discipline our national guard.

These are terms that only an arrogant profit taskmaster, secure in his place of power, could impose on his beaten slave. They are not the proposals of Diaz. They are the offerings of Wall Street imperialism itself that Diaz meekly and obediently carries as catspaw.

The Diaz government, that has been placed over Nicaragua by a huge war fleet and thousands of marines, demands that it be allowed to remain in power two years. This demand is a guilty confession in itself, that Diaz has no mandate from the Nicaraguan masses.

Wall Street is again playing the game of 1909, 1912 and 1925, when it fought to keep Diaz in power. The American marines "guarded the polls" in 1912, just as Diaz now proposes to hold "free elections." The story of 1912, taken from Dollar Diplomacy, "Let Diaz attempts to repeat in 1927, is as follows:

"On Sept. 4, 1912, the state department (Washington) notified the American minister at Managua (Nicaragua) that 'the American bankers who have made investments in relation to railroads and steamships in Nicaragua, in connection with a plan for the relief of the financial distress of that country, have applied for protection.'

"The American marines at once took drastic action against the revolutionists. According to the report of the United States secretary of the navy for 1912, the following naval vessels with approximately 125 officers and 2,600 men participated in the subjugation of the revolution: California, Colorado, Cleveland, Annapolis, Tacoma, Glacier, Denver and Buffalo. The officers and men participated in the bombardment of Managua, a night marauder in Masaya, the surrender of General Mena and his rebel army at Granada, the surrender of the rebel gunboats of Victoria and Ninety-three, the assault and capture of Coyotepe, the defense of Paso Caballos Bridge, including garrison and other duty at Corinto, Chinandega, and elsewhere. The most notable event during the campaign was the assault and capture of Coyotepe which resulted in entirely crushing the revolution. The leader of the revolutionary forces surrendered to Rear Admiral Sutherland and was exiled to Panama aboard the U. S. S. Cleveland. The part of the American minister in crushing the revolution consisted in sending notes to its leader, General Mena, to surrender the railroads which belonged to the American bankers. In this line of action he was assisted by the bankers' representatives.

"Following the defeat of the revolutionists AN ELECTION WAS HELD IN WHICH THE AMERICAN MARINES GUARDED THE POLLS. On Nov. 2, (1912) Diaz (the same Adolfo Diaz again serving American financial interests) was re-elected for a term of four years."

Wall Street might just as well appoint Diaz permanent dictator, for the rest of his life, as to suggest that rebellious Nicaragua submit to him for two years more, until Dec. 1928, and then acquiesce in a so-called "free election" under "American supervision." The Coolidge crowd in Washington could probably sandwich down some of the Vare henchmen from Philadelphia, who forget to count the opposition vote. As for selecting some "liberals" to enter the Diaz government, it is always possible to find wolves to be dressed up in attractive and harmless looking sheep's clothing.

Something of the spirit of the class collaborating National Civic Federation is breathed into the fourth proposal for the "mixed claims commission." It is stacked two to one against the rebels, just as employer-employe-public commissions in this country always find the representative of the public on the side of the exploiters. The U. S. government representative can be depended on to back the Diaz spokesman, fig own mouthpiece.

Diaz also wants an American "military mission" to reorganize and discipline the national guard. A bunch of handpicked Hessians, drilled by "100 per cent American" West Point graduates, ought to provide a soldiery satisfactory to the proprietory American fruit, mining, railroad and banking interests. But why attempt to play such a ghastly joke on the Nicaraguan people? It is like giving them a rope to hang themselves, or poison to commit suicide with. The present day Wall Street profit pirates have outdone the hucksters of old in demanding that the Nicaraguan people walk the plank, precipitating them into the loving death of imperialist slavery.

Nicaragua can only tear up these proposals made by the political agent, Diaz, of the Wall Street plunderbund. To do anything else will be merely to enslave themselves still more until extreme desperation drove them to new struggles.

Diaz has another brilliant proposal. It says that as soon as six measures already enumerated are initiated, he hopes that "it will be possible for my country to secure in the United States a large loan for construction of a railway to the Atlantic Coast and highways needed for development of the country."

It may be taken for granted that the railroad and the highways will never be built, not with Diaz as president. The money will be used instead to defray the expenses that have been incurred to keep Diaz in power. The Nicaraguans will then have to foot the bill of their own enslavement. There is good precedent for this. In "Dollar Diplomacy," p. 165, speaking of the suppression of the 1912 revolution, we find the following:

"The expenses incurred during the revolution forced Dias to apply to the Canadian bankers for another loan. The terms on which the bankers offered to make the loan were protested by Dias as harsh, but they were backed up by the state department (at Washington), and were incorporated in the loan agreement on Nov. 4, 1912."

Diaz does not complain any longer. He is an obedient puppet, and brazenly puts forward the necessity of a "large loan," to be hoisted with warships upon the backs of the Nicaraguan people. But Nicaragua is not as docile now as 1912. Nicaragua also has allies among the Latin-American nations. It is finding an increasing number of supporters among American workers and farmers. That has Washington and Wall Street worried.

SHOP CHAIRMEN CONDEMN SIGMAN SELL-OUT PACT

Demand Explanation of Concessions Made

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The shop chairman of the dress industry, in a meeting called at Webster Hall, Thursday night, condemned the action of Morris Sigman of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and pledged themselves not to recognize the agreement in their shops.

More than 800 shop chairmen gathered at one day's notice to hear the details of the dress agreement secretly negotiated by the International. The information was secured by the joint board in spite of the attempt of the International to keep them secret, under broad announcement that "the old agreement will be renewed."

Expose Concessions.

Julius Portnoy, C. S. Zimmerman and other joint board leaders spoke briefly, outlining the concessions being made to the manufacturers by Sigman in return for their dealing with him instead of with the regularly constituted authority, the joint board. The concessions include, according to the information received the abolishing of the minimum guarantee for piece workers, the practical abolishment of the schedule for price settlement, the permission to manufacturers to change the system of work in the shop from week work to piece work without consent of the workers, the extension of the discharge clause giving employers additional rights of discharge, no pay on holidays that fall on Saturday, and loss of 15 per cent additional pay for temporary workers.

Many shop chairmen from the floor spoke on the situation, condemning the agreement as a sell out to the employers.

Sigman Meet Fiat.

A meeting called in Beethoven Hall by Sigman was attended by about three hundred people, in spite of a week's advertising of the meeting for discussion of the agreement. Shop chairmen who were present demanded explanation of Sigman's actions and stated that they knew that the membership would be opposed to the concessions made, according to chairmen who attended.

Gangsters Shoot.

An unidentified passerby was shot and seriously injured on Friday morning shortly after eight o'clock, when gangsters fired a volley of shots at some members of Local 22 who were passing in a machine on 23rd street near 6th avenue. The gangsters escaped when followed by police, leaving their abandoned machine, which was confiscated by police. The gangsters were the same bunch who were seen leaving the Sigman garment center on Wednesday and Thursday and threatening workers sympathetic to the joint board.

STATE PIERCES PARSON'S STORY IN MURDER CASE

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 16. Efforts to show that Rev. Frank Norris killed D. E. Chipps, Fort Worth lumberman, in a room other than the one in which the body was found were made, Rev. Norris, claiming he killed in self-defense, is on trial charged with murder.

Found Blood Stains.

C. H. Bush, Fort Worth detective was used by the state in an attempt to show that officers who went to the scene of the killing on the afternoon of July 17, 1926, had found blood-stains on a carpet in an anteroom.

Bush first testified that he had found a bloodstain, but on cross examination admitted the stain might have been "sputum and blood."

Four Wounds.

O. W. Phillips, Fort Worth embalmer, testified he had found four wounds in Chipps' body. The defense did not question Phillips. F. W. Sopeen, ambulance driver, testified Chipps died while being placed on a stretcher.

POWERS FIGHT FOR POSITION IN FAR EAST

Britain Is Hard Hit as Japan Plays Rough

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 17.—The foreign imperialists are playing warily for position in the new mesass created by the growth of the Chinese nationalist movement that new is preparing to add Shanghai, China's richest port, to its other acquisitions.

The British policy has not yet been definitely announced. Altho there is an indication that British diplomacy will continue to jockey its position by relying upon the northern militarists to stem the Kuomintang tide, the fact still remains that more warships are being regularly dispatched to Chinese waters by that power.

Keen Rivalry.

The situation here is considerably complicated by the conflicting interests of Great Britain and Japan, with the United States also playing an important, and so far, independent role. There is only one point upon which the powers seem to agree. That is the retention of the concessions in the treaty ports that the nationalist movement has declared must be returned to China.

It is in preparation for the occupation of Shanghai by the nationalist army, that British, American and French warships are gathering here to support the arm·d foreign residents of the concession.

Japan's Game.

Japan is playing a game calculated to win over for itself many of the rich plums slipping out of British hands. "The Chinese situation represents a real crisis for Great Britain since her trade with this country, especially in cotton cloth and machinery, has suffered greatly because of the growth of the anti-imperialist movement. The boycott of Hongkong by Canton still continues and the loss of the Hankow possessions represents a bad blow for Britain.

House Hearing on China.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—The house foreign affairs committee prepared for exhaustive hearings upon proposals that the United States withdraw from the concert of powers which dominates foreign relations with the far-eastern republic.

Rep. Porter (R) of Pennsylvania, chairman and author of the resolution to be considered, announced that the country's leading students of Chinese affairs would be summoned before the committee next week.

Against Alliance.

A continuance of the alliance with European nations threatens to seriously embarrass the United States and to postpone justice for China, Porter asserted.

The resolution requests President Coolidge to negotiate treaties directly with the republic of China.

"Equal Basis."

The treaties would be designed, the resolution says, "To the end that henceforth the treaty relations between the two countries shall be upon a wholly equal and reciprocal basis and will be such as will in no way offend the sovereign dignity of either of the parties."

Taking direct issue with the report made by Silas H. Strawn, American representative upon the international commission sent to China to devise means of carrying out declarations of the Washington arms conference, Porter asserted that the present civil war in China is no excuse for delay.

"In fact my complaint of the Chinese people, he pointed out, were that foreign governments dominate Chinese tariff politics and exercise control over native citizens and property thru foreign courts.

DORA LOHSE SERVED IN THE THICK OF WORKERS' BATTLES FOR MANY YEARS

NEW YORK —Dora Lohse, assistant general secretary of the International Workers' Aid and all her life active in the labor movement, died at the Bushwick Hospital, Brooklyn, on Thursday, January 13. She had been operated upon for a minor abdominal trouble the week before and was on the point of recovery when complications set in. She was only 33 years old but had been in the thick of the workers' battles for better living conditions ever since she was fourteen.

Com. Lohse was born in Dresden, Germany, on April 23, 1893, and came to America as a young girl. Her first direct contact with the labor movement was as an employee of the New York Volkszeitung at the age of 14. Entirely self-educated, she came into contact with the Socialist Labor Party at the time and participated in its work. Then she helped organize the Socialist Party local in Queens County, New York, which was her home. She remained in the Socialist Party until the post-war split, being among its most activ campaigners especially in the hard war years.

Comrade Lohse's natural talent for organization, however, led her ever closer to the front trenches of the workers' struggle. For a number of years she was an organiser in the Amalgamated Metal Workers' Union, an independent union composed chiefly of German workers. Then she went into the field for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, for whom she led a dramatic and successful strike in Rochester some years ago. She was also among the leaders of an Amalgamated strike in Cincinnati soon thereafter.

Later Comrade Lohse threw herself into the work of the Friends of Soviet Russia. After the dissolution of that organization she gave her energies to the International Workers' Aid, touring the country and directing various drives for it. She had just returned from a trip to Berlin in connection with International Workers' Aid activities, in the course of which she visited Moscow. The operation was a minor one which could have been postponed but she decided to go thru with it now in order to put herself in the best possible physical condition for the tasks which she had assumed in the I. W. A.

Comrade Lohse was deeply loved by thousands of comrades that knew her personally thruout the country and the news of her sudden death will come to them as a terrible shock.

Anti-Evolution Bill Introduced in Okla.; Bar All Except Bible

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 17.—Oklahoma is soon to join the states barring teaching of the biologic origin of man in public schools. It is predicted, as 13 members of the state legislature have introduced an anti-evolution bill.

The bill forbids the teaching of any theories of evolution in any school in the state supported by public funds. Only the biblical story of the genesis of man can be taught. A fine from $100 to $500 is provided for each violation.

BEGIN FIGHT ON SMITH AS SOON AS HE APPEARS

Slush Fund Senator In Washington Wednesday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The fight to prevent Senator-elect Frank L. Smith (R) of Illinois, from ever taking his oath of office in the senate will be opened as soon as he presents his credentials, it was announced by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, democratic floor leader.

This was Robinson's reply to Smith's announcement from Chicago that he would leave this week to fight for his seat in the senate.

To Refer Credentials.

"When his credentials are presented, a motion will be made to refer the same to the committee on privileges and elections," said Robinson. "If a substitute motion is offered to permit Smith to take the oath and then investigate, there will be a hot debate and a record vote taken. In my opinion the motion to refer the credentials, which would not permit the seating of Smith, will prevail."

* * *

"Would be Discourteous"—Smith.

"It would be a discourtesy to Gov. Small, whose appointment I hold and unfair to the people of Illinois, who would be deprived of their proper constitutional representation if I am kept from the senate," said Frank L. Smith here in announcing that he would leave Chicago Monday for Washington to appear in the senate.

Smith's chief defense, it is announced will be based on precedents and constitutional history.

Ferocious Persecution of Workers in Poland

WARSAW, Poland, Jan. 17.— The monster trial of 151 Ukrainian peasants, accused of having participated in an "insurrection" in 1924 which turned out during the trial to have been initiated by government agents, ended today with the conviction of 118 of them. Nine were sentenced to life imprisonment, the rest to terms of four to sixty years. This unheard-of brutality was felt necessary by the military despotism in order to cover up its frightful repressions of the labor movement, the peasants and the national minorities.

At Lutsk another trial of over a hundred will soon start. The victims are here accused of sympathising with the Communists. That is enough to send workers to prison in Poland—perhaps to death.

Want Democratic Convention.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. — Eleven cities all over the country have been suggested as the meeting place for the next democratic national convention, and at least three of them are preparing to extend an invitation, Clem Shaver, chairmen of the committee, announced today.

The cities mentioned are Des Moines, Denver, Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Louisville, Atlanta, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Jugoslavia Disturbed Over Hungary's Move for Italian Alliance

BELGRADE, Jan. 17.—Jugoslavians are disturbed over reports that the Hungarian premier, Count Bethlen, has arranged a conference with Premier Mussolini of Italy, with the view of forming an alliance unfavorable to Jugoslavia, it is declared.

Jugoslavia has been dealing with Hungary over the seaport question and is desirous of forcing Hungary to be "friendly" to herself. If an alliance is brot about between Hungary and Italy, Jugoslavia's political maneuvers will go by the board, it is felt.

Italy is also said to be anxious to have Hungary's support against Jugoslavia.

Jugoslavia has offered to give Hungary Spalato as a port, while Italy may give her Fiume, it is said.

See Renewal of Battle Over Navy Money This Week When Senate Acts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—A new battle in the senate between "big navy" advocates and friends of "Coolidge economy" is assured when a naval committee of the appropriations committee decided to provide funds in the $324,000,000 naval appropriation for the immediate construction of three new cruisers.

Take Fight to Senate.

The administration won in the house when the appropriation was rejected by a two-vote margin, but the "big navy" group will seek a reversal of the decision in the senate.

The naval bill probably will reach the floor of the senate for debate early this week with the result in doubt. It undoubtedly will provoke as vigorous a clash as occurred in the house.

Sec. Kellogg Asked to Aid Roumanian Jews; Passes Buck to League

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. — Jews who are mistreated in Europe in nations that are signatories of the Versailles treaty should apply to the council of the league of nations, Secretary of State Kellogg informed Rep. Caller, democrat of New York.

Caller had protested against the treatment of Jews in Roumania, and asked the state department's aid in alleviating their distress.

Charlie to Get Square Deal.

Seek More Speed on Water Power Question Before N. Y. Assembly

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 17.— A new bill providing for a non-partisan commission to investigate the plans for water power development, the issue on which the republicans and Gov. Smith are divided, has been introduced in the legislature by Assemblyman Sargant. The new bill provides that such a commission report to the present session of the legislature, within a period of two months, instead of having an indefinite period of investigating as other measures specify.

The issue involved in water power development in the state of New York is whether it should be public or private. Smith insists on public ownership, and the republican machine is fighting this.

Workers (Communist) Party

BIG N. Y. PARTY MEETING CONSIDERS WAYS TO MEET RIGHT WING OFFENSIVE

The general membership meeting in New York City held Wednesday night, January 5, at Manhattan Lyceum, unanimously approved the report of Comrade Weinstone for the District Executive Committee, on the new offensive against the left wing in the trade unions.

Comrade Weinstone pointed out that the present offensive spreads from the policy of the reactionary bureaucracy of company-unionizing the trade unions and of the class-collaborationist policy of making the unions aides to production by the adoption of speed-up systems, as in the B. & O. plan, Hillman's piece work and standards of production system, Wet-son-Parker bills and similar measures. He pointed out that this offensive is intended to destroy the rank and file opposition to these policies, as expressed by the left wing leadership in the Furriers, I. L. G. W. U., and the opposition in the Miners' Union, where a reign of terror against the Communists has been conducted in the past few years.

The drive is backed by the A. F. of L. bureaucracy, which sees a menace to its leadership in the progressive bloc formed in the Miners' Union and in the work of organizing the unorganized conducted by the left wing in the Passaic strike. Comrade Weinstone said that a militant struggle must be put up against this drive of the reactionaries in support of the slogans of the left wing for unity of the trade unions, for democratization of the unions, for organization of the unorganized, for united action against class collaboration, against company unions, against terrorism, and gangsterism—these being the chief slogans enumerated in the present struggle.

At this time more than ever, he declared, we must carry out the policies adopted by the plenum of the C. E. C. of extending the influence among the American workers and more deeply intrenching the influence of the left wing in the unions. The tasks consist of:

1. Intensifying and redoubling the activities within the unions, increasing the party membership in the unions and increasing the activities in the old unions, the work of union organization and demonstrating that the Communists are the conscious workers for the upbuilding and strengthening of the labor unions.

2. It is necessary to avoid any policy leading toward dualism or which would give any pretext for the reactionary bureaucrats to expel Communists from the unions on the fake cry of "dual union organization."

3. Every effort must be made to expand the left wing in the trade unions by building up and formation of opposition blocs, by systematically avoiding the narrowing down of any left wing organization to party fractions, and to increase at the present time the vitality of the wing organization by greater circulation of left wing organs, more regularity of meetings, etc.

4. For better mobilization of party membership in the struggle, it is necessary that further consolidation of party apparatus be made; that every effort to increase membership be continued, and that every measure be taken to increase the activity of leading comrades in sections and sub-sections, either for direct party work or for work in sympathetic organizations.

The meeting carried the resolution in support of these propositions and also in support of the appeal of Comrade Weinstone for the maintenance and extension of The DAILY WORKER as a major task in the present period. Comrade Weinstone declared that the arrival of The DAILY WORKER in New York places a great responsibility for the paper upon the shoulders of the New York district membership; that the membership must rise to the occasion and successfully fulfill this responsibility. He pointed out that the strike situation in New York is limiting the raising of funds; that this handicap must be overcome and the quota raised when The DAILY WORKER dinner on January 14 and the Lenin Memorial Meeting on January 22 are over. He instructed all organizers to place The DAILY WORKER upon the next order of business in the units and that every member be checked up to see what he did in the present drive and that steps be taken to carry out successfully this task in respect to The DAILY WORKER.

The meeting also went on record for giving greater support to the International Labor Defense in the building up of branches, in drawing the women into the union fight by improving the apparatus of the Women's Committee—particularly by assistance in this respect from the lower units; by helping to build up the Y. W. L. and to carry out the instructions of the Communist International for the building up of Negro organization.

Comrade Weinstone finally declared that the attempts of the reactionaries to isolate the left wing and the Communists from the unions would be unsuccessful as it had been unsuccessful in the past, particularly if the party membership will put into effect the decisions of the last plenum of the party for more attention to the detail work of the party organization and for successfully reaching out consciously and systematically into groups of workers by the adoption of slogans and tactics which would reach workers still distant from us—especially the American workers, who today are under the influence of reactionaries but are discontented with the corruption and inactivity of their leaders.

Many comrades participated in the discussion, in which support was unanimously given to the policies of the District Committee.

Problems of Working Class Women to Be Discussed at N. Y. Workers' School

The second short course in Problems of Working Class Women begins at the New York Workers' School on Monday, January 24, at 9:15 p. m. Theresa Wolfson will give this course, which is entitled: "Woman in Industry," and is part of a series of such short courses. It runs for 4 Monday nights.

Theresa Wolfson is the author of the book, "Woman and the Trade Unions," which is the most recent and most authoritative work on that subject, and has been for many years an instructor in the Workers' University of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union, as well as in various other institutions.

The fee for this course is $1.50.

The first course in this series on "Problems of Working Class Women" was a study of the American family with Arthur W. Calhoun as instructor. The third course, which will follow on that of Theresa Wolfson's, will deal with the problems of the working class housewife and with the program for Work Among Women of the Workers Party, the instructors being Leona Smith and Margaret Undjus.

The whole series of course may be taken together at a special rate of $2.50.

Register today at the Workers' School, 108 East 14th St.

LENIN'S MESSAGE TO AMERICAN WORKERS WILL BE TOLD IN BIG MASS MEETINGS THRUOUT COUNTRY

The lessons of Leninism as they apply to the crisis with which the American workers find themselves faced thru the imperialist vaninras of the Wall Street Government in China, Nicaragua, and Mexico will be explained from scores of platforms to tens of thousands of workers in the series of Lenin Memorial Meetings organized by the Workers (Communist) Party in the largest cities of the country.

More than ever at this moment do the American workers and farmers need a clear understanding of the meaning of American imperialism and the ways and means of fighting it. The Lenin Memorial Meetings will therefore be made into demonstrations against American imperialism at which the workers and farmers assembled will manifest their determination to fight Wall street and the Wall Street government under the slogans.

The utilization of the Lenin Memorial Meetings as demonstrations against the Wall Street policies of the government is in response to the statement recently issued by the Central Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party which reads in part:

"The mass meetings which have been arranged by our party to honor the memory of the great leader of the proletarian revolution, Lenin, will be held this year at a time when the American capitalists and their government at Washington are giving the workers and farmers a concrete example of the dangers of new wars and the consequent sacrifice and suffering for the workers.

There is no better way of honoring the memory of Lenin on the third anniversary of his death than thru the application of the principles of Leninism in the crisis which American imperialism has created thru its imperialist adventures in relation to Nicaragua, Mexico and China.

"The Lenin Memorial Meetings must be made great mass demonstrations against American imperialism."

The central slogan at these meetings will be the building of a united front of the workers and farmers of the United States to carry on the struggle against American imperialism. The chief task will be to carry to the workers and farmers of this country the message of Leninism, the meaning of imperialism and how to fight it.

WORKERS EVERYWHERE SHOULD ATTEND LENIN MEMORIAL MEETINGS

NEW YORK FUNCTIONARIES' MEETING DISCUSSES THE RUSSIAN QUESTION

The functionaries in the New York district, after listening to the report of Comrade Bert Wolfe on the Russian issue, passed the following resolution of the district committee introduced by Comrade Weinstone by a vote of 161 for, 2 against, 7 abstaining:

"The New York functionaries, after listening to the report of Comrade Wolfe on behalf of the E. E. C. on the issue within the Russian Party, adopts the following position:

"1. It unqualifiedly approves the action of the C. E. C. endorsing the stand of the majority of the Russian Party and against the stand of the opposition.

"2. It condemns the action of the opposition in violating its pledge of abandoning its factional struggle by its action at the C. I. plenum, in which they intended to present an international platform for their opposition.

"3. The meeting regards it necessary that the party conduct a campaign of clarification of the minds of the workers against the propaganda conducted by the capitalist and yellow reformist press, which aims to capitalize the discussion in the Russian Party against the revolution, and pointing out to the workers the upward trend of industry in Russia and the continual consolidation of the revolution in its progress towards socialism.

"4. For a better understanding of the issues involved in the Russian question, the functionaries' meeting endorses the proposal for a thorough-going discussion within the units of the party in behalf of the position of the C. E. C. and of the Russian Communist international against the stand of the opposition."

Comrade Wolfe in his report analyzed the nature of the present opposition in Russia; its formation by a coalition of all anti-Leninist tendencies; its acceptance of the ideological leadership of Trotsky; the reasons for the problem of the construction of socialism in a storia country becoming a central problem at this time; the political theory of the opposition as summed up in the theory of permanent revolution; the economic theory of the opposition as summed up in Preobrashensky's theory of the proletarian dictatorship as exploiter and the peasantry as exploited colony, and his proposals for the acceptance of parasitic aspects of monopolist capitalism rather than the progressive aspects of competitive capitalism; the practical economic proposals of the opposition bloc in the matter of taxation, price policy, wage policy—wherein they tend to the rupture of the alliance of the proletariat and peasantry and the decline of Soviet industry; the inner party line of the opposition; their latest crime against proletarian unity in attempting to build a platform for opposition tendencies in the Communist International. Comrade Wolfe terminated with an analysis of such analogous tendencies as exist in the American party.

Many questions were asked and keen interest was shown by the functionaries in the Russian issue. In the discussion Comrades Schwartzenfeld, Pepper, Markoff, Sherman, Weinstone and others participated.

Comrade Wolfe also reported on the agitprop work in the New York district.

WITH THE YOUNG WORKERS

CONDUCTED BY THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

PETTY BOURGEOIS PACIFISM

By NAT KAPLAN.
(Article 3)

IN our previous articles we have pointed out that the petty bourgeoisie pacifists not only create illusions, issue reactionary reformist slogans, but that they will not even fight for their own slogans. That applies to the whole line-up. The Fellowship of Reconciliation is going to "love" war out of existence; John Heyes Holmes and his outfit around the Community Church in New York and the magazine "Unity" is going to outlaw war—to declare it illegal, so that they can fight against it legally; the National Student Forum is going to "investigate" and "experiment" with the question; the Fellowship of Youth for Peace and Jane Addams and her Women's International League for Peace and Freedom is going to "talk" and "resolve" militarism out of existence, etc.

Against Nicerague Invasion.

The petty-bourgeoisie pacifists will not put up a real struggle against capitalist militarism and the new war danger. This task remains for the class conscious workers, the poor farmers and the oppressed colonial masses led by the Communists. Yet the Communists will goad the petty-bourgeoisie on its opposition to militarism; push them to take a stand and to put up a real struggle shorn of the pacifist slogans and illusions. In this respect the young workers every-where must raise the demand for the pressure of the Wheeler-Huddleston resolutions before the senate which calls upon Coolidge to immediately withdraw the American marines from Nicaragua and the American warships from Nicaraguan ports, tho it must be pointed out everywhere that these resloutions make the basis of the demand that the United States is violating international law thru its intervention and not the fact that the government is playing the game of Wall Street thru this invasion.

The United Front.

The Workers (Communist) Party has issued the call to the workers and farmers to take the lead in the struggle against the new war danger, which must be fought now when the war is in preparation. The young workers must rally around the slogans of the united front of the workers and farmers against the threatening imperialist war; "Hands off Nicaragua! United States government get out of Nicaragua! No intervention in Mexico! Hands off China! Our main concentration point will have to be to make the workers the main issue, the heart and life of this united front. In all workers' organizations the young workers must raise this question.

In the schools this question should be raised together with the struggle against the R. O. T. C. We must more closely organize our fractions in the high schools and colleges with direct connection with the national committee of the Y. W. L. Our work to gain contacts in the regular armed and auxillary armed forces must be continued. Within the armed forces these must be carried on a systematic struggle against militarism. We must prepare ourselves to continue fighting the C. M. T. C. both inside and outside these bodies.

Communist Anti-Militarism.

Basically the Communist stand against militarism which distinguishes it from petty bourgeoisie pacifism is contained in the following: (1) Wars are inevitable under the reign of capital, particularly in the epoch of imperialism, therefore the fallacy and harmfulness of the idea that wars can be prevented with pacifist slogans. (2) It is necessary for the proletariat not only to fight against the danger of new imperialist wars, or for the rapid cessation of such a war already started, but to take advantage of the crisis created to turn the imperialist war in to a civil war. (3) Bourgeoisie pacifism is only a veil to hide the preparations for imperialist wars to which the petty-bourgeoisie succumbs. We will mercilessly expose this bourgeoisie pacifism. (4) We believe that capitalist militarism and the new war danger must be fought NOW as against the general phrases of the reformists which promises to people a war with a general strike and even a revolution. (5) The slogans, "Defend Your Country" (defend the fatherland), "A War of Defense," are meaningless to the working class. They have no father land until farm revolution they have established themselves in power. Your country" means Wall Street today. (6) The need for organizing and agitating within the armed forces against militarism. (7) We must rally around the defense of the U. S. S. R. from imperialist attacks. This is a workers' and farmers' government the U. S. S. R. is the leader of the opp pressed masses of the world. There fore the U. S. S. R. is the only real fatherland for the workers of the world.

(The End.)

MUCH INTEREST HERE IN NEW ART FORM FEATURED AT LENIN'S MEMORIAL

"Strike," the mass recitation by Michael Gold, which will be produced as a feature of the Lenin Memorial on January 23rd at Ashland Auditorium, is a drama form entirely new to the United States and is arousing much interest here. The mass recitation has been developed to a place of importance among the dramatic efforts of the workers in Russia and Germany. There are no principals, no costumes, no scenery. The success of this form depends upon the rhythm and co-operation of the numerous persons participating.

The Ashland Auditorium meeting will be the third observance of Lenin's death in Chicago and besides, "Strike" speakers of national prominence will address the gathering.

Factory Newspapers--Communist Shop Organs

By REBECCA GRECHT.

SPACE must be given in shop papers for discussion of political issues and such as the labor party, American imperialism, the role of the state, class war prisoners, etc. The objection is frequently heard that the workers are not interested in these questions, and will not read the factory newspaper which deals with them. The very fact that these workers may be politically backward, however, makes it all the more the task of the party group to develop them thru its newspaper.

The difficulty lies not so much in the workers' lack of concern with political matters, as in the ineffective way in which these are handled. Long theoretical arguments written in a complex style, articles dealing with generalities and abstractions, may well alienate them. The writer recalls the first issue of a certain factory newspaper issued in Buffalo, which devoted about two-thirds of its space to articles dealing with almost every aspect of Communism, from the role of the state and the functions of the Labor party to the proletarian dictatorship. That certainly attested to the political approach to the workers.

But an analysis of political events and current issues simply and concretely written, linked up with the problems and general experiences of the workers in the shop, will assist in their political awakening and draw them closer to the party.

Concrete Exemplo.

FOR instance, a shop paper in a rubber factory can easily relate the policy of the United States in the Philippines to the situation of the workers in the plant, and from that discuss the question of American imperialism. In an enterprise employing foreign-born workers, the anti-alien bills can be stressed. The export of agricultural machinery to Soviet Russia may be the basis for an article on the Workers' Republic in factory newspapers issued, say, in plants of the International Harvester Company, which has had considerable trade with the Soviet Union.

The growing rivalry between European and American automobile manufacturers, to which the New York "Journal of Commerce" has called attention, can be utilized by our papers in automobile plants to explain the meaning of the international fight for markets and raw materials. Excellent material for political discussion is provided by the use of injunctions and the police force in strikes, recent examples of which have been the Passaic strike and the strike of the New York cloakmakers.

These are some illustrations of how to connect up political questions with the workers' immediate interests. It is possible also to write of politics without direct reference to shop problems as in the present case of American intervention in Nicaragua, provided this is done with due regard to the degree of understanding of the workers.

Learn by Mistakes.

OFTEN the editors of our factory newspapers let slip excellent opportunities for political propaganda. In Detroit, for example, the Federation of Labor suffered a miserable debacle, a humiliating defeat, in its attempt to capture the state and county republican convention. Wide publicity was given this maneuver in the capitalist press, and the workers of the city were in general familiar with it. Here was a situation that could have been utilized with splendid effect for pointing out the futility of labor's non-partisan political policy, and drawing the conclusions for a labor party. Our Detroit factory paper, however, failed to take sufficient advantage of this occasion to concretize the labor party campaign, and to this day, it must be said, have not yet learned to deal with political questions.

The problem of getting a correct balance between economic and political articles, of tying these up with each other, of drawing the revolutionary implications simply and concretely, is without doubt very difficult. Much thot is required, and a careful estimation of the workers in the shop. None the less, political discussions are an indispensable element of every factory newspaper, or its very aims are nullified. With more experience in this new activity of our party, we shall learn to correctly apply this principle.

Organizational Role of Factory Newspapers.

HERE, then, we have all the essentials of the factory newspaper, so far as concerns its general purposes and the character of its contents. This is not the only problem faced in the publication of shop papers. The actual preparation of the paper by the Communist group, the distribution and financing—these are also questions of the utmost importance, and will be taken up in another article. Enough has already been said, however, to show how significant the factory newspapers are in the work of our party.

Shop papers must become an inseparable part of the activity of Communist groups in factories, and every district organization must give this matter serious attention. The factory newspaper has not merely an agitational role, acting as the mouthpiece of the Communists, shedding light on the economic and political problems of the workers, raising slogans for the betterment of their conditions. It has also a very definite organizational role. As an effective instrument for extending the circle of sympathizers gathered around the group in the factory, it provides a first step in the direction of rallying the workers around the Communist Party. It makes Communism not an abstraction, but a reality. It makes the party an active factor in the life of the workers.

EVERY work place must be our stronghold—so wrote Lenin. Factory newspapers, by helping our party to strike its roots among the masses of workers, are indispensable in this task.

L. A. WORKERS GET STORY OF STRIKE OF CLOAKMAKERS

Meeting Disrupters Are Frustrated

By W. SCHNEIDERMANN.
(Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—At a large mass meeting at the Music Arts Hall, with 800 present, Los Angeles workers heard the story of the cloakmakers' strike. The meeting was under the auspices of the Los Angeles Relief Conference for the Striking Cloakmakers, which has already forwarded $2,500 to the New York joint board.

Foil Disrupters.

An attempt by right wingers led by A. Piotkin, manager of the Cloakmakers' Union, Local 52, to disrupt the meeting and prevent the taking of a collection was frustrated when the arrangements committee at the last minute switched the program and had Tom Lewis, the main speaker, take the floor first and wind up his speech with a collection appeal which brot in over one hundred dollars. This took the right wingers by surprise, and they were at a loss what to do when Rav. Robert Whitaker took the floor. Piotkin attempted to get the floor without success, as the chairman, an entirely neutral person, P. D. Noel of the executive board of the Civil Liberties Union, was determined that no one was going to start a fight on the floor of the meeting.

This successful meeting followed upon the split which took place in the conference, when the socialists walked out because they could not get a majority vote to control the relief work in behalf of the Sigmanites. They made an unsuccessful attempt to tie up all the money so that no money could be sent to the New York joint board, and they even went so far as to persuade the officials of the "labor bank" to stop a check for $300 to the New York strikers. They were forced to back down on this, however, when the left wing leaders of the conference threatened to expose their dirty work, and the check went thru without difficulty.

Form Fake Conference.

The next step of the right wing was to organize a fake cloakmakers' relief conference of their own, and approach the Central Labor Council to denounce the conference which they had split, which the council gladly did. The cloakmakers' manager, Brother Piotkin, made a violent attack on the left wing delegates in the Central Labor Council and called upon that body to investigate their activities as "representatives of the Workers Party". He charged the left wingers with stealing funds that had raised for the cloakmakers, despite the fact that a complete audited report of all funds collected and dispersed was printed and made available for all labor organizations to examine.

The relief conference is continuing their energetic campaign for funds, and Piotkin is fuming at his inability to break it up.

FEDERATION PLEDGES SUPPORT TO NICARAGUA AND MEXICO; ATTACKS POLICIES OF STATE DEPARTMENT

The United States government's policy in Nicaragua, Mexico and China was attacked in a resolution passed by the Chicago Federation of Labor at its regular meeting this week in which the federation pledged its support to the labor movements of Nicaragua and Mexico. The resolution declares that Chicago labor protests emphatically against the invasion of Nicaragua, threats against Mexico, and intervention in China. The report of the resolutions committee, which was that it concurred in the resolution and referred it to the executive committee of the A. F. of L. for action, was adopted.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas: The department of state in violation of the principles of self determination of all peoples has sent United States marines to support a dictator established by Wall Street in Nicaragua against the wishes of the people and the labor movement of that republic, and

"Whereas: The department of state is further dispatching part of the United States navy to China to protect so-called extra territorial rights against the wishes of that republic and its people, and threatening to break off relations with the republic of Mexico to protect Wall Street oil interests; thus stimulating the dangers of new wars, and

Cites A. F. of L. Responsibility.

Pledges Support.

"Resolved: That the Chicago Federation of Labor declares its unalterable position in favor of the rights of self-determination of all peoples and pledges our brotherly support to the labor movement of Mexico and Nicaragua, and be it further

"Resolved: That we protest emphatically against the invasion of Nicaragua, the threats against Mexico and intervention in China."

Hit School System.

Resolutions and discussion, attacking the administration of the Chicago public schools by Supt. William McAndrew, formed the main part of the meeting. A resolution protesting the attempt of McAndraw to break up the teachers' organization by refusing to consider or hear recommendations either by individuals or organizations was passed, as was a resolution, sponsored by Oscar Nelson, fifth alderman and vice-president of the federation, condemning the "platoon" system of education, the junior high schools, and the so-called intelligence tests. These three policies were flayed as an attempt of business interests to deprive workers' children of the same educational advantages given children of the rich, of developing children who could be easily "handled" by employers after they completed school, and to enable big interests to evade their share of school taxation.

Labor Party Is Nasd.

Arna Swabeck, delegate from the Painters' Union, in commenting on the resolution, declared that the only way the workers could change the present school system and to wrest it from control of the big business interests was by asserting its power. Labor needs a labor program, he said. It must have labor candidates for office, and a labor party. "We can get nowhere by backing candidates of the democratic or republican party," said Swabeck.

Fitzpatrick Attacks Swabeck.

President Fitzpatrick made an effort to kill Swabeck's suggestion for a labor party, declaring, "We had a labor party once. We elected governors and U. S. senators, and almost elected mayors, when the previous speaker (Swabeck) betrayed us and wrecked the party." It was significant that the attack on Swabeck by Fitzpatrick failed to bring any applause. It was remarked by some of the delegates that "the federation was fed up on this story of Fitzpatrick's."

Delegate George Koop also told the delegates that it is impossible to obtain a change in the school system as long as the workers aligned themselves with democrats or republicans. "You can't get anything by petitioning," said Koop. "You won't get anything until the workers rise up and exert their power." He then attacked labor leaders, who are republicans or democrats, who have no channel receptivefavors from the system in control and law to La Salle street."

No Interest in Labor Temple.

The proposal of a labor temple for Chicago, which had been talked of at the last three meetings of the federation, was declared by the executive board to be impossible at present more is shown by the unions, particularly the building trades. The committee reported that no union had yet shown any interest in the proposal.

DETROIT WORKERS BACK FIGHT FOR RELEASE OF SACCO AND VANZETTI

By CYRIL LAMBKIN.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 17. — The class conscious workers of Detroit, like their brothers in other cities in the United States and in other countries, have not been indifferent to the fate of Sacco and Vanzetti. For, together with the rest of the class conscious workers and the large groups of liberals they have long since been convinced that Sacco and Vanzetti were innocent of the crime they are charged with, and that the preformed of the charge was hut another instance of the dastardly frame-up system so brasenly resorted to in the United States against militants in the labor movement.

May Protest Meetings.

Many protest meetings were held in Detroit and some of the other large cities of Michigan during the early stages of the case. Hundreds of dollars were collected and sent to the Sacco and Vanzetti Defense Committee. The Detroit Federation of Labor and tha Michigan State Federation of Labor adopted resolutions branding tha charges and trial as a frame up. Italian united front committees were formed for the special purpose of holding protest meetings, raise funds for defense and publicity.

W. P. Takes Lead.

In all these activities members of tha Workers Party played a great, if not tha major part. And it was the Workers Party that alone sounded the warning that Sacco and Vanzetti might be executed despite tha growing file of affidavits and evidence that they were the victims of a dastardly frame up.

Must See Danger.

It seems that however much the class conscious workers and liberals were convinced of the innocence of Sacco and Vanzetti they are not yet convinced that the ruling class will not hesitate to carry out a death sentance in a frame up cae, unless its murderous hand is stopped by the most determined opposition on the part of the working class. And so the early meetings while obviously full of sincerity, lacked the fire of this necessary conviction in the murderous intent of the ruling class. This conviction was supplied by the denial last May by Judge Webster Thayer of the motion for a new trial, and again by his denial of a similar motion a few weeks ago.

Italian United Front.

As soon as word came of the denial of the motion for a new trial last May two huge mass meetings were arranged. One was a real united front effort on the part of all the Italian working class groups in the city of Detroit. The speakers at that meeting were Surmenti and Carlu Tresca in addition to local speakers. Cyril Lamhkin, representing the International Labor Defense spoke in English. The historic House of the Masses was crowded to the doors. Later these groups published a special Sacco-Vanzetti Bulletin in Italian which was widely distributed in Detroit.

Many Other Meatings.

The other meeting was held under tha auspices of the Save Sacco and Vanzatti Committee, which was composed of the various sections of the Detroit Labor Movement. The speakers at this meeting which was held in the Majestic Theater on June 4, were Frank Martel, the president of the Detroit Federation of Labor, C. E. Ruthenberg, representing the Workers Party and Jacob Margolis, for the I. W. W., and similar groups. A telegram was sent to the governor of Massachusetts demanding a new trial. Later thru the I. L. D., 25,000 leaflets including 15,000 of the special Debs leaflets were distributed.

The Sacco and Vanzetti case above all must be utilized to make the workers see the real danger lurking behind the frame-up system. They must organize themselves to offer effective resistance to it and to the capitalist system which makes it possible.

JUDGES, FOES OF EDUCATION, ARE RAPPED BY LABOR

Stand Against Compulsory School Scored

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 17. — Lawless judges who incite boys to break the continuation school statute and encourage employers to promote truancy are denounced by the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor in resolutions adopted Jan. 7 by its general executive board.

The strong stand taken by organized labor against judges who breed contempt for law in the minds of youth was provoked in the first place by a resolution of the Wisconsin County Judges Association, urging the legislature to repeal the compulsory provision of the continuation school law. This requires boys and girls between 16 and 18 years to attend the continuation school at least 8 hours a week if they are not pursuing other educational work.

Judges Denounce Laws.

"On a number of occasions," says the state federation of labor "some of the county judges, who are also juvenile judges, instead of urging observance of the law and encouraging children to attend classes, have denounced the law instead of calling to task certain employers for inciting those of school age to truancy, they have even gone on the accusants that the law is an impositbon."

The charges by judges that the part-time school promotes pool room loafing and criminality are shown as preposterous by the labor statement. It brands the attempt as a repeal made by the judges as an unwarranted reflection upon the part-time branch of our educational system and as an unfair assault upon the opportunities of 20,000 boys and girls who are the sons and daughters of the workers of Wisconsin."

Warn Judges.

The judges are further admonished to remember their oath of office and "to refrain from the practice of encouraging truancy among our minors, and from embarrassing by their judicial outbursts reluctant employers in their noble missions of statutory educational enforcement."

The state labor body is warning every local union of the unbuild alliance between judges and employers for breaking down the state education system and is sending a copy of its resolutions to every county judge in the state.

Southern Mill Invasion Hits Northern Labor

Mills, Lawrence, Mass., purchasing Essex Mills at Alabama City, Ala.

Rayon, or artificial silk, is made in the south by three of the biggest producers: Dupont interests near Nashville, Tenn., with a $4,000,000 plant; American Bemberg at Elizabethtan, Tenn. beginning the second $2,000,000 unit of five; and Viscose Co. with a new plant at Parkersburg, W. Va.

Mill Villages Grow.

Mill villages of North Carolina textile manufacturers are counted as a fourth of the plant investment, one of the Journal of Commerce 30th annual textile review writers tells. Without describing old mill village houses nor the proportion of new to old, he mentions that the modern villages have "ideas of pleasing and varied design" to avoid the monotony of the old and that they contain "lights, running water and all plumbing facilities." He claims that the companies pay "upkeep of streets, sewer and water systems, playgrounds and athletic equipment, community work, etc. Some mills own the village — homes, churches, schools — and practically manage the social life.

Paternalism.

"All of the leading North Carolina mills support, either wholly or in part, Y. M. C. A. or Y. W. C. A. buildings, community houses and their activities, with a paid staff to do the work." he tells in further describing southern textile manufacturers' paternalism. "Medical supervision, domestic science among girls, canning clubs, Boy Scouts and similar organizations draw heavily upon the mills for support."

The writer claims that a $15 wage in the south is equal to a $22.50 wage in the north because of the cheaper rent of $1.25 a week average, he says and paternal practices of the southern mill employer. He attributes North Carolina's lack of textile strikes to the "very close personal relationship between employer and employe," tho this relationship is maintained by the staff of welfare people paid by the firm, which organization is made up of northern investors. re

Defense Counsel William G. Thompson has asked Governor Fuller of Massachusetts for extension of the former respite granted Madeiros. The confessed criminal is awaiting execution for another murder.

Stata Death for Jan. 27.

Unless the extension is granted Madeiros dies on the night of January 27 and the key witness, who can swear to the innocence of Sacco and Vanzetti, will be gone, never to be brot back.

Thompson appealed for the Madeiros extension, following the postponement of the state supreme court hearing of the Sacco-Vanzetti case to March. The postponement till March was granted to give Thompson more time to prepare his case against the denial of a new trial.

Chicago Government Heads Dine and Dance with Latin-Americans

At the same time that all Latin-America is inflamed against anything American, Mayor Dever, Chief of Police Collins and other officials representing the city and state government will attend a dinner dance in honor of all Spanish-American consulars in Chicago Saturday evening. The dance is given by the Spanish-American Consular Corps, an organization of all their consuls and staff.

B Singer, Chicago representative of Nicaragua, when asked what effect the present situation in foreign relations would have on the festivities said it would have no effect. "Why, there isn't any situation," said Singer, "it's all greatly exaggerated."

Police Probe Baby "Market" Here; 3 Are Under Arrest

With more arrests promised, police leave no stone unturned their investigation into the alleged "sale" of newborn babies by three midwives, all under arrest.

Those accused of disposing of "unwanted" babies for money are Mrs. Hedwig Hanke, Mrs. Amalie Becker and Mrs. Anna W. Lee.

This is one of the most vicious practices that has been brought to our attention in years," Health Commissioner Herman Bundsen declared. "The sooner we put a stop to this sort of thing the better."

Each baby graded was carried out by disposing, at profit, of unwanted babies, many purchasers, it was declared, seeking to "fool" their husbands.

Police Raid Cicero Gambling House in Announced Campaign

What police say is the beginning of a campaign against gambling houses in Cook county was staged when "The Ship", one of largest gambling establishments in the county, located in Cicero, was raided. More than 100 inmates were taken in the raid, and equipment said to be worth $75,000 was seized. Four squads of police raided the place, breaking down a large door, and entered the room with drawn guns.

The Ship is said to be owned by Al Capone, James Mondi, Frank Pope, and others. Jack Shoemaker, 2331 S. Fifty-second avenue, was keeper.

Indiana Klan Intends to Steer Legislature

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 17.—The Seventy-fifth General Assembly of Indiana will convene here Thursday, at 10 a. m. Election of officers will take place. In the upper house the republicans count 36, the democrats 14. In the lower house republicans control 62 votes.

The ku klux klan prepares again to be a strong if not a controlling power in the legislature.

The state dragon, W. Leo Smith, arranged a banquet "in honor of certain state senators and state representatives who are members of our organization," the invitation stated.

It is expected that Senator James J. Neidz, republican, from Lake county, will be elected president pro tem of the senate.

Neidze. It has had the support of Governor Jackson, whose close connection with the ku klux klan was exposed recently.

Joseph M. Cravens of Madison, is expected to lead the democratic senators.

The Manager's Corner

Headline Readers.

"Let us remember," said Senator LaFollette, referring to Secretary Kellogg's most recent "red" scare, "that a great majority of the people of the United States are what might be termed HEADLINE READERS". In spite of the fact that the document produced by Secretary Kellogg is nothing but "the flimsiest sort of propaganda," he ventures to say that many people have been convinced by it.

Senator LaFollette stops at this point and gives no reason for this unfortunate situation. Why is it that in a country where such a large percentage of the population can read and write, it is possible to effectively influence the minds of the majority of the people with such stuff as the misleading document entitled, "Bolshevik Aims and Policies in Mexico and Latin-America"? The reason is clear. The capitalist press is the most potent force in modern capitalist society which breeds mental shallowness and superficiality. The capitalist press, with few exceptions, encourages loose reading and shallow thinking, a non critical attitude, a submission to prejudice and hysteria. The capitalist press has developed in America a nation of HEADLINE READERS.

But fortunately for the workers of America, there is The DAILY WORKER. The DAILY WORKER is more than a newspaper. It is a training school for the proletariat. It consciously aims to raise the ideological level of its readers. It encourages a spirit of investigation and criticism. The DAILY WORKER prepares for the consumption of its readers more than the headlines, more than the news itself, a clear theoretical guide to the events and the forces at work in capitalist society.

The problem of destroying HEADLINITIS, of developing superficiality and shallowness, of building in its stead a strong, analytical viewpoint and a clear theoretical understanding of capitalist society is essentially the problem of building a powerful working class paper devoted to this task.

DAILY WORKER CONFERENCE IN NEW YORK PROVES GREAT SUCCESS

By SYLVAN A. POLLACK
(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY — The DAILY WORKER dinner and conference held at Yorkville Casino raised $2,226 to help move the newspaper to this city.

The 500 DAILY WORKER boosters who were present heard many prominent speakers, including Scott Nearing, Jay Lovestone, Bert Wolfe, Ben Gitlow and James P. Cannon explain the importance of having a militant English labor daily published in New York. Joseph R Brodsky well-known labor attorney, presided.

Brodsky Donates $500.

When Chairman Brodsky asked for donations, he received $500 from B. Brodsky, who he explained was no relative. Edward Royce then came across with $100 and Leo King pledged $300. Other large donations were: United Workers' Cooperative, $100; Local 2090, Carpenters' Union, $50. Other fifty dollar donations were received from Sub-Section 5A of the Workers Party and The Trade Union Education League of Local 9, I. L. G. W. U. Ten dollars was also brot in from a group of Passaic textile strikers.

Lovestone Speaks.

Jay Lovestone, recently returned from Soviet Russia, was introduced as one of those who Secretary of State Kellogg is blaming for the present trouble in Mexico and Nicaragua.

"My last public speech was delivered in St. Andrews' Palace, which belonged to the former czar of Russia," said Lovestone. "When I speak here tonight I bring a message of greeting from the workers of Russia. Also from our fellow workers in China who at the present time are doing such a mighty fine job."

Lovestone continued by referring to the Communist newspapers of Europe and the large influence they have on the workers.

"The organ of our French party 'L'Humanite', is a powerful weapon in the fight against capitalism." he stated. "It has a daily circulation of 225,000. In Paris, while its quarterly edition is read by 120,000 workers every day. The the Berlin "Rote Fahne" has a slightly smaller circulation it is surrounded by a group of daily newspapers published thruout Germany. But when it speaks, thru its daily articles it is listened to with respect by all who read it."

Ovation for Nearing.

Scott Nearing was greeted with sustained applause when he started to speak. He pointed out that five million workers live within the metropolitan area of New York and said The DAILY WORKER published here, its duty is to attempt to become their spokesman. After stating his opinion that a daily newspaper should follow the example of the capitalist press to the extent of combining solid labor news with a certain amount of stimulus. That a newspaper must not be a grind out party organ of the living struggle of the workers.

Other speakers in addition to those already named were I. E. Ravitch and Rebecca Grecht.

LIEBKNECHT MEETINGS.

BUFFALO January 22, 8 p. m., at Workers Home, 11-13 26 West Huron Street. Speaker Sam Eisman.

Who Is Fighting Wall Street?

With protests pouring into Washington from all sections of the country against the Latin-American policy of the Coolidge administration (even such imperialist sheets as the Chicago Tribune admits this fact), the so-called progressives in the house of representatives and the senate are making a miserable showing. It is a sham fight that they are putting up and in the meantime the Wall Street-Coolidge crew with marines and gunboats have taken complete control of Nicaragua and laid the basis for war on Mexico.

It is now recognized that the present crisis is an historic one in that it is marked by official endorsement of a policy of open interference in the internal affairs of Latin-American nations in conformity with the new theory of "specialist responsibility" of the United States in Latin-American enunciated by Coolidge. There have been many acts of aggression before, but this time they are committed as part of a deliberate policy publicly announced.

Speaking of the marines now in Nicaragua, the Tribune's Washington correspondent says:

> They are back and probably NEVER AGAIN WILL BE WITHDRAWN, the fire force undoubtedly will be reduced eventually to a detachment of 100 FOR OSTENSIBLE PROTECTION OF THE AMERICAN LEGATION but really for PRESERVATION OF ORDER THRUOUT THE COUNTRY. . . .
> With our armed forces established in Nicaragua guarding the route of a second interoceanic canal . . . . and with the president proclaiming the doctrine of "peculiar responsibility" of our nation in the Caribbean the United States resumes ITS OCCUPATION OF THE STRATEGIC POSITION IN CENTRAL AMERICA. (Emphasis ours.)

The Wall Street government is in Central America to stay. It will lose no opportunity for extending its control to the north and south.

The workers, farmers and large sections of the middle class are opposed to this policy of open aggression, but those who are supposed to voice their protest in Washington are extremely meek. They have not tried to organize popular opposition but to direct it into harmless channels when mass pressure has forced them to display some activity.

We have made this assertion a number of times during this crisis and now Norman Hapgood, Washington correspondent for the Hearst press, makes a pointed observation to the same effect. Writing on January 11, he said:

> In the decision likely to be historic in its consequence, about the extent to which American money is to rule in Nicaragua, Mexico and the entire list of Central and South America, the LEADERSHIP OF THE DEMOCRATS AND PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICANS HAS BEEN SO FUTILE that it is difficult to describe it adequately. . . .
> SENATOR BORAH NOT ONLY GAVE THE ADMINISTRATION EVERY CHANCE TO FILL THE COUNTRY WITH BOLSHEVIK TALK . . . . WHILE HE MADE NO MAJOR EFFORT, such as the progressive chairman of the foreign relations committee was expected to make. He actually tried to get the DEMOCRATS TO TAKE THE LEAD. Moreover, he tried to have a democrat take the lead in showing up the improbability of the story told by Kellogg about three reputable and well-known correspondents. . . . They were summoned by Mr. Olds, Mr. Kellogg's former law partner, and ASKED TO FILL THE COUNTRY WITH A BOLSHEVIK SCARE WITHOUT LETTING IT BE KNOWN THAT THE STATE DEPARTMENT PUT THEM UP TO IT. . . . BORAH, requested to look into it, ASKED TO HAVE A DEMOCRAT TAKE THE LEAD. . . .
> MEANTIME ALL THE DEMOCRATS, except Wheeler, in the senate, HAD THEIR TAILS BETWEEN THEIR LEGS. . . .
> In this emergency apparently both the democrats and Borah waited for the water to reach the second deck . . . . (Emphasis ours.)

The cowardly elements described above are the ones who pose as saviors of the American masses. Confronted with the open danger of war in behalf of Wall Street, they have contented themselves with verbal protests after having tried to evade the struggle completely.

These elements typify the middle class. Weak and vacillating, caught between the workers and the powerful capitalists, they join with the workers only when their own interests are directly threatened and desert them at the first opportunity.

In the present situation the representatives of the middle class have made no real struggle against imperialism and they are both unwilling and unable to lead such a struggle.

The facts of the present situation prove this.

What is to be done?

Deserted alike by the official leaders of the labor movement, what is St. Petersburg, Florida, direct their attacks upon the left wing of the labor movement and remain silent about imperialist aggression and the danger of war, and the so-called progressives in congress, the workers and farmers of America, drawing the chief lesson from the present crisis, will by their strength and determination begin to build a mass party of their own—a party speaking directly in their name and drawing a clear line between undercover agents of imperialism, like the trade union officialdom and the "non-partisan" congressmen and senators.

In the meantime the cry of "Hands Off Nicaragua, Mexico and Latin America!" must not be allowed to die down.

The main task is, as we said a few days ago, is to DRIVE into the struggle against the Wall Street policy, the so-called "spokesmen of the people" whose cowardice gives to Wall Street a free hand. The "progressives" and trade union leaders must either fight Wall Street or acknowledge their fealty to it.

What happened to the anti-Soviet prophets who used to predict the fall of the Soviet regime in their new year interviews? It looks like passing the hat for them this year.

Bankers' Ass'n Head Speaks to Farmers

URBANA, Ill. Jan. 17.—More than 1,000 Illinois farmers are here for the annual farmers' week under the auspices of the college of Agriculture of the state university. Addresses by Melvin A. Traylor, president of the American Bankers' Association, and Lloyd S. Tenny, legislative chief of the bureau of agricultural economics, on agriculture, were to be leading features of the meeting.

Marx Asked to Again Head German Cabinet

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—Chancellor Marx has been asked by President Hindenburg to form a new German cabinet. Marx has formally accepted and is now attempting to reconstruct his government which collapsed several weeks ago.

Minister Curtius, who was first asked to take over the government when the Marx cabinet fell, failed to obtain enough statesmen to fill cabinet posts.

Canton Spurns British 'Friendship' Offer

(NOTE: The following is a special dispatch to The DAILY WORKER from the bureau of information of the department of foreign relations of the Canton revolutionary government in China giving our readers direct information on the situation in that country.)

* * *

CANTON, Dec. 20.—(By Mail)—The arrival of the new British minister to China, Miles Lampson, has elicited a great deal of comment thruout the country. So far the new minister has made no definite statement of specific policy, limiting himself to generalities of good-will, but it is understood from London press reports that he has been given full discretion by the British government. He is proceeding to Hankow, where he will try to see Eugene Chen, minister for foreign affairs, or other members of the nationalist government, and it is learned from authoritative source that he has been empowered to make a temporary agreement with the nationalist government, recognizing it as the local de facto government of southern China.

The coincidence of these reports with identical suggestions made this week by L. M. Leeffo, on behalf of the China committee, before a London meeting of members of the house of commons and house of lords is looked upon as significant here.

Won't Consider Split.

The nationalist attitude toward this suggested plan of splitting China in two has already been stated many times by nationalist spokesmen and has been restated in the nationalist press this week. It is a plan which cannot even be considered.

Everything is proceeding in accordance to plan in the removal of the nationalist government from Canton to Wuchang. Reports have been received by military headquarters from the government party now in Hankow on its way overland to Wuchang, stating that there has been an enthusiastic welcome accorded them all along the line and that everywhere they have been found a ready co-operation on the part of the people with both civil and military authorities.

Begin Reconstruction.

Conferences have been held at Nanchang and Kiukiang, the first dealing mainly with specific reconstructive measures for the province. Plans for the unification of the currency, the repairing and building of public roads, the reorganization of the railway, the adoption of a new land policy including an investigation into mines and forests were presented and passed upon. The province is getting ready to settle down to reconstructive work.

Hankow Incidents.

The storm of protest which has broken out in the foreign press in China over the situation in Hankow proves to be based upon incidents which have been grossly exaggerated. The inevitable formation of labor unions, which had been banned under the previous oppressive military rule, and the demands for wages a little higher than the inadequate pittance upon which labor had been maintaining a starving existence, also for better living conditions and more humane treatment, have been made the pretext for cry for intervention in the foreign press.

Seek Further Intervention.

Indications seem to point to this as another effort on the part of imperialist privilege and industry to create a situation in which such intervention would seem plausible. There has been a concentration of naval forces in the Wuhan area with the avowed purpose of being ready in case of emergency for the protection of foreign lives and property, but there seems to have arisen no real need for such protection. The violent disturbances attributed by the foreign press have not taken place. A general readjustment of labor difficulties is reported in the past few days.

The North Hesitates.

Cheng Tao-lin and Chang Tsung-chang, who at the recent Tientsin conference which Dr. Chuaseling also attended, came out with brave announcements of an immediate drive to eliminate the nationalist forces, seem now to be hesitating. The promised advance of troops into Anhui and Kiangsu has not materialized.

Reports from various centers indicate the reasons for this seeming change of mind and spirit.

Their Finances Low.

The financial situation in the north is a powerful deterrant, according to Peking reports. A new issue of fiat money has been made. It is reported, with a correlated fall in value and groans and protests on the part of the Fengtian masses. The Peking government's plight also seems to have come to a head over financial difficulties. In the recent telegram of resignation sent by the Wellington Koo cabinet to all the "allied" generals, it was stated that the finances of the Peking government have reached such a pass that some fundamental measures must be adopted promptly, if a complete breakdown is to be averted.

Behind in Payroll.

According to Peking reports, the clamor of government and school staffs for long-arrearred pay goes on. Government offices have not paid their staffs for months. Schools are now on strike with teachers clamoring at the doors. The police salaries are long in arrears.

The scramble for funds goes on. From Peking sources, it is learned that foreign banks are undertaking a mortgaging of government possessions which may or may not be the basis for the repeated reports of a £5,000,000 loan to Chang Tso-lin on the condition of immediate drive against the south. This report brot out a flood of protest and, altho it has been denied, it still persists.

Peaple Hostile.

Other important factors in the vacillation of the northern warlords seem to be the loudly-voiced hostility of the people of Kiangsu, Anhui and Chekiang to the proposed southward movement of Feagtieu and Shantung troops. The general feeling in Shanghai seems to be that last year's taste of northern control was enough.

Feng's Troops Progress.

In addition to these factors, the Fengtien and Shantung chiefs are being given pause by the continued progress made by Feng Yu-hsiang's troops thru Sheasi, and the expectation that they will join up with loyal nationalist troops in Honan. This danger to the Fengtien-Shantung forces from the western front seems to be further enhanced by the shifting of allegiance of the last three of the important generals under Wu Pei-fu's banner—Chin Yun-ao, Wei Feih and Tien Wei-chun, who are reported to be negotiating with the nationalist authorities at Hankow. At the same time, the naval forces of Shanghai and Fukien seem to be affording the northern chiefs little cheer. They seem to have been maintaining an attitude which from the point of view of the north could be at best viewed as neutrality. Reports from Shanghai and Fukien show that it has not been possible to swing these naval forces into any effective hostility against the popular forces of the south.

The American Workers Have a Glorious Tradition

MAY DAY, the world-wide proletarian holiday, originated in the United States. The trade union movement began in the United States long before organization of the workers started in most European countries. Some of the greatest strikes in the history of world labor occurred in this country. The eight hour strikes, railway strikes, coal strikes, Ludlow, Cripple Creek, Homestead, Lawrence, the Mooney strike—are only a few samples of the struggles of the American workers that have assumed a place of importance in the tradition of the international proletariat.

Along with the martyrs of the Paris Commune and the revolutionary movements in Europe since the war, the Haymarket heroes of Chicago stand in a high place in the hall of proletarian honor in every country where there is a worker's movement. The tradition of Parsons, and his fellow fighters of the eighties is appreciated less by the workers of their own country than by any others.

THE building of the great "American Empire," the leadership of U. S. imperialism in the capitalistic world and the phenomenal and rapid growth of the capitalist system in this country, places upon the working-class of America tremendous responsibilities for the future. It is impossible to participate with full powers in the revolutionary working-class movement of this country without tempering one's outlook on events of today with a complete knowledge of the great struggles of the past.

During the relatives of the last century, the labor movement of the entire world looked to that of the United States for leadership. It will not be long before the workers of the world will once more be looking to American labor to participate in the final struggle against capitalism, the strongest representative of which is the United States. Militant workers owe it to their movement and themselves to become thoroly acquainted with the glorious traditions of labor struggles in the United States.

THE Chicago Workers' School, will, among other subjects, devote special attention to the history of the American Labor Movement. Beginning next month, a class in this subject will meet for serious work every Friday night at the school headquarters, 19 S. Lincoln St. The course will continue for eight weeks under the direction of Samuel Haber. The lecture method will be used to only a limited extent, the class participating directly in the development of the subject which will cover the entire history of the movement from pre-colonial times to the present, with special emphasis on the growth of the modern movement following the Civil War.

COMRADE Haber is special fitted to conduct this class. A thoro training in the subject under Commons and Perlman at Wisconsin University has been supplemented in Comrade Haber's case by a knowledge of Marxism and a consideration for the facts of the class struggle so conveniently subdued or ignored by his professors.

Enrollment in this, and other working-class courses, can be made at 19 S. Lincoln St. all during the rest of this month.

All workers are invited. There are no restrictions. All that is required is sincerity and willingness to study.

A Lynching Affair - Story By Ellen Wetherell

WHEN Sarah arose to go to her room, I asked her if she ever felt lonely alone. "Sometimes," said she, "when the man dat war hung comes round."

"The man that was hung' A dead man, Sarah?"

"Yessuh, the man that war hung here in Red City on the big oak for the court house."

"Hung here, on an oak before the court house, Sarah?"

"Yessuh, I seen em do it," replied Sarah.

"You saw them do it, Sarah?" I asked, horrified.

"Yessuh, I jes crowded in 'til I'se got right under the tree; I seen his legs kick, an' his tongue hangin' out, my golly, didn't his eyes pop powful!"

Sarah was getting excited over her picture and so was I.

"Go on," I cried, "even if we get no sleep tonight."

"De tale ye all I knows," said Sarah. "You asks Amos Green, he'll yo mo; he war thar lookin' on, he all de white folks in de city."

"Horrible, horrible, I cried, "go to bed Sarah and may the dead man's host haunt you all night.

In the early morning, as the sun was thrusting its yellow spokes up over the rim of the earth, and the silver dew was cool upon the grass, I crept cautiously around to the little vine covered cabin, where the old preacher, Amos Green, slept and ate. I found him making coffee for his breakfast. He was to clop wood over in the pine tract and got 'round early.

"Mr. Green, will you tell me about the man that was lynched from the big oak last year?" I asked abruptly.

Amos Green grumbled. "You wants tos shere 'bout dat murder pow'ful toe come fo' breakfast. I wants my coffee, toe feelin' powerful weak."

"Oh, I will wait right here on the steps, have your breakfast, Mr. Green." As I spoke I dropped onto Amos Green taking a seat beside me on the steps.

"What did the poor Negro do that this people should lynch him? Did Mr. Green not know that such work was against the law?"

"They said" here Amos paused, and again repeated, "they said that the poor Negro insulted a white woman."

"That was a wicked act," I replied.

Amos Green lifted up his head proudly, he had a mass of white hair and in his solemn black eyes there was a world of scorn. "A wicked act," he repeated after me, but not true, said Amos Green. Then he seemed to hesitate ere he spoke again. "It done his good, white lady, toe take Chub Jackson from the jail an' hang him toe the oak tree."

"Did you witness this lynching?" I asked. "Sarah tells me that she saw it all and that you could tell me of it better than she could, for you made a powerful plea for the Negro."

"Good it, the whole of it ain't war now'ful hard to look on."

"I believe you Mr. Green," said I, "but why did not the law interfere, the law respectable people of the city?"

Amos Green threw back his head again and with withering scorn in his eyes he cried, "Ah! Yah! Ah! Yah! You know all. I war dere, the respectable peoples dat done it an' de law looked on an' said nothin'."

"I never likes toe say much 'bout it for I has sole chile when I done, but yessy, mighty anxious I tells yo.'

"Chub Jackson runs in toe the woods an' tries toe hide, but the officers an' de good peoples runs down an' shuts up Chub Jackson in the jail. The white peoples hears 'bout colchin him an' how he in the jail house, an' they goes down an' tells the jailer that they must have Chub Jackson, or they burn the jail down.

"What for," said the jailor.

"For to hang him 'till hes daad," said they.

"But that's the law's work an' not yourn," said the jailer.

"Fool, him out," said they, "or we'll come in an' fotch him."

"The jailer never sed dno, but wid a big key he onlocked the do of the room what Chub Jackson was, an' fotches him so the peoples sees him.

"Chub Jackson's face war as white as yourn ma' an' he tremles an' tremles. He had the hand cuffs on do he could do nothin' despirit. I tell you' twar mighty solemn to see Chub stan thar a shaking, an' them dogs a-leapin' toe get at him, thar red tongues a-hitin' the air. I tries toe get clos to Chub toe speak a religious word, for I knows what war wantin'. But the peoples drive me back, an' say: "Let him go toe hell for he b'longs 'bout yo' waste any of yo ole prayers on him." Then I tries toe pray alound what I war, reckonin' Chub Jackson might catch a word toe take with him.

"But the peoples scritch so mighty loud I couldn't doe nothin'. Then I tries toe come away, but it war toe late, the rope war 'roun' Chubs' neck an' two mens war haulin' him up. Chubs' face, twitchin, purple, swung 'roun' toe me. His legs war flying up an' down an' down a heap of stickin. I couldnt stan it no mo, an' I jes dropped on toe my knees an' prays.

"O, Lord," I cries, "speak toe this po' creature's heart in the midst of his dyin' agony. If he have wickedness in that boart let it be taken out. Remembers no sin against him. O Lord O Lord, on Calv'ry thy blood run down for Chub Jackson, an' now O Lord, carry long thy work toe his salvation. Thy law of the state has bene vilated in this murder, Chub Jackson has bene tuk from the jail by the courts, O Lord's An' eye for an eye the Ole Test'ment say; but you say 'A new law I gifs unto yo' that ye luvs one another.' The peoples say that Chub Jackson done that wicked act, but, yo, O Lord, knows better, an I knows better. If Chub Jackson has runs in him an' he acted as if he war wicked, plea-se O Lord, forgive him for that; White mens have done worse an' never hung for it. Never wo forgits, O Lord, of this black man's ignorance, do ignorance of his father an' mother befo' him, the ignorance of them way back in slavery days, an' them befo' in black Africa. Member, O Lord, that they comes not by domselves but war brot here in chains, an' kept in chains 'till the day of Emancipation.

"The white mans am a murdaring Chub Jackson we knows O Lord! He should have been tried in the courts the same as tha white mass am. Twar Chub Jackson right as a citizen of these United States. Nona oh de white people here hab any sympathy wid Chub Jackson, they all believe he is Chub, but thy sympathy O Lord, am mighty to save. O Lord, forgivo tham pussons dat am committin' dis awful crime, but above all save Chub Jackson that am a comin' into thy presence dis very minute."

The old preacher stopped, he had learned the prayer by heart, he knew he was in the right and that the people who were guilty of the lynching were wrong. Amos Green raised a ragged sleeve and wiped his steaming face. "It am pow'ful hard toe go over that scene," he said.

The tropical sunshine was falling hot thru the interstices in the heavy foliage. A mocking bird was trilling an aria on the rosebush just beside me. Away up among the fleecy clouds a flock of buzzards were dipping their wings to the morning breeze.

I turned to Amos Green. "Was any one arrested and tried for that murder of Chub Jackson?"

"No suhsm," said the preacher. "All the white folks say, 'Sarved the nigger right'."

Letters from Our Readers

Dear Comrades: Two two letters published in a recent issue of your paper encourage me to add my quota of praise to the splendid effort you are making to provide the American working class with a medium of expression.

The letter from Mr. Mason of Brooklyn, New York, almost hit the nail on the head in saying that if one wants to start the day right he should read O'Flaherty's column. Still since he refers in terms of food, I believe it might be better said if he describ ed O'Flaherty's column as the intellectual grapefruit of The DAILY WORKER; English's the pig's knuckles and sauerkraut and Dunne's sorials as the table d'hote menu for those who can afford to take time with their reading and do not merely snatch a paragraph while hanging on to a strap.

Of course, Upton Sinclair's annex is also worth commanding, tho frankly I read the Manager's Corner first, tho I am not a member of any political party. You would do well to publish letters of tha kind that appeared a few days ago. Why not have readers' column? Your paper is good, but needs more pep.

Respectfully yours,
Anton Rasmussen, Chicago.

A NEW NOVEL
by Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair.)

Than a painful thing happened. There was a newspaper publisher in a western city, one of those old pirates of the frontier type, who had begun life as a bartender, and delighted to tell how he would toss a silver dollar up to the ceiling, and if it stuck it belonged to the boss and if it came down it belong to him. By this means he had got rich, and now he owned a paper, and he got onto this scandal of the oil leases. There came to him a man who had some old claim to part of the Sunnyside lease, and the publisher made a deal with him that was to go halves, and then he served notice on Verne that they had to have a million dollars. Verne told him to go to hell, and the result was this newspaper opened up with front page exposures of the greatest public steal in history. And this was no obscure Socialist sheet, this was one of the most widely read newspapers in the country, and copies were being mailed to all members of congress, and to other newspapers —yes, it was awful! Dad and Verne said the rest held anxious conferences, and suffered agonies of soul; in the end they had to give up to the old pirate, and paid him the million in cold cash and the great newspaper lost all its interest in the public welfare.

When Bunny was a youngster, he had read the stories of Captain Mayne Reid, and he remembered one scene—a fish-hawk capturing a fish, and then a swift eagle swooping down from the sky and taking the prize away. Just so it was in the oil game—a world of human hawks and eagles.

VII.

Bunny no longer felt comfortable about losing the dime, and that Vee would not let him quit, she argued and pleaded; Annabelle was so kind and good, and would be so hurt if he didn't; and the political breaks had given their friendship a flaw never answered—he knew Verne must be sore as the dickens; and imagine Verne being tactful or considerate of a guest!

When you went out into society and refused to take a drink, you caused everybody to begin talking about prohibition. In the same way, when you did not join in the demands from of the "insurgent" senators in Washington, you caused some one to comment on your sympathy for bolshevism. The little bunch of "reds" in congress were interfering with legislation very much desired by the rich, and they were denounced at every dinner table, including Vernon Roscoe's. Even at Bohemian sky said what the hell were they after, anyhow? And Verne replied "Ask Jim Junior he's chumming with them." Annabelle gave a jump in and cry, "No politics! I won't have you picking on my Bunny."

Then, later in the evening, when Harvey Manning got drunk, he sat on Bunny's knee and wept affectionately, as he always was, and shook one finger in front of Bunny's nose and remarked, "You gonna tell 'em 'bout me, Bunny? And when required "Tell who, Harve?" the other replied. "Those muckrakin' friends o yours. I aint gonna have 'em tell on me! My ole uncle fixes out I get drunk hell and no one say 'bout will." So Bunny knew that his intimacy with the enemy had been a subject of discussion at the mansion.

There had been a series of violent outbreaks in Arvel City. The members of the American Legion, roused by the "red" revolutionary talk, had broken into and looted headquarters of the I. W. W. and thrown the members down the stairs, and thrown their typewriters and desks after them. Since the courts would not enforce law and order, these young men were going to attend to it. They had raided bookstores which sold books of red tendency, and dumped the books into the street and burned them. They had beaten up newsdealers who were selling radical magazines. Also they were taking charge of the speakers the public heard. If they didn't like one, they notified the owner of the hall, and he hastened to break his contract.

John Grisby, one of Verne's oil associates from Oklahoma, was at the dinner table, and he said that was the way to handle the cattle snakes there; one man had seen that one of the snakes was slitting across the way from him, so Bunny took no offense, but listened quietly. "That's the way we did the job at home; we turned the loafer loose on 'em and cracked their heads, and they moved on to some other field. You're too polite out here, Verne."

Ask Powers for Army of 25,000 To Invade China

Shanghai Foreign Colony Prepares for War

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, China, Jan. 18.—Officials of the international settlement here yesterday sent out a call to the powers to rush an army of at least 25,000 into Shanghai before the city could be captured by the approaching Cantonese nationalist forces.

Simultaneously the French legation at Peking has protested in regular form to the Peking government, dominated by Chang Tso-lin, "War Lord of Manchuria" and a Japanese hireling, against the anti-Christian propaganda being circulated in Foochow, a city under Cantonese control.

The French protest, and the appeal for troops of the local foreign concession administration are considered here to be two steps in the preparation of a case for foreign intervention on a large scale, in support of Chang Tso-lin, who will now be represented as undertaking an expedition against the Kuomintang and South China, in the interests of peace, order, and the preservation of treaty rights and lives of foreigners.

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

IT is worthy of note that most of President Coolidge's recommendations to congress are contemptuously relegated to the waste basket by the lawmakers, yet this same Coolidge can engage in war on a friendly country like Nicaragua, threaten war against Mexico and dispatch warships to China on a hostile mission, and get away with it. Intellectually, Coolidge is a greater nincompoop than his predecessor, Warren G. Harding. He owes his power to Wall Street. As long as he acts the part of a willing errand boy the so-called opposition in congress may rave, but Cal may go ahead with the work.

YET there are some people who are still under the delusion that the citizens of this country are in a position to exert decisive influence on governmental policy, in no other country in the world is government less subject to popular will than in the United States, with the exception of fascist dictatorships such as Italy, Spain, Poland and others of the same brand. In France, Germany or Great Britain a government quits when its important measures fail to receive a substantial majority in parliament. In the United States the administration stays put if congress turned against it to a man.

THE Knights of Columbus believe in educating the Mexicans with bullets. At the convention held by the Knights in Philadelphia a million dollar fund was launched for "educational purposes." The Knights would explain the position of the catholic church on the Mexican question to the American people. It now develops that this money is being used to finance fascist revolts against the Mexican government. The Mexicans have had enough of papal education.

TRIUMPH FOR CLASS ACTION

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 18.—The farmer-labor conference this morning categorically repudiated the propaganda spread over the country that the Minnesota workers and farmers were ready to give up independent political action and return to the republican and democratic parties by adopting a strong resolution supporting the farmer-labor party.

At the same time the conference adopted resolutions taking a strong stand against the imperialist policy of the government and demanding the withdrawal of American naval forces from Nicaragua.

"Impeach Kellogg."

A second resolution urged the impeachment of Kellogg as the tool of Wall Street because of his actions in Nicaragua.

The resolution supporting independent political action brands the republican and democratic parties as the servants of the special privileged interests points to the achievements of the Farmer-Labor Party in Minnesota in electing two United States senators and polling a quarter of a million votes in the last election and then declares:

"Resolved, that this conference of the representatives of the workers' and farmers' organizations of the state of Minnesota denounces those persons who would lead the work-

STRIKE CLOUDS GATHER IN S. E. RAIL DISPUTE

Board of Mediation Failed So Far

By LAURENCE TODD,
(Federated Press).

WASHINGTON —(FP)— Twenty-two thousand members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors, employed on all class 1 railroads in the Southeastern region except the Southern Railway, are completing a strike vote. It is indicated that this vote is almost unanimous, or at least is overwhelmingly in favor of authorizing a strike in case the executives of the two brotherhoods shall be unable to secure a satisfactory adjustment of the pending wage demands.

Ask $1 a Day More.

Efforts of the U. S. board of mediation, created under the Watson-Parker law, have failed to budge either side. The unions began by asking that the wage scale be revised to give an increase of about $1 a day. The management, led by the "hard-boiled" Louisville & Nashville and the Atlantic Coast Line, refused to discuss wages unless rules were also thrown into the debate. As the rules are nationally uniform, and as the roads in Eastern territory have recently granted a wage increase without insisting upon changes in the working rules, the brotherhoods' representatives have declined to talk of modification of the rules. The deadlock grimly declared by the managers led to the taking of the ballot on authorization of a stoppage of work.

SHOULD PAY PROFESSORS AS MUCH AS CHAUFFEURS AND COOKS, DEAN PLEAS

Low wages paid college instructors is blamed for the ills existing in the college system by Otis E. Randall, dean of Brown University, in an address before the Association of American Colleges in convention here.

"Not until the American public is willing to pay its college professors as much as its cooks and chauffeurs will it obtain the best education for its sons and daughters," said the dean.

Because of low wages paid professors, capable men are not attracted to that profession, he said. "We shall have to continue with many inefficient instructors who could not qualify for any industrial or office position," he said.

In 300 colleges, the average pay is $1,400 to $2,000 for instructors, $2,000 to $2,500 for assistant professors, and $2,300 to $4,000 for full professors, said Randall.

Leninism Leads to Victory!

Extracts from Lenin's Writings

WE must be careful to separate the oppressed and subject nations from the dominating nations, in contradiction to the bourgeois democratic lies concealing the enslavement of the vast majority of the population of the earth by an insignificant minority of advanced capitalist nations which is peculiar to the epoch of finance, capital and imperialism.

• • •

It is the policy of the Communist International to bring about an alliance of the proletariat of the advanced country and the working masses of the colonies for a joint revolutionary struggle against imperialism.

• • •

Communist parties must give active support to the movements for liberation in the colonies and semi-colonies, etc.

• • •

The duty of supporting the revolutionary movements against imperialism is to be imposed in the first place of the workers of those countries on whom the subject nation is dependant in a colonial or financial way.

• • •

One of the chief sources of strength of European and American capitalism is in colonial possessions and dependencies. Without the control of the extensive markets and the vast fields of exploitation in the colonies, the big capitalist powers would find it hard to maintain their existance.

• • •

Super-profits gained in the colonies and semi-colonies is the mainstay of modern capitalism.

• • •

By exploiting the masses in the colonies European capitalism is in a position to give concessions to the aristocracy of labor at home.

CHICHERIN AID EXPOSES AIMS OF U. S. POLICY

Litvinoff Tears the Veil from Kellogg Tale

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Jan. 18.—Acting Foreign Minister Litvinoff, in the absence of Georgo Chicharin, has undertaken to reply to the Kellogg memorandum recounting the gruesome details of an all-devouring "bolshevist" plot to steal Latin-America away from Wall Street. The Soviet Press also pays its compliments to the narvous secretary of state and takes particular exception to his distortion of Chicherin's pronouncements regarding America.

"Statement of capitalistic countries," said Litvinoff, "lately have taken the habit of covering their incompetence in internal affairs or aggressive aspirations in the field of foreign policy by playing up 'bolshevik intrigues,' or 'plots,' of the Soviet government," he said. "Whether the question at issue is a miner's strike in England, an attack by the American navy against the independent republic of Nicaragua or the shooting of people in Java and Sumatra, there is always the same justification in the 'plots and intrigues' of the bolshevist government.

Blame for Floods.

"I shouldn't be surprised if the enlightened politicians of the great powers one day set out to explain an earthquake in Japan or floods in America by such 'intrigues' of the bolsheviks. It would simply be an insult to public opinion if I were seriously to repudiate such fantastic explanations.

"I am familiar with the resolutions of the Communist International. Unfortunately I am not for the moment in a position to verify the quotations from them by Mr. Kellogg. I am also familiar with the militant resolutions the American Federation of Labor has directed against the fundamentals of the soviet regime of Russia. It is as ridiculous to explain the attacks of the American Federation of Labor by criticisms of imperialism contained in the resolutions of the Third in-

RELIGIOUS EDITOR FACES JAIL FOR EXPOSING GOD OF BIBLE AS 'MURDERER'

(Special to The Daily Worker)

TORONTO, Jan. 18.—Because he wrote disparagingly of the biblical God, Ernest V. Sterry, editor of the Christian Inquiry, has been arrested under an ancient statute charged with "blasphemous, indecent, profane libel concerning the holy scripture and the Christian religion." Sterry was granted a week in which to prepare his defense against the charges.

Sterry's "scandalous" articles were quoted in the court hearing. One of them refers to the God of the bible as "this irate old party, who thundars imprecations from the mountains or mutters and grouches in the tabernacle . . . who has massacred hundrads of his chosan people . . . makas ona feel utter contampt for the preachers and unfeigned pity for the mental stats of those who can retain a sarious countenance as they pursua tha stories of his peculiar whims, freaks and fancies."

Hierarchy Wars On Calles With Aid From U. S.

Leading Archbishop Takes Field Against Revolution

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 18.—Despite its innumerable protests of innocence, the Mexican Catholic hierarchy has gone definitely on a war footing against the Mexican government by the action of Archbishop Jiminez of Guadalajara placing himself at the head of detachments of armed Catholics in the state of Jalisco.

Since the deportation of Archbishop Pascual Diaz, Archbishop Orozco y Jiminez is regarded as the outstanding leader of the Mexican hierarchy. On two previous occasions, Jiminez has led revolts against the Mexican revolution, once under Carranza and again under Obregon. He was forced on one occasion to flee to the United States where he spent two years.

Connected With Oil.

The decision of the clergy to throw off the veil of religious passivity and abandon intrigue for open warfare against the Mexican revolution is regarded here as closely connected with the crisis over the oil and land laws and more particularly with the financial and moral support being given the Mexican hierarchy by the Catholic Knights of Columbus in the United States.

The government has accepted the challenge and has mobilized troops to the hands of catholics who, under the leadership of priests and local reactionaries, have been marauding the countrysides and attempting to rally the more fanatic religious elements to their standards. The federal troops have so far been completely successful in their operations and their campaign is being supplemented by agrarian supporters of the government and the revolution in the outlying states who are asking Calles for arms.

Not Fooled by Lull.

Mexico City circles view the present lull in the crisis between Calles and Jiminez as merely a temporary watchfulness on the part of Washington and the oil men who are pushing the oil land dispute to a crisis in the Mexican courts and are encouraged by the revolt of the clergy.

There is no question but that the Calles regime so far enjoys the confidence of the large mass of peons, who so speak with overwhelming bulk if the city workers, that any attempt at revolt are doomed to failure. The fear here is that, while it is certain the armed bid for power being made by the hierarchy and the reactionaries cannot possibly succeed without outside help, there is danger of U. S. intervention involved in the possibility of the catholics extending their operations to the oil fields.

Fear Provocation.

It would be one of the first acts of the counter-revolutionary forces to provoke diplomatic crisis between the two governments by attacks upon American property which would offer an excuse for U. S. intervention. It is no secret here that Wall Street interests have on many previous occasions financed the catholics and the reactionaries and there is no doubt but that the million dollar fund raised by the Knights of Columbus in the United States is finding its way into Mexico to aid the catholics.

Famous Tenor at New York Lenin Meet

NEW YORK — The announcement that Ivan Velikanoff, principal tenor of the Moscow Art Theater Musical Studio, will sing at the Lenin Memorial Meeting, to be held on Saturday evening Jan. 22 at the new Madison Square Garden, 50th Street and 8th Avenue, has aroused much interest in New York and has brought a steady stream of workers to the various ticket stations hastening to get tickets in advance.

Velikanoff, schooled in the New Art of Soviet Russia, won fame in the United States when on tour with the Musical Studio, which appeared in several cities in this country last year. He is remembered particularly for his unforgettable performance in "Carmencita and the Soldier," which was reclaimed by leading critics and producers as the Studio's best production. Velikanoff sang the part of "Don," the soldier, opposite Olga Baklanova, brilliant star of the Moscow Art Theater Musical Studio, who played as "Carmencita." His performance was very highly praised by the entire New York press.

No worker will want to miss hearing this splendid singer, who is representative of the new forms of art which are being developed in Soviet Russia. He will sing, among others, the following numbers: "Song of the Dark Forest," by A. Borodin, and "Spring," by Rimsky Korsakoff.

This will be one of the attractions at the Lenin Memorial Meeting. The list of speakers and artists who will appear make this a meeting of outstanding importance of this year which no New York militant can afford to miss.

The commemoration of Lenin's death this year, will mark the rallying of all forces of New York's progressive labor movement in a mighty demonstration for Leninism, which means a fight for militant trade unionism, for american class and organization of the unorganized workers, for an English working class daily newspaper, The DAILY WORKER, and against American imperialist ventures in Central America, China etc.

Admission is 50c, 75c and $1.00. There are only 5,000 seats at 75c, and 2,000 seats at $1.00. Workers should get their tickets in advance at the office of the Workers Party, 108 East 14th Street, Jimmie Higgins Book Shop, 127 University Place, Fr theit, 30 Union Square, and all Workers Party papers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(FP)—Salomon de la Selva, secretary of the Nicaraguan Fadaretion of Lebor, who was racantly sant to Washington by his organization to protest against "the unwarranted use of American forces in the internal troubles of Nicaragua," has issued a ceuatic reply to the Bolshevik plot" columard made public by Secretary Kellogg.

When Chamorro seized the government in the fall of 1925, de la Selva declared, a section of the constebulary, under Mejor Rodriguez, an American officar, went to the city of Leon, stronghold of the labor unions, and destroyed the unions' offices, sacked the homes of the leaders, flogged some, forced others to do unpaid work, and drove others to flea for their livas.

Young Communist International Calls on American Youth to Take Up Fight Against Wall St. Invasion

By JOHN PEPPER.

(Special Cable to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Jan. 18.—The Executive Committee of the Young Communist International has issued a manifesto to the young workers of America and all countries declaring that the struggle of the people of Nicaragua against the robbers of Wall Street is the struggle of all peoples of Latin-America and must be supported by all those exploited and oppressed.

The youth who are the first victims of exploitation and imperialist wars are called upon to rally to the fight against the strangling of the Nicaraguan people and the threat of war against Mexico by the rapacious imperialism of the United States.

WORKERS! TURN TO LENIN!

THE situation with which the American workers find themselves faced now is the most tense and difficult since the days of the war. The American government, at the behest of the Wall Street banks, is actively intervening in Nicaragua and threatening China and Mexico with armed force. War with Mexico and Japan looms ahead. The American workers and farmers see the prospect of being seized and packed off amidst a new war hysteria to fight the battles of Wall Street, to shoot Nicaraguan, Mexican, Chinese or Japanese fellow-workers for the greater glory of American investments.

In this situation the American workers must turn to Lenin. It was Lenin who understood better than anybody else the real essence of imperialism. It was Lenin, his party and his followers all over the world, who have maintained an unceasing struggle against imperialism, from the beginning of the World War up to this moment. Lenin, the greatest anti-imperialist fighter the world has ever seen!

Lenin is dead. But the lessons of Lenin's life and work still remain, alive and powerful. From these lessons the American workers have much to learn to guide them in their struggle. These lessons the American workers and farmers MUST learn if they hope for any degree of success in their struggle.

Lenin's message to the American working class—this will be the subject that will be discussed at dozens of meetings during the last weeks of January. In accordance with this statement issued by the Central Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party the Lenin Memorial Meetings arranged this year as usual to commemorate the death of the great leader of the world labor movement will be made into demonstrations against American imperialism. "Make the central slogan at these meetings the building of a united front of the workers and farmers of the United States to carry on the struggle against American imperialism," reads the statement. "Bring to the workers and farmers the message of Leninism, that they must carry on the fight against American imperialism in alliance with the people of Nicaragua, Mexico and China."

Make the Lenin Memorial Meetings into huge demonstrations of proletarian determination to march forward under the flag of Lenin into the battle against American imperialism!

Chipps Threatened Norris, Witnesses Say; Blame Liquor

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 18.—Details of alleged threats against Rev. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the Fort Worth First Baptist church, by D. E. Chipps, wealthy Dunbarman, were recounted at Rev. Norris' murder trial in district court here.

Harry Conner, former Fort Worth detective, a defense witness, told of hearing Chipps say on the day before the killing that he was going to "kill Norris."

A. H. Hamm, a cattle commission merchant, testified Chipps was a "perfect gentleman when sober," after saying he had an ungovernable temper when under the influence of liquor.

ANTI-IMPERIALISM BIG ISSUE AT NEW YORK LENIN MEET

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—"Hands off Nicaragua!" The withdrawal of all U. S. marines from Nicaragua will be demanded at a huge demonstration on Saturday evening, Jan. 22, by thousands of workers who will gather at the New Madison Square Garden to commemorate the death of Lenin.

It is especially fitting to commemorate the death of Lenin, the greatest enemy world imperialism has ever had, by arranging a gigantic protest against the imperialist policy of which the Coolidge government is embarked.

Prominent speakers are scheduled to address the meeting. Among them are William Z. Foster, C. E. Ruthenberg, Scott Nearing, Moiseye J. Olgin, and others.

An excellent musical program has been arranged. Among the artists who will appear is Mischa Mishakoff, concertmaster of the New York symphony. A violinist of the first rank, Mishakoff is well known thruout the country. He is a graduate of the Lenin Conservatory of Music. Other artists are Ivan Velikanoff, chief tenor of the Musical Stpdio, Moscow Art Theater; the Russian Mastersingers, vocal quartet; the Freiheit Singing Society, chorus of 300 voices.

Tickets are 50c, 75c, $1.00, and $1.50, and may be obtained in advance at the headquarters of the Freiheit, 30 Union Square; Workers Party headquarters, 108 E. 14th Street, Jimmie Higgins Book Shop, 127 University Place, and all party papers.

the Chinese mobs, but usually admit that it was the Chinese officials of the anti-christian societies and orderly groups of demonstrators which convinced them that they should go, their services not being required by the Chinese Nationalists movement. About three hundred British and American missionaries in Szechwan province are being passed along by the Kuomintang government and local officials nearly across China. Far from mistreating them, the Chinese are so glad to see them go peacefully, as long as they go, that they are carrying them in sedan chairs ten days overland from Chengtu to Chungking, head of navigation on the Yangtze river.

White Doctor's Malpractice.

Even the foreign residents do not claim that even one single death resulting as a consequence of the "mob." On the other hand, the discovery of the decomposed bodies of twenty Chinese babies in the Spanish orphanage here, and the feeling among the Chinese that French doctors called to administer to Chinese children kill them thru neglect or malpractice, is making a sensation. The "charitable" missionary institutions which run on money supplied by philanthropists among Chinese and abroad are so far out of control that in many cases they are proved to be merely ways of making a soft living for American and European preachers and physicians and teachers too incompetent to succeed at home.

By W. FRANCIS AHERN

SYDNEY, Australia, (FP) — The Labor Council of New South Wales has issued another manifesto demanding "Hands off China." The manifesto reviews the exploitation of the Chinese workers, particularly women and young children, by British, American, Japanese and French factory capitalists and shows how, the oppressed Chinese, thru their unions, are opposing the terrible destruction of their child life and the generally ruthless oppression by the capitalist nations. It also points out how the foreign powers are subsidizing Wu Pei Fu, Chang Tso Lin, and other Chinese warlords to overthrow the People's government of China. The manifesto includes:

"We call upon all workers to object to the shedding of working class blood to get cheap labor in China, and we call upon them not only to refuse to go to China but as far as possible prevent, by all lawful means, anyone else going. We earnestly request them to join with us in saying 'Hands off China.' Not a man or a gun to assist the foreign capitalists to get cheap labor in China.

"The Labor Councils throughout Australia have taken up a similar attitude by calling upon the workers of the various states to stand by the policy of 'Hands off China.'" strike, thru which they gained substantial benefits. The New Leader, socialist party paper, gleefully predicted that the report would be unfavorable to the joint board and that there was a probability that the A. F. of L. would take over the union from the left wing. The report was unfavorable, sure enough, but its authors stepped on Tammany Hall's toes by charging the Communists with wholesale bribery of the police during the strike.

TAMMANY'S president of the New York Central Trades and Labor Council immediately protested against the libel on the character of the police force. It is believed by certain that police, like gangsters, can be purchased by any side in a dispute and the fact that they usually support the bosses does not indicate that they are influenced by deep devotion for the interests of business. Their god is always on the side of the heaviest bonus. Mr. Joseph Ryan, Tammany leader of the Central Labor body, is mighty wroth over the blunder made by Matthew Woll and his socialist advisers. One of the counts in the Communist indictment is now knocked cold.

* * *

THE question of what to do with the socialist party continues to agitate socialists—if the party would be agitated. Charles E. Russell, one of Woodrow Wilson's flunkeys during the war, the patriotic jingo who accompanied Elihu Root to Russia, goes one better than Nathan Hale, who proposed that the socialist party lay down and die as a party, but continue to exist as something else. Russell would scrap out the remaining bowels from the party's innards and debouse its vocabulary. Such words as "socialism," "comrade," "class consciousness" and "scientific socialism" should be placed in the cannery, he says. The socialists should develop some sort of an organization that would enable them to throw their votes to one or the other of the two capitalist parties a la the A. F. of L. policy.

TWO causes have contributed to the debacle of American socialism, Mr. Russell declares. One is the St. Louis anti-war platform, the other is the support of the Soviet government. Russell proposes that those responsible for the St. Louis resolution be kicked out of the leadership of the party. He also suggests that the socialists develop some sort of an organization that would enable them to throw their votes to one or the other of the two capitalist parties a la the A. F. of L. policy.

It is therefore necessary to give some additional reply, especially since the American Appeal, in an editor's note, naively declares that this story is vouched for "by the leading German socialist papers."

It is nothing new to say that Kellogg's department of state, at Washington, has a successful competitor in the German socialist press, in the spreading of anti-Bolshevik fakes. Both of these agencies long ago eclipsed the British foreign office with its famous "Zinoviev letters," forged copies of the Pravda and other coarse methods of spreading and developing anti-Soviet prejudice.

Anything should be possible for the German socialist heroes of the Barmat scandal, for the assassins of Liebknecht and Luxemburg, for the Noske gangs and Severing—no more than anyone else, helped rear the Hindenburg capitalist republic in place of German Soviet rule. The Severings and Noskes, who are and were the best allies of the Swastika-emblemed monarchists, now try to hide their own crimes behind a barrage of lies directed against the First Workers' Republic.

It is no accident that the attack should come at this time, when the British lion is sharpening its claws for a new attack against the Soviet Union. The socialists, not only in Germany but their anti-Soviet collaborators in all countries, become the best spreaders of propaganda for the London foreign office. What better attack against the workers and peasants of the Soviet Union than to claim that their government is the ally of Germany in breaking the Versailles peace. It is a dastardly attack, but socialists stop at nothing in their insane efforts to undo if they can the workers' victory.

This attack comes at the moment when the socialist, Pilsudski, tries to strengthen his fascist tyranny in Poland thru the wholesale imprisonment, torture and death of more Communists. It comes on the heels of the rise to power of the fascist tyranny in Lithuania, made possible by socialist treason to labor.

The Soviet Commissar of War, Clement Voroshiloff, spoke no idle words in addressing the Communists congress of the Moscow province, when he pointed out the steady increase of armament in capitalist countries, especially warships and airplanes; narrated the progress of the British policy of anti-Soviet "encirclement" and the growth of the fascist movement in the bourgeois states bordering the Soviet Union. He said:

"The fascist forces in Poland, Latvia, Lithuania, Esthonia and Finland were 295,000 in 1923 and the regular armies 471,000, whereas in 1926 the fascist troops (especially anti-revolutionary volunteers, etc.) reached 651,000 and regulars 533,000."

Voroshiloff raises the warning that the enemies of the Soviet Union, among whom Britain is ranked first, have practically reached a decision to strike a blow this year. These enemies are maddened at the sight of Soviet rule successfully passing economic construction in the rapid building of the socialist state. The Soviet success, acting as an inspiration to workers everywhere, hamstrings imperialist aims and knocks unceasingly at the pillars of capitalist society.

It can readily be seen, in this situation, that the socialist canard spawned in the editorial offices of the Berliner Fervaerts and the Leipziger Volkszeitung, that have their counterpart in the New York Jewish Daily (socialist) Forward in this country, can only help bolster the anti-Soviet war plans of London and Paris made to order for the warmongers of Warsaw, Bucharest, Riga and Helsingfors.

The German socialist "fairy tale" about the alleged Soviet plot to arm the German militarists is on a par with the Coolidge-Kellogg dishmoore that Soviet Union inspired Bolsheviks not only feed but start the fires of discontent flaming in Mexico, Nicaragua and other Latin-American countries, not to forget the Philippines and China. To all this the Soviet foreign office at Moscow declares:

"The falsehood peril is an old cry in such cases. The world already has heard it in connection with the Syrian and the Riffan struggle for independence. It was no truer then than now in Nicaragua."

These socialist frauds have just received a very severe jolt in the resolution of the N. Y. officialdom of the American Federation of Labor of the Morris Kaufmann-Matthew Woll tissue of lies charging that Anglo-inspired Communists had bribed the police during the recent furriers' strike in New York City. The attack on the Communists and the left wing in the New York needle trades unions is led by the socialists, supported by the A. F. of L. reaction. But just as the capitalist press couldn't stomach the German socialists' canard, so the Tammany Hall labor officialdom in New York City refuse to helstar the Ho against the left wing leaders, especially since the charge stepped back at the integrity of their own Tammany Hall police force.

A lie must be well told if it is to pass successfully all the pitfalls that await it. The lies that are woven into socialist "fairy tales" against Communists collapse immediately the weight of truth touches them. Let in the light.

Socialist Fairy Tales Attacking Communists Suffer Quick Collapse

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

FINALLY the latest slander of the Union of Soviet Republics has found its way into the columns of the socialist press of this country, including the American Appeal, the official organ of the socialist party.

No capitalist sheet has yet published the fraud. It is evidently not appetizing enough for the kept press of the profiteers. But the socialist press, hungry for every bit of malice, for every lie against the Soviet Union, voraciously feeds on the fiction invented by the German social-democracy that there was a secret military deal between German monarchists in the war department of the German republic and Soviet government for the creation of a German war industry on Russian soil, to be financed by the German war department with an initial capital of 21,000,000 gold marks.

This malicious falsehood, as circulated by German socialists who get their inspiration from the Versailles peace bandits, was answered in detail in the article entitled, "Stop Thief!" republished in The DAILY WORKER, Friday, Jan. 14, from the Pravda, of Moscow, the official publication of the Communist Party of the Union of Soviet Republics. This article, in exposing the socialist "fairy tale," pointed out that the carefully manufactured "sensation" had already given up the ghost. But this did not stop the socialists on this side of the Atlantic Ocean from continuing to parade this chess in another frantic effort to frighten American workers and farmers with this latest anti-Communist bogey.

It is therefore necessary to give some additional reply, especially since the American Appeal, in an editor's note, naively declares that this story is vouched for "by the leading German socialist papers."

Litvinoff Exposes U. S. Policies

ternational as to explain the failure of troops in the Soviet Union to the resolutions of the American Federation of Labor.

Loyal to Mexico.

"Foreign Minister Chicherin is perfectly right in welcoming the reoperation of normal relations between the Soviet Union and Mexico. The government of the Soviet Union will continue to make every effort to set normal relations restored with every state on the American continent. The soviet government cannot have and has not any relations with Mexico save relations to loyalty and non-intervention. To explain the deterioration in relations between the United States and Mexico by the perfectly loyal declaration of Chicherin is to cause amusement for the world.

Kellogg Fantasy.

"The soviet government has always stood and continues to stand on a platform of restoration of normal relations between the United States and the Soviet Union, and I can only express regret that Mr. Kellogg's fantastic attacks are prompted by motives which have nothing to common with the restoration of normal relations between the two countries."

The soviet press sharply condemned the United States policy in Nicaragua. "We won't deny the trumped up news which the American secretary gave the world with a serious face through the American press, which is politically antagonistic to the Soviet Union," said Pravda, official organ of the Soviets.

The "Kellogiad."

"When the American imperialist says attacks thru Nicaragua, when the oil kings want a monopoly of Central America, up pops Kellogg with a bolshevist threat.

"The 'Kellogiad' with its fantastic foolishness is extremely characteristic of the present international situation, and it is a new link in the chain of imperialist intrigue."

Izvestia says that "Kellogg's alarm is a mere screen to cover preparations for intervention in Mexico.

Prompted by Shaky Control.

"Coolidge's shaky control of the senate necessitated the invention of the bolshevist menace in order to execute the administration policy against the opposition of Borah, La Follette and others," said Izvestia.

The Izvestia accuses Secretary Kellogg of distorting the meaning of M. Chicherin, when he quoted him anent Mexico as "a political base." It gives the full text of Chicherin's speech which it says shows the full force of his meaning as different from that given by Secretary Kellogg.

Walsh Urges Soldiers Be Given Loans Direct from Federal Funds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. — The U. S. government should authorize the veterans' bureau to provide loans to former soldiers on insurance certificates they hold, declares Sen. Walsh of Massachusetts in a statement issued here. Walsh says the government has sufficient funds to do this. It is needed, he says, because bankers have refused to give loans to soldiers holding the insurance.

The veterans' bureau has assumed serious financial obligations in anticipation of the promise by the government that loans could be readily obtained on their insurance certificates, he says. He points out the insurance was given them in lieu of a bonus, and that the government should not "again shake the faith of the soldiers."

ers and farmers back in the republican and democratic parties as betrayers of the cause of the workers and farmers and repudiates their policies as in the interest of the special privileged interests; and be it further Resolved, that this conference calls upon the workers and farmers of the state to stand by the great achievement they have made in building a party which represents their interests and to answer these deserters by building a stronger and more powerful organization of the Farmer-Labor Party when will be able to carry on the struggle against the special privileged interests represented by the republican and democratic parties until the power of the government is wrested from the hands of these interests and a workers' and farmers' government is established in this state and the nation.

Carried Unanimously.

Both this resolution and those attacking American imperialism and Kellogg were adopted unanimously.

* * *

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 18.— The Farmer-Labor conference which was called to strengthen the Farmer-Labor Party of this state organised permanently this afternoon with one hundred and eighty-five delegates seated, representing trade unions, cooperatives, farmers' and workers' organizations.

The spirit of the conference seems to be for a strong repudiation of the preposanda spread over the country by executives of independent political action by the workers and farmers, that the Minnesota workers and farmers were ready to abandon the Farmer-Labor Party and go back to the policy of picking the best men on the republican and democratic ticket, as favored by the American Federation of Labor.

Anti-Imperialist Sentiment.

Sentiment is particularly strong against the recent adventures of the government in following out the imperialist policies in support of Wall Street investments in Nicaragua, Mexico and China. Resolutions calling for withdrawal of American naval forces from Nicaragua, and against the threatening war with Mexico have been submitted to the resolutions committee. The Ramsey county delegation has a resolution before the committee calling for the impeachment of Kellogg because of his policy in Central America, leading the country toward war.

Name Committees.

Committees of the conference were organized this afternoon by having the delegations from each of the ten congressional districts of the state name a representative on each committee. The committees named include Committee on Resolutions, Committee on Organization, Committee on Legislative Demands, Committee on Ways and Means and Committee on Press and Publicity.

The various delegations were called on to turn in the resolutions they had to offer, which were referred to the respective committees. In addition to the resolutions mentioned above there are resolutions declaring for the building of the Farmer-Labor Party and repudiating the idea of going back to the old parties, a resolution for the building of the Farmer-Labor Association as the directing center of the Farmer-Labor Party, and basing it upon the units of the workers' and farmers' organization which are to send delegates direct to all conferences.

Urge Others to Follow.

Other resolutions call upon the workers and farmers of the country to follow the example of Minnesota in building a party of workers and farmers by organizing parties in their own state with the view of organizing a national party in 1928 and placing a national ticket in the field, and for the calling of a conference of the existing Farmer-Labor Parties in the Northwest and Southwest in order to strengthen the movement.

Small Opposition.

The opponents to the Farmer-Labor Party in the labor and farmer movement of the state have thus far not dared to raise their voices for a change of policy thru which the workers and farmers would retrace their steps and go back to the old parties. It is doubtful whether this proposal will be made in the conference, in view of the overwhelming sentiment for independent political action thru the Farmer-Labor Party among the delegates.

Committees are at work tonight and will submit their reports tomorrow, when the issues will come squarely before the assembled delegates.

PROF. PICKENS LANDS FOR BIG BRUSSELS MEET

With Mrs. Sun Yat Sen on Presiding Body

Professor William Pickens, field organizer of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has arrived in Europe to attend the world congress against imperialism. This congress, which is the first gathering on a world scale of delegates from oppressed peoples of all races, will open at Brussels, Belgium, on February 10.

Mrs. Sun Yat Sen Present.

Professor Pickens will act on the presiding committee of the congress along with such internationally known figures as Mrs. Sun Yat Sen, wife of the great Chinese leader who died a few years ago; Dr. Ramon de Negri, Mexican consul to Germany; Henri Barbusse, famous author; George Lansbury, labor member of the British parliament and editor of Lansbury's Weekly; Roger Baldwin, director of the American Civil Liberties Union; and Jose Wasconcelos, former minister of education in Mexico.

With the selection of Professor Pickens, an American Negro, to the presiding committee, that body will include representatives of every major oppressed race in the world.

From Many Lands.

Other members of the presiding committee are Professor Koumengyu, of the National University of Peking (China); Jhawahar lal Nehru (India); Arthur Holitscher, Willi Muenzenberg, M. P., (Germany); Fernand Buisson, Albert Fournier, M. P. (France); James Maxton, M. P., Sakiatvala, M. P. (England); Manuel Ugarte, Louis Casshona, Cesar Falson (South America).

Beside representing the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Professor Pickens will present credentials for the John Brown Memorial Association.

Rebuff of League Makes Poland Approach Soviet, Says Moscow Izvestia

MOSCOW, (Taas) — In connection with the declaration of Mr. Zaleswsky, Polish foreign minister, who said that that it is necessary to improve mutual relations between Poland and the U. S. S. R., "Izvestia" points out that each time when Poland meets with some setback in the League of Nations, she begins to talk on the necessity of improving relations with the Soviet Union. However, such equivocal professions of friendship have so far yielded no practical results, not having changed the policy of Poland towards the U.S.S.R. The near future will show whether one can attach any importance to the pronouncement of Mr. Zaleswsky, who hinted that there are no serious obstacles on the way to the conclusion of a guarantee pact between Poland and the Soviet Union.

Warns Speculators.

ROME, Jan. 18. — Mussolini has issued a warning against money speculators who are buying American dollars and English pounds, expecting further inflation of the lira. The dictator says that there will be deflation, rather than inflation.

KUOMINTANG EXPELS TWO CHICAGOANS WHO JOINED WITH ANTI-LEFT GROUP

Two Chicago members of the Kuomintang Party of America, branch of the Chinese revolutionary organization, have been expelled for ten years each because of right wing tendencies, word from Los Angeles, where the Kuomintang is in convention, tells. They are Ching Yu Fung and Tam Tong. They are charged with having disobeyed orders of the Kuomintang while delegates to the world convention in Canton in 1926, and instead of attending the Canton convention went to the Shanghai meeting of anti-Kuomintang forces.

Lou Hu Wan, member of the executive committee last year and editor of Young China, was given a similar sentence for supporting the right wingers. Ang Ah Wen was permanently expelled, dispatches said.

The convention decided that an annual "examinations" would be made of each member to decide whether they are valuable or detrimental to the party.

RIVERA MAINTAINS SHAKY HOLD ON POWER THRU CORRUPTION AND TERROR

By J. A. R.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

MADRID, Spain.—In his statements to the newspapers, Primo de Rivera, military dictator of Spain, is never tired of repeating that he feels himself secure, that there exists no menace to the dictatorship and that he can rely upon the "kindness and sympathy" of the Spanish people.

But the truth is that he feels quite uneasy in power. He knows that the police are kept busy uncovering military plots and conspiracies against his life. The past year has seen an extraordinary number of these plots and attempts; the year 1927 is expected to witness many more.

Since the expulsion from the army of the artillery officers that organized the military plot of last September, the artillery officers have been a constant element of unrest and sedition against the monarchy and the dictator. In order to avoid this menace the expelled artillery officers have been restored to their positions. But most of the officers declined the reinstatement. It was only after their committee (Junta de Defense) had ordered them to return that they did so, collectively and as a whole.

This situation is causing Primo de Rivera considerable uneasiness. The decree revoking the expulsions was issued to end the constant menace from the direction of the artillerymen but the demonstration whereby the restoration was really accomplished by the artillerymen's own committee leaves the impression that the officers rejoined the army solely in order to continue conspiracy against the monarchy and Primo.

Primo and the Chicago Tribune Correspondent.

MR. YOUTH, special correspondent for the Chicago Tribune, arrived here some time ago. Since then he has been accompanying General Primo de Rivera in his tours all over Spain. Perhaps Mr. Youth is searching for first-hand information on the attempts at assassination against de Rivera and so wants to be on the spot when these take place.

To Mr. Youth as well as to Mr. Wilson, the special correspondent who was here last summer, Spain has become a paradise under Primo's dictatorship. It would be very hard to convince the working classes of this because their misery and poverty has kept on growing continually.

In regard to the press, Primo de Rivera has worked out a complete policy of corruption to take care of it, especially in regard to the French press. The Spanish embassy at Paris pays large monthly sums to the various French papers. The extraordinary change of Le Temps from enmity to friendship for the Spanish dictatorship is probably to be explained in this way.

IN 1920 when the syndicalism of the C. N. T. was at its highest point of power, the government put forward the idea of organizing "parity committees." In this way the government attempted to smash the trade unions by establishing compulsory arbitration. But these plans of the government could not be carried thru.

In those days the Spanish proletariat was well organized and knew how to fight the attacks of the government. The Confederacion de Trabajo was then powerful; it included a large part of the Spanish proletariat and fought bravely against the compulsory arbitration plans of the government. The Union General de Trabajadores was also against the government plans.

At present the situation is entirely different. Recently a decree establishing parity committees was published. Now the Union General de Trebajadores backs the plans of the government. Its general secretary, Francisco Largo Caballero, even helped to prepare it. The decree was signed before the workers could understand its great significance and were able to protest against it.

Our organ, La Antorcha, could not publish any article on the question. The censorship has prohibited any campaign against the decree about parity committees.

"Fiscal Reforme"—Taxing Workers' Salaries.

TOWARDS the beginning of 1923 Calvo Sotelo, minister of finance, proposed the raising of taxes as a measure of filling the government's depleted treasury. In the face of the vigorous protests of numerous elements among the bourgeoisie the project was dropped.

Very recently Sotelo presented a new project for "a general and fundamental fiscal reform." One of its most significant points is the establishment of a tax on workers' salaries, something that no previous Spanish government would even have dreamed of. But now, with the best leaders of the proletariat murdered or in jail, Primo de Rivera thinks he can carry it out.

The only workers' organization that can work openly now is the Union General de Trabajadores. The leaders of this organization have approved the new fiscal project as is natural, since after 1923 the Socialists and the leaders of the U. G. T. have supported and co-operated with the dictatorship. In gratitude to the government for the public positions given them the reformist leaders betrayed the proletarian struggle again and again. Now they are engaged in stifling the protests of the proletariat against the new measures of oppression.

MUSSOLINI WOULD FORCE CHILDREN INTO FASCISM; HE'S DOOMED TO FAILURE

According to reports from London Mussolini has broken all bounds in his frantic efforts to stabilize the tottering fascist regime. In order to force "fascismo" upon the entire population, it is decreed that school children must now wear black shirts to school. This is but one of a whole series of new school regulations issued by the dictator. Children are also required to salute Mussolini every morning as they enter school. They must also repeat daily the prayer ending with "God protect the life and health of our Duce." All teachers must, moreover, be fascists.

Canton Buses Placarded With Slogans of Revolt

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CANTON, China—Buses within the city limits of Canton have recently been placarded with numerous revolutionary slogans at the order of the Political Section of the Bureau of Public Safety. Some of these slogans run as follows:

1. Peasants, workers, merchants, students, soldiers and police, unite!

2. Destroy all reactionary influences!

3. Oppose the action of the British imperialists in interfering with the domestic affairs of China!

4. Protest against the action of the British police in Tientsin in arresting the Kommintang!

5. Support the party government in unifying China!

AIR PASSENGER LEAPS TO DEATH; BELIEVED FIRST SUCH SUICIDE IN HISTORY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ALICANTE, Jan. 18. — What is probably the first aerial suicide in history was reported here today.

Aurice Couchor, a French citizen, is reported to have committed suicide by jumping from a passenger aeroplane flying between Toulouse and Casablanca. The pilot of the aeroplane did not see the man jump, but feeling his plane lightened looked around and saw the passenger's overcoat hanging from the rudder with no trace of the passenger.

To New Subscribers in Connection With the Daily Worker Drive for 25,000 SUBSCRIPTIONS

EVERY new subscriber sending in a year's subscription will receive a copy of the new edition of "Red Cartoons of 1927," with full page reproductions of the work of the following noted artists:

Fred Ellis, Robert Minor, William Gropper, Hugo Gellert, Lydia Gibson, Art Young, Maurice Becker, K. A. Suvanto, Hay Hales, F. Jerger, F. G. Yoe, O. R. Zimmerman and others. This wonderful collection of pictures is not for sale. It is offered only to subscribers who send in their subscriptions during the present campaign.

Little Red Diary 1927

EACH new subscriber for a half year will receive a copy of the LITTLE RED DIARY of 1927, the valuable little book of dates for the year, containing useful information for workers. This publication is not for sale.

PRIZES for CITIES and DISTRICTS

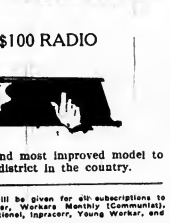
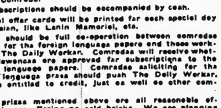
A BANNER will be given to the best city in each district.



A $100 RADIO



of the latest and most improved model to the best district in the country.

NOTE. Credit will be given for all subscriptions to the Sunday Worker, Workers Monthly (Communist), Communist International, Inprecorr, Young Worker, and Young Comrade.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by cash.

Special offer cards will be printed for each special day or occasion, like Lenin Memorial, etc.

There should be full co-operation between comrades working for the foreign language papers and those working for The Daily Worker. Comrades will receive whatever allowances are approved for subscriptions to the foreign language papers. Comrades soliciting for the foreign language press should push The Daily Worker, and are entitled to credit, just as well as other comrades.

The prizes mentioned above are all reasonable efforts. We are offering no gold bricks. We are planning to award them at the May 1 Celebrations throughout the country.

A special effort should be made to secure Annual Subscriptions. Short term subscriptions are costly to us and do not help to give The Daily Worker a steady list of readers.

Renewals will be credited as new subscriptions.

INDIANA SOLONS TO PROBE STATE POLITICAL GRAFT

Democrats Demand K. K. K. Rule Exposure

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 18. — Plans to bring about a sweeping legislative investigation of alleged political corruption in Indiana politics will be formulated at a caucus of all democratic members of the the general assembly, it was learned.

The charges were based chiefly on allegations that D. C. Stephenson, deposed and imprisoned grand dragon of the state klan, dealt in various political fortunes with a lavish hand.

The appointment of a bi-partisan committee to sit until the charges are thoroly sifted, regardless of the duration of the legislature, is the plan seeming to be most favored by those backing the probe.

Insull and Crowe Face Contempt Proceedings for Refusing Evidence

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Immediate action against Samuel Insull, public utilities magnate, and Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney for Cook county, Illinois, is forecast by Senator James A. Reed, chairman of the senate slush fund inquiry committee, as the result of the decision by the supreme court giving congress power to compel witnesses to testify and produce records. Insull and Crowe refused to give desired information in connection with the investigation of the primary campaign in which Frank L. Smith was nominated for the senate.

Senator Reed will present a resolution asking the senate to again subpoena these two Illinoisians, should they again refuse to divulge information and produce records revealing corruption in the Smith election, contempt proceedings will be started under power upheld by the supreme court.

Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, will also be cited for contempt and faces a possible prison sentence under the power given the senate. Sinclair refused to testify in the Teapot Dome investigation. Others affected are Thomas F. Cunningham, clerk of the quarter session court, Philadelphia, and Mal S. Daugherty.

Paper Box Employers Turn Down Invitation to Give Strike Facts

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The paper box manufacturers refused to send representatives to a mass meeting called by the citizen's committee on the paper box strike for the purpose of acquainting the public with the facts. The boss's said they would both invited to be represented by the committee which includes Bishop William T. Manning, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, R. Fulton Cutting, and Henry Goddard Leach.

The union, thru Manager Fred Caila, accepted the invitation. The meeting was called for the Bar Association Hall, 42 West Forty-Fourth street.

"We will show that the bosses have employed non-strikers to coerce and beat our members, forcing them off the picket lines, and in some cases into the shops," said Caila, in accepting.

LENIN AS A MARXIST

By N. Bukharin

The Present Chairman of the Communist International.

This splendid study of Lenin and his place in the world of Marxism is written by N. Bukharin, who is considered one of the leading living Marxists of the present day. The book is not a mere personal tribute to Lenin. It is rather an attempt to analyze Lenin's contribution to the principles of Marx. Thus the book treats the following phases of the subject: The Marxism of Lenin; Lenin's Theory and Practice; Problem of Imperialism; Lenin in the State; Lenin about the Peasantry; The Theoretical Problems Awaiting Work.

Why Is the United States Taking Nicaragua?

EVERY worker knows, generally, that the marines and bluejackets have occupied the little nation of Nicaragua because capitalists in this country have money invested there that must continue to turn out profits unrestricted. But the devious ways of "Dollar Diplomacy," the reasons for money being shipped to Nicaragua in the first place, and the importance to the working class of this period of imperialism, are not so generally known.

"Imperialism is the ere of the social revolution of the proletariat," said Lenin. For workers, it is this signal fact that imperialism signifies the decline and last stand of capitalism that is important. How does this apply to American imperialism?

This is one of the questions that the Chicago Workers' School class in "American Imperialism" will answer. The present events in Nicaragua and Mexico require at least a talking acquaintance with the main facts of the growth of American imperialism. Meeting every Thursday night for eight weeks beginning the first week in February, the class above mentioned will trace the growth and main features of American imperialism and draw from its development the lessons which Lenin taught with regard to imperialism in general.

THE course will be under the direction of Max Schachtman, a close student of world events, who, in recent months, has submitted colonial development of the United States empire to special scrutiny in the light of Marxism and Leninism.

Four other courses in working class topics will continue during the same period on other nights of the week. All workers are invited to enroll for these classes at the Chicago Workers' School headquarters, 19 S. Lincoln St.

Notice to Daily Worker Readers

ON and After Monday, Janbary 24th, The DAILY WORKER will be published in New York and will appear each morning on the news stands in New York City and vicinity and also in the principal cities of New York state, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania. Readers and supporters of The DAILY WORKER are urged to bring this to the attention of their newsdealer and convince him of the necessity and value of handling The DAILY WORKER every day.

The new edition to be published in New York will be improved in many ways. First of all, New York City as a whole has vastly improved news facilities, being practically the news center of the world. Secondly, we will be better able to get first hand information of the struggles in and near New York, not only in the needle trades, but also in the mining, textile and manufacturing industries which are located in the immediate vicinity.

We have also secured the assurance of the co-operation of a number of well-known writers who will contribute to The DAILY WORKER as soon as it reaches New York. Among them are said to be our present staff will be: Scott Nearing, Bertram D. Wolfe, Benjamin Gitlow, Albert Weisbord, Robert W. Dunn, V. F. Calverton, Michael Gold, Simon Felshin, Joseph Freeman and many others. Plans are under way for publishing daily the cartoons of the following well-known radical cartoonists: Robert Minor, Fred Ellis, H. Gropper, Hugo Gellert, K. Ashanto. This is but a brief list of the interesting features which the new edition of The DAILY WORKER will include. In spite of the addition of new features, the price of the paper will remain the same, 3c on weekdays, 5c on Sundays.

SENATE POWER TO FORCE TESTIMONY UPHELD BY COURT

Mal Daugherty Loses Highest Appeal

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The power of the senate to subpoena records and witnesses in official investigations was upheld by the supreme court in a decision of far-reaching importance, which involved the constitutional powers of the legislative branch of the government.

Involves Mal Daugherty.

The decision was rendered in the case of Mal S. Daugherty, brother of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, and is an outcome of the senate's famous investigation into the department of justice while the latter Daugherty was at its head.

Ford Forced Sale of Stock by Threat to Withdraw and Compete

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 18.—Minority stockholders in the Ford Motor company were forced to sell their stock to Henry Ford in 1919 because he threatened to withdraw from the company and build another car in competition, it was revealed at the $30,000,000 government's tax recovery suit here. It was reported at the trial that some of the holders were "terrified" at the thought of what would happen to the value of their stock should Ford carry out his threat; so they sold out.

Clashed With Dodges.

Ford's threat came after policy clashes with the Dodge brothers. Ford wanted a free hand while the Dodges wanted some control themselves. In 1918 the Dodges filed suit against Ford to force him to declare dividends on a $52,000,000 surplus, instead of reinvesting the money. The Dodges won the suit.

Ford may be asked to testify at the hearing, it is said, to give his views on the proper valuation of Ford stock as of March, 1913, which is the bone of contention at the trial.

Commission Defends Jim Crow Tactics of Pullman Company

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. The interstate commerce commission has declared the refusal of the Pullman company to sell tickets to Negroes legal. The commission, in deciding a case brought by J. F. Heidelberg, Chicago Negro attorney, declared that as long as the refusal does not involve any situation by which one person obtained transportation service for less than another there is no discrimination.

Harden said he attempted to buy a Pullman ticket from Atlanta to Chicago and was refused one by the station agent and the train conductor.

Passaic Workers Hold Lenin Meet on Jan. 23

The workers of Passaic who, for the last year, have been going thru one of the biggest struggles of this country will commemorate the memory of Lenin on Sunday, Jan. 23, 7:30 p. m., at Workers' Home, 27 Dayton avenue.

The speakers will be Abraham Markoff, who has just returned from the Soviet Union and Ed. Benjamin, the assistant director of the New York Workers' School. There will also be a good musical program. Admission free.

Direct Phone Connection.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The Pacific Northwest is on direct-line telephone communication with the east for the first time in history.

The American Telephone & Telegraph company opened its third and newest trans-continental line, completing a nation-wide service. The new cable will run west thru Chicago, Minneapolis, Fargo, Billings and Spokane to Seattle and Portland. The two previous lines run thru the central and southern sections.

LANDLESSNESS GROWING AMONG FARMERS OF U. S., IOWA PROFESSOR SHOWS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DES MOINES, Ia.—Ownership of farm land in America is rapidly passing out of the hands of farmers and into the hands of big operators and dealers, Mary Campbell of the department of education of the Iowa State Teachers College declared recently in a speech delivered before the Farm Bureau convention.

The government figures which Prof. Campbell quoted show that the percentage of landless farmers was 26 per cent in 1880; in 1900 it rose to 35 per cent; in 1920 it reached 38 per cent; and in 1925 it had almost reached the 50 per cent mark.

As to mortgages the figures show that in 1890 28 per cent of the farms were burdened with mortgages. In 1920 this figure reached over 40 per cent. Moreover the farmers' equity in these mortgages is growing smaller and smaller.

Prof. Campbell explained that the earnings of the farmer were so small and the price of land so high that the young farmer must remain a tenant farmer for life. "Consequently," the professor concludes, "landlessness is constantly increasing among those who till the land."

Nearing Lectures at N. Y. Workers' School on British Empire

Scott Nearing, who has been on a tour of the United States for the past six months, resumes his work at the Workers' School by two series of Saturday afternoon lectures scheduled for February and March. The first series, beginning February 12 and running for three successive Saturdays at 2 p. m., is entitled: "The Decline of the British Empire." In this series, Scott Nearing will deal with the British general strike, the crisis in British imperialism and the growing world conflict between Britain and America. This will be followed by the series on "Post-War Europe," which begins March 26. He will deal with Russia, Germany, Italy and France.

The fee for the first course is $1.50 and for the second $1.25.

Another course announced for the spring term of the Workers' School is by Robert W. Dunn and deals with "American Foreign Investments." This will be given for only three sessions on Wednesday evenings from 8 to 9:15. The fee for this course is $1.00 (combination of the two courses by Nearing, which deal with European imperialism and the course by Robert W. Dunn, which deals with American imperialism, is permitted at the special rate of $2 for the three courses.

Cleveland Holds Lenin Memorial on January 23

CLEVELAND.—An elaborate program with speakers, music and drama has been prepared for the Cleveland memorial meeting on Sunday, Jan 23, at Moose Hall.

Benjamin Gitlow, member of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party, will be the chief speaker.

The Freiheit Gesangs Verein and the Lithuanian Singing Society will give a fine musical program and the Workers' Drama League of Cleveland will present a pantomime portraying the world's struggle between imperialism and the Communist International.

ORGANIZATIONS ARE ASKED TO TAKE NOTE OF POLISH AFFAIR

All friendly and party organizations are earnestly asked not to arrange affairs for Sunday, March 6, as on this date the Polish Communist paper, Trybuna Robotnicza, will celebrate its third birthday with a concert and ball at Walsh's Hall, corner of Noble St. and Milwaukee Ave. The celebration will begin at 5 p. m. with speeches by prominent labor speakers.

Lenin's Memorial on January 23 Is An Outstanding Chicago Labor Event

The annual memorial to Nicolai Lenin constitutes one of the outstanding events in the Chicago labor movement. Militant workers regard this honoring of the memory of the greatest working class leader as a declaration of their solidarity with the revolutionary cause of which he, with Karl Marx, was the founder.

The Workers (Communist) Party of Chicago is the fitting sponsor of this year's rededication to the spirit of Lenin. This party is the only one in America that keeps alive the tradition of revolutionary Marxism and fights the battles of the proletariat under the leadership of the Communist International, of which Lenin was the founder.

Ashland Auditorium, Ashland and Van Buren, will be the scene of this year's gathering. The day is January 23rd. Tha meeting will begin promptly at 8 p. m. with the presentation of an unusual drama in tha form of a mass recitation written by Mihael Gold. "Strike" is its appropriate name and it introduces to American workare a new dramatic ert form that is part of all big celebrations among the European workers.

Musical numbers will also be part of the program and the main address will be made by Max Sedeoht, member of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party.

WITH THE YOUNG WORKERS

CONDUCTED BY THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

Young Russian Communist Tells of Communal Life

The following is an interesting letter from a member of the Russian Young Communist League to the workers and farmers of America, in which conditions on a Russian communal farm are pictured, showing the struggles and victories of the Communists at Commune Kolt, Donsky, in turning a run down estate into a thriving, producing agricultural center. This letter is published as part of the international worker correspondence movement. American workers are urged to write letters in return. The letter follows:

* * *

Commune Kolt, Donskoy Kushewka, K. K. Station, December 11, 1926.

Dear Comrades:

We have been a constant readers of your paper for nearly 4 years of our existence here in the Union of Soviet Republics. During the four years of our existence here on the Prolipetan estate, we have experienced crop failures and other drawbacks, but the hearts of the pioneers have beat true and we never lost hope in that great idea we had come here to practice.

Estate Was Run Down.

We settled on the estate of the Cossack headman, Prolipetski, in May, 1923. All the buildings there had suffered severely from the effects of civil war and of all that grand estate there remained but three build ings for use, and even these were badly out of repair. The orchard, too, was out of culture, weeds growing under the fruit trees to the height of a man. The fields had been untilled for many years and were overgrown. Just the same as the surrounding steppes. In this shape we occupied it on May 9, 1923. On arriving here our first task was to clear and repair the two dwellings for living quarters and prepare as much garden and potatoes as we were able to cultivate land for.

Tractore Come.

When our tractors arrived we began plowing, and as the days prolonged the fields once green began to grow black. The peasants, too, were very interested in our tractors and they soon began to converse on the topic of how to get themselves a tractor whose efficiency they saw on our fields.

With the arrival of fall we had 600 acres plowed. In the line of construction we built a new brick house for ourselves and set up the frame of a two-story commune house. The social conditions between the members of the commune were satisfactory and on this account household work as well as field work had progressed.

Malaria Delays Progress.

The next year with our small number of work units, we succeeded in completing all work necessary, and could have succeeded to do more, but our unwelcome visitor, malaria, visited us and many times when work was hardest, our men lay sick from malaria.

In the spring of 1925 a group of members arrived and were just in time for the spring work. This year we sowed an area of 473 desatines, during the summer we built a number of new buildings and plowed new land. Altho the crop did not yield as much as was expected, it did a good deal towards satisfying our immediate needs.

Exemple of Efficiency.

The name of Commune "Kolt" is heard on the lips of every peasant when he talks of examples in household management. After seeing the efficiency of tractors in land cultivation many of the surrounding artels and farmers' associations have procured themselves tractors. The peasants are learning that the better one cultivates his land the greater crop he receives from it in a few years. And to cultivate the land well one needs power, machine power. I remember one incident. When we were plowing a [illegible] rode by, stopping, he stood long at our work. He seemed to experience a thrill of joy and wonder to see the bright steel shares turning over the turf and lay the furrows one one each other as a bricklayer would lay bricks; and to see the green meadows turn black and the caress of it to the ear-splitting, puffing iron horse which now and then sent puffs of blue smoke towards the sky, in places where the plows struck firm earth.

Third Year.

The following year seemed to promise more at the very beginning. The central executive committee sent out to our commune two qualified units, one an agricultural, the other a party organized. Besides this, during the summer work students from the Communist university came here for vacation. During these days they helped much in the house-hold, in work and an example to the communal members. The crop this year was medium.

Are More Satisfied.

As a whole our members seemed more satisfied with their lot than in former years, and I believe this is because we have the right mental power to guide our household management and political education. Of course we have had outbreaks of dissatisfaction, we everybody understood that communal matters concerned him as well as everybody, that only patience was needed and all would be well.

Scw for Next Year.

For the next new year we have 120 desatines seeded under winter wheat, land ready plowed we have amounting to 500 desatines. Now the cold spells have set in, we are getting in line with our household matters according to our needs, even in Russia, and for tractor drivers our machine gives lessons on how to operate the tractor. In one word, work and study is going forward as in a beehive. The communal life is practical, only it needs a good management.

Ending for the present, next time we will write some about our young league work, etc.

With comradely greetings to fellow workers and farmers in America

LEON MOJIO
Member of the Russian Young Communist League.

Chicago's Political Atmosphere Filled With Stench as Much Mud Is Scattered

Chicago's political atmosphere is being permeated by the old-time stench as the rival and counter-charges are being made by political opponents, centering chiefly around William (Big Bill) Hale Thompson, former republican mayor. Early in the week Fred Lundin, political boss and erstwhile "closest friend" of Thompson, launched an attackon Thompson and Charles E. Merriam, Big Bill's chief of police. Lundin also splashed mud over Robert S. Crowe, state's attorney, who is a Thompson booster.

Says Big Bill Lied.

Lundin's latest attack followed statements by Thompson that Lundin had attempted to control police department appointments while Fitzmorris was at the helm. Lundin answered by quoting statements of Thompson made during Lundin's trial on charges of bootleg ring, in which Thompson defended Lundin from the charge of manipulating the police department and the school board. Thompson is either lying now or he purjured then, said Lundin.

Something Rotten.

Lundin also points out that there seems to be "something rotten" in the new friendship between Crowe and Thompson, recalling the former enmity between the two. "What's the deal between them?" Lundin asked.

Thompson has refused to answer Lundin's charges. Edward H. Litsinger, Democrat-Brundage candidate, is joining in the Lundin attack and is spilling more mud on Thompson thruout the city.

In the other camp, democratic, Mayor Dever is scoffing at the campaigns and promises being made by the republicans. Dever says he will run on his record.

STUDENTS STRIKE AGAINST EDICT ON BARE KNEES IN SCHOOL PLAY; THEY WIN

Students at the Chesterton, Ind., high school have won their strike against the one man school board, represented by Charles N. Pearson, for "advanced" ideas in presenting a school play. Pearson denounced a play produced by Mrs. Ethel G. Miller, teacher, as immoral because the girls had declared their knees and the boys smoked cigarettes. He demanded rigid censorship in the future.

Following his action, the teacher, did not report to school the next day, and the students declared a strike in support. Parents also backed the students.

Supt. H. Coil, county superintendent, sided with the teacher. With everyone against him, Pearson had to give in, and the students at Chesterton can now reveal their knees all they want to—almost.

Right and Left Wing Forces and Methods in the International Ladies' Garment Workers

IF there is such a thing as whistling to keep up one's courage, Justice, the official organ of the right wing of the International Ladies' Garment Workers, must be in continual pain from pursed lips.

It claims a tremendous success for the "registration" of cloakmakers under Sigman auspices—the plan by which the right wing hoped to break the ranks of the cloakmakers, an overwhelming majority of whom are supporting the regularly elected New York Joint Board officials whom President Sigman unseated.

JUSTICE says:

According to figures given out by the international office nearly 12,000 cloakmakers and dressmakers have registered with the reorganized Locals 2, 9, 22 and 35, in addition to the 18,000 workers already in the locals which navar were under Communist domination—10, 23, 48 and 89.

The cold fact is that not to exceed 3,500 workers have registered at the right wing offices.

ANOTHER fact is that the locals cited by Justice as supporting the right wing have not 18,000 members all together. 12,000 is a very generous estimate and in addition there is the fact that thasa local unions all have strong left wing blocs.

There are 53,000 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in New York and if we take the inflated figures of Justice as a basis for the—18,000 and 12,000—we find that this still leaves 23,009 workers supporting the left wing joint board.

If we take the correct figures—12,000 and 35,000—we get 15,500 supporting the right wing and 37,500 supporting the left wing administration.

BUT as we said before, the right wing forces are not a unit as are the left wing workers. In all right wing locals there is general dissatisfaction with the right wing policy and tactics and strong organized left wing blocs.

There are probably less than 10,000 members of the New York section of the I. L. G. W. that can be counted upon for continued support of the right wing.

The frenzied efforts made to rally reactionary support in other unions like the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and from right wing officials in unions which compose the self-styled "committee for preservation of the trade unions," the setting up of a united front of the bosses, the capitalist press and American Federation of Labor officialdom against the left wing—all are proof of the organizational weaknesses of the right wing and of its failure to gain any substantial mass support for its program of disruption and worker-employer cooperation.

THE right wing leadership is bankrupt—politically, organizationally and financially. It is kept alive only by injections of militant reaction by Matthew Woll, the Daily Forward and the capitalist press and by financial support from sources, which when exposed as they will be, will create a new scandal in the labor movement.

The left wing, in contrast to the shady financial policy of the reactionary and discredited Sigman officialdom, is raising a rank and file loan to meet the immediate emergency created by the attack of the right wing coming at the end of a bitter and costly strike.

THIS emergency will last until the cloakmakers get back to work, it is fully guaranteed by the New York Joint Board and 37,500 workers will support it. Every trade unionist who wants real trade unions and not bossridden "efficiency unions" can support the loan with full assurance that he will be getting back his money and by a stronger labor movement.

The militant majority of the I. L. G. W. will win their fight with the support of the sincere trade unionists of the rest of the needle trades and the labor movement in general.

THEIR next task will be to carry the fight into every Sigman stronghold, smash the right wing plan for splitting the union and thus aiding the bosses, force recognition and then come to the next regular, or a special convention in such strength that Sigman and his "efficiency unionists" and labor-hating allies will have nothing there for a handful of officials and hangers on whose crookedness and corruption have been shown by their own acts to a membership which has already passed sentence of banishment upon them.

DENVER LABOR RAPS KELLOGG LATIN POLICY

Demands Withdrawal of U. S. Marines

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 18.—The Denver Trades and Labor Assembly has declared itself emphatically opposed to the present invasion of Nicaragua by United States armed forces and has passed the following resolutions condemning the attitude of the state department and demanding the immediate withdrawal of the marines:

Acts of War.

Whereas, It has become apparent during the last few weeks that the Coolidge administration is taking drastic action in the Nicaraguan internal affairs which would be construed as an act of war if directed against a more powerful national; and

Whereas, Both the acts of the government and the pronouncements of the president of the United States show that this government is openly opposed to the labor government in Mexico, under the leadership of President Calles, and that the United States government is acting in such a way as is likely to bring war with Mexico; and

REACTION IN N. Y. JOINS TO FIGHT CIVIL LIBERTIES

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The American Defense Society, Military Order of the World War, and the Government Club, three notoriously reactionary organizations here, have issued a joint statement in which they attack the Citizens' Union, composed of leading New York residents, for backing the demand of the American Civil Liberties League for an "old fashioned free speech, meeting at Stuyvesant school house. These organizations declare that the letter written by the Citizens' Union to the commissioner of education in defense of the Civil Liberties League was "prejudiced and biased."

The reason they give for the bias of the union is that Walter Frank, member of the union, is a contributor to the league. They charge that Frank was the author of the letter.

"League Preaches Murder."

Then the trio attacks the league, declaring the free speech means to them "permission for praschment of Communism, anarchy, the overthrow of the government, and murder."

Commissioner Frank Graves is now considering the appeal of the Civil Liberties League from the decision of the board of education which denied it the use of the school building for the meeting.

The secretary of the Citizens' Union has issued a counter-statement, declaring that Frank has been a member of the executive committee for many years, and was but one of the many who drafted the letter attacked. The letter expressed the views of those who attended the meetings, he said.

Heads of Mine, Mill and Smelter Unions Ousted; Probe Reveals Big Cash Shortage; "Hiked" Payrolls

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DENVER, Jan. 18.—The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, with headquarters in Denver, has gone through a severe shake-up within the last month which has resulted in the resignation of Charles H. Moyer, for 25 years international president, Edward Krough, vice-president, and William Davidson and John Turney, members of the executive board.

The resignations will result in a practically complete reorganization of the International Union.

It developed that the International was $22,000 in debt, largely on salary counts.

Locals Forced Probe.

The whole matter has been brought about through the co-operation of the Butte unions of the International and representatives of the American Federation of Labor. Four locals, with about 4,000 of the 6,000 members of the International, were about to withdraw from the organization last June when an appeal was made to the A. F. of L. to step in and clean house.

Paul J. Smith was sent here by William Green of the A. F. of L. to investigate the situation. He spent some time here and in Butte, delving into the mess created by the merger administration.

Until last June there had been no convention of the International for six years. Under the union's constitution, the International treasury stands the costs of conventions. The Moyer administration is charged with using the money on a "hiked" payroll and then reporting that it was impossible to hold a convention because of lack of funds.

Membership Declines.

The membership had been falling steadily and there was dissatisfaction in some of the strongest locals. The Butte locals called attention to the fact that no report of assets and liabilities was being made by headquarters. The Anaconda mill and smelter workers refused to pay their per capita tax, until it is said that this one local owed $7,000 in back dues. The Butte engineers demanded to know the financial condition of the International.

"Suggests" Resignation.

After spending some weeks investigating the various charges and trying to straighten out the tangle, on December 13 Paul J. Smith suggested that Moyer, Krough, Davidson and Turney resign their positions with the union. The four international officials have resigned. Edward E. Sweeney, of the Butte engineers, who had been elected International secretary-treasurer last June, called a special convention to meet in St. Paul next Monday, Jan. 17. H. E. Gallaher, Great Falls, Montana, and A. A. Robertson, Fort Smith, Arkansas, were elected members of the executive board last June and still hold their positions.

To Change Laws.

The convention will discuss changes in the constitution, economies necessary to straighten financial difficulties, and the election of officers to fill vacancies. The convention cannot elect but it is expected it will call for an election next June to fill the positions now vacant.

Sweeney Cuts Expenses.

Sweeney has already cut the office space used by the headquarters in half and has cut down the staff. He has collected several thousand dollars from locals which were holding their per capita and has received assurances from the locals which were complaining that they now intend to stay in the International and rebuild it.

The four unions which led the fight, No. 1 of Butte, made up of the miners, the Butte engineers, the Anaconda mill and smelter workers and the Great Falls mill and smelter workers, are all said to be satisfied and to be now bringing their dues up to date and carrying on.

Sweeney says that the future of the International is largely with the St. Paul convention but that it will not take long to recover from the financial difficulties and that aggressive organization of the miners will soon be under way "if the convention orders it."

Moyer in Since 1902.

Moyer was elected president of the Western Federaiton of Miners at the Denver convention in 1902, at the same time that William Heywood was elected secretary-treasurer. He served continuously until the present shakeup. The miners later withdrew and October 16, 1917, the name was changed to the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers. The Western Federation of Miners was organized May 15, 1893.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY SPEAKER SLANDERS COOK

"King's Socialist" Attacks Mine Leader

A vicious attack on the leaders of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain and particularly on A. J. Cook the miners' secretary, featured an address delivered here by Margaret Bonfield, Labor Party member of the British parliament.

In reply to a question from the audience Miss Bonfield declared that the general council called off the general strike because it came to the conclusion that it was impossible to win with the poor leadership of the miners' federation.

She declared that the second international gave "sympathy" to the miners, in fact as much sympathy as it could get by the Communist International, but the labor movement under the influence of the Communist international contributed over $5,000, and to the miners' relief fund, whereas the trade union unions on the contrary and in the United States gave little.

Miss Bonfield seemed to believe that there is nothing about [illegible] England. As an example she cited [illegible] of the British Broadcasting [illegible] which was more privately [illegible] how a government monopoly with the same directors as [illegible] it was privately owned. This [illegible] according to Miss Bonfield.

[illegible] necessary against the [illegible] in the nation to [illegible] the [illegible] and pass [illegible] where the socialists [illegible] way for them.

[illegible] no force or violence [illegible] of society, she assured [illegible] the new order [illegible] as it has [illegible] of the British masses [illegible] using force or violence [illegible] the British Labor Party [illegible] in India, [illegible] and other parts [illegible] of the British Empire [illegible] the Labor Party [illegible] of peace and declared that [illegible] would not move [illegible] the people [illegible] to the people [illegible] in the minds of [illegible].

[illegible] attack on A. J. Cook, [illegible] had implied [illegible] that it was not [illegible] Party member in [illegible] necessary to devote her time [illegible] the militant leader of a great labor organization, who is bitterly hated by the British ruling class [illegible] a friend to the workers. [illegible] the audience came to the conclusion that Cook must be an honest man since he is equally hated by [illegible] government and lackeys [illegible] capitalists like Miss Bonfield. # DU BOIS PRAISES RACE RELATIONS IN SOVIET UNION

Has Laid Basis for Solution, He Says

By FRED HARRIS.
(Worker Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—"The government of Soviet Russia has laid a basis for the solution of the race problem." This was the verdict of Dr. W. E. B. Du Bois, leader of the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People, who spoke here tonight at an open forum meeting. Dr. Du Bois recently traveled in Russia, and had opportunity to study the race problem in that country.

Hits N. Y. Times.

"It is significant," he stated, "that, when a Negro passes along the street in Paris, he is the object of polite interest, in Berlin he is a curiosity, in London an inferior "colonial," but in Moscow he is just an ordinary person, and does not suffer inquisitory glances."

He related that, on arrival at Kronstad and Leningrad, he found these cities to be industrious and peaceful; later on, while in Moscow, he read in the New York Times, that during the very days that he was in Leningrad, these cities were the scenes of terrible industrial and political upheavals, causing the editor of the Times to predict the immediate fall of the Soviet regime.

Intelligence Shown.

Dr. Du Bois showed that Russia, the one of the most heterogeneous of all nations, has less race disturbance than any other country.

"The Soviet government shows its intelligence and tolerance by permitting each racial country within Russia to have its own autonomy. The schools, the built and maintained by the government, are permitted to teach their own racial language, the only demand of the government is that the Russian language must also be taught, so that the future generation will be able to speak an all-Russian language, a pre-eminent necessity for the unification of the republic. Thus Russia is accomplishing, with patience and intelligence, that which other countries have tried to do by forcible methods, and failed in." These were some of the interesting points brought out by the speaker.

Compared With U. S.

Comparing the race problem of Soviet Russia with that of the United States, Du Bois deplored the fact that the position of the American Negro is not advantageous, that as a race minority, the Negro suffers the intolerance of both the white capitalists as well as of many white workers. No one lynching, the of a common occurrence, is hardly protested against by the white population," he said, "and then the economic dependency, and lack of organization, the Negro worker has become a professional strike-breaker." The blame for this, the speaker pointed out lies directly with the executive board of the American Federation of Labor, who have thus far refused to organize the Negro workers.

CITY COUNCIL PUZZLES OVER BLAIR PLAN; DON'T KNOW HOW TO TAKE IT

City councilmen are admittedly "up in the air" over how to consider the Blair plan for consolidation and axtension of the city's transportation systems.

Members of the transportation committee were reluctant to comment on the plan itself, but indicated they were puzzled that Blair should have presented a plan, when his company had already done so. It was the opinion of some that his plan is not a new one, but merely an elaboration of the company's project; however, they have asked Blair to explain his project in full.

The Spearhead.

"Be daring. Be ever daring. Be more daring still." In these words Karl Marx expressed the essential forward urge of our movement. The revolutionary movement cannot mark time. It must push forward energetically and incessantly or stagnate. So it is with The DAILY WORKER. The DAILY WORKER should be constantly reaching out to new circles of readers, and while maintaining and strengthening its former contacts, establish fresh and wider circles of support.

The DAILY WORKER Builders' Clubs, which have sprung up in various parts of the country, are the spearheads opening the way for the onward march of our paper. It is not difficult to establish these Builders' Clubs. A number of cities have already formed such organizations which are flourishing. DAILY WORKER readers are eligible. Comrades will be surprised at the number of workers who are deeply interested in the welfare of our paper, of whom those who disagree with us on many other issues. The Builders' Clubs form an excellent basis for a broad, united front organization to maintain our paper.

These clubs have immediately seized upon various forms of activity. They have formed efficient squads of canvassers to cover definite sections of cities or towns for subscribers and the renewals. They check up on newsstands to see if The DAILY WORKER is properly handled. They arrange factory gate sales. They organize worker correspondent groups. They arrange social affairs, plays, dances and bazaars through the year for the benefit of the paper. They are the firm and reliable foundation upon which the success of The DAILY WORKER will be built.

Japan Does Not Intend to Get Her Fingers Burned

Japan is not going to pull Great Britain's chestnuts out of the Chinese fire. The latest statement of Baron Shidehara, Japanese foreign minister, while not saying expressly that the people's government will be recognized, nevertheless is definite on the question of further intervention.

Shidehara said in his speech to the Japanese diet, Jan. 17, in relation to Chinese policy:

First, respect the sovereignty and territorial integrity of China and SCRUPULOUSLY AVOID ALL INTERFERENCE IN HER DOMESTIC STRIFE. (Emphasis ours.)

That this is no diplomatic platitude, but that it represents the actual line Japan is to follow in China in the present period, and is a measured notification to Great Britain that the two countries have come to a parting of the ways in the Far East, being a definite disavowal on the part of Japan, is shown by other statements contained in the official utterance referred to above.

One of them is:

We are happy to be able to state that the relations of Japan and the Soviet Union continue gratifying. There are certain sections of people who indulge in alarming speculations that the interests of Japan and the Soviet Union are destined to clash in Manchuria. BUT WE HAVE NO AGGRESSIVE POLICY IN MANCHURIA OR ELSEWHERE. (Emphasis ours.)

Translated into plain English, this diplomatic utterance can be taken to mean that a definite understanding relative to the status of the Chinese Eastern Railway has been reached by the representatives of the Soviet Union and Japan. It will be recalled that last summer there took place an interchange of notes following a strong protest lodged by the Soviet Union foreign office against the arrest of Soviet Union officials attached to the Chinese Eastern Railway by the troops of Chang Tso-lin.

Shidehara also gives the United States to understand that it can expect no substantial aid if the state department follows the lead of Great Britain and intervenes forcibly in China by pointing out the strained relations between the two countries:

I regret to state that the question of discriminatory treatment involved in the United States immigration act of 1924 still remains unadjusted . . . . . .

This is of great significance when contrasted with the friendly attitude towards the Soviet Union.

As we pointed out a few days ago, it is unlikely that a complete agreement for armed intervention in China can be reached between Great Britain, America and Japan. Japan's trade with China is now of greater importance for her internal stability than her investments in China.

A Chinese boycott, of the same intensity as that leveled at Great Britain recently, directed at Japan would produce an internal crisis of an acute character.

Japanese imperialism, dependent upon expansion on the Asiatic continent, cannot afford at this time to further antagonize the Chinese nation of 1/4 mankind people in behalf of the general interests of world imperialism.

The contradictions in the imperialist world, of which the Japanese attitude gives concrete proof, serve to allow the Chinese national liberation movement to consolidate itself with the backing of the Soviet Union.

This is not to say that America and Great Britain, on the basis of America being allowed a free hand in Mexico and Central America, may not have arrived at an agreement for the defense of Shanghai against the advancing people's armies.

The naval concentration by both powers in Chinese waters lends color to this belief and the American workers and farmers must remain alert and ready to prevent war on the Chinese people and force the withdrawal of all armed American forces from China.

Civilized and Stable America

Three hundred marines have been stationed in Chicago for many months guarding the mails from bandit raids.
—The Herald-Examiner, Chicago, Jan. 14.

If this same statement was contained in one of the Riga, Warsaw, Bucharest or Helsingfors dispatches about the Soviet Union many an American citizen would shake his head and wonder how the Russian people manage to live with so much disorder and uncertainty prevailing.

But in America, a country whose territory has not been invaded and whose part in the world war consisted in making several billion dollars out of the misery of the rest of the world, a country whose industrial civilization is the marvel of capitalist society, the necessity for systematic armed protection of the mails is accepted as a matter of course.

American workers, reading capitalist press accounts of bandit raids and other alleged evidences of disorder in Mexico, China, Russia and other countries that incurred the hatred of the imperialist nations, should keep in mind the paragraph we quote at the beginning of this editorial.

Internal instability depends for the most part upon who is writing about it.

Preparing War Against Japan

Thru Nicaragua Against Mexico; Thru China Against Japan.

By ELLIS PETERSON

MEXICO is the main obstacle against Charles Evans Hughes's imperial policy in South and Central America. Mexico is taking the hegemony in rallying Latin-America against the U. S. Japan and the British Empire are the strongest adversaries of United States in the Pacific. The British Empire is paralyzed at present in its fight against the U. S. Japan is arming itself at top speed. The earthquake a few years ago gave Japan a setback, and in spite of the Washington "disarmament," Japan has started building a very strong new navy, which will be completed in 1928. This means that the strength of U. S.'s enemy, Japan, a year from now will be formidable, and that is one of the reasons why Wall Street now is starting trouble.

There are the two political constellations which lead Coolidge and Kellogg in their policies against Mexico and China. Here enters also the question of the Philippines.

The opposition of Borah is caused by his diplomatic inclinations of winning the Latin-American "opinion" thru concessions and peaceful persuasion. He advocates a pacifist policy against Central and South America. Kellogg is for the mailed fist.

The war against Mexico—which at present seems very likely if Coolidge is not diplomatically or thru Wall Street's "revolution" forced to a complete surrender; the war against Mexico and Nicaragua are preparations against the ultimate struggle in the Pacific, the war against Japan. That is the reason why America's march against Mexico is accompanied by sending dreadnaughts to China against Japan. We can be pretty sure—what the Department of War does not say—that reinforcements of all naval stations on the Pacific coast (with San Francisco as center) are taking place. The naval stations on the coast of Nicaragua and southward, and especially the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, Guam and in the Philippines are at present strengthened more than ever.

The war against Mexico comes as a direct result of the Wall Street policy in South America. The conflict with Japan was sharpened thru the victories of the revolutionary army of Kuomintang. Thru these victories the balance of power in the Pacific was absolutely changed.

The Panama Canal.

Because of the imminence of the war with Japan, the Panama Canal will be the surest spot of the U. S. The Panama Canal must be guarded at any cost. Nicaragua and Mexico are too close to this spot to be allowed any freedom which can be "misused" against the interests of the United States. Hence the present ferocious American policy in these countries, sharpened by the oil interests.

The peoples in Latin-America are anti-Yankee. It would be an easy matter for a few Mexico-crazed with only a bourgeois "revolutionary" army steadily occupying the place, if had no other way.

In 1870 Great Britain furnished 37 per cent of all the Chinese imports. Japan at that time sent only 2 per cent of the Chinese imports. But in 1923 the British figure was 13 per cent; the Japanese 23 per cent; in 1910 the United States had advanced only to 5 per cent, but in 1923 it stood at 16 per cent—i. e., Great Britain was beaten. So it came that Japan and the U. S. were the main competitors on the Chinese market.

This was in the golden time when China was only a "sphere of influence," divided according to the strength of the "powers." But now China begins to be independent. England is being thrown out. And America and Japan try to win the new government of the Chinese people. Both need China as an "ally," both need China as an object of exploitation, even if independent. Thru capital export to a "free" China the American and Japanese imperialists can get large profits, provided they succeed in establishing a bourgeois government in China.

But if Japan gets off with a good alliance in China, then that will strengthen it against America. But America needs China as an ally against Japan.

Japan Helpless Without China.

Why? Because Japan gets all its steel from China—except that which it receives from the U. S. The war industry of Japan is completely dependent upon China. 80 per cent of Japan's coal imports come from China.

This makes it clear why Coolidge hurried American dreadnaughts to the Chinese waters between China and Japan. Japan must be cut away from its steel and coal resources. This is a part of the American blockade against the densely populated Japan islands, which must be starved to surrender.

Washington Conference of Disarmament.

The pacifist comedy of Washington, which was and is hailed by all stupid pacifists, served its purpose well when the alliance between England and America was broken up. And in the coming conflict England will be forced to be neutral when the two powers who won thru the last world war with the slightest damages and really only profited on it: Japan and the United States clash in the Pacific war, where the destiny of capitalism will be definitely sealed.

England does not do this voluntarily, but it cannot do anything else. It has to wait until the war is decided and the booty will be divided between the victors, like America did in 1917. England cannot, because it has a revolutionary working class at home. The social revolution is imminent in England, and in case of a war an outbreak is unavoidable. The British empire cannot be mobilized against America, because that would break up the empire. Australia, Canada, New Zealand and maybe South Africa would be won for a pro-Japan policy. Canada and Australia look upon Japan as their arch enemy.

Wall Street knows this, and the visit to America of the Australian premier, Mr. Bruce, convinced them more. All his talk about the necessity of an alliance between America and England was only a reflection from the British standpoint of the imperial conference from where he came. And in the event of a war, even if England will not participate, no doubt Canada and Australia will be knit closer to America and its anti-Japan policy.

The Consequences of a War.

The United States did not suffer during the last world war. 50,000 killed Americans was only a small fraction on what the European people had to suffer. This Pacific war would demand more sufferings from the American people and it would hit the American economic system in a revolutionizing way. A victory could not cover all the effects of the war, no less than did the victory of England and France help these countries from ruin.

South America cannot be kept subjugated with only a few thousand marines in every state. A very large army would be absolutely necessary.

The alliance between the Chinese republic and the Soviet Union, which obviously would be one of the results of this war, would mean a new more powerful enemy against America. And this power would be decidedly anti-imperialist. A part of it would be anti-capitalist; yes, indeed, SOCIALISTIC. And this will have the greatest consequences.

The World Revolution.

Even if a war between America and Japan should break up the rest of the British empire, there would be left plenty of enemies for America. And the consequences of the Chinese revolution; the awakening of the millions in all Asia to revolutionary action and to anti-imperialist struggle would isolate America from its richest imperialist markets.

The Cantonese will not let the conflict between America and Japan pass by without using it to their advantage. And they will surely understand that the most dangerous enemy to the Chinese revolution is the American imperialism. Without weakening the fight against the British, Japanese, French, Italian and German imperialists, China will remember that the American imperialism is the strongest and will unite using mild forms of starting its exploitation.

And the rallying of the revolutionary proletarian forces of the world to sympathy to the Soviet Union in demanding a new united and revolutionary industrial international, and in their fight more and more following the banner of the Communist International, we have the strongest force against the imperialist powers of the world.

This will put the hardest tasks upon the Communist parties of America, Japan and most of all upon the young Chinese Communist Party. But even the British, Australian and Canadian sections will find plenty of work. Likewise the Indian, Egyptian, Indonesian, etc., sections of the Comintern. The victory will be ours if we only understand to rally the masses in revolutionary struggle against imperialism which seeks to destroy the world in the most cruel imperialist wars.

MERGER OF 100 STEEL SHEET MILLS ARRANGED BY BANKING INTERESTS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 18.—Negotiations for the merging of about ons hundred sheet mills into one huge combination have been started and are near completion, according to reports emanating from financial circles. A group of bankers are arranging the combination, it is said. W. A. Thomas, steel magnate who is heavily interested in a number of steel mills, is mentioned as head of the new combine.

Companies named in the negotiations include: Newton Steel company with 20 mills; Themes Sheet Steel company with 12 mills; Wadell Steel company, eight mills; Falcon Steel company, eight mills, all in Mahoning Valley; Ashtabula Steel company, 80 mills; Mansfield Steel, Canton, eight mills; Sharon Steel Hoop company, nine mills.

The arrangements include provision that steel bars and semi-finished steel be purchased by the combination from the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, Republic Iron and Steel company, and Corrigan-McKinney Steel company.

ONE A NEW NOVEL Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1928, by Upton Sinclair.)

Annabelle had put Bunny beside her, so that she might protect him from assaults. Now she started telling him about her new picture, "A Mother's Heart." Such a sweet, old-fashioned story. Bunny would call it sentimental, perhaps, but the women would just love it, and it gave her a fine part. Also Vera had a clever scenario for her new picture, "The Golden Conch". Quite a fetching title, didn't Bunny think? And all the time, above the soft murmur of Annabelle's voice, Bunny heard the loud noise of John Groby blessing the Legion. Bunny longed to ask him what the veteran would say to the "ethics gang", stealing the funds from their disabled buddies.

Someone mentioned another stunt of the returned soldiers—their setting up a censorship of moving pictures. The Angel City theater had started to show a German film, "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," and this Hun invasion had so outraged the Legion men they had put on their uniforms and blockaded the theater, and beaten up the people who tried to get in. Tommy Paley laughed the courage of each of those veterans had been fortified by a five dollar bill, contributed by the association of motion picture producers. They didn't want foreign films that put them too high a standard.

Then Scudnicky. He was too fat to comprehend such a thing as irony, and he remarked that the directors were nuts to let Hun films in, Scudnicky, as a boy from Hungaria, or Rumania, or Roumania, or some such country, said that we didn't want no foreign films breaking in on our production schedules. An hour or so later Bunny heard him telling how the Hollywood films were swamping the German market—it wouldn't be three years before we'd own their business. "Vee vicktee" remarked Bunny, and Schnitzsky looked at him, puzzled, and said "Huh?"

VIII

From such a week end Bunny would return to Angel City, and accompany Rachel to a meeting of the Young People's Socialist League. In an obscure hall twenty-five or thirty boys and girls of the working class met once a week and read papers, and discussed problems of politics and economics, the labor movement and the Socialist party. Rachel had grown up with this organization, and had prestige with it because she had gone to college and education, and because she knew Comrade Ross" with her. The most bloody class-conscious young people could not help being thrilled by a spectacle so unique as a millionaire who sympathized with the workers and had helped to bail out political prisoners.

With these young Socialists, as with the old ones, it was right wing versus left; everybody argued tactics, and got tremendously excited. The Communists also had an organization, the Young Workers' League, and the two rivals carried on intense operations; sometimes they held formal debates, and young people would jump up and down in their seats, and carry on the controversy in their homes and working places for weeks afterwards. It was Moscow versus Amsterdam, the Third International versus the Second, the "reds" against the "pinks," as the mild Socialists were called. And this same struggle was going on in the soul of Bunny. Paul Watkins would pull him forward, then Rachel Meeples would haul him back; and his loyalties seemed to be, he was of the opinion of the one he talked with last. He was so prone to see the other fellow's point of view, and lose himself in that. Why couldn't he have a mind of his own?

Theoretically it was possible to bring about the change from Capitalism to Socialism by peaceable, one-step-at-the-time methods and lay out the steps. But when you came to take the first one, you confronted the fact that the capitalists didn't want to be evolved into Socialism, and wouldn't let you take any step. It was a fact that so far they had outwitted the workers at every turn; they had even forced the government to retrace the steps which had been taken in the emergency of war. It was also true, as Paul contended, that the capitalists would not permit the workers to be peaceable; they resorted to violence every time, and not aside the laws and the constitution when it suited their convenience.

Lunar Pranks

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THE late Mr. Robert Brindell, bona fide labor leader, left a sizeable fortune to his survivors, so much that the United States has filed an income tax claim of $290,919 against his estate. It looks as if this business of being a bona fide labor leader is almost as fruitful as being a movie idol. We had a labor leader here once who expressed his regret that he did not devote his financial genius to a more lucrative pursuit. He only succeeded in putting a paltry half million away. "Had I gone into the real estate game," he groaned, "I would have at least $3,000,000 salted by now." Still we must admit that most of our labor fakers manage to feel contented on half a million.

MOBS are dragging American women thru the streets of Foo Chow and it should not be surprising if our secretary of state opened up another bag of "red plots" in order to convince the easily-convinced senators that there is a conspiracy between the Workers (Communist) Party and the Cantonese to assassinate American missionaries. Kellogg is too busy with Latin-America just now to go to bat for "civilization" in China. It is also quite possible that Uncle Sam is not particularly anxious to pull John Bull's chestnuts out of the fire.

THE Chicago Daily News had a cartoon last Tuesday on the Chinese question. A pig-tailed Chinaman was represented biting a hand labelled "Christianity." A bowl of rice supposed to represent "China's Progress Thru Education" did not seem to appeal to the Chinaman's appetite as much as did the missionary's hand. "Biting the hand that feeds him," was the caption. As a matter of fact, the poor, doubly-exploited Chinese masses have been feeding the missionaries in the past and all the other capitalist agents that have been employed by the foreign imperialists to dig the brains out of the people so that the task of exploiting them would be simpler.

SO we are going to have a "general strike" in New York. Really, it's a surprise to us, and it also convinces us that we should never again indulge in rash predictions. How often have we stated that the right wing leaders of the A. F. of L. are opposed to a general strike on principle? Such is not the case. The socialist leaders of the needle trades, aided by the benevolents of the Central Trades Council have called on the workers in New York City to quit work for one hour today as a protest against the Communists. We are not told what hour was selected but it would not surprise us to learn that it is between twelve and one o'clock.

THIS strike is sanctioned by the press, by the employers and by the police. It never occurred to the reactionaries to call a strike against the threatened execution of Sacco and Vanzetti or the imprisonment of Tom Mooney. They are opposed to strikes that would benefit the workers or strikes with some laudable political aim as those mentioned. The only object the labor fakers have in the trade union movement is business. To save their jobs they are determined to go to any extreme to keep the unions out of the hands of the radicals. They will not succeed.

SMITH RAPS AT SENATE'S DOOR; BATTLE IS ON

Insull's Man Scored for Fraud

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The senate engaged in a turbulent debate this afternoon over the question of administering the oath of senator-designate Frank L. Smith, of Illinois.

Smith's friends urged that he be given the oath and be investigated afterwards. His opponents wanted his credentials referred to the senate elections committee without giving him the oath and keeping him outside the senate door meantime.

Deneen Presents Credentials.

The Smith fight formally opened when Senator Deneen (R) of Illinois presented the senator-designate's credentials and asked that the oath of office he administered to him at once.

Deneen asked the senate to grant Smith the oath so that he might par-

A. F. OF L. ISSUES CALL FOR AUTO UNION PARLEY

No Reply to Charges of Furriers

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 19.—A conference of heads of unions having jurisdiction over various departments of the automobile industry has been authorized by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in session here. The conference will deal with the problem of organizing the industry and will be held in Washington.

The automobile industry is the third largest in the country and employs more than a million workers, not including those employed by distributing agencies nor in maintenance work in garages. The fact that the industry is growing steadily and that it is dominated by non-union, or so-called American plan shops has long been a thorn in the side of organized labor.

Other considerations which influenced the federation are the high degree of specialization and the steady growth of mass production within the industry, which they charge tends to increase the output of the workers without a corresponding increase in their pay.

May Waive Jurisdiction.

While President Green did not say just what course would be followed at the Washington conference, he said that officials attending it would be principally from fields closely allied with the automobile industry, such as the pattern makers, metal polishers and machinists.

These trades, he said, probably would consider organizing in the various large automobile plants, waiving jurisdiction temporarily to permit greater expansion among employes of such plants.

Some labor leaders are known to favor a policy of building up independent organizations of employes within the large automobile plants to

FIGHT AGAINST IMPERIALISM IS LENIN SLOGAN

Huge Mass Memorials in All Cities

"Against imperialism" epitomizes the spirit of this year's Leninal Memorial observances thruout the country. At a time when the United States armed forces are entrenched in Nicaragua, held at strategic points for an invasion of Mexico and being massed for use against the nationalist aspirations of new China, Jan. 23rd, the date of Nicolai Lenin's death, takes on a special character.

Nicolai Lenin laid the basis of the struggle against imperialism. The honoring of his memory at this time is a pledge of solidarity with the oppressed people who are now victims of Wall Street's imperialist policies.

Third Observance.

It is in this spirit that huge meetings are arranged for Jan. 23, or con-

Notice to Daily Worker Readers

ON and After Monday, January 24th, The DAILY WORKER will be published in New York and will appear each morning on the news stands in New York City and vicinity and also in the principal cities of New York state, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania. Readers and supporters of The DAILY WORKER are urged to bring this fo the attention of their newsdealer and convince him of the necessity and value of handling The DAILY WORKER every day.

The new edition to be published in New York will be improved in many ways. First of all, New York City as a whole has vastly improved news facilities, being practically the news center of the world. Secondly, we will be better able to get first hand information of the struggles in and near New York, not only in the needle trades, but also in the mining, textile and manufacturing industries which are located in the immediate vicinity.

Send us the name and address of a progressive worker to whom we can send a sample copy of The DAILY WORKER

We have also secured the assurance of the co-operation of a number of well-known writers who will contribute to The DAILY WORKER as soon as it reaches New York. Among them in addition to our present staff will be Scott Nearing, Bertram D. Wolfe, Benjamine Gitlow, Albert Weisbord, Robert W. Dunn, V. F. Calverton, Michael Gold, Simbn Felshin, Joseph Freeman and many others. Plans are under way for publishing daily the cartoons of the following well-known radical cartoonists: Robert Minor, Fred Ellis, H. Gropper, Hugo Gellert, K. Suvanto. This is but a brief list of the interesting features which the new edition of The DAILY WORKER will include. In spite of the addition of new features, the price of the paper will remain the same, 3c on weekdays, 5c on Sundays.

"Arbitration" Is Mere Preparation for Bigger Crisis

Take Advantage of Mexican Internal Strife to Kill Home Opposition

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg has made a formal statement that he will "welcome" arbitration of the Mexican dispute. This statement comes at a time when the opposition to the administration policy is at its height, and, more important, at a time when the Mexican government is beset by armed reactionaries under the banner of the church while the Mellon-Doheny-Sinclair oil interests press their claims in court towards a crisis that probably cannot break for several weeks.

It is only the extremely gullible who do not see the reason for Kellogg's arbitration talk at this time. First of all, the state department can afford to make noble declarations while the Calles government is in the midst of an internal war with the catholic hierarchy and reaction, and while the oil cases are being disputed in the courts. It is good diplomacy to talk peace while your enemy is in difficulty and there is no immediate danger to home interests.

Allay Opposition.

It also serves the purpose of taking the wind out of the sails of the senate and house opposition while it allays the indignation of innumerable prominent persons who have communicated their dissatisfaction with the Coolidge-Kellogg invasion of Latin-America.

Nor is the fact that harmless arbitration talk with regard to Mexico draws attention from the unrestricted rape of Nicaragua still being carried on by Admiral Latimer's armed forces in that country. These are the things that may be seen thru the white veil of "peace" being drawn over the hostile, sordid maneuvers of the imperialist servants of Wall Street in Washington.

Democrats Split.

While the administration thus attempts to manuver out of the unseemly position it has held the past weeks, the so-called democratic opposition has taken to the ground, and resolved itself into a pre-convention struggle over the admissibility of running a catholic, namely Al Smith, for president. This is revealed in the heated three hour debate in Tuesday's session in which the belligerents were catholic democrats and protestant democrats. In the meantime the administration looked on gleefully in the knowledge that the democrats were split and that the foreign issues are being displaced by home campaign issues.

Nevertheless, the charges made by Senator Heflin, of Alabama, that the Knights of Columbus have raised a million dollar fund for the purpose of raising war feeling against Mexico have left their mark.

Defend Church.
